Favors Salary Rise for Negro Teachers

Sweeping changes in South Carolina laws dealing with education and a streamlining of the regulations having to do with schools were recommended by the committee recently appointed to study control of public education and statutes affecting it. The report of this committee was submitted yesterday to the general assembly.

The committee recommends a salary increase of $10 per month to be paid those Negro teachers who hold college degrees.

"Present records indicate that there are approximately 1,900 such teachers actively engaged in school work in the state" the report reads. "The cost to the state (for this increase) would not be more than $152,720."

The committee also recommends that short terms of Negro schools be lengthened.

"The average term length of 175 days for the whites and 147 days for the Negro means that the Negro child must go to school ten years longer to obtain the number of days a white child obtains in eight year," the report reads. It is recommended that the state board of education and the several county boards make a special study of the Negro high school problem and report to the 1942 general assembly.

The committee recommends:

More authority for the state board of education and less for school district trustees.

Drastic reduction in the number of school districts. There are now 1,738 of these separate governmental agencies.

Election at large by the people of the county of the county boards of education of five to seven members.

Appointment of superintendent of schools by the county boards of education.

Abolition of state aid for bus transportation. "Until the state is in position to spend much more for education, it should forego expenditures for transportation," the committee finds.

CERTIFICATION

The report goes somewhat at length into the matter of certification of teachers and says the general assembly should direct the state board of education to adopt new rules and regulations for the certification of teachers.

The report was signed by D. W. Robinson, Jr., Columbia attorney; Representative John H. Porter, chairman of the house education committee; W. Brantley Harvey, chairman of the senate education committee; James H. Hope, state superintendent of education; E. R. Crow, president of the state education association.

"The committee is of the opinion that there should be a single state agency charged with the duty of operating the entire public school system of the state with powers sufficiently broad to permit it to review the actions of the local trustees and of county boards of education; to direct the expenditure of all state educational funds; to insure a fair distribution of funds between the races; to regulate the length of the school terms; to set up, enforce and from time to time revise plans for the classification of teachers. These powers and duties should be with the state board of education" the report reads.

The committee lists figures on salaries paid white and Negro teachers, as well as white and Negro enrolment and also on the length of terms for whites and Negroes and says:

SEES INEQUALITIES

"From a study of these figures the committee has reached the conclusion that there are inequalities in the expenditure of funds for education in this state. The nature and extent of this discrimination is more difficult to ascertain... "

Using records of the state department of education 1939-1940, the report shows 265,845 white children enrolled and 215,905 Negroes. The average length of the white term was 175 days and Negro term 147 days.

A total of 16,217 white teachers held first grade certificates and 6,670 Negroes: 85 white teachers held second grade certificates and 1,171 Negroes, while three white teachers held third grade certificates against 56 for Negroes.

A total of 10,466 white teachers held college degrees and a total of 1,909 Negroes held them. The average annual salary of the white teacher for the year indicated was $988, this including state aid and local supplement, while the Negro teacher the average salary was $391.

The number of school buses for white children was 1,644 and for Negro children eight.

ABOUT TEACHERS

As to teachers, the committee says:

"It is the committee's opinion tha the average white teacher in this stat is a better teacher than the averag Negro teacher. This is natural. Sixty four per cent of the white teacher and only 24 per cent of the Negr teachers hold college degrees. The white colleges from which these teachers come have a higher scholastic standing than the Negro institutions....Representatives of the Negro Teachers association recognize this fact and recognize also that the present certificates do not present the proper basis for determining the value or ability of a teacher....There are however, among the Negro teachers, many who deserve salary increases in order to bring them to the level of the white teacher of equal value...."

The committee would have the legislature appropriate $25,000 for the support of the Teachers Certificate division; $25,000 for teacher examinations and $25,000 to the state board of education for a comprehensive study and survey of public education in the state.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

S. C. COMMITTEE FAVORS PAY RAISE

APR 26 1941

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 24—(ANP)—Those Negro teachers who hold college degrees will be given a salary increase of $10 per month, if the recommendations of the committee recently appointed to make a survey of education in the state are adopted. The committee has made an extensive survey of salary differences among colored and white teachers, length of school terms, transportation facilities, and the result of its study was submitted Tuesday in a report to the general assembly.

APR 26 1941

The committee's report revealed that the average salary of the white teacher is $988 annually, while the Negro teacher receives only $391. The number of school buses for white children is 1,644 and for the Negro children, eight. The average length of the white term is 175 days and the Negro term is 147 days.

APR 26 1941

"From a study of these figures the committee has reached the conclusion that there are inequalities in the expenditure of funds for education in this state. The nature and extent of this discrimination is more difficult to ascertain. . . "the committee report concludes.

The nature and extent of this discrimination is more difficult to ascertain.

Constitution Binds

"Since the 14th amendment (to the United States constitution) is binding on the counties and school districts, we have considered their expenditures as well as those of the state itself."

Although the committee said that its opinion was "the average white teacher in this state is a better teacher than the average negro teacher . . . there are, however, among the negro teachers, many who deserve salary increases in order to bring them to the level of the white teacher or equal value.

"In order to provide some additional compensation for the better negro school teachers, the committee has decided to recommend a salary increase of $10 per month to be paid out of state aid . . . to those negro teachers who hold college degrees.

"Present records indicate that there are now approximately 1,909 such teachers . . . the cost to the state would be not more than $152,720."

Scales Not Being Paid

The present average salary of white teachers, including state aid and supplementary pay by school districts, was $998, the report said, against $391 for negro teachers.

"While the larger white enrollment in high schools and the existence of many consolidated white schools legitimately calls for more buses for whites than for negroes, there can no such difference as the expenditures and the number of buses for each race would indicate.

"This committee cannot say how many of the 1,652 buses should be assigned to negro children but it does say that eight are not enough."

For those reasons, the committee recommended that state aid for bus transportation should be abolished. "Serious racial discrimination" would be eliminated, state funds could be better used "to make education available in the school room," and "no particular hardship" would be worked on any county.

Length of Terms Given

The average length of the school term for white pupils was found to be 175 days as compared with 147 days for negro pupils. This meant the report said, that "the negro child must go to school 10 years to obtain the number of days a white child obtains in eight years" and "we recommend that the short terms of these negro schools be lengthened."

"Adequate high school educational facilities for negroes" was also recommended. "Negro high schools should begin to teach their pupils trades," the report added.

The committee also recommended more authority for the state board of education at the expense of school district trustees; a drastic reduction in the number of school districts, which now total 1,738; and popular election of county boards of education, which would, in turn, elect the county superintendents of education.

More general recommendations called for a teachers' certificate division of the state department of education with an annual $25,000 appropriation; for a "comprehensive" study of public education by the state board of education; and for a continuation by the board of "the study of problems which have been mentioned in this report."

Committee members were E. R. Crow, president of the South Carolina Education association; State Superintendent of Education James H. Hope; D. W. Robinson, Columbia attorney; Chairman W. B. Harvey of the senate education committee and Chairman John H. Porter of the house education committee.

Spartanburg, S. C., Herald
April 16, 1941

COMMITTEE ASKS HIGHER PAY FOR NEGRO TEACHERS

1,909 Would Get Raise of $10; Longer Terms and More Buses Needed

Columbia, April 15 (AP).—A special committee charged with a survey of the state's education statutes told the general assembly today that, in its opinion, the salaries of the "better" negro school teachers should be higher and that negro school terms should be longer.

The committee's report said a study of salaries paid white and negro teachers shower that "there are inequalities in the expenditure of funds for education in this state. The nature and extent of this discrimination is more difficult to ascertain. . . "the committee report concludes.

Columbia, S. C. Record
April 15, 1941

Pay Raise For Negroes Suggested

$152,000 Increase Asked In Special Report For Qualified Teachers

Increased pay for "qualified" Negro school teachers and longer terms for negro schools were recommended to the general assembly today by a special committee appointed recently to study the state's education laws.

Other recommendations included:

Less power for school district trustees and more authority for the state board of education.

Sharp reduction of the state's 1,738 school districts.

Popular election of county boards of education and selection of county superintendents of education by the board.

Discontinuance of state aid for pupil transportation.

The recommendation for the longer Negro schoolterm specifically proposed an increase from an average of 147 days to 175 days a year, the average for white schools. Negro teachers salary increase would cost the state "not more than $152,720" more a year.

More general recommendations:

Creation of a teachers' certificate division of the state department of education "to immediately work out a satisfactory plan of teacher certification," continuation by the state board of the study of the problems which have been mentioned in this report;" a $25,000 annual appropriation for support of the proposed teachers' certificate division and another $25,000 for a "comprehensive" study of public education by the state board.

The committee was composed of D. W. Robinson, Columbia attorney, State Superintendent of Education James H. Hope, Chairman W. B. Harvey of the senate education committee, Chairman John H. Porter, of the house education committee; E. R. Crow of Columbia, president of the State Education (Teachers) association.

In urging more power for the state board of education, the committee's report says:

"The committee is of the opinion that there should be a single state agency charged with the duty of operating the entire public school system of the state with powers sufficiently broad to permit it to review the actions of the local trustees and of county boards of education, to direct the expenditure of all state educational funds to insure a fair distribution of funds between the races, to regulate the length of school terms, to set up, enforce and from time to time revise plans for the classification of teachers. These powers and duties should be with the state board of education."

Finds "Inequalities"

After giving the figures on the salaries paid white and Negro teachers in this state, as well as on white and Negro enrolment, on the length of white and Negro school terms, and in general showing the differentials, the committee's report says:

"From a study of these figures the committee has reached the conclusion that there are inequalities in the expenditure of funds for education in this state. The nature and extent of this discrimination is more difficult to ascertain. Since the 14th amendment (to the United States constitution) is binding on the counties and school districts, we have considered their expenditures as well as those of the state itself."

Using the records of the state department of education for the 1939-1940 school year, the committee's report shows 265,845 white children enrolled in the state's schools that year, and 215,905 Negro children. The average length of the white school term that year was 175 days, and of the Negro term, 147 days. A total of 16,305 white teachers held certificates (either first, second or third grade), and 7,906 Negro teachers held them. A total of 10,466 white teachers held college degrees and 1,909 Negro teachers held them in that year.

The average salary of white teachers, including state aid and that supplenmentary part paid by local districts, was $988, and the average salary of Negro teachers was $391.

Continuing on the subject of salaries and the qualifications of teachers, the report says:

"As the committee has indicated, the existing teachers' certificates give little real evidence of a teacher's value. The first grade certificates do not even represent college credits. The holder of a doctor's degree has the same certificate that thousands who have no degree hold. In the absence of a yardstick, the committee is unable to say whether the average pay differential between white and Negro teachers is discriminatory or not.

"It is the committee's opinion that the average white teacher in this state is a better teacher than the average Negro teacher. This is natural. Sixty-four per cent of the white teachers and only 24 per cent of the Negro teachers hold college degrees. . . . There are, however, among the Negro teachers, many who deserve salary increases in order to bring them to the level of the white teacher of equal value."

Palmetto Leader
Columbia, S. C.

EQUAL PAY FOR SIMILAR SERVICE

JUN 14 1941

The South Carolina Legislature adjourned without answering in any form of legislation, the plea of Negro teachers thru the executive committee of the Palmetto State Teachers' Association. The plea was that all teachers in the public schools be given equal pay for similar service.

There now before the Governor, a bill which carries, possibly, the $10 per month increase. As we understand it, this increase has not been cared for in the budget adopted by the Legislature. The Governor is conferring this week with the State Board of Education and others. In a meeting held in State College last Saturday the executive committee agreed to ask to sit in on this conference. It was alleged in this meeting that plans be perfected to re-assemble the House of Delegates of the Palmetto Association for the purpose of raising funds to defend further steps, which may be necessary by Negro teachers in South Carolina to get equal pay for similar service.

Also, there seems to be a majority opinion among people of both races favoring better pay for Negro teachers.

Orangeburg, S. C., Times & Demo
February 15, 1941

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

It lies not in our power to love or hate
For will in us over-rul'd by fate.
—Marlowe.

LEGISLATURE SHOULD GIVE SERIOUS CONSIDERATION TO REQUEST OF NEGRO TEACHERS

The General Assembly has before it the request of some Negroes for the equalization of salaries provided by law to be paid the school teachers of this State.

At present there is a wide difference between the salaries paid white teachers and Negro teachers and, in accordance with decisions of the United States Supreme Court, there can be no differences in salaries that are based solely on account of race. This is the discrimination that is forbidden by the Constitution.

Undoubtedly, our Negro teachers are not paid salaries reasonably comparable with the compensation of white teachers. In fact, the white teachers of the State themselves do not receive adequate salaries.

The disparity between the salaries of the two groups is entirely too great. In our opinion there should be immediate corrective action, with the ultimate goal of equality in all salaries established by law.

Two Methods of Approach

In approaching the problem the State has two alternatives. It can, we believe, through amending existing legislation remove the legal inequality without attempting to meet the fundamental issue involved and without taking any steps toward increasing the salaries of Negro teachers.

Under such a course there would be no legal regulation of any teacher's salary. Compensation would be left entirely in the discretion of boards of trustees. They would naturally employ teachers at the lowest market price and we doubt if they would have much trouble in employing as many as they need at present salary scales.

In other words, if Negro teachers elect to stand exclusively upon the rights that they think they can enforce, by virtue of the Constitution, then they must not be surprised if the General Assembly, facing many difficulties, resorts to methods that will change existing statutes to comply with the Constitution and avoid any effort to discover a solution that is more equitable and to the greatest interests of the State.

Cooperation Will Solve Problem

The other alternative, we think, involves cooperation between all those concerned in the question raised. There must be intelligent and realistic appreciation of many factors and a sympathetic approach to the problems involved.

There is, we believe, excellent promise of a splendid understanding between the members of the two races that make their homes in South Carolina. This is necessary if questions between the two races are to be settled in friendly fashion, with just recognition of the economic rights involved and joint collaboration in promoting mutual interests that are vital to both races.

Obligation Upon White People

The white people of South Carolina, in control of the machinery of government, have an obligation to protect the Negro race from all forms of mistreatment. Without effective political strength Negro citizens must depend, in a large degree, upon the sense of justice of the white people. They should not have to resort to the courts for a square deal in matters that affect their standard of living and their economic independence.

The Negroes of South Carolina, in our opinion, should be encouraged to improve themselves as individuals through education and no barrier should be placed in the way of their economic advancement. White people should seek actively to assist Negroes in raising their standard of living, because this is proper but, if for no other reason, because in the long run it will be profitable to the entire population.

Many Negroes Will Cooperate

We do not presume at this time to offer any particular advice to the Negro race in regards to the question raised. Obviously, we might be suspected of inadequate understanding of Negro problems. We do suggest, however, that the leading Negroes of this State adopt the policy of friendly negotiation whenever issues arise that require attention. There is more to be gained through this process and, we believe, the best interests of both races will be served.

We have expressed our friendly attitude toward the Negro race upon many occasions. The same observation is true of the best white people of this State. There are many intelligent Negroes who are anxious and willing to cooperate with the white people of this section in the development of human and natural resources. They desire no political conflicts and do much to avoid agitation of any question along racial lines.

Must Work and Prosper Together

There is no reason why intelligent members of both races cannot cooperate for their mutual benefit and the benefit of all citizens of South Carolina. There is hardly any question that should disturb this relationship or prevent its development along lines that, in time, will lead to a greater State, with happy, contented and prosperous people.

Coming back to the question of salaries for Negro teachers: The General Assembly, we believe, should consider sympathetically the request that has been submitted. Just what can be done at this time, or how much can be done, is a problem that involves State finances, which are in bad shape. That something should be done, both by the State and local school boards, is plain to us and we hope that some improvement will begin without delay.

No Miracles Expected

We presume that the committee which appeared before the Legislature is composed of intelligent individuals, who expect no miracle. Certainly, the vast majority of Negro teachers will be satisfied with reasonable progress, both in regards to compensation and better educational facilities for their people.

The General Assembly will be serving South Carolina in giving serious consideration to these matters.

The future peace of the United States depends upon the outcome of the Battle of Britain.

* * * *

One reason the defense program is so popular is because the people of this country do not, as yet, realize that it means sacrifice and sweat.

Greenville, S. C. Piedmont
February 7, 1941

To Gain $72,000

Greenville county negro teachers stand to gain an estimated $72,000 annually in state aid under the recent decision of the United States Supreme court which held that states could not set up separate salary bases for white and negro teachers.

Anderson, S. C. Mail
February 6, 1941

Negroes Asking Equal Pay With White Teachers

COLUMBIA, Feb. 6—(AP)— Pay comparable with that received by white teachers in the state was asked here by the Palmetto State Teachers' Association "so that a court action will not be necessary in South Carolina" to require the state to raise Negro teachers' salaries.

Representatives of the association told the joint Senate and House finance and ways and means committee that for several years appeals had been made to the State Department of Education, the Ways and Means Committee and Senate Finance Committee "for some financial relief."

A recent decision of the United States Supreme Court held that states could not set up a separate salary basis for Negro teachers. The association said it did not want to press court action to require the state to pay higher salaries "because of the unpleasant feeling that will result from such an action."

The association asked no "stipulated amount of money" but said that it was "seemingly impossible to encourage the Negro teachers to carry on as they have unless they get some financial relief."

The Negro teachers, the association said in a prepared statement, "are asking for equal pay for similar preparation and service. They are asking for at least eight months school term for every Negro child and transportation where needed."

Greenville, S. C. Piedmont
February 6, 1941

Teacher Pay Raises Asked

Negro School Instructors Urge Increases So Court Action Not Be Necessary

COLUMBIA, Feb. 6—(AP)—The Palmetto State Teachers association has asked legislative committees to raise negro teachers' salaries to a scale comparable to that of white teachers "so that court action will not be necessary in South Carolina."

The joint senate and house finance and ways and means committees were told yesterday by association representatives that appeals had been made for several years to the state department of education, the ways and means committee and senate finance committee "for some financial relief."

(The U. S. supreme court in a recent decision held that states could not set up a separate salary basis for negro teachers.)

"Because of the unpleasant feeling that will result from such action," the association said it did not want to press court action. No stipulated amount was asked, although the association said it was "seemingly impossible to encourage the negro teachers to carry on as they have unless they get some financial relief."

The committee declined to recommend an appropriation of $25,000 for the department of public welfare to carry on the work of certifying relief clients."

Greenwood, S. C. Index-Journal
February 6, 1941

NEGRO TEACHERS WANT PAY BOOST

Legislative Committees Asked To Put All Salaries On Comparable Scale

Columbia, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Palmetto State Teachers Association has asked legislative committees to raise negro teachers' salaries to a scale comparable to that of white teachers "so that court action will not be necessary in Sotuh Carolina."

The joint senate and house finance and ways and means committees were told yesterday by association representatives that appeals had been made for several years to the State Department of Education, the ways and means committee and senate finance committee "for some financial relief."

(The U. S. supreme court in a recent decision held that states could not set up a separate salary basis for negro teachers.)

"Because of the unpleasant feeling that will result from such action," the association said it did not want to press court action. No stipulated amount was asked, although the association said it was "seemingly impossible to encourage the negro teachers to carry on as they have unless they get some financial relief."

The committees declined to recommend a nappropriation of $25,000 for the Department of Public Welfare to carry on the work of certifying relief clients.

Bishopville, S. C., Messenger
February 20, 1941

Although The Messenger does not always agree with the editor of The Charleston News and Courier, it does recognize the fact that the editor of the low-country paper has a keen mind and a ready pen. It would be well for each one who has a copy of Tuesday's News and Courier to turn to the editorial page and carefully read what Editor Ball has to say about increased pay for negro school teachers and equal educational advantages for negro school children. If the editorial were not so long The Messenger would like to reprint it here. However, it does recommend it as being to the point and very thought provoking.

Anderson, S. C., Independent
February 18, 1941

Committee Of Five To Study Laws On State's Teachers

COLUMBIA, Feb. 17—(AP)—Organization was completed today of the committee of five to study laws of the state dealing with education, election and salaries of school teachers.

Governor Maybank appointed David W. Robinson, Jr., Columbia attorney, and the State Education Association designated its president, E. R. Crow of Columbia, to serve on the committee, which was provided for under a resolution adopted by the General Assembly. The other members are Rep. John H. Porter of Georgetown, chairman of the House Education Committee; Senator W. Brantley Harvey of Beaufort, Senate Education Committee chairman, and State Superintendent of Education James H. Hope.

The Palmetto Teachers' Association has requested that salaries of Negro teachers be made comparable to white teachers' pay. The committee, which is expected to meet this week, will likely consider this subject at length.

Columbia, S. C. State
February 18, 1941

TEACHERS.....The committee of five, authorized under a resolution of the legislature, to study the laws of the state with reference to the education, election and salaries of school teachers, is expected to meet this week.

Governor Maybank yesterday appointed David W. Robinson, Jr., of Columbia and the State Education association, E. R. Crow, principal of the Columbia high school, to serve on the committee.

The other three members are: John H. Porter, Georgetown, chairman of the house committee on education; W. Brantley Harvey, Beaufort, chairman of the like senate committee, and Dr. James H. Hope, state superintendent of education.

This group of five, after completing its investigation, is to report its recommendations to the general assembly. The request of the Palmetto Teachers' association, composed of Negro teachers, that salaries of the Negroes be made "comparable" with those of whites, seemed to have been the immediate cause of the introduction of the resolution.

The Palmetto association asked that Negro salaries be increased so that it would not be necessary to institute legal proceedings to require the state to raise salaries of Negroes.

Involved of course is the matter of a balanced state budget, for if teachers' salaries are raised, the state will have to add about $1,500,000 to the amount it now allows for Negro teachers' salaries.

Meanwhile, the white teachers have asked that their salaries be increased $10 per month, for the eight month terms.

So that altogether, the report of this committee will be an important one, affecting not only adjustment of teachers' salaries but also budget balancing.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Compromise on Teachers' Pay Fought in S.C.

APR 5 - 1941

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Stern opposition to any attempt at a compromise in the campaign for salary equalization on behalf of teachers throughout the State was expressed at a mass meeting attended by more than 3,000 citizens here last week.

Theme of the meeting, held Sunday in Zion Baptist Church, was "Economic Problems of Colored Citizens in Columbia and South Carolina." APR 5 - 1941

Police Officers Sought

Appointment of a proportionate number of colored police officers to work in colored neighborhoods was also among the demands adopted by the gathering, and in this connection attention was called to occasions on which white military police are said to have joined local white officers in brutal assaults on citizens.

Other grievances for which the group urged some measure of redress were cited as follows:

Pensioners Abused

Discrimination in the administration of old-age and blind pensions, with many eligible colored persons cut off and benefits paid many others reduced from $15 to $5 or $5.80;

Maintenance of inhumanly lower wage scales for colored workers, bringing the average weekly wage to $6 for men and $3 for women; APR 5 - 1941

Provision of only two poorly equipped playgrounds for colored as compared with twelve with superior equipment for whites; although the former constitute 40 per cent of the total youth population;

Refusal of the State to provide adequate facilities for higher education;

Disfranchisement of 45 per cent of the State's bona fide citizens.

18v-1941

SOUTH CAROLINA

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

S. C. TEACHERS WILL GET PAY INCREASES TOTALING $326,680.00

COLUMBIA, S. C.—A system of classifying public school teachers in South Carolna for the purpose of reducing the inequalities in salaries was adopted Tuesday by the board of education and was expected to be signed into effect by Governor Burnet R.. Maybank this week The plan said that $694,960 would be added to white teachers' salaries and $326,680 to Negroes a total of $1,021,640.

Under the plan no salary increase will be given to the 295 white and 1,260 Negro teachers holding only high school diplomas; the 1,278 white and 2,164 Negro teachers with two years of college and less training will be given an annual increase of $40; an $80 annual increase will be given the 661 white and 548 Negro teachers with three years college training; $80 increase will be given the 7,387 white teachers with college degrees and $120 to 1,610 Negro teachers holding college degrees.

Both Governor Maybank and the education board, expressed belief that the adopted plan would provide a better plan of certification and would prevent a court fight which would save the state some $3,000,000 alone, as a result of the recent Supreme Court rulings which outlawed inequal salaries It is believed that some understanding has been reached between the state and representatives of the Palmetto State Teachers' Association which had asked for equal salaries.

The state legislature, on adjournment day, sent to the governor a bill providing for a $10 monthly increase for white teachers, having struck out an increase for petitioning colored teachers. Refusing to sign the AUG 7 1941 Governor Maybank appointed a special committee to study the matter, the result of which was the plan adopted Tuesday. In a radio speech Tuesday night Governor Maybank stated that with increased revenue, the state would have no difficulty in meeting the $1,021,640 additional expense the plan incurs.

President Powell was further authorized to announce the opening of the high school department Monday, September 8, 1941, and the college and seminary departments on Tuesday, September 16.

Orangeburg, S. C., Times & Demo
August 6, 1941

Teacher Classification Plan To Reduce Inequalities In White, Negro Salaries

COLUMBIA, Aug. 5. —(AP)— A system of classifying teachers in South Carolina's public schools for salary purposes which would "reduce the inequality in salaries between comparably - trained negro and white teachers" was adopted today by the Board of Education.

The board adopted the report of a special committee named by Governor Burnet R. Maybank June 10 and requested the Governor to sign, as he announced last week he would, the bill passed by the last General Assembly providing a $10-a-month salary increase for teachers.

"We believe that the signing of the bill will make it possible to effect a better plan for certification of teachers and at the same time avert court action which may be brought under recent federal court decision," the board said in resolutions.

The U. S. Supreme Court has held that the pay for teachers cannot be differentiated according to races.

Maybank said tonight he would sign the bill tomorrow or later this week, "in the interest of better education and the teachers of South Carolina," adding that "I feel certain that through the various agreements there will be no court action that might cost the state as much as $3,000,000 or that might have created a financial condition that would have been disastrous to our educational institutions."

He declined to elaborate on the "various agreements" but he presumably referred to some understanding that negro teachers would not push for immediate action on the teacher pay question.

In its preliminary report, the special committee said it believed the Board of Education could "prescribe, for the purposes of distributing state aid, salaries based on different amounts of training. It is on this assumption that the committee is making its recommendations."

The adopted report proposed that no salary increase be given the 295 white and 1,260 negro teachers who have only a high school diploma or less; that the 1,278 white and 2,164 negro teachers with two years of college or leess training be given an annual $40 raise; that an $80 increase be given the 7,387 white and 1,610 negro teachers holding college degrees.

The report said that $694,960 additional would be necessary for white teachers and $326,680 for negroes, or $1,021,640.

A classification plan for salary purposes was only one of two questions assigned to the committee to unravel. The other asked mittee said, called for "an extensive study" in which both white and negro educational interests should participate. It expressed belief that the solution could be ready for action by the board before the end of the calendar year.

The second question, the committee to determine how a revised system of certification and classification of teachers, based on merit, could be created and operated "most experitiously and effectively" by the state board.

E. A. Crow of Columbia is chairman of the committee. Other members are J. B. White, J. [illegible] Kelly, Agnes Tennent, C. K. Wright, W. F. Loggins and Sadie Goggans.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

S.C. Acts to Avert Teachers' Equal Salary Suits

COLUMBIA, S.C.—In an attempt to avert court actior for equal pay for teachers the board of education here adopted a plan designed "to reduce the inequality between comparably trained colored and white teachers" on August 5.

The plan proposes increases of from $40 a year for all teachers with two years' college training; $80 a year for those with three years' college training; $80 a year to white teachers holding college degrees, and $120 a year to colored teachers holding college degrees.

The increase would amount to $694,960 for white teachers as against $326,680 for colored.

AUG 16 1941

Maybank Asked To Sign Teacher Pay Hike Bill

Governor Has Said That He Will Comply With Request

COLUMBIA, Aug. 6 (AP).—The state board of education has adopted the report of a special committee and asked Governor Maybank to sign a bill passed by the legislature providing a $10-a-month salary increase for teachers.

At the same time, the board yesterday adopted a system of classifying public school teachers for salary purposes to "reduce the inequality in salaries between comparably-trained negro and white teachers."

In its resolution the board said "we believe that the signing of the bill will make it possible to effect a better plan for certification on teachers, and at the same time avert court action which may be brought under recent federal decision."

(The U. S. supreme court held that the pay of teachers could not be differentiated according to race.)

Maybank has said he would sign the bill.

Under the adopted report, no salary increase would be given the 295 white and 1,260 negro teachers having only a high school diploma or less. It proposed that the 1,278 white and 2,164 negro teachers with two years college, or less training, be given an annual $40 raise; that an $80 increase be given the 661 white and 584 negro teachers with three years of college training; that an $80 increase be given the 7,387 white teachers holding college degrees and $120 be given the 1,610 negro teachers holding college degrees.

A total of $1,021,640 would be necessary.

(Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
August 6, 1941

EDUCATION BOARD ADOPTS NEW PLAN

Accepts System to Classify Teachers in State for Salary Purposes

Columbia, Aug. 5.—(AP): A system of classifying teachers in South Carolina's public schools for salary purposes which would "reduce the inequality in salaries between comparably-trained negro and white teachers" was adopted today by the board of education.

The board adopted the report of a special committee named by Governor Burnet R. Maybank June 10 and requested the governor to sign, as he announced last week he would, the bill passed by the last general assembly providing a $10-a-month salary increase for teachers.

"We believe that the signing of the bill will make it possible to effect a better plan for certification of teachers, and at the same time avert court action which may be brought under recent federal court decision," the board said in resolutions.

The U. S. supreme court has held that the pay for teachers cannot be differentiated according to races.

Maybank said tonight he would sign the bill tomorrow or later this week "in the interest of better education and the teachers of South Carolina", adding that "I feel certain that through the various agreements there will be no court action that might cost the state as much as $3,000,000 or that might have created a financial condition that would have been disastrous to our educational institutions".

Declines to Elaborate

He declined to elaborate on the "various agreements" but he presumably referred to some understanding that negro teachers would not push for immediate action on the teacher pay question.

In its preliminary report, the special committee said it believed the board of education could "prescribe, for the purposes of distributing state aid, salaries based on different amounts of training. It is on this assumption that the committee is making its recommendations".

The tdopted report proposed that no salary increase be given the 295 white and 1,260 negro teachers who have only a high school diploma or less; that the 1,278 white and 2,164 negro teachers with two years of college or less training be given an annual $40 raise; that an $80 increase be given the 661 white and 584 negro teachers with three years of college training and the 7,387 white and 1,610 negro teachers holding college degrees.

One of Two Questions

The report said that $694,960 additional would be necessary for white teachers and $326,680 for negroes, or $1,021,640.

A classification plan for salary purposes was only one of two questions assigned to the committee to unravel. The other asked it to determine how a revised system of certification and classification of teachers, based on merit, could be created and operated "most expeditiously and effectively" by the state board.

The second question, the committee said, called for "an extensive study" in which both white and negro educational interests should participate. It expressed belief that the solution could be ready for action by the board before the end of the calendar year.

E. R. Crow of Columbia is chairman of the committee. Other members are J B. White, J. G. Kelly, Agnes 8ennent, C. K. Wright, W. F. Loggins and Sadie Goggans.

Anderson [illegible] Trib
August 6, 1941

State Teacher Pay Plan Gets Board Approval

COLUMBIA, Aug. 5 — (AP) —A system of classifying teachers in South Carolina's public schools for salary purposes which would "reduce the inequality in salaries between comparably-trained Negro and white teachers" was adopted today by the Board of Education.

The board adopted the report of a special committee named by Governor Burnet R. Maybank June 10 and requested the governor to sign, as he announced last week he would, the bill passed by the last General Assembly providing a $10-a-month salary increase for teachers.

"We believe that the signing of the bill will make it possible to effect a better plan for certification of teachers, and at the same time avert court action which may be brought under recent federal court decision," the board said in resolutions.

The U. S. Supreme Court has held that the pay for teachers cannot be differentiated according to races.

Maybank said tonight he would sign the bill tomorrow or later this week "in the interest of better education and the teachers of South Carolina," adding that "I feel certain that through the various agreements there will be no court actiion that might cost the state as much as $3,000,000 or that might have created a financial condition that would have been disastrous to our educational institutions."

He declined to elaborate on the "various agreements" but he presumably referred to some understanding that Negro teachers would not push for immediate action on the teacher pay question.

In its preliminary report, the special committee said it believed the board of education could "prescribe, for the purposes of distributing state aid, salaries based on different amounts of training. It is on this assumptioni that the committee is making its recommendations."

The adopted report proposed that no salary increase be given the 295 white and 1,260 Negro teachers who have only a high school diploma or less; that the 1,278 white and 2,164 Negro teachers with two years of college or less training be given an annual $40 raise; that an $80 increase be given the 661 white and 584 Negro teachers with three years of college training and the 7,387 white and 1,610 Negro teachers holding college degrees.

The report said that $694,960 additional would be necessary for white teachers and $326,680 for Negroes, or $1,021,640.

A classification plan for salary purposes was only one of two questions assigned to the committee to unravel. The other asked it to determine how a revised system of certification and classification of teachers, based on merit, could be created and operated "most expeditiously and effectively" byt the state board.

The second question, the committee said, called for "an extensive study" in which both white and Negro educational interests should participate. It expressed belief that the solution could be ready for action by the board before the end of the calendar year.

E. R. Crow of Columbia is chairman of the committee. Other members are J. B. White, J. G. Kelly Agnes Tennent, C. K. Wright, W F. Loggins and Sadie Goggans.

Columbia, S. C. [illegible]
August 8, 1941

Teachers' Pay Bill Is Signed By Governor

Governor Burnet R. Maybank announced last night he had signed the bill to take an estimated $1,100,000 from the general state treasury to provide increased salaries for teachers.

The measure was enacted the last day of the legislative session last spring and Maybank had until the fourth day of the session opening next January to sign or veto it.

The higher state aid for teachers' salaries will become effective next month.

The state board of education adopted a special committee's report this week which would grant salary rises of from $40 to $120 for the year for 87 per cent of the 15,237 teachers. The remaining 13 per cent would not get more money because their schooling was limited to high school graduation or less.

The maximum $120 a year would go to 1,160 Negro teachers who have college degrees. The committee proposed this as a step toward balancing salaries of Negroes with whites. The United States supreme court has held there must be no discrimination according to races in teacher pay.

Maybank reiterated that he signed the measure for the interest of education and teachers.

Greenville, S. C. News
April 17, 1941

Better Teacher Pay And Longer Terms Urged For Negro Schools

COLUMBIA, Apr. 16.—(AP)—A special committee charged with a survey of the state's education statutes told the general assembly today that, in its opinion, the salaries of the "better" negro school teachers should be higher and that negro school terms should be longer.

The committee's report said a study of salaries paid white and negro teachers showed that "there are inequalities in the expenditure of funds for education in this state. The nature and extent of this discrimination is more difficult to ascertain.

"Since the 14th amendment (to the United States constitution) is binding on the counties and school districts, we have considered their expenditures as well as those of the state itself."

Although the committee said that its opinion was "the average white teacher in this state is a better teacher than the average negro teacher x x x there are, however, among the negro teachers, many who deserve salary increases in order to bring them to the level of the white teacher of equal value.

"In order to provide some additional compensation for the better negro school teachers, the committee has decided to recommend a salary increase of $10 per month to be paid out of state aid x x x to those negro teachers who hold college degrees.

"Present records indicate that there are now approximately 1,909 such teachers x x x the cost to the state would be not more than $152,720."

The present average salary of white teachers, including state aid and supplementary pay by school districts, was $998, the report said, against $391 for negro teachers.

Charleston, S. C., Evening Post
June 11, 1941

Present Case for Negro Teachers

Columbia, June 11. (AP)—Spokesmen for negro school teachers appeared today before the state board of education in connection with a question of teacher pay but Governor Burnet Maybank, ex-officio chairman of the board, said no action was taken.

The board will make a "thorough study" of the report to the general assembly of a special committee which surveyed the state's school laws. This committee recently recommended increased pay for the more experienced and better qualified negro teachers and also proposed a new method of teacher certification.

J. P. Burgess of the Palmetto Education association and M. F. Whittaker, president of the state negro college at Orangeburg, were the representatives of the negro teachers present. The governor said both Burgess and Whittaker expressed the hope that an understanding could be reached "without outside help."

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

South Carolina Defies The Supreme Court

THE SOUTH CAROLINA legislature adjourned Saturday, voting an increase of $10 a month to teachers now making at least $90 monthly, and above. It struck out a $10 monthly increase for Negro teachers, approximating $152,720 annually.

The teacher salary increase bill, as passed, thusly excludes the Negro teachers who, to use the words of Senator Harvey of Beaufort, "are getting 50 a month and less". But this ignoring of the Negro teachers who, early in the legislative session had asked for equalization of salary voluntarily, "so that a court fight will not be necessary in South Carolina", seemed deliberate. Senator Sawyer of Georgetown, promenading in the fashion of a tyrant, shouted defiance at the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling against discriminatory salaries. Said he, according to Associated Press reports:

"They're not going to pay the Negroes money, Supreme Court or no Supreme Court. If the Supreme Court does say we must pay the Negroes, how are going to make us do it? Are they going to send the army to South Carolina to make us do it? We are running this government?

JUN 2 1941

Despite Sawyer's blatant declaration South Carolina can be made "to pay the Negroes" and no army need be sent into the state to see that this is done. While the Negro teachers had sought to avoid court sessions in the matter and the, projection of the "race question", they now have no alternative.

Proof that the state can pay better salaries is evident in the passage of the bill to raise the white teachers to $100 a month. As for the Negro teachers, they must continue on $50 a month or less" if Sawyer and his cohorts have their way.

In proposing a raise in pay to school teachers in South Carolina with conditions as they are now, the General Assembly would add more to the State's financial burden than is at first apparent.

The matter of equal pay to Negro school teachers has got to be faced soon.

The Supreme Court of the United States has shown clearly what to expect.

The taxpayers will hear a lot about this before very long and may be painfully surprised at the facts which cannot be evaded.

Gaffney, S. C. Ledger
May 31, 1941

Views of Others

Probably Overlooked.

(Greenwood Index-Journal.)

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
June 8, 1941

Negrd Educators Will Seek Voice in Salary Conference

Orangeburg, June 7—Special: The executive committee of the Palmetto teachers association meeting at South Carolina State A. & M. college this afternoon passed a resolution requesting the president of the association to call a special joint meeting of the house of delegates of the association with the executive committee some time in June to consider plans regarding teachers' salaries and raising of a special fund for further steps that might be taken in behalf of negro teachers in South Carolina.

The president of the Palmetto state teachers association was also authorized to approach the proper authorities and request permission for the executive committee of the Palmetto state teachers association to sit in the special session of the governor's committee considering the teachers' salaries June 11 at Columbia.

The resolution, concerning the calling of a special session of the house of delegates of the association as reported by a special committee was as follows: "Believing that there will be a need for a joint meeting of the house of delegates with the executive committee some time in June be it resolved by the executive committee that the president plan to call such a meeting to consider further needed action regarding the requests at the Palmetto state teachers association to the legislature."

The resolution came as a result of a day's discussion by the executive committee concerning the special committee called by the governor to meet in Columbia, June 11.

The executive committee also voted after much discussion to empower the president of the association to ask the governor for permission for the committee to sit in on their deliberations of the governor's committee June 11.

The executive secretary was instructed to take the necessary arrangements to secure charter for the association which was approved by the house of delegates at the last annual session in April.

Tentative plans were discussed for the holding of the next annual session of the association. The meeting will be held in March, 1942, at Columbia. The time and place for district meetings was also discussed and tentatively arranged.

Executive committee members of the Palmetto state teachers association present at the meeting on Saturday were: J. P. Burgess, president, Orangeburg; H. C. Brewer, vice president, Hartsville; C. C. Woodson, Spartanburg; S. L. Finley, Chester; C. C. Bing, executive secretary, Allendale; Ida E. Green, treasurer, Florence; L. F. Buckner, Florence; M. F. Whittaker, president South Carolina State college, Orangeburg; J. E. Blanton, Vorhees N. & I. school, Denmark, principal; J. R. Bonds, Charleston; U. S. Gallman, Newberry, and I. M. A. Myers, Columbia.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

OPPOSE TEACHER PARITY

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 29—The first attempt on the part of public officials to subvert the recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling that there could be no discrimination in the matter of equal pay between Negro and white teachers in the public schools came to the fore last week, as the General Assembly of South Carolina studied the question.

A special committee of the Legislature has proposed a new plan of certification whereby teachers would be certified on a basis of qualification. This plan would obviate the Supreme Court's decision because teacher-graduates from the white colleges and universities would be judged to have higher qualification than teachers finishing race schools. The court holds that where qualifications are similar and positions are the same the pay must be uniform.

During the debate on the bill, State Senator W. B. Harvey, chairman of the Senate education committee, asserted "Unless something is done to change the method of certifying public school teachers you're going to have to spend millions of dollars on salaries of Negro teachers.

"The only way you can get around the ruling is by adopting a new method of certification. I'm not in favor of paying the Negro teachers on the same basis as white teachers," concluded the Senator from Beaufort.

Sumter, S. C., Daily Item
June 11, 1941

Negro Teacher Pay Discussed

Columbia, June 11. — (AP) — Spokesmen for negro school teachers appeared today before the state board of education in connection with a question of teacher pay but Governor Burnet Maybank, ex-officio chairman of the board, said no action was taken.

The board will make a "thorough study" of the report to the general assembly of a special committee which surveyed the state's school laws. This committee recently recommended increased pay for the more experienced and better qualified negro teachers and also proposed a new method of teacher certification.

J. P. Burgess of the Palmetto Education Association and M. F. Whittaker, president of the state negro college at Orangeburg, were the representatives of the negro teachers present. The governor said both Burgess and Whittaker expressed the hope that an understanding could be reached "without outside help."

(The U. S. supreme court recently held that no state could discriminate between white and negro teachers and that all teachers must be paid on the same basis).

The general assembly did not act on the report of the special committee. A $10-a-month teacher pay increase bill was passed but this did not alter the existing situation. The governor has not yet signed the bill.

Columbia S. C. State
June 13, 1941

LASTING . . . . This "life certificate" means just that. It is in force so long as the teacher holding it lives.

Several years ago, the policy was adopted of granting these certificates. When a teacher was a graduate of Winthrop college, or when a teacher had had ten years of teaching experience, a "life certificate" was given as a recognition of preparation made and service rendered.

The policy of giving these certificates has been discontinued, but a good many of them are still in effect. Records at the office of the state superintendent of education show that 759 life certificates were given Winthrop graduates, under the old plan. Accurate figures as to the certificates of this type now being used by teachers were not available yesterday.

Then 3,969 life certificates were issued to teachers who had had ten years of experience. The number of Negroes holding life certificates was 1,478, according to public records at the office of the department of education. Some of the white and some of the Negro teachers to whom these "life" certificates were issued have died, and of course the certificate expired with them, but there are many extant. These certificates rather complicate the "certification" program.

HOLDERS . . . . It is estimated by school authorities that next year 6,000 Negro teachers will be employed in the state, and that of these, 5,200 will hold first grade certificates under which they draw $50 per month in salary.

All of these factors are being studied in an effort to work out a plan that will be fair and just to whites and Negroes.

Earlier this week, the board of education had spent the better part of a day canvassing the entire educational situation as it exists in South Carolina. Governor Maybank said, "We will get the best legal advice obtainable to educational problems. We are all striving to the best of our ability to do what is best for the people of South Carolina; best for the teachers, best for the taxpayers, best for the pupils. All are being given consideration."

Abbeville S. C. Press and Banner
June 12, 1941

MAYBANK NOT TO SIGN BILL NOW

Columbia, June 12.—Governor Burnet R. Maybank said yesterday he had "no idea" of signing a bill increasing teachers' salaries $10 a month until it was clearly understood what the results would be.

The measure was passed on the final day of the legislative session after an amendment which would have provided $152,000 for Negro teachers' salary increases was stricken from the bill.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

COLUMBIA TEACHERS GET $10,000 SALARY INCREASE

COLUMBIA, S. C. — Negro teachers in Columbia will receive a salary increase of $10,000 for the term beginning next September, it was learned this week. The increase will place salaries in the high school from about $700 to between $1,000 and $1,200 and place the high school teachers in Columbia on a salary schedule equal to none in the state.

JUL 5 1941

The increase in salary resulted from action by Columbia teachers to secure salaries comparable to

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

South Carolina Governor Refuses To Sign Bill Raising Teacher Pay

COLUMBIA, S. C.—(ANP) —Gov. Burnett R. Maybank declared Thursday that he had "no idea" of signing a bill increasing salaries of all South Carolina teachers $10 a month unless it was clearly understood what the results would be.

JUN 24 1941

The bill went to the governor for signature with an amendment which would have provided $152,000 for increases in the salaries of Negro teachers. The amendment was struck out when the measure was passed on the final day of the legislative session.

Representatives of Negro taechers, J. P. Burgess of the Palmetto Education association, and President M. F. Whittaker, of South Carolina State College, met last week with the state board of education and said they hoped to reach an "understanding in South Carolina without outside help."

Maybank in his capacity of ex-officio chairman of the board said "We are going into this matter thoroughly, and are not going into any precipitate action. We want to do what is best for all concerned and we will be guided by the best minds in the state."

JUN 24 1941

A report submitted by a specially appointed group of legislators who studied educational problems of the state was passed over by the general assembly. Gov. Maybank said the board planned to make detailed study of the committee's findings.

JUN 24 1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Appeasing The Teachers

The adopted plan for teachers' salaries in South Carolina, signed last Thursday by governor Maybank, does not "equalize" salaries by any means. It merely equalizes pay increases; it makes no provision for the already unequal basic pay for teachers of the two races.

The colored AUG 25 1941 their supporters should not mistake the plan as a solution and let the salary matter "die". At best, it is an appeasement plan, aimed primarily at relieving "equalization" pressure.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

S.C. Race Teachers To Get Pay Boost On Aug. 5

COLUMBIA, S. C. — The board of education here adopted a plan designed "to reduce the inequality between comparably-trained Negro and white teachers" on August 5.

The plan was included in a report of a special committee named by the governor and proposes salary increases of from $40 a year for Negro and white teachers with two years of college training; $80 a year for teachers of both races with three years of college training; $80 a year to white teachers holding college degrees, and $120 a year to colored teachers holding college degrees.

AUG 6 1941

The increase would amount to $694,960 for white teachers as against $326,680 for colored. The plan was admittedly adopted to avert court action for equal pay. South Carolina is on the N.A.A.C.P. list for the institution of an equal pay suit.

AUG 16 1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

What The Negro Teachers Got

The Negro teachers of South Carolina are jubilant over the slight pay increases most of them will receive under the new state certification plan. And one gathers that they are completely satisfied. But from what Governor Maybank has been telling the white voters in South Carolina during the recent senatorial campaign it seems that the Negro teachers turned up as the "goats" under the plan.

Witness, for example, the governor's explanation that he did not "immediately" sign the pay bill, and signed it only when, it was "in the interest of the white teachers". The satisfaction with the plan among the white teachers was extolled in letters of appreciation to the governor from such persons as, J. P. Coates, secretary-treasurer of the S. C. Education Association, its president and several others. The white teachers, the governor explained, would have been embarrassed by a court action, presumably brought by colored teachers, to secure better pay. Under the old plan, colored teachers were paid "$50 and less" while white teachers were paid $90 and more.

This revelation of the real purpose of the certification plan puts the Executive Committee of the Palmetto State Teachers' Association on the spot. In signing the bill, authorizing the plan, governor Maybank intimated that some kind of arrangement was made with the Committee. And it is wondered if the representatives of the PSTA knew, all along, the purpose and extent of the plan. If they were fooled or, if they were what one might call "bought out". Certainly, while the plan may mean a few dollars more for the colored teachers, it has done nothing toward "equalizing teacher pay."

Another thing the teachers got, and one that can not be overlooked, is that the respective counties making supplements to the state's pay can reduce their local grants to colored teachers in the exact sum as the state has increased it. This means that the county can withdraw its contribution and salaries will remain as before or, be not increased appreciatively. And just this has been done in Charleston county within recent years. When the state contributed $45 in pay the county added $15; later when the state's pay was raised to $50 per month the county reduced its supplement to $10 and teachers received the same $60.

The Executive Committee and the PSTA are now faced with the alternative of howling "we wuz robbed" in public or, confessing that "we was the guilty ones". There is no rail to straddle.—Lighthouse-Informer, Charleston, S. C.

September 22, 1941

Sees Training Negro Teacher Up to Negroes

"The recent ruling of the state board of education in regard to the certification and classification of teachers and the study of plans for future policies definitely leads to the conclusion that Negro teacher-training institutions will be charged with the responsibility of giving adequate pre-service training to prospective teachers for the Negro public schools of South Carolina," according to John P. Burgess of Orangeburg, president of the Palmetto (Negro) State Teachers association, who in a prepared statement discusses the facilities offered Negroes within the state to qualify for certificates.

Citing that the state agricultural and mechanical college at Orangeburg is the only state supported institution of higher learning for Negroes in South Carolina," he said, "it is inconceivable that the institution will not be made sufficiently strong by the state of South Carolina to make procurable for its graduates the highest class of certificate that may be issued by the bureau of certification.

"In South Carolina," he continued, "there are four private instituons of higher learning for Negroes that offer four years of college training. Through the years, these colleges have been making a distinct contribution to the teaching profession in South Carolina.

"If a sufficient number of teachers are to be secured these colleges must continue to live. The graduates of Allen university and the members of the African Methodist church in South Carolina, the graduates of Benedict college and members of the Baptist church in South Carolina, the graduates of Claflin college and the members of the Methodist church, Atlantic coast jurisdiction, in South Carolina, the graduates of Morris college and members of the Baptist church in South Carolina should rise at this time and come to the financial assistance of these church colleges so that their work on the under-graduate level will be on a par with that of any other institution.

"It is generally understood that a lack of financial support prevents the five institutions mentioned above, state and private, from receiving the rating the people of South Carolina would like to see each of them attain and maintain.

"There are six Negro junior colleges in South Carolina that have made, and are still making, a decided contribution to the teaching profession. They are listed in the 1940-41 South Carolina school directory as follows:

"Avery institute, Congregational; Bettis academy, private; Clinton junior college, Methodist; Coulter Memorial academy, Presbyterian; Friendship junior college, Baptist; Voorhees Normal and Industrial school, Episcopal.

Outstanding educational journals have recently been carrying articles to the effect that the junior colleges have a distinct part to play in the American scheme of education. Because of his work for the past 15 years, the writer has had the opportunity to observe many teachers at work.

"Some of the best teaching he has seen in the primary and elementary grades was done by graduates of junior colleges. The same appeal that is herein made to the constituents of senior colleges is also made to the constituents of these junior colleges.

"An average of $2 a year from the constituents of these colleges would make such a difference in these schools that the forward looking people of South Carolina, white and Negro, would be proud of them.

"Years ago many of these schools received donations from philanthropists. That source has about ceased except through the foundations. When those gifts were made there were no such prosperity as is now exhibited around almost any gathering of Negroes.

"Why should not Negroes now show that the money spent by those benefactors was an investment that put them in position to support their institutions today?

"The salary schedule as set up by the state board of education for Negro teachers, in the case of four-year college graduates teaching in schools that run eight months, does tend to get the salaries of Negro and white teachers nearer together.

"The addition of one month to short-term schools increased the yearly salary of many teachers. The matter of transportation, which can be worked out with local school officials, and the matter of high school facilities are all gains that have been made.

"The matter of at least an 8-month school term for every Negro child calls for a larger average attendance in many of our schools for the first and the last months of school. If children do not attend school for the term they now have, is there any justifiable reason for extending the term?

"Children, parents, leaders in every walk of life, teachers, and school officials can do a great deal to increase the average attendance. There seems to be no good reason for the daily absence of 29 out of every 100 Negro children enrolled in South Carolina.

"In order for Negro teachers to do their best work, among other things, they should be remunerated for services in keeping with their training and performance. It is certain that with more than one-half of the school districts in South Carolina putting nothing into the Negro teachers salaries one must conclude that the people of these districts do not know that such state of affairs exist."

Spartanburg S. C. Herald
February 5, 1941

STATE TO SURVEY LAW RELATING TO TEACHERS AND PAY

Group of Five Will Weigh All Statutes; Salaries of Negroes Involved

Columbia, Feb. 4 (AP).—An investigation of "the statutory laws of South Carolina dealing with education and the election of school teachers and their salaries" was authorized today by the general assembly in a resolution adopted without any discussion.

The investigation would be made by a committee composed of the chairmen of the senate and house education committees, the state superintendent of education and two other persons appointed separately by the governor and the South Carolina Education association. The resolution, introduced by the house education committee, authorized a $500 appropriation for the study.

Negro Teacher Pay Involved

Representative Porter of Georgetown, education committee chairman, was not present as the legislature's fourth week opened and other members of the committee would not comment on the resolution. Its introduction followed last week's executive session of the House at which the possible effect of the recent United States supreme court decision on the pay of negro school teachers was discussed.

The court ruled that no state could pay white and negro teachers on a different salary basis.

In a message accompanying state planning board booklets distributed to each senator and representative, Governor Burnet Maybank called the attention of the legislators to the board's "very important studies" that "I spoke to you about in my annual message."

Audit Also Submitted

The governor also submitted the fifth annual audit of the Santee-Cooper authority.

Resolutions to invite the Rev. Sam Morris of Del Rio, Texas, a temperance speaker, to address a joint senate-house session tomorrow and also to elect four trustees of the Medical College were adopted by the senate, but did not reach the house for action before adjournment. The terms of Dr. O. A. Matthews of Bennettsville, Dr. Thomas A. Pitts of Saluda, Dr. John H. Porter of Andrews and Dr. Thomas H. Pope of Newberry as members of the college board expire this year.

The House ways and means committee introduced a bill to make only the net profit of sales of public utility companies subject to the state income tax. The South Carolina Utilities company of Conway has agreed to sell its properties to the Santee-Cooper authority and the net profit from the transfer would be the only taxable sum.

Chester S. C. Reporter
February 6, 1941

Negro Teacher Want Equal Pay

Eight-Month Term, Buses Where Needed Also Among Requests Set Forth

Columbia, February 5.—Pay comparable with that received by white teachers in the state was asked today by the Palmetto State Teachers' association "so that a court action will not be necessary in South Carolina" to require the state to raise negro teachers' salaries.

Representatives of the association told the joint senate and house finance and ways and means committee that for several years appeals had been made to the state department of education, the ways and means committee and senate finance committee "for some financial relief."

A recent decision of the United States supreme court held that states could not set up a separate salary basis for negro teachers. The association said it did not want to press court action to require the state to pay higher salaries "because of the unpleasant feeling that will result from such an action."

The association asked no "stipulated amount of money" but said that it was "seemingly impossible to encourage the negro teachers to carry on as they have unless they get some financial relief."

The negro teachers, the association said in a prepared statement, "are asking for equal pay for similar preparation and service. They are asking for at least eight months school term for every negro child and transportation where needed."

The lack of transportation makes it impossible for some negro children to attend school regularly, the statement said, and thus contributed to "our high rate of illiteracy and, therefore, provides fertile soil for the spreading of propaganda, unfavorable to our country."

"Some teachers who have to work under such conditions are not always inclined to be the best type of citizens in that they cannot maintain a decent standard of living and pay their debts."

Among the objectives of the association were:

1. Teachers with similar training and performing the same class of work be paid the same salary.
2. Equalization to begin 1941-42 school year.
3. Complnete equalization in two years.
4. All schools to operate not less than eight months.
5. At least one accredited high school in each county free of tuition to all children of the county.
6. Transportation to be allowed where needed.

The association represents approximately 5,600 negro teachers.

Columbia S. C. State
February 7, 1941

SALARIES . . . Request by representatives of the Negro teachers of South Carolina for pay comparable with that of white teachers has served to direct attention to these salaries. There is no question that there is considerable discrepancy.

The white teacher, holding a first grade certificate—and there are only some 15 or 20 second grade certificates among white teachers—draws $75 per month from the state, in her first year of teaching. The second year, she gets $80 per month; the third $85 and the fourth $90. That is the maximum. Of course this salary may be supplemented by the school district in which she teaches.

Now a Negro teacher, holding a first grade certificate, draws $50 per month, no matter how many years she teaches, there is no increase in salary.

A Negro teacher holding a second grade certificate draws $40 per month. There are some 1,500 second grade certificates held by Negro teachers.

Greenwood S. C. Index Journal
February 6, 1941

The time is not far distant in South Carolina when Negro school teachers will have to be paid the same salary as white school teachers.

The Supreme Court of the United States in the Norfolk, Va., case has given ample and unmistakable notice that this will have to be done.

The Supreme Court of the United States has not, as yet, given a direct decision in this matter but in its recent refusal to review a case covering this issue from Norfolk in which the decision of the lower Federal courts showed plainly that the court had its mind made up on the issue, the Supreme Court indicated its own state of mind almost conclusively.

So, as Cleveland said, it is not a theory but a condition, almost, which now confronts the South.

In Greenwood county, the extra cost of this change will be, on the present basis, approximately thirty-six thousand dollars annually.

If the base pay of white teachers is raised, as is being requested now by the State Teachers Association the cost of equal pay to Negro teachers in Greenwood county will be greater than thirty-six thousand dollars annually. The two combined would increase the cost to over fifty thousand dollars annually.

One drastic solution of the problem is suggested by the News and Courier.

The News and Courier suggests that all free public school education above the grammar grades be abolished and that tuition for all high school grades be charged.

That could be made to work so as to produce the revenue, and cut down expenses of the teaching force.

It would also cut down drastically the enrollment in the high schools of the State. And reduce the number of teachers who would have to be paid.

But the suggestion is too drastic.

Part of it might be used in that tuition could be charged for the last two grades of the high school but even that would be subject to great opposition. Unless the financial condition of the State becomes much worse than it is curtailment of public schools would not be permitted by the people.

This fact must be kept clear in mind: Soon it will be compulsory to make the salaries of Negro school teachers equal to that of white teachers and every RAISE in the pay of white teachers after that will mean an equal RAISE in the pay of Negro teachers.

The Supreme Court of the United States is the final authority in the issue and that fact is beyond question.

Anderson, S. C. Independent Trib
October 15, 1941

About $60,000 Expected Soon

Speares Taking Annual Records To Office Today

Anderson County's 700-odd school teachers will receive about $4,000 monthly or about $32,000 more a year under the new state teacher salary hike, it was estimated yesterday by County Superintendent of Education H. W. Speares.

Mr. Speares said he would go to Columbia today to submit applications of the respective teachers for state teacher aid. He indicated that the first installment totalling about $60,000, should be received here in the coming week.

Under the new salary law for teachers, those qualifying are eligible for $5 and $10 monthly raises over their pay of last year.

In Anderson County there are about 550 white teachers and 200 Negroes.

White teachers must have two years of college work to qualify for a $5 raise or three years or more for a $10 monthly boost. Negro teachers must have one year or more of college credits.

480,000 Annually

Mr. Speares estimated that teachers aid, payable eight of the regular nine month term, will total $480,000 for the 1941-42 term, or about $60,000 monthly. Last year the aid aggregated about $56,000.

Charleston S. C. News & Courier
February 6, 1941

IF FACED FRANKLY.

"It is no more than fair and just," the Charleston News and Courier believes, "regardless of the decisions of the United States supreme court that teachers in the schools, white and black, be paid the same salaries if they be teachers of the same qualifications."

And this is a simple statement of the truth and the fact. But it isn't the whole truth. For the truth is that some day, and the sooner the better, South Carolina must disregard races in school teachers' pay. When a test case from this state is taken to the supreme court it will have no choice and it should move immediately, as some South Carolina school districts are already moving, to eliminate racial discriminations; if it takes the initiative upon itself instead of waiting for the courts to compel it as compel it they will it can expect the cooperation of the Negro school teachers in working out the problem. And the abolition of racial discrimination means more than the abolition of discrepancies in basic pay; it means the abolition of discrepancies in length of school terms.

The News and Courier's solution of the problem is the abolition of free schools above the grammar school grades for both whites and Negroes.

"While the maintenance of primary schools for Negroes would be a burden," The News and Courier says, "it would be more than compensated by the saving from the abolition of free high schools for all.

"In the matter of 'education' South Carolina has 'bitten off more than it can chew.' In efforts to do as other states do it has all but exhausted itself. Now it is faced with a task that would exhaust it."

Now education in South Carolina can stand some reforming—it should be designed to meet South Carolina needs instead of being simply an imitation of every other state's educational system—but there ought to be alternatives to The News and Courier's drastic proposal. As a matter of fact there are. South Carolina if it is willing to face the facts and can take care to preserve the revenue sources it has instead of throwing away money on quixotic propositions, if it can set itself to the task of saving money as other states have by the adoption of demonstrated business methods, if it undertake to obey its own constitution and preserve its credit South Carolina can meet its obligations to both whites and Negroes.

But it can't do it by playing politics.

Columbia, S. C. Record
February 4, 1941

The Load They Vote For

The white people of South Carolina and the general assembly would as well put into their mouths and smoke that they have got to pay white and negro teachers in the public schools equal salaries, when they have the same qualifications as indicated by certificates. That is the decision of the United States supreme court.

They will be compelled to provide equal accommodations for white and colored children. If white children shall ride to school in buses, negro children will not walk.

These changes may not come to pass immediately, but they will come shortly. This non-discrimination between the races in public schools is one part of the policy of the national administration, the New Deal. If a South Carolinian shall be appointed to the supreme court bench he will conform to New Deal policies, as Mr. Justice Hugo Black of Alabama does, or he will bear the brand of traitor to it. Mr. Roosevelt will make no appointment to the court of a Southerner until he is persuaded that the appointee knows what's what and will behave properly.

Sixty-six years the South, of which is South Carolina, has given to negro schools the smallest pittance possible without head-on collision with the letter of the law. A candidate for governor once said on the stump that the negroes were getting not as much as they paid for—a statement which we can neither affirm nor deny. Figures are not available.

If there be 350,000 white children of school age in the state which it will undertake to educate, it will have to assume a proportionate burden for 300,000 negro children—a load which it has heretofore wriggled from under. The federal government will see to it; there is no doubt of it, however the general assemblies may play with the problem, temporize and dodge a little while longer. This is in the national plans for "social gains".

Presumably, the white South Carolinians want it. They vote for it, when they vote. The New Deal and all its works "tickle them to death", and The News and Courier is not prepared to say that they will not swallow its negro policies along with the other blessings—as long as the offices and subsidies hold out.

The public school load for white children is tremendous. The people stagger under it. They groan. At the moment they are asked to shell out another million dollars for teachers—and that means white teachers for the most part.

There are no negro teachers now "jamming the senate [illegible] and the State House corridors" in Columbia.

The News and Courier's readers know that many years it has said that the state's duty is discharged when it teaches children the rudiments essential to performing the citizen's duties—reading, writing, arithmetic. Free education after the elementary grades is not even advisable. That, The News and Courier has said years before this New Deal for the colored children and teachers was about to be forced upon South Carolina.

The News and Courier believes that the teaching of the elementary grades should be of the same character for the two races, that the teachers, of each race, should be equally paid and that both races should be given equal accommodations.

It lies in the mouth of no legislator or other "loyal" supporter of Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal to object to its negro policies. It is their New Deal. They get what they vote for.

The negro addition will make the education load almost unbearable. The taxpayers on lands and houses, most of them white, will stagger. And groan. The white education load is breaking their backs.

Charleston, S. C. News
February 18, 1941

Negro Teachers Ask Pay Like That Of Whites

Columbia. — Pay comparable with that received by white teachers in the state was asked by the Palmetto State Teachers' association "so that a court action will not be necessary in South Carolina" to require the state to raise negro teachers' salaries.

Representatives of the association told the joint senate and house finance ways and means committee that for several years appeals had been made to the state department of education, the ways and means committee and senate finance committee "for some financial relief."

A recent decision of the United States supreme court held that states could not set up a separate salary basis for negro teachers. The association said it did not want to press court action to require the state to pay higher salaries "because of the unpleasant feeling that will result from such an action."

The association asked "no stipulated amount of money" but said that it was "seemingly impossible to encourage the negro teachers to carry on as they have unless they get some financial relief."

The negro teachers, the association said in a prepared statement, "are asking for equal pay for similar preparation and service. They are asking for at least eight months school term for every negro child and transportation where needed."

The lack of transportation made it impossible for some negro children to attend school regularly, the statement said, and thus contributed to "our high rate of illiteracy and therefore provides fertile soil for the spreading of propaganda, unfavorable to our contry.

"Some teachers who have to work under such conditions are not always inclined to be the best type of citizens in that they cannot maintain a decent standard of living and pay their debts."

Among the objectives of the association were:

(1) Teachers with similar training and performing the same class of work be paid the same salary.

(2) Equalization to begin 1941-42 school year.

(3) Complete equalization in two years.

(4) All schools operate not less than eight months.

(5) At least one accredited high school in each county free of tuition to all children in the county.

1-v-1941 SOUTH CAROLINA

Aiken, S. C. Standard & Review
August 8, 1941

NEW TEACHERS SALARY BASE IS APPROVED

A system of classifying South Carolina's 15,237 public school teachers so as to provide annual salary increases of from $40 to $120 for 87 per cent of them in the 1941-42 school year, was adopted by the state board of education in Columbia.

At the same time, the board asked Governor Burnet R. Maybank to sign the salary increase bill for teachers under which the funds for the higher pay scales would be provided.

Establishment of a merit system for the classification and certification of South Carolina's teachers is to be studied further by a special committee appointment by Governor Maybank June 10. A report on such a system is expected before the end of the calendar year by the committee.

"The urgent necessity for action toward a better plan of certification and classification is based on the fact that the existing certificates do not reflect the educational qualifications or the specific training of teachers," the board-approved committee report stated.

It is the same committee that recommended the immediate $40-to-$120-a-year teacher increases on a classification plan based upon the number of years of college training the teachers have had. The plan and the increases were adopted by the board.

The largest increase, $120 a year, goes to 1,160 Negro teachers who have four years of college training or more and who hold degrees. A total of 7,837 white teachers with the same qualifications get $80 a year more, the maximum allowed them under the salary increase bill.

Likewise getting $80 a year more are 661 white teachers and 584 Negro teachers with three years of college training. An increase of $40 a year goes to 1,278 white teachers and 2,164 Negro teachers with two years of college training or less.

A total of 295 white teachers and 1,260 Negro teachers "whose training is represented by high school graduation or less" do not receive any increase at all.

Additional money required to finance salary increases on the basis adopted by the board of education was estimated by the committee at $1,021,640, of which more than one-fourth—or $590,960—would go to the white teachers with four years of college training or more.

Negro teachers with the same qualifications would receive $193,200. White teachers with three years of college training would get $52,880 and Negro teachers with the same qualifications $46,920. With two years of college training or less, white teachers would receive $51,120 and Negro teachers $86,560.

"Since the additional money required to finance the proposed salary increase act," said the committee's report, "has been estimated by the state department of education to be $1,101,800 for salary purposes, it will be seen that there is a margin of $80,160 which may be used to take care of the probable increase in the number of teachers holding college degrees or college training extensive enough to qualify them for salary increases."

The committee report noted that it had considered both the salary increase plan and the merit system "in the light of recent federal court decisions respecting racial discrimination in the salaries of teachers and also in the light of opinions by the attorney general respecting the authority of the state board of education."

The United States supreme court has held that there can be no differation in salaries for teachers for racial reasons.

Governor Maybank said he felt "certain that though the various agreements, there will be no court action that might cost the state as much as $3,000,000 or that might have created a financial condition that would have been disastrous to our educational institutions."

He did not elaborate on the "various agreements" but presumably referred to some understandings with Negro educators to the effect the Negroes would not press court actions at once to force immediate salary equality of Negro teachers with white teachers.

Regarding the board's authority to prescribe disturbance of state aid salaries, the committee report said:

". . . . It is the belief of the committee that the state board of education has the authority to distribue moneys available for state aid to schools in such a way that the maximum limits set by law will be observed, but that the law does not make mandatory the payment for all of the maximum salaries designated.

"It believes, therefore, that it is within the authority of the state board of education to prescribe aid salaries based on different amounts of training. It is on this assumption that the committee is making its recommendation."

The committee's future plans for study of a new merit system for the classification and certification of teachers were contained in the following section of its report:

"The second question considered by the committee (the merit system) is one that will call for an extensive study to be participated in by representatives of all the educational interests in the state, both white and Negro.

"Your committee will need advisiory committees should be made tailed studies of various aspects of certification and teacher-training.

"The membership of these advisory committees should be made up of college teachers, public school teachers, principals, superintendents, members of the state department of education, members of the South Carolina Education association and other groups within the state.

"A plan for certification of teachers must involve a plan for training teachers to meet initial certification requirements and for improving teachers in service so as to constantly upgrade and to professionalize teaching.

Florence, S. C. Morning News
November 23, 1941

General Assembly To Discuss State Employes Salaries

COLUMBIA, Nov. 22—(AP)—Whether to increase salaries of state employes at an expense of tens of thousands of dollars is a prominent question posed for the General Assembly when it meets in January.

State institutions, departments and agencies have, with few exceptions, requested pay increases ranging around ten per cent although some officials' salaries would be far more greatly augmented if the legislature approved reuests made of the budget commission.

The biggest pay boost was asked by the University for its president, Dr. J. Rion McKissick. He receives $6,001 a year salary paid by the state. Only the governor and the superintendent of the state hospital are paid that.

Here are increases asked for the top persons in most other state-operated organizations, listing the present salary and then the amount proposed:

Code Commissioner, $2,400 and $3,100; Confederate relic room custodian, $1,320 and $1,500; superintendent of education, secretary of state, attorney general, adjutant general, comptroller general, commissioner of agriculture and state treasurer, $5,000 and $5,000 (cq); health officer, $5,000 and $5,500; tax commission chairman, $6,000 and $6,500; the remaining two tax commissioners, $3,500 each and $4,000 each; insurance commissioner, $4,000 and $4,000; dean of medical college, $3,600 and $5,000.

Industrial commissioners (five) $3,000 each and $3,600 each; al state administrative public welfare salaries (not indicated individually), $98,901 and $120,840; salaries in county administrative offices offices of public welfare department, $330,665 and $465,300.

President of the Citadel, $6,000 and $6,000; president of Clemson college, $6,000 and $6,400; president of Winthrop college, $6,000 and $6,600; president of Negro college, $3,240 and $3,600; superintendent and treasurer of John de la Howe school, $3,340 and $3,340; superintendent and treasurer for the deaf and blind school, $3,360 and $3,624; director of schoolbook commission $3,300 and $3,300; secretary of historical commission, $3,120 and $3,600.

State librarian, $2,400 and $2,400; superintendent of state hospital, 7,500 and $7,500; superintendent of training school, $5,000 and $5,000; superintendent of sanatorium, $4,750 and $6,000; superintendent of Confederate infirmary, $2,100 and $2,400; supervisor of children's bureau, $2,000 and $2,400.

Superintendent of penitentiary, $5,400 and $5,400; superintendent and treasurer of boys' industrial school $3,340 and $3,340; superintendent and treasurer of girls' industrial school, $2,700 and $2,700; superintendent and treasurer of Negro boys' industrial school, $2,836 and $2,836; state auditor, $3,900 and $3,900; secretary of joint committee on printing, $2,700 and $3,300; state service officer, $3,000 and $3,300; state forester, $4,500 and $4,500; labor commissioner, $3,600 and $4,200; chief game warden $4,000 and $4,000; public service commission chairman, $3,036 and $3,236; six remaining public service commissioners, $2,801 each and $3,000 each; aeronautics commission director, $4,200 and $4,201; state electrician $3,300 and $3,300; secretary of sinking fund commission, $3,300 and $3,600; director of defense council, $4,800 and $4,800.

Globe and Independent
Nashville. Tenn.

Attorney Looby And Associates Take Case TO U. S. Court

APR 18 1941

APR 18 1941

Petition Charges Defendants Violate 14th Amendment To Federal Constitution; Seeks Justice For Negro Teachers

The second step in what may prove to be a historic and unprecedented legal battle, to get the salaries of teachers in Nashville's public schools equalized on the basis of the qualifications of the individual teachers, was taken in the District Federal Court, presided over by His Honor, Judge Elmer Davies, on Saturday of last week, when Attorney Z. Alexander Looby, on behalf of Harold E. Thomas, a teacher in Pearl Junior Elementary School filed papers in a lawsuit in which Superintendent W. A. Bass and the members of the City Board of Education are made defendants.

The first step to get salaries equalized was taken on February 6 of this year when a plea was made to Mayor Thomas Cummings and to Superintendent Bass and each individual member of the Board of Education, asking that the attorney for Thomas be allowed to appear before city officials and set forth the claims of colored teachers for an equalized salary schedule.

APR 18 1941

As set forth in the lawsuit, none of the officials who received petitions made any reply to the plea except Mayor Thomas L. Cummings, who wrote a letter to the attorney stating that the matter had been referred to the Board of Education for adjustment. The legal procedure required, it is stated that for the petitions to give ample time to hear from the Board of Education before filing a lawsuit. This, it is contended, had been done when, on last Saturday. The lawsuit papers were filed in Federal Court.

APR 18 1941

The matter of discriminating against teachers on account of their race and color is set forth as in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment "to the Constitution of the United States Constitution, Attorney Looby and his associate counsel set forth Citations of Federal statutes are given and also citations are given to show that the discrimination is even in violation of "The Constitution and Laws of the Commonwealth of Tennessee."

Three of the most prominent Negro lawyers of the United States are listed as associates of Attorney Looby in the lawsuit. They are William H. Hastie, native Tennessean, a graduate of Knoxville College, who several years ago was appointed a Federal Judge of the Virgin Islands by President Roosevelt, but who recently resigned to become Dean of Law at Howard University; Leon A. Ransom of Washington, and Thurgood Marshall of New York. All three have successfully fought teacher salary cases in Virginia, North Carolina and other Southern States since the mandate by the Supreme Court of the United States was issued in this matter. It is their contention that equalizing salaries has become a purely administrative duty since the Supreme Court's decision and that it is arbitrary upon the part of Boards of Education, anywhere, when they refuse to adjust salaries in line with what the highest legal tribunal of the nation has decreed.

The contention made by many Nashvillians that the City Board of Eduation has been unfair and arbitrary in not adjusting teacher salaries, is given support in one part of the lawsuit petition which is as follows:

APR 18 1941

"Prior to the month of March, 1939, on motion of the Honorable Harry Hite (6th Ward Councilman), the City Council of Nashville made an investigation of the discriminatory practices of the Board of Education and submitted its findings to said Board with the request that the Board should discontinue such practices, but the defendant Board has ignored the request of the City Council and has continued its discriminatory practices.

"On the sixth day of February, 1941, plaintiff filed with the Mayor of Nashville and the defendants a petition on behalf of himself and all other teachers and principale similarly situated, praying for a hearing on his petition and that at said hearing he and all other Negro teachers and principals be placed upon a salary schedule equal to that of the white teachers and principals employed by the Board of Education and that they be paid such back salary as may be due them. All of the defendants have ignored the plaintiff's petition. On the 12th day of March, 1941, plaintiff, through his attorney, wrote to the Mayor and to the defendant, Louis H. Hibbits, as Chairman of the Board of Education, calling their attention to this petition. The Mayor answered stating that the matter had been referred to the Board but the Chairman has not favored the plaintiff with a reply.

"Defendant W. A. Bass is Superintendent of the Schools of Nashville and holds office pursuant to the Constitution and laws of Tennessee as an administrative officer of the public free school system of Tennessee. W. A. Bass is made defendant herein and is sued in his official capaity."

Other members of the City Board of Education, besides Mr. Bass, who are made defendants in the lawsuit are as follows:

APR 18 1941

Louis H. Hibbitts, Baxter Cato, Patrick A. Murray, Dr. John M. Cullum, Mrs. Delbert M. Mann, Rev. Prentice A. Pugh, Mrs. E. F. Langford, Neil H. Wright and Thomas C. Young.

Harold E. Thomas, in whose name the lawsuit is brought, has been a teacher in the city system of six years. While there is not a single teacher in the system who would not like to have his or her salary "equalized," rumor has it that several of the "older heads" have gone to authorities expressed their opposition to the lawsuit and stated that they felt they were getting all the salary their services were worth. This action by the so-called "traitors" is believed to have had some effect in causing the Board of Education to ignore the petition sent to them. One official is reported to have expressed the feeling that Negro teachers should not have their salaries equalized because they had a "lower standard of living" than white teachers. He is said to have ignored the "point of order" made by a fair-minded white teacher who stated that the qualifications of teachers, and not their "standard of living" should be the guide in adjusting salaries.

In the lawsuit, the petition asks that the Court issue a permanent injuntion restraining and enjoining the Board of Eduaction from making any distinction in salary payments on the grounds of race or color; that a Special Master ascertain and report on the amount of back salary due plaintiff; that the Court allow him his costs and other alternative relief that appears to the Court to be equitable and just.

APR 18 1941

The petition further prays that, "This Court enter a judgment or decree declaring that the distribution by the defendants of that portion of the public school fund for teachers' salaries on a basis whereby plaintiff Thomas and other Negro teachers with equal qualifications and experience and performing essentially the same duties and services solely because of their race or color denies to plaintiff Thomas and others similarly situated the equal protection of the law and due process of law guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution and therefore is unconstitutional and void."

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Chattanooga Teachers Demand Equal Salaries

APR 26 1941

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—The Negro teachers of this city filed last week a petition with the board of education asking equal pay with white teachers. This is the usual preliminary step taken by teachers and if negotiations with the board of education fail, a law suit generally follows.

Knoxville, Tenn. News Sentinel
April 14, 1941

ADOPT $712,600 BUDGET FOR SCHOOLS

Court "Passes" on Question of Boosting Negro Teachers.

Knox County Court today adopted a school board budget totaling $712,600 plus an additional 3-cent levy for building maintenance and equipment, and, after a warm dispute, rejected a motion to appropriate $2000 extra to equalize the salaries of colored teachers.

The school budget represents an increase of approximately $5000 over last year. Superintendent L. H. Brickey told the court that the budget made no provisions for any sharp increase in enrollment, and added that because many students were leaving school to take jobs in defense industries, and others to enter the armed services, he expected no increase in school attendance.

Nashville, Tenn. Banner
April 16, 1941

Teachers' Pay Discrimination Cited in Suit

A suit asking that the City Board of Education be enjoined from making any distinction on grounds of race or color in fixing salaries paid its Negro school teachers was on file today in Federal Court here.

The action, filed by Harold E. Thomas, Negro teacher of Pearl Junior High School, on behalf of teachers and principals of the city's Negro schools, asks a judgment declaring their rights and an injunction to stop payment of Negro teachers on salary schedules lower than those for white teachers with the same qualifications and experience.

It attacks as a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution the payment of Negro teachers on a basis different from that of white teachers.

The complaint sets out that the City Council prior to 1939, made an investigation of alleged discriminations by the Board of Education and asked the board to discontinue them, but that the defendant board ignored the Council's request.

On February the complaint states, the plaintiff filed a petition with the Mayor and Board of Education asking equal salaries and the payment of back salary, but that all the defendants ignored the petition, and that on March 12, 1941, the plaintiff wrote the Mayor and Louis Hibbitts, as chairman of the board, calling attention to the matter. The Mayor said it had been referred to the board, but the chairman had not replied, the suit contends.

A speedy hearing was asked of Federal Judge Elmer Davies, and the suit seeks to refer to a special master the matter of ascertaining and reporting on whether back salary is due the plaintiff. Thomas alleges the minimum annual salary paid Negro teachers of his qualifications is $1,110, while white teachers of the same qualifications are paid $1,350.

The action names Hibbitts, chairman, and members of the School Board and W. A. Bass, superintendent of city schools, as defendants.

Nashville, Tenn. Tennessean
April 17, 1941

Negro Teacher Asks Equal Pay

Board of Education Named in Federal Court Case Here

Equal salaries for Negro and white teachers in the Nashville city schools are sought in a suit filed in federal court by Harold E. Thomas, Negro, teacher in Pearl Junior High School.

Alleging that the Negro teachers are being discriminated against by being paid lower salaries than white teachers of the same qualifications and experience, Thomas asks that the City Board of Education be enjoined from making any distinction "solely on the grounds of race and color" in fixing the pay of white and Negro teachers.

He also asks the court to hold that the practice of setting lower salary schedules for Negro teachers in Nashville city schools is a denial of the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

The plaintiff asks, in addition, that a special master be instructed to "ascertain and report on the amount of back salary due plaintiff."

Thomas alleges that the minimum annual salary being paid white male school teachers with the same qualifications and duties as his own is $1,350, but that the minimum salary for Negro teachers of the same class is $1,110.

The bill of complaint declares that the plaintiff recently filed a petition with the mayor and with the defendant school board seeking establishment of equal salaries for Negro and white teachers and the payment of "such back salary" as may be due the Negro teachers. Thomas alleges that the school board has ignored the petition and he states the mayor has said he has referred the matter to the school board.

The bill of complaint also states that some time ago the City Council investigated "discriminatory practices of the Board of Education" and asked the board to discontinue the alleged practices, but that this request has been ignored.

Segregation Brief Will Be Filed Monday

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 16—(INS)—A brief to defend segregation laws in Southern states will be filed in the United States Supreme Court Monday, according to Thomas S. Lawson, Alabama attorney general.

A fight against the segregation laws was launched by Arthur W. Mitchell, Negro congressman from Illinois, after he was forced to leave a sleeping car when it entered Arkansas several years ago.

States represented in the brief were listed as Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Kentucky.

Knoxville, Tenn. News Sentinel
April 17, 1941

NEGRO TEACHER PROTESTS

By United Press

NASHVILLE, April 17—Harold E. Thomas, a Negro teacher at Pearl Junior High School for Negroes here, filed suit in Federal Court demanding that the city board of education be enjoined from fixing white teachers' salaries higher than Negro teachers.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

FEDERAL COURT TO RULE ON ISSUES

MAY 3 - 1941

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 1.—Equal salaries for Negro and white teachers in Nashville city schools are sought in a suit filed today in United States District court by Harold E. Thomas, teacher in Pearl high school.

Alleging that the Negro teachers are being discriminated against by being paid lower salaries than white teachers of the same qualifications and experience, Thomas asks that the city board of education be enjoined from making "any distinction solely on the grounds of race and color," in fixing the pay of white and Negro teachers' salaries.

MAY 3 - 1941

$250 A YEAR DIFFERENCE

He also asks the court to hold that the practice of setting lower salary schedules for Negro teachers in Nashville city schools is a denial of the equal protection of laws guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constiltution.

The plaintiff asks in addition that a special master be appointed to "ascertain and report on the amount of back salary due the plaintiff."

Thomas alleges the minimum salary being paid white school teachers, male, with the same qualifications as his own, is $1,350 a year, and added that the minimum salary for Negro teachers of the same class is $1,100.

LISTED FOR NEXT COURT TERM

The bill of complaint declares that the plaintiff recently filed a petition with Mayor Thomas L. Cummings of Nashville and with the defendant school board, seeking establishment of equal salaries for Negro and white teachers and the payment of such back salaries as may be due the Negro teachers.

Thomas alleges the school board has ignored the petition and he stated that Mayor Cummings "has referred the matter to the school board."

MAY 3 - 1941

The bill of complaint also states that sometime ago, the Nashville City Council investigated "discriminatory practices of the board of education," and asked the board to discontinue the alleged practices, but added that this request has been ignored.

Thomas said that he hoped to recover more than $1,000 for himself and several hundred dollars apiece for each of the Negro teachers in the Nashville school system.

Federal Judge Elmer Davis said the case should come up for trial at the next term of Federal court in Nashville, late in May.

The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

No Race Bias In Tennessee Teachers Pay

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 30.—A single salary scale for teachers without reference to race or color will be established by the Chattanooga board of education, it was announced here September 20.

The new plan was revealed in the U. S. District Court for the Eastern District of Tennessee before Judge Leslie R. Darr when NAACP attorneys for the teachers and counsel for the school board appeared to argue court jurisdiction.

OCT 4 1941

In addition to the new salary scale, the school board stated that 62 per cent of the $40,000 now in the treasury marked for increases in salaries for all teachers, will go to Negro teachers.

The board also agreed to take steps for complete equalization of teachers' salaries under the new schedule.

Nashville Tenn. Banner
May 2, 1941

Negro School Teacher Suit To Be Studied

City Attorney W. C. Cherry has called a conference of fifteen city attorneys from Tennessee's largest cities to meet next Thursday in his office at 2 o'clock to discuss the issue raised by the recent suit of a Negro school teacher against the Board of Education, charging that his constitutional rights were violated because the city pays him a lower wage than white teachers receive.

Cherry said yesterday that he had prepared an answer to the suit and since the question raised was a matter of vital importance to other Tennessee municipalities he had asked city attorneys to review the argument presented in his answer and give them the benefit of their criticisms.

The recently filed action was by Harold E. Thomas, against Louis Hibbitts, president of the Board of Education, and members of the board. The plaintiff is a Negro teacher in one of the city's Negro schools.

Cherry said that his argument will insist that there is no violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution which gives the Negro equal rights, because the first teachers in Nashville in Negro schools in 1866 were white teachers and they were paid a lower salary than was received by white teachers in white schools.

It will be Cherry's insistence that although Negro children are entitled to the same educational privileges given to white children, the contract for wages made by the Board of Education with teachers, janitors or even scrub women is a matter between the employe and the Board of Education, and does not involve any constitutional rights of Negro pupils or teachers.

City attorneys expected to attend the conference and the towns and cities they represent include:

David Rhea, Pulaski; J. M. Holliday, Camden; Marion G. Evans, Memphis; J. W. Anderson, Chattanooga; H. L. Webster, Columbia; and representatives from Humboldt, McMinnville, Dyersburg and several other larger Tennessee cities.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

COURT FIGHT GETS PROMISE FROM BOARD

OCT 4 1941

$24,800 In Treasury To Be Used For Salaries Of Negroes

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—A single salary scale for teachers without reference to race or color will be established by the Chattanooga board of education, it was announced here September 20.

The new plan was revealed in the U. S. District court for the Eastern District of Tennessee before Judge Leslie R. Darr when NAACP attorneys for the teachers and counsel for the school boad appeared to argue court jurisdiction.

In addition to the new salary scale, the school board stated that 62 per cent of the $40,000 now in the treasury marked for increases in salaries for all teachers, will go to Negro teachers.

The board also agreed to take steps for complete equalization of teachers' salaries under the new schedule. but stated that it will "take a little time."

Attorneys for the plaintiff would not discuss the case on such a promise, but had it place don the inactive calendar so that it may be called up again at any time. This means that if the board does not make good its promise the complaint may again be heard in court.

The teachers were represented by W. Henry Elmore of this city and Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the NAACP.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

City Attorney To Oppose Equalizing System's Salaries

Report Board Of Education Member Is Seeking To Have Case "Rock Along And Become Forgotten"

No date has been set for arguments in the Federal District Court here of the lawsuit for the equalization of teachers' salaries, it was learned this week from the office of the Hon. W. C. Cherry, City Attorney, who will defend the action of the City Board of Education in its failure to equalize salaries.

However, Mr. Cherry, according to a statement carried last week in a local daily newspaper, has about completed his defense of the board and it appears there will be an interesting argument in the lawsuit, hinging on the question of whether or not the Board of Education has acted in violation of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution when it refuses to make the salaries of colored teachers equal to those of white teachers of similar qualifications. Mr. Cherry, known as one of the ablest lawyers in Nashville, has unearthed the fact that the colored schools of Nashville, when they were opened back in 1866, had white teachers and that these white teachers were paid smaller salaries for teaching Negro pupils than similarly qualified white teachers were paid for teaching white pupils. The newspaper article quoted Mr. Cherry as holding that the Board of Education, to comply to the 14th Amendment, is only required to see to it that Negro pupils have facilities for their education equal to that of white pupils, but as for the salaries of teachers, the Board is empowered to pay them and also janitors of the schools, according to any schedule the Board sees fit to make.

Another interesting angle to the plan of defense, reportedly decided upon by Attorney Cherry, is that he will call to Nashville a number of city attorneys of Tennessee and get their ideas on how to defend the action of their boards of education in maintaining a lower pay schedule for colored teachers than that maintained for white teachers. It is understood that most of the other cities of the state will be faced by lawsuits like the one that has been filed here if the colored teachers here are victorious.

One exception noted in the list of city attorneys to be called here for conference with Mr. Cherry is the one at Knoxville. This, evidently, is because Knoxville many months ago disposed of any necessity for defending a lawsuit, when the Superintendent and Board of Education of Knoxville equalized salaries.

Attorney Z. Alexander Looby, chief counsel for Nashville colored teachers, was out of the city this week, taking part in the lawsuit of the A. M. E. Church before a federal court in Cincinnati. He was unavailable for any comment on the point raised by Attorney Cherry with reference to the discrimination in salaries paid in the city schools here when Negro pupils were taught by white teachers. It is said, and may be a contention of Attorney Looby, that when colored schools were first established they were maintained by funds raised exclusively from the taxation of Negro property. This fact, it is believed, will be pointed out to kill Mr. Cherry's chief argument for maintaining salary schedules as at present.

The chief contention of Attorney Looby and associate counsel is that since the U. S. Supreme Court decision, the qualization of salaries is manditory and is purely an administrative duty, resting upon the Board of Education. It is also held that the City Council, which elects the members of the Board, more than two years ago made a report on teachers' salaries, and on motion of the Hon. Harry Hite, Councilman from the 6th Ward, voted an order to the Board of Education to equalize salaries. It is held that the matter could have been disposed of long ago had Superintendent W. A. Bass taken the initiative in the matter. There are members of the Board of Education who, it is said were in favor of adjusting the salary question without a lawsuit, but the matter has just "rocked along" waiting on the action of the Superintendent.

There was a rumor in circulation this week that the whole matter of the lawsuit would be allowed to "rock along" and the suit would not be pressed in court, but the rumor appears to be without foundation.

It was learned, however, from a reliable source, that at least one member of the Board of Education has interested himself in trying to get the lawsuit either withdrawn or allowed to be forgotten. This member is reported as saying that finances of the Board are low and that it is impossible to raise a reported $75,000, the sum needed to equalize salaries. That it would be necessary to reduce the salaries of white teachers in order to adopt an equalization schedule. According to this report, it appears that members of the Board of Education feel that they are getting the blame for not equalizing salaries when the chief blame rests on Mayor Cummings and the members of the City Council.

Inquiry at the City Hall elicits the information that very generally among officials there is a feeling that the lawsuit is going to be won by the colored teachers and the feeling is that the Board of Education is solely responsible for not obeying the instructions given back in 1939.

It is absolutely positive, it is learned, that the Board of Education will not be permitted to cut the salaries of white teachers in order to make an equalized schedule. There is a strong opposition to cutting white teachers' salaries among the colored teachers as there is even among the white teachers. There is, however, considerable talk among teachers of both races that persons at the top in the educational system are being paid too high, considering the low salaries being paid both white and colored teachers, many of whom contend that the highly paid officials do not do near as hard work as the class room teachers.

One of those opposing the lawsuit, it is reported is circulating the rumor that if salaries are equalized it will "cause a race riot." There seemed to be nothing to this except a ruse of a certain of official that is opposed to good pay for anybody except the upper class executives in the educational system.

It is contended that the salaries of teachers, both white and colored, in Nashville are lower than those of Knoxville, a city not as large or financially strong as Nashville.

Thus the discussion about the month-old lawsuit goes on and will possibly continue until the case is settled by the decision of Federal Judge Elmer Davis.

18v-1941
Chattanooga, Tenn. Daily Times
February 14, 1941

NEGROES FIGHT CHANGE IN TEACHERS' PENSIONS

The executive committee of the Mountain City Teachers' federation, colored teachers' group, issued a statement last night following a meeting, expressing disapproval of the bill before the state legislature to change the provisions of the present teachers' pension law.

The statement, signed by C. B. Robinson, president of local union No. 428, American Federation of Teachers, follows:

"We must protest what we feel is an unwarranted attack upon the Negro teachers of Chattanooga. The clause that will reduce the minimum pension from $60 a month to $40 a month will affect practically all Negro teachers. In the absenc of an explanation as to why the minimum is to be changed, the only belief we can have is that the bill is being changed because the minimum monthly payment set forth in the first bill is higher than half of what most Negro teachers are making and will make, if the present and past salaries are good criteria for judging.

"The salaries now among our teachers are pitifully low. It is a job to eke out a living now with these low salaries, and if we are forced to live on half our salaries, after we have given the city the service of our best years, it will mean absolute poverty in our old age. Our local union feels that in this crisis there is a dire need for the greatest unity, which can only be brought about by progressive legislation.

"Therefore, we ask the representatives of Hamilton county not to change the minimum monthly payment of $60 as now provided by the pension insurance law."

TENNESSEE

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

Harold E. Thomas Of Pearl Jr. School Takes Initiative

FEB 28 1941

Action Started Here Is In Line With South-Wide Movement To End Custom Outlawed By U. S. Supreme Court

Action to bring Nashville in line with Knoxville, Louisville and other progressive cities, in the matter of paying equal salaries to equally qualified school teachers, was begun on Monday of this week, when Attorney Z. Alexander Looby, on behalf of Harold E. Thomas, a teacher in Pearl Junior Elementary School, filed a petition with Mayor Thomas L. Cummings, Supt. W. A. Bass and the City Board of Education, asking to be heard in a plea for ending the discriminatory pay-scale that prevails here.

Letters containing the petition were sent by registered mail on Monday and it was expected the authorities would make an early decision to hear the attorney for the complainants set forth his plea. If the authorities grant the plea that has been made, it makes certain that there will be no lawsuit here on the equal salary issue as has been the case in a number of other places. Some of the best attorneys here say that a lawsuit on equal salaries can not avoid being won by the petitioners because of the decision recently set forth by the Supreme Court of the United States which maintains that there can be no discrimination in educational opportunities on racial grounds.

FEB 28 1941

The petition as filed by Attorney Looby holds that failure of the authorities to establish a uniform salary scale heretofore, and following their knowledge of the Supreme Court decision, entitles all teachers affected to "back pay" from the time an equal pay schedule should have been put in force. The petition asks a lump sum payment of the back salaries.

The text of the petition as filed by Attorney Looby is as follows:

To Hon. Thomas L. Cummings, Mayor of the City of Nashville; the Hon. W. A. Bass, Superintendent of Schools, City of Nashville; the Board of Education of the City of Nashville and the Members of said board:

PETITION OF HAROLD E. THOMAS

The petitioner in behalf of himself and all other persons similarly situated respectfully shows unto this Honorable board:

FEB 28 1941

FIRST—That he is colored, a person of African descent and Negro blood. He is a regular teacher in one of the City schools of Nashville, Tennessee having been employed by this Board as such teacher. He has been in the employ of the City of Nashville as a teacher in the public schools for six years. This petition is filed in his own behalf and also on behalf of other persons, namely teachers and principals in the colored schools of Nashville, Tennessee similarly situated and effected, as will hereinafter more fully appear.

SECOND—That over a long period of years the Board of Education and members thereof, have consistently pursued and maintained, and are now maintaining the policy, custom and usage of paying Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Nashville less salary than white teachers and principals in said public school system possessing the same professional qualifications, certificates and experience, exercising the same duties, and performing the same services as teachers and principals. Such discrimination is being practiced against the petitioner and all other Negro teachers and principals in Nashville, Tennessee, and is based solely upon their race and color. Schedules of the salaries showing these inequalities are part of the records of the Board of Education and are, therefore, not enumerated in this petition.

FEB 28 1941

THIRD—This petitioner is advised that in enforcing and maintaining the policy, regulation, custom, and usage by which petitioner and other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Nashville are uniformly paid lower salaries than white teachers and principals possessing the same professional qualifications and certificates, having the same experience, exercising the same duties and performing essentially the same services, solely on account of the race or color of the plaintiffs, defendants, as administrative agent of the State of Tennessee, have violated and are continuing to violate the equal protection of the laws and due process clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, and Sections 41 and 43 of Title 8 of the United Code. To the extent that defendants in enforcing said discriminatory system are acting under color of statute, regulation, policy, custom or usage, said statute, regulation, policy custor or usage is void and unconstitutional, and to the extent that defendants may be acting without benefit of statute, regulation, policy, custom or usage, their acts are nevertheless acts of the State, similarly void and unconstitutional.

FOURTH—This petitioner is further advised that he and all other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Nashville, Tennessee are and have been entitled to a salary equal with those of white teachers and principals possessing the same educational training and certificates, and that the Board of Education and City of Nashville are now indebted to him and to all other Negro teachers and principals for back salary sufficient to equalize their salary covering the entire period during which he has been in the employ of the City of Nashville.

The petitioner, therefore prays this Honorable Board that he and his attorney be permitted to appear before this Honorable Board for a hearing upon this petition, and at said hearing he and all other Negro teachers and principals be immediately placed upon a salary schedule equal to that of the white teachers and principals employed by the Board of Education as teachers and principals in the public schools of Nashville, Tennessee, and that the Board of Education certify their names and amount due them for back salary to the Comptroller of the City of Nashville for payment.

This the 24th day of February, 1941.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tenn. Seeks to Duck Equal Schools Rule

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — To avoid admitting six applicants to the graduate and law schools of the University of Tennessee, it is rumored that a committee from the university has been working on curricula for graduate work at Tennessee State College to be put into effect in the fall.

Aug 8 1942

Reports that plans are also underway to offer out-of-State, all-expense scholarships to the six, will not deter the NAACP in its fight for equal educational opportunities in the State, according to Leon A. Ransom of the association's national legal committee and Z. Alexander Looby of the local branch.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Salary Case Comes Up In Chattanooga

Clarence Robinson Files Action Against Board

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(SNS)—Last Saturday, September 20, in the District Court of the United States, Eastern District of Tennessee, argument was heard on the teachers' salary case filed by Clarence B. Robinson, representing himself and the Chattanooga Teachers' Association, against the school board of this city.

This is a preliminary hearing to determine if the court has jurisdiction over this case. W. Henry Elmore is local attorney for the teachers; Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will also represent the complainants.

On his way back to the New York office, Mr. Marshall will stop in Washington, D. C., for meetings with members of the national legal committee of the NAACP and with Attorney Prentice Thomas on the suit filed against the University of Kentucky by Charles Eubanks and on the Jeffersonville, Indiana, school case.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

ATTORNEY LOOBY TO FILE SUIT ON SCHOOL SALARIES

MAR 2 1 1941

Action Against Supt. Bass and Board May Be Taken In Federal Court Within 10 Days

Attorney Z. Alexander Looby announced this week that, in all probability suit will be filed in the District Federal Court here within a period of ten days in an effort to secure for colored teachers in the Nashville Public Schools the equal salaries to which they are said to be entitled under the law as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States. MAR 2 1 1941

The lawsuit, if filed, will be against Superintendent W. A. Bass and the City Board of Education. Mayor Thomas L. Cummings, it is said, who, like Mr. Bass and other members of the Board of Education, received a copy of the petition asking to be allowed to discuss the matter with officials, has written to Attorney Looby, stating that he had referred the entire matter to Mr. Bass and the Board. No reply. whatever, it is announced, has been received from Mr. Bass or any member of the Board, and this has provided the necessity for the next step that is taken in the fight for equal salaries—a lawsuit in the Federal Court. There is a possibility, it is said, that Mr. Bass and his associates will consent to hear Attorney Looby in a discussion of the matter and set a date for the hearing. If this is done it may obviate the necessity of a lawsuit, or at least postpone the date when same will be filed.

The disposition among city officials, it is learned, is to turn over to Supt. Bass the whole problem of working out a satisfactory settlement of the salary schedule for teachers. This matter, when first brought before the City Council a year ago was favorably reported on by that body, to the extent of requesting the Superintendent to work out the arrangement for equal salaries. Why the Superintendent never attended to it, is not known, however it is said to be a matter of embarrassment to those who had become reconciled to a fair settlement of the salary tangle brought on by the Supreme Court edict and hoped it could be settled without a lawsuit. It is said the law is one that can not be successfully attacked by any officials opposed to equal salaries. A long drawn out lawsuit, however, may postpone the date when the new salary schedule goes into effect. It will be the contention of Attorney Looby, when he argues the lawsuit, that the Board of Education should pay equal salaries from the time that the schedule should have been adopted, which is presumed to be the date when the City Council gave the order to Supt. Bass. MAR 2 1 1941

One of the things that makes for a generally all round "good feeling" in the lawsuit, if one is filed, is that there are members of the Board of Education known to be in favor of the new schedule, and white city teachers have expressed the feeling that all teachers of the city ought to be paid according to their qualifications. There is known to be among colored teachers no desire to see the board work out a salary schedule that will reduce the pay of any white teachers as was done in Alabama, where a hocus-pocus settlement of this problem was attempted by officials, who evidently are not in favor of paying just salaries even to white teachers. The feeling is that salaries ought to be equalized by the Board asking for and getting the necessary money to settle the salary problem satisfactorily.

Cleveland, Tenn. Banner
March 17, 1941

NEGRO TEACHER PAY IS PROBLEM FOR THE SOUTH

Tennessee One of Few States In South Little Affected by Ruling of Equal Pay.

ATLANTA, Ga., Mar. 17.—(U.P.)—Educators today believed Federal aid would be necessary if Southern States complied soon with the recent Supreme Court ruling that Negro teachers in public schools be paid salaries equal to those of white instructors.

Compliance with the ruling would increase the pay of Negro teachers. It was estimated the increase in Negro salaries would cost ten state governments in the South more than $10,000,000 annually. Additional costs of the increase would fall upon local school districts.

Officials of state educational systems in the South also are bothered by the possibility that it may be necessary to expend large sums to build, equip and maintain higher institutions of learning to conform to the U. S. Supreme Court opinion that Negroes are furnished equal facilities for training for the professons, such as medicine and law.

Most Southern State educators would say little publicly on the two problems.

Public school officials from Southern States gathered here this week-end and discussed the problems with representatives of the general education board. Those participating in the meeting would not reveal details or conclusions of the discussions.

Some believed an agreement could be reached with Negro teachers to increase their salaries gradually until they equalled those of whites. North Carolina has started such a program.

"The discussions were informal and not on means of circumventing the Supreme Court ruling—which isn't possible—but on chances of obtaining Federal aid to raise both white and Negro teachers' salaries," one of those participating in the week-end meeting said.

"In order to insure a uniform salary schedule, I estimate $1,000,000 a year would have to be added to the State salary fund and the only way I see to meet this would be through increased Federal aid," John E. Coxe, Louisiana superintendent of education, said in Baton Rouge.

The benefit to individual Negro teachers would vary, both in states and local districts. It was estimated the individual benefit would exceed $500 in some instances and probably would average $200 a year.

B. O. Duggan, Tennessee commissioner of education, said in Nashville that the decision would not have much effect in that state since the Tennessee board of education based its salary scales on training and experience and made no distinction between white and Negro teachers. Local districts in a few counties might be affected.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

SALARIES OF TEACHERS IN NASHVILLE!

APR 1 8 1941

Is There Discrimination, According To Figures Given? If So, Does This Violate The U. S. Constitution?

In the lawsuit filed in Federal Court Saturday, April 12, the schedule of monthly salaries as paid to white and to Negro teachers is set forth for the first four years of service. The schedule affords the following comparisons for those who have taught for as long as four years:

TYPE OF WORK	WHITE	COLORED
Grade teachers, Academic and Domestic Science	$135	$110
Teachers, Carpentry and Woodwork	135	115
Supervisors, Academic, Primary, Music, Manual Tr., etc.	200	135
High School Principal	400	250
High School Teachers	175	115
Junior H. S. Principals	350	150
Grade Principals: (Under 500 Pupils)	160	125
Grade Principals: (Over 500 Pupils)	300	142

APR 1 8 1941

No comparison is made in the salaries of General Supervisors. There is none for Negro Schools. Following the death of Prof. E. W. Benton, several years ago, the Board failed to appoint another Negro Supervisor to fill the vacancy. The work is now being done by a white supervisor, it is reported.

THE FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT

The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States whose provisions, it is charged the Board of Education is violating when it discriminates against teachers because of their race or color in the matter of paying salaries is as follows:

"Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." APR 1 8 1941

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

ATTORNEY LOOBY TO FILE SUIT ON SCHOOL SALARIES

MAR 21 1941

Action Against Supt. Bass and Board May Be Taken In Federal Court Within 10 Days

Attorney Z. Alexander Looby announced this week that, in all probability suit will be filed in the District Federal Court here within a period of ten days in an effort to secure for colored teachers in the Nashville Public Schools the equal salaries to which they are said to be entitled under the law as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States. MAR 21 1941

The lawsuit, if filed, will be against Superintendent W. A. Bass and the City Board of Education. Mayor Thomas L. Cummings, it is said, who, like Mr. Bass and other members of the Board of Education, received a copy of the petition asking to be allowed to discuss the matter with officials, has written to Attorney Looby, stating that he had referred the entire matter to Mr. Bass and the Board. No reply. whatever, it is announced, has been received from Mr. Bass or any member of the Board, and this has provided the necessity for the next step that is taken in the fight for equal salaries—a lawsuit in the Federal Court. There is a possibility, it is said, that Mr. Bass and his associates will consent to hear Attorney Looby in a discussion of the matter and set a date for the hearing. If this is done it may obviate the necessity of a lawsuit, or at least postpone the date when same will be filed.

The disposition among city officials, it is learned, is to turn over to Supt. Bass the whole problem of working out a satisfactory settlement of the salary schedule for teachers. This matter, when first brought before the City Council a year ago was favorably reported on by that body, to the extent of requesting the Superintendent to work out the arrangement for equal salaries. Why the Superintendent never attended to it, is not known, however it is said to be a matter of embarrassment to those who had become reconciled to a fair settlement of the salary tangle brought on by the Supreme Court edict and hoped it could be settled without a lawsuit. It is said the law is one that can not be successfully attacked by any officials opposed to equal salaries. A long drawn out lawsuit, however, may postpone the date when the new salary schedule goes into effect. It will be the contention of Attorney Looby, when he argues the lawsuit, that the Board of Education should pay equal salaries from the time that the schedule should have been adopted, which is presumed to be the date when the City Council gave the order to Supt. Bass. MAR 21 1941

One of the things that makes for a generally all round "good feeling" in the lawsuit, if one is filed, is that there are members of the Board of Education known to be in favor of the new schedule, and white city teachers have expressed the feeling that all teachers of the city ought to be paid according to their qualifications. There is known to be among colored teachers no desire to see the board work out a salary schedule that will reduce the pay of any white teachers as was done in Alabama, where a hocus-pocus settlement of this problem was attempted by officials, who evidently are not in favor of paying just salaries even to white teachers. The feeling is that salaries ought to be equalized by the Board asking for and getting the necessary money to settle the salary problem satisfactorily.

Cleveland, Tenn. Banner
March 17, 1941

NEGRO TEACHER PAY IS PROBLEM FOR THE SOUTH

Tennessee One of Few States In South Little Affected by Ruling of Equal Pay.

ATLANTA, Ga., Mar. 17.—(U.P.)—Educators today believed Federal aid would be necessary if Southern States complied soon with the recent Supreme Court ruling that Negro teachers in public schools be paid salaries equal to those of white instructors.

Compliance with the ruling would increase the pay of Negro teachers. It was estimated the increase in Negro salaries would cost ten state governments in the South more than $10,000,000 annually. Additional costs of the increase would fall upon local school districts.

Officials of state educational systems in the South also are bothered by the possibility that it may be necessary to expend large sums to build, equip and maintain higher institutions of learning to conform to the U. S. Supreme Court opinion that Negroes are furnished equal facilities for training for the professons, such as medicine and law.

Most Southern State educators would say little publicly on the two problems.

Public school officials from Southern States gathered here this week-end and discussed the problems with representatives of the general education board. Those participating in the meeting would not reveal details or conclusions of the discussions.

Some believed an agreement could be reached with Negro teachers to increase their salaries gradually until they equalled those of whites. North Carolina has started such a program.

"The discussions were informal and not on means of circumventing the Supreme Court ruling—which isn't possible—but on chances of obtaining Federal aid to raise both white and Negro teachers' salaries," one of those participating in the week-end meeting said.

"In order to insure a uniform salary schedule, I estimate $1,000,000 a year would have to be added to the State salary fund and the only way I see to meet this would be through increased Federal aid," John E. Coxe, Louisiana superintendent of education, said in Baton Rouge.

The benefit to individual Negro teachers would vary, both in states and local districts. It was estimated the individual benefit would exceed $500 in some instances and probably would average $200 a year.

B. O. Duggan, Tennessee commissioner of education, said in Nashville that the decision would not have much effect in that state since the Tennessee board of education based its salary scales on training and experience and made no distinction between white and Negro teachers. Local districts in a few counties might be affected.

Globe and Independent
Nashville. Tenn.

SALARIES OF TEACHERS IN NASHVILLE!

APR 18 1941

Is There Discrimination, According To Figures Given? If So, Does This Violate The U. S. Constitution?

In the lawsuit filed in Federal Court Saturday, April 12, the schedule of monthly salaries as paid to white and to Negro teachers is set forth for the first four years of service. The schedule affords the following comparisons for those who have taught for as long as four years:

TYPE OF WORK	WHITE	COLORED
Grade teachers, Academic and Domestic Science	$135	$110
Teachers, Carpentry and Woodwork	135	115
Supervisors, Academic, Primary, Music, Manual Tr., etc.	200	135
High School Principal	400	250
High School Teachers	175	115
Junior H. S. Principals	350	150
Grade Principals: (Under 500 Pupils)	160	125
Grade Principals: (Over 500 Pupils)	300	142

APR 18 1941

No comparison is made in the salaries of General Supervisors. There is none for Negro Schools. Following the death of Prof. E. W. Benton, several years ago, the Board failed to appoint another Negro Supervisor to fill the vacancy. The work is now being done by a white supervisor, it is reported.

THE FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT

The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States whose provisions, it is charged the Board of Education is violating when it discriminates against teachers because of their race or color in the matter of paying salaries is as follows:

"Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." APR 18 1941

Globe and
Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

It Is Not Exactly So, But Lawyers--Sure Can Figure!

Judge Cherry And Assistants Make Novel Defense For School Board In Reply To Lawsuit

MAY 23 1941

A surprising and novel defense by the Nashville City Board of Education in defense of its policy of not paying equal salaries for equal work to white and colored school teachers, is contained in the answer to the lawsuit filed here several weeks ago by Attorney Z. Alexander Looby on behalf of Harold E. Thomas, a teacher at Pearl Elementary school.

The novel part of the board's answer to the suit, contained in the brief of Judge W. C. Cherry, City Attorney, is in the following sentence:

"It is true that differences have been made in the allocation of monies to white schools and Negro schools, which have been based upon a difference of taxes paid by the people who patronized. these schools—just as there has been a difference in the amounts expended in the location of sewers and sidewalks throughout the City of Nashville."

The newspaper report on the answer of the board has it saying that "in actuality the Negroes of Nashville have been favored in proportion to their contributions."

Dealing in figures, the newspaper story on Judge Cherry's brief is as follows:

"The board states that 32.53 per cent of the money collected by Nashville for school purposes goes to Negro schools and 67.47 to white schools. In 1938-39 there were 199 Negro teachers in the public school system and 573 white. Average pupil attendance is 17,994 white and 6,988 Negro pupils, the answer said. Teacher salaries aggregate $1,123,299 a year, amount to approximately 90 per cent of the entire school expenditures, it was stated. There are 36 schools for white children and 13 for Negroes.

The figures submitted by Judge Cherry, assuming that they have been correctly quoted, not only fully support the board's contention that it is not discriminating AGAINST colored teachers, but shows that colored teachers are being paid higher salaries than white teachers. This conclusion is inescapable after some slight experimenting with the way the sum of $1,123,299, the amount that is allotted toteachers salaries, is apportioned.

Judge Cherry says that colored schools get 32.53 of the school money. That is assumed to mean colored teachers get 32.53 o fthe total salaries of $1,123,299. That amounts to $365,409.16. Since Judge Cherry says this sum goes to 199 colored teachers in the system it makes their average annual salary $1,836.

On the other hand, after subtracting from the $1,123,299, the sum of $365,409 that goes to colored teachers, it leaves the sum of $757,890.84 to be divided among the 573 white teachers. This brings the astounding revelation that the average annual pay for white school teachers is only $1,323.

It means that the average monthly salary of white teachers is only $132.30, while the average monthly salary of colored teachers "tips the beam" at$183.60.

It is further shown, if the money for the schools is divided on a basis of 67.47 for whites and 32.53 for Negroes, that the average sum going to the 36 white schools amounts to $21,052 while to the average colored school goes the much bigger average sum of $28,100 annually.

On a per capita basis, accepting the figures which show that the average pupil attendance in white schools is 17,994, and that of colored pupils. as 6,998,. it is. shown that the board is more liberal with the colored race than with the white. It is costing $42.12 per pupil to teach white children but the cost jumps to $52.30 annually to teach colored children. The figures show just that.

MAY 23 1941

Ignoring the figures the board of education has submitted, to look at the salary schedule of teachers in Nashville, as carried exclusively in the Nashville Globe, there appear differentials of from $20.00 a month to as much as $60.00 a month for grade teachers and as high as $200 a month for principals.

Thus, the board of education's figures, showing the amount of money it has allotted to colored schools, when compared to what Attorney Looby states is the schedule of pay for colored teachers, presents one of the greatest clashes between mathematicians, that Judge Elmer Davies of the Federal Court has had to deal with in a lawsuit.

Forecasts that the salary suit will be a long-drawn-out affair is indicated in the number of mathematical computations that are going to have to be made before the battling lawyers will "compose their differences."

While the fight over figures will probably be the main bout between the lawyers, another item in Judge Cherry's answer, it is predicted, will produce almost equally as wordy a clash for Judge Davies to settle.

It is the theory that tax money for the support of schools may be allotted on the basis of the racial identity of the tax-paying patrons. That is, "white" money must all go to white schools and "Negro" money to Negro schools. This is held to be an exploded theory—and definitely outlawed, even by the statutes of Tennessee for at least a half-century.

It most certainly is to be held to be in conflict with the 14th Amendment of the Constitution as denying to citizens the equal protection of the law.

It is plain that Judge Cherry and his associates, in their novel answer, have taken the narrow, if widely accepted view, that the sole source of taxes is that which property owners pay to the tax collector on their homes and places of business.

That vie wwholly ignores the most lucrative source of taxes, which is "consumer taxes." It is virtually impossible to estimate the amount of consumer taxes Negroes of Nashville or any other place pay. Taxes that are levied on the innumerable places of business, are, as is pretty generally known, passed on to the consumers. Tares levied on houses that are rented to the masses are collected by the owners of these houses in the weekly and monthly charges for rent.

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of those who labor," is one of the most famous expressions of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who went on to say that the laboring man may never see a tax bill, but nevertheless he is as definitely and continuously a taxpayer as the rich and well to do who do receive bills and visit the tax colector's office to make their settlements.

MAY 23 1941

There have been no new moves made in the salary lawsuit, aside from the remarkable answer that the board has filed through its attorneys. It is said that this answer was concurred in by Judge Cherry, and Assistant City Attorneys E. C. Yokley and Charles G. Blackard. And, also there is a report that the board's attorneys consulted with city attorneys of several other cities of the state.

It is believed if the Nashville lawsuit is won by the defendants the novel brief they filed, contending as it does that it is permissible for boards of education to segregate tax money on a racial basis and allot it to schools accordingly, will be adopted by other cities, if and when they have lawsuits against differentials in salaries.

Another point of interest to Nashvillians is the contention of Judge Cherry that differentials in the placing of sewers and sidewalks in the city is a policy that has been adopted out of regard to the amount of taxes citizens pay. In Nashville and many other cities of the South, Negro sections of cities are made conspicuous by the lack of sidewalks and by the denial to those sections of sewers.

The possibility of legal action against this practice, while not now imminent, is likely to be suggested by the the statement Judge Cherry has made. However, in the case of sewers, it is believed many liberal-minded white people would support the lawsuit because of the undenied fact that the lack of sewers in any section of the city is a menace to the health of the whole community.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Free Press
June 11, 1941

NEGRO TEACHER SUES CITY FOR PAY EQUALITY

Robinson Claims Racial Discrimination in School System

In what may be a test case on alleged discrimination between white and colored school teachers' salaries in the city schools, Clarence B. Robinson and the Chattanooga Teachers' Association filed suit in Federal court Tuesday afternoon against City Commission, the municipal school board and W. T. Robinson, superintendent.

Clarence B. Robinson, colored teacher at the Calvin Donaldson Junior High School for the past four years, charges white teachers are paid more than Negroes with equivalent status and experience, even though the Negroes hold identical state certificates, exercise the same duties and perform essentially the same services.

He asks the court declare the policy of low pay to Negroes void, and issue a permanent injunction enjoining and restraining the defendants from further payment of smaller salaries to Negro teachers. He also asks that "further distinction on grounds of race or color be stopped so that all teachers may receive the same salary according to experience—regardless of color or race."

The suit was filed by W. Henry Elmore, Chattanooga attorney.

BEHALF OF ALL

The suit reads that it was "brought on his (Clarence Robinson's) behalf and also on behalf of other persons, citizens and residents of the state of Tennessee, namely, teachers and principals in the colored schools of Chattanooga, similarly situated and affected."

Chattanooga Teachers' Association is a voluntary unincorporated association composed of Negro teachers and principals in local public schools.

The suit charges Negro and white teachers alike hold certificates and meet the same requirements to receive these certificates from the state board of education—being issued identical certificates.

"The defendants over a long period of years have consistently pursued and maintained and are now pursuing and maintaining the policy, custom and usage of paying Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Chattanooga less salary than white teachers and principals in said public school system possessing the same professional qualifications, certificates and experience, exercising the same duties and performing the same services as Negro teachers and principals.

RACE DISCRIMINATION

"Such discrimination is being practiced against the plaintiffs and all other Negro teachers and principals in Chattanooga, and is based solely upon their color or race."

Clarence Robinson states he completed the course of instruction provided at Agricultural and Industrial State College for Negroes, and holds a permanent professional certificate, high school and elementary—the highest certificate issued by the Tennessee state board of education for teaching in junior high schools in Tennessee.

He says he is paid only $630 annually—charging that white male junior high school teachers are paid a minimum of $720.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Chattanooga To Equalize Wages

Board of Education Makes Announcement on Sept. 20

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(SNS—)—A single salary scale for teachers without reference to race or color will be established by the Chattanooga board of education, it was announced here September 20.

The new plan was revealed in the U. S. District Court for the Eastern District of Tennessee before Judge Leslie R. Darr when NAACP attorneys for the teachers and counsel for the school board appeared to argue court jurisdiction.

In addition to the new salary scale, the school board stated that 62 per cent of the $40,000 now in the treasury marked for increases in salaries for all teachers, will go to Negro teachers.

The board also agreed to take steps for complete equalization of teachers' salaries under the new schedule, but stated that it will "take a little time."

Attorneys for the plaintiff would not dismiss the case on such a promise, but had it placed on the inactive calendar so that it may be called up again at any time. This means that if the board does not make good its promise the complaint may again be heard in court.

The teachers were represented by W. Henry Elmore, of this city, and Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the NAACP.

18v-1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Janitor Paid More Than Teacher; Latter Resigns

FEB 1 1941

FORT WORTH, Tex.— (ANP)— A. Maceo Johnson Prairie View College graduate and Fort Worth tutor for nine and hine-half years who recently resigned as mathematics instructor at the I. M. Terrell High School, has stated his reason was an economic one.

He said that a janitor received more his services than he did.

Johnson was getting only $850 annually while some other teachers white, in the same department were receiving approximately $400 annually more than he was getting.

Taught 9½ Years Until Situation Overwhelmed Him

FEB 1 1941

Further, he said he had no prospect of ever reaching the maximum salary in less than 27 years.

Teachers (Negro, of course) with master's degrees from reputable and recognized American colleges get no more recognition from an economic standpoint than those with bachelor's degrees, and only recently have bachelor's degrees become a fire requirement.

SALARIES CONSIDERABLY LOW

For Negro teachers, the maximum salary is $1,260 per year while the maximum salary for whites is $2,300, or a fraction less than twice as much as the Negro maximum salary. Ten years ago the starting salary was $125 per month; at present the starting salary is $75 per month for a nine-month year. On the other hand, ten years ago the state appropriation per capita was $22.50 and at present the state is paying $4.50 more per capita, yet the salary standard remains lower.

Mr. Johnson resented the fact that a new teacher from out-of-state was brought in and given a salary of $350 per year more than he had been getting although he had been working over a period of years and had been described by the school board as having rendered "excellent service." Such an act made Mr. Johnson feel that his services weren't appreciated.

OVER SUPPLY OF TEACHERS

At the same time of Mr. Johnson's resignation, he said he believed that there were more than 500 applications waiting. Definitely Mr. Johnson agreed that there was an over supply of teachers.

Despite the very low salary standard for Negroes, Terrell high and the entire Fort Worth school system enjoy the distinction of having top rating among Negro high schools in the south. Its students have made enviable records in whatever institutions of higher learning they have enrolled. They have placed high in college entrance examination and have a very large percentage on college honor rolls over a period of years. This is primarily attributed to the "missionary spirit" of the Fort Worth teachers. They are not encouraged financially to study further; however, many have done so on their own initiative at a great sacrifice.

FEB 1 194

Fort Worth has about 25,000 Negroes out of its total population of 177,662. Terrell high has approximately 1,000 students and only 26 teachers including the principal. The teacher pay situation among Negroes in Texas' fourth largest city is on a par with that of many rural communities and smaller towns.

The United States is estimated to contain 95 per cent of the world's bath tubs.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Texas Teachers Ask Equal Wage

MAY 3 1941

FORT WORTH, Texas.— Under the leadership of Mrs. C. M. Pearce, white, chairman of the Fort Worth Interracial committee, and wife of a prominent banker of this city, salaries for Negro teachers equal to that of white teachers have been strongly urged and fought for.

Members of the board of education have been approached and numerous letters have been sent to the various members. The local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has cooperated in the fight.

Mrs. Pearce has been supported by such leading citizens as Dr. R. A. Ransom, superintendent of the Ethel Ransom hospital; Rev. W. A. Sparks, pastor of the Pilgrim Valley Baptist church; Rev. G. B. Winston, executive secretary of the McDonald Y.M.C.A., and Secretary of the Fort Worth Interracial committee; Mrs. A. B. Carson, white, prominent church worker; Prof. G. W. Williams of the Star Publishing company; Mrs. Dorothy Sims Winston, organist of New Mt. Gilead Baptist church; Miss Almeta Roberson, executive of Negro Welfare Center; Miss Sylvia Coleman, executive secretary of the Y.W.C.A.; Mrs. Roberta Lindsey, prominent social worker; Rev. T. S. Boone, pastor of Mt. Gilead Baptist church, and Dr. G. D. Flimmings, president of local N.A.A.C.P.

18v-1941
Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Star Says Teachers Should Be Given Answer To Parity Request

day that colored teachers have shown "a considerable degree of patience" in awaiting reply to their request for a pay parity plan, made last December, and that "the time would seem to have arrived when they should be accorded explanation of the objective by municipal authorities in meeting now, or eventually, what court decree has said must be met."

The text of the editorial captioned, "Patient Colored Teachers," appearing in the Star, which is published by Norman R. Hamilton, a candidate for congress, follows:

"A considerable degree of patience must be admitted to have been borne by the colored teachers of Portsmouth in awaiting reply to their request for salary increase, this to be graduated over a period of years until equalization with the salaries of white teachers, for commensurate work should be reached.

MAR 29 1941

COULD DEMAND

"Under decision of the courts our colored teachers might have made demands rather than request in the premises. They might have even brought legal action for immediate equalization of pay with that of white teachers. But following a more moderate and thoughtful course Portsmouth teachers, like Norfolk colored teachers, suggested a graduated increase of salary, this to begin in September of the current year and to be extended over a period of four years until equalization should come in fact.

"Since December the Portsmouth colored teachers have waited for some indication of purpose on the part of the city regarding their petition. The time would seem to have arrived when they should be accorded explanation of the objective by municipal authorities in meeting now, or eventually, what court decree has said must be met.

"Noething is to be gained through delays that can only engender antagonisms. Two delicate points are involved—(1) the rights of the petitioners, and (2) the lack of present budgeted funds to meet the requirements of the case.

"Nothing is to be gained by lack of frankness. The issue is one the municipal authorities must meet. The colored teachers have apparently been thoughtful and moderate in their presentations.

"No doubt the school authorities will realize the justification of the request that has been made, and will very shortly notify the teachers that the request will be granted. The Portsmouht board has consistently endeavored to carry out school affairs to the best interests of all concerned and we have no doubt that its course of action in the colored teachers pay matter will be handled with satisfaction to all."

(Reprinted from Last Week's Late Edition

PORTSMOUTH — The Portsmouth Star stated editorially Sun

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Teachers Pay Case Progress

MAR 29 1941

RICHMOND—There is no indication that the fight of the Virginia school teachers for equalization in pay stands in any danger of bogging down, if the enthusiasm and determination of the 300 teachers assembled here last Saturday in a special session of the Virginia State Teachers Association can be used as an index.

This session was held in Southern Aid auditorium, with President William M. Cooper of Hampton presiding. The delegates made reports of the progress of the equalization fight in their respective cities and counties, held a round table on methods of accomplishing this end, and heard addresses from Attorney Oliver W. Hill, one of counsel for the teachers in the recent successful case at Norfolk; Dr. J. M. Tinsley, president of the State Conference of the N. A. A. C. P.; and Professor L. F. Palmer, principal of Huntington High School, Newport News.

PROGRESS REPORTED

Reports from representatives indicated that the movement was well on the way to culmination in several places. Small increases have been secured in others, and in several sections a cold reception has been tendered committees and teachers' organizations who had approached their boards and superintendents.

One delegate reported that the superintendent of the county schools had placed many barriers in the way, and had also cajoled and threatened teachers who insisted on asking for pay equalization.

Conferences with school authorities were reported in progress in many places, including Richmond, where a flat $200 raise for the term had been proposed by the board with a promise of a gradual move toward equalization.

Loudoun County, it was reported, had suggested that the colored teachers be paid 10 months this year and increased to 12 months with equalization in 1944. A further revision placed equalization atttainment in 1947.

Wise County had granted equalization over a period of three years, while Henrico County had submitted a verbal agreement for equalization in four years.

MAR 29 1941

BONUS PROMISED

Westmoreland County had promised a bonus this year, but the offer was not in writing. Orange County has granted a raise this year of from $2 to $26, with equalization in three years. Gloucester County officials willing to recommend a raise for colored teachers, but were hostile to N. A. A. C. P. The teachers here were not unanimous in voting for the services of an attorney.

King George County officials said equalization could not be granted because colored people did not pay sufficient taxes, but finally offered compromise of a raise of from $10 to $15, which has been refused.

FLAT REFUSAL

Accomac County granted an increase last year of three percent, and the statement was made that any further raise will have to await an increase in revenue.

Stafford County indicated flatly that no equalization will be granted.

The reception by the Charlottesville authorities was not very cordial but the fight will be continued.

Portsmouth teachers have received no answer from a communication on the subject sent to the board last fall. Fredericksburg's school board has received the teachers' petition and will act on it at a future meeting.

Chesterfield County's case was interesting and a promise of $100 increase has been secured, but the board has not even considered the question of equalization.

EXPERIENCES VARY

And so, on down the line, the delegates reported on the reactions of school authorities to the equalization petitions.

Rebuffed on one hand, encouraged on the other, while the attorneys are working arduously to bring the whole question to a successful conclusion; these were the expressions of the delegates at the session, and leaders of the movement were enthusiastic about what one said was "the wonderful morale of these teachers under pressure from forces within and without the race."

HILL SPEAKS

Attorney Hill made the principal address, and he made several suggestions to teachers to improve their technique in approaches, follow ups, and conferences with school officials. He counselled them to be within the rules of their schools always, but to exhibit courage, resourcefulness, and determination to win their point.

MAR 29 1941

"We are anxious to avoid suits," he said, "but when you can't get your contention recognized, then prepare for court action."

August 14, 1941

Reprisal at Its Worst

Of all forms of reprisal, public or private crack-downs on individuals for invoking remedies to which they are entitled under the law, come near being the worst.

The Norfolk Fair Rent Committee, reports Chairman Baldwin, has received word from several tenants that house and apartment owners had threatened to evict them if they should make the rents charged them the subject of complaint before the committee.

The Committee condemns such threats. And for the best of reasons. The Fair Rent Committee, by derivation through the regional and State defense councils, is an agency of the national defense. To threaten with loss of their living quarters those who seek the intervention of this committee to protect them against rent gouging, is nothing less than an act of contempt against the national government.

There are local precedents for this kind of reprisal, but they are equally malodorous. We had an example of it a couple of years ago when the Norfolk School Board fired a Negro school teacher for appealing to the courts for relief from a salary discrimination which the courts later pronounced unconstitutional. She was subsequently re-employed. We have now another example of it in Norfolk County where the School Board has fired three Negro school principals for essentially the same reason. They are still fired.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

PORTSMOUTH BOARD VOTES OUT DISPARITY

APR 19 1941

Equalization Of Wages For Instructors Ends Long, Hard Fight

APR 19 1941

By LEE F. RODGERS

PORTSMOUTH, Va.—The city school board took unprecedented action here Friday night, April 4 when it adopted a resolution that provided for the equalization of the salaries of Negro public school teachers with the salaries of white teachers. The newly approved salary schedule becomes effective on July 1 of this year.

The historic decision of the school board, on which no Race member serves, is in keeping with widespread sentiment in favor of salary equalization in public school systems where nothing like pay parity exists, and which is a direct answer to a petition made to the school board the latter part of last year and which read in part:

"The Portsmouth Negro Teachers Association, an organization of the Portsmouth school system, wishes to direct your attention to a decision handed down on January 18, 1940, by the Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals sitting in Asheville, N. C. Th court by handing down such a decision declared that it is a direct violation of the due process and equal protection clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America for a school board and superintendent to maintain a salary schedule which fixes differentails in pay for the teachers of equal qualifications and experience, performing the same duties and services, when these differentials are based solely on race and color."

Norfolk Case Recalled

The petition of the Portsmouth Race tachers for pay parity grew out of the famous Norfolk equalization fight that reached the United States Supreme Court last year.

The nation's supreme tribunal, in a celebrated decision in October 1940, refused to review the pay parity litigation following the famed decision of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, thus throwing the whole case back into the lap of the U. S. District Court in Norfolk for trial on its merits.

The Norfolk school board had rejected the petition of Race teachers for pay equalization on the counter-charge that no race discrimination was meant, that Race teachers had accepted the school board's pay schedule year after year when they signed contracts, and that, furthermore, the question of teachers' pay "is left to the discretion of the school board," and not provided for under the Constitution of Virginia.

APR 19 1941

The U. S. District Court at Norfolk sustained the contentions of the school board, but the Race plaintiffs carried the case to the Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and won a sensational and far-reaching reversal of the Norfolk court's action.

Equalization Fights Begin

Rebuffed by the appeals court and the U. S. Supreme Court, holding that pay differentials were unconstitutional, the Norfolk school board and the Norfolk colored teachers finally came to an agreement on salary equalization.

Petitions for similar pay parity were drawn up in many sections of Virginia, and adjoining states. School boards squirmed uneasily, but they had to face the facts. The highest courts had spoken in favor of salary equalization, and the petitions could not be shelved.

The action of the Portsmouth school board early this month calls for gradual parity that will lift colored teachers' pay to the level of white teachers in five years in the elementary schools, and six years in the high school. The Portsmouth Colored Teachers' Association had asked for parity in three years.

The action of the school board is regarded here as a signal victory for the Race teachers, although the five and six-year parity plan has been frowned upon by many of the teachers and their friends.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Discharges Called A Reprisal Act

AUG 25 1941

"We Are Being Used As Scapegoats," Elliott Says

PORTSMOUTH — The sudden discharge of three principals by the Norfolk County School Board recently came directly as a reprisal act because of the activities of the principals in a movement to secure pay equalization for colored teachers of the system, it was declared this week by B. W. Elliott, one of those dismissed.

To support his charge, Mr. Elliott, who has served eight years at the Churchland High School, briefly reviewed events leading up to that fateful day in June when the three principals found attached to their pay checks little scraps of paper informing them that their services would be no longer needed.

MR. ELLIOTT

PICKED COMMITTEE

The friction between the principals and the school officials began early during the past school term when the pay parity campaign was started in the county. It was then that Superintendent James Hurst, refusing to deal with a committee from the Norfolk County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, entered a meeting of the teachers association and "hand picked" a committee to confer with him on the parity issue, Mr. Elliott declared.

AUG 25 1941

This was done in spite of the fact that the NAACP committee had been given full authority by the association to act in behalf of the teachers.

NAMES CHAIRMAN

It was at this meeting that Superintendent Hurst named Miss Mary Gibson, county supervisor, to appear on a committee with four others, all of whom were selected by Miss Gibson. He authorized this committee to confer with him and the school board on the parity issue, Mr. Elliott declared.

Mr. Hurst then warned the teachers that they were going about the pay equalization movement "the wrong way," the dismissed principal stated.

WARNING QUOTED

Mr. Elliott quoted the superintendent as saying, "I know who you are. About three or four of you started about this thing the wrong way, instead of coming to me."

The superintendent then pointed out that the contracts given teachers are only for one year, according to Mr. Elliott, who further quoted Mr. Hurst as saying: "You teachers understand that your reappointments will depend on my recommendations and, if I do not recommend you, you will not be reappointed."

"NEW PLAN"

Mr. Hurst last week explained that his action in not reappointing the principals was part of "a new plan of administration."

Mr. Elliott insisted this week that it is not necessary to discharge the principals to put the new plan into effect.

The fact that all of the principals who were active in the pay parity move were released, while the only principal who opposed the parity request, the Rev. F. D. Nance of Providence High School at West Munden, was allowed to continue at his post, is pointed to as evidence that Mr. Hurst has not stated his real reason for the dismissals.

"Actually, we three are being used as scapegoats to intimidate the rest of the teachers. Without notice, an extra bonus was added to the final pay check of each teacher as a sort of appeasement to quiet popular demands for equalization," Mr. Elliott said.

"I pray to God that we will not lose out in this fight," Mr. Elliott stated, "because if we do, I do not think the teachers of Norfolk County will ever have a chance for pay equality and the progress of the colored race here will be set back 100 years."

Richmond, Va. Times-Dispatch
August 14, 1941

Richmond and Teachers' Pay

THE salary scale for white and Negro school teachers in Richmond which the special committee of the City School Board has recommended, is good, in that it places teachers of both races on a parity. It seems definitely bad, however, in that it sets up a lower minimum and a lower maximum for the white teachers than they now enjoy.

The organized Negro teachers are on record as opposing any equalization plan which would reduce the pay of the white teachers, and rightly so. Bad feeling would be engendered by such a scale, and the success of the whole scheme would be imperiled. Many of those who desire that the Negro teachers be paid the same as white teachers, when they do work and meet requirements which are identical with those of the white teachers, have always felt that there should be no reduction in the pay of the whites, but that the Negro scale should be raised to the same level.

The City School Board will meet August 29 to act upon the scale approved by its special committee. Fortunately modification of the scale will be proposed at that time. Under this modified plan, which would be put into effect gradually, over a period of some 15 years—at a cost for next session of less than $16,000, and an ultimate additional annual cost of around $200,000—the maximum pay for white teachers would remain unchanged, while the minimum would be fixed at $1,000 for a teacher with a degree entering the system. This is slightly below the present minimum of $1,100, but there would be no reduction for any teacher now in the system.

The modified plan also would provide for a more gradual rise in the pay of white teachers than they enjoy at present. However, the alternative is a heavier annual cost to the taxpayers of the city, and it would appear that some compromises are unavoidable. The foregoing seems far less objectionable than the sharp cuts for white teachers contained in the committee's plan.

Moreover, under that plan Richmond would have the lowest starting salary for a college graduate of any of 21 cities in its population class which have been studied, except two. Then too, under that scale, a teacher with a degree and five years of service in the Richmond public schools would receive $1,150, as against an average of $1,200 for city garbage collectors. Certainly this is not the way to treat our school teachers, and the board should amend the scale in the manner indicated.

18v-1941

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

IT is apparent at the moment that the cause of teachers' salary equalization will be attended by further litigation. A little more than a month ago it was thought that the Norfolk city government and the teachers had reached an accord and that litigation was at an end. The city proposed, and the teachers agreed to, a three-year-plan of adjustment. The hitch came when the teachers declined to take the word of the city government as its bond.

The city government is willing to confirm its agreement in conference to the three-year adjustment plan by a legal instrument which, it affirms, is binding. Counsel for the teachers insist that the city's form of decree is not satisfactory and, therefore, is not acceptable in lieu of the decree which they have drawn in conformitory with the ruling of the Circuit Court of Appeals, which the United States Supreme Court later declined, in effect, to set aside.

The city government last week amended its proffered decree in an effort to remove the objections of counsel for the teachers, but to no immediate avail. The officers of the State Teachers Association announce they are supporting the position taken by counsel for the teachers, who, it happens, were engaged by and, as a consequence, represent not only the Norfolk teachers, but the entire body of Negro teachers in the state as well as those non-teachers represented on the joint committee of teachers and NAACP chapter members.

FEB 8 1941

As matters stand in this state in relation to jurisdiction over public school matters, the Norfolk decision —if settled out of court in accordance with terms acceptable to both the city and the local teachers—will have no legal effect whatsoever upon any other school district in the state.

Such a settlement would, of course, have a morally persuasive effect, implemented by the ruling of the Circuit Court of Appeals in the Norfolk case. But none of this would avail teachers in any other school district in the state anything of strictly legal effect except through the institution, and trial and final determination in the courts, of a case similar to the Norfolk case.

All of the foregoing circumstances combine to ensnarl the Norfolk case. In the first instance the Norfolk case is essentially a state test case. It is even more than that. It is now —whether or not it was originally intended to be—a South-wide case sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, whose legal staff is handling the litigation, which staff has repeatedly said that there is more at stake in this case than the Norfolk teachers or the Virginia teachers, or the collective interests of the Negroes of Norfolk and of Virginia as a whole.

* * * *

THE Journal and Guide has contended for many years for more adequate educational facilities, for equal educational facilities, and for adequate and equal pay for Negro teachers as a matter of elementary justice. We had hoped that the Norfolk case would be settled with justice to the Negro teachers. When an opportunity arose to settle the case amicably—out of court, so to speak—it occured only after the city had apparently exhausted effective recourse to the courts as to the form of its resistance to the teachers' appeal for salary adjustment.

Knowing this, the Journal and Guide was among others who approved the city's proffered three-year adjustment plan. It did so in the sincere belief that the plan was, all things considered, the most equitable method of ending a decades-old disparity—and knowing that last July teachers' counsel themselves proposed, although without success, a progressive plan of pay parity in lieu of further court action.

We thought this most recent settlement plan would end the matter harmoniously, and without the loss of any gains or legal rights to which the teachers were entitled and without imposing any undue strain upon advantageously harmonious race relations.

The imminence of the return of the case to court is, therefore, disappointing. Its early return is inevitable, if we read aright the following paragraph from an editorial in the January issue of the Virginia Teachers Bulletin:

VIRGINIA

> "It is the sincere desire of Negroes to preserve local interracial goodwill, but Negro teachers cannot sell their constitutional birthright for a mess of local pottage, however pressing the local issues may be. Teachers throughout the state may be assured, therefore, that when the Norfolk case is finally settled, the terms will be so drawn that the interests of all the teachers will be conserved."

* * * *

THAT quotation supports the conclusion, the obvious fact, that the case arising in Norfolk is not entirely a Norfolk case, and that its final determination is not going to be settled without the impact of influences not resident here.

As already pointed out, this is clearly true with reference to the plaintiffs and their counsel. It is hardly less likely that the defendant school board and officials and their counsel are also similiarly aware of the significance and influence Norfolk's action will have as persuasive precedent, and are subject to pressures of a sort from others potentially affected.

Inescapably, the issue is not local but statewide—even Southwide. By accepting one sentence objected to as "offensive" in the proposed consent decree offered by the teachers' counsel, Norfolk's city government could settle the problem for local teachers; and for the other teachers of the state and the South similiarly situated.

FEB 8 1941

Hence, Norfolk city holds the key to an amicable settlement. It need be only generous enough to accept the well known implications of the legal terminology of the decree prepared by counsel for the teachers. Those implications reside in the vigorous and unanimous decision of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals supporting the Norfolk teachers.

That court's opinior has sounded the death knell for unequal pay based on race or color. It behooves all concerned to bury the dead phases of our social order decently and without avoidable rancor

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Will Support Decree Drawn By N.A.A.C.P.

FEB 14 1941

Because of Stand Taken by Educational Association, New Trial Will Be Held on February 17 at Lynchburg

NORFOLK, Va.—At a meeting called here on Tuesday, February 4, on petition of certain members of the Norfolk Teachers' association in an effort to force the teachers to accept the form of decree for final settlement of their salary equalization case drawn by City Attorney Alfred Anderson, the teachers voted unanimously to support their N. A. A. C. P. attorneys and the decree drawn by them.

Following the failure of Judge Way last week to effect an agreement between City Attorney Anderson and Attorney Oliver Hill, he recused himself in open court and after representing the teachers, he requested Senior Circuit Judge Parker to assign someone else to hear any further proceedings.

Order For Dismissed

The difference between the two forms of decree, as described by N. A. A. C. P. attorneys, is that the one proposed by City Attorney Anderson is, in effect, an order for a dismissal of the suit, whereas, the decree drawn by the teachers' attorneys calls for a declaratory judgment and injunction forcing the defendant to carry out the terms of the agreement.

Confer In Auditorium

When word was received at the national office of the N.A.A.C.P. in New York that Melvin Alston, president of the Norfolk Teachers' association and plaintiff in the successful action against the Norfolk School board, had been forced by petition to call a meeting of the association on Tuesday, Attorneys L. A. Ransom and Oliver W. Hill were immediately dispatched to the scene.

When they arrived they found the members of the Teachers association waiting in the auditorium while William Cooper and L. F. Palmer of the joint committee on Teachers' Salary case in Virginia were in conference with City Attorney Anderson and City Manager Borland in an upstairs office. Their presence was greeted by the teachers with cheers and then they were ushered into the "executive" huddle.

Maintaining that they would only discuss the form of decree which they had prepared and submitted, they convinced the City Attorney and City Manager that further discussion was useless and these two individuals soon left the premises.

Urges No Surrender

Returning to the auditorium Attorney Ransom made a report on what had happened in the upstairs meeting with the city officials and urged the teachers not to surrender any more of their rights gained by the decision which had been won.

Winston Douglas, member of the Joint Committee, who had been the moving force in the calling of the meeting presented the arguments for compromise and after a brief rebuttal by Attorney Hill a ballot was taken on the question as to whether the teachers would support the decree drawn by their N.A.A.C.P. attorneys or would accept the proposal of City Attorney Anderson.

When the vote was counted it was 132 to 34 in favor of the N. A. A. C. P. attorneys. Douglas moved that the vote be made unanimous which was done.

As a result of this stand on the part of the teachers it will be necessary to go back into court, before the judge to be named by Judge Parker, where in conformity with the decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals which ruled the pay discrimination unconstitutional, the case will be retried on its merits and a decree formed by the court.

The case has been assigned by Senior Circuit Judge Parker to be tried Monday, February 17, before a federal district judge in Lynchburg, Va.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

UNANIMOUSLY BACK DECREE OF N.A.A.C.P.

Judge Way Asks Case Be Assigned Another Jurist For Hearing

FEB 15 1941

NORFOLK, Va. — At a meeting called here Tuesday, Feb. 4, on petition of certain members of the Norfolk Teachers' association in an effort to force the teachers to accept the form of decree for final settlement of their salary equalization case drawn by City Attorney Alfred Anderson, the teachers voted unanimously to support their N.A.A.C.P. attorneys and the decree drawn by them.

Following the failure of Judge Way last week to effect an agreement between City Attorney Anderson and Atty. Oliver Hill, the latter representing the teachers, he excused himself in open court and requested Senior Circuit Judge Parker 'to assign someone else to hear any further proceedings.

The difference between the two forms of decree, as described by N.A.A.C.P. attorneys, is that the one proposed by City Attorney Anderson is, in effect, an order for a dismissal of the suit, whereas, the decree drawn by the teachers' attorneys calls for a declaratory judgment and injunction forcing the defendant to carry out the terms of the agreement.

When word was received at the national office of the N.A.A.C.P. in New York that Melvin Alston, president of the Norfolk Teachers' association and plaintiff in the successful action against the Norfolk school board, had been forced by petition to call a meeting of the association on Tuesday, Attys. L. A. Ransom and Oliver W. Hill were immediately dispatched to the scene.

When they arrived they found the members of the Teachers association waiting in the auditorium while William Cooper and L. F. Palmer of the Joint committee on teachers' salary case in Virginia were in conference with City Attorney Anderson and City Manager Borland in an upstairs office.

Their presence was greeted by the teachers with cheers and then they were ushered into the "executive" huddle. Maintaining that they would only discuss the form of decree which they had prepared and submitted, they convinced the city attorney and city manager that further discussion was useless and these two individuals soon left the premises.

Returning to the auditorium Attorney Ransom made a report on what had happened in the upstairs meeting with the city officials and urged the teachers not to surrender any more of their rights gained by the decision which had been won.

Winston Douglas, member of the Joint committee, who had been the moving force in the calling of the meeting presented the arguments for compromise and after a brief rebuttal by Atty. Hill a ballot was taken on the question as to whether the teachers would support the decree drawn by their N.A.A.C.P. attorneys or would accept the proposal of City Attorney Anderson.

When the vote was counted, it was 132 to 34 in favor of the N.A.A.C.P. attorneys. Douglas moved that the vote be made unanimous which was done.

As a result of this stand on the part of the teachers it will probably be necessary to go back into court, before the judge to be named by Judge Parker, where, in conformity with the decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals which ruled the pay discrimination unconstitutional, the case will be retried on its merits and a decree formed by the court.

NOTE: Upon completion of this story word has just been received at the National Office of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from L. A. Ransom, member of the National Legal committee, in Washington, that Senior Circuit Judge Parker has assigned the case for trial on Monday, Feb. 7, before a Federal District Judge in Lynchburg, Va.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Pay Equality For Teachers Holds Stage

MAR 27 1941

Virginia, Mississippi and Alabama Make Certain Moves

WICOMICA CHURCH, Va. (ANP) —Addressing a local club here Friday, Superintendent of Schools William S. Brent announced that the salaries of Negro school teachers in Northumberland county are to be gradually increased until they are the same as that paid white teachers.

He revealed that under the former pay scale Negro teachers with a two year certificate received $57 and those with a four year certificate received $62 a month. White teachers with a two year certificate under the former pay scale received $75 and those with a four year certificate received $90 a month.

Under the new plan now being considered by the county board of supervisors, Negro teachers will receive an increase each year for three years and at the end of that time all teachers in the county with the same education and experience will receive the same compensation.

White Mississippi Teachers For Better Pay

JACKSON, Miss., (ANP)—Among the changes recommended by a committee of teachers at the conference of the Mississippi Education association, which are a demand for more equitable distribution of education funds between Negro and white children, the establishment of a colored junior college in the Delta and an increase in the appropriation for Alcorn A. and M. College.

The MEA Committee on Improvement of Negro Education asked that its report be accepted as the recommendation of the full association to the Legislative committee to Study and investigate Negro education nomed at the last legislative session. It was pointed out that "over $9 is spent for each white child in Mississippi when each dollar is spent for a Negro child.

J. W. Nicholson, president of the Alabama State Teachers association, in session here March 12-14.

Teachers turned down the "gradual" equalization theory of the State because it offered no definite time period for realization and approved the report of their education committee which called for legal action to do away with color differentials in teacher salary schedules.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

County Plans Equal Salaries

MAR 29 1941

WICOMICO CHURCH, Va.—Plans for the equalization of salaries for colored school teachers of Northumberland County with those of white teachers are gradually being worked out, according to William Brent, superintendent of schools, in an address here before the Ruritan Club.

Under the new plan outlined by Superintendent Brent, colored teachers will receive an increase in pay each year for three years, at the end of which all teachers in the county with the same educational qualifications and experience will receive the same compensation.

MAR 29 1941

Comparative Figures

The present scale shows that colored teachers with a two-year certificate receive $57 and those with a four-year certificate receive $62 a month compared to white teachers with a two-year certificate calling for $75 and those with four-year certificates receiving $90 a month.

MAR 29 1941

If the proposal is adopted, all two-year certificate teachers will be started at $75 a month with an increase at the rate of $5 a month for each year until a maximum of $90 has been reached, and all four-year certified teachers will be started at $90 a month with a yearly increase until a maximum of $110 has been reached.

The budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 has been drafted and presented to the county board of supervisors for its adoption at its next meeting on March 24. If adopted, it has been pointed, an increase of $14,000 will be needed.

Portsmouth, Va. Star
March 9, 1941

Colored Teachers Pay Equalization Favored By Board

The Norfolk county school board went on record yesterday as favoring equalization of salaries for colored teachers of Norfolk county with teachers in the white schools.

Colored school teachers of the county had been seeking for some time an equalization of salaries. The Norfolk county branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which gave its efforts in the pay equalization movement was represented at the school board meeting by Rev. D. F. Gladney and Fred Trotman.

The school board is expected to make its recommendation on the matter to the county Board of Supervisors at the board's meeting Tuesday afternoon. It was stated that details of the equalization plan hinges upon the Board of Supervisors' meeting and consideration of the county budget.

Efforts for equalization of the salaries of colored teachers with those of white teachers began in the county last year and was the result of court ruling that disparity in the pay of white and colored teachers was unconstitutional. The court ruling was hanged down in the Norfolk city pay equalization issue that developed last year.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Campbell County Teachers To Get Salary Increase

JAN 18 1941

By W. T. LEE

LYNCHBURG, Va.—At the December meeting of the Campbell County school board a petition, signed by practically all of the Negro teachers of the county, was presented asking that the board and superintendent of school "establish and enforce" a single salary schedule for the teachers employed by the county, without regard to race or color.

The teachers requested that sufficient funds be included in the next budget to make it possible to begin the operation of this scale for the year 1941-1942.

In making this request, they said: "We recognize the difficulties that may be encountered by such an adjustment. We wish to assure the superintendent and the board of our full cooperation in meeting these difficulties. We wish also to emphatically affirm our position—that the equalization of salaries in this county be accomplished without reducing the pay of the white teachers in the Campbell County School system."

J. C. Moultrie, president of the County Teachers' Conference, states that the new petition was favorably received by the board, which passed a resolution to meet the request as quickly as possible, and promised an increase to each Negro teacher of $10 a month for the season of 1941-42, if possible.

The board expressed appreciation of the attitude and the spirit of coperation the teachers displayed in their petition and in making their request.

JAN 18 1941

the equalization of teachers' salaries in keeping with the recent Supreme Court decision favoring Norfolk teachers. They found the board already working on plans for the equalization.

The plan as revealed to the committee showed that one third the difference will be given next year and in three years the salaries of all teachers, regardless of race, will be the same for the same qualifications.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk. Virginia

Abingdon Teachers To Get Equal Pay

JAN 18 1941

ABINGDON, Va. — The Abingdon school board has agreed to equalize the salaries of Negro and white teachers beginning with the school term of 1941-42, it was announced here recently.

This action came after negotiations between the local branch of the NAACP and the school board had been conducted.

Because of the untiring leadership of the Rev. Lun P. Whitten president of the local NAACP branch, much progress was made in these conferences towards achieving a peaceful settlement of the salary question.

50 PER CENT DIFFERENTIAL

The differential between colored and white salaries is approximately 50 per cent at the present.

The local NAACP group is also seeking a new school building to replace the present five room building which is regarded as very inadequate for the instruction of the 182 students who attend the school.

The building, now in use, has no assembly room and has inadequate provision for manual training or science instruction.

Rev. Mr. Whitten is assisted in his efforts to improve conditions here by Mrs. Blanche Aarons, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Teachers Seek Equal Pay In Another Virginia Town

JAN 10 1941

PETERSBURG, Va. — (ANP)—The Negro Teachers' Cooperative association asked the city council Friday to take under advisement the question of bringing about parity in the pay of white and Negro teachers in the city system, based upon qualifications and services. Attention was called to the recent decision of the United State Supreme court involving the Norfolk system, in which the plaintiff won a decision.

Speaking for the council, Mayor Alexander Hamilton Jr., said that he had been advised that the matter had already received some consideration from the school board, and that further study would be gives it by council and the board. He pointed out, however, that no provision for increases in salary had been provided for in the budget to be adopted, and that no action could be taken at once.

JAN 10 1941

Councilman Remmie L. Arnold also said that setting of teachers' salaries was a matter for the school board, and that the council had no jurisdiction as long as the board kept within its allocation. He said that no increase in appropriation had been requested when the 1941 budget was prepared.

No definite figure was submitted as to what equity in salaries might cost, but the council was warned that any large addition to the school budget would make necessary an increase in taxes.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Bedford Teachers Ask Pay Equality

JAN 18 1941

BEDFORD, Va.—Asking that the salaries of white teachers not be lowered to meet the equalization, colored teachers of Bedford county filed a petition with the county and municipal school boards requesting the local officials to eliminate differentials in white and colored teachers' salaries last week.

All of the teachers in the county signed the petition which asked that the municipal and county boards establish a single salary scale. The petition was presented by some of the teachers who were appointed by the Bedford Negro Teachers Association.

The committee was accompanied by several civic leaders in the community, all of whom offered their support to Superintendent A. G. Cummings in seeking a peaceful settlement of the matter.

This citizens group included James Jordan, Dr. R. C. Anderson, and the Rev. G. J. Wilson and others.

The teachers and citizens are awaiting a reply from school board officials before taking further action.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Va. Education Board Votes To Equalize Salaries

JAN 4 1941

LEESBURG, Va.—Equalization of Negro and white teachers' salaries in Loudoun County, Virginia by 1943, was voted by the county board of education at a meeting here December 11. The board voted to wipe out the differential after it had received a petition from a local Negro teacher group. Filing of the petition was the outgrowth of a statewide conference called at Richmond, November 21, by the Virginia State Teachers Association. At this meeting, which was attended by N. A. A. C. P. attorneys including Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the association, the teachers voted to file petitions in every county in the state for equalization of salaries. Petitions are now on file before education boards in Richmond, Newport News and Danville, Virginia.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Amherst For Three-Year Parity Plan

JAN 18 1941

Equalization of Teachers' Salaries Begins Next Year

(Reprinted from Last Week's Late Edition)

AMHERST, Va.—The Amherst County School Board will begin a parity of teachers' salaries with the school year 1941-42 by use of a percentage scale to be worked out by the board, and which will insure equal salaries on the basis of qualification in the next three years.

This action was accomplished by joint efforts of the teachers and the Parent-Teacher Association of Amherst County.

Following a special meeting held at Madison Heights by the teachers on December 7, which was addressed by Miss Bernice Lomax of the Dunbar High School, the teachers and parent-teacher associations met jointly on Sunday, December 15, and appointed a committee of seven men to frame a petition to be presented to the school board.

The committee drew up the petition, asking for salary parity between colored and white teachers to be equalized in three years in keeping with the recent Supreme Court decision favoring teachers in other cities and counties, and presented it to Superintendent W. D. Cox on Saturday, December 21.

On Monday, January 6, this seven-man committee met with the school board which adopted the petition and set in motion the plan to begin the parity of salaries on a percentage scale for the next three years at the end of that period, all teachers will be receiving the same pay on the basis of their certificates.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

White Teachers Advised Against Salary Cutting

JAN 4 - 1941

RICHMOND — Although the Richmond Teachers' Association had made it clear that lowering of pay standards of white teachers is not desired, the white League of Richmond Teachers has petitioned the school board to avoid racial antagonism by seeking added funds from the city council to equalize pay for white and colored teachers.

The letter from the league, headed by Miss Florence Ingram, said that the board should ask the council for an appropriation to equalize the salaries gradually, and promised aid in taking the request to the city legislators.

Lowering the salaries of white teachers to achieve equalization would lower teaching standards and bring criticism from other sections of the South, the white teachers said.

Alexandria, Va. Gazette
February 11, 1941

Raising Negro Teachers' Pay

Instruction, including salaries of all white and Negro teachers, $244,335, an increase of $33,578.70. The board is allowing a gradual increase in salaries of Negro teachers over a five-year period, in order to bring their salaries on a par paid white teachers.

Other instructional costs, including clerk hire for principal of High Schools, travel for supervisor and vocational teachers, tuition paid other divisions, tuition paid town districts, general supplies, laboratory supplies, libraries, manual training supplies, free textbooks, vocational training supplies and other expenses, $13,400, increase of $3,880.

Coordinate activities, which includes compensation for dentist and compulsory attendance administration, $1,400, no increase.

Norfolk, Va. Pilot
February 7, 1941

Teacher Pay Controversy End Sighted

City Council and School Board Reported to Have Reached Decision

The Norfolk City Council and School Board are understood to have reached a decision, in a conference yesterday afternoon, for bringing the badly tangled Negro teacher pay case to a conclusion before the scheduled trial of the suit on its merits February 17.

Although the nature of the decision was not revealed, members of the Council and School Board were of the opinion that they could now work out a compromise with the Negro attorneys which would obviate the expense and trouble of a trial.

The suit is that of Melvin O. Alston against the Norfolk School Board seeking salaries for Negro teachers on a parity with the salaries paid white teachers in corresponding positions. Since the Supreme Court has declined to review the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals holding that Negro teachers are entitled to pay parity, the principle involved is regraded as settled. The case has never yet been "heard on its merits," however.

Parity is Granted

The present disagreement which may force this "trial on the merits" --after the City Council already has agreed to give the Negro teachers parity with white teachers in three years—is over the verbiage of a concent degree to take the case out of the Federal District Court. The Negro attorneys insist on a declaratory judgment and injunction, in addition to a statement of the contract for parity. Until yesterday, the School Board had refused consent to the declaratory judgment and injunction. It is believed that yesterday's decision was to consent to most of this, possibly with some modification of plaintiff demands to be asked of the Negroes.

Should the case come to trial "on its merits," Judge A. D. Barksdale, of the Western District of Virginia, has been designated by Judge John J. Parker, senior judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, to sit for Judge Luther B. Way, who has disqualified himself.

Charlottesville, Va. Progress
January 30, 1941

Negro Teachers Ask Pay Parity

Colored Organizations Direct Petition To County School Board

A petition reported signed by officers of 26 Negro organizations has been received by the Albemarle County School board and R. Claude Graham, division superintendent, requesting the establishment of a single salary schedule for teachers in the county system "without regard to race or color..."

The Charlottesville City School board now has under consideration a similar request asking pay parity for Negro teachers in the city system.

The petition presented the county board states in part:

"The undersigned organizations and Citizens' Committee respectively request that the school board and the Superintendent of schools in Albemarle county establish and enforce a single salary schedule for the teachers, principals and supervisors employed in the Albemarle County School system, without regard to race or color, and also, take immediate steps to equalize the salaries of white and Negro teachers in keeping with the recent constitutional interpretation."

The petitioners also requested that this single standard of compensation be accompanied without reducing the pay of any of the teachers, principals or supervisors employed by the Albemarle County School board.

The petition was signed by either the chairman or secretary or both of each of 26 different Negro organizations.

Richmond, Va. News-Leader
February 17, 1941

School Salary Equalization May Cost $240,000 Yearly

Binford Estimates Raising Rate for Negro Teachers Equivalent to 10-Cent Tax Increase

Equalization of Negro teachers' salaries in Richmond with those of white instructors, which is now under consideration by the School Board, would cost the city approximately $240,000 additional each year, Superintendent Binford revealed today. This would be the equivalent of a 10cent increase in the tax rate, he said.

Mr. Binford said that there were seventy-five Negro high school teachers in Richmond and 230 Negro elementary school instructors. In addition there are at present four Negro principals of schools.

The maximum salary for white high school teachers here is $2,200, he said, while the present maximum salary for Negroes in the same position is $1,500. In the case of women instructors it is $1,400.

The maximum salary for white elementary school teachers is $1,800, while that for Negro elementary male teachers is $1,200, female $1,100. Since the big majority of all teachers are women the lower scale is the one generally prevailing.

A beginner in teaching in a white school in the city, whether it be elementary or high school, is paid $1,100, while a Negro woman teacher beginning in an elementary school receives only $650, in a high school $800.

Mr. Binford said that in asking for equalization of salaries, however, the local Negro instructors had indicated a willingness to have the equalization effected gradually over a period of years rather than at one time. They also expressed no desire to have equalization of salaries at a cost of lowering the pay of white instructors.

A committee appointed from the School Board by Dr. Roshier W. Miller, chairman, now has the matter of salary equalization under consideration but has as yet made no report to the School Board. The committee is composed of W. J. Fisher, Norman L. Flippen, Mrs. Henry W. Decker, Mr. Binford, Dr. Ramon D. Garcin and Dr. Miller.

Altavista, Va., Journal
February 20, 1941

BARKSDALE RULES EQUAL SALARIES FOR NEGRO TEACHERS

County observers pointed to the decision last week of Judge Barksdale in the Norfolk court as being a significant one in the light of recent petitions that have been registered by negro teachers in Campbell and other counties.

Federal District Judge A. D. Barksdale, sitting at Norfolk for Judge Luther B. Way Monday handed down a final judgment in the case of Melvin O. Alston, Negro teacher, and the Norfolk Teachers' Association against the Norfolk School Board and C. W. Mason, superintendent of the city's public schools, which made it mandatory for the salaries of white and Negro teachers and principals to be equalized, and enjoined school officials here from future discriminations in the salary schedules solely on account of race or color.

Judge Barksdale, whose jurisdiction is in the Western District of Virginia, was designated by Judge J. J. Parker of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Judicial District, to sit in the case after Judge Way disqualified himself. Judge Way last summer ruled against the Negro teachers, but was reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The judgment brings to an end the long legal wrangle over equalization of salaries.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

2 Teachers Set to Sue for Salary

NOV 18 1941

Association Has Fund to Assure Their Support

RICHMOND—With their de mand for equalization within fi years rejected flatly by the scho board, local teachers have raise approximately $3,000 to guaran tee the salary of one of the fellows for two years, and wi take the pay fight to the court unless there is a prompt turn about.

Announcement of the teacher answer to the board's rejection c their proposals came on Sunda at the closing meeting of the Stat Conference of NAACP Branches.

The school board last week voted to stand by its current plan of equalizing salaries in eight to eleven years without any guarantee of raises or parity after ten years of service.

Oliver W. Hill, attorney for the Richmond Teachers' Association and the State Teachers' Association, said that two persons will be available as plaintiffs whenever the Richmond teachers wish to sue to force equalization within a reasonable period.

Similar Case Cited

In a similar case in Norfolk, the Federal district court ruled against the teachers, but the Federal Circuit Court upset that verdict by ruling that teachers with the same qualifications must be paid the same, regardless of race. The Norfolk board appealed, but the Supreme Court refused to review the case.

Melvin O. Alston, who was the plaintiff in that case, was present at the NAACP meeting on Sunday and was elected second vice-president of the State conference.

Miss Aline Black, who first instituted suit for the teachers in Norfolk, only to lose her job and ing later be reinstated when the teachers won, also was present.

Walter White, executive secretary of the NAACP, was the speaker on Sunday at Fifth Street Baptist Church, where the two-day meeting was concluded.

Mr. White declared that the question had resolved itself into whether the Richmond school board or the United States Supreme Court would lay down the law on equality of pay for teachers.

NOV 18 1941

Would Avoid Suit

He said that the teachers want to settle the controversy without resort to courts, but insisted that the NAACP would sue on behalf of the local teachers if necessary.

The speaker pointed out that in thirty-six Virginia counties there has been no opposition to equalization by white citizens, and said that in ten counties they have helped the colored teachers.

Equalization in the State will cost almost $2,000,000, and it will cost about twelve times that amount in the whole South, Mr. White said. He foresaw Federal aid as one means of ending the color discrimination.

Dr. W. L. Ransome, of Richmond, member of the NAACP national board, said that more legal fighting would strengthen the position of colored citizens, and pointed out that the ballot is another useful weapon in gaining rights due citizens.

Education Discounted

He discounted education and goodwill as being very helpful, and said that the trained colored man is regarded as threatening the continuance of white men in certain jobs, and added that goodwill can bring no more than white people are willing to give you.

NOV 18 1941

Speaking at the Southern Aid Building on Saturday night, Dr. Luther P. Jackson, of Virginia State College, president of the Virginia Voters' League, said that the number of colored people paying the poll tax had fallen off in the past year, but added that more are registering and voting.

Hundreds, he pointed out, simply pay their taxes, but never register or vote and thus waste their money. He urged exposure for teachers and preachers who do not get in the vanguard by paying taxes, registering and voting.

League in 24 Cities

Dr. Jackson said that the league, which he regards as an auxiliary to the NAACP, has chairmen in eighty counties and twenty-four cities.

Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the Baltimore and Maryland NAACP units, told the conference that it is necessary to use a paid director to keep things moving in an NAACP campaign. Head of a branch that raised over $5,000 this year, she said that the NAACP is the only organization putting on a constant battle for the rights of citizenship.

Twenty-three of forty branches were represented by twenty-one delegates at the meeting, and a State membership of 3,460 was reported by the secretary, Laurence D. Bolling of Richmond.

Tinsley Re-elected

Dr. J. M. Tinsley was retained as president and H. E. Fauntleroy was elevated to first vice-president. Miss Ethel Haile of Petersburg remained as assistant secretary, and Dr. S. F. Coppage, of Norfolk, who presided at the Sunday meeting, continued as treasurer.

G. Nelson Carter, president of the Gloucester County NAACP, presided at the meeting's Saturday.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Teachers To Take Case To Court

NOV 15 1941

Richmond School Board Rejects 5-Year Proposal

RICHMOND—Teachers in the colored schools of Richmond have definitely decided to carry their fight for equal pay to court, it was brought out at the meeting of the Virginia State Branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, held last weekend in Richmond.

Meetings of the legal staff of the Association and the sterring committee of the Conference in charge of teachers' salary plans consumed a large part of the conference, in addition to discussion of carrying the fight for equal pay ahead in other communities in the state.

NOV 15 1941

At the closing mass meeting of the Conference, attended by more than 1,500 persons, Walter White, executive secretary of the Association, delivered a challenging address on the subject of teachers' salaries.

The decision to take the case to court came after the Richmond School Board had rejected the five-year plan for equalization submitted by the teachers. A fifteen year plan prepared by the Board is now in effect.

"Who is going to rule the United States," Mr. White asked, the Richmond City School Board of the Supreme Court of Appeals of the United States of America?

The query was delivered at the conclusion of his dramatic announcement that the association and the Richmond colored teachers would accept the challenge of the school board which flashed a categorical "No" to the teachers' petition that they be given equality in pay with the white teachers within five years. The audience, in which there was a large number of teachers, responded vigorously as Mr. White told of the determination of the association to fight the Richmond school board through the courts.

PREFER TO DISCUSS MATTER

"The association does not elect to fight," the speaker continued. "We prefer to discuss the matter and reach conclusions around the conference table. But if the Richmond school board wants a fight, believe me, we'll give them one. We will not be denied."

On the previous Friday night, the Richmond teachers had gathere dat Armstrong High School to hear the plans for furthering their case. A sum of $2,700 was contributed by the teachers to carry on the fight.

The fight of the colored teachers for pay parity in the South is only one phase of this discrimination which runs throughout the life of America. We fight the teachers' battle at this time because it is the next line of defense in our war against racial discrimination."

READS NORFOLK DECISION

NOV 15 1941

After reading the decision of the United States District Court of Appeals as given by Justice Parker in the Alston teacher salary case from Norfolk, he told of the attiude of the school board and citizens in Louisville, who, when approached on the subject said that they thought equalization of teachers pay right and just.

"Richmond is not intelligent," he said. "In fact, it is one of the most unintelligent places in the State. If they, (the school board and Richmond) were intelligent, they would not flaunt the decision of the highest court in the land, which virtually conceded the right of the teachers for equal pay, when it refused a writ to the City of Norfolk to place the case upon its docket for further hearing."

NOV 15 1941

Commenting upon the backwardness and economic poverty of the Southland, he said that the efforts of the whites to keep the Negro down and his innate laziness was the cause of his present plight. He then said that a part of the Negro's economic insufficiency was caused by this differential in pay in all of the classes of work done by them.

LOSE MORE THAN $220,000

"Consider this," he stated, "when you talk about the economic failure of the Negro. In Richmond alone, the teachers lose more than $220,000 per year through inequality in pay with white teachers. In Virginia, colored teachers lose $1,958,598 by this inequality and in America the staggering total is more than $26,000,000."

Speaking of the attempt to intimidate the teacher, read the account of the statements by "one Norman L. Flippen, a member of your school board who hinted that many teachers would lose their jobs if they continued to agitate for equal pay."

"Your teachers answered that fellow last Friday night, when they laid more than $2,700 on the table to guarantee two years pay to the teacher who will be used to institute the suit against the school board," he shouted.

Dr. S. F. Coppage of Norfolk, presided during this session and music was rendered by Virginia Union University's Choral Club.

Dr. W. L. Ransome gave an address on "The Negro and the Franchise," which was a plea for larger participation in the political and civil life of Virginia.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Richmond Teachers Plan Suit For Pay Equalization

NOV 4 1941

RICHMOND, Va.—(ANP) — Attorney for Richmond Teachers association, Oliver W. Hill, announced Saturday that the teachers plan to institute suit against the city school board unless action is taken on a plan to equalize Negro and white salaries within five years. A defense fund has already been raised by the Virginia State Teachers' association and the local teachers' association and a plaintiff has been selected.

It was pointed out that the school board had been presented with a compromise equalization plan at its September meeting The plan called for equalization of salaries within 8 to 11 years. The new plan offered by the teachers association would bring complete equalization within five years. However, since the plan has been submitted to the board, no report has been made on it to teachers.

Any suit here would be instituted in federal district court and would be based on favorable ruling of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in June, 1940, on a suit for equalization brought by Norfolk, Va., teachers. The U. S. Supreme court denied a later appeal by the Norfolk School board.

A special committee of the school board was scheduled to appear before the city council's finance committee October 21 to present the compromise plan. However, the finance committee did not find it convenient to hear the plan, so the proposal was not presented. The city attorney advised the school board that the plan now in operation met the requirements of the federal court in his opinion.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Board Plans Periodic Increments

DEC 6 1941

$75 Yearly In Newport News;

NOV 4 1941

5% In Hampton

NEWPORT NEWS—The tug-of-war between colored teachers and the school boards here, and in Hampton and Elizabeth City County, to decide how and when equalization of salaries will become a reality, entered its most critical stage last week when the respective city councils discussed the 1942 budget for school appropriations.

The Newport News council, upon recommendation of the city manager, approved an additional $7,000—ostensibly from the board's viewpoint—to start equalization in 1942.

DEC 6 1941

NEWPORT NEWS

Superintendent Joseph H. Saunders, in an interview with a Guide-Star representative Thursday afternoon, November 27, said that it is proposed to increase the salary of the staff of 95 colored teachers by $75 each in the new year, which, if followed through each year by the council, "would equalize salaries in about six or seven years."

He said the exact amount added to the budget for salary increase in 1942 was $12,200, the difference of $5,200 to be allocated to white teachers.

The colored teachers will meet on December 8 when it is expected they will reject the latest proposal. They were not consulted by the board when the plan to boost their pay by $75 was worked out, and their petition of last September requesting rescinding of the new salary scale remains unanswered.

TEST RESULTS

DEC 6 1941

One of their spokesmen revealed to the Guide-Star that no aggressive action has thus far been taken against the board because of the superintendent's assurance last summer, that equalization would come promptly for colored teachers who made creditable marks in the October educational tests.

The results of the tests are now in the Superintendent's office, but have not been made known. Again this spokesman points out, the proposed additional $75 for every colored teacher would not constitute equalization because more than 60 per cent of the additional $7,000 represents the usual $75 yearly increment for teachers, mostly elementary, who have not yet reached their maximum, making the actual increase for those in the maximum bracket less than $3,000.

Superintendent Saunders expressed much concern about the decision of the Richmond teachers to sue for immediate equalization in lieu of accepting the 15-year plan offered by the Richmond school board. He commented to the Guide-Star that efforts of colored teachers to force immediate equalization or even over a three-year span would upset the city's financial structure, pointing out that the council has just voted a 20-cent increase on the basic tax rate, and citing the urgent need for additional funds for white schools to meet the surplus population.

All teachers in the Newport News system received a 10 per cent salary increase last September.

DEC 6 1941

HAMPTON PROGRAM

A five percent salary increase for teachers, principals and janitors was recommended last week by the schcol boards of Hampton, Phoebus and Elizabeth City County. Unanimous approval was given subject to confirmation by the city councils of Hampton and Phoebus, and the county board of supervisors.

Superintendent Robert M. Newton told the boards the increase would total $10,000. He said colored teachers received the biggest raises when the first five per cent raise was given at the beginning of the term to teachers in Hampton and Phoebus—this ranged from $35 to $145, the purpose being "to equalize their salaries with those of white teachers." These increments amounted to $5,000.

Colored teachers in Hampton and Elizabeth City County, like their colleagues in Newport News, are still waiting for an official invitation to sit down with the school board and work out an equtable equalization plan.

SUITS IN OFFING

DEC 6 1941

They are meeting Tuesday night of this week to hear the salary committee's report and recommendations as to further action. And while officers of the two teacher associations here and in Hampton refuse to be quoted, the Guide-Star has been advised from usually reliable sources that continued refusal by the boards to negotiate an amicable settlement will hasten early suits simultaneously in the two cities.

Thurgood Marshall, NAACP Counsel who is directing salary cases in a number of states, and was active in the historic Norfolk litigation, is due to inspect the books and records of the local school board—by previous appointment with Superintendent Saunders — within the next 10 days.

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch
November 5, 1941

A Dividend From Meters?

THE Common Council has adopted and sent to the Board of Aldermen for concurrence, an amendment to the City Code which would reduce the city automobile license tax by 25 per cent. The minimum local license fee paid by automobile owners would be reduced from $6 to $4.50, and rates in the higher brackets would be correspondingly lowered. The reduction would cost the city about $45,000 a year in revenue, and, of course, would provide automobile owners, who feel that they are overtaxed, with some welcome relief.

Those who favor the tax reduction will be quick to point out that when parking meters were placed on the streets in 1939, it was understood that Council would consider placing their earnings to the credit of the automobile taxpayers. This newspaper, in advocating the meters, said that it was only fair that this question should be considered. Yet we said also, that what could be accomplished for tax reduction as a result of the meter's takings "depended upon a number of factors beyond the parking problem, which affect the balance of the city budget."

Can the city now afford to grant the considerable measure of tax reduction provided by the act of the Common Council? This question should be given careful consideration by the Board of Aldermen and by MAYOR AMBLER. There is, for example, the matter of equalizing the pay of the Negro teachers of Richmond. The Supreme Court of the United States has held that equal pay for equal service must be given those teachers. Under the plan adopted by the City School Board, equalization will not be provided in many cases in less than eight to eleven years, while 15 years will be required for full equalization in the new maximum salary brackets. The Negro teachers have suggested an alternate plan for full equalization in five years, which is more equitable. Under this plan, the appropriation for teachers' salaries would be increased annually by about $43,000 a year during the five-year period—almost exactly the amount the Common Council desires to return to the automobile taxpayers.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Richmond Teachers Gird for Fight

ANOTHER chapter in the history making struggle for equal pay for teachers in the state of Virginia is about to be written.

The scene of the battle has shifted from the Tidewater city of Norfolk, where the opening gun was fired to the capital of the Old Dominion.

The teachers of the colored schools of Richmond are "digging in" for a fight to the last ditch. The "cause celebre" is the rejection on the part of the school board of their proposed five-year plan for equalization.

This decision on the part of the Richmond teachers comes after more than a year of discussions and proposals. After studying the situation, the Richmond School Board submitted a fifteen-year plan which guarantees the maximum pay to all teachers within that period of time. Under this plan, the salary would be equalized within a period of nine years.

The teachers in the school system looked with disfavor upon this proposal and submitted for consideration a five-year salary equalization plan. Last week, the Board rejected this.

NOV 15 1941

Richmond teachers, it is learned, have contributed a sum of more than $2,000 to promulgate the case. A teacher has consented to enter the suit and all is in readiness to institute legal proceedings.

The Richmond School Board does not seem to be exercising its usual foresight in allowing this matter to go before the courts. It would save not only the taxpayers' money but also a lot of time and trouble, if the Board would adopt some workable plan acceptable to the teachers.

The Richmond teachers have in their favor the attitude of the Supreme Court in the Norfolk teachers' salary case. They also have the backing and support of the citizens of Richmond and of thinking citizens throughout the state and nation who see in the discrimination between white and colored teachers' pay an obstacle to the full realization of democracy in this country.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

LEADERS IN FIGHT FOR EQUAL SALARY OUSTED BY BOARD

AUG 2

FORTSMOUTH, Va., Aug. 21—Colored and white citizens of Norfolk County, Va., are up in arms over the county school board's refusal to reinstate three colored principals and its re-organization plan which would make Negro principals subordinate to white principals in their districts.

The school board is reported to have received and ignored nearly 200 petitions protesting the ousters.

A mass meeting was held recently at which more than $50 was collected to back the fight for reinstatement of the three men, James G. Gilliam, B. W. Elliot and James A. Overton.

Speaking for a delegation of 50 persons who appeared before the school board, Oliver W. Hill of Richmond, NAACP legal staff member, charged the baord with initiating a vicious, Nazi-Fascist system and stated the community's objection to placing white principals over Negro schools.

LEADERS IN PAY FIGHT

Public opinion is that the dismissals came as reprisals for the recent campaign to equalize teachers' salaries in Norfolk county. Those dismissed were leaders of the Norfolk County Teachers' Association which petitioned for pay equalization last spring. The school board and superintendent were reported to have refused to give any specific reason for the ousters.

In attempting to arrange a protest demonstration meeting last Saturday, Attorney Hill secured the cooperation of the Norfolk police chief, until Colonel Borland, Norfolk city manager, learned of the plan and put pressure on the police chief to stop the meeting. The meeting was held without the cooperation of the police.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Abolishing Civil Rights of Teachers

THE Richmond Times-Dispatch, viewing with alarm certain recent actions on the part of Norfolk county and Sussex county school authorities, in dropping colored principals and teachers ostensibly because of their activities in behalf of better salaries, suggests that a responsibility to intervene in this matter rests with the State Board of Education. In Norfolk county three colored principals were not reappointed, and subsequent developments indicate that the future policy of the Norfolk county board is to have white principals supervise the schools formerly headed by these colored principals, meanwhile having a "head teacher" to function under these white supervising principals. On this point the Times Dispatch observes:

If white principals are to replace colored principals who are being dismissed, our separate system of education will be threatened by those who are its trustees.

The Norfolk county authorities have proceeded with slight regard for the troublous potentialities in such a course. Of the action of the Sussex county board in refusing to reemploy the teacher who headed committee which petitioned the board for equalization of salaries, and then put into the current contracts a covenant contrary to law and reason, the Times-Dispatch suggests that this and other moves recently made are "more dangerous to civil liberty than unequal pay scales."

AUG 30 1941

Whatever the colored teachers may have to suffer temporarily, it may be certain that gross violence to the Bill of Rights will be reflected in the welfare of the white teachers. It is impossible to strip the colored people of all civil rights without bringing down upon the heads of the white people the results of such action.

AUG 30 1941

Whatever the future may hold for the colored teachers, and for the colored children under their care, it is certain that their jobs are not as dear to them as their civil liberties. It is much better to be free men and women than to be teachers. Just as the Norfolk city case went up to the Supreme Court of the United States, so will the Norfolk county and Sussex county cases—and all similar cases—find their way eventually to the court of last resort.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

NORFOLK SCHOOL BOARD

AUG 30 1941

The action of the Norfolk county school board which places three white principals in positions formely filled by Negroes, can be construed only as a vicious attempt to intimidate Race teachers who insisted on equalization of salaries. It is no mere coincidence that the three Negro teachers who led the fight for equal salary schedules were the ones involved in the administrative changes.

It is interesting to note that liberal white members of the Portsmouth community affected by this action, have joined the Negroes in voicing their condemnation of the decision of the board. Perhaps the best argument advanced by those who dissented with the school board was based on the ground that the practice of placing white principals as heads of Negro schools removes desirable economic opportunities from Negroes who wish to make teaching a professional career. Besides, nothing could be more destructive of racial pride and ambition of our school children than the constant elevating of white teachers to positions obviously merited by Negro teachers.

AUG 30 1941

The people of Portsmouth should not allow a narrow-minded county school board to invade their legitimate rights without exposing the system to the glare of public criticism. They have a right to demand justice and fairness from all public officials whose positions are maintained through public taxation. The Negro teachers of Portsmouth should work unceasingly to force the board to rescind its action. They owe this to themselves and to those who had enough fortitude to fight for a square deal.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

NAACP PLEADS IN VAIN FOR SQUARE DEAL

Believe Equal Salary Campaign Cause For Board's Action

PORTSMOUTH, Va.—Colored and white citizens of Norfolk County, Va., are up in arms over the county school board's refusal to reinstate three colored principals, and the board's reorganization plan which would make Negro principals subordinate to white principals in their districts.

The school board is reported to have received and ignored nearly 200 petitions protesting the ousters.

The unanimous vote of the county school board stunned the delegation of Race residents of Norfolk county, following so closely as it did the dramatic appeal for justice and fair play made by Attorney Oliver H. Hill of Richmond, fiery member of the N.A.A.C.P. legal staff of Virginia.

The school board expressed the opinion that whatever changes have been made in the administrative set-up in the county schools will be for the good of the system. The curt notice of dismissal attached to the pay checks of the three principals in June stated: "With the hope of improving our system, we are making some changes at the (names of three schools given), so your services will not be needed next year." The statements were signed by the superintendent of county schools.

Attorney Hill, who addressed the board in its August 9 session, was fearless in his condemnation of the board's action in discharging the three school heads without a hearing and without giving cause for such dismissals.

"It is a vicious system intended to intimidate the citizens of Norfolk county," Attorney Hill declared. "It will hurt the initiative of the Negro children...We want progressive people at the head of our schools. We feel that the system being inaugurated is a most degrading system."

He told the board frankly that it might expect continued opposition on the part of county citizens, that the fight would be carried on until a satisfactory solution had been worked out. Reinstatement of the dismissed principals, or abandonment of the new system, or both, were requested.

"We are not here to make threats," Attorney Hill said. "We object to having white principals over Negro schools. It is the general practice throughout the South to replace white principals with Negro principals...What good does it do to educate Negro children and then take away their economic opportunity?"

A mass meeting was held recently at which funds were collected to back the fight for reinstatement of the three men, James G. Gilliam, B. W. Elliot and James A. Overton.

Public opinion is that the dismissals came as reprisals for the recent campaign to equalize teachers' salaries in Norfolk county. Those dismissed were leaders of the Norfolk County Teachers association which petitioned for pay equalization last spring. The school board and superintendent were reported to have refused to give any specific reason for the ousters.

In attempting to arrange a protest demonstration meeting last Saturday, Attorney Hill secured the cooperation of the Norfolk police chief, until Colonel Borland, Norfolk city manager, learned of the plan and put pressure on the police chief to stop the meeting. The meeting was held without the cooperation of the police.

Norfolk, Va. Pilot
August 10, 1941

Worse Than Talmadgeism

Without advance notice, and without any attendant charge of delinquency or inefficiency, the Norfolk County School Board recently refused to renew the contracts of three Negro school principals. They discovered that they were fired when they found attached to their June pay checks slips of paper informing them they were being dismissed "with the hope of improving the system."

Those dismissed were: B. W. Elliott, principal of the Churchland School for seven years; James G. Gilliam, for eight years principal of the Gilmerton School; and James M. Overton, principal of the Oakwood School for two years, and prior to that, for five years, member of the teaching staff of the Churchland School. The latter is also president of the colored Norfolk County Teachers Association.

Why were these teachers fired? That question is not the private business of the Norfolk County School Board. That agency holds in trust a fragment of the great responsibility of Southern public education. It is responsible for the correct discharge of that trust not only to the people of Norfolk County, but also to the people of Virginia and to the public opinion of the South and of the nation.

Because Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, applied a cheap, wool-hat brand of politics to the University of Georgia's execution of a similar trust, forcing the Board of Trustees to dismiss two reputable educators on meretriciously distorted pretexts, he has been roundly condemned by the educators and publicists of the entire nation, and by none so vigorously as by the publicists and educators of the Southern States.

But Governor Talmadge, at least, undertook to justify his act by offering a reason for it. The reason reeked with cheap, hill-billy racial Untouchableness, but at least it was an attempt to explain why two reputable educators should be put on the chopping block.

The Norfolk County School Board has, so far, offered no explanation at all. That is worse than Talmadgeism. That is to do something indecent—to do violence to the elementary academic tradition which insures teachers security of tenure until they have forfeited that security by inefficiency or misbehavior, or until mandatory retrenchment requirements force their dismissal for reasons of economy.

Negro defenders of the dismissed principals make no secret of their suspicion that they were not re-employed because the School Board did not desire to place the Negro principals on the same salary basis with the principals of white schools. Superintendent James Hurst, of the Norfolk County Schools, denies that this is the reason for the dismissals. What, then, is the reason?

Mr. Hurst's reputation as a school executive is a long and honorable one. The Virginian-Pilot has followed his career with admiration. It must believe, therefore, that he is not genuinely a party to the business of throwing out into the street three Negro school principals against whose professional performance there has been no complaint, and whose appointments to the grade of principal were almost certainly not made, in the first place, without his approval.

All that Mr. Hurst has been willing to say in explanation of this peculiar head-chopping is that it was "necessary for the improvement of the system," and that it "may result in a small saving." As an educator fully aware of the nature of the academic trust and the perils that beset the discharge of that trust when the security of the teaching profession is attacked by forces working in secret, Mr. Hurst must know that these explanations do not satisfy.

A great principle is at stake here. It is the Bill of Rights principle which requires an accused to be confronted with his accusers—which requires, by direct inference, that an abrupt head-chopping applied to public school principals with honorable records, be publicly explained and publicly justified. There can be no security anywhere in the academic world, if educators can be executed secretly and without explanation on the authority of lettres de cachet.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Richmond's Pay Parity Plan For Teachers

UNDER a plan just adopted by the Richmond school board six to eight years will elapse before the pay of colored teachers will approximate the level now in force for white teachers of similar training and experience, and 15 years will have passed before the colored teachers catch up with the white teachers in the matter of full equalization. Concerning the action of the Richmond school board, the Times-Dispatch has the following to say:

> Six to eight years is a long time for the Negro teachers to have to wait for approximate equalization. In fact, the scale which was adopted requires 15 years for equalization on the higher levels of maximum pay. . . . The Supreme Court has ruled that these teachers must receive equal pay for equal work, and it may not regard anything in excess of five years as a reasonable period for carrying out this mandate.
>
> Avoidance of the responsbility which the Supreme Court's decision in the Norfolk case imposed, isn't going to be possible for more than a short time, either in Richmond or in the smallest Virginia county. Our school authorities may as well reconcile themelves to the idea of obedience, and set about finding ways of carrying that idea into effect in the way which will redound most happily to the welfare of the Commonwealth.

The Richmond plan is a compromise and may be accepted by the teachers, whose leaders in the State have been disposed to compromise rather than to insist upon a settlement which would engender bitter political and economic strife. But wherever compromise is proposed and accepted it should be reasonable. Richmond, it appears, has embarked upon a plan which subjects the teachers to extraordinary delays. But this is a question for Richmond to decide.

The more we view, in perspective, the settlement reached in Norfolk as compared with difficulties being encountered in other places—Newport News and Richmond as examples—the more reason we have to feel that, considering all the circumstances, Norfolk's City Manager, City Council, School Board and the local and State representatives of the teachers who participated in working out the plan, acted with reason and wisdom.

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch
September 1, 1941

Richmond's Pay Compromise

UNDER the uniform salary scale for white and colored Richmond school teachers which the City School Board now has adopted unanimously, it will be from six to eight years before all the Negro teachers are brought up to the level of pay now in force for white teachers of similar training and experience. The scale, which was presented by SUPERINTENDENT JESSE H. BINFORD, is a great improvement over the previous one, but analysis shows that it, too, leaves a good deal to be desired—as MR. BINFORD probably would be quick to admit.

Six to eight years is a long time for the Negro teachers to have to wait for approximate equalization. In fact, the scale which was adopted requires 15 years for equalization on the higher levels of maximum pay. If $25,000 extra were appropriated by Council at once as a supplementary amount to equalize Negro teachers' salaries, the six to eight years probably could be reduced to five. It seems a desirable step. The Supreme Court has ruled that these teachers must receive equal pay for equal work, and it may not regard anything in excess of five years as a reasonable period for carrying out this mandate.

It should be stated, also, that the plan contains a highly undesirable provision under which after 10 years' service, no teachers receives an increase in pay without action of the school board. This is going to be a headache of monumental proportions for the board, whose members probably will vote unanimously to repeal the section after they have tried to operate under it for a few months. They are apt to find that teachers and their friends who have failed to receive increases will worry them unmercifully.

When full equalization at all levels of pay takes place at the end of 15 years, it is expected to cost not more than $200,000 a year in excess of the present budget. This sum will be made available gradually in amounts which will place no crushing burden on the city. If $25,000 additional could be appropriated now, and the 10-year promotion clause would be eliminated, the compromise would be about as good as could reasonably be expected.

18v-1941

Danville, Va. Register
January 3, 1941

NEGRO TEACHERS SEEK PAY HIKE

Salary Problem Expected To Be Presented to School Board Tonight

Efforts of Danville Negro school teachers to boost their salary schedule to a basis of equality with that set-up for white teachers, will reach the City School Board at its monthly meeting tonight.

The subject was first presented at the December meeting when a delegation styling themselves a Citizens Committee and composed of business and professional men of the race advanced the equal salary proposal orally to the School Board. Since then, the Citizens Committee, joined by officers of the Colored Teachers' Association of Danville, have prepared a written brief of the proposal, together with arguments upon which they submit their claims.

Copies of the written brief were delivevred to Charles M. Riddle, Jr., chairman of the Danville School Board, and to G. L. H. Johnson, superintendent of city schools. In view of action taken by the Negro citizens and officers of the teachers' association, it is regarded as assurred the proposals will be discussed at the board meeting tonight.

The recent election of Carl A. Coley, former School Board clerk, as city auditor and clerk of the Council leaves the board with a vacancy to fill. Since schools are in session and the office of the superintendent is unusually busy at this season, it is probable the vacancy will be filled tonight.

Washington Post
Washington, D. C.

Colored Teachers In Charlottesville Seek Equal Pay

JAN 3 1941

Special Dispatch to The Post

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 2.—Equalization of the salaries of colored teachers in Charlottesville was the main issue of a petition presented to the city school board by the City Teachers Association of Charlottesville, an unincorporated group composed of colored educators in the city.

The petition was referred to the personnel committee and the committee on Negro education of the school board which now has the matter under consideration.

Dr. James G. Johnson, city superintendent of schools, said today that for the past eight years there has been in effect no fixed scale of increase for the salaries of teachers.

"When funds have been available the school board has always made an effort to readjust the salaries of teachers receiving lower rates of pay. The pay of teachers has never been based upon the grade of certificate held. In fixing the salaries of teachers a number of factors are taken into consideration. The school board has always had one thought in mind, to offer every teacher the best salary possible according to the funds available."

Newport News, Va. Press
January 3, 1941

NEGROES SEEK EARLY ACTION ON PAY SCALE

Trustees Also Face Draft-Supplement Issue

Action as soon as possible on the petition, presented two months ago, asking parity of white and Negro teachers' salaries in local schools was requested last night at the January school board meeting by Lutrelle F. Palmer, principal of Huntington Negro high school.

Also, the board took a vote that may result in the adoption of a definite policy of supplementing the army pay of school employes who are drafted for military duty, so long as they are in the service and remain in non-commissioned rank.

In November the Negro teachers presented what virtually amounted to a courteous demand that the board equalize the sararies of white and Negro teachers in local schools, and emphasized that in their opinion no teacher's salary should be reduced. They cited a recent United States supreme court decision on a case arising in Norfolk which, in effect, held that discrimination between the races, provided equal standards were required, was unconstitutional.

Last night Palmer pointed out that Norfolk already has made an agreement for gradual adjustment upward of Negro teachers' salaries, and that Roanoke, Loudoun county, Campbell county, and several other places have expressed favorable sentiment without taking definite action. He said he believed that an early favorable action by the board here would not only aid the local teachers, but would assist the group throughout the State in what "we believe to be the cause of justice."

Chairman Dorsey C. Pleasants assured Palmer that the board has received the request sympathetically and is considering it from every angle, and that the board will make a decision as soon as possible.

Superintendent of Schools Joseph H. Saunders called attention to the fact that Edward M. Wingfield, attendance officer of the local schools, has been drafted for military duty and—as the board approved in accepting Clerk W. Liverly Tabb's report—Alvin Powell Jr., has been appointed in his place.

Saunders suggested that since a soldier receives only $21 a month, and Wingfield was receiving $150 a month while Powell is receiving only $130, the difference—$20—be paid Wingfield. He made no definite recommendation, however, leaving it to the board.

Mrs. Lewis T. Jester argued that the matter should be handled as a definite policy, rather than concerning one individual. Saunders said there are 30 to 35 men of draft age in the teaching corps, and that he had obtained deferment to June for two of them.

The board finally adopted R. Berkeley Hancock's motion to pay the $20 difference to Wingfield during the year of his service, so long as he remains non-commissioned. The vote, however, was divided, Pleasants voting no.

Other matters included:

Adoption of Saunders' report, which contained announcement of the resignation, effective Jan. 31, of Miss Esther Cutler, teacher in the Newport News high school.

Approval of Tabb's recommendation that a new refrigerating unit be purchased at $137.50 for the high school cafeteria's refrigerator.

Approval of the request of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs that they be allowed to hold their weekly supper-meetings in the high school cafeteria. Saunders said Major Chester B. Koontz for Rotary and Ward W. Anderson for Kiwanis had asked this because the War Ick hotel, former meeting place, has remodeled the ballroom into rooms and no other commercial place is now available.

Saunders' report also recommended employment of Miss Anne Cosby as clerk in the high school library.

It gave total school enrollment for December as 7,032 as compared with 6,808 in December, 1939; average daily attendance, 6,213 as compared with 6,236 (reflecting the wave of mild influenza attacks which resulted in the board voting to close the schools at least until Monday, as noted on page one of this edition); and number on roll at end of the month, 6,662 as compared with 6,371.

It announced that the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has accredited the white high school for this year, and "we have met all requirements of the association." Until the two wings were added a year or so ago, the association several years had threatened to withdraw accrediting because of a substandard library.

As recommended, the board appropriated $30 to match a similar donation from the Thomas Jefferson school patrons for library. A State matching fund thus will give the library $120 worth of books.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

NAACP SCORES IN TEACHER'S SALARY FIGHT

FEB 8 1941

ABINGDON, Va., Feb. 6—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, scored another victory in its fight to equalize teachers' salaries when the Abingdon school board agreed to this for the 1941 term. According to the Rev. Lun P. Whitten, president of the local branch, and a leader in this movement, the present difference in Negro and white teachers' salaries is 50 percent.

The next step in the Abingdon campaign is plans for a new school building for the Negro pupils, as the present five-room building is accommodating 182.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

NO COMPROMISE IN NORFOLK

FEB 15 1941

The colored teachers of the city of Norfolk, Va., have spoken.

They have decided that, having won a court decision granting them equalization of salaries with white teachers, they do not intend to enter into any compromise agreement with the Norfolk city officials which would finally result in little or no increase.

As usual, there were some Uncle Toms eager to please the authorities by a little appeasement, but the majority of the Negro teachers were adamant. They want equal salaries and an end to the city's efforts to avoid the mandate of the U. S. court.

They will accept nothing less and they refuse to wait any longer.

Their example should be followed by Negro teachers elsewhere in the South.

Where suits are instituted and properly handled in the manner now made famous by the NAACP legal staff, failure is almost impossible.

One wonders what the other Negro teachers are waiting for?

Richmond, Va. Times-Dispatch
February 28, 1941

Mr. Dovell on Schools

THERE is no question where ASHTON DOVELL stands on legislative support for the public school system. As a candidate for Governor, he has a perfect right to point with pride to his own record of support of public education while he was speaker of the State House of Delegates. Since MR. DOVELL covered his background of support for the public schools with clarity and accuracy in the statement he issued at Williamsburg, our interest centers chiefly in his proposals for the future.

He is courageous in giving his support to the present program of high school consolidation which is being carried forward by the State Department of Education. It is essential that this program progress rapidly, if we are soon to provide more adequate and diversified instruction in rural high schools. MR. DOVELL warns that children in the primary grades in the rural sections "should not be required to travel long distances, early and late," and he and the State Department of Education see eye to eye on this point.

We shall be surprised if any of the gubernatorial candidates fail to give their support to the three-point program of the Virginia Education Association—for a minimum wage of $720 per teacher unit, free textbooks, and an adequate retirement system for teachers. But competition between them should be based not on the indorsements given, but on candidates' willingness to offer a plan for financing the educational program toward the goals established. MR. DOVELL alludes to the fact that at the last session of the General Assembly, he proposed an amendment to the general appropriation bill giving the Governor authority to allocate on June 30, 1941, "such part of the surplus then in the treasury as in his discretion might properly be added to the school appropriation, for increasing teachers' salaries."

MR. DOVELL, in effect, then points out that in view of the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court making the equalization of salaries of white and Negro teachers mandatory, "it would be a splendid thing and would avoid possible reduction in the salaries of some teachers, if the Governor now had the authority which my amendment to the general appropriation bill would have given him."

We are not so sure, however, that this would have been a good idea, in any event. The surplus is an uncertain quantity, and it would hardly be the part of wisdom to predicate a program involving heavy fixed charges on this fund, or any part of it. We, of course, do not understand MR. DOVELL to propose just this, but we should like to point out that the existence of a surplus in the treasury now, or in June, 1941, does not relieve those who are proposing to increase State expenditures, of the burden of showing how it may be done most practically through the processes of normal budgeting.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Happy Ending

MAR 1 1941

FINAL settlement of the Norfolk teachers salary case removed this much discussed question from the realm of legal controversy in a manner which should afford every one concerned a great deal of satisfaction.

It placed Norfolk's colored teachers in the role of having furnished the vanguard for the legal examination and adjudication of a Southwide system for the maintenance of gross disparities and injustices in the administration of public education, the burden of which fell upon the colored teachers; and it placed Norfolk's city government in the vanguard of a new reform movement which will inevitably follow the action which has been taken here. There are grounds for distinction, as well as satisfaction, on both sides.

The Journal and Guide said editorially on February 8th, that—

> Inescapably, the issue is not local but statewide—even Southwide. By accepting one sentence objected to as "offensive" in the proposed consent decree offered by the teachers' counsel, Norfolk's city government could settle the problem for local teachers; and for the other teachers of the state and the South similarly situated.
>
> Hence, Norfolk city holds the key to an amicable settlement. It need be only generous enough to accept the well known implications of the legal terminology of the decree prepared by counsel for the teachers. Those implications reside in the vigorous and unanimous decision of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

MAR 1 1941

The Virginia educational system, which provided in its original setup for "legal" discriminations against not only teachers, but pupils of the Negro race, parallels the systems in vogue in all other southern states, and the Norfolk case is an entering wedge for the gradual invalidation of all of these abuses.

Let it be remembered, in the further prosecution of this reform movement, that the greatest sufferers have been, and are now, the four million Negro children enrolled, or eligible for enrollment, in the elementary schools. Now that the teachers are in better position to protect their interests, let the children be not forgotten in the processes of adjustment which must take place all over the South.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Teachers In Alleghany Co. Get Pay Parity

MAR 1 1941

Equal Salaries Promised By Next July

Special to Journal and Guide

(Reprinted from Last Week's Late Edition)

COVINGTON, Va. — Another Virginia county has agreed to remove the disparity between the pay of colored and white teachers. It is Alleghany County, where the school board has pledged itself to equalize salaries beginning July 1, 1941.

The county board on last December 6 voted unanimously, the Guide learned this week, to equalize the salaries of colored teachers with those of white teachers, with certain qualifications which it is thought may prevent the affected teachers from benefitting as much as those in Norfolk and other sections where more precise and binding agreements have been made.

OFFICIAL PLEDGE

The official statement from the minutes of the school board follows:

MAR 1 1941

"The county school board of Alleghany County, Virginia, declares its intention to establish within the next two years, beginning July 1, 1941, a single schedule to apply equally to white and colored teachers, taking into consideration the training of the teachers, their experience, and their value to the schools."

This was signed by B. W. Pentz, clerk, and dated February 10, 1941.

ACTION LAUDED

In a statement to the Guide, Principal L. T. Binford of Watson High School here, declared:

"The Alleghany County board is to be commended for the stand that it is taking to equalize teachers' salaries. This does show that Mr. A. L. Bennett, superintendent, and the school board still are concerned about democratic principles. Its action is evidence that democracy can work if public officials are fairminded."

TEACHERS ASK EQUALITY

The Alleghany County Schools' Teachers' Association met at Watson High School during the early part of December, 1940, and called in Superintendent Bennett.

Mr. Binford opened the discussion of equalization of Negro and white teachers' salaries in a very diplomatic manner. Mr. Bennett conceded that Mr. Binford and the other teachers were within their rights to request an equalization of salaries. George Hill, Jr., president of the association also made a brief talk and most of the other teachers also spoke.

PROMISE KEPT

Mr. Bennett promised that he would immediately take the matter of equalization of salaries up with the school board on December 6.

The following persons are members of the county association: Watson High School, Mr. Binford; George D. Hill, Jr., W. C. Walker, John H. Thompson, Misses Martha J. Hearn, Edith E. Johnson, Elizabeth C. Pegram, Pocahontas Sellers, Juette L. Johnson, Rubye P. Brown, Louise A. Wilkins; and Mrs. Susie F. Thompson; Wrightsville School, Mrs. Carrie Hembry; and Low Moor School, Miss Rozelle Henry.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Va. County Raises Teachers' Salaries

MAR 2 2 1941

WICOMICO CHURCH, Va.—(ANP)—Addressing a local club here Friday, Superintendent of Schools William J. Brent announced that the salaries of Negro school teachers in Northumberland county are to be gradually increased until they are the same as that paid white teachers.

MAR 2 2 1941

He revealed that under the former pay scale Negro teachers with a two-year certificate received $57, and those with a four-year certificate received $62 a month. White teachers with a two-year certificate under the former pay scale received $75 and those with a four-year certificate received $90 a month.

Under the new plan now being considered by the county board of supervisors, Negro teachers will receive an increase each year for three years and at the end of that time all teachers in the county with the same education and experience will receive the same compensation.

18v-1941

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch
November 29, 1941

School Board Will Consider Petition of Negro Teachers

The Richmond School Board will meet in a special executive session Wednesday night to consider a petition from Negro teachers asking immediate salary equality with white teachers.

This announcement was made following the monthly meeting of the board last night at which the Richmond Teachers' Association (Negro) presented a statement of its views regarding the salary controversy.

Previous to last night, the Negro teachers had indicated they would accept a salary plan which would give them complete equality with whites within a five-year period. But with that proposal turned down by the board, the Negroes in their new petition last night demanded that equality be made effective with November pay checks due next week.

Scales Are Cited

The petition, sent to the board by the Richmond Teachers Association, was filled in the name of Miss Antoinette Bowler, teacher at Dunbar School and a leader in Negro civic and religious affairs here. It is understood that in the event a court suit develops out of the controversy, it will be filed in the Dunbar teacher's name. The petition declared that, as a citizen and taxpayer, the Dunbar teacher had the right to expect equal treatment with other Richmonders, regardless of race, and stated that under the present salary scale, her pay is $1,150 a year as compared to $1,950 for a white teacher of equal qualifications.

No Negro delegation appeared in support of the petition this month, as had been the case at previous board meetings when the question of pay equalization was under consideration. But there was a delegation on hand to urge the board to find a solution to the controversy and thus prevent possible court action.

In this group were Tennant Bryan, vice-president and general manager of Richmond Newspapers, Inc.; Dr. S. C. Mitchell and Dr. Garnett Ryland of the University of Richmond faculty, Thomas C. Boushall, president of the Morris Plan Bank of Virginia; W. S. Rhoads, president of Miller & Rhoads, Inc.; C. Braxton Valentine, vice-president of the Valentine Meat Juice Company, and L. S. Reynolds, director of the Virginia Commission on Inter-Racial Co-operation.

Mr. Bryan told the board that the seven men represented no organization but simply had come to ask that further consideration be given to the matter of equalization of salaries. He said the group believed that no good purpose could come from a court case and that it would be much better for the people of Richmond if the matter could be settled without stirring up harsh feelings. Mr. Bryan emphasized that the self-appointed delegation had no plan to offer, realizing that the board members were far more familiar with details of such matters than any outsiders.

Goodwill Stressed

Dr. Mitchell said Richmond long has been known for the goodwill which exists between the races and urged that the present salary controversy not be allowed to embitter feelings here.

The board took under consideration last night a request from the Parent-Teacher Association of George Mason School (Negro) that some arrangement be made to relieve crowded conditions there. Waverly Anderson, spokesman for the group, suggested the enlarging of Webster Davis or Buchanan Schools in the East End to relieve the situation at George Mason. Aldermen Henry W. Woody and Robert C. Throckmorton and Councilman James S. Terry Jr. of the East End appeared in support of the association's request.

The board voted to accept all teachers in the annexed territory for a two-year probationary period and for these teachers to be put on the city's salary scale at the point next above the salaries paid them by the counties. It also was stipulated that all teachers who come into the city system from the county and who do not now have college degrees must get them within the next three years.

Dr. B. L. Phillips was elected assistant to the medical director, succeeding the late Dr. J. G. Trant.

The board voted to give a furlough to Miss Kate Anthony during the next semester in order that she might perform her duties as president of the department of classroom teachers of the National Education Association. Miss Anthony is a teacher at Binford Junior High School.

This Draftee Will Be Missed

There is one registrant at Richmond Board 3 who if drafted will probably be missed.

He is the man who, in the space provided for "other names by which you have been known," wrote:

"Careless Love."

VIRGINIA

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch
December 29, 1941

Teachers Ask Immediate Pay Parity

Negro Association Will Continue Suit

Richmond's Negro teachers will not withdraw their suit for the equalization of white and Negro teachers' salaries and accept the five-year plan adopted by the Richmond School Board Saturday night, Dr. J. M. Tinsley, chairman of the teachers' salary committee of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said last night.

Only the promise of immediate equalization of teacher pay would induce the Richmond Teachers' Association, the Negro group, to drop the legal proceedings which it instituted last week in United States District Court against Superintendent Binford and the school board, Dr. Tinsley said.

No meeting of the group has been called to consider the school board's proposal.

Minds Made Up

"I think the teachers had fully made up their minds what they wanted to do," the N. A. A. C. P. leader said, "and unless the school board replies to the bill of complaints by offering immediate equalization the suit will be pressed."

Oliver Hill, Negro attorney who is serving as counsel to the teachers' association, is out of town and could not be reached for comment.

The board's 4-to-3 vote in favor of the compromise Saturday night represented a change of only one vote since the board voted the plan down one week before, Dr. Tinsley said. "If the suit hadn't been filed, the vote would have been the same thing—still against it."

Decision Reversed

The movement for equalization of white and Negro teachers' salaries in Richmond was set in motion by the Negro teachers after the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in June, 1940, reversed a decision of the United States District Court for Eastern Virginia and ordered the Norfolk school board to end discrimination in the salaries of its white and Negro teachers.

In November, 1940, the Richmond Negro teachers filed a petition with the school board asking equalization of salaries, but the petition was denied. The school board at length adopted a schedule that would equalize salaries within eight to 11 years, and when the Negro teachers asked that the equalization be speeded up to five years refused the petition and reiterated its approval of its original scale.

The five-year plan approved by the board Saturday night, school board members said, practically embodied the five-year plan submitted by the Negro teachers. Negro leaders said, however, that they had waited long enough for a compromise and had determined to bring the issue to the courts.

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch
December 27, 1941

The Board's Last Chance

THE City School Board will have its last chance tonight to adopt a satisfactory formula for teacher salary equalization in Richmond. If it obstinately refuses again to accept the recommendation of its committee for a five-year plan, it will face a suit, and a suit which will almost certainly go against it.

The United States Supreme Court has spoken on this matter, and whether you agree or disagree with its mandate, that mandate cannot be disregarded. In view of the court's clearly expressed opinion, discriminations with respect to the salaries of white and Negro teachers in the public schools cannot be continued. The court probably regards five years as a reasonable period in which to achieve complete equalization, but it almost certainly will not regard from eight to eleven years as reasonable. Hence the City School Board will simply be inviting an adverse verdict, if it insists on its original plan, which calls for equalization at the end of this excessively long time.

And when that adverse verdict arrives, will Richmond wish to raise some $220,000 all at once, to carry out the court's mandate? Remember, we shall be either at war then, and strapped for funds, or in the difficult postwar period, and worse strapped. The situation probably can be saved tonight by the School Board at the eleventh hour, but this seems to be positively its last chance.

Richmond Va. Times-Dispatch
December 31, 1941

The Negro Teachers' Suit

THE TIMES-DISPATCH joins with CITY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT JESSE H. BINFORD in urging the Negro school teachers of Richmond to abandon their suit against the City School Board, and to accept the five-year salary equalization plan which the board has now approved.

Withdrawal of the suit would be to the teachers' own best interests in the long run, even though it apparently would mean postponement of full equalization for about three years (it probably would take two years to get a final decision from the United States Supreme Court). The teachers ought to consider carefully whether the victory which they would almost certainly win in the courts would offset the loss in interracial amity which the pressing of the suit would occasion.

It is to the interests of both white and colored Richmonders that their relations be maintained on as friendly a basis as possible. Our Negro citizens must realize that there are many white Richmonders who do not regard the Supreme Court's order for salary equalization in the Norfolk case as either equitable or sensible. They are unreconciled to this equalization, and they think it is bad enough to have to spend some $43,000 more a year in Richmond for the purpose, over a five-year period. They would be indignant, if the city was ordered by the Supreme Court to dig up $220,000 for Negro teachers' salaries at one fell swoop. Such an order will be forthcoming, in all likelihood, if the teachers press their case.

The attitude on this issue of the unreconciled and unreconstructed element of white Richmonders may be deplored. That does not change the fact that the attitude exists. Not only so, but resentment will be inflamed and intensified if the Negro teachers refuse to accept now a plan which they agreed to accept only a few weeks ago.

This newspaper holds no brief for the attitude of the City School Board in this matter. A majority of the board has impressed us as shortsighted and unreasonably obstinate, and until five of the members finally voted on Saturday night to accept the five-year plan, provided the Negro teachers' suit was withdrawn, the teachers were justifiably resentful.

Now, however, the board has seen the light, and has agreed to accept a plan which the Negro teachers themselves regarded as fairly satisfactory only a very short time ago. The teachers are capable of making their own decision in this matter, of course, but as a friendly newspaper we should like to ask them to consider the loss to themselves, to torneys have filed.
interracial amity and to Richmond which would be brought about through the pressing of the suit which their at-

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
December 29, 1941

PAY PLAN REJECTED

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 28—(AP)—A five-year plan for the equalization of white and Negro teachers' salaries in Richmond, offered by the City School Board, was rejected Sunday by the Negro teachers. Dr. J. M. Tinsley, chairman of the teachers' salary committee of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the Negro teachers would not withdraw their suit for an injunction to prevent discrimination in teacher pay instituted in United States District Court Wednesday. The five-year plan was adopted by the board on condition the suit be withdrawn.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Petition For Equal Pay Irks Trustee

Sees No Ruling Compelling Board To Act

MAR 8 1941

MORRISON, Va.—"So far, there has been no ruling to compel a school board to equalize salaries; and there are several loopholes through which payment might be avoided."

This was one of several defiant, challenging statements made by T. Ryan Sanford, superintendent of schools in Warwick County, in reply to the petition of Negro teachers for equalization of salaries presented two weeks ago.

CLAIMS INFERIORITY

In what was an apparent attempt at intimidation, the school official told the committee of three teachers that it was practically impossible for Negro teachers to receive equal salary based on qualifications because white teachers in the county are graduates of the University of Virginia and other white institutions which enjoy higher ratings than those Negro teachers attend.

He argued that, in order to determine the qualifications of Negro teachers, he reserves the right to give all teachers, Negro and white, an examination and base their standings from this. At this point, Mr. Sanford again emphasized doubt that Negroes could make the grade because of inferior training.

MAR 8 1941

THREATENS DISMISSALS

He implied that it was unfair to the white people, who pay 90 per cent of the taxes in the county, to ask them to bear the Negro's burden.

When the teachers endeavored to puncture his pet theories about racial educational inferiority, the superintendent boldly told them that he had the privilege of dismissing all the Negro teachers whose certificates were below that of the whites, or of dismissing those with higher certificates and bringing them down to a point below that of the whites, in which case the school board could set the salary scale and Negro teachers would be no better off than they are at present.

MAR 8 1941

PRINCIPAL ON SPOT

Sanford is also superintendent of schools in York County. The petition for equalization of salaries by Negro teachers in this county was filed with him by the York County Teachers' Association also two weeks ago, signed by all except the principal of the York County Training School, Joseph Q. Cornick, thus precipitating a storm of protest from patrons of that school. Mr. Sanford's reply to the York teachers was substantially the same as that given those in Warwick County.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Discrimination Revealed In Teachers' Salary Scales

DEC 6 1941

NEWPORT NEWS — With suits against the school boards of Newport News and Elizabeth City County to hasten the equalization of salaries between white and colored teachers pending—unless a satisfactory adjustment of the matter is made soon, the following salary scales for white and colored teachers in the Newport News public school system are given here for public information and enlightenment.

The colored teachers filed their petition for equal salary in November 1940, to which no formal reply has been made by the board. Last May, the board announced inauguration of a single salary scale, which, colored teachers pointed out to the board in another petition last September actually reduces their pay by $200, and the rescinding of which they requested. The board subsequently gave all teachers in the system a 10 per cent raise, and ordered them to take educational tests last October.

Here is the old salary scale:

Minimum—normal diploma, white, $1,000; colored $600; bachelor's degree, white, $1,200; colored $1,000.

Maximum—normal diploma, white, $1,600; colored, $1,125; bachelor's degree, white, $2,200; colored $1,525; master's degree, white, $2,400; colored $1,675.

Annual increments under this scale were: normal diploma, white, $100 for six years; colored $75 for seven years; bachelor's degree, white, $100 for 10 years; colored, $75 for seven years; master's degree, white, $100 for 12 years; colored, $75 for nine years.

The new salary scale is as follows:

Normal diplomas for all teachers—minimum $600 to $800; maximum, $1,200 to $1,400. Bachelor's degree—minimum, $800 to $1,000; maximum, $1,800 to $2,000. Master's degree—minimum, $1,000 to $1,200; maximum, $2,000 to $2,500.

Beginning with the school year 1941-42, all teachers will be reclassified, and paid on the scale according to length of service, and the scores made on the educational tests last October 4 and 11.

Danville, Va. Register
November 6, 1941

Current Opinion

A DIVIDEND FROM METERS?
(Richmond Times-Dispatch)

The Common Council has adopted and sent to the Board of Aldermen for concurrence, an amendment to the City Code which would reduce the city automobile license tax by 25 per cent. The minimum local license fee paid by automobile owners would be reduced from $6 to $4.50, and rates in the higher brackets would be correspondingly lowered. The reduction would cost the city about $45,000 a year in revenue, and, of course, would provide automobile owners, who feel that they are overtaxed, with some welcome relief.

Those who favor the tax reduction will be quick to point out that when parking meters were placed on the streets in 1939, it was understood that Council would consider placing their earnings to the credit of the automobile taxpayers. This newspaper, in advocating the meters, said that it was only fair that this question should be considered. Yet we said also that what could be accomplished for tax reduction as a result of the meter's takings "depended upon a number of factors beyond the parking problem, which affect the balance of the city budget."

Can the city now afford to grant the considerable measure of tax reduction provided by the act of the Common Council? This question should be given careful consideration by the Board of Aldermen and by Mayor Ambler. There is, for example, the matter of equalizing the pay of the Negro teachers of Richmond. The Supreme Court of the United States has held that equal pay for equal service must be given those teachers. Under the plan adopted by the City School Board, equalization will not be provided in many cases in less than eight to eleven years, while 15 years will be required for full equalization in the new maximum salary brackets. The Negro teachers have suggested as an alternate plan for full equalization in five years, which is more equitable. Under this plan, the appropriation for teachers' salaries would be increased annually by about $43,000 a year during the five-year period—almost exactly the amount the Common Council desires to return to the automobile taxpayers.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

WHY DOES RICHMOND WANT TO WAIT FIVE YEARS?

DEC 6 - 1941

The Richmond (Va.) school board has rejected the compromise proposal of colored teachers to equalize salaries by 1946.

The teachers should thank the board. Now they can press their case in the Federal court, which will compel Richmond to equalize by 1942.

Their compromise was far too liberal and five years is too long to wait for something that can be had at once.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Court Fight For Teachers

Virginia Starts Court Action

DEC 30 1941

RICHMOND, Va. (SNS) — Richmond and Newport News, Va. school boards in spite of their consistent efforts to evade equalizing colored and white teachers' salaries will be brought into court to compel them to give equal pay, Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the NAACP declared this week. Suit filed in the U. S. Federal Court in Richmond, Wednesday, December 24. A petition has already been filed in Newport with the school board.

School boards have refused to equalize salaries, and teachers in both places have been negotiating with officials for more than a year.

DEC 30 1941

After several conferences between members of the school board of Richmond, Negro teachers and their lawyers, the board has refused to equalize salaries over a shorter period than 12 years. All efforts to settle the case have been rejected. Result is the recently filed suit there.

In Newport News, unless favorable action is taken within the next week, the NAACP said, a case will be filed there to compel equalization.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Ex-Teacher Tells of Early Va. Salary Fight

MAR 8 1941

By THOMAS L. DABNEY

RICHMOND, Va.

I appreciate the many fine things which B. T. Gillespie said about me in his column in the AFRO-AMERICAN the week of February 1. Practically everything mentioned there was true.

In justice to the State board of education, however, I want to correct any false impression which readers of that column may have gotten from the author's statement that he had heard that Virginia Theological Seminary and College lost its junior college rating with the State board of education because I was on the faculty in 1931-32. This is not true.

The school lost its rating because the administration failed to file regular reports with the State as is required of all educational institutions if they want to maintain regular rating by the State officials.

MAR 8 1941

The State board was not particularly concerned with our equal salary case because it knew, in the end, that the problem would have to be handled with local school boards.

Moreover, I purposely tried not to obstruct the forward-looking and constructive program of Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State superintendent of public instruction, who was having enough trouble of his own with a program of increased funds from the State for higher pay for teachers and more State help for longer terms and improved educational facilities.

Hart Okayed Low Pay

Dr. Harris Hart left a bad legacy for Dr. Hall in the State board of education. During his last years as superintendent, Dr. Hart drafted a State program of education which carried a suggestive salary schedule for the teachers as a basis of State aid on salary payments.

This schedule placed the colored teachers in the lower salary bracket, thus giving official State sanction to the State-wide custom of discrimination against colored teachers in salary payments.

After the memorandum on Dr. Hart's plans had been distributed in the State, the Buckingham County group decided to broaden its efforts to include the entire State.

Told They Could Quit

Our original plan was to localize the effort, but we had scarcely begun when the superintendent let it be known in a public meeting at the county training school that if the colored teachers were not satisfied with their salaries they could get schools elsewhere.

He further said that the local board didn't set the salaries, but they were set by the State board. I knew then that reference was made to the salary scale suggested in Dr. Hart's memorandum.

My experience during the first years of our effort for better salaries convinced me that a number of liberal white school officials and teachers were in sympathy with the colored teachers.

The late Dr. Heatwole of the Virginia Education Association and editor of the Virginia Journal and Education gave me some helpful suggestions and furnished me with a list of superintendents and educational leaders who could aid our cause.

Had No Salary Scale

To appreciate the need for the work begun by our small group back in 1931, one would have to get a picture of conditions in those years. In Buckingham, as in some of the other counties in 1931, there was no set salary scale for colored teachers.

In some instances, therefore, teachers came all the way from distant places like Norfolk and Portsmouth to take a school without knowing what their salary would be.

Such teachers would have a conference with the clerk of the board usually and take whatever bargain they could get which, in most cases, was rather bad for the teachers. These salaries ranged from $35 to $45.

With the elementary schools open only seven months, these teachers could count on only a little over $300 for the year's work. And there were some who made as low as $210.

Average Pay Not $300

The average annual salary of the colored teachers in Buckingham County in 1931-32 was less than $300. In 1931-32, Buckingham, Nelson and Grayson counties paid the lowest average annual salaries to colored teachers in the State.

MAR 8 1941

There has been a gradual increase in annual salaries in almost all counties since that year, partly because the school terms are longer. However, Buckingham County still lags behind.

According to the superintendent's report for the 1938-39 term, Buckingham County, with an annual salary for colored teachers of only $350, was at the bottom of the list. The next four lowest annual average salary counties for our teachers were Surry, $363; Pittsylvania, $385; Grayson, $390, and Lunenburg, $390.

There are carpenter's helpers at Camp Lee who make as much a week as colored teachers make in a month. I know sawmill hands who earn as much a month, and in some instances more, than teachers.

Weak Arguments Cited

I have heard many arguments against higher salaries for colored teachers, but none of them had any real basis. A county superintendent told me in 1932 that colored teachers didn't need as much salary as white teachers because they could live on less.

Others contend that since colored citizens don't pay as much taxes as the whites, they should not expect as much.

Even the movement for equal salaries is not fundamental enough. There are white teachers who receive too small salaries because the counties or small towns are too poor to pay more or are not businesslike enough to plan a better financing system for public education.

An adequate salary for a decent living is what both colored and white teachers need in Virginia. In this broad sense, the problem is more than a racial one, it is basically an economic one.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Va. Settles Teachers' Salary Case

FEB 22 1941

NORFOLK, Va.—Final victory in their salary-equalization fight was won by local school teachers on Wednesday when City Attorney Alfred Anderson, acting on authority from the city and the school board, endorsed a consent decree which will remove the case from the docket of the U.S. District Court.

The case has been set for trial on its merits before Judge A. D. Barksdale, of the Western District of Virginia, on Monday of this week.

Retrial Not Needed

Judge Barksdale had been designated by Judge John L. Parker, senior judge of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, to come here and hear the case after Judge Luther B. Way disqualified himself from sitting further in the case.

The case, filed by NAACP attorneys on behalf of Melvin O. Alston and the Norfolk Teachers' Association, first came before Judge Way in 1940 and was argued on points of law. The plaintiff's contention was that colored teachers and principals were paid less in salaries than whites simply because of their race and color, and that this was in violation of the Constitution.

Ruling Reversed

Judge Way held, on February 12 of last year, that whatever constitutional right Alston had, he had waived it in voluntarily signing a contract with the city to teach at a given salary.

The teachers carried the case, on this point of law, to the Circuit Court of Appeals, which reversed Judge Way, and the city then appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to review the case, thus upholding the Circuit Court.

Agreed on Increases

A committee representing the teachers, in conference with city officials, agreed to a plan whereby the city would increase their pay by various amounts over a three-year period until full parity was reached in January, 1943.

However, two weeks ago, attorneys for the teachers and for the city appeared before Judge Way with rival forms of consent decrees to dismiss the case, and neither side would agree to sign the other's decree. It was then that Judge Way disqualified himself and Judge Barksdale was designated to hear the case on its merits.

The school board and council conferred on Friday and authorized Mr. Anderson to go ahead for the city and agree to the decree proposed by the attorneys for the teachers, with two minor additions.

Points of Difference

This decree provides a declaratory judgment and injunction against the city to enforce the terms of the agreement as to salaries. The city had previously consented to all other phases of the decree and had offered a decree which would have dismissed the suit with provision for its reinstatement at any time the city failed to live up to its agreement.

FEB 2 2 1941

Revisions made in the teachers' decree at the request of City Attorney Anderson are these:

Insertion, in several places, of the phrase, "by consent of the two parties";

Addition of the word "solely" to the provision against salary discrimination "because of race or color."

The decree, thus revised, was signed by Leon A. Ransome of Washington and Oliver W. Hill, for the teachers, and Mr. Anderson, for the defendants. It was to have been presented to Judge Barksdale on Monday for the only remaining signature necessary for actual court entry.

Danville, Va., Register
March 2, 1941

Colored County School Teachers To Accept 'Cut'

—o—

CHATHAM, Va., March 1.—Colored school teachers of Pittsylvania County have voted to string along with the action taken by the white teachers and school bus drivers in accepting a salary decrease while making up time lost during the influenza epidemic which paralyzed the county school system for six school days.

The move, based on the action of the white teachers, will give seniors graduating in June from the Negro high schools accredited status with the State Board of Education, whereas if the 180 day school term could not be completed otherwise.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

FEB 2

SIGNED DECREE—Judge A. D. Barksdale of the U. S. District Court for the Western District of Virginia, who approved and signed the consent decree in the Norfolk teachers' salary case Monday. He sat for Judge Luther B. Way, who disqualified himself.

Text of Historic Decree In Pay Parity Test Case In Norfolk

FEB 2 2 1941

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF VIRGINIA, NORFOLK DIVISION

Melvin O. Alston, and the Norfolk Teachers Association, an unincorporated association.

Plaintiffs

vs.

School Board of the City of Norfolk, a body corporate, and C. W. Mason, Superintendent of Schools of Norfolk.

Defendants.

CIVIL ACTION FILE NO. 50

FINAL JUDGMENT

The plaintiffs, Melvin O. Alston and the Norfolk Teachers' Association, filed their complaint herein November 2, 1939, and the defendants having appeared by their attorneys, the plaintiffs, by their attorneys, moved the Court for an injunction as prayed in the complaint; and the defendants consented to the entry of this decree without further contest.

FEB 2 2 1941

Wherefore, by consent of the parties, given in open court, it is ordered and decreed as follows:

That the Court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter and of all persons and parties hereto, and that the complaint states a cause of action against the defendants under Section 24 (1) of the Judicial Code (28 U. S. Code, Section 41 (1), and under Section 24 (14) of the Judicial Code (28 U. S.Code, Section 41 (14), and under Section 43 of Title 8 of U. S. Code.

Pursuant to Section 247d of the Judicial Code (28 U. S. Code, Section 400), it is declared and adjudged:

That the official policy and official acts of the defendants School Board of the City of Norfolk and C. W. Mason, Superintendent of Schools, in paying the plaintiff Melvin O. Alston and all other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Norfolk, Virginia, smaller salaries than are paid by said defendants to white teachers and principals with similar professional qualifications and experience, in so far as such differentials are predicated solely on race or color, are unlawful and unconstitutional, and are in violation of the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States and of Sections 41 and 43 of Title 8 of the United States Code.

And by further consent of the parties, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed:

1. That the defendants School Board of the City of Norfolk and C. W. Mason, Superintendent of Schools and the agents of said defendants and each of them, be and they are hereby perpetually enjoined and restrained from discriminating in the payment of salaries against the plaintiffs and any other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Norfolk, Virginia, and in favor of any white teachers or principals in the public schools of Norfolk, Virginia, solely on account of race or color; and from paying plaintiffs and any other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Norfolk, Virginia less salary than the salary paid white teachers and principals of the same qualifications and experience, solely on account of race or color.

Provided, that the operative effect of the foregoing judgment be and the same is hereby postponed until January 1, 1943, on the following conditions:

(a) That the defendant in the above entitled case pay all Court costs up to the termination of the action.

(b) That the defendants remove all differentials in salaries, solely because of race or color between white and Negro teachers and principals on the basis of not less than one-third each calendar year starting January, 1941; provided however that if the City of Norfolk is financially unable to pay one-third in 1941 that the teachers will accept $30.000.00 toward removal of the differential for the calendar year 1941, and an additional sum of not less than one-half of the balance for calendar year 1942, e. g. assuming that the differential is $130.000.00 $30.000.00 will be applied during 1941 toward removing the differential and an additional sum of not less than $50.000.00 will be applied for the calendar year beginning January 1942. That starting January salaries will be completely equalized and thereafter no discrimination in the fixing of salaries will be made solely on the basis of race or color.

(c) That starting January 1941, all salary increases and increments to teachers and principals over and above the increases mentioned in paragraph (b) be on equal basis without regard to race or color upon the condition that the differentials in increments between the white and Negro teachers in the year 1941 be paid to each Negro teacher and principal in a lump sum in January 1942, e. g. each Negro teacher and principal shall receive an amount which when added to the regular increment received in 1941 will equal the maximum increment received by any white teacher on the same teaching level in 1941.

(d) That during the years 1941 and 1942 temporary salary schedules and working memoranda for each year be established and submitted to the plaintiffs which will clearly set forth the amounts of salaries to be paid all Negro teachers and principals, and that the Negro teachers and principals be furnished immediately copies of the permanent salary scale for teachers and principals of the City of Norfolk.

Richmond, Va., Times Dispatch
September 20, 1941

Negroes Seek Teacher Pay Equalization

Plan Submitted To Superintendent

Jessie H. Binford, superintendent of Richmond public schools, said yesterday a committee representing the Negro teachers of the city had submitted a plan for equalizing the salaries of these teachers with those of the white instructors over a five-year period.

The committee, he said, desires to present the plan at the next meeting of the school board September 26.

Some 250 Negro teachers recently approached the superintendent with "serious objections" to the salary scale adopted by the board. Their principal objection was to the length of time it would take for equalization, which, spokesmen contended, would require eight to 11 years in some cases.

Plan 'Ingenious'

The new plan would place all Negro teachers on the recently adopted scale in the session of 1945-46. Superintendent Binford stated that the plan was "ingeniously worked out" and took into consideration every one of the 306 Negro teachers in the city and her length of service. He pointed out that the cost of the plan would amount to slightly over $210,000 at the end of the five-year period.

Discussing a recent board regulation requiring teachers to tutor pupils lagging in their studies, Mr. Binford announced that he had advised principals that coaching sistance be extended to pupils who have lost time due to illness or different rates. Generally speaking, all of periods should be held at least through "no fault of their own." them wish to make satisfactory two afternoons a week. Teachers Willing to Assist progress. If which usually close at 3:10 P. M., "I have suggested that not only He said consultations with prin- also will shut up at 2:45 P. M. should teachers announce that cipals have convinced him that mentary schools are kept beyond the they are willing to coach students "practically all teachers" have Monday, the dismissal time at the who voluntarily come to their been willing to assist pupils in the elementary schools, for Children's rooms," he said, "but that chil- past and are willing to co-operate dren known to be behind in their in the new tutoring system. work should be requested by "In other words," he declared, teachers to come to rooms for in- "the Richmond teachers are fully dividual help." determined this session to give

Mr. Binford said he is "particularly anxious" that this as- It is realized that children learn

Holiday Wednesday

Richmond pupils will have a holiday Wednesday when public schools close for Richmond Day to at the State Fair. High schools, some of them are dismissal in the elementary schools, we hope that it is not realize that it is not parents will realize that any desire to pun- The next holiday will be Oc- ish children, but tober 22, when District C of the to help them." Virginia Education Association meets here. Then will come Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter holidays.

Holiday Wednesday

every possible help to the child.

the decree and had offered a decree which would have dismissed the suit with provision for its reinstatement at any time the city failed to live up to its agreement.

Revisions made in the teachers' decree at the request of City Attorney Anderson are these:

Insertion, in several places, of the phrase, "by consent of the two parties";

Addition of the word "solely" to the provision against salary discrimination "because of race or color."

The decree, thus revised, was signed by Leon A. Ransome of Washington and Oliver W. Hill, for the teachers, and Mr. Anderson, for the defendants. It was to have been presented to Judge Barksdale on Monday for the only remaining signature necessary for actual court entry.

Danville, Va., Register
March 2, 1941

Colored County School Teachers To Accept 'Cut'

CHATHAM, Va., March 1.—Colored school teachers of Pittsylvania County have voted to string along with the action taken by the white teachers and school bus drivers in accepting a salary decrease while making up time lost during the influenza epidemic which paralyzed the county school system for six school days.

The move, based on the action of the white teachers, will give seniors graduating in June from the Negro high schools accredited status with the State Board of Education, whereas if the 180 day school term could not be completed otherwise,

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

FEB 22 1941

SIGNED DECREE—Judge A. D. Barksdale of the U. S. District Court for the Western District of Virginia, who approved and signed the consent decree in the Norfolk teachers' salary case Monday. He sat for Judge Luther B. Way, who disqualified himself.

Text of Historic Decree In Pay Parity Test Case In Norfolk

FEB 22 1941

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF VIRGINIA, NORFOLK DIVISION

Melvin O. Alston, and the Norfolk Teachers Association, an unincorporated association.

Plaintiffs

vs.

School Board of the City of Norfolk, a body corporate, and C. W. Mason, Superintendent of Schools of Norfolk.

Defendants.

CIVIL ACTION FILE NO. 50

FINAL JUDGMENT

The plaintiffs, Melvin O. Alston and the Norfolk Teachers' Association, filed their complaint herein November 2, 1939, and the defendants having appeared by their attorneys, the plaintiffs, by their attorneys, moved the Court for an injunction as prayed in the complaint; and the defendants consented to the entry of the decree without further contest. FEB 22 1941

Wherefore, by consent of the parties, given in open court, it is ordered and decreed as follows:

That the Court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter and of all persons and parties hereto, and that the complaint states a cause of action against the defendants under Section 24 (1) of the Judicial Code (28 U. S. Code, Section 41 (1), and under Section 24 (14) of the Judicial Code (28 U. S.Code, Section 41 (14), and under Section 43 of Title 8 of U. S. Code.

Pursuant to Section 247d of the Judicial Code (28 U. S. Code, Section 400), it is declared and adjudged:

That the official policy and official acts of the defendants School Board of the City of Norfolk and C. W. Mason, Superintendent of Schools, in paying the plaintiff Melvin O. Alston and all other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Norfolk, Virginia, smaller salaries than are paid by said defendants to white teachers and principals with similar professional qualifications and experience, in so far as such differentials are predicated solely on race or color, are unlawful and unconstitutional, and are in violation of the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States and of Sections 41 and 43 of Title 8 of the United States Code.

And by further consent of the parties, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed:

1. That the defendants School Board of the City of Norfolk and C. W. Mason, Superintendent of Schools and the agents of said defendants and each of them, be and they are hereby perpetually enjoined and restrained from discriminating in the payment of salaries against the plaintiffs and any other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Norfolk, Virginia, and in favor of any white teachers or principals in the public schools of Norfolk, Virginia, solely on account of race or color; and from paying plaintiffs and any other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Norfolk, Virginia less salary than the salary paid white teachers and principals of the same qualifications and experience, solely on account of race or color.

Provided, that the operative effect of the foregoing judgment be and the same is hereby postponed until January 1, 1943, on the following conditions:

(a) That the defendant in the above entitled case pay all Court costs up to the termination of the action.

(b) That the defendants remove all differentials in salaries, solely because of race or color between white and Negro teachers and principals on the basis of not less than one-third each calendar year starting January, 1941; provided however that if the City of Norfolk is financially unable to pay one-third in 1941 that the teachers will accept $30,000.00 toward removal of the differential for the calendar year 1941, and an additional sum of not less than one-half of the balance for calendar year 1942, e. g. assuming that the differential is $130,000.00 $30,000.00 will be applied during 1941 toward removing the differential and an additional sum of not less than $50,000.00 will be applied for the calendar year beginning January 1942. That starting January salaries will be completely equalized and thereafter no discrimination in the fixing of salaries will be made solely on the basis of race or color.

(c) That starting January 1941, all salary increases and increments to teachers and principals over and above the increases mentioned in paragraph (b) be on equal basis without regard to race or color upon the condition that the differentials in increments between the white and Negro teachers in the year 1941 be paid to each Negro teacher and principal in a lump sum in January 1942, e. g. each Negro teacher and principal shall receive an amount which when added to the regular increment received in 1941 will equal the maximum increment received by any white teacher on the same teaching level in 1941.

(d) That during the years 1941 and 1942 temporary salary schedules and working memoranda for each year be established and submitted to the plaintiffs which will clearly set forth the amounts of salaries to be paid all Negro teachers and principals, and that the Negro teachers and principals be furnished immediately copies of the permanent salary scale for teachers and principals of the City of Norfolk.

Richmond, Va., Times Dispatch
September 20, 1941

Negroes Seek Teacher-Pay Equalization

Plan Submitted To Superintendent

Jessie H. Binford, superintendent of Richmond public schools, said yesterday a committee representing the Negro teachers of the city had submitted a plan for equalizing the salaries of these teachers with those of the white instructors over a five-year period.

The committee, he said, desires to present the plan at the next meeting of the school board September 26.

Some 250 Negro teachers recently approached the superintendent with "serious objections" to the salary scale adopted by the board. Their principal objection was to the length of time it would take for equalization, which, spokesmen contended, would require eight to 11 years in some cases.

Plan 'Ingenious'

The new plan would place all Negro teachers on the recently adopted scale in the session of 1945-46. Superintendent Binford stated that the plan was "ingeniously worked out" and took into consideration every one of the 306 Negro teachers in the city and her length of service. He pointed out that the cost of the plan would amount to slightly over $210,000 at the end of the five-year period.

Discussing a recent board regulation requiring teachers to tutor pupils lagging in their studies, Mr. Binford announced that he had advised principals that coaching periods should be held at least two afternoons a week.

"I have suggested that not only should teachers announce that they are willing to coach students who voluntarily come to their rooms," he said, "but that children known to be behind in their work should be requested by teachers to come to rooms for individual help."

Mr. Binford said he is "particularly anxious" that this assistance be extended to pupils who are ill. It is realized that children learn different rates. Generally schools close for Richmond Day to at the State Fair. High schools, speaking, all of them make satisfactory progress. If which usually close at 3:10 P. M. some of them are kept also will shut up at 2:45 P. M. usual hour of dismissal Monday, the dismissal time at the in the elementary schools, for Children's we hope that it is not Day at the fair.

Teachers Willing to Assist

He said consultations with principals have convinced him that "practically all teachers" have been willing to assist pupils in the past and are willing to co-operate in the new tutoring system.

"In other words," he declared, "the Richmond teachers are fully determined this session to give every possible help to the child.

The next holiday will be October 22, when District C of the Virginia Education Association meets here. Then will come Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter holidays.

Holiday Wednesday

Richmond pupils will have a holiday Wednesday, when public

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Norfolk Balks at Consent Decree in Salary Case

JAN 18 1941

NORFOLK, Va. — Possibility of continued litigation in the salary-equilization case of local public school teachers loomed this week with the refusal of City Attorney Alfred Anderson to sign the form of consent decree presented by NAACP attorneys handling the case.

This decree would contain a declaratory judgment and injunction against continuation of the practice of separate salary scales based solely on the race of the teacher, declared un-Constitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Court Fight May Continue

City Attorney Anderson's suggestion for filing a statement of agreement and dismissing the suit entirely has been referred to the teachers' association by the lawyers, who are awaiting instruction as to whether they should press for the original form of decree, accept the city attorney's form or continue action in court.

The case was thought disposed of, following a favorable U.S. Supreme Court ruling late last year, but difficulties were met in attempts to reach an agreement, between the teachers and city officials, on the period of time over which salaries will be adjusted to a parity with those of whites.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Petersburg, Va.

Teachers Seek Equal Salaries

JAN 11 1941

PETERSBURG, Va.—(ANP)—The Negro Teachers' Cooperative association asked the city council Friday to take under advisement the question of bringing about party in the pay of white and Negro teachers in the city school system, based upon qualifications and service. Attention was called to the recent decision of the United States Supreme court involving the Norfolk system, in which the plaintiff won a decision.

Speaking for the council, Mayor Alexander Hamilton, Jr., said that he had been advised that the matter had already received some consideration from the school board and that further study would be given it by council and the board. He pointed out, however, that no provision for increases in salary had been provided for in the budget to be adopted, and that no action could be taken at once.

Councilman Remmie L. Arnold also said that setting of teachers salaries was a matter for the school board, and that the council had no jurisdiction as long as the board kept within its allocation. He said that no increase in appropriation had been requested when the 1941 budget was prepared.

No definite figure was submitted as to what equality in salaries might cost but the council warned that any large addition to the school budget would make necessary an increase in taxes.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Pay Case May Go Back To Judge Way

If Litigants Can't Agree, Court May Decide Issue

JAN 25 1941

If City Attorney C. Alfred Anderson's proposal is not agreed to by counsel for Melvin O. Alston and the Norfolk teachers, Judge Luther B. Way of District Federal Court will be asked to decide on January 30th, which decree is to be entered in the salary equalization case—the one prepared by counsel for the teachers, or the alternative, prepared by Mr. Anderson.

The complainants, according to William O. Cooper, co-chairman of the legal defense committee, have indicated their unwillingness to accept the decree prepared by City Attorney Anderson. Counsel for the complainants, Thurgood Marshall, Oliver W. Hill, and Leon C. Ransom, have stated to Mr. Anderson that their clients insist upon the decree embodying the declaratory judgment and other legal safeguards. There the matter stood Tuesday, as this edition of the Journal and Guide went to press..

If both sides to the controversy agree to let Judge Way arbitrate the matter, his decision will be binding. Thus, if the Court rules in favor of the consent decree prepared by Mr. Anderson on behalf of the school board, or in favor of the paper prepared by counsel for the teachers, the action will be final.

At the present time the Norfolk case has a confused status. A form of settlement proposed by city government officials and agreed to by the teachers, awaits final disposition because the city government, including the school board, does not want entered upon the minutes of the Court the substance and effect of the Circuit Court decree summarized as follows:

> "Wherefor it is ordered and decreed as follows: That the court has jurisdiction of the subject matter and all persons and parties hereto. . . That the official policies and official acts of the defendants, the school board and C. W. Mason, superintendent, in paying plaintiff and all other Negro teachers smaller salaries than are paid . . . white teachers . . . in so far as such differentials are predicted solely on race or color are unlawful and unconstitutional and are in violation of the equal protection clauses of the 14th amendment of the Constitution of the United States . . .
>
> "And it is ordered, adjudged and decreed that the defendants . . . and agents of said defendants, are hereby perpetually enjoined and restrained from discrimination in payment of salaries against the plaintiff and any other Negro teachers and principals in the public schools of Norfolk and in favor of any white teachers and principals on account of race or color or from paying any Negro teachers less . . ."

Washington Tribune
Washington, D. C.

DENY SO-CALLED AGREEMENT WAS KNOWN TO THEM

JAN 4 1941

Alexandrians Query Representation by Two of Its Principals

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — A selected committee appearing before the board of education, last week, with petition asking for an equalization of the salaries of colored and white teachers rejected a "three-year plan" said to have been worked out prior to the board meeting by three colored principals and T. C. Williams, superintendant of schools.

The committee was formed of members of the P. T. A. and the Men's Club who were accompanied by Edmund Hill, Jr., attorney, as counsellor.

Details Not Revealed

The so-called plan worked out by the three principals and the superintendent was announced following the reading of the equalization petition. Members of the petitioning committee objected to the plan primarly because Principals Pitt and Crawley are not residents of Alexandria and hence could not well represent the local citizens.

Details of the plan were not revealed.

JAN 4 1941

Although the committee contends that its members were known to be working on such a petition the principals reportedly failed to consult or inform them of a separate agreement with the superintendent or intention of making an agreement with him on the teachers' salaries "by means of the back door."

Even teachers knew nothing of the plan, it had been asserted.

The petition was presented by Mrs. Gladys McKinney. Other members of the committee included: Aaron McKinney and Dr. W. F. Wright, representing the Men's Club; Mrs. Pearl Willis, Parker-Gray P. T. A., and Alexander Jennings, vice-president of the State P. T. A.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

OTHER PAPERS SAY—

(Pittsburgh Courier)
VICTORY IN VIRGINIA

JAN 4 1941

By substituting a backbone for a wishbone, the colored teachers of Norfolk, Virginia, have won from the authorities an agreement to equalize colored and white teachers' salaries over a three-year period during which they will get increases of $129,000.

This is a victory for the Norfolk Teachers' Association and the legal staff of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, led by its able special counsel, Thurgood Marshall.

Norfolk had no desire to equalize the salaries of white and colored teachers.

Norfolk city attorneys carried the test case of Melvin O. Alston through the state courts, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and up to the United States Supreme Court. It lost everywhere.

The Circuit Court established the principle that discrimination in the payment of salaries solely on the ground of race is unconstitutional. This was a great victory for all Negro teachers everywhere.

The colored teachers of Norfolk will hereafter receive the same amount of pay as white teachers with similar qualifications and service.

Norfolk Va Pilot
January 31, 1941

Teacher Pay Suit Hits New Legal Snarl

Judge Way Disqualifies Self After Attorneys Fail to Agree

Decree Is Issue

City Holds Language of That Offered by Negroes Is 'Offensive'

Federal Judge Luther B. Way yesterday disqualified himself from sitting in further proceedings in the suit by Norfolk Negro school teachers for salaries equal to those paid to white teachers.

This occurred when it appeared in court that attorneys for the City of Norfolk, defendant in the action, and attorneys for the Negro teachers, could not agree on a consent decree dismissing the suit, the first legal round of which has been won by the Negroes, resulting in an agreement by the city to increase their salaries in various amounts until, at the end of three years, their salaries would equal that of white teachers.

Oliver W. Hill, Negro attorney, of Richmond, of counsel for the Negro teachers, appeared before Judge Way yesterday, along with Alfred Anderson, City Attorney. Each had a decree which would have dismissed the case from the court docket, but neither attorney would consent to the other's proposed decree. The proposed city decree would have provided that the Negro teachers get the salary increases agreed upon by the teachers and the city and that the case be dismissed in such a way it could be reinstated at any time the city failed to live up to its agreement.

Held "Offensive"

The Negro attorney's proposed decree would have provided for the same, but would have included a declaratory judgment and injunction against the city, prohibiting the city from failing to pay the Negroes according to the agreement. The city objected to "offensive" matter in the decree proposed by the Negro lawyer.

Judge Way said he would not draw the decree for the attorneys, that they would have to agree on one. Attorney Hill said he was ready to try the case on its merits. So did the City Attorney. Judge Way asked the court clerk for a certificate of disqualification and said he had been in touch with Federal Judge Robert N. Pollard, of Richmond, and Federal Judge I. M. Meekins, of the Eastern District of North Carolina, and that Judge Meekins had said he would sit in the matter. If necessary, Judge Way said he would ask Judge John J. Parker, senior judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, to designate another judge to come here and hear the case.

When the case first came before Judge Way, in the name of Melvin O. Alston, Negro teacher, who sued for himself and others, it was charged by the Negroes they were paid less than whites simply because of their race and color and that this was in violation of the Constitution of the United States.

Judge Way's Ruling

Judge Way heard arguments on questions of law in the case and ruled that if the Negro had had any constitutional right in the matter, he had waived this when he voluntarily signed a contract to teach for less money than that paid to a white teacher. The Negro appealed this and the Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed Judge Way on this question and the city appealed to the Supreme Court, which refused to review the case.

The case then, by legal process, again was before the local court to be heard on its merits, but the city and a committee representing the Negro teachers got together and agreed on a stagger system by which the Negroes' salaries would equal that of whites at the end of three years. Now, the phrasing of a decree is holding up al phases of the case.

(Turn

y Hill yesterday was giv- a copy of the city's proposed decree and the city is waiting to hear if he and other Negro attorneys will agree to it. Unless this is done, the case will have to be heard before a new judge and on its merits. The Negroes will have to prove all the allegations made in their bill and the case easily can go back to the Circuit Court and to the Supreme Court, unless the attorneys can reach some agreement. The city and the teachers already are agreed.

Norfolk School Board Applies Own Pay Plan

FEB 1 1941

NORFOLK, Va. — Payment of increased salaries to local school teachers, based on the school board's original plan for equalizing them with the salaries paid whites by 1943, went into effect on Friday with the issuance of January checks.

This plan, although agreed to by a group of teachers at a meeting held several weeks ago, is at variance with that set forth in a consent decree drawn up by NAACP attorneys who fought the case for Melvin O. Alston and the Norfolk Teachers' Association to a successful climax in the U.S. Supreme Court.

City's Plan Rejected

The NAACP attorneys recently rejected the form of consent decree submitted by City Attorney Alfred Anderson as too indefinitely worded, and insisted upon adoption of their own proposal, which would have effected full parity in the salary scales for colored and white teachers by September, 1942.

The current increases were made possible by a $30,000 fund set aside by the city as evidence of good faith in its settlement proposal.

Arbitration Suggested

Faced with this apparent deadlock over the two plans, City Attorney Anderson on January 15 wrote Oliver W. Hill of the teachers' legal staff, proposing that, in view of the city's inability to agree to a plan more drastic than its own, the two consent decrees be submitted to Federal Judge Luther B. Way for abitration.

By Thursday of last week, the teachers' attorneys had not agreed to this proposal.

Unless some form of consent decree is formally entered, the legal alternative will be to have entered on the court records an injunction, in keeping with the Supreme Court ruling, against further discrimination in salary scales based on color. This would in effect require immediate adjustment of the scales.

Portsmouth Va Star
January 12, 1941

County Negro Teachers Seek Pay Equalization

BY LEE F. RODGERS

Norfolk County's colored teachers have gone on record again endorsing the move for equalization of salaries of all county school tachers, in keeping with recent court decisions in favor of pay parity among teachers in public school systems.

A meeting of the county's colored teachers was held in South Hill school yesterday, and they voted nearly one hundred per cent again in favoring petitioning the county school board for a scale of salary to equal that of other county teachers. James Albert Overton, head of the Colored Teachers' Association of Norfolk County, presided over the meeting, this correspondent was told.

Principal lay speakers representing the Norfolk County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were Frd Trotman, member of the executive board, and Mrs. J. Beatrice King, secretary of the county chapter. Rev. D. F. Gladney, head of the chapter, was unable to be present, it was learned.

The meeting of the colored county was a lively affair, with the session endorsing the equalization of salaries following closely a meeting presided over by Miss Mary Gibson, supervisor of colored county schools. The NAACP representatives were barred from this meeting, it was rported.

With the colored county teacher voting to seek pay parity, a confused issue is apparently cleared up, since reports coming out of county circles recently indicated that there was a faction that did not approve of the equalization move.

The colored county teachers had previously voted in favor of pay parity, and residents of county communities had endorsed the equalization movement, it was learned.

Portsmouth Va Star
January 12, 1941

COLORED TEACHERS MAY GET INCREASE

Superintendent James Hurst, of the Norfolk County Schools, yesterday issued the following statement concerning the proposed salary increase in pay for colored teachers now employed in Norfolk County Schools:

"Careful consideration is being given the request and the County School Board feels that a substantial increase in the salary of colored teachers will be made, effective at the beginning of the next school year. The exact amount, however, will be determined later."

Superintendent Hurst received a petition several days ago from the teachers asking for a raise in salary.

18v-1941

VIRGINIA

Lexington, Va., News
February 20, 1941

Negro School Principal Has Impressive Record

By BAYARD S. BERGHAUS

Physical improvements to the extent of $12,000 and two new departments in the academic curriculum in two and a half years—such is the record so far of Leander J. Shaw, ambitious principal of the Lexington school for Negroes.

Since Shaw assumed the principalship of the school, located at the top of Diamond Hill on Massey street in September of 1938, departments in Industrial Arts and Home Economics with full equipment have been added. Besides this, work on the building and grounds such as redecorating and landscaping have been carried forward.

Shaw was born in Camden, S. C., June 9, 1904, and attended primary school there. He gained his high school diploma at Virginia State college in Petersburg, Va., in 1929.

He went to West Virginia State college for secondary schooling and received a Bachelor of Arts degree from this institution in 1934. After obtaining a Rosenwald Fellowship he took graduate work in his college major, sociology and education jointly at Fisk university and the University of Chicago until 1936.

While in college Shaw was vice-president of the Y. M. C. A., and was active in debating.

Continuing his research work, Shaw held the position of District Superintendent for Negro White Collar study, an organization sponsored by the U. S. Department of Interior, which covers 48 states. He was engaged in the Chattanooga and Nashville, Tenn. districts in this work through 1937. The research consisted of an attempt to ascertain the type of training Negroes have received and the relationship between the training and their education experiences. The work was completed and discontinued by the government at the close of 1937.

Shaw is now making efforts to increase the local school's curriculum to the standing of a full-fledged high school. At present, the school runs up through the sopho-more year of high school, and plans are in execution now which Shaw hopes will result in three years of high school and ultimately the full course.

Upon realization of this goal Shaw intends to enter his school in a full program of interscholastic sports and other activities.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

White Teachers Endorse Single Salary Scale

RICHMOND — The fight for equalization of teachers' salaries in Richmond schools had a repercussion here Monday. The Senior High School Teachers' Association (white) met and endorsed a single salary scale for all teachers in the Richmond public schools.

Approximately sixty members were on hand to elect new officers and register the new endorsement. If sustained, it will affect the salary levels of teachers in both races and is viewed as a move on the part of its proponents to prohibit salary reductions in face of a state-wide crusade to equalize salaries of colored teachers and those of white teachers.

The meeting was held in the studio building of the Valentine Museum, and Miss Jeffries Henrich was named president. She succeeds Miss Margaret F. Baker.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Clifton Forge Teachers Voted Salary Equality

CLIFTON FORGE, Va.—Negro teachers of Clifton Forge have been assured complete equalization of salaries with those of white teachers, the increases to be effective beginning with the 1941-42 school session.

At the time this action was made by the School Board, plans were also being perfected by the board and city council for the addition of another unit to the colored school. The new building will house a modern auditorium, gymnasium, and home economics department.

The decision to equalize the salaries of all teachers was made at a recent school board meeting, at which time teachers were re-appointed to their posts.

The Board further stipulated that all increments in the future would apply to white and colored teachers of the same qualifications.

RAISES TO 33 1-3 PER CENT

Some of the teachers will receive increases amounting to 33-1-3 percent of their present salary. The total increase for the teachers for next year will amount to $1,620. There are ten colored teachers in the city, including a part-time teacher-librarian.

Members of the Board expressed the opinion that the equalization should become effective at once and voted accordingly. School officials and citizens of the community have expressed their pleasure at the smoothness of the negotiations.

The teachers themselves made the request through their superintendent shortly after the Norfolk case was settled, an official stated. Later, a committee composed of the principal, one teacher, and the president of the Parent-Teacher Association discussed the matter with the superintendent.

J. B. Woodson, principal of the only colored school in Clifton Forge, Jefferson School, stated: "It is worthy of note that the securing of equal salaries in Clifton Forge was a comparatively quiet negotiation all the way through."

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Liquidation of School Teachers

THE failure of the Norfolk County Board of Education to reappoint three principals and one teacher who had a combined tenure of forty years in the system has not been fully explained, but it has been assumed, in the light of events, that these teachers were eliminated because of activities in interest of the equalization of salaries.

If this is true, the Norfolk County Board has placed itself in an untenable position. It is not to be expected that these teachers and their friends will take this action "lying down," and the board may as well prepare itself for unpleasant repercussions. If anything was needed to strengthen the cause of the County teachers the Board has furnished it.

It will be remembered that Judge Way, in ruling on the Norfolk case, rebuked the Norfolk Board in no unmistakable terms for dropping Miss Black, the complainant in the first suit filed.

In striking contrast to the action of the County Board the Norfolk authorities have redeemed themselves handsomely by restoring Miss Black to her position.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Results Will Not Affect

Salary Fight

Board Is Charged With Insincerity

NEWPORT NEWS—Pay checks or all local teachers on October 1 carried a 10 per cent increase voted by the school board last month and approved by the city council.

For six hours last Saturday, the teachers sat for their first educational test now a matter of policy in 22 cities, according to Superintendent Joseph H. Saunders.

The 92 colored teachers took the test in three classrooms at Huntington High School, while the more than 100 white teachers sat in the cafeteria and library of the white high school.

Discussing the test with a representative of this newspaper, Superintendent Saunders explained that the papers will be sealed and forwarded to New York where they will be graded by an electric machine. The test is designed to determine definite standards and criteria of the teacher's ability.

CHARGE INSINCERITY

Because the test is being held now, instead of next January, as was originally planed, and since, in many of the 22 cities cited it applies mostly to beginners, colored teachers charge that the school board hopes, by this means, to stall their efforts toward equalization of salary.

As to the test itself, the teachers were unanimous in saying that, while exacting, it is a very wholesome experience. All agree, however, that the results will have no bearing whatsoever on the salary fight which they intend to follow through at all costs.

Supervisors and principals exempted from the test served as assistant examiners and watchers. White supervisors were assigned to Huntington to keep vigil, but no neutral watchers outside the local system kept vigil at the white high school. The test will be concluded this Saturday when the teachers must sit again for another six hours of scholarly labor.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Aline Black Reinstated By Local School Board

NORFOLK — The reelection of Miss Aline Black to teach science at the Booker T. Washington High School was announced here this week. She was selected by the school board for the 1941-42 school term.

Miss Black, plaintiff in the first teachers' salary case in Norfolk, had taught chemistry at the local school for several years prior to filing the JUN 2 1941 compel the school board to equalize salaries in 1938.

When the board made its appointments for the following year, Miss Black's contract was not renewed and this refusal of the school board to hire the litigant became a "cause celebre" in the case. The first suit was lost in the Circuit Court.

Since that time, Melvin Alston, another teacher at the high school, filed a similar suit in the federal court. The plaintiff's contention was finally upheld on subsequent appeals to the Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

Both Miss Black and Mr. Alston will be teaching here next year. During the two years she has been out of employment at the local school, JUN 21 1941 Black has studied toward the Ph. D. degree. She already holds the bachelor of arts from Virginia State College and the master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

PAID FROM FUND

Some of her study during the interim between June, 1939, when she ceased to teach here, and 1941, was financed by indemnity paid her from the teachers' salary equalization fund, raised jointly by the Virginia State Teachers Association and the Virginia chapters of the NAACP. This fund had been set aside to bear expenses of the litigation and to reimburse plaintiffs in test cases if they were summarily dismissed from their jobs because of the court suit.

Miss Black filed suit in the fall of 1938 and the litigation continued until the last of May, 1939, when the Norfolk Circuit Court ruled that her suit for writ of mandamus was not the proper way to adjust the teacher's grievances and dismissed the suit. An appeal, planned at that time, was never completed, because the plaintiff JUN 2 1941 dismissed from her job at the end of the school year.

TUITION INCREASED

In making the announcement that Miss Black would be rehired, Principal Winston Douglas of the high school, also revealed the fact that summer school tuition this year would be slightly increased because it is necessary to increase teachers' salaries for summer school work.

Mr. Douglas explained that the salaries of these teachers are paid out of tuition revenue paid by pupils. These teachers have been receiving $3 per day. This pay is to be raised to $3.50 per day. JUN 21 1941 Pupils will be charged $5 for one subject and $8 for two. The former rates were $4 for one subject and $5 for two.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Equalization Plan Opposed By Teachers

Colored and White Groups Protest Scale

RICHMOND—The Richmond City School Board is caught in a "straight betwixt two," as a result of the effort being made to equalize the salaries between white and colored teachers in the system. Since the decision of the board's special salary committee, the white teachers on the one hand are preparing to fight the report because its salary scale is too low, and the colored teachers are ready to protest that the alleged equalization plan is not an equalization plan at all.

AUG 8 1941

Here's the story.

It seems that when the committee was appointed, the Richmond Teacher's League, white organizatiin, made it quite plain that they wanted the colored teachers to get equalization, but that they did not want the board to decrease white salaries to accomplish this equalization.

Subsequently they presented a salary scale which provided for an increase in teachers' pay and at the same time offered a 15-year scale, whereby all teachers would receive stated annual increases during their first 10 years in the school system. From the tenth to the fifteenth year, increases would be made at the discretion of the school board, and after the fifteenth year teachers reaching the maximum would continue at that figure.

15 YEARS FOR EQUALIZATION

The Richmond Teachers' Association, colored organization, indorsed this plan with certain modifications, which include a shorter period for the attainment of full equalization. The colored teachers contended that under the plan as proposed it would take 15 years to reach equalization, and that they wanted equalization in no more than three years.

The scale adopted is a modification of the white teachers' plan, and was proposed by Norman Flippen, one of the members if the special committee. It was understood that Supt. J. H. Binford opposed the modified plan. This revised plan reduces by $400 the maximum salary, which would have been received by teachers with baccalaureate degrees under the original plan, and it cuts from $2,350 to $2,100 the maximum which may be attained by instructors with masters degrees.

The schedule adopted by the committee and referred to the school board is as follows:

Years Service	Normal School	B.A. or B.S.	M.A. or M.S.
1	$ 800	$ 900	$1,000
2	850	950	1,050
3	900	1,000	1,100
4	950	1,100	1,250
5	1,000	1,150	1,300
6	1,050	1,200	1,350
7	1,100	1,250	1,400
8	1,150	1,300	1,450
9	1,200	1,350	1,500
10	1,300	1,450	1,600
11	1,400	1,550	1,700
12	1,500	1,650	1,800
13	1,600	1,750	1,900
14	1,700	1,850	2,000
15 or more	1,800	1,950	2,100

It should be noted that this scale is applicable to all teachers, whether they teach in elementary or high schools, or whether they are males or females. Heretofore a differential existed among these classes.

In the operation of this plan, the committee AUG 9 1941 suggested that teachers now receiving more than the maximum of the proposed new scale should continue at that rate next term.

There is a mounting tide of opposition to this plan by teachers of both races. Some of the colored teachers seem to think that they are being given the "run-around;" and that this type of equalization offered by the committee is not equalization at all. They indicate that they are in favor of carrying the Richmond case to the courts if they cannot get a better bargain.

Other teachers are in a more compromising mood and state that they will await the action of the board itself.

Superintendent Binford's estimate of the costs of the original scale offered by the white teachers was $40,000 for the first five years, with a yearly increase of $200,000 after that time. He was asked by the committee to prepare an estimate of the costs of the modified scale which they adopted.

Under the proposed plan each teacher would advance to the next point above their present salaries, except those who are now receiving more than the scale's maximum. Also in transfering teachers from the old scale ti the new scale, no teacher would receive less than he or she has received heretofore. AUG 9 1941 This would mean, one interpreter said, that every colored teacher would receive an advance in salary at the beginning of the new term.

This same interpreter, who is a teacher of long standing in the schools, pointed out that what the scale would accomplish in the way of equalizatiin would be just about this:

"New teachers entering the system would receive equalization and a gradual increase in the classes receiving equalization between white and colored teachers, at the beginning of each term, until those in the highest brackets would be reached. What the colored teachers have, it would seem, is a gradual increase in present pay, with equalization in the offing."

CLEANLINESS IS CONTAGIOUS SANITATION EXPERT SAYS

Cleanliness, like disease, is contagious, according to Dr. George A. Soper, discoverer of "Typhoid Mary" and now a consultant in sanitation of the United States Housing Authority.

Low-rent public housing projects, by their example of cleanliness and orderly appearance are setting examples to whole communities, according to Dr. Soper.

"If streets are littered with papers most peiple think nothing of adding to the litter. If streets are clean most people will refrain from throwing paper and refuse on it," he says.

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch
September 21, 1941

Teachers' Pay Again

THE Negro school teachers of Richmond are naturally dissatisfied with the salary scale recently adopted for teachers of both races by the City School Board, for that scale will not provide equalization in less than eight to eleven years in a good many cases, while 15 years will be required for full equalization in the new maximum brackets.

They have submitted an alternate plan, under which five years would be required for full equalization. Under this plan, the appropriation for salaries would be increased annually by about $43,000 over that period, giving a total additional cost for equalization of around $215,000 at the end of the five years.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS JESSE H. BINFORD has a plan, too, and this one does not differ in many major respects from that of the Negro teachers. He proposes a slightly larger additional appropriation for the first year ($52,000 as against $43,000), and under this arrangement, six years would be required for full equalization, instead of five, with a few teachers requiring a year or two longer. While the additional financial burden would be distributed over six years, in the aggregate it would be about the same as that called for by the scale submitted by the Negro teachers.

As we pointed out editorially on September 1, an additional supplementary $25,000 appropriation by Council now for equalization of teachers' salaries, would practically take care of the immediate situation, and would be the first step needed to bring equalization in five or six years. This $25,000 would cover equalization costs from now until January 1. If this were voted, and either SUPERINTENDENT BINFORD'S scale or the Negro teachers' scale was adopted, the Negro teachers would not have the just complaints which they are able to advance against the recently adopted plan.

The chief remaining objection to that plan then would lie in the clause which provides for no pay raises at the end of 10 years, without the consent of the School Board. Fortunately both the white and the colored teachers object to this provision, and the School Board is said to be awakening to a realization of the number of headaches it would be sure to bring. Its elimination in the not distant future is anticipated.

18v-1941
Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

FEB 22 1941

NO HARD FEELINGS—At the conclusion of the brief conference at which attorneys affixed their signatures to a mutually agreed upon consent decree concluding, subject to the court's approval, the Norfolk's teachers' salary litigation, City Attorney C. Alfred Anderson (center) and Leon A. Ransom shook hands and voiced expressions of goodwill despite vigorous legal opposition over the issue of pay parity. Oliver W. Hill, of counsel for the teachers, is at the right.

VIRGINIA
Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Teachers To Honor Plaintiffs In Equal Salary Suits Here

FEB 22 1941

Testimonial Program To Be Held At First Baptist Church Feb. 28

Members of the Norfolk Teachers Association made plans this week to honor their president, Melvin O. Alston, plaintiff in the successful equality teachers' salary suit, and Miss Aline Black, plaintiff in the original case which was lost in the Norfolk Circuit Court two years ago.

Although additional details were to be ironed out at a meeting of the association Tuesday evening at six o'clock, tentative plans call for a testimonial meeting at the First Baptist Church, Bute Street, on Friday night, February 28, at eight o'clock.

Presentations will be made to both of the honorees by Miss Florence Reid on behalf of the teachers association. The history of the court fight to obtain equal teachers' salaries will be reviewed briefly by Winston Douglas, principal of the Booker T. Washington High School.

Among those who will receive special invitations to attend the affair are, members of the legal staff who handled the litigation, officers of the Virginia State Teachers Association, members of the defense committee, and probably local city and school officials.

FEB 22 1941

A student from the Booker T. Washington High School will make a presentation on behalf of the high school students, while an elementary school pupil will do likewise for pupils of the elementary schools. J. P. Archer will speak for the male teachers in the city school system, and Miss Elizabeth M. Davis for the female teachers.

The male principals of the city will be represented by P. J. Chesson, principal of the Abraham Lincoln School. The public is invited to attend the program.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

South Norfolk Teachers Get 10-25 Per Cent Pay Increase

APR 19 1941

SOUTH NORFOLK— Teachers in the Waterford School, here will receive pay increases ranging from ten to twenty-five per cent retroactive to January 1, it was decided at the last regular meeting of the South Norfolk School Board.

APR 19 1941

The payments will be made in a lump sum this month and the action will be effective as of January 1 this year instead of on September 1 as was originally planned by the board in its decision to grant pay parity to the Waterford School teachers.

T. C. Anderson, superintendent of South Norfolk schools, met the teachers on Monday, April 7 to notify them of the change in plans.

APR 19 1941

Following the payment of the lump sum the regular per centage of increases will be continued until full equalization is reached, it was stated. Miss Daisy L. Wilson is principal of the Waterford school, the only colored school in South Norfolk.

The main objection, Superintendent Binford said, was to the length of time it would take for equalization of Negro teachers' salaries with those of the white instructors. A committee of Negro teachers, he said, previously had stated to the School Board that the equalization should take place within the next five years.

Mr. Binford said the spokesmen yesterday contended that it would take eight to 11 years for some of the Negro teachers to attain complete equalization and that they indicated they would appoint a committee to appear before the next meeting of the School Board to ask for quicker equalization.

The superintendent explained that in order to accomplish quicker equalization the School Board would have to get a special appropriation from City Council. In the meantime, he said, the School Board has appointed a special committee to appear before Council to set forth the financial needs of the schools of Richmond for the next calendar year.

Mr. Binford said yesterday's meeting was supposed to have been between himself and a committee of Negro teachers, but that "practically all of the Negro teachers in Richmond attended."

Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch
September 16, 1941

Negroes Rap Proposed Pay For Teachers in Richmond

Approximately 250 Negro teachers in the city yesterday met with Jesse H. Binford, superintendent of public schools here, and raised "serious objections" to the salary scale adopted recently by the School Board.

The Negro teachers had as their spokesmen Thomas Henderson, a teacher, and Oliver W. Hill, local Negro lawyer. Mr. Binford said One of the objections raised at the meeting, the superintendent said, was the provision that would stop increases in salaries of certain teachers at the end of a 10-year period and would provide no further advance after that time except upon action by the School Board.

Danville, Va., Register
March 29, 1941

School Board Faces Dilemma In Equal Salary Controversy

—o—

Action Expected at Budget Meeting on April 10; No Statement Yet in Regard to Superintendent's Status

—o—

With the budget meeting of the City School Board scheduled on April 10, reliable sources last night disclosed that the membership was no nearer a solution of the problem of equal pay for Negro and white teachers than when the petition for equalization of salaries was presented to the board by a committee representing teachers in the colored public schools last January.

The question must be decided before approval of the budget is given, but insofar as could be ascertained last night the board has not reached an agreement—whether in compromise form, denial of the petition or access to the wishes of the colored teachers.

Matter Discussed Fully

The matter has been discussed fully by the board, however, but what action will be taken has not been even remotely intimated.

The local board is not the only one in the state faced with the delimma it was learned, several other municipalities having been confronted with similar requests for equalization of salaries.

The committee of four Danville board members who recently went to Richmond to confer with Dr. Sidney B. Hall, state superintendent of public instruction, conferred not only on the matter of election of a superintendent of schools—which must be effected before May 1—but also on the equalization of salaries problem, but again met with little or no success.

Election Is Expected

It is believed that the election of a superintendent will be made at the April 10 meeting. Exactly how the board now stands on the question of re-electing G. L. H. Johnson to the post he has held for the past 16 years or naming a successor to the office has not been disclosed.

Reports are prevalent that there is a majority against the re-election of Johnson, though rumors have come from other quarters that several members who were recently said to have opposed him are now in favor of his retention.

Last week Dr. Hall voluntarily informed the local press that he favored re-election of Johnson, and therefore the incumbent is preferred by the state head. However, should the board decide against his retention, approval of a successor must necessarily come from Dr. Hall.

Portsmouth, Va. Star
March 16, 1941

T 28

PATIENT COLORED TEACHERS

A considerable degree of patience must be admitted to have been borne by the colored school teachers of Portsmouth in awaiting reply to their request for salary increase, this to be graduated over a period of years until equalization with the salaries of white teachers, for commensurate work should be reached.

Under decision of the courts our colored teachers might have made demands rather than request in the premises. They might have even brought legal action for immediate equalization of pay with that of white teachers. But following a more moderate and thoughtful course Portsmouth teachers, like Norfolk colored teachers, suggested a graduated increase of salary, this to begin in September of the current year and to be extended over a period of four years until equalization should come in fact.

Since December the Portsmouth colored teachers have waited for some indication of purpose on the part of the city regarding their petition. The time would seem to have arrived when they should be accorded explanation of the objective by municipal authorities in meeting now, or eventually, what court decree has said must be met.

Nothing is to be gained through delays that can only engender antagonisms. Two delicate points are involved —(1) the rights of the petitioners, and (2) the lack of present budgeted funds to meet the requirements of the case.

Nothing is to be gained by lack of frankness. The issue is one the municipal authorities must meet. The colored teachers have apparently been thoughtful and moderate in their presentations.

No doubt the school authorities will realize the justification of the request that has been made, and will very shortly notify the teachers that the request will be granted. The Portsmouth board has consistently endeavored to carry out school affairs to the best interests of all concerned and we have no doubt that its course of action in the colored teachers pay matter will be handled with satisfaction to all.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland
APR 19 1941

Portsmouth, Va. Teachers' Pay Scale Approved

PORTSMOUTH, Va. — The Portsmouth School Board on Friday adopted a measure for a new salary schedule that would place the salaries of its colored teachers on a parity with those of the white teachers within a period of five years.

The board also adopted a resolution abolishing all present salary schedules and adopted another which will become effective on July 1 of this year.

Minimum Salary $900

Under the provisions of the new schedule resolution the minimum salary of female elementary teachers will be $900 per annum for those teachers who hold the normal professional certificate and $960 for teachers holding the collegiate professional certificate.

The resolution provides that there shall be no schedule of salaries for male teachers, the board reserving the right to pay such salaries as may be necessary to secure competent male teachers for the various regular and special teaching positions in the schools.

APR 19 1941

Basis for Male Teachers

The exception being that the salary schedules as set for female high school teachers shall be the minimum basis for the salary of male teachers.

Much objectionable pressure has been brought in regard to the equalization of the salaries of the colored and white teachers, according to Gaston S. Foote, chairman of the committee on school regulations.

He also intimated that he knew this pressure had not been sponsored by the colored teachers themselves.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia
JUN 14 1941

Salary Scale Effective On July 1

Wages To Be Based On Certificates And Ratings

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—In an effort to adjust the existing salary scale of public school teachers here, and to raise the pay of colored teachers, the school board of Charlottesville unanimously adopted resolutions establishing the sum of $1000 per year as the minimum salary for teachers holding the collegiate professional certificate.

This action was taken at the final meeting of the board held here recently, and will apply to all applicants for positions as classroom teachers for the year beginning July 1, 1941 and closing June 30, 1942.

TEACHERS TO BE RATED

Another important step taken by the board was the adoption of a procedure which will adjust salaries of those teachers applying for re-employment on the basis of comparative ratings according to the growth, improvement and success of each teacher while employed in the school system.

Under the new program many of the local teachers will get salary increases amounting to $300 per year beginning with the next school term in September, 1941.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

The text of the resolutions follow: RESOLVED, that the Superintendent of Schools of the City of Charlottesville, Virginia, is hereby instructed to observe the following regulations with respect to compensation in his negotiations with applicants for positions as classroom teachers for the year beginning July 1, 1941 and closing June 30, 1942.

1. Teachers holding a collegiate professional certificate or equal shall receive a salary of not less than $1,000.

2. Teachers holding a normal professional certificate or equal shall receive a salary of not less than $950.

Value to the school system which may justify minima of compensation above minima as outlined above shall be determined by teacher preparation, experience and efficiency, or, in other words, by scholarship, executive ability, personality, and teaching power.

The grade of certificate held by a teacher shall be used merely as a basis for establishing minimum salaries.

RESOLVED, that the Personnel Committee with the assistance of the Superintendent formulate and submit to the Board regulations concerning the employment and compensation of teachers, principal and clerical help based upon the following considerations:

(1) The recruiting of new teachers at minimum salaries adequate to insure employment of trained teachers with successful experience.

(2) The adjustment of salaries of those teachers applying for re-employment on the basis of comparative ratings according to the growth, improvement and success of each teacher while employed in this school system, so that the salaries to be offered each applicant shall reflect the comparative value of the services of each teacher to the system.

(3) The salaries of those who have been employed in the system many years and whose efficiency is reduced, but who are still able to render some valuable service, should be adjusted in accordance with their reduced efficiency.

(4) The elimination of those whose efficiency has been so reduced that their retention in the system is no longer wise.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Equal Pay Continued In West Va.

AUG 30 1941

Assistant County Supervisors Get Salary Increase

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Continuing the policy of equal salaries, the state supervisor of Negro schools announces that salary increases have already been given to most of the Negro assistant county superintendents of schools. For the same training and experience, it is reported that the salaries of the assistant superintendents are equal.

In Logan and Fayette counties the Negro assistant superintendents receive salaries of $3,600 per year. In McDowell County, the largest Negro-populated county in the state, where nearly two-hundred Negro teachers are to be supervised, the assistant county superintendent receives a salary of $3,900.

KEEP THEIR TRAINING UP

AUG 30 1941

Supervisor I. J. K. Wells reported that the assistant superintendents are keeping their training up to date. Messrs. A. H. Calloway of Kanawha County, James P. Cleveland of Logan County and J. S. Saundle of Mercer County, along with the State supervisor of Negro schools, were in attendance at summer school during the current summer.

19w-1941

Argus

St. Louis, Missouri

400 AT A.T.A. MEET; NEXT IN LANGSTON

P.T.A. Votes to Purchase $1,000 Defense Bonds

The week of July 27 brought fit climax to the semi-centennial year of the West Virginia College when the institution was host to the fifteenth National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers. Mrs. Mary Foster McDavid, President and the 38th convention of the American Teachers Association. Miss Mary L. Williams, President.

AUG 8 1941

The keynote of the convention was sounded by President John W. Davis, in the opening session. Said President Davis, "The Parent-Teacher association interests suggest workers' education, nutrition and consumer education and complete civic participation in all modern curricula. In the curricula should be included instruction in the fundamental principles that underlie family relationships and the relationship of education to the everyday work of all citizens in the American democracy."

Mr. L. S. James, National Executive Secretary of the P. T. A. presented with further clarification the theme of the place of the P. T. A. in the total national defense program.

Monday night was called the West Virginia session. The program, presided over by Mrs. Lillian M. Trigg included an address by Dr. Helen S. Mitchell, Director of Nutrition in the office of Mr. Paul V. McNutt. This followed a presentation in the afternoon by Dr. A. Heningburg, Assistant to the President, North Carolina Stae College, a session over which Mrs. D. C. Rayford presided.

The annual address by the National President, Mrs. May Foster McDavid was an inspiring message. Mrs. H. S. Klein, President of the W. Va. P. T. A. and Mrs. Charles D. Center of the National Advisory Committee were presented.

The Tuesday morning session was presided over by Mrs. Charles S. Johnson, President of the Tennessee Congress. President Davis discussed "What should be the contents of a College Course in P. T. A. Work."

AUG 8 1941

Dr. Charles S. Johnson, Director of Social Sciences, Fisk University, gave a scholarly analysis of "What Parents Can Do in the Field of Juvenile Protection."

Mrs. Viola Whyte, policewoman of Baltimore, led in the discussion.

The evening schedule included the Fourth State President's Conference Banquet, Mrs. Ora K. Glass, presiding. The main address was that of Mrs. S. C. Cox the National P. T. A. representative.

At its closing session the Congress voted to give $1,000.00 for the purchase of federal defense bonds. The first of a planned series of donations to the Infantile Paralysis Hospital at Tuskegee was started with a gift of $100.00.

Officers elected for the new year: Mrs. A. M. P. Strong, Little Rock, Arkansas, President; Mrs. William M. Henry, Dover, Delaware, First Vice-President; Mrs. Lillian Trigg, Bluefield, West Virginia, Second Vice-President; Mrs. Dora Rayford, Prairie View, Texas; Third Vice-President; Mrs. Charles S. Johnson, Nashville, Tennessee, fourth Vice-President; Mrs. Zula White, Hampton, Virginia, fifth Vice-President; Mrs. Ora K. Glass, Henderson, Kentucky, sixth Vice-President; Miss Rosa Mosby, Mt. Holland, New Jersey, Mrs. E. Bessie Baker, Jacksonville, Florida, secretary and Mr. L. S. James, Bowie, Maryland, Executive Secretary.

Executive Secretary H. Councill Trenholm of the American Teachers Assocation announced that 400 delegates had registered the first day, Thursday July 31, from 22 states and the District of Columbia.

Miss Mary L. Williams, President reported an unusual interest in the various constructive offerings of the Departmental meetings.

The first public session was a joint meeting with the P. T. A. beginning at 8:15 p. m. in the Auditorium of the West Virginia State College. Dr. John W. Davis, President of West Virginia State College presided.

The keynote address was then made by Dr. Rayford W. Logan, Chairman of Committee on Participation of Negroes in National Defense. Dr. Logan's address was a timely analysis of the present situation.

Flowers were presented to Miss Mary L. Williams and Mrs. Mary Foster McDavid, Presidents of the two groups. Music was furnished by Mr. Joseph Grider and Dr. Dennis Smith.

Dr. Mildred Babrock, Hunter College, New York City, Chairman of the Radio Committee of the N. E. A. and Dr. Frank Horne, U. S. Housing Authority, Washington, D. C. spoke at the Wednesday evening meeting.

Thursday, July 31 was devoted to a memorial exercise for deceased members. A eulogy was delivered by President David D. Jones, Bennett College, Greensboro, N. C., an address on "Radio in Eduration" by Dr. J. Keith Tyler.

In the evening the features was an address by Dr. Arthur D. Wright, President of the Southern Education Foundation on the Jeanes Fund in Negro Education.

Friday was devoted largely to business, excepting the closing session when the principal speaker was Walter White, Executive Secretary of the NAACP. Mr. White discussed "Education for Individual Responsibility in American Democracy."

Officers elected are as follows: Miss Mary L. Williams, Charleston, West Virginia, reelected president; O. J. Thomas, Prairie View, Texas, Vice-President; H. Councill Trenholm, President State Teachers College, Montgomery, Alabama, Executive Secretary; Dr. Howard Long, Washington, D. C. Treasurer. On the Board of Trustees are J. S. Clark, Chairman, Southern University, Baton Rouge, La.; Horace Mann Bond, Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga.; Mrs. A. M. P. Strong, Little Rock, Arkansas; J. F. Drake, President, A. & M. Institute, Normal, Ala.; Mrs. Willa Carter Burch, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Miles W. Conner, Baltimore, Md. The elected Executive Committee is composed of President F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee Inst, Ala. and President J. R. E. Lee, Sr., Florida A & M. College, Tallahassee, Fla.

Four of the six regional vice-presidents are Mrs. Lillian S. Rogers, Indianola, Miss.; C. L. Harper, Atlanta, Ga.; D. K. Cherry, Knoxville, College, Knoxville, Tenn.; W. McKinley Menchan, Cheyney Teachers College, Cheyney, Penna.

Langston University, Langston, Oklahoma was chosen as the next meeting place for the 39th convention of the P. T. A.

Music was furnished by the Music Department of West Virginia State College and singers from Charleston, W. Va.

18w-1941

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF TEACHERS

The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

Move for Unity Backed At Teachers Union Parley

AUG 24 1941

Noted Educators Sign Plea to Reseat Ousted Locals

By William Allan
(Special to the Sunday Worker)

DETROIT, Aug. 23.—Led by Doxey Wilkerson, Negro delegate from Howard University, a rising surge of sentiment for unity within the American Federation of Teachers was reflected here today at the union's 25th Annual Convention. Wilkerson called for a review of the referendum which ousted three teacher locals, Local 5 and 537 of New York and Local 192 of Philadelphia, following the Executive Council report upholding the elimination of 8,000 members from the union.

AUG 24 1941

Indication of the growing move to reseat the delegates from the ousted locals, who are present, though not permitted at the sessions, was further seen in the petition signed by 13 prominent educators at the convention which declared that only a united AFT can "check those hostile drives at home and to lend a united strength in the struggle to defeat fascism here and abroad."

Another highlight of the convention was the proposal for Federal aid to education with guarantees against Negro discrimination, advocated by the legislative representatives of the AFT in their report.

BAR 131 DELEGATES

A proposal to allow 131 delegates from the three locals whose charters were revoked, Locals 5 and 537 of New York and 192 of Philadelphia, to be permitted in as visitors, was voted down. The motion to allow them to be present came during the report of the credentials committee, whose chairman Miss Mary McGeough, reported 302 delegates from 110 locals present. This is a sharp drop in attendance of delegates, from what was expected by the executive council. They estimated 600 delegates from 217 locals, with a membership of 23,695 as was reported by treasurer Irvin R. Kuenzli in his report.

Following the credentials report, the convention heard a special report of the executive council on the interpretation of the constitution as it affected the ouster of the three locals.

The theme of the report, read to the convention by Secretary Trasurer Kuenzli, was that the executive council regarded the constitution as permitting them the right to initiate the referendum, and "the will of the members was carried out."

MOVES FOR UNITY

Following this report which was moved and seconded for adoption, delegate Doxey Wilkerson, president of the Howard University local of the AFT, moved that "the executive council of the AFT be instructed to create a committee to ascertain whether there exists a common basis upon which the reunion of the Federation can be affected through returning to good standing members of Local 5, and 192 and 537 and to report its findings to the executive council."

Delegate Wilkerson said that he was not asking for a vote against the special report of the Executive Council but was seeking to re-unite the Federation in this critical period.

Wilkerson said, "the conditions and problems that we and the teachers of the nations face must eliminate any vindictiveness when we discuss this matter."

"The least we can do," he said, "is to ask the executive council to explore possibilities of reaching unity and by that I mean we do not ask delegates to vote down their report."

UNITY PLEA SUPPORTED

Seconding Wilkerson's motion, was Mathewson of Harvard, who quoted in support of the motion excerpts from the March issue of this year of the American Teacher, which Mr. Mathewson said in his judgment was applicable to the present discussion before the convention. He quoted, "We cannot discriminate against Negroes, aliens, sharecroppers, workers or any other group in American life, if we are to secure the democratic morale and unity essential to victory."

AUG 24 1941

"This involves respect for minorities. Although minorities must assent if majorities are to keep their democracy they must safeguard the persuasive rights of minorities."

Vice President John Connors, speaking against Mr. Wilkerson's proposal said in part: "It is not in a spirit of vindictiveness that the Executive Board renders its report that if the teachers in New York and Philadelphia want to join the AFT all they have to do is sign a card."

William Card of Chicago, speaking for the motion of Mr. Wilkerson, said, "there is no doubt that the action of the Executive Council is being questioned, but an attitude of sincerity, exploration and tolerance and the opening up of a discussion on getting back the whole or part of the 8,000 members is necessary."

"President Counts," he said, "showed us in his speech yesterday the great threat to democracy and the need for unity in the fight against Fascism and for uniting the world against Hitlerism.

"Not to leave the door open as President Counts said yesterday in his report, would prevent the exploration of the possibilities of reunion of the American Federation of Teachers."

The motion then was put to a vote and was defeated by two to one. It was a voice vote with those against voicing their opposition in vociferous tones which motivated President Counts to state that it carried overwhelmingly."

AUG 24 1941

DR. BELLA V. DODD
Legislative Director, Local 5, Teachers' Union

SIGN PETITION

Thirteen distinguished names in American educational circles—who are also delegates to the convention—signed a statement which called for "The major responsibility of the AFT to achieve a unity sufficiently powerful to check these hostile drives at home and to lend a united strength in the struggle to defeat Fascism here and abroad."

The signers were: Ray E. Abercrombie, Local 479, Cincinnati, Ohio; Robenia Anthony, Local 484 of Springfield, Mass.; Rosevelle Bloom, Local 672, Louisville, Ky.; John R. Cottin, Local 611, of Fisk University; Cortland Eyer, Local 635, of Northwestern University, Chicago; George R. Faxon of Local 441, of Boston; Ralph H. Gundlach, Local 401, University of Washington; Red Holmgren of Local 600, Des Moines, Iowa; F. O. Matthiessen, Local 431, Harvard University; Maurice McCormick, Local 464, Chicago; Addie L. Weber, Local 437, New Jersey; Doxey Wilkerson, Local 440, Howard University, Washington, D. C.; A. H. Winspear, Local 223, Wisconsin.

The statement pointed to the dangers teachers face, cuts in education, division of the strength of the people in conflicts of race, religion and political belief, curtailment of civil liberties and appeasement of fascism at home and abroad.

It then declared that a "united AFT must fight these dangers" and calls for a positive program for the year 1941-42 which enumerated the following:

AUG 24 1941

A united AFT working with the labor movement must defend the economic interests of teachers and other trade unionists;

A unified AFT must fight every case of racial, religious, political discrimination on a nationwide scale;

A united AFT must defend the free thinking of a free people.

It concludes with a declaration that a united AFT must fight appeasement tendencies at home and abroad. This the statement says, must entail "fullest aid to Britain, the Soviet Union and China—the peoples actively fighting Hitlerism. It entails a democratic defense program, not a regimentation of youth. The AFT has the special responsibility of working for a democratic regime in the army."

THE APPEAL

The thirteen signers, delegates to the convention and participating in its deliberations end their appeal to the convention with:

"To make this program effective for the one million teachers of America, the AFT must hold together all teachers who have been attracted to the union movement—both those whose delegates have been seated at the convention and those who in New York and Philadelphia who have carried on the fight for such a program. It means that teachers both inside and outside the convention must forget past differences, cease wasting energies on factional fights, and together put on the most active drive to organize all educational employees throughout the country. Only in this way can the American Federation of Teachers hope to retain the respect of the labor movement and really protect the children and teachers of America."

A report on academic freedom was presented today, mentioning the need in one part for struggle against Rapp-Coudertism.

Atlanta, Ga. Constitution
August 2, 1941

Dr. Bond Named By Teacher Group

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1. (AP)—Mary L. Williams, of Charleston, W. Va., was re-elected president of the American Teachers' Association (Negro) today just before the 300 delegates closed the annual convention.

Twenty-two states were represented at the meeting, which also elected these officers:

C. J. Thomas, of Prairie View, Texas, vice president; Dr. H. Councill Trenholm, of Montgomery, Ala., executive secretary; Dr. Howard H. Long, of Washington, D. C., treasurer; Dr. F. D. Patterson, of Tuskegee, Ala., and Dr. J. R. E. Lee, of Tallahassee, Fla., executive committee members; and Dr. H. M. Bond, of Fort Valley, Ga., trustee.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Mrs. Butler Attends White P-TA Meeting

BOSTON, Mass.—(SNS)—Mrs. H. R. Butler, Sr., founder and first president of the National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers, attended the 45th Annual Convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers (White) which met in the Statler Hotel in Boston, Massachusetts, May 19-21.

According to Mrs. Butler, the Convention theme, "Modern Problems in Community Living," was discussed most interestingly by specialists who knew their subjects from experience.

JUN 5 1941

Mrs. Butler reports that attention was called by several speakers to the standing, needs and rights of the colored citizens of this democracy.

There were 3,000 registered delegates from every state in the Union, representing 2,500,000 members. Mrs. Butler says the White Parent-Teacher Congress is liberal in its cooperation with the Congress of colored Parent-Teacher Associations.

JUN 5 1941

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Sessions At W. Va. State During Week

Prominent Leaders From Over Nation Listed Speakers

INSTITUTE, W. Va.—Representing a membership of 60,000 in 20 states, the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands, the National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers opened its annual sessions at West Virginia State College here Monday for a three-day meeting.

The general sessions were built around the theme of education for individual responsibility in democracy and national defense.

NOTED SPEAKERS

Prominent speakers scheduled to appear included: Dr. Helen S. Mitchell, director of nutrition, federal security agency, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Charles S. Johnson, Fisk University; Dr. John W. Davis, president, West Virginia State College; Dr. A. Heningburg, president's assistant, North Carolina College; Mrs. Jessie Daniels Ames, general field secretary of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. S. C. Cox, vice president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers (white)), Roanoke, Va.; Dr. W. W. Saunders, executive secretary of the West Virginia Congress; Mrs. Violet Hill Whyte, policewoman, Baltimore, Md.; Miss Mary Williams, president, American Teachers' Association.

The association divides its work among six departments: organization, extension, public welfare, education, home service and health, directed respectively by Mmes. L. B. Yancy, Henderson, N. C.; Lillian Trigg, Bluefield, W. Va.; Charles S. Johnson, Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.; Zula E. White, Hampton Institute; Justine L. Perry, Anderson, S. C., and Miss Rosa M. Mosby, Mt. Holly, N. J. Mrs. Mary F. David is president of the association.

ATA MEETS ALSO

The annual meeting of the American Teachers Association was concurrent with that of the Parent and Teachers. The ATA sessions began Tuesday and extended through Thursday.

ATA speakers listed for the meeting were: Dr. Rayford W. Logan, department of history, Howard University; Dr. J. R. E. Lee, president of Florida A. and M. College, Tallahassee, Fla.; Dr. Mildred D. Babcock, department of education, Hunter College and chairman of the N.E.A. and A.T.A. committee on radio, New York City; Dr. Frank Horne, U. S. Housing Authority; Dr. Horace Mann Bond, Fort Valley State College; Walter F. White, NAACP; Dr. John M. Gandy, president Virginia State College; Dean William Pickens, U. S. Treasury, defense bond division.

The ATA functions through eleven departments, embracing college, high school, rural, industrial arts and vocational, home economics, health and business education, as well as sections devoted to psychological research and visual auditory aids.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Record breaking attendances were predicted by executive secretaries of both groups, Leonidas S. James, State College, Bowie, Md., for the PTA, and Dr. H. Councill Trenholm, president of Alabama State Teachers College, for the ATA.

Important events of both meetings were a joint banquet Wednesday evening and the entertainment of the ATA by the McDowell - Mercer Roundtable, Thursday evening under its president, Sam Farmer.

Those who indicated they would be present for both meetings were: Drs. D. O. W. Holmes, president Morgan College, Baltimore, Md.; Ambrose Caliver, specialist in Negro education, U. S. Office of Education, Washington; F. D. Bluford, president A. and T. College; H. L. McCrorey, president Johnson C. Smith University; Felton G. Clark, president Southern University, Baton Rouge, La.; J. S. Clark, president-emeritus Southern University; Miles W. Connor, president Coppin State Teachers College, Baltimore; Carrington Davis, principal Dunbar High School, Baltimore; J. F. Drake, president Alabama A. and M. Institute, Normal, Ala.

Drs. G. L. Harrison, president Langston University, Langston, Okla.; R. S. Grossley, president Delaware State College, Dover, Dela.; Mr. J. A. Jackson, New York City; Dr. David D. Jones, president Bennett College, Greens, N. C.; Mrs. Foster McDavid, president National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers, Montgomery, Ala.; Drs. Francis M. Wood, supervisor of Colored schools, Baltimore; Arthur D. Wright, president Southern Education Foundation, Washington, D. C.; J. B. Watson, president Arkansas State College, Pine Bluff, Ark.

Miss Jessie Ames of the National Interracial Commission, Atlanta, Ga.; W. W. Charters, professor of education, Ohio State University; Drs. Carlton B. Goodlett, Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga., Howard Long, board of ex[illegible] district public schools, Washington; Garnet Wilkinson, assistant superintendent of public schools, Washington.

AUG 2 1941

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

NAT. CONGRESS P-TA OPENS IN WEST VIRGINIA

Group Votes To Invest $1000 In Government Defense Bonds

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(ANP)—The National Congress of Parents and Teachers held its fifteenth meeting here last week at West Virginia State college. The body meeting almost simultaneously with the American Teachers association, heard a number of notable speakers during its session.

Among those who appeared were President John Davis of West Virginia State college; L. S. James, national executive secretary of the P.T.A.; Dr. Helen S. Mitchell, director of nutrition in the office of Paul V. McNutt, coordinator of health, welfare and related defense activities; Dr. Alphonse Heningburg, assistant to the president, North Carolina State college; Mrs. H. S. Klein, president West Va. P.T.A.

The Tuesday morning session was presided over by Mrs. Charles S. Johnson. Her husband, Dr. Charles S. Johnson, director of social sciences at Fisk university, gave a scholarly analysis of "What Parents Can Do In the Field of Juvenile Protection." Dr. Johnson showed that parents were in position to build the personalities of the future so that they could find wholesome integration into life. His address and that of Dr. Mitchell were broadcast over WGKV.

The congress after hearing an address by Dean William Pickens voted to invest $1,000 in defense bonds. It made the first of a series of donations planned for the infantile paralysis center at Tuskegee institute. This year's gift was $100.

Officers elected for the new year are Mrs. A. M. P. Strong, Little Rock, Ark., president; Mrs. William M. Henry, Dover, Del., first vice-president; Mrs. Lillian Trigg, Bluefield, W. Va., second vice-president; Mrs. Dora Rayford, Prairie View, Tex., third vice-president; Mrs. Charles S. Johnson, Nashville, Tenn. fourth vice-president; Mrs. Zula White, Hampton, Va., fifth vice-president; Mrs. Ora K. Glass, Henderson, Ky., sixth vice-president; Miss Rosa Mosby, Mt. Holland, N. J., Mrs. E. Bessie Baker, Jacksonville, Fla., secretary and L. S. James, Bowie, Md., executive secretary.

AUG 9 1941

18w-1941
The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Educators Mobilize To Protect Schools

JUL 3 1941

When the National Education Association, at their annual convention in Boston last week, voted unanimously to set up a commission of 60 educators on the "Defense of Democracy in Education," this largest of American educational organizations made it perfectly clear that they meant just what they said, "Defense of Democracy," not reactionary red-baiting.

However, no casual reader of accounts of the convention in the New York capitalist press could have guessed at this intention. From first to last, the commission's purpose was presented in newspaper stories and editorials as a sort of new, scholastic edition of the Rapp-Coudert Committee.

Mention was first made of the proposed commission in the New York Sun of July 2, under the sensational head, "Teachers to Investigate Isms."

On July 3, the New York Times published—in an inconspicuous fourth paragraph of a story — the actual purposes of the commission, as verified by the Daily Worker at the NEA office in New York City.

"Its stated purposes," the Times admitted, "are to create public understanding and support of education . . . to investigate criticisms and movements against education, school systems, textbooks and teachers; to catalogue groups opposing education and to investigate the sources of their funds, and to investigate alleged subversive teachings."

This true but inconspicuous statement was printed, however, in an article which claimed hopefully that "strong opposition" to such a commission "appeared to be developing today" and "there was promise of sharp discussion on the floor tomorrow." The headline announced, "NEA Split on Plan to Back Democracy."

What happened at the convention of the NEA? What was the intention of 10,000 teacher-delegates, in voting unanimously for a commission on the "Defense of Democracy in Education"?

AGAINST BOOK BURNINGS

According to members of the NEA who were present at the convention, the movement for such a commission started with a request to the executive from a group of educators in New York City late in February, shortly after certain fascist book-burning proposals were made by the National Association of Manufacturers.

It was against such attempts to throttle academic freedom of teachers and textbook writers, as well as against the witch-hunting of the Rapp-Coudert Committee, that these educators sought to defend education.

The one aspect of the commission's functions, as decided upon in Boston, of which none of the quoted newspaper so much as made mention was the declared aim to investigate expose and combat those interests which seek to reduce educational appropriations. Yet when Dr. Abraham Lefkowitz, New York City high school high school principal, suggested that $10,000 out of the $20,000 budget for the entire work of the commission should be devoted to the carrying out of this aim, he was supported by an overwhelming vote among the assembled delegates.

JUL 3 1941

Of course what the commission of 60 educators actually does, whether or not in defense of democracy, depends much on the personnel chosen by the NEA executive to carry out the work. In large part, too, it depends on the alertness of the general membership, to make their own honest and democratic aims clear to the executive and to the general public.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

ChargesLeague, NAACP Asleep

MAR 26 1941

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(ANP)—Both the NAACP and the National Urban League were asleep at the switch in 1935 when he wrote an article, "The Negro Studies War Some More," Dr. Rayford Logan, eminent historina and educator, told the Alabama State Teachers Association in session here last week.

He was surprised that even then the NAACP and Urban league were not able to foresee that war was inevitable and thus were not able to make the necessary adjustments on behalf of the group. He was even more surprised that after Munich in September, 1938, the Urban league and the NAACP were still asleep; but he could hardly forgive them for still being asleep at the switch when in September, 1939, Great Britain and France declared war on Germany.

It was left to Hampton Institute in November, 1940, to call the first conference of Negroes in National defense. That was the first occasion on which Negroes were able to devote serious attention to the problem with which they were faced. The Negro Press, in the meantime, valiently fought for the cause.

STRESSES GAIN

Admitting that the one epitaph which he was desirous of having on his tombstone was: "The white man's distress is the black man's gain!" Dr. Logan stressed the importance of war in the Negro's fight for self-determination.

"For five hundred years the white world has been tramping under its feet yellow coolies, red peons and black slaves," he recalled. "For the first time in history, during the last world's war one dark race—thank God—the Japanese found opportunity for equality. And if Mahatma Ghandi has the intelligence that he is supposed to have, those some 370,000 millions of Indians will achieve their fight for self-determination in the present crisis.

"I am no war-monger, but I say if the self-determination of Negroes—necessitates a third world war, I say let it come by all means so that the millions of Negroes in Africa and scattered all over the globe will be able to walk with dignity wherever they choose.

WAR AID TO RACE

"The Negro reached his highest economic position in this country during the period of the world war. On the other hand, what was his position during peacetime? The Negro plight was so appalling that I was forced to agree with a friend of mine who said we were going back to slavery. During pacetime thousands of Negroes have been buried without having had a chance to earn a decent day's wage.

MAR 26 1941

"Comes a flood, or an earthquake or an international war and his importance increases. During peacetime Ethiopia was sold down the river by England and branded as savages. Comes an international war and what do we find: These same Englishmen drafting of all people, South Africans whose country is the only country more fascistic towards the Negro than Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi—to fight for Ethiopian 'independence.'

MAR 26 1941

"The result has brought about such a transformation that even your Montgomery Advertiser and Birmingham Age and Herald hail the Ethiopians as 'patriots,' 'that is what war does for the Negro.'"

AGAINST SEGREGATION

Dr. Logan then branded the treatment of the Negro in the defense set-up as a violation of the spirit or letter and sometimes both the spirit and letter of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

He was against all segregation and singled out the South for perpetuating this menace to the nation's progress. He, too, emphasized the value of publicity pointing out that "some people in the country were peculiarly sensitive to criticism." By shaming them in public print, the Negro might be able to achieve most of his needs. Dedicating the slogan: "There is no defeat; there is only a postponement of victory," to the association he warned Negro teacher to be alive to their high responsibilities and never fall asleep at the switch.

Talladega, Ala., Daily Home
March 25, 1941

ALABAMA TEACHERS

Alabama teachers will spend an enjoyable and instructive week end at Birmingham during the annual convention of the Alabama Educational association.

Meanwhile, it would profit those of us on the outside to ponder some of the problems connected with education generally and the teaching profession specifically.

Some if us with cynical souls have a way of saying that you get what you pay for in this world and nothing more. The service rendered by the teachers of Alabama is sufficient to give the lie to that statement.

We stumbled on some figures recently which amazed us. Do you realing that Alabama has a minimum teacher salary schedule lower than the average rate per month paid relief workers on federal projects?

The state has $50 mininum schedule for white teachers and $37.50 for Negro teachers. According to the same set of statistics, the average relief wage is $54 per month.

That minimum wage schedule for our teachers, is, of course, shamefully low—so low as to make one wish to doff his hat every time he passes a school building and realizes what consecrated men and women are doing for the youth of Alabama at a personal sacrifice.

Unfortunately for all of us, the situation is one which cannot be corrected over night.

Alabama is a poor state and its funds must be stretched a long, long way to cover the many activities which its citizens received for their tax dollars.

We do not belong to the group which believes that education is the most important problem which confronts the state at any given time. But we do believe it is of equal importance.

And we believe with all the strength of our being that the person to whom we trust the early care of our boys and girls is of greater importance than the person who carries out the routine work in the various departments of the state government of Alabama.

The salaries of Alabama techers certainly should be on a par with other state salaries. When we realize that and bring it to pass, we will be taking one of the first major steps toward lifting Alabama out of the backward state class.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
March 21, 1941

P.-T. A. Of Capitol Heights Meets—

The Parent-Teacher Association of Captol Heights Junior High School held the annual observance of "Parent's Night" last evening at the school, when the program featured students in the school.

A concert by the school band, directed by Perry Bremer, opened the program.

Mrs. Irene Brinson Munro, associate professor of history at Huntingdon College, made an interesting talk.

Interspersing the program were selections by the Glee Club directed by Mrs. Annice Ingram. The program included negro spirituals and songs of various nationalities.

Members of the Glee Club contributing to the program included: First sopranos, Betty Sims, Eloise Harris, Bessie Costarides, Virginia Grantham, Willnita Wyatt, Emma Ruth Bedsole, Thomas Morgan, Edward Franco, Connie Kilpatrick, Sarah Frances Walk, Mary Alyce Stephens, Sybil Holley, Evelyn Ward, Vivian Crysel, James Peacock, Marion McDade, Margaret Sewell.

Second sopranos: Kathryn Jones, Anne Martin, Sarah Wilson, Lorraine Barrington, Lois Morris, Mary Alice Lindsey, Carolyn Sansberry, Jimmy Mullins, Marie Galloway, Jean Sherrard, Sarah Nell O'Daniel, Wylie Bunn, Corrine Walker.

Altos: Clara Dilbeck, Charles Wilson, Iris McDonald, Mary Banks, Julian Guthrie, Eugene Frances, Jack McGhee, Sybil Davis, Elizabeth Fowler, James Porter, Dorothy Adams, Carolyn Deer, Marjorie Dunn, Mary Frances Embrey, Julia Grubbs, Jean Elliott, Louise Bedsole. Rosalyn Sasser was accompanist.

A clever playette "The Wish Cure," directed by Miss Mary Katherine Thornton, was presented by the following students: Marion Gann, Doris Horn, Wayne Hall, Alex Corothers, Gene Stuckey, Bobby Beard, Ann Joyce Keith, Broughton Gillis, Pauline Smith, Tommie Gene Barnes, Willnita Wyatt, Jean Carter, James Brooks.

Ann Sneed, Betty Bennett, Jewell McCain, Harold Ritch, June Stanley, Eloise Hamn, DeWitt Lazenby, Julia Nell Skinner, Louis Glasscock, Joe Finley McCorvey, Frank Gardener, J. K. Huffstutler, Billy Brightwell. The program was directed by Mrs. Annie Laurie Lindsey. A short business meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. C. H. Dennis.

Later in the evening a social hour was enjoyed. The refreshment tables, decorated with paper white narcissi were placed in the corridor. Mrs. James Skinner, chairman of the hospitality committee, and Mrs. Nick Harris, presided at the refreshment table.

There was an attendance of approximately 150 patrons and friends of the association.

Resolutions Passed By Teachers

APR 5 - 1941
Savannah Journal
Savannah, Ga.

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(SNS) —Important among the 18 resolutions adopted by the ASTA in session here was the one asking Board of Education to use all the anticipated" ten per cent increase in their salary allotment to better their respective existent salary schedules for their present number of Negro teachers."

Mobile, Ala. Press
April 11, 1941

Association Formed By Colored Schools

Coaches and principals of colored high schools from seven south Alabama counties are meeting at the Mobile County Training School today for the purpose of organizing the South Alabama Athletic Association which takes in the following schools: Snow Hill Normal and Industrial Institute, Camden Academy, Escambia County Training School, Baldwin County Training School, Anna T. Jeanes School at Fairhope, Dunbar High School of Mobile, Heart of Mary School of Mobile, Clarke County Training of Coffeeville, Thomasville High School of Thomasville, Southern Normal of Brewton and Mobile County Training School at Plateau.

The meeting is being held in connection with the annual visitors' day of the Mobile County Training School. The school is holding open house today, which will last until 10 o'clock tonight. Visitors' day customarily is held on the birthday of the principal of the school. Principal Benjamin F. Baker is serving his sixteenth year at the Mobile County Training School. The school is the only negro public high school in the state of Alabama accredited by Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

COLORED TEACHERS PAY TRIBUTE TO SUPT. RILEY

A visit was paid to Supt. W. B. Riley this week by a committee from the County Colored Teachers Association who presented, on behalf of this organization, a gift, a lovely Philco radio, in appreciation and grateful tribute to the beloved educator.

The committee was composed of Prof. J. U. Mundy, principal of Tuskegee Institute High School, Mary K. Frazier, principal Washington Public School and Letitia Carter, principal Lewis Adams School.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

A Teachers' Organization

BIRMINGHAM HAS A teachers' organization, a very fine organization made up of teachers, principals, supervisors and registrars. Organized by a small group of teachers whose interest in equalization and the many other problems affecting the school system in this city is well known, the organization has cut out for itself a man's size job.

APR 26 1941

The organization is expected to have the blessing of the Board of Education and has in its membership over 376 of the 438 teachers employed. Nearly every school principal has joined the organization.

More than one hundred members met last week to adopt a constitution to guide its destiny and for the first time it was apparent that every member had not joined for the best interest of its members. One principal objected to a committee on "citizenship" seeking the ballot for its members. Every principal and many teachers objected to writing a small quorum in the constitution. They voted that seventy-five persons would have to attend meetings in order to transact business for the organization. It is our opinion that seventy-five teachers will seldom present themselves at the end of a day's work to make plans to better even their own conditions. Efforts to legislate the organization out of existence are already apparent by the teachers themselves though they may never speak out in the presence of their "superiors" against it.

From reliable sources the teachers have learned that three of their members, all high officials and one an officer of the Birmingham Negro Teachers' Association, held a "secret" meeting several Sundays ago with the City Superintendent to discuss means to rid the system of teachers who desire equalization to the point of doing something about it. It is reported that these three persons, two principals of schools, gave their promise to report the names and actions of teachers to the Board as well as find methods of getting them out of the schools.

APR 26 1941

It is our recommendation that the teachers make the names of these three persons known to its members and the general public. If these reports are true and we do not doubt them, the City Superintendent can no longer trust three of his highest officials with confidential information especially when it places them on opposite sides of members of their own race and profession. If these three officials have given their pledge to dig up enough lies to secure the removal of teachers who desire "the American way of life" to become a reality, it becomes the duty of the Birmingham Teachers' Association and citizens to expose them and tell enough truths to force their removal.

Black and white educators and citizens all over the nation have given their support to equalization of teachers' salaries and equal educational opportunities for Negro children. The NAACP and the Alabama State Teachers' Association have called the many decisions of the United States Supreme Court to the attention of its members and school officials. There is no place in any community for Negroes who select to prevent the exercise of the law.

—Birmingham (Ala.) World

18x-1941

Birmingham, Ala. News
January 7, 1941

State Negro Teachers To Meet In Capital

The state's Negro teachers will hold their fifty-ninth annual session in Montgomery March 13-15, wher the Alabama State Teachers Association convenes to consider "Marshalling Our Resources for Nationa Defense."

Felix L. Paul, Birmingham, executive secretary, announced the convention will meet at the State Teachers' College in Montgomery.

J. W. Nicholson, of Talladega College, is president of the association; B. N. Hudson, Tuggle School, Birmingham, vice-president; T. H. McCormick, Tuskegee Institute, vice president; H. C. Trenholm, Montgomery, research secretary, and W. A. Shields, Tuskegee, treasurer.

NEWS
Birmingham, Ala.

State Negro Teachers To Meet In Capital

The state's Negro teachers will hold their fifty-ninth annual session in Montgomery March 13-15, when the Alabama State Teachers Association convenes to consider "Marshalling Our Resources for National Defense."

JAN 7 - 1941

Felix L. Paul, Birmingham, executive secretary, announced the convention will meet at the State Teachers' College in Montgomery.

J. W. Nicholson, of Talladega College, is president of the association; B. N. Hudson, Tuggle School, Birmingham, vice president; T. H. McCormick, Tuskegee Institute, vice president; H. C. Trenholm, Montgomery, research secretary, and W. A. Shields, Tuskegee, treasurer.

Florence, Ala., Herald
February 7, 1941

RURAL NEGRO TEACHERS WILL MEET SATURDAY

A meeting of negro teachers in the 22 negro schools in the county will be held at the courthouse in Florence on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Homer E. Williams, rural school superintendent, will discuss the teacher retirement act covering these negro teachers and will furnish them with the necessary blanks to be filled out and other information required.

Attalla, Ala. Press
February 14, 1941

Colored P. T. A. Has A Record Of Good Work

In 1931 the P. T. A. of the Attalla Colored School bought and installed a furnace. Later the P. T. A. paid for the material for the present front walks and porch. They have purchased one office desk and chair, five teacher's desks, one dozen cane bottom chairs, two sanitary drinking fountains, shades, oil stove, shrubbery, and a radio-victrola.

The students have purchased 25 steel tablet arm chairs, one set of Britannica Junior Encyclopadia, one set of World Encyclopadaedia, one volume of stories of "The Nations," 20 copies of miscelleanous writings, and are subscribing for five educacational magazines for the library They are also paying for the additional shrubbery that is needed. This is made possible through the Classroom Clubs' monthly financial reports. For two years the students have won prizes in the Attalla American Legion Fair.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., News
February 16, 1941

Award To Be Presented L. A. Van Hoose Tonight

The Negro City Teachers Association will present a program this evening at 6:30 o'clock in the auditorium of Industrial High School honoring L. A. Van Hoose of this city. Music for the program will be rendered by a mass chorus consisting of singers from all negro schools of the city.

Tuskegee Institute, of which Van Hoose is a graduate, will be represented by the executive secretary of the alumni association, Prof. A. J. Neeley.

Prof. James H. Wilson, famous trumpet player and life-long friend of Van Hoose will also appear on program. Expressions from local citizens will be given by Dr. A. B. McKinzie, Prof. James L. Collins and others. The award will be presented by the Teachers Association for the interest that Van Hoose has shown in negro education in the past decade.

ALABAMA
Birmingham, Ala. News
February 6, 1941

Negro Schools In City To Close As Teachers Attend Annual Parley

All Negro schools will be closed in Birmingham March 13 and 14 in order that the city's Negro teachers may attend the annual meeting of the Alabama State Teachers Association to be held in Montgomery.

For the past several years, the Alabama State Teachers Association has met simultaneously with the Alabama Education Association, but this year it will meet earlier—for three days—March 13-15.

Dr. Charles B. Glenn, superintendent of Birmingham schools, announced the two-day holiday for Negro schools in a letter to Felix L. Paul, executive secretary of the A. S. T. A.

Officers of the A. S. T. A. are president, J. S. Nicholson, of Talladega College, Talladega; vice president, B. N. Hudson, Tuggle School, Birmingham; vice president, T. H. McCormick, Tuskegee Institute; research secretary, H. C. Trenholm, Montgomery; treasurer, W. A. Shields, Tuskegee Institute; executive committee, I. A. Derbigny, Tuskegee Institute; T. R. Speigner, Tuscaloosa, and W. J. Bolden, Birmingham.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Dr. J. W. Nicholson Heads State Teachers Association

MAR 16 1941

Close to 3,500 eachers were in attendance at the 59th annual session of the Alabama State Teachers Association which convened at the State Teachers College this week.

The three-day program began with a single session held on Thursday night in connection with the Alabama Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers which was closing a two-day session on the same night. There were morning, afternoon and night sessions on Thursday and Friday of one to two hours in length, and the balance of each day was given over to the many conferences of the various departments and committees. Most of the work of the convention was done in these conferences and final reports from them were heard in brief at the last session held on Friday evening.

MAR 16 1941

The 10 departments heard from at the closing session were college, high school, grammar school, science, primary, rural school, agriculture, trade, home economics and adult opportunity. In addition to these, there was the special session of 45 minutes duration which was given over to a program by the Alabama Association of Science Teachers which is an affiliate of the convention.

MAR 16 1941

At the Friday afternoon session reports were heard from the vote commission, the treasurer, the executive secretary, the education commission, the commission on resolutions and the committee on nominations. At this session the annual election of officers was held with the following chosen: Dr. J. W. Nicholson, president; Dean R. A. Carter, vice-president; Felix Paul, executive secretary; W. A. Shields, treasurer; T. H. McCormick, vice-president; H. Councill Trenholm, research secretary; I. A. Derbigny, T. R. Speigner and J. A. Edwards, executive committee.

Application for affiliation with the association presented by the Principals Association will be considered at the meeting of the executive committee which will be held in Montgomery at the college on April 16.

Several changes in the program of the association were necessitated by various emergencies which arose. Chief among these was the scheduled appearance of Dr. Milton S. J. Wright on the general session program of Friday afternoon which was cancelled after Dr. Wright, who was already in the city, had to leave before the program due to the death of his mother. Fred Hall was heard in his place.

All reports and addresses heard at the convention adhered closely to the convention theme. Much valuable information on all aspects of the responsibility of the individual in a democracy was given in the general program addresses which were open to the public.

Degree Graduates Meet

Among the special meetings during the association was the conference of degree graduates of the State Teachers College held on Friday at noon when President Trenholm talked to a group numbering 300. He discussed the several proposals being made for the additional services for graduates that would probably include some alumni institutes, some exchange conferences some follow service for graduates during their first year of experience and the fifth year Summer graduate program. He also emphasized the desirability of the degree classes beginning their 10-year reunion anniversary programs with this May when the 1931 class will be observing its 10th anniversary.

Fred Hall, director of music at Dillard University and president of the Association of Music Teachers in Negro Schools, was at the college on Friday and Saturday and conducted choir rehearsals with the college choir which will participate in the presentation of the "Death of Minnehaha" at the city auditorium on Friday night, April 4, as a part of a composite choir which will include the choirs of A. & M. Institute, Miles Memorial College, Talladega College, Dillard University and possibly Tuskegee Institute. Mr. Hall met with the Miles Memorial College choir Saturday night and is meeting with the A. & M. Institute choir today.

Last night the Alabama Players under the direction of Mr. Tate presented "Wits End" and the freshman dramatics class under the direction of Mr. Boulware "The Dictator Visits His Mother" on the same program at Tullibody auditorium.

The program for next week will include a series of faculty conferences on Wednesday at which will be present Dr. Ernest B. Hollis of the American Council on Education, and Dr. Agnes Snyder.

The Polemese Potters will give a demonstration of art at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

MAR 16 1941

Athletic feature of the coming week will be the amateur boxing show to be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. This tourney will represent the 1941 National A. A. U. semi-finals Southern colored boxers regional and is being staged by the college and the Piney Acres Country Club. There will be boxers in all eight of the championship weight divisions, who may come from Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennesee, Kentucky, Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, Oklahoma, Florida, Tr... North and South Carolina, Ma... and the District of Columbia. T... will receive a free trip to ... compete in the national me...

Birmingham, Ala News
February 23, 1941

ss After Conflict Is Endea

A. S. T. A. To Discuss U. S. National Defense At Annual Meeting

P.-T. A. To Join Teacher In Montgomery Session Of Negro Educators

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—The marshalling of United States resources for national defense will be the theme of the fifty-ninth annual session of the Alabama State Teachers Association, organization of Negro teachers of the state, to be held at the State Teachers College here, March 12-14.

Meeting in conjunction with the A. S. T. A. will be the Alabama branch of the National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers. A joint session of these two groups will open the meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday, with Mrs. Charles S. Johnson, president of the Tennessee State P.-T. A., and Dr. E. W. Taggart, chairman of the citizens committee of the A. S. T. A., addressing the delegates.

Credit unions and farm cooperatives will be discussed at 9:15 a.m. March 13, by Cornelius King, assistant to the Governor-Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C., and by a representative of the Southeastern Cooperative education committee.

At general and departmental meetings to be held March 13, credit unions, cooperatives, science and a symposium on education activities in Alabama will be addressed by Dr. John E. Bryan, superintendent of Jefferson County Schools and State NYA administrator and by various officers of the Alabama Education Association and leaders in Negro education.

Departmental sessions and business meetings will be held March 14, and new officers of the A. S. T. A. will be elected. Present officers are Dr. J. W. Nicholson, president, and Prof. B. A. Hudson, vice president.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

EDUCATOR FORECASTS WE'LL HAVE FEWER LEADERS, STRONGER MASSES

MAR 2 1 1941

Veteran Teacher Sees Poorer Teaching By Negroes Unless Square Deal In Pay Is Provided In South

MAR 2 1 1941

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Mar. 20—(By Samuel A. Boyea for ANP)—If a prophecy comes through, the American Negro group will produce fewer outstanding leaders, but a stronger mass group. And Miss Mary Francis Terrell, educator and church worker should know. For nearly 50 years she has been aiding in the formulation of ideas that the southern Negro youth in this section has been contributing to his nation's welfare.

For 50 years next Fall, Miss Terrell has been a member of the faculty of State Teachers college, beginning her long career under the presidency of the founder, William Burns Patterson. In this capacity she has seen the Negro youth start his early training for life, become a matured individual and eventually take his place in society.

How does she compare the past curriculum with the present? She considers the present curriculum very interesting and expects it to prove of great benefit to the present generation Negro. She deplores its apparent lack of discipline, but is enamoured of its plan to educate the child in keeping with the needs of his community and better still, his nation. She believes that this will help to solve many citizenship difficulties of the Negro. In the past, she argued, Negroes were taught to despise citizenship, but it would be foolhardy to educate any group for citizenship and then after they have completed formal training to take that away from them.

Miss Terrell expressed great admiration for the courageous fight Negroes are putting up for equal salaries.

"The Negro teacher suffering from the pangs of underpay is hardly likely to educate the Negro child along the lines of the new curriculum with any conviction. The Negro teacher has done his part to build this superstructure of 20th century democracy. He has never to my knowledge contribute anything subversive to the curriculum. Even in the past when he barely existed he has sung the praises of America and told his class that all—white and black—were entitled to the pursuit of happiness . . .

MAR 2 1 1941

Miss Terrell becomes overjoyed whenever she speaks of her long association with State Teachers college.

"I love children—all children, but I am even happier to associate with the children of my race. I cannot do much, but I am glad of this opportunity to help them over their problems to bridle their animal passions and to re-direct their undesirable habits towards things which would be of lasting benefit to the community in general."

Like most of the educators who have served under him, Miss Terrell made eulogistic references to President H. Councill Trenholm and his work as an educator.

"I knew his mother and father before he was born and he lives up to their high expectations of him. He is one of the greatest men I know and most congenial and considerate to work with. I believe that with President Trenholm in the vanguard of Negro education, our group will contribute great and stalwart citizens to the American nation."

Augusta, Ga Herald
February 5, 1941

5,000 Negro Teachers to Meet Here Same Time as the G. E. A. in Session

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Georgia Teachers and Educational Association held at Savannah, Georgia, February 2, 1941 by a unanimous vote the committee agreed to accept the invitation of the Richmond County Teachers Association to hold the annual meeting in Augusta, April 9-10-11.

It is expected that about 120 teachers in the Augusta community will take part in the meeting, along with about 15 from Paine College and 10 from Haines Institute, and teachers and officials attending from all over the state will bring the crowd up to an estimated 5,000 persons who will be in Augusta for the convention.

The G. E. A. convention meets in Augusta at the same time, and about five or six thousand teachers are expected to be here for that meet, so.

At the executive committee meeting, President James L. Grant of Dearing, Georgia, called attention to the great need for Negro teachers to work together for common good. "In these changing times", he said, "we must be prepared to work and to work in unison for the best interest of all the people—for those who live in the country as well as for those who live in town. All America is preparing for the National Defense of our native land. The Negroes should be alert to see that no opportunity is lost to our group to prepare ourselves physically, mentally, and spiritually to meet the exacting times ahead of us."

The program committee was instructed to arrange a program for the Augusta meeting that will be entertaining, informing, and inspiring. Announcement will be made through the press of prominent speakers who will address the teachers during the annual meeting.

Attention was called to the meeting of the District Teachers Associations which will be held prior to the state meeting.

Nashville, Ga. Herald
February 13, 1941

Nashville Negro School News

By JAMES W. JOHNETT

On Sunday, February 9, at 4 o'clock the colored Parent-Teacher Association, patrons and friends of the school met at the St. James A. M. E. church to conclude a financial drive for the building fund. We succeeded in raising the amount of $79.20.

I take this oportunity in behalf of the trustees and officers of the P.-T. A. to express our heartfelt appreciation to all of the citizens of Nashville who graciously responded to our cause and made it possible for our rally to be a success.

From February 9 to 16 is National Negro History Week. We are observing this week by studying and discussing the lives of some of the negroes who have made outstanding contributions to the race and to America at large.

On last Wednesday our school was favored with a visit by the County Farm Agent and Home Demonstration Agent of Berrien county. They are introducing 4-H club work into our school and our boys and girls seem to be very much interested.

Columbus, Ga Enquirer-Sun
February 14, 1941

Negro Teachers Open Meet Today

The Columbus district negro teachers association will hold its annual meeting beginning this afternoon at 3:30 at the Spencer high school according to Dr. William H. Spencer, Jr., reporter of the organization. Sessions will be held today and Saturday.

Paul M. Munro, superintendent of city schools; Clinton Moon, superintendent of county schools; L. M. Lester, assistant director of negro education in Georgia, and F. R. Lampkin, principal of Spencer high school, will speak at the meeting Saturday.

The annual meeting will be featured by speeches and departmental meetings covering all phases of educational work. The defense program will be especially stressed at the various meetings.

Teachers of Muscogee county and Columbus will be hosts and a large number of teachers from the various counties comprising the association are expected to attend.

The Columbus district includes Marion, Upson, Talbot, Harris, Chattahoochee and Muscogee counties.

Columbus, Ga. Ledger
February 14, 1941

District Convention Negro Teachers Opens

Scores of negro teachers were here Friday afternoon to attend the annual district convention, which was scheduled to open at the Spencer High school, at 3:30 o'clock. The convention will continue through Saturday.

Paul M. Munro, superintendent of city schools; Clinton Moon, superintendent of county schools; L. M. Lester, assistant director of negro education in Georgia, and F. R. Lampkin, principal of Spencer high school, will speak at the meeting Saturday.

The annual meeting will be featured by speeches and departmental meetings covering all phases of educational work. The defense program will be especially stressed at the various meetings.

Teachers of Muscogee county and Columbus will be hosts and a large number of teachers from the various counties comprising the association are expected to attend.

The Columbus district includes Marion, Upson, Talbot, Harris, Chattahoochee and Muscogee counties.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Teachers' Credit Union Does $19,502 Business

JAN 26 1941

JAN 26 1941

The Atlanta Teachers Number Two Federal Credit Union has lent approximately $19,502.12 since its organization, it was revealed at the annual meeting last week.

C. L. Harper, principal of Washington High School, was renamed president of the union for 1941 by the Board of Directors. Other officers named were Mrs. Willie M. Price, vice president; Mrs. Oretha B. Brown, secretary-treasurer, and Misses C. B. Filey and Ruby B. Wise, executives.

The board of directors recommended that a six per cent dividend, the highest amount the Union is allowed to pay, be distributed among members. The amount of individual shares will be increased from $500 to $1,000.

Seventy-one members of the Union answered the roll call of the meeting, which featured reports from all committees of the body in the cafeteria of Washington High School. Members were served a luncheon by the Home Economics department of the school.

Eastman, Ga. Advertiser
February 27, 1941

Colored Teachers Hold Meeting Here

The Dodge County Colored Teachers Association held its regular meeting Saturday, February 22nd, at the Peabody High school auditorium.

The following program was rendered:

Song—Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray.

Short Talk— Negro as an Artist in Music.—Thomas J. Anderson.

Solo— Silver Threads Among The Gold. — Willie L. Jenkins.

Short Talk — Beautification of the School House and Campus. — Truden McRae.

Solo—Trees, Mrs. M. Edna Mack.

It was agreed that there will be a field Day in April. The president, Thomas J. Anderson, has appointed a committee to arrange the program.

A special meeting of the Dodge County Colored Teachers' Association will be held March 8th, at which time the committee shall make its report. We urge that every teacher be present.

WILLIE L. JENKINS,
Reporter.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

WALTER CHIVERS SAYS:

Georgia Teachers

THIS FINAL COLUMN of the State Teachers' Association is devoted to indicating a program and introducing some of the wealth of Negro educational leadership that Georgia affords the field of education both public and private. It would probably be sufficient to say that so far as Negro teachers and students are concerned that public schools "need". However, it is more to the point to be specific as to basic needs or "first" requirements.

CHIVERS

The foremost need is a living wage for teachers. Americans are economic minded.

As a rule a fifty dollars per month wage will probably reap that amount in work. If, however, this statement actually applies to the rank and file of Negro teachers in Georgia, then in view of the miserably low annual income which they are paid work of any appreciable quality should not be expected.

The noble spirit of service just for service's sake is stimulated by the emotions but it takes a certain minimum amount of food, clothes, warmth and rest to prepare the body for the demands of service. The wages of the majority of Negro public school teachers in Georgia will not provide these minimum essentials in adequate quality and quantity.

MAR 23 1941

SHOULD BE EQUALIZED

The salaries of teachers should be equalized because they are supposed to do the identical work with identical materials and to get identical results. The wage differential cannot help but give Negro education an inferior status. In a democracy all citizens should feel equal to the task of operating a democracy. It is a task calling for equal strength from all of its constituents regardless of race because a democracy must have balance if it is to work smoothly. So number one on this program is equality of salaries for all teachers.

The school housing problem is somewhat less acute than it was prior to the advent of WPA and other New Deal gift financing agencies but there are still far too many school buildings for Negro youth that are fire-traps, unsanitary and overcrowded. Such conditions effect the physical and mental health of both teachers and students. The writer concluded several years ago after travelling over the state that some communities would be better off without the "imitations" of schools they have--congregations of undernourished teachers and pupils. So number two on the program would be to work for better school facilities.

MAR 23 1941

Many communities need more teachers if their educational efforts are to be effective. The understaffed faculties are too crowded to do real community work. Such educational effort is basically as important as the teaching done daily in the school houses. So, number three on the program is apportionment of teachers in accordance with the Georgia State law.

NEED DEFINITE EFFORT

The federal government has made provisions to assist underprivileged youth without respect of race. Some definite concerted effort is needed to see that Negro youth share in these benefits to the extent to which they are entitled under the law.

All of the space allotted for this column would not exhaust the needs of Negro education in Georgia. Only a few have been mentioned as an illustration.

A program, however, is merely some writing or printing on paper unless it is under the direction of men and women above the average in common sense, courage, intelligence, resourcefulness and dynamic energy. The State of Georgia has as fine a group of Negro men and women possessing these qualities as are available anywhere in the world. There are men and women qualified to lead the statewide teachers organization by birth, training, residence, experience and solid achievement.

MAR 23 1941

Attention is being called here to a few whose names come immediately to mind and who so far as the writer knows have not served as elected officers of the State Association. They are: Horace Mann Bond, Ph. D., President, State Teachers College, Fort Valley, Georgia; Aaron Brown, A. M., Dean, State Teachers College, Fort Valley, Georgia; Rufus E. Clement, Ph. D., President, Atlanta University, Atlanta, Georgia; Benjamin E. Mays, Ph. D., President, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Georgia; William A. Fountain, M. A., President, Morris Brown College, Atlanta, Georgia; Forrester B. Washington, M. A., Director, The Atlanta University School of Social Work; E. J. Granberry, M. A., Dean, Georgia Normal and Teachers College, Albany, Georgia; Basolene Usher, M. A., Principal, Howard High School, Atlanta, Georgia; B. T. Harvey, M. S., teacher, Morehouse College; Elizabeth Perry Cannon, M. A., teacher Spelman College, Atlanta, Georgia; A. A. McPheeters, M. A., teacher Clark University, Atlanta, Georgia.

MAR 23 1941

Here's hoping that these articles have gained the attention and touched the hearts of enough teachers to start action when the convention assembles in Augusta, Georgia, In April, 1941.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgi

WALTER CHIVERS SAYS:

MAR 30 1941

By WALTER R. CHIVERS

AFTER SEVERAL years of rather close contact with the Negro Parent-Teachers Association of Georgia, the writer has become convinced that its superior achievements over the State Teachers Association is to be credited to superior leadership. These women have shown courage, ingenuity and aggressiveness. They believe in the purposes of their organization — they try hard to see that these purposes are made real for the benefit of Negro children.

CHIVERS

As opposed to leaders of the State Teachers Association these women leaders have not recognized a "Jim Crow" division in the national program. That is, they have to make the national program their program, instead of slicing out a small view and saying this is good enough for Negro youth.

MANY ARE MOTHERS

Maybe the spirit shown by these ladies is due to the fact that many of them are mothers and others are or have been "substitute" mothers for decendent children Maybe it is because they are Negro women and have had to experience suffering and deprivation in such intense degrees just because they were, has made them more reckless.

Maybe it is because a woman's role in life finds its basic satisfaction in nurturing human beings from birth into adulthood, while a man's ego expansion is along the compromising and conciliatory path of a "successful" career. Whatever the cause may be, the fact is, that the Georgia Negro Parent-Teachers Association is a live functioning and effective organization.

MAR 30 1941

Since many of these ladies are the mothers of young men and women now teaching in the Georgia public schools, it is clear that they have a vested interest in the teaching profession and its welfare. They have made sacrifices, often bitter sacrifices in order that their children might be prepared to earn a living wage. Their ambition has been and still is to have their children live on a higher level than they as parents could provide.

PROTECT INTERESTS

The success of these young men and women is often the only old-age benefits that their parents can look forward to. The challenge here is for them to step in and protect their vested interests. These ladies have influence over their children, they know how to best urge them on to action. They have the confidence of young folk which means that they can guide the action which they want and know to be best for youth. Through exerting this influence they can force a complete reorganization of the now weak and wobbly State teachers organization.

So much for the parent-child relationship. When one looks at the roster of State and district leaders of the Parent-Teachers Association it is easy to recognize the names of the women leaders of women. These women can work with other women most effectively. The majority of Negro Public School teachers in Georgia are women. So women's organizations can influence a large part of the teaching profession throughout the State.

ISSUES CHALLENGE

Mrs. Reese of Albany, Mrs. Butler of Atlanta, Mrs. Morgan of Cartersville, Miss Gantt of Macon—just to name a few of the moving spirits in this great effort have fully demonstrated their abilities to organize women into effective organizations and to put over a program. May they see fit to look into the merits of this challenge and get into the thick of things when the two organizations meet in Augusta several weeks hence.

Ladies you want your children educated to live according to American standards, you want their country to be proud of them as citizens, you want them healthy, strong,—you want them to have the courage to fight for the defense of and development of democracy. If this is to ever be so they must have well-paid teachers, comfortable and adequate schoolhouses and equipment with which to work.

MAR 30 1941

At least let the country know that you are not satisfied with the ineffective State Teachers' Association.

18x-1941
Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Attention, Again Georgia Teachers

By WALTER R. CHIVERS

AT NO TIME in recent years has the state association of Negro teachers in Georgia been representative of a cross section of Negro education in the state. Neither has there been any real effort to encourage a significant statewide representation. These are but two of the weak spots that have contributed to the increasing ineffectiveness and disintegration of the organization.

CHIVERS

For instance, the college section has been very weak and received no encouragement. As a matter of fact the department meetings have constituted for the most part a waste of time for the few who attended them. The "not wanted" sign has in effect been flaunted in the faces of private college teachers as though they were not integral parts of the teaching profession.

Every effort has been expanded to place them in disfavor with the public school teachers.

This has gone to the extent of guiding the annual convention away from the capital city during the years when officers are to be elected. As a result what makeshift organization there has been for the past several years was largely a sectional group from below Macon, Ga. What this column is pleading for is a statewide organization.

MAR 16 1941

NEED ORGANIZATION

A complete reorganization of the teachers association should be initiated at the April, 1941 meeting. This organization should be on a real statewide basis. It should, also, include the private colleges and high schools. Right now is the time for a committee of unafraid teachers and administrators to get together for the purpose of circularizing the state to this effect This will bring hundreds and hundreds of discouraged teachers to the annual meeting.

What are the Negro teachers in Georgia afraid of anyway? Why is it that North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee and Florida can have dynamic aggressive, well organized and functioning organizations of their teachers and Georgia can not? Does it mean that the rank and file of Georgia teachers are not as interested in their personal welfare and the welfare of their profession as these teachers in other far southern states? Are the rank and file of Georgia teachers afraid of something?

In North Carolina the private college and public school teachers work hand in hand. The public school teachers there have found it rather to their advantage at times to have as their state president an official of some one of the private colleges. Alabama has recently elected as president of the state teacher's association a faculty member from Talladega College. This spirit of unity has worked in the best interest of both groups of teachers but especially the public school teachers.

MAR 16 1941

LEADERS DICTATORS?

Do the Georgia Negro public school teachers mean to continue teaching in inadequate school buildings, working for starvation wages because misleadership continues to tell them that the time is not ripe for them to contend for their legal rights? The life of this democracy depends upon the freedom and right of every citizen to appeal to the courts for sanction of what he or she believes to be due him. Leaders who attempt to thwart this inalienable right are at heart and in action dictators.

There is the possibility of a program consisting, mainly, of fundamental and attainable needs of Negro teachers and students capable of keeping a state agent for the association just too busy. There are nearly a dozen Negro leaders in Georgia in the field of education qualified by birth, training, experience and achievement to guide the destinies of the state teachers association. Program leaders will be discussed subsequently.

Watkinsville, Ga., Oconee Enterprise
March 14, 1941

Negro Teachers Institute Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Oconee County Negro Teacher's Institute met Friday, March 7, 1941 at Salem. The hostess was Mary Ethel McClain.

The program for the day was unusually interesting because everyone contributed to the discussion of the days topics: (1) Have the abolition of small tuition, the use of free text books and the giving of commodities and food for serving hot lunches at our schools, made our people any more appreciative of school?

2. Has the plan offered the farmers by the government induced the people who have left the farms and moved to the city to return to the farm?

3. In the State of Georgia, at present, what kind of teachers are in demand? These discussions were capably led by Prof. E. D. Stroud, the president of the Local Institute.

The visiting teachers and friends were pleasantly impressed by the cheerful atmosphere of the school room. Some of the interesting spots of the room were the "Health Center," the P. T. A. Display of Handiwork and the reading corner, which was especially equipped for the comfort of the little children with small tables and chairs made from crate boxes.

The people of Salem are very proud of their new kitchen which was got into working condition the first part of February. Besides the usual effects of a country kitchen—a stove, table, cabinet, chairs, windows, etc. there is a sink and running water. The sink is handmade of cement, sand and water. The faucet over the sink is connected to a pipe which leads through the wall to the outside. There on a raised platform is a fifty gallon galvenized resevoir to which the pipe is connected—thus the water supply.

All the work, we were told was done by patrons and friends of Salem Nego School and the teacher wishes to thank her many friends for their various contributions.

Marietta, Ga., Cobb County Times
March 20, 1941

Colored Cobb Teachers' Group Is Organized

Organization of a permanent Cobb County Colored Teachers' association was the outcome of a colored teachers' conference held at Pleasant Grove school on Wednesday, March 19, under the direction of Miss Louise Cowan, Cobb Elementary School supervisor.

Featuring addresses by several of the county's Negro school officials, the meeting ended with the group being incorporated into a permanent organization for future activity.

Purpose of the organization, officials pointed out, is to provide colored teachers with a permanent medium for exchange of problems and assistance among themselves, in organized fashion.

Augusta Ga Herald
April 2, 1941

5,000 Negro Teachers to Attend G. E. A. Convention

Five thousand of Georgia's 7,000 negro school teachers will attend the annual session here April 10 of the Georgia Teachers and Educational Association.

The negro educators will meet at the Charles T. Walker School at the same time the white teachers meet at the auditorium.

I. E. Washington, principal at Walker, and other negro leaders in Augusta and Richmond County are mapping elaborate plans to entertain the visitors.

Among the outstanding speakers on the program is Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, president of Palmer Memorial College, Sedalia, North Carolina. Doctor Brown is noted for her clear thinking and her practical and constructive approach to the problems that confront negroes in America today. She will speak at the opening session on Thursday evening.

Other speakers scheduled to appear are: Dr. J. C. Dixon, vice chancellor of the University System of Georgia; W. M. Shell, director, negro division, National Youth Administration of Georgia; Dr. J. W. Holley, president and founder of the Georgia Normal College, Albany, Ga.; Dr. Horace M. Bond, president of the Fort Valley State College; John Wesley Oobbs, prominent civic leader of Atlanta; R. L. Cousins, director of negro education, state department of education; L. M. Lester, associatae director of negro education, L. M. Lester, associate director of negro education, department of education; L. M. Sheffer, supervisor of agricultural education for negroes; Alva Tabor, itinerant teacher-trainer for Georgia; Elizabeth Mayes, supervisor of home economics education in Georgia;

E. L. Granberry, dean, Georgia Normal College; Aaron Brown, pjrincnpal of the high school at Fort Valley State College; Maenelle Dixon, Statesboro, Jeanes supervisor of Bulloch County; F. M. Staley, director of agriculture, Georgia State College; Josephine Dobbs, resident teacher-trainer in home economics, Georgia State College; Annie M. Hall, Newton, Jeanes supervisor, Baker County; B. T. Harvey, Morehouse College, Atlanta; S. Grace Bradley, instructor in Booker T. Washingto High School, Atlanta, and W. H. Ingram, principal high school, Sparta, Ga.

One feature of this meeting will be the panel of discussion on "Consumer Cooperatives". This will be conducted by students of Georgia State College and Paine College in an effort to acquaint the teachers with the cooperative movement in its relation to negro progress and development in Georgia. The Georgia State College has led in the development of Consumer Cooperatives during the past several years. Paine College has recently organized a Consumer Cooperative among the students and teachers.

James L. Grant, Darien, is president of the association. He has named the following committee on the salaries of negro teachers in Georgia, the committee to make a report at the annual meeting: E. J. Granberry, dean, Georgia Normal College; F. R. Lampkin, principal Speencer High School, Columbus; Aaron Brown, principal, high school, Fort Valley State College; C. L. Harper, principal B. T. Washington High School, Atlanta; C. W. Duvaul, supervisor negro schools, Athens, Ga.; W. H. Ingram, principal East End High School, Sparta, Ga.; Homer T. Edwards, principal high school, Thomson, Ga.; R. E. Blakney, principal high school, Waynesboro, Ga.; J. A. Price, principal high school, Louisville, Ga.; R. E. Beasley, principal high school, Wrens, Ga.; W. M. Sanders, Bainbridge, Ga.; R. J. Martin princapal Center High School, Waycross, Ga.; Mrs. Bessie G. Capel, public school teacher, Macon, Ga.; L. S. Molette, principal, Vocational High School, Griffin, Ga., and I. E. Washington, principal, Charles T. Walker School Augusta, Ga.

Telegraph
Macon, Georgia

Georgia Teachers Meet April 10-11

The announcement is made by James L. Grant, president, that the Georgia Teachers' and Education Association will meet in annual session in Augusta, April 10-11. Teachers from all over Georgia are expected to be in attendance at this meeting. Of the 7,000 teachers in the public schools of Georgia, it is expected that nearly 5,000 will attend the meeting.

APR 4 1941

Among the prominent speakers who are expected to appear on the program are Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, president of Palmer Memorial College, Sedalia, N. C.; Dr. J. C. Dixon, vice chancellor of the University System of Georgia; W. M. Shell, administrative assistant, colored division, National Youth Administration of Georgia; Dr. Horace M. Bond, president of Fort Valley State College; Dr. J. W. Holley, president of Georgia Normal College; R. L. Cousins, State director of Negro education, state department of education; L. M. Lester, associate director of Negro education; and L. M. Sheffer, supervisor of agricultural instruction for Georgia. Other speakers will be announced later.

APR 4 1941

The general meetings of the sessions will be held at the Charles T. Walker school in Augusta, beginning on Thursday, April 10 at 8 p.m. The meetings of the high school principals and vocational teachers of agricultural and home economics, will be held at Paine College on Friday morning from 8 to 9:30. E. J. Granberry, dean of Georgia Normal College, and Aaron Brown, principal of the high school at Fort Valley, will serve as co-chairman of the high school principals' meeting. Alva Tabor, itinerant teacher-trainer, Fort Valley, and F. M. Staley, director of agriculture, Georgia State College, will serve as co-chairman of the meeting of vocational teachers of agriculture.

Leadership For Georgia Teachers

Savannah Journal - Savannah, Ga.

FOR PRESIDENT, AS Journal readers all know, we support Doctor A. H. Gordon of the Georgia State College faculty, a constructive, and able native Georgia educator. For vice president, we suggest Professor C. W. Duvaul of the Athens High School. For secretary we suggest Mrs. Ophelia Lee McIver of Savannah. Mrs. McIver is one of the ablest women in educational work in the South, is dynamic and courageous although Professor Chivers may be ignorant of her existence down here in the "City by the Sea." For treasurer, we suggest retiring President J. L. Grant who has served the association well under most trying conditions, conditions of which the shelteed professor at Atlanta is, of course, densely and dismally ignorant.

APR 1 2 1941

The Journal thinks that the executive committee of the associations, conditions of which the sheltered professor at Atlanta is, include some of the persons Professor Chivers mentioned, persons he mentioned, we are sure, merely as a "smoke screen" to cover up his propagandizing for the "Granberry-Harvey Machine." We think the executive committee should have the services of some of the following men as soon as possible and as many of them as possible: Professor C. N. Cornell, assistant principal of the great Atlanta Booker Washington High School, any or all of the presidents of Atlanta colleges: Morris Brown, Morehouse, Clark; Professor W. L. Graham of Paine College and Mr. W. A. Robinson of the Atlanta University Laboratory High School.

The Journal agrees that most of the officers of the association should represent the teachers of the public school system of the state. A study of the slate we present here will show that, except for the presidency, all the officers we suggest in the slate represent high schools in the public system. The reason we feel that a college professor should be president at this time is that Dr. Gordon is the one outstanding Georgia educator we know who has the "guts" to stick his neck out in the fight which is ahead of Georgia Negro teachers in the next administration. For fifteen years Professor Harvey has been president of the Georgia Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and according to the confession of his fellow-officer, Doctor J. H. Holley, "He has accomplished exactly nothing" of value to the teachers of Georgia during all these years. Professor Granberry, an "educational carpetbagger" in Georgia, although he would have little to lose by a courageous stand, stands too well with the compromisers on the salary equalization project to be of any real value in the struggle now eminent.

Augusta Ga. Herald/City Ed.
April 10, 1941

Expect Record Attendance of Negroes for Education Association Convention

BY DOUGLASS HALL

Many persons are in town and many others are on their way here, to attend the annual session of the Negro Georgia Educational Association, which begins here Thursday night, April 10.

James L. Grant, Darien, president of the association, arrived in the city late yesterday. He stated that he expects a record crowd this year. Several things caused his expectations of a record attendance to soar higher than usual. First, this is election year. The association elects officers every two years. The other is the discussion on the equalization of teachers 'salaries.

This is the first time that the association has met in this city since 1935. At that time it was brought to the city by M. Agnes Jones, supervisor of the elementary schools of Atlanta, Ga., who was president of the association at that time. She arrived in the city late Wednesday afternoon and expressed hopes of a lively and well-attended meeting.

William M. Shell, administrative, Colored Division, National Youth Administration, who is to speak Friday afternoon, arrived here last night with high hopes of a spirited meeting.

MEETING BEGINS TONIGHT, DR. C. H. BROWN TO SPEAK

The first session of the association will be held tonight in the main auditorium of the Charles T. Walker School, 1301 Wrightsboro Road, with Rev. R. C. Griggs, principal of Haines Institute, presiding.

The main speaker for this occasion is Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, founder and president, Palmer Memorial College, Sedalia, North Carolina. Dr. Brown is one of the leading orators on the public platform today. She brings with her a wealth of experience as a leader, teacher and worker. She will be introduced by Bejamin F. Hubert, president, Georgia State College.

Another highlight of this meeting is the annual address to be delivered by James L. Grant, president of the association. President Grant will not be in the race for re-election.

Mayor James M. Wooddall, Supt. S. D. Copeland, and I. E. Washington, principal of Charles T. Walker, will welcome the teachers to Augsuta.

Music will be furnished by Augustus R. Johnson High School and Haines Intitute, both of Augusta.

Introduction of visitors and announcements will adjourn this first session of the association.

Friday is truly a full day for the colored teachers. Meetings are scheduled from 8:30 a. m. with the final meeting ending Friday night. There s hardly a break in the schedule.

There will be ten Panel discussions beginning at 8:30 a. m. Three will be at Paine College and seven at Charles T. Walker.

Meetings to be held at Paine: Meeting of High School Principals, Meeting of Teachers of Vocational Agriculture, and Meeting of Teachers of Vocational Home Economics.

Meetings to be held at Charles T. Walker: Meeting of Teachers of Physical Education, Meeting of Teachers of Rural and Elementary Education, Meeting of Teachers of Natural Science, Meeting of Teachers of English, Meeting of Teachers of Adult Education, Meeting of Teachers of Trades and Industries, Meeting of Teachers in Mathematics.

JAMES L. GRANT of Darien is president of the State Teachers and Educational Association which meets in convention here this week.

18x-1941

Harper Vs. Harris – Page G. T. E. A.

Savannah Journal — Savannah, Ga.

IN AN EDITORIAL of our issue of last week we mentioned two Georgia educators as possible candidates for the presidency of the Georgia Teachers and Educational Association—Professors B. T. Harvey and E. J. Granberry. The former we opposed on the basis of paucity of achievement in his influential position as president for many years of the Georgia Association of Colleges and Secondary High Schools and the latter we opposed on the ground that he is, we understand, committed to a policy of "going slowly" or "taking it easy" on the salary equalization policy or fight and that he is an "educational carpetbagger" in Georgia.

APR 1 2 1941

Since that editorial went to press The Journal has been informed through reliable sources that two other candidates are in the race—Professors Vincent Harris of Moultrie and C. L. Harper of Booker T. Washington High School of Atlanta.

The Journal regrets that it must most emphatically disagree with its esteemed contemporary and neighbor, THE TRIBUNE, in its support of Professor Harris for this position. We oppose Mr. Harris not chiefly because we support Doctor Gordon, but because we firmly believe that Professor Harris is not the proper person for that position at this time. The fact that apparently Mr. Harris had to go to the white press of Moultrie to get someone to announce his candidacy is in itself an indication of the fact that the leaders of the Negroes in educational circles of the state were not and are not thinking of him in this capacity. Then, too, as we say elsewhere, Professor Harris does not command the support of anything like a majority of the teachers and graduates of his own institution, the Georgia State College of Savannah. In fact, many of the Georgia State College faculty and students are violently opposed to him.

APR 1 2 1941

Apparently The Tribune itself had so little that it could think of in favor of Mr. Harris making the race that the best it could do was to quote a long statement from the white paper in Moultrie. Of course, it goes without saying so far as the Negroes are concerned, he was merely saying what Professor Harris told him to say. AFTER ALL, NEGROES OF GEORGIA AND THE SOUTH HAVE HAD ENOUGH OF LEADERSHIP PICKED AND PROMOTED BY OUR WHITE NEIGHBORS WHO ARE FAR, VERY FAR, FROM SEEING EYE TO EYE WITH US, ESPECIALLY IN SUCH MATTERS OF EQUALIZATION OF SALARIES. Too strong support for a man from the whites makes us suspicious of his utility for us.

The Journal thinks that Professor C. L. Harper is a very fine elderly gentleman. He is, indeed, "a gentleman and a scholar." It is a fact that he was born in the country, the famous Hancock county, but he left there many years ago and has had little or no contact with rural conditions or rural teachers since he left Sparta. As was well said by one of his supporters, he has spent the last seventeen years of his busy life building a great city high school—Booker T. Washington—and has had little, too little, time to keep up with the struggles of the masses of Negro teachers in Georgia. He has attended meetings of the association irregularly and has been interested in its affairs and its program mainly as it affected big city high school problems. PROFESSOR HARPER IS A FINE MAN AND A USEFUL LEADER IN THE CITY OF ATLANTA BUT NOT SATISFACTORY TO MOST OF THE TEACHERS OF GEORGIA FOR PRESIDENT OF THEIR ASSOCIATION IN THE TRYING TIMES JUST AROUND THE CORNER.

HEAD AND SHOULDER ABOVE THAT OF PROFESSORS GRANBERRY, HARVEY, HARRIS AND HARPER STANDS THE LEADERSHIP OF OUR CANDIDATE, DOCTOR A. H. GORDON, PROFOUND SCHOLAR, PROLIFIC WRITER AND COURAGEOUS CONTENDER FOR JUSTICE AND EQUALITY FOR ALL OUR TEACHERS AND STUDENTS, RURAL AND URBAN.

Augusta Ga Herald

April 6, 1941

Complete Plans for Georgia Teachers and Educational Association Meeting Here

By DOUGLASS HALL

You have heard about it, talked about it, read about it. You have discussed it with your friends and explained it to your neighbors—What The annual session of the Georgia Teachers and Educational Association, which will meet here, Thursday, Friday April 10, 11 at Charles T. Walker Public School, located on Wrightsboro Road.

It has been many a day since so many Negro educators have headed toward this city, bringing with them much information that will be distributed at the convention. It has been a long time since one thing has stirred so many colored Augustans. It will be a long time before we will be able to amass so many eminent men and women together for the purpose of improving the race.

Augusta, noted for its sunshine and hospitality, is planning to give the visitors a full dose of them.

The best available platform speakers have been obtained for this occasion. From all walks of life they will come to Augusta to proclaim their messages of hope-of progress. Years of experience and effort, years of fighting, often against the tide, will be revealed by the persons who have learned, by doing. One cannot afford to miss a single one of them. Here they are: Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, President, Palmer Memorial College, Sedalia, N. C.; Dr. J. C. Dixon, Vice Chancellor of the University System of Georgia; W. M. Shell, Administrative Assistant, Colored Division, National Youth Administration of Georgia; Dr. Horace M. Bond, President, Fort Valley State College; Dr. J. W. Holley, President, Georgia Normal College; R. L. Cousins, State Director of Negro Education, State Department of Education; L. M. Lester, Associate Director of Negro Education, State Department of Education and L. M. Sheffer, Supervisor of Agricultural Instruction for Georgia; John Wesley Bobbs, prominent civic leader of Atlanta; Alva Tabor, itinerant teacher-trainer for Georgia; Elizabeth Mayes, supervisor of home economics education in Georgia.

E. L. Granberry, dean, Georgia Normal College; Aaron Brown, principal, High School, Ft. Valley College; Maenelle Dixon, Statesboro, Jeans supervison Bulloch County; F. M. Staley, director of agriculture, Georgia State College; Josephine Dobbs, president teacher in home economics, Georgia State College; Annie M. Hall, Newton Jeans supervisor, Baker County; S. Grace Bradley, instructor, Booker T. Washington; W. T. Ingram, principal high school, Sparta, Ga.

GENERAL MEETING THURSDAY AT WALKER SCHOOL

The general meetings of the session will be held at the Charles T. Walker School in Augusta, beginning on Thursday evening, April 10, at 8 o'clock. The meetings of the high school principals and vocational teachers of Agriculture and Home Economics will be held at Paine College on Friday morning from 8:00 to 9:30. E. J. Granberry, Dean, Georgia Normal College and Aaron Brown, Principal of the high school at Fort Valley will serve as co-chairmen of the high school principals' meeting. Alva Tabor, Itinerant teacher-trainer, Fort Valley, and F. M. Staley, Director of Agriculture, Georgia State College, will serve as co-chairmen of the meeting of vocational teachers of Agriculture. Josephine Dobbs, Resident teacher-trainer, Georgia State College and J. W. Holley, Director of Home Economics, Georgia Normal College will serve as co-chairmen of the Home Economics teachers meeting Maenelle Dixon, Jeanes Supervisor of Bulloch County and A. M. Hall, Jeanes Supervisor of Baker County will serve as co-chairmen of the meeting of elementary and rural school teachers. B. T. Harvey of Morehouse College will head the department of teachers of Natural Science. S. Grace Bradley of the B. T. Washington High School, Atlanta, and Helen E. Walker, of the Georgia State College will serve as co-chairmen of the meeting of the English teachers. Chairmen of other groups will be announced later.

It is expected that all departmental meetings other than those announced for Paine College will be held at the Charles T. Walker School.

I. E. Washington, Principal of the Charles T. Walker School and President of the Richmond County Teachers' Association is making every effort to see that every teacher is royally entertained at the Augusta meeting.

There will be a panel discussion on Friday morning on the subject of "Consumer Cooperation in the Schools of Georgia" led by J. H. Gadson, Jr., Head of the Business Division, Georgia State College, and Fred L. Steely of Paine College.

Another outstanding panel discussion to take place on Friday morning will be centered around the subject "How Can the Salaries of Negro Teachers in Georgia Best Be Standardized."

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Atlanta Principal Is Elected By Landslide Vote In 4-Way Race

APR 1 2 1941

Heated Debate Marks Pay Fight As Dobbs and King of Atlanta Oppose "Wait Patiently" Plan

APR 1 2 1941

(BULLETIN)

The Augusta Chronicle early Saturday morning said C. L. Harper, principal of Booker T. Washington High School in Atlanta, was elected president of the Georgia Teachers and Educational Association by a landslide vote.

I. E. Washington, of Augusta, was elected vice-president; Paul Blackwell, of Elberton, secretary, and Aaron Brown, of Fort Valley, treasurer, the Chronicle revealed.

The official count was not available at 1:45 a. m.

By CLIFF MACKAY
(World Managing Editor)

AUGUSTA, Ga.—Efforts of J. W. Holley of Georgia Normal College, Albany, supported by L. S. Mollette of Griffin, and B. T. Harvey of Atlanta, to have the Georgia Teachers and Educational Association go on record as being willing to "wait patiently" until 1945 before taking any definite action on the matter of salary equalization were frustrated Friday afternoon during a stormy business meeting here at the George T. Walker school.

APR

Taking the floor to lead the violent opposition to the resolution proposed by Holley were two Atlantans, the Rev. M. L. King and John W. Dobbs, neither of whom are teachers, though members of the association.

Declaring that he was speaking not as a teacher in any school, but as a teacher of the Doctrine of Jesus Christ, Dr. King in a brilliantly stirring address started the movement that ended in knifing the Holley Resolution. "We are not going to get equalization by any other way except through fighting," he asserted.

C. L. Tapley, of Greensboro, precipitated a heated debate with Dr. King when he challeged the minister's right to have the floor at the meeting. "Rev. King is not a teacher; he's not paid by the state and won't lose anything by action of the state," he asserted.

KING SPEAKS OUT

Rev. King leaped to his feet calling for a point of personal privilege. "Tapley," he shouted, "Is badly mistaken if he thinks teachers are going to win this battle alone. They will win only if they have the active and loyal support of the ministers, the press and citizens at large."

APR 1 2 1941

The resolution proposed by Dr Holley suggested a program of "patient waiting". He continued that "our good white friends" are doing everything in their power to bring about the very thing that we want.

"Give them a chance," he pleaded.

The proposal followed a report on the salary issue read by B. T. Harvey. The report was of the conference a special committee composed of representatives of the Teachers' Association, the Parent-Teachers Association and the Association of Colleges and secondary schools had held Wednesday night with a group of state officials.

It was at this meeting, called by the state officials, that the committee was told that they had sympathetic friends in the present administration, who are now working in their behalf. A plea was made that no court action be taken.

APR 1 2 1941

"TIME NOT RIPE"

"The time is not ripe," shouted Dr. Holley. "We dare not upset the boat now. Never before in the state's history have state officials been so willing to sit down at the conference table with us and discuss this situation."

Dobbs hurrying down the aisle yelled to Chairman Aaron Brown of Ft. Valley for a point of order and was given the floor.

APR 1 2 1941

"Can't you understand," he shouted, "that this resolution would tie your hands for the next four years? The State Board is not going to give you anything even if you wait for ten years. Four years from now if you wait all you will get is promises and more promises."

Thundering applause from the more than 1,000 teachers present roared through the auditorium.

"Don't give them four years,' he pleaded. "If you must give them some more time and God in heaven knows they have had enough already, let us make this resolution read one year, not four years."

The motion was hastily made and seconded to amend the resolution to a period of one year's waiting. It was quickly passed over the heated protests of Harvey, Mollette and Holley.

APR 1 2 1941

Apparently sensing that the resolution was really an effort to forestall any militant action the incoming administration might take, Dobbs then succeeded in getting through a resolution to table the whole matter until after the name of the newly-elected president was announced.

Meanwhile the teachers formed a long line at the room in the school selected as a polling place. Presiding over the ballot box were Miss Myrtle Harris of Augusta, Alexander Hurse of Savannah, chairman of the nominating committee, and Miss Rebecca Dickerson of Atlanta.

Qualified as presidential candidates, though the results had not been announced late Friday, were C. L. Harper, Atlanta; Asa Gordon, Savannah; L. S. Mollette, Griffin, and E. J. Granberry, Albany.

APR 1 2 1941

More than a hundred Atlanta teachers arrived on the scene Friday morning and began a systematic campaign for Mr. Harper. The faction of Southwest Georgia teachers pledged to support Vincent Harris of Moultrie, who withdrew from the race, swung this support to Harper, it was learned.

B. T. Harvey of Atlanta was actively working for Granberry until time for the polling place to close shortly before eight o'clock p. m.

The slow and arduous task of tabulating the results began shortly after 8:30 o'clock and it was expected the result would be announced near the close of the evening session.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
April 11, 1941

Reports of Group Meetings of the Negro Education Association Here

TEACHERS OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

BY LESLIE DAWSON

The teachers of the Georgia Athletic Conference met on Friday morning, 8:30 o'clock at C. T. Walker School. R. A. Long of McDonald County training school presided with T. J. Maxwell of Georgia State College as secretary.

The organization of all teams in the conferences on better and stronger basis rather than a friendly basis was stressed. It was said that the principals of the various high schools were not pushing the plans for organization as well as they were expected. Interest on the part of the principals was recommended.

The committee recommended that (1) Stronger state athletic organization in Georgia schools; (2) Physical education should be better stressed in schools; (3) Larger high schools should form conferences among themselves so as not to exploit smaller ones.

The question of the Northern boys dominating on the Southern teams was discussed. This showed the lack of proper training on the part of the Southern schools. "Georgia boys should be given more recognition on Georgia teams, rather than importing Northern boys to fill his chances," said Mr. Long.

The Northern boy is athletically superior to the Southern boy," says John Tutt of Haines, "but I hope the day will come when the skill of one will equal that of the other."

Girls should be considered more in the athletic programs of the schools than they are now. This is a problem which we must take into consideration and attempt to iron it out in our system.

GOOD POSITIONS FOR GOOD PEOPLE

"The secret of the success of any program is to get good people into good positions and help keep them there." These are the words of Mr. Robert L. Cousins in his talk on the needs of Georgia's Educational program," he continued. "One must stick to his job, and the only way to do this is to make the work attractive for him. This cannot be done until we set up a salary schedule for the principals. This can be done by concentration on a certain number of counties for at least two years.

As to the Georgia Teachers and Educational Association, the speaker stressed the need to improve the organization of the Association. "If the association has in any way failed, it is not the fault of the officers or the leaders of the group, but the entire association," he said.

ADULT EDUCATION LEADERS ARE ENTHUSOIASTIC

(By E. S. Scott)

The Adult Education teachers held heir departmental discussion. The ollowing topics were discusssed, with President Q. E. Cook, of Augusta, presiding.

1. Cooperation of the parents in he home, school, church and other civic activities, thus eliminating illiteracy to a certain extent.

2. Elimination of the negative attitude and blind-alley jobs for youths. The parents must possess a feeling of love and understanding toward the child. Children should not be thought of as human investments.

3. There should be whole-hearted cooperation of each teacher in the support of the Parent-Teachers Association, as they are the best medium of adult education.

RESOLUTIONS

1. Resolve to make parents more conscious of their obligation to the Parent-Teacher Association, thus bringing about a closer and better understanding of the parent and the teacher in relation to the child.

2. Resolve that illiteracy will be eliminated by the unswerving effort of the teacher in each individual home.

NATURAL SCIENCE MUST BE RELATED TO LIFE

(By Vera Mack)

"Natural sciences must be coordinated in order to be beneficial", teachers of this subject were told today by B. T. Harvey, the chairman. "Every-day activities must be injected into the program".

MUST LOWER MORTALITY RATE OF NEGROES

Supervisor Ruby Scarlette, supervisor of health, National Youth Administration of Georgia, spoke on the subject, "The N. Y. A. Program in Regards to Health". She made as her important points that (1) the diseases of the Negro are caused by bad living conditions and (2) lack of preventative medicine and treatment. She said that it is the job of the schools and the P.-T. A. to assist the public health services in lowering the mortality of the Negro.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS DISCUSS THEIR PROBLEMS

By SARAH L. ANDERSON

How High Schools can serve in the present crisis was the theme of the principles of these schools.

Aaron Brown, principal at Fort Valley, presided.

High schools, it was said, can help with adult education in defense skills, in looking out for propaganda seeking to array class against class, and in defense programs.

"Manipulation of tools is the practical side of this," said the speaker.

E. C. White, of Brooks County, described how a defense school was started by volunteer effort and did such fine work that it developed into a public supported one.

Paul Blackwell was selected to make the report at the general convention.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE PROGRAM IS STRESSED

By RUBY C. MORGAN

Alva Tabor, itinerant teacher of vocational agriculture, told the teachers today that improved living conditions will solve many farm ailments.

"There is opportuniay," he said, "to secure loans for this work through the Farm Security Administration. Better rural housing would do much."

Teacher Ellison, of Flint River Farms, Montgomery County, told how the problem is being worked out there.

The Conference urged a joint instruction program for vocational agriculture teachers at selected intervals, and provisions for a state association.

TRADES AND INDUSTRIES TEACHERS ARE ALERT

By G. M. WALLACE

Public school workers should be alert for taking advantage of the government program of trades and industries training, G. F. Rivers, director of boys' industries at Spencer High School, Columbus, Ga., told his meeting today.

"In some localities in which schools are located," he said, the public does not avail itself of the opportunities offered. The purpose is to train the common labor in skills."

F. W. Tharp, of the Georgia State College, Savannah, was co-chairman.

The group adopted resolutions urging every trade teacher to seek defense classes, to enlist cooperation of the community, and to stress the importance of this program for the welfare of the nation and the individual.

RURAL LIFE STRESSED BY ELEMENTARY TEACHERS

By CHRISTINE L. DENT

The Rural and Elementary Teachers of the Georgia Teachers Association featured a discussion by Presiden Manelle Dixon, supervisor of Bulloch County schools.

Her subject was the stimulation o interest in children by application o school room principles to real life.

"To what extent," she asked "i your school functioning in developing a rural life that is wholesome and helpful."

She then asked Teacher Wilhelmina Shefton, of Willi Hill School in Bulloch County to discuss how that school is meeting the problem. Another speaker, Teacher Beatrice Dominis told how improvements have been made in the community through the inspiration of the school.

Work, they said, must be creative and practical and of real value.

NEED GOOD FOOD, GOOD HOUSING

Teacher J. O. Dobbs told Negro home economics teachers Friday that the reason more Negroes were not picked for national defense jobs is that a great many of her race suffer from nutritional deficiency diseases.

"Good food and good housing play an important part in the strengthening of any army." Teacher Dobbs declared. She pointed out that these problems are "very near to home economics teachers."

The vocationalists met at 9:15 in Paine College. Teacher E. T. Holley of Georgia Normal was another speaker.

The body resolved to hold two meetings annually, one in November and the regular session in April.

Officers were elected. Following is the roster:

President J. O. Dobbs; Vice President C. V. Spurlock; Treasurer A. B. Hatcher; Secretary Wallace; and Corresponding Secretary Lewis.

English teachers attending the State Teachers and Education Association heard a thorough discussion of their problems by English leaders in Friday morning at Charles T. Walker School.

The subject discussed was: "Meeting the needs of youth today through oral and written composition—debating, dramatics and journalism".

Led by Teacher S. Grace Bradley, the discussion stressed these two points:

That although journalism is often looked upon as being something separate and distince from the English grammar, there is a definite relationship between the two.

And, that rules should be secondary and usage problem primary.

Teacher Helen Walker, of the Georgia State College in Savannah spoke.

The English teachers resolved that they "will go into their various communities with the above-mentioned suggestions, thereby trying to decrease their difficulties in the teaching of English".

Augusta, Ga. Herald
April 13, 1941

Negro Teachers Seek Equal Educational Opportunities

BY DOUGLASS HALL

The matter of equalization of Negro teachers in the State of Georgia was the "nervous system" of the first open business session of the Teachers and Education Association Friday afternoon.

This session lasted about two hours with leaders from all section of the state giving their views, making motions, substitute motions, and then in turn having them all tabled and beginning over again.

The main division came in the time element, that is, how long would the teachers have to wait upon the state to take action on the matter before a test case would be submitted to the courts.

The first motion was offered to the effect that the teachers would ask the state to give "Negro teachers equal educational opportunities and salaries," but the "time element" the teachers would allow the state four years in which to do this, before more drastic action would be taken by the teachers.

From all over the meeting leaders began protesting to the four-year time limit. They demanded that something be done now. Or at least within the next year.

The Rev. Cain, Atlanta, was the first to ask the teachers to take immediate action. His plea was followed by a speech by John Wesley Dobbs, also of Atlanta, and known throughout the state for his active leadership of the Masons.

"You have before you," he stated, "a motion to tie your hands for the next four years. We have been patient. Teachers, you are in a miserable state. You need the money and I plead with you to demand 'equal justice under law.'"

This four-year plan was one that was submitted by the committee appointed to converse with state officials, to get their attitude, and then submit a plan to the association. The committee told the convention that the officials "were going to do something about the situation but it would take time.

"Give only one year at a time," Dobbs said. "Let the committee bring back their promises next year. That is all they are going to bring back—promises!

THE MASSES NEED HELP

"Some of the teachers seem to be doing all right, but it is the masses who need help. The teachers in the small towns and rural sections of this state, teachers who can hardly live and send their children to school.

He then likened teachers to a minor child with an inherited estate. "You are not radical if you ask for your part of the estate. If you are afraid of your jobs, leave it to us and we will fight your battles for you."

A. W. Holly, president, Georgia Normal, at this time submitted the following substitute motion:

The Georgia State Teachers and Education Association, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the State Parent-Teachers' Association are requested to form an education council.

The purpose of this council shall be to serve as a clearing house in all matters affecting their education with special reference to civic, economic, religions and moral welfare.

The council shall be free to work with any and all agencies desiring to build a bigger and better Georgia. The council shall be composed of a president and secretary of the State Teachers' Association; the president and secretary of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; one regent from each regional district, and one representative at large from each of the above listed associations, and all former presidents of the three associations.

The council shall select a centrally located city for its headquarters and appoint a temporary secretary to carry on the work, until such time as an executive secretary shall be elected.

The officers of the council shall be a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and shall serve at the will of the council and will be elected by the council. The officers shall perform such duties as are usually performed by such officers.

Each member of the council shall pay an annual fee of five dollars, which, with fees collected by the association, shall be used to promote the interest of the council and the association.

The council shall meet quarterly, and at such other times as necessity require, and a quarterly report shall be made, giving a detailed account of the activities of the council, and the same shall be mailed to all active members of the council. The council members will be responsible for getting the reports to all active members of the association and releasing the same information through the press and the Teachers' Herald.

The teachers then voted to table both the motion and the substitute motion.

DOBBS' MOTION APPROVED BY TEACHERS

"It is sense of the state association that a committee be appointed by the incoming president to work during the next twelve months, with the board of education, state legislature, or any other body toward equalization of teachers' salaries."

Such was the motion that was finaly carried by a debate-weary house. The motion was made by John Wesley Dobbs, of Atlanta.

What is done on the question of equalization of salaries appears to be in the hands of the new president who was elected Friday night.

Negroes who met with the state officials Wednesday at Paine College were B. T. Harvey, of Morehouse College; J. W. Holly, of Georgia Normal, Albany; J. Granberry, Georgia Normal; Mattie Reese, Albany, president of the Georgia Parent-Teachers' Association.

Meeting with this composite educational committee were Supterintendent Collins, Executive Secretary Ramsey, of the Georgia Education Association (white); E. D. Almand, state comptroller; R. L. Cousins, supervisor of Negro schools, and I. H. Lester, assistant to Mr. Cousins.

The above persons met Wednesday night and it was out of their meeting the "four-year plan" arose that was rejected by the teachers.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
April 11, 1941

Dr. Brown Advises Negroes Not to Waste Time in Hate

BY DOUGLASS HALL

Three thousand persons who attended the opening session of the Negro Teachers and Educational Association, stormed the Charles T. Walker Auditorium with applause, as Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, founder and president, Palmer Memorial College, delivered a spirited address, using as her theme "The Measure of Life".

She told her audience that "We cannot measure our years in terms of time. Time teaches teachers wisdom but it also wears things down and robs us of zest and brings us eventually to the gates of death.

"Neither can we measure life by our possessions. Greed and the desire to possess have brought many a man to the last resting place unhonored, unwept and unsung.

"Nor can we measure it by success—People who have reached the mountain-top of what the world calls success and gone down on the other side regretful that they have lived.

"Happiness, that elusive thing that vanishes in the quest of man, is not the measure of life. Moses, Jesus and Abraham Lincoln lived great lives, but they were all men of sorrows and acquainted with grief".

Then, admist cheers, Dr. Brown proclaimed. "I, therefore, offer this as the gauge for a man's life—the growth of his mind and the growth of his soul"!

Speaking of the Negro, she continued, "There are times when the surrounding circumstances almost overwhelm his soul. He cries out from the depth of his despair—O Lord, Our Lord, How long must I suffer thus! A yoke of slavery binding his body and aiming to bind his soul."

Dr. Brown plead with the teachers and friends present not to waste their time in hating any one. She quoted Booker T. Washington, "No man, be he black or white, shall ever drag me to such depths that I will hate him".

The speaker concluded: "In the stress and struggle of life, we can scarcely expect people to turn aside from solving their own problems to solve ours. We have to take what they give us—chafing or no chafing—but we ought to keep up the fight within ourselves in an honorable, respectable way for freedom, justice, and equality before the Lord, for every respectable American citizen, white or black, in the final analysis, believes in the law of the land."

At the beginning of her message, Dr. Brown paid high tribute to the late Lucy Craft Laney, founder of Haines Institute of this city.

The Union
Cincinnati, Ohio

Louisville Teachers Start Non-Jim Crow Union

APR 10 1941

Louisville, Ky. — (CNA) — The first non-Jim Crow local of school teachers in the South was set up here this week when 150 Negro and white high school and elementary teachers in Louisville received their charter from the American Federation of Teachers.

The struggle of the Negro teachers this winter for the abolition of racial salary discrimination resulted in a solid organization of the teachers, both Negro and white, and recently the Louisville teachers local in cooperation with the Kentucky Federation of Labor held a mass meeting to which all teachers and citizens were invited. The meeting was a huge success and resulted in an overflow crowd. A large number of teachers joined the union at the close of the meeting.

Speakers at the meeting included Dr. Doxie Wilkerson, Howard University; Miss Adeline Harris, Cincinnati; Harry R. Hazel, Cleveland; and Edward H. Weyler, secretary of the Kentucky AFL, who presided.

Edward H. Weyler, secretary of the Kentucky AFL, stressed the vital necessity of unity between Negro and white workers in order for labor to advance.

18x-1941
Southern News
Almanac
Birmingham, Ala.

LOUISVILLE TEACHERS ORGANIZE

MAR 27 1941

150 White And Negro Teachers Join Federation

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—A local union of 150 high school and elementary teachers in Louisville has received its charter from the American Federation of Teachers.

It has been formed to give the teachers strength to meet their problems. At a big mass meeting here last week, held in cooperation with the Kentucky Federation of Labor, Miss Adeline Harris pointed out that "teachers are an utterly isolated group in any community unless they organize.

This local teachers union is the first in the South that has followed the lead of industrial workers and organized both Negro and white teachers into the same union.

At the mass meeting here, Edward H. Weyler, secretary of the Kentucky A. F. of L., emphasized the necessity of unity between white and Negro workers if progress is to be made.

Dr. Doxie Wilkerson, Howard University, was one of the speakers at the meeting and won applause from the large crowd when he said:

MAR 27 1941

"Education is being attacked now, as during the last war, by its enemies. This is no time to be agreeable to retrenchment in education, nor is it a time to hold on to what we have. Now is the time to go forward, Democracy needs education for its own defense."

18x-1941

MISSISSIPPI

Winona, Miss. Times
January 3, 1941

Negro Teachers Form Coordinating County Council

In keeping with the new trend in education a good teacher is expected to assist in improving "rural and community life" by helping the people of the community make proper use of both human and material resources.

The best way to help the teacher make the best use of these resources is to organize the agencies through which rural people can get information and assistance. In Montgomery County these agencies are the Jeanes Teacher, Home Demonstration Agent, High Schol principals, Vocational Agriculture teachers, Vocational Home Economics teachers, ministers, adult teachers, and other leading citizens.

On November 21st, these agencies met and organized a "County Coordinating Council" for the negroes, with the following officers elected:

President, J. J. Knox; vice president, Sam Campbell; secretary, Hattie L. Winbush; assistant secretary, Laura R. Hart; treasurer, Willie Harper; chaplain, Rev. J. P. Watson; business manager, F. Donnell Allen. Advisory Committee: C. H. Dukes, Rev. A. L. Hill, Florida Rathers, J. J. Knox, Laura R. Hart, F. Donnell Allen. Sponsor: Florida B. Rathers.

The object of this council is to help negro teachers to plan procedures that will effect improvement of all community conditions promoting healthier, fuller, richer, and happier living and make for a more stable tenure. With the aid of this organization each teacher is asked to establish a demonstration project in the community in which he or she works. As soon as the house has been selected, the teacher will report to the Advisory Committee. The committe will inspect the project to see what needs to be done, set up the objectives, and set the project going.

Interest in this movement is growing rapidly. County Superintendent of Education W. R. Applewhite has asked the council to consider a home on his place and has already given materials with which to improve the house, both inside and out. He has pledged his wholehearted coperation in making it a success. Other white friends are interested in the movement and it is hoped that they, too, will cooperate with the organization by establishing demonstration projects on their farms.

Several teachers have reported splendid cooperation from their communities and it is felt that much improvement will be made in all communities of the county. The cooperation of all land lords and white friends is solicited.

The county-wide negro teachers' meeting met Saturday, November 7, at the Montgomery County Training School. The meeting was reported as quite inspirational and educational. The Rev. S. Watson and Rev. A. L. Hill were the guest speakers. Their addresses were very practical and were enjoyed by all. Supt. W. R. Applewhite made some very timely remarks and urged that all teachers do a better job in teaching boys and girls how to be good citizens. There are many signs of teacher growth and it is hoped that through the county teachers' meetings and group discussions that at the end of the school term a very creditable achievement will have been made.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

MISSOURI TEACHERS SELECT THEME FOR 1941 CONVENTION

MAR 14 194

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — "The Integration of the Negro in National Defense" will be the theme of the fifty-sixth annual session of the Missouri State Association of Negro Teachers which will be held in St. Louis in November, 1941, according to the action of the State Program committee which met at the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. Saturday, March 8.

MAR 14 1941

"As long as the American people refuse to accept the Negro as a full participant in the program for National Defense, they are guilty of a failure to conform to the Democratic theory, and acting contrary to the American Way," stated Earl D. Thomas, Kansas City, in proposing the statement as finally adopted by the committee.

"We must also remember," stated Miss Emily J. Russell, president of the association, speaking in support of the adoption of the theme, "'that the association passed a resolution that we cooperate with all organizations which are working for the integration of the Negro in all areas of National Defense; army, navy, marines, training for activities, and employment in all Defense industries."

In the development of the theme several interesting innovations will be featured. On the Thursday evening program there will be a panel to discuss the integration of the Negro in National Defense composed of representatives from the following interests: National Educational association, National Urban League, State Department of Education, State Employment Department, N.A.A.C.P., and Organized Labor. All departmental programs will be centered around the theme, and a summary of the findings of these sessions will be given to the membership in one of the general sessions.

The State Program committee elected Miss Arsania M. Williams St. Louis, as chairman, and re-elected Miss Kitsy D. Townsend St. Joseph, as the secretary. Other members of the State Program committee are: Miss Emily J. Russell, St. Louis; Earl D. Thomas Kansas City; and Burt A. Mayberry, Kansas City.

Special reports were given to the committee by: Miss Ruth E. Greene, state music chairman, St. Louis; Miss Pearl Schwartz, state exhibit chairman, St. Louis; G. D. Brantly, St. Louis; and C. H. Anderson, St. Louis.

18x-1-1

Negro Labor News

Houston, Texas

NEW JERSEY

Negro Teachers Win Big Victory In Jersey City

JAN 25 1941

JAN 25 1941

JERSEY CITY, N. J. — (ANP)— Details of a victory over the Teachers' Protective union of Lancester, Pa., were told at the regular meeting last week of Alpha chapter of Phi Delta Kappa sorority.

The teachers' union issued applications among school teachers which read "for white only." Alpha chapter registered a formal complaint with Supt. Nugent of Jersey City schools who immediately issued orders that no literature of this organization be permitted in local schools.

The chapter also learned that proceeds from the recital in November by James Boxwill have been sent to Morgan College for tuition of a student from Montclair, N. J.

18x-1941
The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

Teachers Union Fights to Reduce Size of Classes

Counters Proposal to Dismiss 1,151 Substitute Teachers With Demand That School Classes Be Limited to 35 Pupils

JAN 17 1941

Reduction of class sizes to 35 pupils, apparently barred by the Board of Education's proposed 1941-42 budget, will be made a major issue by organized educators, Bella Dodd, legislative representative of the Teachers Union told the Daily Worker yesterday.

The fight will be brought before the Board of Estimate when it considers the city budget for the next fiscal year, she said.

The fight will be brought before the Board of Estimate when it considers the city budget for the next fiscal year, she said.

Stress will be laid on the fact that the City Council supported the campaign for class size reduction in a resolution adopted unanimously last Summer.

Determination to wage a city-wide campaign was voiced by scores of other representatives of interested groups after a public hearing late Wednesday night before the finance committee of the Board of Education at the latter's offices, 110 Livingston St., Brooklyn.

DEAF TO PLEAS

Despite pleas of 61 speakers from a wide range of labor, civic, parents and teachers organizations, the Board's finance committee, headed by Ellsworth Buck, showed little sympathy with the almost unanimous demand for reduction of class size and other popular requests.

The tentative budget as proposed is $152,008,632 and was achieved by planning for elimination of 1,151 teaching positions, those of the so-called regular substitutes, that is, teachers doing regular work without regular status.

JAN 17 1941

Over and over again during the three-hour hearing the demand was voiced for retention of the 1,151 teachers. To the argument of the Board that the elimination was occasioned by a drop in the school registration, teachers' and parents' representatives countered with the demand that classes be reduced and that the 1,151 teachers be retained.

Speaking before the Board, Dr. Dodd said that while it was "true that there is some decrease in public school registers due to the building of new Catholic elementary and high schools," nearly half "of the children of the city are taught in classes of more than 35."

CITE HARLEM CONDITIONS

Mrs. Selma Maximon, speaking on behalf of the United Parents Association, told the Board committee that "more than 6,000 classes exist with 40 to 50 pupils."

The special misery of Harlem schools was dramatically brought out by Mrs. Audley Warner, representing the Parents Association of Public School 157.

"Harlem has kids who go to school in shifts, just like miners," she said. "Little six-year-old youngsters have to get up at six in the morning to get to school at eight because of the shift system."

A Thomas Jefferson High School youngster, Hyman Gold, representing the American Student Union, was listened to in respectful silence as he informed the Board that in two of his three classes he had to share his seat with another pupil.

Charging that the tentative budget "constitutes appeasement and capitulation to Mayor LaGuardia who has publicly reprimanded city department heads for requesting appropriations they really need," Isidore Begun, legislative representative of the New York State Communist Party, pointed out that the school board was not even seeking $169,003,000 the figure they sought last year and which the Board of Estimate refused them.

NEW YORK

Deserved Blow for Teachers Union.

New York World Telegram

The power of the legislative committee investigating subversive activities in this city's schools to compel Charles J. Hendley, president of the Teachers Union, to produce the union's membership lists is unanimously upheld by the Court of Appeals. JAN 24 1941

In a 5 to 2 decision the state's highest court also upholds lower court orders citing Hendley in contempt for refusing to testify before a one-man subcommittee.

This is a distinct victory for Paul Windels, the committee's counsel, also a big clearing of the path for the inquiry. New York, N.Y.

Recalcitrant teacher-witnesses still fighting in the courts to escape testifying will find scant hope or comfort in the unanimous Court of Appeals opinion, written by Judge Edmund Lewis, which says:

"The lawmaking power given to the Legislature authorizes it by inquiry to ascertain facts which affect public welfare and the affairs of government. . . . Upon such inquiries the Legislature may compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence to the end that it may perform its constitutional functions by the enactment of laws to correct public dangers."

In justice to the many loyal, faithful public school teachers who, we believe, have nothing to conceal and who should not have to suffer from the defiant, distrust-deepening tactics of the Teachers Union, it is high time to probe behind those tactics and find out by whom and under what hidden leadership they have been inspired.

No one for a moment believes all teachers take their opinions and orders from Moscow. But the Teachers Union has gone out of its way to show the need of discovering who does—and whether taxpayers are paying salaries to promote the de-Americanizing of American youth.

Surely this belongs among what Judge Lewis calls "public dangers."

The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

Newton Case Spurs WPA Teachers' Drive

Beating of Negro Union Leader by Police Arouses People of Harlem; Victim Suffers Broken Ribs, Still Unable to Stand Trial

The Herbert Newton case has acted as a powerful stimulus towards organization among WPA teachers, white as well as Negro, according to William Levner, president of the WPA Teachers Union, Local 453, AFL.

"Not only do we feel confident that we will win his case," Levner told the Daily Worker yesterday, "but we are sure that it will prove a boomerang to the inveterate enemies of the Negro people and of the whole working class. The case throws into sharp relief the position of thousands of white collar and professional Negro workers in New York City."

Newton, a Negro WPA teacher and vice-president of the WPA Teachers Union, according to union charges, was beaten into unconsciouness—while bound and helpless — by four detectives at the 104th St. Police Station after his arrest, July 18. He was arrested for leading a peaceful picket line in front of the home of Mayor LaGuardia, protesting the firing of 15,000 New York City WPA workers.

SERIOUSLY HURT

Newton was then booked for "feloneous assault" by his alleged assaulters, and sent to the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital suffering from three broken ribs, concussion of the brain and pleurisy, as the result of the alleged beating. Here he was held incommunicado for 24 hours before he was released at the exorbitant bail of $1,000. He has not yet recovered from his injuries sufficiently to stand trial.

At the time of Newton's arrest, the entire picket line was brutally attacked by police and plainclothesmen, according to the union's charges. Twenty-eight other pickets were arrested, charged with "disorderly conduct." Their trial will continue tomorrow, in Harlem Magistrates Court, 122nd St. and Third Ave.

Speaking of the organizational effect of the prosecution of Newton, Levner disclosed yesterday that the WPA Teachers Union has gained 50 new members in the past four days.

HERBERT NEWTON

Levner continued: "At least seven WPA projects, in addition to our union, the United Artists, Local 50, CIO, and the Workers Alliance, have elected 'Herbert Newton Defense Committees.' These groups have designated special committees to visit Mr. Newton with flowers."

"On Monday, we printed 2,000 collection lists, to raise money for Newton's defense expenses. By Thursday, all but 100 of the lists were in circulation. Not a day goes by without our receiving at least 20 telephone calls—from union members, WPA workers, friends and even strangers who don't identify themselves—inquiring about Newton's condition."

The response of Negro teachers is especially significant, Levner said. "Many who are not yet prepared to join the union have volunteered to serve on the Newton Defense Committees."

Prominent progressives are also interesting themselves in the case, Levner announced. "On Thursday," he said, "a delegation of prominent New Yorkers, headed by Clifford McAvoy, of the New York Conference for Inalienable Rights, and including representatives of the National Committee for People's Rights, visited Newton in his home."

POLICE HEARING SET

The promise of Police Commissioner Valentine to hold a public hearing on police brutality in the July 18 attack upon peaceful pickets —a promise wrung from the Police Department by widespread public protest—has specific reference to the beating of Herbert Newton, Levner stated.

"The Commissioner's office definitely agreed, in a telephone conversation with me," he explained, "that the Newton case will be investigated. In fact, this is the main basis for the hearing."

John Davidson, chairman of the union's Committee Against Negro Discrimination, said, "Newton is an outstanding individual, with the interests of the people at heart. Besides, he's a very articulate young man, and a person of determination. He seems to understand the problems of the Negro people, and to know how they can be solved. Personally, I have a warm feeling for him. So do scores and hundreds of others who have worked with him. We are going to see to it that this disgraceful indictment against him is completely quashed."

Greensboro, N. C., News
April 6, 1941

THREE PAPERS GIVEN AT ENGLISH SESSION

Negro Teachers' Association Re-elects Bertram Woodruff As President.

Fifth annual conference of Association of Teachers of English met in final session at Bennett college yesterday morning, with Prof. Hugh Gloster, of LeMoyne college, Memphis, Tenn., as chairman. Three important papers were read and discussed in the morning, the business session concluding with election of officers for the ensuing year. First-day meetings were held at A. and T. college.

Reports were made on recommendations and the constitution, and a new committee on academic standings created. The organization will meet at Hampton institute, Virginia, next year, Prof. Arthur E. Burke, of the institute, having been chosen chairman of the committee on time and place. The following officers were elected: Bertram Woodruff, Johnson C. Smith university, Charlotte, retained as president; Dr. John Lovell, Howard university; vice president; Henry R. Jourkins, Dillard university, corresponding secretary; A. Russell Brooks, A. and T. college, recording secretary, and J. Jenkins, of Morehouse college, treasurer. Name of the organization was changed to "Association of Teachers of Languages in Negro Colleges" to give full membership for foreign language teachers.

Prof. Nick Aaron Ford, Langston university, Oklahoma, spoke on "The Negro Novel As a Vehicle for Propaganda". Considerable discussion, led by Prof. Jay Saunders Redding, of Elizabeth City Teachers college, followed on the value of specific works. Richard Wright's novel, "Native Son" claimed major attention. Sterling Brown, author and Howard university professor, spoke on "The Negro Author and the Publisher", referring again to Wright as probably the only negro who had made a lucrative livelihood from writing alone. He spoke of his forthcoming anthology of the writings of negro authors.

Following discussion, Prof. Oscar Bouise, Xavier university, New Orleans, spoke on "Associations for the Discussion of Problems of Scholarship or Teaching". The Modern Language association, publisher of the journal, "PMLA", the National Council of Teachers of English, and the College English association were organizations mentioned.

Greensboro, N. C., News
April 12, 1941

NEGRO TEACHERS HEAR DR CLYDE A. MILNER

Nearly 3,000 Are Attending State Association Convention At A. and T.

"Young people need training in the constant things of life", declared Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of Guilford college, at A. and T. college yesterday afternoon at the 60th annual convention of the North Carolina Negro Teachers association. Nearly 3,000 teachers are in attendance at the annual meeting. Dr Milner was introduced by President David D. Jones, of Bennett college.

Dr. Milner based his address on a college newspaper editorial which was addressed to teachers and parents asking them to take students back to solid ground. The speaker especially counseled the delegates to be enough aware of the present crisis to remember that as teachers they are responsible for the spiritual, mental and physical guidance of children who will be leaders in post-war reconstruction. "We must build and enrich concepts and re-interpret the meanings of given words. In short, we must attach only great and important words to great and important concepts.

Pageant Presented.

A pageant depicting the 50-year history of A. and T. college was presented last night by the college department of dramatic arts. Dr. Henry C. McDowell, president of Lincoln academy, Kings Mountain, delivered the principal address.

Dr. McDowell stressed the point that teachers have the responsibility of developing in students the habit of alertness and observance in connection with events as they occur. Other speakers included Lieut. H. A. Robinson, of Ft. Bragg, and S. B. Simmons, state superintendent of vocational agriculture.

Immediately following the afternoon general session, there was a concert by the college band under direction of Bernard Lee Mason on the front lawn of the campus. A student military parade by the department of military science and tactics, and a flight exhibition by students of aviation were also given.

Salutations were also brought the group yesterday by A. J. Taylor, of New York city, National Negro association; Mrs. Mary Williams, of West Virginia, president of the American Teachers association; and Dr. N. C. Newbold, of Raleigh, director of the division of negro education.

In his talk, Taylor told the teachers that they must never become too busy to neglect the children in their midst for they may have the key which will unlock solution to many problems.

Mrs. Rose D. Aggrey, of Salisbury, president of the association, presided at both sessions. Music was rendered by choral groups from Sanford, Dudley, and High Point high schools and Bennett and Immanuel Lutheran college. The meeting will come to end today with the holding of the annual business session at noon.

Greensboro, N. C., Record
April 10, 1941

Negro Teachers Gathering Here

State Session Will Be Held At A. and T.

"Educating for the Common Defense" will be the theme of general and section sessions of the 60th annual convention of the North Carolina Negro Teachers association which will begin at A. and T. college tonight. The convention will continue through Saturday afternoon.

There are general sessions tonight, Friday afternoon and night, with a special business session Saturday afternoon and section conferences Friday and Saturday morning. The sections which handle the real work of the convention will survey methods whereby the negro teachers may become more effectively integrated in the national defense.

The sections of the convention include: College, foreign language high school, history and English, science and mathematics, elementary, industrial arts, high school principals, physical education, grammar grade, art, home economics, primary, physical education, and adult education.

Two Addresses Tonight.

The principal addresses at the opening session tonight which is scheduled for Richard B. Harrison at 8 o'clock will be delivered by N. C. Larabee, director of the NYA for North Carolina and Dr. Raleigh Schorling, professor of education and supervisor of teaching at the University of Michigan.

Salutations will be brought the teachers' group by Mayor Huger King, on behalf of the city of Greensboro; J. A. Tarpley, supervising principals of the negro schools, on behalf of the teachers of Guilford county; and President David D. Jones, of Bennett college, on behalf of the colleges of the city. The response will be made by Dean James T. Taylor, of North Carolina college, Durham. Music will be rendered by the A. and T. college a cappella choir under direction of Warner Lawson.

Tomorrow afternoon at the second general session which is set for 2 p. m. the principal address will be delivered by President Clyde A. Milner, of Guilford college. A. J. Taylor, national negro scout executive, and J. E. Bowens, Jr., president of the North Carolina Library association, will make short talks. Music will be rendered by the choirs of the county training school, Sanford, and Dudley high school, city.

At tomorrow night's session, the principal address will be brought by Dr. Henry C. McDowell, president of Lincoln academy, Kings Mountain. A pageant depicting the 50-year development of A. and T. college will also be presented at this session.

The final general session is set for Saturday afternoon.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Dr. Seabrook Is Elected Head of N. C. Teachers

APR 26 1941

GREENSBORO, N. C.—Dr. J. W. Seabrook, president of Fayetteville State Teachers' College, was elected president of the North Carolina Negro Teachers Association at the final session of the sixtieth annual convention held at A. and T. College, last week, succeeding Mrs. Rose Aggrey of Salisbury.

J. A. Tarpley, supervising principal of the colored schools of Greensboro, was elected vice-president. Other officers elected include Mrs. Maude M. Jeffers, Jeanes supervisor of Gaston County schools, recording secretary, and Dr. A. Elder, dean, North Carolina College, treasurer.

APR 26 1941

O. V. Hall, principal of Price High School, Salisbury, and L. R. Best, principal of the colored high school, Wake Forest, were elected to the executive committee.

Defer Action on Reforms

Action on reform of organizational set-up to institute the representative assembly was deferred to the 1942 meeting which will be held at Winston-Salem Teachers' College, the week-end preceding the Easter holidays.

The consensus reached by the 3,000 teachers attending the conference was that the responsibility for establishing the first line of national defense by inculcating the principles of democracy into all the American people rests firmly upon the shoulders of education.

APR 26 1941

Among Speakers

Principal speakers at the general sessions were Dr. Raleigh Scherling, professor of education and director of practice teaching at the University of Michigan; N. C. Larabee, director of the NYA of North Carolina; Dr. Clyde A. Miller, president of Guilford College; A. J. Taylor, of New York City, colored Scout executive;

Mrs. Mary William of West Virginia, president of the American Teachers' Association; Lieut. H. A. Robinson of Fort Bragg; Dr. N. C. Newbold, State director of colored education; S. E. Simmons, State supervisor of vocational agriculture, and Dr. H. C. McDowell, president of Lincoln Academy, Kings Mountain.

Greensboro, N. C., News
April 10, 1941

TEACHERS CONVENTION TO OPEN HERE TODAY

Sixtieth Annual Convention of Negro Teachers to Be Held At A. and T.

The 60th annual convention of the North Carolina Negro Teachers association will be held at A. and T. college today through Saturday with approximately 4,000 teachers expected to be in attendance. Convention theme is "Educating for the Common Defense".

The first general session is set for tonight at 8 o'clock in Richard B. Harrison auditorium. The principal addresses will be delivered by N. C. Larabee, director of the NYA for North Carolina, and Dr. Raleigh Schorling, professor of education and supervisor of teaching at the University of Michigan.

Salutations will be brought the group from the city of Greensboro by Mayor Huger King; from the teachers of Guilford county; J. A. Tarpley, supervising principal of city negro schools, and from the colleges of the city by President David D. Jones, of Bennett college. The response will be made by Dean James T. Taylor, of North Carolina college, Durham. Music will be rendered by the A. and T. college a capella choir under direction of Warner Lawson.

Dr. Milner to Speak.

The second general session is set for tomorrow afternoon with the principal address to be delivered by Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of Guilford college. Others to appear include A. J. Taylor, negro scout executive, and J. E. Bowens, Jr., president of the North Carolina Library association.

Dr. Henry C. McDowell, president of Lincoln academy, Kings Mountain, will be the principal speaker at general session tomorrow night. Another feature on the same program will be a pageant depicting 50 years of service of A. and T. college by the department of dramatic arts.

The convention will adjourn Saturday afternoon following a business session at which the delegates will hear the reports of the various committees and officers, elect new officers, and select the time and place of the next meeting.

In addition to the general sessions, the following sections will hold meetings: College section, foreign language section, high school section, history and English section, science and mathematics section, elementary section, industrial arts section, home economics section, primary section, grammar grade section, art section, high school principals' section, physical education section, and adult education section. Sectional meetings will be held Friday and Saturday morning.

18x-1941

Greensboro, N. C., News
April 6, 1941

THREE PAPERS GIVEN AT ENGLISH SESSION

Negro Teachers' Association Re-elects Bertram Woodruff As President.

Fifth annual conference of Association of Teachers of English met in final session at Bennett college yesterday morning, with Prof. Hugh Gloster, of LeMoyne college, Memphis, Tenn., as chairman. Three important papers were read and discussed in the morning, the business session concluding with election of officers for the ensuing year. First-day meetings were held at A. and T. college.

Reports were made on recommendations and the constitution, and a new committee on academic standings created. The organization will meet at Hampton institute, Virginia, next year, Prof. Arthur E. Burke, of the institute, having been chosen chairman of the committee on time and place. The following officers were elected: Bertram Woodruff, Johnson C. Smith university, Charlotte, retained as president; Dr. John Lovell, Howard university; vice president; Henry R. Jourkins, Dillard university, corresponding secretary; A. Russell Brooks, A. and T. college, recording secretary, and J. Jenkins, of Morehouse college, treasurer. Name of the organization was changed to "Association of Teachers of Languages in Negro Colleges" to give full membership for foreign language teachers.

Prof. Nick Aaron Ford, Langston university, Oklahoma, spoke on "The Negro Novel As a Vehicle for Propaganda". Considerable discussion, led by Prof. Jay Saunders Redding, of Elizabeth City Teachers college, followed on the value of specific works. Richard Wright's novel, "Native Son" claimed major attention. Sterling Brown, author and Howard university professor, spoke on "The Negro Author and the Publisher", referring again to Wright as probably the only negro who had made a lucrative livelihood from writing alone. He spoke of his forthcoming anthology of the writings of negro authors.

Following discussion, Prof. Oscar Bouise, Xavier university, New Orleans, spoke on "Associations for the Discussion of Problems of Scholarship or Teaching". The Modern Language association, publisher of the journal, "PMLA", the National Council of Teachers of English, and the College English association were organizations mentioned.

Greensboro, N. C., News
April 12, 1941

NEGRO TEACHERS HEAR DR CLYDE A. MILNER

Nearly 3,000 Are Attending State Association Convention At A. and T.

"Young people need training in the constant things of life", declared Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of Guilford college, at A. and T. college yesterday afternoon at the 60th annual convention of the North Carolina Negro Teachers association. Nearly 3,000 teachers are in attendance at the annual meeting. Dr. Milner was introduced by President David D. Jones, of Bennett college.

Dr. Milner based his address on a college newspaper editorial which was addressed to teachers and parents asking them to take students back to solid ground. The speaker especially counseled the delegates to be enough aware of the present crisis to remember that as teachers they are responsible for the spiritual, mental and physical guidance of children who will be leaders in post-war reconstruction. "We must build and enrich concepts and re-interpret the meanings of given words. In short, we must attach only great and important words to great and important concepts.

Pageant Presented.

A pageant depicting the 50-year history of A. and T. college was presented last night by the college department of dramatic arts. Dr. Henry C. McDowell, president of Lincoln academy, Kings Mountain, delivered the principal address.

Dr. McDowell stressed the point that teachers have the responsibility of developing in students the habit of alertness and observance in connection with events as they occur. Other speakers included Lieut. H. A. Robinson, of Ft. Bragg, and S. B. Simmons, state superintendent of vocational agriculture.

Immediately following the afternoon general session, there was a concert by the college band under direction of Bernard Lee Mason on the front lawn of the campus. A student military parade by the department of military science and tactics, and a flight exhibition by students of aviation were also given.

Salutations were also brought the group yesterday by A. J. Taylor, of New York city, National Negro association; Mrs. Mary Williams, of West Virginia, president of the American Teachers association; and Dr. N. C. Newbold, of Raleigh, director of the division of negro education.

In his talk, Taylor told the teachers that they must never become too busy to neglect the children in their midst for they may have the key which will unlock solution to many problems.

Mrs. Rose D. Aggrey, of Salisbury, president of the association, presided at both sessions. Music was rendered by choral groups from Sanford, Dudley, and High Point high schools and Bennett and Immanuel Lutheran college. The meeting will come to end today with the holding of the annual business session at noon.

Greensboro, N. C., Record
April 10, 1941

Negro Teachers Gathering Here

State Session Will Be Held At A. and T.

"Educating for the Common Defense" will be the theme of general and section sessions of the 60th annual convention of the North Carolina Negro Teachers association which will begin at A. and T. college tonight. The convention will continue through Saturday afternoon.

There are general sessions tonight, Friday afternoon and night, with a special business session Saturday afternoon and section conferences Friday and Saturday morning. The sections which handle the real work of the convention will survey methods whereby the negro teachers may become more effectively integrated in the national defense.

The sections of the convention include: College, foreign language high school, history and English, science and mathematics, elementary, industrial arts, high school principals, physical education, grammar grade, art, home economics, primary, physical education, and adult education.

Two Addresses Tonight.

The principal addresses at the opening session tonight which is scheduled for Richard B. Harrison at 8 o'clock will be delivered by N. C. Larabee, director of the NYA for North Carolina and Dr. Raleigh Schorling, professor of education and supervisor of teaching at the University of Michigan.

Salutations will be brought the teachers' group by Mayor Huger King, on behalf of the city of Greensboro; J. A. Tarpley, supervising principals of the negro schools, on behalf of the teachers of Guilford county; and President David D. Jones, of Bennett college, on behalf of the colleges of the city. The response will be made by Dean James T. Taylor, of North Carolina college, Durham. Music will be rendered by the A. and T. college a cappella choir under direction of Warner Lawson.

Tomorrow afternoon at the second general session which is set for 2 p. m. the principal address will be delivered by President Clyde A. Milner, of Guilford college. A. J. Taylor, national negro scout executive, and J. E. Bowens, Jr., president of the North Carolina Library association, will make short talks. Music will be rendered by the choirs of the county training school, Sanford, and Dudley high school, city.

At tomorrow night's session, the principal address will be brought by Dr. Henry C. McDowell, president of Lincoln academy, Kings Mountain. A pageant depicting the 50-year development of A. and T. college will also be presented at this session.

The final general session is set for Saturday afternoon.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland
APR 26 1941

Dr. Seabrook Is Elected Head of N. C. Teachers

GREENSBORO, N. C.—Dr. J. W. Seabrook, president of Fayetteville State Teachers' College, was elected president of the North Carolina Negro Teachers Association at the final session of the sixtieth annual convention held at A. and T. College, last week, succeeding Mrs. Rose Aggrey of Salisbury.

J. A. Tarpley, supervising principal of the colored schools of Greensboro, was elected vice-president. Other officers elected include Mrs. Maude M. Jeffers, Jeanes supervisor of Gaston County schools, recording secretary, and Dr. A. Elder, dean, North Carolina College, treasurer.

O. V. Hall, principal of Price High School, Salisbury, and L. R. Best, principal of the colored high school, Wake Forest, were elected to the executive committee.

Defer Action on Reforms

Action on reform of organizational set-up to institute the representative assembly was deferred to the 1942 meeting which will be held at Winston-Salem Teachers' College, the week-end preceding the Easter holidays.

The consensus reached by the 3,000 teachers attending the conference was that the responsibility for establishing the first line of national defense by inculcating the principles of democracy into all the American people rests firmly upon the shoulders of education.

APR 26 1941

Among Speakers

Principal speakers at the general sessions were Dr. Raleigh Scherling, professor of education and director of practice teaching at the University of Michigan; N. C. Larabee, director of the NYA of North Carolina; Dr. Clyde A. Miller, president of Guilford College; A. J. Taylor, of New York City, colored Scout executive;

Mrs. Mary William of West Virginia, president of the American Teachers' Association; Lieut. H. A. Robinson of Fort Bragg; Dr. N. C. Newbold, State director of colored education; J. E. Simmons, State supervisor of vocational agriculture, and Dr. H. C. McDowell, president of Lincoln Academy, Kings Mountain.

Greensboro, N. C., News
April 10, 1941

TEACHERS CONVENTION TO OPEN HERE TODAY

Sixtieth Annual Convention of Negro Teachers to Be Held At A. and T.

The 60th annual convention of the North Carolina Negro Teachers association will be held at A. and T. college today through Saturday with approximately 4,000 teachers expected to be in attendance. Convention theme is "Educating for the Common Defense".

The first general session is set for tonight at 8 o'clock in Richard B. Harrison auditorium. The principal addresses will be delivered by N. C. Larabee, director of the NYA for North Carolina, and Dr. Raleigh Schorling, professor of education and supervisor of teaching at the University of Michigan.

Salutations will be brought the group from the city of Greensboro by Mayor Huger King; from the teachers of Guilford county; J. A. Tarpley, supervising principal of city negro schools, and from the colleges of the city by President David D. Jones, of Bennett college. The response will be made by Dean James T. Taylor, of North Carolina college, Durham. Music will be rendered by the A. and T. college a capella choir under direction of Warner Lawson.

Dr. Milner to Speak.

The second general session is set for tomorrow afternoon with the principal address to be delivered by Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of Guilford college. Others to appear on program will be the presentation of a pageant depicting 50 years of service by the negro scout executive, and J. E. Bowens, Jr., president of the North Carolina Library association.

The convention will adjourn Saturday afternoon following a business session at which the delegates will hear the reports of the various committees and officers, elect new principals' section, and select the time and place of the next meeting.

In addition to the general sessions, the following sections will hold meetings: College section, foreign language section, high school section, history and English section, science and mathematics section, elementary section, industrial arts section, home economics section, grammar grade section, art section, high school section, physical education, and adult education section.

Another feature on the same program tomorrow night, at general session will be the principal speaker of Lincoln academy, Kings Mountain, will be the principal speaker tonight.

The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

Akron Teachers Defend Negroes Against Terror

Union Local Forms Civil Rights Committee to Fight Attempted Frame-Ups Against Negro Youth Leaders

JAN 30 1941

(Special to the Daily Worker)

AKRON, Jan. 29.—To break the campaign of police terrorism here which has been directed mainly against Negroes in the trade union and youth movements, the American Federation of Teachers' local has set up a Civil Rights Committee.

It is the teachers' answer to frame-up charges of burglary which have been brought against Bennie Finney, Negro youth.

Bernard Jones, president of the Akron Youth Council, was severely beaten recently when he was looking for the home of a friend. The police are attempting to bring a charge of attempted burglary against him.

The most recent violation of civil rights here was the arrest of an auto worker who was distributing union literature. He was held on a charge of suspicion until union protests forced his release.

Columbia, S. C. State
April 4, 1941

Five Thousand Teachers At Palmetto Convention

Challenging and thought provoking addresses last night climaxed a big day of activities at the annual convention of the Palmetto State Teachers association, which officially opened sessions here in the morning.

Today the convention will close with group discussions continuing in the morning and two general sessions in the afternoon and evening at Township auditorium.

Speakers last night included Governor Burnet R. Maybank, Gen. Holmes Springs, State Superintendent J. H. Hope, J. P. Burgess, president Palmetto State Teachers' association; J. B. Randolph, president Claflin college, Orangeburg.

Governor Maybank urged 5,000 teachers attending the convention to train their pupils in hands and mind for skilled vocations, diversification in agriculture and live at home plans.

Governor Maybank, introduced by President M. F. Whittaker, South Carolina State A. and M. college, and speaking first on the program last night, began by commending the teachers who served in the registration last September and the physicians who have examined the registrants and advisers who have efficiently aided the draft boards.

In discussing the training of youth in the schools of South Carolina, Governor Maybank emphasized the necessity of training the youth to be skilled workers in this machine age "In agriculture we must train in diversification," he said.

Referring to teachers' pay, the governor said that it was a serious problem which must be faced in South Carolina. He said that he believed in good wages and good housing in South Carolina and that working together the problem would be solved.

General Springs, who was also introduced by President M. F. Whittaker and who came to the session with Governor Maybank, commended the teachers and others who had aided in the registration.

J. P. Burgess in his annual address called the teachers' attention to the part they must play in national defense. He said that the teachers must play in national defense. He said that the teachers must insure security of morale in boys and girls.

"If our nation is in truth to become the great arsenal of democracy, every school room in America must be a veritable fountain from which there will constantly come boys and girls who will sing with utmost sincerity 'God Bless America,' he said.

J. B. Randolph, president, Claflin college, Orangeburg, the guest speaker spoke from the subject, "The Importance of Schools in a Challenging Democracy."

He asserted that democracy has been challenged by Hitler and Mussolini who say that democracy is dead. "We are challenged to show that it is alive and to show that it is more than a mere political dogma," he declared.

"Answer must be that American democracy is a living thing. We are saying this in munition plants, in aid to Britain, in training camps, and in every aspect of American life."

"Intelligence will go a long way in solving the difficult problems arising in our democracy. Our faith in our democracy must be backed by a strong democratic school system."

W. A. Schiffley, assistant state agent for Negro schools, introduced State Superintendent J. H. Hope who congratulated the teachers on their professional attitude in going to summer school. He expressed his interest in Negro education and what had been done to improve conditions of Negro schools.

Today the convention closes with discussion groups busy in the morning and two general sessions in the afternoon and evening at the Township auditorium. Doxey A. Wilkerson, Washington, D. C., will deliver the main address tonight.

Columbia, S. C. State
April 2, 1941

Pre-Convention Parleys to Draw 4,000 Negro Teachers

The vanguard of 4,000 teachers of the Palmetto State Teachers association will arrive here today for preliminary sessions that precede the official opening of the annual convention here for two days beginning Thursday.

On the official program are scheduled two important preliminary meetings of the executive committee and the house of delegates. The executive committee will have a short session at convention headquarters, Benedict college at 5:30 Wednesday evening. The house of delegates will meet in Benedict college gymnasium at 7:30 p. m.

At 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, the Culture club, Columbia, presents a play "Meet the Wime." Teachers annually look forward to this presentation which is given to benefit Marion Birnie Wilkinson home for orphan girls

Governor Burnet R. Maybank prominent educators and administrators are scheduled to address the general sessions which will be held in the Township auditorium Thursday night, Friday afternoon and Friday night.

The first general session will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night. J. B. Randolph, president, Claflin college, Orangeburg, will deliver the principal address. Other addresses will be given by the president, Prof. J. P. Burgess, Dr. J. H. Hope, state superintendent of education, who will be introduced by W. A. Schiffley, assistant state agent for Negro schools. Governor Maybank will deliver a special message to the teachers Thursday night.

Doxey A. Wilkerson, associate professor of education, Howard university, Washington, D. C., will deliver the principal address to the teachers at the closing general session Friday night.

Thursday afternoon has been set aside for group reunions of schools. This new feature has given a place on the program to accommodate alumni and former students of schools who come here in large numbers from all parts of the state. The meeting places of these alumni groups have been included in the program and former students are especially urged to attend these interesting meetings.

Fourteen departmental groups are scheduled to begin their discussions at 9:30 Thursday morning. These groups areport to sessions that are to be held on the campuses of Benedict college and Allen university. Group discussions will continue at 9:30 Friday. Discussions and all addresses during the sessions will center about the general theme of the convention, "The School and National Defense."

Columbia, S. C. State
April 3, 1941

Palmetto Teachers Meeting Attracts Many to Columbia

Group Sessions Are Scheduled Today, Friday

The house of delegates plunged into the business of the annual convention of the Palmetto State Teachers association here last night when President J. P. Burgess and Executive Secretary C. V. Bing made reports.

Teachers arriving early overflowed the auditorium at Allen university to witness a production "Meet the Wife" which was presented by a strong cast. The play is sponsored annually as a part of the association program by the Culture club of Columbia for the benefit of the Marion Birnie Wilkinson Orphanage for Girls.

Departmental groups begin their discussions this morning of topics centered about the general theme of the convention "The School and National Defense" at assigned meeting places on the campuses of Benedict college and Allen university.

Group reunions of alumni and former students have been given the right of way on the program this afternoon.

Governor Burnet R. Maybank will speak at the opening general meeting which will be held in the Township Auditorium tonight. J. B. Randolph, president Claflin college, Orangeburg, is guest speaker tonight. H. C. Brewer, Hartsville, vice president, will preside at the opening general session.

Others on tonight's program at the Township Auditorium are J. P. Burgess, who will deliver the president's annual address, J. H. Hope, state superintendent of education, W. A. Schiffley, assistant state agent of Negro schools; J. M. McAllister, Tomlinson high school of Kingstree.

Thomas W. Newberry of Barnwell will sing and Jessie Dixon of Darington county will lead "God Bless America" at the opening of the session. Claflin college and South Carolina State A. & M college of Orangeburg are also on the program for musical selections by their respective choirs.

Departmental groups and their presiding officials who will start discussion this morning are: primary group, Mary H. Wright, Allen university auditorium; elementary group, L. A. Cain, Allen university gymnasium; English group, I. C. Wiley, Jr., Allen university; mathematics group, F. M. Jones, Benedict college; natural science group, H. C. McClendon, Benedict college; rural teachers' group, Ida E. Green, Benedict college auditorium; American Vocational association, W. A. White; trades group, W. V. Harper, Benedict; principals' group, R. W. McGirt, Allen university; social science group, Hilda V. Grayson and M. A. Broadnax, Benedict college.

Departmental groups will continue discussions Friday morning. Group meetings Friday morning include library group, A. R. Nix, presiding, Waverly branch library and home economics group, Willie Mae White, presiding, Bishop Memorial church.

The parent-teacher group, meeting on Wednesday at Benedict college discussed "The Place of Education in Defense." J. Perry, state president, presided.

The house of delegates and the executive committee will meet in many special sessions Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Suggestions and recommendations will be considered and final disposition of reports from discussions groups and various subcommittees will be heard. Delegates to the convention of the American Teachers association and other business matters will be taken up when the convention holds a general business session at the Auditorium Friday afternoon.

Doxey A. Wilkerson, associate professor of education, Howard university, Washington, D. C., is guest speaker for the closing general session which will be held Friday night at the Auditorium.

A record attendance of teachers and visitors is expected here during the two-day convention. The local committee is ready to accommodate all who inquire at convention headquarters at Benedict college.

Columbia, S. C. State
March 22, 1941

'UNITED WE STAND.'

Ten thousand strong, 10,017 to be precise the school teachers stand, in South Carolina the white teachers, that is; and the Negro teachers too are organized. No need to labor the obvious fact: This array implies high potential strength, to whatever purpose it shall be directed. Which fact it is not to be expected the legislators shall quite ignore.

Columbia, S. C. Record
April 1, 1941

4,000 Teachers To Attend Palmetto State Sessions

The Palmetto State Teachers association will open its annual convention Thursday morning with a series of departmental meetings at Benedict college. Between 4,000 and 5,000 teachers are expected to attend.

The first general session will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Township auditorium with J. P. Burgess, president of the association presiding, and an address to be made by Dr. J. B. Randolph, president of Claflin college.

Governor Burnet R. Maybank and State Superintendent of Education James H. Hope will also speak.

E. R. Crow, president of the South Carolina Education association, will speak at a session Friday afternoon at 2:30. Also on the program is Modjeska Simkin, director of the Negro program of the Tuberculosis association.

The final session will be held at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the auditorium with the main address by Doxey A. Wilkerson, associate professor of education at Howard university in Washington.

Spartanburg, S. C. Journal
April 7, 1941

Spartanburg Negro Teachers Are Given Positions

Negro teachers attending the annual convention of the Palmetto Teachers association in Columbia last week, at which Hudson L Barksdale, Spartanburg teacher was elected delegate to the meeting of the national organization have returned to their homes.

Mary H. White was unanimously re-elected as state chairman of the primary department and C. C. Woodson was named district chairman. The national convention will be held at Institute, W. Va., in July.

All records for attendance were shattered with a reported attendance of 5,628 teachers.

The local associaton will hold the last meeting of the school year Saturday at the community building on Evins street at 11 o'clock. Newly elected officers will be installed and reports of local members to the house of delegates will be heard. The delegates are Barksdale, president of the local group, E. F. Rivers and C. C. Woodson.

Sumter, S. C. Daily Item
July 24, 1941

Negro Teachers Granted Charter

Columbia, July 24.—(AP)—The Palmetto State Teachers' Association, with headquarters in Columbia, was chartered yesterday by Secretary of State W. P. Blackwell as an eleemosynary corporation.

In its articles of incorporation, the negro association said its purpose was to "improve its members in the science and art of teaching, to solicit and promote public interest and sympathy in the cause of education and to raise eth standard of the profession of teaching."

Officers listed were: John P. Burgess, Orangeburg, president; H. C. Brewer, Hartsville, vice president; C. V. Bing, Allendale, secretary and Ida E. Greene, Florence, treasurer.

Palmetto Leader
Columbia, S. C.

THE PALMETTO TEACHERS

APR 12 1941

The recent session of the Palmetto State Teachers' Convention brought to Columbia thousands of teachers from all parts of South Carolina. According to the records more than 5,000 teachers in the schools of South Carolina are members of the organization, or about 100 per cent of the teachers in our public schools and colleges.

APR 12 1941

This huge enrollment means something. The teachers have been educated in more than modern trends in education. The teachers know the value and power to come from an influential organization, hence, they feel it their first duty to pay the Annual Dollar which gives them membership in their Association.

We note from the published records that the State Association has paid back to the County Association since 1935 more than $12,000 from the Annual Dollar money paid in. Therefore, the dollar is running the County and State organizations. Out of this dollar they also maintain a lawyer to look after legal matters

The Executive Committee of the Palmetto Association is meeting the condition in the teachers' crisis like heroes. They have made an able request before legislative committees for equal salaries for equal service for all teachers in the public schools. They also asked for transportation for Negro pupils where needed. They have discussed any form of compromise thru increase in salary schedules instead of a schedule of equalization.

It takes crises to make men. In this crisis the Executive Committee have shown up to great advantage, and they are backed by the House of Delegates representing the State organization. This was evidenced in the convention here last week.

APR 12 1941

President John P. Burgess has displayed very fine leadership in directing the affairs of the Palmetto State Teachers' Association in a time that "tries men's souls."

18x-1941

Chattanooga, Tenn., Daily Times
January 10, 1941

COLORED TEACHERS ASK NEGRO ON SCHOOL BOARD

Election of the school board members by a popular vote, and a provision that at least one member of the board should be a Negro was recommended yesterday as a necessary preliminary step to consolidation of the city and county school systems by the executive committee of the Mountain City Teachers' Association (union, colored A. F. of L. affiliate).

In a statement issued by C. B. Robinson, president of the union, it was said that a desirable and sound consolidation plan should include the following principles:

"The board of education should be elected by popular vote, and given control of school policies and properties. The said board should be representative, that is, a majority ratio of representatives should be elected from the city, and at least one a Negro member.

"The supervisory staff should be representative, with at least one Negro member.

"The measure should provide for a definite salary schedule that would apply alike to white and Negro employes.

"The measure should require that a certain portion of the tax rate per $100 property assessment be earmarked for educational purposes.

"The measure should give protection to all city teachers not now licensed by the state to teach.

"The measure should protect the recent gains of teachers; namely pensions and tenure.

"It should provide for the equalization of the Negro schools with the white schools, both city and county in all respects."

Chattanooga, Tenn., Free Press
March 22, 1941

COLORED P.-T.A. TO HOLD PUBLIC EVENT SUNDAY

Mrs. Cassell, Mrs. Knox Among Speakers in Howard High Meet

Following is the program for the annual public meeting of the Council of Colored Parents and Teachers at Howard High School Auditorium on Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

The Childhood's Appeal—Juanita Miller, Frank A. Jones, Jr., Alfred F. Jones.

Remarks—Mrs. Aubura H. Fagala, president of Colored P.-T.A. Council.

Invocation—Rev. C. W. Stantley, pastor of First Congregational Church.

Highlights of Council Activities—Mrs. Genevieve F. Jones, secretary.

Music—Howard High School.

Address—Mrs. T. L. Landress, president City P.-T.A.

Music—Booker T. Washington High School.

Address—Mrs. Arthur L. Rankin, president County P.-T.A.

Address—"The Part the Parent-Teacher Should Play in the Total Defense of America," Mrs. Sam Cassell, fifth vice-president of the National Council.

Music—P.-T.A. Chorus.

Address—Mrs. U. L. Knox, Cleveland, Tenn.

Music—P.-T.A. Chorus.

Remarks—Prof. W. J. Davenport, principal Howard High School.

Music—P.-T.A. Chorus.

Benediction—Rev. E. L. Hickman, pastor Warren Chapel A.M.E. Church.

TENNESSEE
Nashville, Tenn. Tennessean
March 23, 1941

Over 10,000 Teachers Expected Here for April Session of T. E. A.

H. R. Knickerbocker

Dr. Howard Dawson

Josh Lee

Secretary Holt Lists Speakers for Three-Day Meeting

More than 10,000 elementary, high school and college teachers from all parts of Tennessee will be in Nashville Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 10, 11 and 12 for the 76th annual convention of the Tennessee Education Association, Andrew D. Holt, executive secretary of the association, announced last night.

Visiting speakers to address the convention will include United States Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma, H. R. Knickerbocker, International News Service war correspondent, and Dr. Howard Dawson, director of rural education for the National Education Association.

ENTERTAINMENT FEATURES

Entertainment features of the meeting will be an educational pageant called "On Our Way," in which more than 500 Nashville high school students will take part, and a series of band concerts presented by crack high school bands from various parts of the state.

"Registration for this year's meeting already is greater than it has been for the past several years," said Holt last night, "and we confidently expect that the convention will be one of the most successful in the history of the association."

Thirty departmental meetings, to be presided over by many of the state's leading educators, will be held during the three day session, according to Holt, who added that a number of interesting reports on modern trends in public education also would be presented during the convention.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers will be:

V. L. Jones, educational representative of Keystone View Company, Danville, Ind.

Dr. H. Keith Humble, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

Miss Margaret M. Edwards, head, Home Economics Department, Woman's College, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C.

Dr. Carl Stotz, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburg.

Thomas Ausbury, National Safety Council, Chicago.

Dr. Arthur Steinhaus, George Williams College, Chicago.

A. J. Lawrence, head, Department of Business Education, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

W. Gayle Starnes, administrative assistant to the president, University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Jean Allen, special teacher of speech arts with the Little Rock Public Schools, Little Rock, Ark.

Dr. A. C. Ellis, superintendent, American Printing House for the Blind, Louisville.

Dr. Lee Roy Norvelle, Department of Speech, Indiana University, Bloomington.

Dr. Graves Haydon Thompson, Hampden-Sydney College, Hampden-Sydney, Va.

Monsieur Jean-Paul Freyss, editor of Voici, New York City.

Dr. Paul E. Elicker, executive secretary, National Association of School Principals, Washington.

Dr. Claire T. Zyve, New York University, New York City.

Dr. R. B. Eleazer, executive secretary, Conference on Education and Race Relations, Atlanta.

Nashville, Tenn. Banner
April 9, 1941

Negro Educators To Meet Tomorrow

The nineteenth annual session of the Tennessee Negro Education Association will be held tomorrow and Friday at the A&I State Teachers College with Gov. Prentice Cooper and State Commissioner of Education B. O. Duggan scheduled to make special addresses.

A special feature of the 1941 session will be the awarding of certificates of merit to members of the association who have taught in Tennessee schools for twenty-five years or more. Presentation will be made at the annual banquet, Friday at 6 p. m. in the college cafeteria.

Nashville Tenn Tennessean
Apr 10, 1941

NEGRO EDUCATORS OF STATE TO MEET

19th Annual Session To Open Tonight at A. and I.; To Close Saturday

More than 1,000 Negro teachers from every section of Tennessee will be in Nashville during the next three days for the 19th annual session of the Tennessee Negro Education Association.

The three day meeting will open tonight on the campus of A. & I. College with addresses by Prof. Joe Thomas of Lawrenceburg, H. C. Trenholm, president of Alabama State College for Negroes, and nomination of new officers.

FRIDAY ADDRESSES

The program for Friday will include addresses by Professor Walter Chivers of Atlanta University; Mordecai Johnson, a native of Paris, Tenn., and now president of Howard University, Washington, the world's largest Negro school; Governor Prentice Cooper, Commissioner of Education B. O. Duggan; and Dr. Sue Powers, superintendent of Shelby County Schools.

Friday afternoon will be devoted to departmental meetings, followed by the annual banquet at 6 o'clock at the A. &. I. cafeteria.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be Dr. J. E. Walker, of Memphis, president of the National Negro Business League. The banquet will also include presentation of more than 50 certificates to Negroes who have taught in Tennessee schools for more than 25 years.

The banquet will be followed by a play, "Dark Victory," to be presented at 8 o'clock in the A. & I. auditorium by the State College Players Guild, a reception at 10 o'clock at the home of President W. J. Hale, and the annual dance at 10:30 o'clock in the college recreation hall.

The convention will close Saturday morning with a business session and an address by W. J. Hale, Jr., state director of NYA for Negroes.

Knoxville Tenn Journal
April 21, 1941

State Negro P-TA To Meet

The convention of the Tennessee Congress of Colored Parent Teacher Associations will be held in Knoxville, April 24-26, at Austin High School. Approximately 300 delegates are expected.

The program will include a P-TA school of instruction Thursday morning, a tree-planting ceremony, a one-act play contest between the three districts of Tennessee, and departmental meetings.

Dr. Florence Essery of University of Tennessee will speak on "The P-TA Program for the Exceptional Child." Dr. John Chenault of Tuskegee will talk on "P-TA Work and the Crippled Children's Hospital." Other speakers will include Miss Rachel Taylor of Nashville and Miss Fanny Clay.

Charles F. Johnson of Fisk University is president of the association.

Nashville, Tenn. Tennessean
April 12, 1941

NEGRO GROUP TO END MEET

Teachers To Hear Hale; More Than 1,000 at Session

The 19th annual meeting of the Tennessee Negro Education Association will close this morning on the campus of A. and I. College with a short business session and an address by W. J. Hale, Jr., state director of NYA for Negroes.

More than 1,000 Negro teachers from all parts of the state attended the meeting which opened Thursday with addresses by Prof. Joseph Thomas of Lawrenceburg and H. C. Trenholm, president of Alabama State College for Negroes.

Yesterday a number of departmental meetings were held, together with a banquet at the A. and I. cafeteria, addressed by Dr. J. E. Walker, of Memphis, president of the National Negro Business League. During the banquet certificates were presented to more than 50 Negroes who have taught in Tennessee schools for more than 25 years.

Following the banquet, a play, "Dark Victory," was presented in the school auditorium by the State College Players Guild. Later a reception was held in the home of President W. J. Hale, after which there was a dance in the college recreation hall.

Dr. Sue Powers, superintendent of Shelby County schools, and Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University, Washington, the world's largest Negro school, were among speakers at yesterday's meetings.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Teachers Decide On Dallas, Texas

FEB 5 1941

DALLAS— (ANP)—High points of the recent meeting of the executive committee of the Colored Teachers State association were the choosing of Dallas as the place of the next annual meeting, the cutting of the annual budget by approximately $1.000 and joining the citizens of Harrison county and other citizens of the state in a petition to the educational board of the M. E. church to retain Dr. M. W. Dogan as president of Wiley college.

The invitation to hold the next meeting in Dallas was presented by Prof. T. W. Pratt principal of the Julia C. Frazier school. Letters of invitation from the mayor, chambers of commerce, board of education, professional clubs, social clubs, the YMCA and YWCA in a neatly bound volume were presented to the committee at the close of the speech of invitation of Prof. Pratt. The acceptance of the invitation was unanimous.

MANY JOIN

Reports of the complete fiscal year as made by Miss Hazel Harvey, secretary-treasurer of the association and J. W. Rice, executive secretary, indicated that the association had held its increase in membership of 1939 and had increased that number by approximately 100 others with more than 30 of the collectors not making complete reports.

Looking toward the expansion of the program of the association and the increase in the permanent fund, sharp cuts were made in the annual budget. The largest item was $900 annually which was taken from the salary of the executive secretary. Much attention was also paid to the method used by the association in its gifts and studies are now being made by which its annual donations may be more nearly systematized. In spite of the budget reductions the program of the association will in no way be decreased or rendered less efficient.

licitly for this little town.

The committee unanimously voted to join a committee of citizens of Harrison county and other leading organizations and individuals of the state in a petition to the educational board of the M. E. church to retain Dr. M. W. Dogan is president of Wiley College.

FEB 2 1941

The tentative program of President H. B. Pembertnn, Jr., around the general theme "Creative Education" was daopted by the committee. In its first draft the program will bring into facus all of the present situations and conditions of Negro education in the state as well as the part which the various agencies of the government, both state and national, are playing in the solution of the everyday problems of Negro youth.

It is probable that several outstanding authorities on Negro education from other states will be invited to appear on the program.

Newport News, Va. Press
February 15, 1941

Negro Teachers Planning Panel Discussion Here

The Newport News Negro Teachers' association will sponsor a panel discussion at a meeting to take place at 4 Sunday afternoon at Trinity Baptist church, Thirtieth street and Chestnut avenue, it was announced yesterday.

Those to take part in the discussion will be Roscoe Lewis, instructor at Hampton institute and principal author of the WPA writers project, "The Negro in Virginia;" J. R. Picott, principal of John Marshall school; Dorothy E. Palmer, William Hale Thompson, Mrs. Nora Bell Taylor and Gladys Davis, teachers in the local school system, and S. A. Hayes, editor of the Norfolk Journal and Guide.

The subject of the discussion will be "Are We the Test of Democracy?" After the speakers have been heard, the audience will be allowed to express their views on a list of 12 questions.

Roanoke, Va., World News
March 14, 1941

Negro Patrons File Petition

McQuilkin Elected For Four-Year Term

P-TA representatives urged upon the city school board last night a broad program of urgently needed additions and improvements to the physical plant of the public school system.

Lack of funds was again cited by the school board, which took no positive action on any of the petitions but promised the delegations that all possible would be done to effect the needed improvements.

D. E. McQuilkin, superintendent of schools, was unanimously re-elected for another four-year term. It was announced that Jefferson high school commencement exercises in June would be held in the American theatre instead of in the Roanoke auditorium, a move recommended by Principal John D. Riddick and now made necessary by a previous engagement of the auditorium.

Delegations and petitions were received by the board from the Central council, Parent-Teacher association (white), and from the Negro Parent-Teacher alliance.

Both petitions called for consideration of a broad program of needs, but Superintendent McQuilkin reminded the board of a petition received at the last meeting from Northwest citizens asking for a junior high school and other improvements there, and of another petition being circulated in the Virginia Heights-Raleigh Court section for completion of the Woodrow Wilson junior high school plant there.

Taking no positive action, the board nevertheless reacted favorably to the suggestion of the Central Council's recommendation that "a complete survey of . . . buildings, grounds, equipment and other physical needs" be made by the State Planning board and the State Board of Education, "looking to a comprehensive program for modernization of the entire system."

The Planning board, it is understood, will make such surveys at no cost to the community.

The Central Council petition bore the signatures of representatives of P-TA units or principals of 16 white schools, and of Mrs. Claude G. Brice, president of the Central Council.

The colored organization asked a centrally located junior high school and an elementary school for the colored community in Southwest, and a full-time music teacher for negro schools, in addition to relief of several conditions at Harrison elementary school and Lucy Addison high school. Dr. H. T. Penn, colored dentist, was chairman of the committee signing the petition and presenting it to the board.

A survey conducted over a considerable period by the negro organization of patrons revealed, the petition set forth, that both Addison and Harrison facilities and teachers are badly overtaxed. It cited the inadequacy of the auditorium and cafeteria space at Harrison for junior high school pupils, the complete lack of library, physical education, and art instruction facilities there, and declared that improvised classrooms are being used in the basement and that bus transportation facilities are inadequate.

With regard to Addison, the petition recommends lockers to safeguard possessions of pupils from theft shades for classrooms and auditorium, a push cart to remove chairs from the auditorium-gymnasium floor, slats and lockers for shower rooms, pads for gymnasium radiators, lavatory facilities, cleaning and covering of lounge in the pupils' rest room, and a full-time probation officer.

The board authorized installation of new toilet equipment in both the boys' and girls' rest rooms at Norwich school at a probable cost of $425.

Among minor matters of business transacted by the board were the following:

Declined to change a previous regulation and denied a request from the Monroe P.-T. A. that pupils be permitted to sell magazine subscriptions to raise funds for a motion picture projector.

Authorized taking out of a $25 membership in the superintendents' division of the National Education association in order to receive a survey service.

Approved the renting of an apartment in which defense classes in home economics may gain practical experience, the cost to be refunded by the state.

18y-1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Says Race Should Be Willing To Serve In Any Capacity

Discrimination Over-Stressed, Tuskegee's Patterson Asserts

MAR 21 1941

By SAMUEL A. BOYES

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(ANP)—While admitting that the Negroes were perhaps receiving the least share of the plums of democracy President F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee in a public address here opined that "opportunity to serve in any capacity" was more important at the moment than such "over-stressed" matters as discrimination in the army and navy.

Dr. Patterson was the keynote speaker on the program observing the 27th annual session of the National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers in Tullibody Hall, State Teachers college. The theme of the session was: " The P.-T. A. and National Defense."

DESERVES OPPORTUNITY

He stated that one of the primary aims of national defense was fulfilling Negro needs to the point where the group would have more respect for the fundamental assumptions of democracy and would thus be more honest and sincere when called to the colors of his country. On his past record in itself the Negro was deserving of an equal opportunity to join in the countrywide effort to insure national defense.

History would prove that when the Negro had had less under the democratic way than he has today he stood loyal to his country in the time of need. He said the improved attitude of the government towards the Negro could be interpreted as an appreciation of his contribution in the past.

"We are beginning to see this appreciation in the increase of the number of Negroes who are receiving state and federal jobs and the general admittance that we are fully capable of holding positions of trust. However, at the moment it seems to me," remarked Dr. Patterson, "that we are asking for a lot of things that are not of immediate importance though they aim at noteworthy ideals. One that is of apparent import to a lot of people is that we should be integrated in companies and regiments with white soldiers, claiming that the discrimination of the naion's soldiers on the grounds of color and race is a breach of democratic procedure.

MAR 21 1941

MUST FACE FACTS

"All that is admirable but what we should be concerned with at the moment is an opportunity to serve in any capacity . . . an opportunity to demonstrate our ability to function . . . an opportunity to participate in whatever capacity our country needs us.

We must give a pracical approach to national events. This is the way to make sound progress not only in matters pertaining to race, but in any matter where it is not desired to proceed by revolutionary tactics and reach ideals by upsettin the whole existing structure.

"We should know that we live in a world which also has narrow, prejudiced people and if we are to move towards a better cvilization we must begin now to appreciate this fact. A greater understanding of the deficiences of other people and a mutual appreciation of these deficiences would lead to a greater life. We should stop fretting too much about discrimination and focus our attention on g etting an opportunity on a basis of equality.

Pointing out that the ordinary everyday problems of life and national defense were closely interrelated Dr. Patterson said that too much credit could not be given to the parents, "those who operate at home."

FIGHT AT HOME

"More often than not, it is the toil, thinking, planning and sometimes tears of those back home which helps us to meet the requirements of the fine human being that the new society is clamoring for. Sometimes we are likely to forget these hardships having grown so acustomed to their fruits.

MAR 21 1941

"But since everyday living and the importance of living as soundly and practically as we know how is part of this great national defense, we should not underestimate the teacher or parent who is much closer to these problems than any other citizen. Much of the fight for national defense will be fought by those who are out of uniform—teachers and parents are the most impartial of this group Their contribution cannot be underplayed," he stated.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

NEWS FROM THE TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

MAR 20 1941

Southern Association Of Drama And Speech Arts To Hold Annual Conference

The Southern Association of Drama and Speech Arts will hold its sixth annual Conference, April 24, 25, 26, on the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

Professor S. Randolph Edmonds president of the Association, announces that an unusually large number of member schools have indicated their intention of being represented by a large delegation of students and teachers interested in drama and speech.

E. Saunders Walker, director of Dramatics at Tuskegee Institute, host school to the conference, is enlarging and adding to facilities of the Little Theater on the campus better to accommodate guest dramatic groups who are expected for the play festival.

President Edmonds stated in a recent interview that he hoped every school in the Association would send at least on representation to the spring conference, as he had been assured by B. B. Walcott, conference program chairman, that the program included features to stimulate the activity and challenge the thinking of every student of the drama and speech arts.

MAR 20 1941

Tuskegee Has Weaving School

For the first time in its long history of service to rural folk, Tuskegee is this spring holding a weaving school on the campus. The weaving school is another phase of the increased emphasis of the program of Tuskegee's School of Education to improve and develop native customs and crafts in the rural areas.

The Tuskegee weaving school opened March 5 and will continue for two months. Miss Susan R. Christian, a pupil of Miss Z. H. Van Hall, weaving expert with the F. S. A., has been engaged to teach the weaving. Patterns and methods of peasant weaving throughout the world occupy the dents enrolled in the school.

The weaving school is conducted under the joint sponsorship of the Farm Security Administration, Tuskegee Institute, and the Rosenwald Fund. The Rosewald Fund is financing the project.

Gadsden Ala. Call-Post
3-8-41

Students to Exchange Negro Colleges

Mr. Chung Ho from Foochow, China, was enrolled in the Tuskegee Institute School School of Agriculture for 1939-40 as the first "exchange" in the Tuskegee exchange-student program. War conditions in the far East have postponed the year of residence in China for the Tuskegee student.

Early this year, Mr. Arthur Wiser, majoring in integrated work programs and cooperatives at Cornell University came to Tuskegee for a period as interne consultant with the cadet teachers of the School of Education stationed in the rural laboratory teaching centers. The work program is under the supervision of Dr. J. Max Bond, Director of the School of Education. A Tuskegee man is to be selected as exchange student to go to Cornell in the near future.

From Hampton Institute has come Miss Greta Lee to study weaving in the special weaving school to open March 5, and pottery design and glazing. According to the plan, a young woman, physical education major, will go to Hampton to study dancing.

From Atlanta University, Mr. Haywood Oubree, has come to Tuskegee to study in native craft, African and local, and re-designing.

Plans are in the making for an exchange student from Tuskegee to study native craft in the Bahamas during the summer, 1941.

Montgomery, Ala. Journal
March 12, 1941

FORD ATTENDS DEDICATION AT TUSKEGEE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 12.—(AP)—Henry Ford, on a visit to Tuskegee Institute, participated yesterday in dedication of George Washington Carver Museum, where exhibits and records of the negro scientist's works are preserved.

Ford, who was accompanied on the visit by his wife and a secretary, conferred for more than an hour with Dr. Carver before going to the dedication ceremony, where he and Mrs. Ford inserted soy bean plastics and soy fibres into a concrete slab. Both inscribed their names in the cement.

Later Dr. Carver said he and the industrialist discussed utilization of soy plastics and fibres and similar materials made of unused native products.

Ford also watched Tuskegee Institute aviation students at the school airport while Mrs. Ford visited the home economics department. The party lunched here before their departure.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

To Discuss Problems Of Modern Medicine At Annual Clinic Of The John A. Andrew Society

MAR 22 1941

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala.—Many problems facing modern medicine will be discussed at the 30th Annual Clinic and the 24th Annual Meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which will be held at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital Tuskegee Institute, April 6-11, it was stated here by Dr. John A. Kenney, Medical Director. "More than 300 of the leading physicians and surgeons of the nation are expected to come to Tuskegee to appear on the program and to participate in the discussions," Dr. Kenney said.

Such pressing and vital topics as tuberculosis, cancer venereal diseases, nutrition maternal and infant hygiene, and the use of sufanilamide will be discussed during the week. New methods in the treatment of these diseases will be presented in scientific papers by nationally-prominent medical authorities. MAR 22 1941

Of especial interest to the profession will be discussions by Dr. Roderick Brown of Pittsburgh, who will lecture on tuberculosis; Dr. T. K. Lawless of Chicago, will present the subject of syphillis, and Dr. C. Leon Wilson of Provident Hospital, Chicago, will give instructions in obstetrics.

Dr. Kenney stated that he had been authorized by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer of Alabama, to say that a special feature this year will be a Public Health Institute which will be conducted by the State Health Department of Alabama and the National Tuberculosis Association which will be held at the Institute Hospital on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 3, 4, and 5. This feature is expected to attract a large attendance.

The New School of Midwifery, conducted co-jointly by the Children's Bureau in Washington, the Rosenwald Fund the Alabama State Department of Health and Tuskegee Institute, will open the week of the Clinic. This is said to be the first school of its kind, and its object is to give special training to graduate nurses to fit them for midwifery in the rural districts.

Opportunity will be given the visiting physicians and others in attendance upon the Founder's Day exercises to inspect the new and recently opened $161,350. Infantile Paralysis Unit of the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, the Maternal Service which accommodates over two hundred maternity patients annually; the Pediatric Service; the Crippled Children's Service; the Venereal Disease Service with a traveling clinic carrying examinations and treatment five days a week in every part of the country. MAR 22 1941

The usual large number of persons seeking medical attention are expected to avail themselves of the clinic for a correction of their disabilities.

Dr. Eugene H. Dibble manager, Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala., is cooperating with the staff of the Tuskegee Institute Hospital in arranging clinics for the visiting physicians.

Dr. F. D. Patterson president, will welcome the members of the medical profession to the Institute and will appear on various programs during the week.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Institute Faculty Member Dies

APR 1 - 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA., March 31.—Miss Annie Canty Garner, a native of Columbus, Ga., who graduated from Tuskegee Institute in 1901, died here today after an illness of several months. She had been a member of the Tuskegee Institute Staff for more than 50 years and was retired four years ago.

APR 1 - 1941

Funeral arrangements will be announced.

Montgomery Ala Advertiser
March 8, 1941

Edmund H. Burke Passes At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, ALA., March 7.—(AP)—Edmund H. Burke, comptroller of Tuskegee Institute, died here today, after having been stricken yesterday while at his desk. He did not regain consciousness.

Burke was one of the founders of the American Tennis Association, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, and during the first World War was adjutant of the 369th Infantry, New York.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Tuskegee Sends Debaters On Tour

MAR 29 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Five members of the Tuskegee Institute Debate Society with the head debate coach and a faculty adviser, left Thursday, March 26 for an extended tour.

The Tuskegee team will meet New York City College in a non-decision debate on the question of permanent untion of the Latin American countries in the Western Hemisphere with Tuskegee defending the negative. On April 4, they will take part in a radio debate with students of Columbia University on the subject of conscription. The debate is scheduled for 1:05 p. m., eastern standard time.

On the evening of April 4, the Tuskegeeans go to Brooklyn College to discuss the anti-lynching bill.

Enroute to New York, the Tuskegee Debaters are scheduled to debate South Carolina State College at Orangeburg, March 26; Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C., March 28; Howard University, Washington, D. C., March 31. The team will be the guests of Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va., March 29, and will debate Morgan College at Baltimore, April 2.

On the return trip the Tuskegeeans have tentative engagements at West Virginia State College, and Bluefield Institute, Bluefield, W. Va. MAR 29 1941

The personnel of the tour will include Emmett Henderson, instructor in history and economics, head debate coach; Nathaniel Colley, president of the Tuskegee Debate Society; Dorinda Duncan, William Calhoun, William Dobson, Theodore Johnson, and B. B. Walcott, faculty adviser.

This is the second tour of the season for Tuskegee.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Red Cross Rally Held At Tuskegee

MAR 30 1941

The Southern Negro Junior Red Cross rally was held at Tuskegee Institute March 28-29. Junior Red Cross representatives of 11 states were in attendance. Mrs. Thelma S. Morris, school supervisor; Miss Cora McHaney, Lillian Dabney School; Miss Mary Louise Johnson, Montgomery County Training School; Mrs. Ruth Vines, Carver School. Professor J. A. Edwards, Booker T. Washington High School and Miss Myrtle Tennille Tankersley School, were representatives from Montgomery.

The meeting was opened Friday. A banquet was held Friday night. The Saturday meeting included the Junior Red Cross business meeting and report of junior delegates, Adult Junior Red Cross leaders round table, and a sightseeing tour to the U. S. Veterans Facility, Tuskegee Institute grounds and buildings. MAR 30 1941

Livingston L. Blair, assistant national director of the American Junior Red Cross attended the rally and was one of the featured speakers. Mrs. Ethel B. Matson, of the National Junior Red Cross Staff, was in charge of the Adult Junior Red Cross leaders Round Table.

The Junior Red Cross operates in the schools and the Montgomery representatives were sent to the rally as delegates from the Montgomery County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Mrs. Ruby Rogers Nichols is chairman of the Chapter's Junior Red Cross Committee and her plans now are to enroll every school in the city and county in Junior Red Cross. The delegates to the rally will assist Mrs. Nichols in this work.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Mrs. Bethune Speaks to 50C At Banquet

MAR 29 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, director, division of Negro affairs, National Youth Administration, was guest speaker for the annual banquet of the Associated Women Students of Tuskegee Institute, March 28. Five hundred guests heard her address.

Miss Ozella Holman, senior in the school of education and president of the AWS who presided, welcomed the friends and the high school young women from various sections of the south, co-honorees with the senior college women. The latter were presented by Miss Ruth Lucas of Stamford, Conn., a senior in the school of education.

PRESENTED BY DEAN

Mrs. Bethune was presented by Mrs. Jessie Parkhurst Guzman, dean of women of Tuskegee Institute. MAR 29 1941

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the institute, in the closing remarks paid tribute to the unparalleled contribution that Mrs. Bethune has made to the welfare of the youth of her race.

During the evening, musical selections were rendered by the Tuskegee Institute concert orchestra. Jesse Chambliss, baritone soloist of the Tuskegee Institute choir, sang a solo.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
March 12, 1941

Ford Visitor At Tuskegee

Auto Manufacturer And Party Spend Several Hours At Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., March 11.—Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, accompanied by Mrs. Ford and a secretary, spent several hours at Tuskegee Institute today conferring with Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, and Dr. George W. Carver, Tuskegee's distinguished scientist.

Mr. Ford arrived at Chehaw in his private car early Tuesday morning and was met by President Patterson and hurried to Dorothy Hall, where Dr. Carver awaited him. After he and Mrs. Ford had signed the official visitors' book, Mr. Ford went to Dr. Carver's quarters where they were left alone for an hour's conference. Immediately following the conference Mr. Ford participated in the dedication of the George W. Carver Museum by the insertion of plastics made of soy beans and soy fiber into a concrete slab.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ford inscribed their name in the cement. The ceremony was witnessed by several institute officials and a group of students. The slab is prominently located in the museum and signifies the interest of Mr. Ford and Dr. Carver in the industrial utilization of farm crops.

Mr. Ford visited with Dr. Carver in the museum and manifested keen interest in the native fibers that are on exhibit, and the uses that have been made of waste material. He later visited the Tuskegee Institute airport and expressed considerable interest in the progress that the students are making in the program and the future that aviation offers. While at the airport students in the secondary course of instruction were going through their maneuvers. Several took off and landed.

Mrs. Ford was shown through the girls' industrial building and the department of home economics and expressed delight in the preparation of the Tuskegee women students for useful and successful living.

After having lunch in Dorothy Hall the distinguished visitors were welcomed and shown the grounds of the Veterans Hospital by Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, manager, and thence to Chehaw, where they boarded their private car for Atlanta.

18y-1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Ft. Valley Music Recorded

MAR 14 1941

MAR 14 1941

Saunders Walker of the Tuskegee Institute Department of Education is shown making a record of the "Smithie's Band," a prize winner in the String Band Division of the Fort Valley State College Music Festival held last week. The prize winning musicians, washboard and all, hail from Macon, Ga.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Last Rites Held For E. H. Burke

Tuskegee Comptroller Laid to Rest

MAR 12 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS)--Funeral services for Edmond H. Burke, Comptroller of Tuskegee Institute and Secretary of the Board of Trustees, who died here Friday Morning, following a brief illness, were held in the Institute Chapel at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. William Byrd Lee, Rector, St. Andrew Mission of the Episcopal church, was in charge of the services. He was assisted by Chaplain Harry V. Richardson, Rev. Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist church; and Rev. T. R. Newman, pastor of Washington Chapel, AME church, both of the Institute Community.

MAR 12 1941

Mr. Burke was born on the Island of Montserrat, British West Indies, of an old and distinguished family, and was educated in the school of the Island at Martinique. He spent several years in the British government and was frequently commended for the high character of his work as well as for his loyalty to his superiors.

CAME HERE IN 1905

Coming to this country in 1905 he secured employment in the New York subway system. Because of his keen interest in his work and his willingness to serve in various capacities, he won rapid promotion and attracted the attention of L. P. Hollander and Company, of Boston, operating one of the large and successful department stores in New York City.. Mr. Burke remained with this company for 26 years and rose from junior clerk to auditor.

MAR 12 1941

He came to Tuskegee Institute in 1934 to serve as comptroller, succeeding Mr. Charles H. Gibson, Sr., retired. He was highly regarded for his Christian character, his sincerity of purpose and for his valued and efficient service. He won a warm place in the hearts of the members of the student body, faculty and alumni, giving at all time able council and constant encouragement to the officers of the General Alumni Association in their various efforts to enlarge and expand their work.

His fraternal affiliations included membership in the Phi Beta Sigma, the Sigma Pi Phi (Boule), the Masons and the Booker T. Washington Lodge of the I. B. P. O. E. of W. He was secretary of the Board of Trustees of Tuskegee Institute, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the John A. Andrew Hospital Aid Society, Lay Reader St. Andrews Mission; Chairman of the Faculty Advisory Committee; Chairman of the Tuskegee Debate Society, and Treasurer of the Local Chapter of the Infantile Paralysis Unit of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, Inc.

MAR 12 1941

He was deeply interested in student activities and each year on his birthday gave a motion picture to which he invited students, faculty members and townspeople as his guests. He was always delightfully pleased when serving others. He was one of the founders of the American Tennis Association and for the past seven years has served as Chairman of the National Tournament Committee. He contributed much to the advancement of tennis throughout the nation. During the First World War, he served as adjutant of the famous 369 Infantry, New York.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, expressed sorrow at Mr. Burke's passing and said that in his death the school had sustained an irreparable loss. "He will be remembered for his devotion to duty, his efficient and faithful service and for the loyalty that he inspired in every official and worker at Tuskegee Institute." the president stated. Rev. Richardson praised his work and paid tribute to his Christain character. The numerous telegrams and resolutions were read by Rev. Kelly. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lena Chambers. New York City; his wife, Mrs. Frances Burke, and three sons, Edmund, Wilford and Harold of Cambridge, Mass., and his grandmother. Members of the Executive Council, faculty, Phi Beta Sigma, Masons adn Elks and students formed an escort and accompianed the remains to Chehaw from which point the body was shipped to New York where a service will be held at the Church of Crucifixion before interment. Rev. Harry V. Richardson. Institute Chaplain, and Mrs. Clarice Isaacs accompanied the remains to New York.

MAR 12 1941

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Edmund H. Burke, Official At Tuskegee Inst., Dead

MAR 1 5 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Funeral services for Edmund H. Burke, comptroller of Tuskegee Institute and secretary of the Board of Trustees who died here Friday morning, following a brief illness, were held in the Institute Chapel at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. William Byrd Lee, rector, St. Andrew's Mission of the Episcopal Church, was in charge of the services. He was assisted by Chaplain Harry V. Richardson, Rev. Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist Church; and Rev. T. R. Newman, pastor of Washington Chapel AME Church both of the Institute Community.

MAR 15 1941

Mr. Burke was born on the Island of Montserrat, British West Indies, of an old and distinguished family and was educated in the school of the Island at Martinque. He spent several years in the British government and was frequently commended for the high character of his work as well as for his loyalty to his superiors.

Coming to this country in 1905, he secured employment in the New York subway system. Because of his keen interest in his work and his willingness to serve in various capacities, he won rapid promotion and attracted the attention of L. P. Hollander and Company of Boston, operating one of the large and successful department stores in New York City. Mr. Burke remained with this company for 26 years and rose from junior clerk to auditor.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Ford Visitor At Tuskegee

MAR 12 1941

Auto Manufacturer And Party Spend Several Hours At Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., March 11.—Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, accompanied by Mrs. Ford and a secretary, spent several hours at Tuskegee Institute today conferring with Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, and Dr. George W. Carver, Tuskegee's distinguished scientist.

Mr. Ford arrived at Chehaw in his private car early Tuesday morning and was met by President Patterson and hurried to Dorothy Hall, where Dr. Carver awaited him. After he and Mrs. Ford had signed the official visitors book, Mr. Ford went to Dr. Carver's quarters where they were left alone for an hour's conference. Immediately following the conference Mr. Ford participated in the dedication of the George W. Carver Museum by the insertion of plastics made of soy beans and soy fiber into a concrete slab.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ford inscribed their name in the cement. The ceremony was witnessed by several institute officials and a group of students. The slab is prominently located in the museum and signifies the interest of Mr. Ford and Dr. Carver in the industrial utilization of farm crops.

Mr. Ford visited with Dr. Carver in the museum and manifested keen interest in the native fibers that are on exhibit, and the uses that have been made of waste material. He later visited the Tuskegee Institute airport and expressed considerable interest in the progress that the students are making in the program and the future that aviation offers. While at the airport students in the secondary course of instruction were going through their maneuvers. Several took off and landed.

Mrs. Ford was shown through the girls' industrial building and the department of home economics and expressed delight in the preparation of the Tuskegee women students for useful and successful living.

After having lunch in Dorothy Hall the distinguished visitors were welcomed and shown the grounds of the Veterans Hospital by Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, manager, and thence to Chehaw, where they boarded their private car for Atlanta.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee's Debaters To Meet N.Y. College Squad

MAR 29 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—For the first time in its history, Tuskegee institute will send a group of students to meet students of three New York colleges in debate. Five members of the Tuskegee Debate Society with the head debate coach and faculty adviser leave here Thursday, March 27.

Nathaniel Colley

The Tuskegee team will meet New York City college in a non decision debate on the question of a permanent union of the Latin American countries in the western hemisphere. On April 4 they will take part in a radio debate with students of Columbia university on the subject of conscription. The debate is scheduled for 1:05 p.m., EST.

On the evening of April 4, the Tuskegeeans go to Brooklyn college to discuss the anti-lynching bill in an educational, not competitive debate.

MAR 29 1941

En route to New York, the Tuskegee debaters are scheduled to debate South Carolina State at Orangeburg, March 26; Shaw university, Raleigh, N. C., March 28; Howard university, Washington, D. C., March 31.

The team will be guest of Virginia Union, Richmond, Va., March 29 and will debate Morgan college, Baltimore, Md., April 2. On the return trip, the Tuskegeeans have tentative engagements at West Virginia State college and Bluefield, April 7 and 9.

Making the tour will be Emmett Henderson, head debate coach; Nathaniel Colley, president of the Tuskegee Debate society; Dorinda Duncan, William Calhoun, William Dobson, Theodore Johnson, and B. B. Walcott, faculty adviser.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Church Body To Sponsor Supper

MAR 28 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA., March 27.—A chicken and chitterling supper will be held in the entertainment hall of St. Joseph Catholic Church Tuesday afternoon, April 1. The supper, which is sponsored by the ladies of the parish, will start at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

MAR 28 1941

The cooking and serving of the supper will be under the personal supervision of Mrs. Wilkerson, professor of home economics at Tuskegee Institute, and Mrs. Clenty Pennington, who has outstanding ability in cooking.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Exchange Plan For Hampton, Tuskegee

HAMPTON INSTITUTE, Va.—Institute have taken the first step in Hampton institute and Tuskegee what is hoped will be an extensive exchange system between the two institutions, according to an announcement made by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president of Hampton.

Martha L. Driver, sophomore student at Tuskegee Institute, has just arrived on the Hampton campus to make an extensive study of the creative dance as taught by Miss Charlotte Moton.

MAR 29 1941

At the same time, Hampton sent Gretel Lee, a senior in the division of home economics, who is specializing in weaving, to Tuskegee for an opportunity to develop additional skills in this field and to assist in teaching weaving at that school.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

TUSKEGEE DEBATERS CLASH WITH DILLARD

MAR 22 1941

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala. — Tuskegee Institute Debate Society, Nathaniel Colley, president, was host to the Dillard University Debaters Friday, to discuss the question of increased Federal power.

MAR 22 1941

Dillard was represented by Alvin Jones, sophomore, Ernest Robb, sophonmore, and Joseph Mack, junior, arguing the negative side. The affirmative opinion was presented by one of Tuskegee's Freshman teams, Theodore Lange and Crawford Russell with Miss Ozella Holman, senior as alternate.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

At 3:00, Sunday afternoon, February 9, the Tuskegee Men's Club will participate in the celebration of National Negro History Week by rendering its annual program in the Greenwood Baptist Church. The general theme of the National Negro History Week program this year is The Negro in the West Indies. The Tuskegee Men's Club is fortunate in having for its speakers this year two citizens of the Bahamas Islands, West Indies who will discuss the following topics: "The Politico-Economic Status and Problems of the Negro in the Bahamas," and "The Educational Status and Problems of the Negro in the Bahamas." The public is invited to this program.

FEB 6 1941

FEB 6 1941

Opelika, Ala. News
March 12, 1941

Ford And Wife Pay Visit To Tuskegee, Talks With Carver

Tuskegee Institute, Ala., March 12. Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, accompanied by Mrs. Ford and a secretary, spent several hours at Tuskegee Institute Tuesday conferring with Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, and Dr. George W. Carver, Tuskegee's distinguished scientist.

Mr. Ford arrived at Chehaw in his private car early Tuesday morning and was met by President Patterson and hurried to Dorothy Hall, where Dr. Carver awaited him. After he and Mrs. Ford had signed the official visitors' book, Mr. Ford went to Dr. Carver's quarters where they were left alone for an hour's conference. Immediately following the conference Mr. Ford participated in the dedication of the George W. Carver Museum by the insertion of plastics made of soy beans and soy fiber into a concrete slab.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ford inscribed their name in the cement. The ceremony was witnessed by several institute officials and a group of students. The slab is prominently located in the museum and signifies the interest of Mr. Ford and Dr. Carver in the industrial utilization of farm crops.

Mr. Ford visited with Dr. Carver in the museum and manifested keen interest in the native fibers that are on exhibit, and the uses that have been made of waste material He later visited the Tuskegee Institute airport and expressed considerable interest in the progress that the students are making in the program and the future that aviation offers. While at the airport students in the secondary course of instruction were going through their maneuvers. Several took off and landed.

Mrs. Ford was shown through the girls' industrial building and the department of home economics and expressed delight in the preparation of the Tuskegee women students for useful and successful living.

After having lunch in Dorothy Hall the distinguished visitors were welcomed and shown the grounds of the Veterans Hospital by Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, manager, and thence to Chehaw, where they boarded their private car for Atlanta.

Dothan, Ala. Eagle
March 12, 1941

Henry Ford Visits Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) —Henry Ford, on a visit to Tuskegee Institute, participated yesterday in dedication of George Washington Carver Museum, where exhibits and records of the Negro scientist's works are preserved.

Ford, who was accompanied on the visit by his wife and a secretary, conferred for more than an hour with Dr. Carver before going to the dedication ceremony, where he and Mrs. Ford inserted soy bean plastics and soy fibres into a concrete slab. Both inscribed their names in the cement.

Later Dr. Carver said he and the industrialist discussed utilization of soy plastics and fibres and similar materials made of unused native products.

Ford also watched Tuskegee Institute aviation students at the school airport while Mrs. Ford visited the home economics department. The party lunched here before their departure.

18y-1941

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Patterson Announces Speaker For Baccalaureate Address May 18

MAY 1 1 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, anotnced today that Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse college, Atlanta, will deliver the Baccalaureate Address to the members of the graduating classes in the Institute Chapel at 2 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, May 18. Dr. Mays was formerly Dean of the School of Religion at Howard university, Washington, D. C., and is an outstanding author and lecturer.

The Commencement Address will be delivered by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president of Hampton institute, Hampton, Virginia, in the chapel at 2 o'clock, Monday afternoon, May 19. Prior to accepting the presidency of Hampton institute Dr. MacLean was director of the General College at the University of Minnesota. He has been chairman of the National Committee on General Education. He is a member of the committee on general education of the American Council on Education, and chairman of the North Central Association on general education.

MAY 1 1 1941

Warren Henry, Chicago, Class of 1931, will be the Alumni speaker. More than a hundred students will be presented for graduation. The degrees will be conferred by Dr. F. D. Patterson.

The Annual Competitive Drill of the Cadet Regiment will be held in the Alumni Bowl at 9 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, May 3, the president announced. This feature of the work in military instruction is to determine the best drilled company and the best drilled cadet, stated Capt. Walter J. Love, acting professor of military science and tactics. The judges are First Sergeants Arthur Jones, James Fletcher and William McFarlin of the 24th United States Infantry, Fort Benning, Georgia.

Class Night exercises will be held in Logan Hall at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, May 16. The president's Prize Contest will be held in Logan Hall Saturday evening, May 17, at 7:30. This contest will be between representatives of the Junior and Senior classes. Prizes will be awarded to those students who best present interesting and valuable experiences they had in connection with their college work. These experiences may be connected with any phase of their work on the campus, or with their work as internes in the practical application of their vocational training. The annual prizes will be awarded following this contest.

At 4:15 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, May 18, the Tuskegee Band, with Capt. Frank L. Drye, conducting, will play in the Adler Band Stand, White Hall Lawn. Sunday evening, May 18, vesper service will be held in the institute chapel at 7 o'clock, at which time the president will deliver his final address for the Academic Year to the students and teachers.

The academic procession will form at Carnegie Music Hall at 1:15 on Monday afternoon, May 19, and will proceed to the institute chapel where the graduation exercises will take place. Capt. W. A. Richardson will serve as grand marshal.

MAY 1 1 1941

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —"Many leaders of producers' marketing and selling cooperatives are now realizing that the security and success of these cooperatives will be found only in the development of a strong consumer 'cooperative movement,' it was pointed out here by John Carson, Washington, D. C., representative of the Cooperative League U. S. A., at a conference on cooperatives which closed a two day session here last week.

"It is significant to note," he said, "that from the marketing cooperatives, many of the prominent leaders of the consumer cooperative movement have sprung." He also said that while the beginnings of the cooperative movement have sprung." He also said that while the beginnings of the cooperative movement in other sections give encouragement to the Southeast.

He pointed out that in 1915 there were only 650,000 members of all kinds of cooperative organizations in the entire country and that only 60,000 of these were members of consumers' purchasing organizations, whereas last year, according to the conservative estimates of the Department of Agriculture, there were 3,-200,000 members of all cooperatives (500 per cent increase) and 900,000 of these were members of purchasing organizations (1500 per cent increase.

MAY 10 1941

Whereas in 1915 cooperatives in is country did only $65,000,000 orth of business, last year they d $2,807,000,000 worth which represents an increase of about 450 per cent.

CREDIT UNIONS URGED

Mr. Carson strongly advocated the Credit Union type of consumers' cooperative as a fine way to start the cooperative movement in communities of the Southeast. He described the Credit Union as a cooperative banking system for small loans and said that it gave its members training and experience in the cooperative principles which gave safe foundations for more complicated types of operatives which the group t wish to embark upon later. e Credit Union, he feels, is simplest point at which bers in cooperatives can most embark. He believes that pansion and development of consumers' cooperative move- t will bring great and impor- protections to our democratic cess agaginst inroads of fascistic trends and other forms of stateism.

MAY 16 1941

W. A. Shields, Department of Sociology at Tuskegee Institute and director of the Southeastern Cooperative Education Association, spoke briefly on the values and importance of the Credit Union movement. He told how the Credit Union at Tuskegee Institute had contributed to the cooperative movement as a whole by loaning $1,000 to the new cooperative grocery store at the Institute.

J. W. Broyles, president o Sneads Junior College at Boaz Ala., spoke at the conference las week, and emphasized the Roch dale principles of the consume cooperative movement and th need for education about th movement.

J. R. Otis, director of agricul ture, Tuskegee Institute, spoke. H said that lack of training in con struction thinking and the tenan system of farming were seriou handicaps to growth of market ing cooperatives.

Ashburn, Ga., Wiregrass Farmer
May 8, 1941

Pupils Of Eureka High School Visit Tuskeegee Recently

Principal G. P. McKinney seeing the need from observation for traveling for the pupils of Eureka High School, made plans to further their education through an Educational Tour.

Seeing the enthusiasm displayed by the youth to work so as to render their fare for the trip was remarkable. Their efforts were not in vain for on Saturday morning bright and early a horn was heard at the door. The bus driver coming for them for the grand trip to Tuskeegee.

Approximately, thirty five pupils, parents and teachers traveled the long journey into Alabama. The first building that attracted our eyes upon arrival was Carver's Musuem. This building houses Dr. Carver's laboratory and some specimens of his experiments from soil, peanuts, animal and plant fibers and etc. Dr. George Washington Carver is that eminent negro specialist who has done much to improve farm life for the poor people. We were fortunate enough at this point to have a guide who explained the various buildings to us. The buildings number over one-hundred and twenty. The remarkable feature is that all the buildings were constructed by students. We visited the tailoring, photography, brick masonry, woodwork departments and others.

In the central part of the campus is located a monument of the likeness of Dr. Booker T. Washington, the founder of the school, with a crouching Negro from whose head he is shown pulling the veil of ignorance by opening ways of education not only of the head but also of the hands. The chapel held an interesting feature, that of the design of the windows showing the negro through pictures coming out of bondage seeking freedom. Behind the chapel is the grave of the founder. Very plain but yet significant. At the head of this grave were planted two cedars. These two cedars needles all grew with their needles pointing toward heaven. The legend goes that these trees grew heavenward as a significance of the life of Dr. Washington always straight and forward.

However, we were not able to spend but just a day on the campus and at the airport. But I must say the benefits that the pupils derived from the trip are numerous. Their faces were radiant as they foretold of their trip to one of the prize schools for negroes, Tuskeegee Institute, founded by a poor negro who grew to be one of our foremost educators.Reporter.

The Plaindealer
Kansas City, Kan.

DR PATTERSON

AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Aug 1 (ANP) — Dr F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, was a White House caller Wednesday afternoon Dr Patterson conferred with Mrs Roosevelt, giving a progress of the progress of the 99th Pursuit Squadron and reporting upon other projects in which the First Lady has interested herself.

AUG 1 1941

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Boys, 12, Buy First Bond, Defense Stamp at 'Skegee

MAY 10 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The first defense stamps sold by Postmaster James A. Johnson at the Tuskegee Institute Post Office went to twelve-year old Thomas M. Edwards. The first defense bond was bought by Frank Wright, Jr., also 12-years old.

Young Edwards bought four twenty-five cent stamps with money he earned selling papers. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, operators of two popular foods establishments at the Institute. His grandfather Edwards was a co-worker of Booker T Washington and many of his aunts and uncles as well as his father are Tuskegee graduates.

Young Edwards is known to motion picture fans for his portrayal of George Carver, the boy in the picture, "George Washington Carver." Edwards is in the eighth grade at the Chambliss Children's House where he owns shares in the Children's Co-op and is a member of the Stamp Club. He also has a small savings account in the Institute Savings Bank and a Christmas Savings account.

MAY 10 1941

Young Wright earned the $18.75 for his bond by shining shoes for doctors attending the clinic, and by his bicycle errand service about the Institute and Greenwood Community. Wright is the son of Frank Wright, Sr., head pressman at the Tuskegee Institute print shop.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tuskegee Student Drowns; 2 Saved

MAY 10 1941

MAY 10 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., May 8 — A Tuskegee Institute freshman suffered death by drowning when a boat in which he and two other companions were riding is believed to have capsized and plunged the boys into a lake near the school campus.

MAY 10 1941

The victim, Howard Kennard Flemming, was a recent graduate of the Wheatley high school of Houston, Texas. His companions made several unsuccessful attempts to save him. An expert diver recovered the body 45 minutes after the tragedy.

MAY 10 1941

When notified of his son's death, H. K. Flemming of 3115 Whitty street, Houston, left immediately for Tuskegee. He accompanied the body home where final rites were held Tuesday afternoon at the Sunlight Baptist Church with Rev. A. B. Boylan, pastor in charge.

In addition to his father, Howard is survived by his mother; a brother, Earl; a sister, Madlynn, and other relatives.

Tuskegee, Ala., News
May 1, 1941

SPRING FESTIVAL AT PRAIRIE FARMS SCHOOL AT SHORTER

With a May Queen to crown, with a band from Tuskegee Institute, with dancing, a track meet and home-grown barbecue to attract them, more than six hundred people gathered Friday at Prairie Farms School, near Shorter, for its Second Annual Spring Festival.

As queen for the day, Josie Wimbish, from Sweet Gum community, was crowned in the presence of an elaborately dressed court by Moze Ellerbe, voted "most popular man" at Tuskegee Institute.

Boys from Montgomery County Training School walked off with male honors in track events, winning three of the four contests. In competitions for girls, Prarie Farms School lead the field taking three of the four first place ribbons.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, Dr. J. Max Bond, director of its School of Education, and T. M. Campbell, Field Agent, U. S. Extension Service, were among those who said words of greeting to the large assembly that gathered early Friday morning for a special program on health.

Main speaker at this morning session was Dr. Benjamin W. Booth, prominent white physician of Shorter, who administers to a great many of the families in this Farm Security Administration farming project for Negroes. Dr. Booth has taken a great deal of interest in Prairie Farms since its beginning almost four years ago.

"Your body is a temple to the Lord," Dr. Booth told his audience, "and anything you do to defile your body, defiles the Lord's temple."

Elizabeth Crocker, new F. S. A. nurse on Prairie Farms followed Dr. Booth with a talk on "Community Health." A health pageant written by Frank Carter, student of the Prarie Farms School, was presented by its chapter of the Negro Farmers of America. The play showed how insects help to spread disease, and how people can help to exterminate them.

Health movies, personally presented and commented upon by Dr. B. F. Austin, Alabama State Health Officer, were the feature of the evening program. A dance followed, with music by Tuskegee's student dance orchestra.

At the morning session Mr. William Riley, retiring Superintendent of Macon county schools who has watched the progress of Negro education in this county for many years, made a short address of farewell.

Another man of long memory who recalled less happy times for Macon county Negro schools was Professor Martin, of Damascas school, who began teaching here in 1877. At that time, he said, school terms were only three months long. When he first appeared to qualify for a license the board of examiners asked him to spell twenty-five simple words.

"That was about all the required in those days," Professor Martin said. "The greatest improvement in Negro schools here as I see it, has been made in the quality of the instructors."

Barbecued pig—grown by one of their number—and fish cooked in a big iron pot "the old fashioned way"—caught by one of their number—were served by Prairie Farms School trustees. The school's Junior Coop. ran its own refreshment stand, selling candy and chewing gum.

During the day parents had an opportunity to become better acquainted with the cooperative aids for small farmers being developed by and for Negroes on this F. S. A. community project. Boys and girls visited the 21 student club members living on Prairie Farms who entered calves in the recent fat cattle show at Tuskegee, and brought back more than $100 in prizes. Willie Shepherd's Angus, "Jerry" was grand champion.

Mistress of ceremonies for the day was Willa May Woods, who represented the host school. Singing by the Prairie Farms glee club was under the direction of Lois Alexander. The entire Festival was managed by Deborah C. Partridge, Principal of the project school, assisted by Harry L. Wright, of the project staff, W. E. Cooper, vocational agriculture, and teachers from the eight schools whose students took part in the day's events.

Schools represented, with the approximate number of students from each are as follows: Cross Keys, 55; Light Foot, 50; Damascas, 54; Macedonia, 12; White Church, 30; Montgomery County Training School, 50; Macon County Training School, 30; Prairie Farms School, 180. The total number of school children registered was 461.

Results of track and field events, girls: 50 yard dash, Mary Harper, Prairie Farms; 75 yard dash, Elizabeth Taylor, Montgomery County Training School; broad jump, Annie P. Buchannon, Prairie Farms, 14 ft. 3 in.; high jump, Beauty Thomas, Prairie Farms, 4 ft. 2 inches.

Boys track and field events: 100 yard dash, Tyler Carter, Montgomery county Training School; 50 yard dash, Roosevelt Bell, Prairie Farms: High jump Lucius McDade, and broad jump, Johnnie Davis, both from Montgomery County Training School. Davis jumped 17 feet, 8 inches.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Gives Scholarship

NOV 6 1941

187

NOV 6 1941

"I've been doing so well — knock wood—I'm going to give a music scholarship for some deserving young lady at Tuskegee Institute," was the way Maxine Sullivan, the little Loch Lomond girl, put it last week. The decision as to who will get the scholarship will be left with the school authorities.

18y-1941

News
Birmingham, Ala.

MAR 9 1941

NEGRO MUSIC FESTIVAL—From all parts of the South, from plantation fields and city offices and schools and colleges, Negroes gathered in Fort Valley, Ga., for the State College Festival of Old Time Music to play and sing to their hearts' content.

Top, left, technicians from Alabama's Tuskegee Institute record the syncopated stomp "Bottle Up and Go" played by festival musicians for the Folk Music Division of the Congressional Library.

Top, right, Buster Ezelle, farmer, combines song, harmonica and guitar on "The Salty Water Blues."

Lower left, Anna George, 11, plays "John Henry" on her banjo of haywire strung between bricks on a plank to win first prize for originality of instrument.

Lower left, W. C. Handy, of New York and Memphis, composer of "St. Louis Blues," plays his trumpet to the accompaniment of Arthur Clover's washboard and Buster Ezelle's harmonica and guitar. Handy was chief judge and with Horace Mann Bond, president of the college and festival founder, considers the music of the field hands "the grass roots of the blues."

MAR 1941

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

GOOD SHEPHERD CENTER SPONSORS NYA CHORUS

OCT 26 1941

Sponsored by Good Shepherd Community Center, 5120 South Parkway, a 35-voice NYA chorus, to be held at the Center, it was under the direction of Prof. James announced this week.

H. Barr is already planning a gala musical Christmas program

"Excerpts from Handel's Messiah will be rendered," Prof. Barr said.

Prof. Barr's musical record covers a number of years, including a period as teacher of music at Hungerford high school of Winter Park, Florida and Aaron Industrial high school of Milan, Ga.

Coming to Chicago to do advance study in music, he organized the Modern Troubadours, a male chorus. The Modern Troubadours, under the direction of Prof. Barr, has been acclaimed as one of the city's outstanding musical aggregations.

OCT 26 1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

May Be Trustee

MAR 24 1941

MAR 24 1941

Dr. Alphonse Heningburg, who graduated from Tuskegee as valedictorian in 1920, is being prominently mentioned as the selection of alumni for election to the school's board of trustees. Dr. Heningburg is now serving as assistant to the president of North Carolina College at Durham, N. C.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

MOTON MEMORIAL SERVICES APRIL 4

MAR 29 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., March 27.—President F. D. Patterson announced that the Institute will pay memorial tribute to Dr. Robert R. Moton, second president of the school, on Friday afternoon, April 4, beginning at 2 o'clock. The exercises will be held in the Institute Chapel.

Principal addresses will be delivered by Dr. Leo M. Favrot, who served for so many years with the General Education Board, and Dr. Channing H. Tobias, senior secretary of the Y.M.C.A. work among Negroes.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Red Cross Rally Held At Tuskegee

APR 2 1941

The Southern Negro Junior Red Cross Rally was held at Tuskegee Institute March 28-29. The meeting was well attended by representatives, including both junior and adult leaders from eleven Southern states.

The meeting opened Friday at 3 p.m., with the rally chairman from the New Orleans Chapter Juniors, assisted by the rally vice-chairman of Tuskegee Institute Juniors, presiding. The opening music was by the Tuskegee Juniors. Mrs. Hattie West, chairman of junior work, Tuskegee Institute Chapter, presented Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute and chairman of Tuskegee Institute Chapter, who gave the welcome address. The response was by Livingston L. Blair, assistant national director of American Red Cross. The Chambliss Children House juniors furnished music. The Junior Red Cross Alphabet was presented by several schools. Mrs. West also presented the Red Cross officers. The delegates were presented by Stone Crane, assistant to national director of Junior Red Cross. A motion picture, "Mobilize For Mercy," closeed the afternoon session.

Vespers in the Institute chapel and an address by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt were highlights of Friday night's program.

APR 2 1941

Saturday's session opened at 9:30 a.m., with "America" by the audience, and the Rev. H. V. Richardson in charge of the devotion. An address by Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, N. Y. A. administrator for Negro youths, delegates' reports, music, round table discussion and the Junior Red Cross banquet, with L. L. Blair as speaker, were features.

APR 2 1941

A sight-seeing tour climaxed the meeting on Saturday afternoon. Six delegates attended from the Montgomery chapter, representing the elementary and high schools of this county.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

FIRST LADY VISITS CAMPUS

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was guest of the Institute for several days, the occasion being the meeting of the Rosenwald Fund. Besides attending the meetings of the Rosenwald organization the President's wife addressed a large audience which taxed the capacity of the Institute Chapel Friday evening.

APR 3 1941

Dr. W. T. B. Williams Passes

The funeral of Dr. W. T. B. Williams who died at his home Wednesday morning at nine o'clock after a lingering illness was held in the Institute Chapel Saturday afternoon. Chaplain Harry V. Richardson conducted the services. Hundreds of telegrams and funeral designs were received from friends of the deceased all over the country. The following statement of appreciation from the Executive Council which is typical of all was read at the funeral:

An Appreciation of William Taylor Burrell Williams

The death of W. T. B. Williams Wednesday morning, March 26, 1941 brought a gloom of sorrow over the entire Tuskegee Institute community—where he had so conscientiously labored as an official of Tuskegee Institute for twenty years. During these years the community has been greatly enriched by his presence contact, spiritual, and cultural life, which he exhibited in his various walks. He has been well classed as a rare scholar and gentleman of the old school who carried with him, wherever he went, a freshness and love for things new.

APR 3 1941

Beginning in 1902 he was called to Hampton Institute by Dr H. B. Frissell, Principal, where he made his home and headquarters for seventeen years, representing the Institute and different educational boards: The Southern Education Board; the General Education Board; the John F. Slater Fun as well as the Jeanes Foundation. In all of these connections he was spokesman in the educational interest of the Negro.

In his public career he stressed rural education and to this end, when the Jeanes Foundation was organized in 1907 he was appointed field agent. This work took him throughout the South in rural districts, helping the needy. Following the Jeanes work, county training schools were organized in 1912. These schools were rapidly established in rural districts in many counties, and, high school subjects were taught along with industrial subjects to the country boy and girl.

Booker T. Washington sought his advice and association when he made his educational speaking pilgrimages throughout the South, and, Mr. Williams always accompanied him on these trips. He was deeply interested in the Negro ministry and in association with Dr. James M. Dillard, head of the Jeanes and Slater Funds, for a number of summers taught at the preachers Institute, held at Bettis Academy, South Carolina. In further recognition of his service, Mr. Williams was awarded the Twentieth Spingarn Medal in 1934 for his knowledge of and distinguished service to negro education. He was a man of great learning and culture and his work in the educational development of the negro will stand as a mile stone in the progress of our race.

Dr. Moton, like Dr. Washington, sought Mr. Williams' advice on problems of education. Since 1920 he has made his home at Tuskegee Institute and served the school in various capacities. The board of trustees appointed him vice president of Tuskegee Institute in 1936, and in this position he was of valuable service to Dr. Fred D. Patterson, president.

In the passing of this distinguished educator Tuskegee Institute has lost a conscientious and devoted worker and the Negro race one of its great constructive leaders.

The Tuskegee Institute faculty and staff members extend heart felt and deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

It is ordered that a copy of this minute be spread upon the records of the Executive Council and faculty of Tuskegee Institute and that a copy be sent to his wife.

* * *

The Community Service Program meeting was held Monday evening at the Greenwood Baptist Church. A goodly number was present, though not a full house as the merits of the meetings would warrant. One of the principle features of the meeting was the splendid minutes of the proceedings of the previous meeting which were written and read by Mrs. B. B. Walcott, the Secretary of the organization. So full interesting and informing as to the needs of the community were the minutes that it was decided to publish the same and give a copy to all who desire one. Be sure to get your copy from Mr. T. M. Campbell, president and be informed as to the splendid work of this new organization, sponsored by the Federal government and that is doing so much for the community. Dr Patterson was present and made helpful remarks. The next meeting will be held at the Agricultural Extension Building Friday night April 25th. Please plan and arrange to be present.

* * *

National Negro Health Week

The observance of National Negro Health Week is quite general over the country. The theme for 1941 is: Personal Hygiene and First Aid Preparedness." Dr. F. D. Patterson, the local Chairman sent letters to all the ministers of local churches urging their cooperation in this total defense measure. The United States Public Health Service is vitally concerned in this program of health for the race and has adopted the National Negro Health Week definitely as a part of its program. The following is an excerpt from a Radio Broadcast on the subject:, by Dr. James a Dolce of the U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

APR 3 1941

In defense of country, men within the borders of a nation are united as never before. In these weeks of organizing the resources of America toward defense, there is becoming apparent the solidarity of our population—people of all ages, both sexes, all races—joined in the common effort.

It is in times like these that the interdependence of all groups in matters of health is more than ever realized. When we understand that defense depends upon human effort, the importance of individual, family, and community health looms large in the total picture.

APR 3 1941

The theme for National Negro Health Week in 1941 is "Personal Hygiene and First Aid Preparedness." The choice expressed the determination of the Negro people to enter wholeheartedly into the defense plans of our country. This implies that all the groups and individuals who take part in the program, accept responsibility for the betterment of personal health and agree to acquire some skill in first aid as their contribution to the National Defense Program.

* * *

Memorial Service To Dr. R. R. Moton

Memorial service to the late Dr. R. R. Moton, President Emeritus of Tuskegee Institute will be held in the Institute Chapel Friday afternoon at three o'clock. The public is invited to this service.

* * *

Founders Day exercises will be held at the Institute Chapel next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. The public is invited to this service.

APR 3 1941

* * *

The John A. Andrew Clinic medical and dental, will be held at the Institute Hospital beginning Sunday, April sixth and going through Friday April eleventh Distinguished physicians of both races from all over the country will be present and take part in this clinic.

* * *

Six young ladies of the Juvenile Choir of the Greenwood Baptist Church accompanaied the pastor, Rev. Chas. W. Kelly to Pepperill, Alabama Wednesday evening and shared in the services of the Baptist Training Union. The service was rendered at the invitation of the pastor of the Pepperill Baptist Church, Rev. Merrill.

* * *

Mrs. Annie M. Garner Passes

The whole community was greatly saddened at the announcement of the death of Mrs. Annie M. Garner of Greenwood Monday morning. Mrs. Garner the wife of Major Garner, was one of the older citizens of the community. She had been employed in the school's laundry for over twenty years and until recently was on the job until illness prevented her working. Funeral services will be held from the Washington Chapel A. M. E. Church of which she was a most faithful member. The pastor Rev. T. R. Newman will officiate

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

In Radio Debate

APR 5 - 1941

JOHNSON COLLEY

These Tuskegee students will meet three Columbia college students in a radio debate, April 4. Theodore Johnson, left, sophomore in the school of mechanical industries, is majoring in printing. He is news editor of the student publication, president of the student co-op, member of the YMCA cabinet, and a sergeant in the Cadet Corps. He is a native of North Carolina.

APR 5 - 1941

Nathaniel Colley, a senior in the School of Education, is president of the Tuskegee Debate Society, the Carver Chemical Society, and an active member of other organizations. He is a member of the Tuskegee Chapter Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society; second lieutenant, cadet corps; and for three years a member of the student council. He has been listed in Who's Who among students in American Colleges and Universities for two years, and is on leave from interne teaching to represent Tuskegee in the New York debate.

18y-1941

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

PAY TRIBUTE TO EDUCATOR

APR 19 1941

The Alcorn college debate team at the Booker T. Washington Monument at Tuskegee institute, Ala. Left to right: Charles H. Wilson, head of the social science department and coach of the debate team; Emma Spencer, Miss Henrietta Levi, teacher of French and chaperon; Audell O'Neal and Albert Lott. Second row, Thomas Warren and Paul Miller.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

TUSKEGEE TO HOLD ANNUAL CARNIVAL

APR 21 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., April 20—The fifteenth annual Tuskegee relay carnival will be held in the Alumni Bowl at Tukegee Institute Saturday, May 10. The meet is the fourth oldest in the United States, being ranked only by the Penn, Drake and Kansas Relays. The usual large number of team trophies will be at stake.

This year the winners of first, second and third places in all events will receive a beautiful certificate suitable for framing instead of the time-honored medal.

APR 21 1941

The Southern annual interscholastic and interscholastic tennis tournament, the annual intercollegiate and interscholastic golf tournament will be held at the institute on May 8 and 9, and the annual women's track and field championships will be held in the Alumni Bowl, May 9.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Former Ethiopian Airman at Tuskegee

APR 19 1941

CHICAGO, (ANP). — Colonel John Robinson, formerly with the Ethiopian Air Force and at present assistant in charge of all aviation activities in Illinois, left Friday in his four-passenger cabin plane for Tuskegee Institute, accompanied by William Wells and Julius Williams, aero mechanics.

Colonel Robinson will eventually be stationed at Tuskegee and the two young men hope to become part of the expanded mechanical unit in aviation developments there. The trio stopped in St. Louis and Memphis en route.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee Gives Cash For Jim Crow Flying

APR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Dr. William J. Schieffelin, New York City, chairman of the board of trustees, Tuskegee institute, said that the meeting of the board, April 5 and 6, was one of the busiest in its history. Dr. Schieffelin said the most important decision by the board was the resolution to make military flying a part of the educational work of Tuskegee institute. He said the board voted unanimously to appropriate $200,000 to purchase and equip a 800 acre field three miles from the campus for the military flying program.

Dr. Schieffelin stated further that the board had expressed satisfaction that this first opportunity for young Negro aviators to serve in the (jim-crow) Pursuit Squadron of the United States Army Air Corps was to materialize at Tuskegee institute.

APR 19 1941

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Gets $200,000 To Buy Airdrome Site

APR 2 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—The appropriation of $200,000 for the purchase and development of an 800-acre airdrome by the Tuskegee Institute board of trustees was announced recently by Dr. William J. Schieffelin, of New York, chairman.

The appropriation will further the college's aviation program for Negroes, under the civilian pilot program of the CAA and the War Department.

APR 19 1941

The new field is located about three miles from the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

Dr. Alphonse Heninburg, a 1920 graduate, was nominated by the institute's general Alumni Association for membership on the board of trustees. Dr. Schieffelin also announced. Action will be taken in the regular trustee elections in October.

Pittsburgh Courie
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Erskine Contributes to Tuskegee Airport Fund

APR 5 1941

CHICAGO, April 3. (ANP)—Erskine Hawkins, whose band has just completed a week's engagement at the South Side's Regal theatre, contributed a substantial check to the Tuskegee Institute Airport fund Friday.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
April 7, 1941

HONOR IS GIVEN NEGRO EDUCATOR

Founder's Day Observed By Tuskegee With March, Program

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 6—(AP)—Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, celebrated "Founder's Day" with an elaborate and colorful program Sunday.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the Institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was a speaker.

The institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1,000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man," Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

"Our great founder, who, born a slave and a black boy, went forward, asking no special consideration because of his color," was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, as "an inspiration" to tens of thousands.

As the Founder's Day program opened, more than 75 physicians and surgeons already had arrived for the thirtieth annual clinic and twenty-fourth meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee News

APR 11 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA., April 10.—Special devotions will be held on Easter Sunday at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

A program of sacred music is planned for the Easter Sunday morning mass, which begins at 7:30. The altar will be beautifully decorated in honor of the Risen Saviour. Those adults who were baptized and received into the Catholic Church on Palm Sunday will receive their first Holy Communion at this mass.

APR 11 1941

"Jeanie," an operetta will be presented on the evening of April 16, by the band fund committee and the Junior Choir of the Greenwood Baptist Church at Logan Hall, Tuskegee Institute. This operetta promises to be one of the best of its kind with many thrilling musical numbers and dramatic action. The story will be dramatized by a well trained cast of 100, which includes a 25-piece orchestra, under the direction of Captain Frank L. Drye, Tuskegee Institute's bandmaster for more than 25 years. Mrs. Victoria H. Nicholson as musical director, and Mrs. Clara E. Williams, director of the operetta.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Jessie Wimbish May Queen At Prairie Farms

APR 20 1941

May Day came to Prairie Farms almost two weeks early this year. Friday, more than six hundred people from all over Macon and Montgomery Counties gathered at the project school to see Jessie Wimbish, of Sweet Gum community crowned Queen, and to hear a program on health that included a play, a picture show, and talks by many prominent leaders, both white and colored.

William Riley, superintendent of Macon County Schools, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, Dr. J. Max Bond, director of its school of education, and T. M. Campbell, field agent, U. S. Extension Service, were among those who said words of greeting to the large morning session.

Speaking on "Fundamentals for Healthful Living," Dr. Benjamin W. Booth, prominent white physician of Shorters, delivered the main address of the morning. Dr. Booth has taken special interest in plans and progress on this Farm Security Administration community project since its beginning almost four years ago.

Dr. B. F. Austin, State health officer, discussed motion pictures shown at the evening meeting and described the great progress made in health work for negroes of Alabama in the last few years.

APR 20 1941

Boys from Montgomery County County Training School easily took top honors in the track events, winning three of the four first place ribbons. A home team from Prairie Farms School won three of the four ribbons offered in events for girls.

Music for the coronation, track meet and the winding of the May poles was furnished by the Tuskegee Institute band, which led a parade in full uniform before the ceremony. Students from Tuskegee formed the "hot" band that played at the dance which followed the evening meeting.

Barbecue served by the board of trustees of the Prairie Farms School at noon was "home grown and home roasted" by its members. And the fish they pulled out of a nearby creek and cooked "the old fashioned way," in a big iron pot.

Sunny weather encouraged many visitors to walk over the project farms and to learn of the new farming practices and cooperative community endeavors being developed here by and for negroes.

Events of the day were under the direction of Deborah C. Partridge, principal of Prairie Farms School, assisted by W. E. Cooper, Lois Alexander and teachers from the eight shools whose students took part.

These eight schools were: Cross Keys, Light Foot, Damascus, Macedonia, White Church, Montgomery County Training School, Macon County Training School and Prairie Farms School.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Impressive Founder's Day Is Held

APR 8 - 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(S N S)—"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,' was one of the slogans Booker T. Washington used to drive home to his people, his economic philosophy of the soil," declared Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, in the 25th Founder's Day address at Tuskegee Institute, Sunday, honoring the memory of Booker T. Washington.

The beautiful chapel was filled with the 2,500 friends, faculty, students and alumni assembled to pay tribute to the man who was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, graduate of the class of 1921, in the Alumni address as "our noble Founder, who, born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color—our great Founder and source of inspiration, whose body but not his spirit sleeps in yonder grave, for in the members of the Class of 1921, in tens of thousands who have felt the touch of Booker T. Washington, his spirit marches on."

APR 8 - 1941

IN PROCESSIONAL

The line of march, with Captain W. A. Richardson of the Class of 1902 as Marshal of the Day, moved from Carnegie Hall at 1:30. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president; Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day Speaker; Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, followed by members of the Board, the Executive Council, the reunion class of 1921, alumni and faculty, were escorted by the Institute Band, Captain F. L. Drye, director, down the campus road to the Chapel, between the open ranks of 1000 blue-uniformed Institute cadets and 600 young women of the college with their long blue caps thrown back to disclose the snow white blouses and blue skirt of the Tuskegee uniform.

Dr. Patterson presented Dr. Imes. Dr. Imes effectively set forth the philosophies of Booker T. Washington. These said the speaker, are divided into four phases: economic, educational, social and his philosophy of achievement.

APR 8 - 1941

"Booker Washington's economic philosophy," said Dr. Imes, "has four major phases: 1) Soil....Social progress for any people, and for all people is based on the possession and development of the soil. Washington urged Negro farmers to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.' In furtherance of this philosophy, Booker Washington initiated three distinct services:

"1. Agricultural Extension Service which carried the resources of improved agriculture directly to the man on the soil.

"2. The land ownership projects at Baldwin farms and at the Forties (Harris Barrett Community), both in Macon County were designed to encourage and promote land ownership.

"3. The Jessup Wagon—forerunner of the Booker T. Washington School on Wheels and the present Movable School program—was designed for the improvement of the life of those on the soil."

"The second major emphasis of his economic philosophy was upon WORK. He often told his people that it was better to work for nothing than not to work at all. He believed too, that civilization was as much in danger from the unemployed at the top of the social scale as it is from the unemployed at the bottom of the scale.

"Third, Booker Washington urged his people to produce som 'hing that the other man wants.

"And fourth, he urged his students again and again, 'Create a job for yourselves, rather than wait for somebody else to give you a job.'"

Dr. Imes stated that a large measure of Booker Washington's success was due to the fact that he refused to go any further than he could carry the white man with him. The speaker emphasized that Mr. Washington was convinced that the goodwill of the man who lives next door to you is more valuable than that of the man who lives a thousand miles away. "It is this which laid the foundation for Mr. Washington's statement that the southern white man was the Negroes' best friend."

On the rostrum were Rev. H. V. Richardson, chaplain, Tuskegee Institute; Dr. F. D. Patterson, president; Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day speaker; Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The Tuskegee Institute choir, conducted by William L. Dawson of the Class of 1921, sang.

Following the Founder's Day exercises, the Montgomery-Tuskegee Club followed its annual custom of gathering at the grave of the Founder for a brief service and to place a wreath. During the afternoon the Trustees and visiting Alumni inspected the new Infantile Paralysis Unit, heard a concert by the Institute Band, and attended the informal tea at the New Alumni Headquarters in Carnegie Hall.

At the Sunday Vesper Service at 7:30 p.m., Trustees and several distinguished physicians here for the annual meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society were presented for short addresses.

Following the business meeting on Saturday afternoon, the Tuskegee Trustees and their guests visited the Tuskegee airport to see the 58 student flyers in action.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE SENDS TWO DELEGATES TO RED CROSS MEET

APR 26 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 24—The Junior Red Cross of Tuskegee Institute Chapter is sending two delegates, Helen Dibble and Harvey Davis, to the National Red Cross Convention in Washington, April 21-24, Dr. F. D. Patterson, chairman, Tuskegee Institute Chapter, announced today. Helen and Harvey are outstanding members of the eighth grade of the Chambliss Children's House, campus Laboratory School of the School of Education, Tuskegee Institute.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Ann'l Girls' Day Celebrated At Tuskegee Inst

APR 20 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Tuskegee institute was host today to more than 2,000 girls from the Macon County schools who assembled here for the fifteenth annual observance of Girls' Day. The attendance was not only greater than on previous Girls' Days but the general interest and participation in all features of the day's program was noticeably better.

Mrs. Hattie S. West, president of the Macon County Teachers Association opened the morning session with a brief address, pointing out the reason for this annual meeting of the girls enrolled in the elementary schools of Macon County on the Tuskegee institute campus, indicating that the "good derived from these associations contacts and friendly competition are fundamental and character building."

APR 20 1941

Elnora Pendleton, senior, School of Education, Lula, Mississippi, in a gracious and cordial address welcomed the girls to "an institution with a warm and friendly spirit, where girls and boys, too, learn to do by doing; where the training received fits one for society and for service." Sarah Warren, seventh grade pupil of the Washington Public School, Tuskegee, Alabama, made the response.

The features of the morning program were centered around daily classroom activities and experiences and were carried out in dramatized expositions by the pupils of the Macon County School, the Chambliss Children's House, Cotton Valley School, New Rising Star School, Washington Public School and the school at Prairie Farms. All of these exercises were well received.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

Chicagoan Seeks NAPE Presidency

MAY 3 - 1941

CHICAGO, May—(ANP) Percy R. Hines, who edited the Postal Alliance, official organ of the National Alliance of Postal employees, from 1935 to 1939, has announced his candidacy for presidency of the organization, the position now held by Lafayette F. Ford of St. Louis, who has headed the body for the past four years.

MAY 3 - 1941

Prior to being editor of the Postal Alliance, Hines was secretary treasurer of District six of the organization, comprising the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Wisconsin. He also is a former president of the Chicago branch of the N.A.P.E., having been active in the local for 15 years.

News
Birmingham, Ala.

$1,663,057 Outlay Urged For Tuskegee Air School Facility

JUN 6 1941

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A $196,757,632 program of construction and land acquisition at military posts during the year beginning July 1 was recommended Thursday by the House Appropriations committee.

This fund was proposed by the House group as part of a $9,826,509,492 supply bill for the coming year's military functions of the War Department. The construction items exceeded budget estimates by $104,040,890.

It is in addition to large sums carried in previous bills for military posts.

Among the construction projects were:

Ft. Benning, Ga., facilities for three parachute battalions, $1,745,710; Tuskegee, Ala., cantonment for establishment of flying school and pursuit squadron (colored), $1,663,057.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

3 Instructors Added To Tuskegee Staff

JUN 7 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA., June 6.—Three licensed mechanics arrived on the campus of Tuskegee Institute today to have charge of classes in the new aero-mechanics course to begin here June 15. The new instructors are: Austin H. Humbles of Cincinnati, Ohio, who will teach engine maintenance, Ned F. Simeon, Chicago, Ill., to teach related subjects, and Vincent Talby, New York City, to teach aircraft maintenance.

The course in aero-mechanics is an NYA defense project. It is under the general supervision of W. S. Allen, itinerary teacher-trainer and will give instruction to 45 out-of-school youth.

Through the cooperation of President Patterson and G. L. Washington, director of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute, one of the buildings of the William G. Wilcox Trades School on the campus will be turned over to the new course.

18y-1941

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

15th Annual Girl's Day Sponsored At Tuskegee

MAY 3 - 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Tuskegee institute was host last week to more than 200 girls from the Macon county schools who assembled here for the fifteenth annual observance of Girls' day. The attendance was not only greater than on previous Girls' day celebrations, but the general interest and participation in all features of the day's program was noticeably better. Mrs. Hattie S. West, president of the Macon County Teachers association opened the morning session with a brief address, pointing out the reason for this annual meeting of the girls enrolled in the elementary schools of Macon county on the Tuskegee institute campus, indicating that the "good derived from these associations, contacts and friendly competition are fundamental and character building."

Elnora Pendleton, senior, School of Education, Lula, Miss., in a gracious and cordial address welcomed the girls to "an institution with a warm and friendly spirit, where girls and boys, too, learn to do by doing; where the training received fits one for society and for service." Sarah Warren, seventh grade pupil of the Washington Public school, Tuskegee, Ala., made the response.

The features of the morning program were centered around daily classroom activities and experiences and carried out in dramatized expositions by the pupils of the Macon county school, the Chambliss Children's House, Cotton Valley school New Rising Star school, Washington Public school and the school at Prairie Farms. All of these exercises were well received.

Hold "Spelling Bee"

MAY 3 1941

A. L. Turner, registrar, Tuskegee institute, and Prof. W. B. Riley, superintendent of Education, Macon county, addressed the girls, emphasizing that "noble womanhood is attained through noble girlhood." President F. D. Patterson, who was unable to be present sent cordial greetings. Others who spoke were Lee A. Jones, supervisor, Macon County Colored schools, who said Mrs. Booker T. Washington inaugurated Girls' day and sponsored it until her death in 1925, and Miss L. C. Davis, who paid tribute to Mrs. Washington for her many valuable contributions and services which she rendered the girls of Macon county. Mrs. Davis also had charge of a group of girls who conducted a brief memorial service at the chapel for her and at the conclusion of which they placed a wreath on her grave. The concluding feature of the morning program was the spelling contest in which 65 pupils participated. Only girls from the third through the sixth grade were eligible.

MAY 3 - 1941

Helen Sweeney, 13 years old, sixth grade, Washington public school, Mrs. Marie B. Williamson, teacher, won first prize; Lolla Mae Patterson, Chambliss Children's house, age 11, sixth grade, Mrs. Harriet Green Braye, teacher, won second prize; Bereniece Colling, Cotton Valley school, pupil of the sixth grade, was third; Hattie Wade, Dollington school, age 16, sixth grade, Mrs. Emma Naggles, teacher, and Lula Mae Elmore, Chesson school, 12 years old, sixth grade, Mrs. Pearl Braxton, teacher, tied for fourth place. Mr. Turner, who conducted the contest, praised the girls for their ability to spell and also for the interest and enthusiasm which they showed in the competition.

At 1:30, led by the Tuskegee band and a group of Tuskegee college women students, the visitors marched to the cafeteria for lunch. After lunch the girls were shown through the Department of Women's industries and witnessed demonstrations.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Commissions Given To 42 Cadet Officers

MAY 2 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., May 24.—Forty-two cadet officers of the Tuskegee Institute cadet regiment were awarded their commissions at exercises which were held in the assembly room of the Chambliss Children's House.

The military instruction at the Institute is under the direction of regular Army officers assisted by members of the Institute personnel and cadet officers selected for their military proficiency, leadership and scholarship attainment.

President Patterson said the excellent work which the Institute has done in military instruction since the establishment of the school had been commended by the War Department and that beginning with the Academic Year, 1941-1942, a senior unit of the R. O. T. C. would be established here. The president's announcement was warmly applauded.

Those awarded commissions follow:

Cadet Lieut. Col. Arthur Dickens, Montrose, Ark.

Cadet Majors Irvin L. Simpson, Florence; George H. Sawyer, Columbus, Ohio; William A. Gordon, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Cadet Capts. Eliot Van Zandt, Chicago; Curtis Conley, Livingston, Ala.; Quinton V. Nunn, El Dorado, Ark.; Josephus Johnson, Plant City, Fla.; James A. Ward, Birmingham; James M. Conley, Livingston, Ala.; Ernest Palmore, Richland, Ga.; Cecil Simpson, Birmingham; Theophilus C. Cottrell, Orlando, Fla.; William A. Calhoun, Pine Bluff, Ark.; William E. Boone, Wilmington, N. C.

Cadet First Lieuts. Willie H. Fuller, Tarbo, N. C.; William B. Driggins, Corning, N. Y.; Daniel James, Jr., Pensacola, Fla.; William H. Townsend, Earle, Ark.; Upshaw Sams, Beaumont, Texas; Frederick H. Moore, Somerville, N. J.; Marcus A. Perkins, Little Rock, Ark.; Robert C. Robinson, Asheville, N. C.; Stephen M. Harris, Hazelhurst, Ga.; Eugene C. Jamierson, Muskogee, Okla.; Leon I. Shelton, Houston, Texas; Nathaniel S. Colley, Snow Hill, Ala.; George L. Fountain, Bridgeton, N. J.; Harold E. Sawyer, Columbus, Ohio; Willie L. Houston, Shreveport, La.; Chester L. Harrell, Florence, S. C.; Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Ark.

MAY 2 1941

Cadet Second Lieuts. Lenny A. Barnes, Charlotte, N. C.; Cornelius E. Stantian, Birmingham; Archie B. Yates, Tuskegee Institute; Jerry R. Davis, Hayneville, Ala.; Otis D. Goodwin, Ed Dorado, Ark.; Albert G. Ransom, Pensacola, Fla.; Howard L. Ray, Mount Hebron, Ala.; Harry B. Matney, Fort Gay, W. Va.; Damon Muckelroy, Kilgore, Texas; Bradley Jackson, Asheville, N. C.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Hampton, Tuskegee To Share In Estate Of Arthur Curtis James

Eight-tenths of the estate of the late Arthur Curtis James, railroad industrialist, who died last Wednesday, will be used to create the James Foundation, the income of which is to be used to aid charitable religious and educational institutions. Mr. James' will was filed on Monday.

JUN 14 1941

Although no mention of the value of the estate was made, the late Mr. James is said to have been one of the ten wealthiest men in this country, with a controlling share in the Southern Pacific and other western railroads. His wife, who was wealthy in her own right, pre-deceased him by three weeks. They left no children.

The will directed that the income from the James Foundation be divided into twenty-eight shares and that the following organizations receive two shares each: The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Boston; Christodora House, the First Presbyterian Church of New York; Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, the Children's Aid Society, Amherst College, the American Seamen's Friends Society, Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Presbyterian Hospital.

The income from one share each will be shared by the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church the Newport, R.I., Hospital, the New York Public Library, Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, and the American Museum of Natural History. Union Theological Seminary gets the income from three shares.

Among the personal friends of the late Mr. James was Robt. Williams, veteran business man of Suffolk, Va., who was one of the three Negroes to attend the funeral. Mr. Williams' acquaintance with the deceased extended over a period of fifty years.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Hampton And Tuskegee Share In Man's Will

JUN 14 1941

NEW YORK — (ANP) — Both Hampton Institute in Virginia and Tuskegee institute in Alabama shall share in the will of the late Arthur Curtis James, railroad industrialist, eight-tenths of which will be used to establish the "James Foundation." The income of the fund will be employed in aiding charitable, educational and religious organizations and institutions which had enjoyed the benefactions of Mr. James during his life. No appraisal of the estate has been made, but it is believed to be considerable.

The will stipulates that part of the fund be used for the institutions, income of which shall be divided into 28 shares. In the distribution, Hampton is to receive two shares and Tuskegee will get one share.

Mr. James died two weeks ago. Less than a month ago, his wife, Mrs. Harriet Parsons James passed away. When her will was offered for probate, it was revealed that a $50,000 bequest had been made to the Lincoln School for Nurses. New York.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE ENDS 60th YEAR WITH GALA COMMENCEMENT

TUSKEGEE, May 22—(ANP)—Tuskegee Institute closed the 60th year of her outstanding educational history with a roster of interesting and unique programs climaxed with a commencement address on Monday, by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president of Hampton Institute, and the awarding of degrees, certificates and diplomas by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee.

The directors of the respective schools were presented by Dr. I. A. Derbigny, dean of administration. J. R. Otis presented 33 candidates for degrees in agriculture, James Bryant presented 15 for degrees in business; Dr. J. Max Bond, 20 for degrees in education; Mrs. Carrie Gleed, 12 for home economics; G. L. Washington 24 for mechanical industries; Major Cleve L. Abbott, four for physical education; Dr. J. A. Kenney, 16 for diplomas in nurse training. Two special certificates for refresher courses in commercial dietetics, and one trade certificate were also presented.

Albert L. Turner, registrar, handed the coveted crimson and gold booklets to Dr. Patterson as each graduate received a congratulatory hand shake from President Patterson.

Mrs. Bertha La Branch Johnson, class of 1902, was presented by Dr. Derbigny to Dr. Patterson, for an honorary degree of master of science. Baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president, Morehouse college, Atlanta, Sunday in the Institute chapel.

Early in the week many alumni, especially those of the reunion classes of 1931, 1921, and 1911 began to arrive from all parts of the country together with parents of members of the graduating class. Among the early arrivers were Robert Morgan, Cleveland, who was guest interne representative at the annual dinner of the department of mechanical industries on Thursday night, May 15; Emory Thomas, Brunswick, Ga., present to attend the same function; J. J. Henderson, guest interne representative annual dinner, from Durham, N. C.; Peter M. Jones, Memphis, guest interne representative; Alonzo G. Wright, Cleveland, principal speaker for the dinner of the mechanical industries departments; Mrs. Edward Barney, wife of Edward Barney, class of 1911, outstanding contractor, Washington; Mrs. Fannie Hathaway White, retired teacher of George W. Carver school, Lexington, Ky., and Dr. R. F. White, Warren Henry, class of 1931 came from Chicago to deliver the alumni address.

Annual Banquet

Feature for Thursday night was the annual banquet of the department of mechanical industries with Mr. Wright as the principal speaker Mr. Wright, the manager of seven filling stations in Cleveland, has the distinction of having more over turn in his seven stations than is true of any other stations in Ohio. This is according to the figures of 1939. Mr. Wright tells an interesting story of how he started in as filling station manager.

Some years ago Mr. Wright was employed in a Cleveland garage. While working on the car of a nationally known businessman, he overheard two men talking. The owner of the car made this statement, "Negroes can't run anything. They haven't the brains or the intelligence." Young Wright continued his inspection of the engine of the car. Two days later he approached one of the men who had taken part in the conversation. He stated that he had overheard the conversation and that he thought he knew one Negro who had brains and intelligence enough to manage a station. The man looked up in surprise and said, "I don't think so; I don't believe you can do it, but if you believe you can do it, we will turn over the station at 93 and Cedar to you as an experiment." Mr. Wright took him up on the offer. In a few years, two more stations were turned over to him, and at present he is operating seven stations, and during the past winter, it was proposed that he take on an additional two stations.

Friday afternoon occurred the commencement exercises of the junior high school of the Chambliss Children's house. Dr. Bond awarded certificates to 50 students, the largest class in the history of the school. President Patterson congratulated Mrs. Hattie S. West, principal, on the fine record made during the year. The commencement address was by Dr. Derbigny. A feature of the children's house commencement was the presentation of a gift to Mrs. Georgia K. Logan, kindergarten teacher from 1915 to 1938. First honor student of the school was Harvey Davis; Mary E. Reynolds, second honor student.

At 7:30 Friday night, White Hall lawn was the scene of the beautiful tradition class day exercises.

Saturday was Alumni Day. The campus swarmed with old graduates greeting each other and getting acquainted with the present faculty and students. Amongst the graduates were many proud parents of those to receive diplomas and certificates and degrees. For the entertainment of the visitors, the young women of the physical education department directed by Mrs. Amelia C. Roberts, presented a physical education demonstration on the gymnaisum quadrangle.

Saturday night, Logan Hall was packed for the speaking contest for the president's prize of $50, and the awarding of annual prizes. The speaking contest took a unique tur nthis year in as much as the student representatives of the senior and junior class chose as their subjects the most outstanding experiences of their school year.

Relation to National Defense

Following the custom of many lears, the commencement exercise was divided into two parts. Demonstrations by departments at 10 a. m. showed the relation of the Tuskegee program to national defense. The department of commercial dietetics demonstrated how the economical operation of a foods department conserved our national resources for national defense. The physical education department demonstrated the part of body building for health and its essential place in the defense program. The department of mechanical industries demonstrated the effective work that is being done in training of mechanics and pilots, and building constructors. The school of education stressed the development of cooperative stores and credit unions as an effective defense measure for rural communities. The value of recreation and rural drama was also brought out. The department of home economics made some very practical suggestions for the role of the family in national defense. The use of waste materials, the making over of garments, making of attractive furniture from scrap lumber, spools, and draperies from sacks. The school of agriculture demonstrated how truly the farmer is the backbone of the entire nation.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

'KEGEE AWARDS ATHLETES AT GRADUATION

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—During the commencement season each year honors are awarded to students who have participated in intercollegiate athletics. The recommendations for the Varsity "T" are made by the coaches of the respective teams. The coveted athletics honors are awarded upon the approval of the Director of Physical Education and the Committee on the Regulation of Athletics. Those approved for athletic awards the Academic Year, 1940-1941 are as follows:

Varsity "T" Football

Joshua Brown, '42, Hilton, Ga.; Marvin Fretwell, '41, Dallas, Texas; Lonnie Fyles, '43, Houston, Texas; Raymond Head, '43, Griffin, Georgia; Leonard Hollins, '41, Houston, Texas; Daniel James, '41, Pensacola, Florida; Amos Kirk, '41, Okolona, Mississippi; Robert Moore, '42, Grambling, Louisiana; Upshaw Sams, '42, Beaumont, Texas; Louis Slade, '41, New Orleans, Louisiana; Marion Smiley, '43, Montgomery, Alabama; Dennis Stewart, '42, Jacksonville, Florida.

Manager's Award

William Johnson, '41, Atlanta, Georgia.

Varsity "T" Basketball

Collins Briggs, '42, Houston Texas; Leo Brinkley, '43, Tulsa, Oklahoma; George Culver, '44, Evansville, Indiana; Arthur Dickens, '41, Montrose, Arkansas; Thomas Hornburger, '43, Edwardsville, Illinois; William Johnson, '44, Tulsa, Oklahoma; Charles Perry, '44, Savannah, Georgia; Eugene Porter, '44, Savannah, Georgia; George Robinson, '43, Hiawatha, Kansas; William Lee Shaw, '42, Washington, D. C.; Wilson Smith, '43, Kansas City, Kansas.

Manager's Award

Theophilus C. Cottrell, '42, Orlando, Florida.

Varsity "T" Track-Men

William Anderson, '42, Atlanta, Georgia; Howard Carter, '41, Houston, Texas; Wilbert Dalton, '43, Walkertown, N. C.; Marvin Fretwell, '41, Dallas, Texas; Otis Goodwin, '42, El Dorado, Arkansas; Raymond Head, '43, Griffin, Georgia; Roy LaGrone, '44, Pine Bluff, Arkansas; James Lewis, '41, Southern Pines, North Carolina; Clemenceau Maultsby, '43, Jacksonville, Florida; Murphy, McCoy, '43, Fordyce, Arkansas; George Robinson, '43, Hiawatha, Kansas; Upshaw Sams, '42, Beaumont, Texas; Louis Slade, '41, New Orleans, Louisiana; Fred Thomas, '44, New York City.

Manager's Award

Charles Wray, '41, British Guiana, South America.

Varsity "T" Tennis-Men

Clifford H. Russell, '42, West Palm Beach, Florida; Howard Minnis, '43, Nassau Bahamas, British West Indies.

Varsity "T" Rifelry

Charles Powell, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Varsity "T" Basketball Women

Margaret Barnes, '41, Kalamazoo, Michigan; Hester Brown, '42, Atlanta, Georgia; Elizabeth Campbell, '43, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama; Pearlena Gant, '42, Oakland, California; Jewell, Handy, '43, Lafayette, Alabama; Helen Hutchinson, '43, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama; Ruby Hockenhull, '44, Hermondale, Missouri; Christine Long, '44, Attchinson, Kansas, Lucy Newell, '43, Laurel, Mississippi; Leila Perry, 42, Atlanta, Geo gia; Margaret Peters, '41 Washington, D. C.; Willie B. Seals, '43, Magnolia, Mississippi.

Managers' Award

Essadora Wright, '43, Lucy, Tennessee; Martha Driver, '43, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Varsity "T" Track—Women

Margaret Barnes, '41, Kalamazoo, Michigan; Hester Brown, '42 Atlanta, Georgia; Betsy Carey '42, Esmont, Virginia; Gloria Fisher, '44, Laurel, Mississippi Hazel Glashen, '43, East Berkley, West Virginia; Hattie Hall, '42, Glendale, Ohio; Jewell Handy, '43, Lafayette, Alabama; Daisy Harrell, '44, Brantley, Alabama; Juanita Hill, '42, Los Angeles, California; Ruby Hockenhull, '44, Hermondale, Missouri; Christine Long, '44, Attchison, Kansas; Willie Mae McClure, '44, Winston-Salem, North Carolina; Lucy Newell, '43, Laurel, Mississippi; Leila Perry, '42, Atlanta, Georgia; Maggie Pete, '44, Greenswood, Florida; Marcie Lee Polk, '44, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama; Mary Veal, '43, Atlanta, Georgia.

Manager's Award
Cora Tate Berry, '42, Anniston, Alabama.

18y-1941

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Trustees Of Rosenwald Fund Study Activities Of Tuskegee Institute

MAR 28 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(AP)—Trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, often a benefactor of Tuskegee Institute, opened a two-day meeting here Friday.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was among board members here for the meeting.

The trustees Friday planned an inspection of Tuskegee's rural education projects, New Rising Star and Harris Barrett Schools and to the "Bucket Theater" on the Russell Plantation, where farmer adults will present a play.

The theater drew its name from Booker T. Washington's famous admonition to the Negro race, "Let down your buckets where you are."

The group also will visit the institute's weaving school and rural health projects where training for midwives, shop workmen, aviators and public health workers is provided.

MAR 28 1941

Other Rosenwald trustees, in addition to Mrs. Roosevelt, who are attending the meeting include Dr. O. M. Bousefield, Red Wale, Dorothy Elvidge, Edwin R. Embree, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frank, William Rosenwald, Robert E. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Odum, Edgar B. Stern, Dr. Leonard M. Rieser, George M. Reynolds, Dr. W. W. Alexander, Franklin C. McLean, Dr. Clifford Waller and Mark Ethridge.

Selma, Ala., Times-Journal
March 12, 1941

Senior ROTC Unit Awarded Tuskegee By War Department

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Mar. 12—(AP)—President F. D. Patterson, of Tuskegee Institute, anounced today the famed negro school had been awarded a senior R. O. T. C. unit by the war department.

The award, Dr. Patterson said, means that R. O. T. C. graduates now will be eligible for commissions in the army reserves, and he expressed the opinion the new unit's endeavors would be dovetailed with those of the air corps' pursuit school for negroes here.

Tuskegee long has maintained a military unit.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Dr. Williams Dies After Long Illness

APR 5 - 1941

School, Friends Mourn Death of Noted Educator

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Dr. W. T. B. Williams, vice-president of Tuskegee Institute and widely-known educator, died at his home Wednesday morning, March 26, following an illness of several months' duration.

Funeral services for the deceased were held in the Institute Chapel at 2 p. m. Saturday, March 29. The Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain of the Institute, officiated and he was assisted by the Rev. Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist Church.

WAS HARVARD GRADUATE

Dr. Williams, widely known as an educator, was a graduate of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia; Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., and from Harvard University. Following his graduation from Harvard, he became principal of one of the public schools in Indianapolis, Ind. Later he served as field representative of Hampton Institute, the General Education Board, the John F. Slater, and the Jeanes Fund.

APR 5 - 1941

At the invitation of Dr. Robert R. Moton, Dean Williams moved his family to Tuskegee in order that he might serve as consultant in the teacher training program of the Institute.

When the college department at Tuskegee was organized in 1927, Dr. Williams was appointed its first dean. In 1936 he was elected vice-president of Tuskegee Institute, and last September he assumed the additional duties as acting dean of men, succeeding to the office formerly held by Captain Alvin J. Neely who was made Executive Secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association.

He was a member of the Commission sent by the Federal Government to the Virgin Islands and to Haiti to make a survey and study of educational conditions. He was one of the organizers, and for two years was president of the National Association of Teachers in Colored Schools (A. T. A.), and was also a member of the National Education Association.

He was also one of the organizers with the late Robert R. Moton of the Negro Organization Society of Virginia, which works for better schools, better farms, better homes and better health among Negroes.

RECEIVED SPINGARN MEDAL

In recognition of his service in the field of education, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., conferred upon him the LL. D. degree in 1923.

In 1934, he was awarded the 20th Spingarn Medal for his knowledge of and his distinguished service to Negro education.

APR 5 1941

He was also a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and of the Sigma Phi Phi Boule. He was a Mason and a member of the Order of Odd Fellows.

Funeral services for the pioneer in the educational field were attended by the students and faculty of the Institute, members of the community, and many out-of-town friends.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee, expressed a feeling of deep personal loss in the passing of Dr. Williams and paid tribute to the lasting contribution which the deceased had made to the cultural and scholastic development of Tuskegee Institute.

Rev. Mr. Richardson, who delivered the eulogy, stated that Dr. Williams' life was "a blending of knowledge and achievement. He was a man of great learning and culture and his work in the educational development of the Negro will stand as a milestone in the progress of our race," the chaplain said.

Dr. Arthur D. Wright, president of the Southern Education Foundation, represented the Anna T. Jeans Fund.

APR 941

TUSKEGEE CHOIR SANG

"How Firm A Foundation" and "A Mighty Fortress is Our God," favorite hymns of the deceased, were sung during the funeral. Other music was rendered by the Tuskegee Choir.

Dr. Williams was frequently cited as having more first-hand knowledge of the rural Negro school than any other person in the United States. His work as field agent for the philanthropic boards financing the problem of the Jeanes teachers carried him several times a year into practically every county in each of the southern states.

With Dr. Williams at the time of his passing were his wife, Mrs. Kate Ruff Green Williams; his sister, Mrs. Esther Tyler of Calverton, Va.; his foster son, Taylor Williams; and his nieces, Mrs. Inez Harper Pitts and Mrs. Emily Webb Allen.

Active pallbearers were J. Julius Flood, J. W. Fuller, M. D. Sprague, Lloyd Isaacs, A. L. Turner, Arthur P. Mack, John L. Anderson, Dr. E. H. Dibble, G. L. Washington, and W. R. Maynard.

Honorary pallbearers were members of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and Phi Boule of Sigma Phi Phi.

APR 1941

Interment took place in the Tuskegee Institute Cemetery.

Dr. Williams was the second Tuskegee official to die within the past month. Funeral services for Secretary Edmund Burke were held three weeks ago.

Asheville N. C. Times
March 27, 1941

Teacher Will Attend Meet At Tuskegee

Daisy Glenn, teacher and sponsor of the Junior Red cross unit in the Shiloh negro school, has been named delegate to the annual Southeastern rally of the Junior Negro Red Cross to be held at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., tomorrow and Saturday. She is to leave this afternoon for Tuskegee.

The delegate goes with authority from the Buncombe county chapter of the American Red Cross to extend an invitation to hold the 1942 rally in Asheville. The initial rally was held here in 1935.

She will also speak on the junior activities of the local chapter.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

Tuskegee Institute Bank Announces Insurance for Investors

APR 10 1941

A certificate of insurance providing for the safety of savings up to $5,000 for each investor has been issued by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation to the Tuskegee Savings and Loan Association of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, it was announced here today by Nugent Fallon, General Manager.

This progressive institution which has been prominent in home financing in the Tuskegee Institute area since it was chartered on December 27, 1894, now joins 2,282 other savings, building and loan associations in the United States which provide this safety insurance for savings.

The $128,000,000 Insurance Corporation, a Federal Government instrumentality, was created in 1934 to protect savings placed in thrift and home-financing institutions. State-chartered savings, building and loan associations which apply for a certificate and meet the strict requirements of the Corporation are eligible for this insurance. A total of more than 2,803,000 persons now have protection for their savings through this Corporation. Aggregate assets of the 2,282 associations in the United States which provide this safety insurance amount to $2,932,000,000.

APR 10 1941

Reports to the Corporation state that the Tuskegee association has assets of $106,225 and share accounts totaling $63,138.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Trustees Praise Tuskegee Choir

APR 14 1941

"Even if the Angel Gabriel spoke now when we have just heard the choir sing "Listen to the Lambs," it would be an anti-climax." This tribute Dr. William J. Schieffelin, chairman of the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees paid to the singing of the Institute Choir at the Sunday Vesper Service. Following a tradition, President F. D. Patterson introduced Dr. Schieffelin to deliver the Sunday night talk.

APR 14 1941

A special music feature for the evening was the organ solo: Bach's Taccato Fugue in D. Minor, by Orrin Suthern, for several years head of the Organ Department, Tuskegee Institute, at present a member of the faculty of Florida A. and M. College, Tallahassee. In addition to "Listen to the Lambs" (Dett), the choir sang for the first time, William L. Dawson's effective arrangement of "Is There Anybody Here Who Loves My Lord", and "There is a Balm in Gilead", with Miss Julia Booker as soloist in the latter. Miss Ella Wright was soloist for the Dett selection.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee Enters 2 Relay Teams in Track Carnival

APR 12 1941

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—There will be a wealth of material in the women's senior national indoor track and field championships in the Municipal Auditorium, Saturday, judging from a partial list of entries released on Monday by Fred B. Percival, secretary of the Middle Atlantic AAU.

In the 50-meter run, four outstanding women sprinters are entered. They include Jean Lane of Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio; Rowena Harrison and Lucy Newell of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.; Elizabeth Clancey, German-American A.C.

Tuskegee's Hester Brown and Miss Lane will head the field of entrants for the 200-meter run, one of the highlights of the meet.

Lillian Purifay of Tuskegee slow of Nashville Business College, Nashville, Tenn., another favorite.

APR 12 1941

Tuskegee will enter two relay teams in the 400-meter event. Team A will have Miss Newell, Miss Perry, Miss Brown and Rowena Harrison, while Team B will have Miss Purifay, Miss Hall, Miss Barnes and Miss Coachman.

Stella Walsh Undecided

Stella Walsh has not as yet decided in what events she will compete, nor has the complete entry of the Polish-American Club of Cleveland, of which she is a member, been received. Events for women are limited to three track events, including the relays, and one field event.

and her teammate, Leila G. Perry, should provide the major opposition in the 50-meter hurdles, along with Nancy C. Thwaite of the German-American A.C. of New York. APR 12 1941

Alice Coachman and Miss Perry will carry Tuskegee colors in the running high jump with Miss Thwaite again representing the German-American Club.

Two Relay Teams

Hattie B. Hall and Margaret Barnes will represent Tuskegee in the eight-pound shot put, with Miss Newell and Miss Purifay upholding the team's claim to national supremacy in the standing broad jump.

The basketball throw will see three Tuskegee girls competing in Miss Coachman, Miss Barnes and Miss Hall, with Mary Win-

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE CELEBRATES TWENTY-FIFTH FOUNDER'S DAY

APR 17 1941

On April 6th the beautiful chapel was filled with the 2500 friends, faculty, students, and alumni assembled to pay tribute to the man who was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, graduate of the Class of 1921, in the Alumni Address as "our noble Founder, who born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color . . . our great Founder and source of inspiration whose body but not his spirit sleeps in yonder grave, for in the members of the Class of 1921, in tens of thousands who have felt the touch of Booker T. Washington, his spirit marches on."

The line of march, with Captain W. A. Richardson of the Class of 1902 as Marshal of the Day moved from Carnegie Hall at 1:30 p. m. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day Speaker, Dr. William J. Scieffelin, chairman of the Board of Trustees, followed by members of the Board, the Executive Council, the reunion class of 1921, alumni and faculty, were escorted by the Institute Band, Capt. F. L. Drye, director, down the campus road to the Chapel, between the open ranks of 1000 blue-uniformed Institute cadets and 600 young women of the college with their long blue capes thrown back to disclose the snow white blouse and blue skirt of the Tuskegee uniforms.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president Tuskegee Institute, presented the principal speaker, Dr. Lake Imes, who effectively set forth the philosophies of Booker T. Washington. Dr. Imes said that Booker Washington held to the idea that the best possible education came through experience, came by doing the thing rather than talking about it. "When asked if he thought education would solve the race problem, Booker Washington replied, 'I don't know; but no problem was ever solved by ignorance.'" To Booker Washington industrial education was not a theory but a very practical solution of intensely practical problems. APR 17 1941

Members of the Board of Trustees, Tuskegee Institute, arrived on the campus Friday morning, April 4, for the Annual spring meeting of the Board, and to pay tribute to the late Robert R. Moton, president-emeritus, at Memorial Services in his memory Friday afternoon, and for the Annual Founder's Day exercises, Sunday afternoon, 2:00 p. m., Institute Chapel.

* * *

Colored Graduate Nurses Hold Fifth Annual Institute

The Fifth Annual Institute for Colored Graduate Nurses held at Tuskegee Institute Friday, April 4 and 5, 1941, closed the most successful session of its history Saturday morning.

One hundred and six nurses were registered for the Institute according to Johnnie Lou Dent, R. N., Nurse for Movable School Tuskegee Institute. Miss Linna N. Denny, executive secretary urged all of the nurses who qualify for Red Cross nurses to file their applications. She stated that Alabama has fifteen Negro nurses already to go to camp. It was further learned that Miss Gladys Giles, Public Health Nurse Macon County, Alabama, was leaving April 26 for Red Cross Nursing Service at Fort Bragg North Carolina.

APR 17 1941

Physicians arrive for annual clinic

More than 75 physicians and surgeons have already arrived on the campus to attend the 30th Annual Clinic and Twenty-Fourth Meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, April 6-12, and Founder's Day exercises. This announcement was made by Dr John A. Kenney, Secretary-Treasurer of the Society and Medical Director of Tuskegee Institute.

The Dental Division of the Society will open its sessions Monday 9:00 a. m. at the Alumni Hut (Little Theatre). Features of the morning is a demonstration and discussion of New Drug in Treatment of Pyorrhea by Dr George W. Carver.

Impressive Founder's Day Is Held

Savannah Journal
Savannah, Ga.

APR 12 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(S N S)—"The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,' was one of the slogans Booker T. Washington used to drive home to his people, his economic philosophy of the soil," declared Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, in the 25th Founder's Day address at Tuskegee Institute, Sunday, honoring the memory of Booker T. Washington.

The beautiful chapel was filled with the 2,500 friends, faculty, students and alumni assembled to pay tribute to the man who was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, graduate of the class of 1921, in the Alumni address as "our noble Founder, who, born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color—our great Founder and source of inspiration, whose body but not his spirit sleeps in yonder grave, for in the members of the Class of 1921, in tens of thousands who have felt the touch of Booker T. Washington, his spirit marches on."

APR 12 1941

IN PROCESSIONAL

The line of march, with Captain W. A. Richardson of the Class of 1902 as Marshal of the Day, moved from Carnegie Hall at 1:30. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president; Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day Speaker; Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, followed by members of the Board, the Executive Council, the reunion class of 1921, alumni and faculty, were escorted by the Institute Band, Captain F. L. Drye, director, down the campus road to the Chapel, between the open ranks of 1000 blue-uniformed Institute cadets and 600 young women of the college with their long blue caps thrown back to disclose the snow white blouses and blue skirt of the Tuskegee uniform.

Dr. Patterson presented Dr. Imes. Dr. Imes effectively set forth the philosophies of Booker T. Washington. These said the speaker, are divided into four phases: economic, educational, social and his philosophy of achievement.

"Booker Washington's economic philosophy," said Dr. Imes, "has four major phases: 1) Soil....Social progress for any people, and for all people is based on the possession and development of the soil. Washington urged Negro farmers to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.' In furtherance of this philosophy, Booker Washington initiated three distinct services:

"1. Agricultural Extension Service which carried the resources of improved agriculture directly to the man on the soil.

"2. The land ownership projects at Baldwin farms and at the Forties (Harris Barrett Community), both in Macon County were designed to encourage and promote land ownership.

"3. The Jessup Wagon—forerunner of the Booker T. Washington School on Wheels and the present Movable School program—was designed for the improvement of the life of those on the soil."

"The second major emphasis of his economic philosophy was upon WORK. He often told his people that it was better to work for nothing than not to work at all. He believed too, that civilization was as much in danger from the unemployed at the top of the social scale as it is from the unemployed at the bottom of the scale.

"Third, Booker Washington urged his people to produce something that the other man wants.

"And fourth, he urged his students again and again, 'Create a job for yourselves, rather than wait for somebody else to give you a job."

APR 12 1941

Dr. Imes stated that a large measure of Booker Washington's success was due to the fact that he refused to go any further than he could carry the white man with him. The speaker emphasized that Mr. Washington was convinced that the goodwill of the man who lives next door to you is more valuable than that of the man who lives a thousand miles away. "It is this which laid the foundation for Mr. Washington's statement that the southern white man was the Negroes' best friend."

On the rostrum were Rev. H. V. Richardson, chaplain, Tuskegee Institute; Dr. F. D. Patterson, president; Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day speaker; Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

APR 12 1941

The Tuskegee Institute choir, conducted by William L. Dawson visiting Alumni inspected the new distinguished physicians here for of the Class of 1921, sang. Infantile Paralysis Unit, heard a the annual meeting of the John A. Following the Founder's Day concert by the Institute Band, and Andrew Clinical Society were preexercises, the Montgomery-Tuske- attended the informal tea at the sented for short addresses. gee Club followed its annual New Alumni Headquarters in Car- Following the business meeting custom of gathering at the grave negie Hall. on Saturday afternoon, the Tusof the Founder for a brief serv- At the Sunday Vesper Service kegee Trustees and their guests ice and to place a wreath. During at 7:30 p.m., Trustees and several visited the Tuskegee airport to see the afternoon the Trustees and the 58 student flyers in action.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee Enters 2 Relay Teams in Track Carnival

APR 12 1941

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—There will be a wealth of material in the women's senior national indoor track and field championships in the Municipal Auditorium, Saturday, judging from a partial list of entries released on Monday by Fred B. Percival, secretary of the Middle Atlantic AAU.

In the 50-meter run, four outstanding women sprinters are entered. They include Jean Lane of Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio; Rowena Harrison and Lucy Newell of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.; Elizabeth Clancey, German-American A.C.

Tuskegee's Hester Brown and Miss Lane will head the field of entrants for the 200-meter run, one of the highlights of the meet.

Lillian Purifay of Tuskegee slow of Nashville Business College, Nashville, Tenn., another favorite.

APR 12 1941

Tuskegee will enter two relay teams in the 400-meter event. Team A will have Miss Newell, Miss Perry, Miss Brown and Rowena Harrison, while Team B will have Miss Purifay, Miss Hall, Miss Barnes and Miss Coachman.

Stella Walsh Undecided

Stella Walsh has not as yet decided in what events she will compete, nor has the complete entry of the Polish-American Club of Cleveland, of which she is a member, been received. Events for women are limited to three track events, including the relays, and one field event.

and her teammate, Leila G. Perry, should provide the major opposition in the 50-meter hurdles, along with Nancy C. Thwaite of the German-American A.C. of New York. APR 12 1941

Alice Coachman and Miss Perry will carry Tuskegee colors in the running high jump with Miss Thwaite again representing the German-American Club.

Two Relay Teams

Hattie B. Hall and Margaret Barnes will represent Tuskegee in the eight-pound shot put, with Miss Newell and Miss Purifay upholding the team's claim to national supremacy in the standing broad jump.

The basketball throw will see three Tuskegee girls competing in Miss Coachman, Miss Barnes and Miss Hall, with Mary Win-

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE CELEBRATES TWENTY-FIFTH FOUNDER'S DAY

APR 17 1941

On April 6th the beautiful chapel was filled with the 2500 friends, faculty, students, and alumni assembled to pay tribute to the man who was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, graduate of the Class of 1921, in the Alumni Address as "our noble Founder, who born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color . . . our great Founder and source of inspiration whose body but not his spirit sleeps in yonder grave, for in the members of the Class of 1921, in tens of thousands who have felt the touch of Booker T. Washington, his spirit marches on."

The line of march, with Captain W. A. Richardson of the Class of 1902 as Marshal of the Day moved from Carnegie Hall at 1:30 p. m. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day Speaker, Dr. William J. Scieffelin, chairman of the Board of Trustees, followed by members of the Board, the Executive Council, the reunion class of 1921, alumni and faculty, were escorted by the Institute Band, Capt. F. L. Drye, director, down the campus road to the Chapel, between the open ranks of 1000 blue-uniformed Institute cadets and 600 young women of the college with their long blue capes thrown back to disclose the snow white blouse and blue skirt of the Tuskegee uniforms.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute, presented the principal speaker, Dr. Lake Imes, who effectively set forth the philosophies of Booker T. Washington. Dr. Imes said that Booker Washington held to the idea that the best possible education came through experience, came by doing the thing rather than talking about it. "When asked if he thought education would solve the race problem, Booker Washington replied, 'I don't know; but no problem was ever solved by ignorance.'" To Booker Washington industrial education was not a theory but a very practical solution of intensely practical problems. APR 17 1941

Members of the Board of Trustees, Tuskegee Institute, arrived on the campus Friday morning, April 4, for the Annual spring meeting of the Board, and to pay tribute to the late Robert R. Moton, president-emeritus, at Memorial Services in his memory Friday afternoon, and for the Annual Founder's Day exercises Sunday afternoon, 2:00 p. m., Institute Chapel.

* * *

Colored Graduate Nurses Hold Fifth Annual Institute

The Fifth Annual Institute for Colored Graduate Nurses held at Tuskegee Institute Friday, April 4 and 5, 1941, closed the most successful session of its history Saturday morning.

One hundred and six nurses were registered for the Institute according to Johnnie Lou Dent, R. N., Nurse for Movable School Tuskegee Institute. Miss Linna N. Denny, executive secretary urged all of the nurses who qualify for Red Cross nurses to file their applications. She stated that Alabama has fifteen Negro nurses already to go to camp. It was further learned that Miss Gladys Giles, Public Health Nurse Macon County, Alabama, was leaving April 26 for Red Cross Nursing Service at Fort Bragg North Carolina.

APR 17 1941

Physicians arrive for annual clinic

More than 75 physicians and surgeons have already arrived on the campus to attend the 30th Annual Clinic and Twenty-Fourth Meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, April 6-12, and Founder's Day exercises. This announcement was made by Dr John A. Kenney, Secretary-Treasurer of the Society and Medical Director of Tuskegee Institute.

The Dental Division of the Society will open its sessions Monday 9:00 a. m. at the Alumni Hut (Little Theatre). Features of the morning is a demonstration and discussion of New Drug in Treatment of Pyorrhea by Dr George W. Carver.

Impressive Founder's Day Is Held

Savannah Journal
Savannah, Ga.

APR 12 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(S N S)—"The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,' was one of the slogans Booker T. Washington used to drive home to his people, his economic philosophy of the soil," declared Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, in the 25th Founder's Day address at Tuskegee Institute, Sunday, honoring the memory of Booker T. Washington.

The beautiful chapel was filled with the 2,500 friends, faculty, students and alumni assembled to pay tribute to the man who was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, graduate of the class of 1921, in the Alumni address as "our noble Founder, who, born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color—our great Founder and source of inspiration, whose body but not his spirit sleeps in yonder grave, for in the members of the Class of 1921, in tens of thousands who have felt the touch of Booker T. Washington, his spirit marches on."

APR 12 1941

IN PROCESSIONAL

The line of march, with Captain W. A. Richardson of the Class of 1902 as Marshal of the Day, moved from Carnegie Hall at 1:30. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president; Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day Speaker; Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, followed by members of the Board, the Executive Council, the reunion class of 1921, alumni and faculty, were escorted by the Institute Band, Captain F. L. Drye, director, down the campus road to the Chapel, between the open ranks of 1000 blue-uniformed Institute cadets and 600 young women of the college with their long blue caps thrown back to disclose the snow white blouses and blue skirt of the Tuskegee uniform.

Dr. Patterson presented Dr. Imes. Dr. Imes effectively set forth the philosophies of Booker T. Washington. These said the speaker, are divided into four phases: economic, educational, social and his philosophy of achievement.

"Booker Washington's economic philosophy," said Dr. Imes, "has four major phases: 1) Soil....Social progress for any people, and for all people is based on the possession and development of the soil. Washington urged Negro farmers to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.' In furtherance of this philosophy, Booker Washington initiated three distinct services:

"1. Agricultural Extension Service which carried the resources of improved agriculture directly to the man on the soil.

"2. 'The land ownership projects at Baldwin farms and at the Forties (Harris Barrett Community), both in Macon County were designed to encourage and promote land ownership.

"3. The Jessup Wagon—forerunner of the Booker T. Washington School on Wheels and the present Movable School program—was designed for the improvement of the life of those on the soil."

"The second major emphasis of his economic philosophy was upon WORK. He often told his people that it was better to work for nothing than not to work at all. He believed too, that civilization was as much in danger from the unemployed at the top of the social scale as it is from the unemployed at the bottom of the scale.

"Third, Booker Washington urged his people to produce something that the other man wants.

"And fourth, he urged his students again and again, 'Create a job for yourselves, rather than wait for somebody else to give you a job."

APR 12 1941

Dr. Imes stated that a large measure of Booker Washington's success was due to the fact that he refused to go any further than he could carry the white man with him. The speaker emphasized that Mr. Washington was convinced that the goodwill of the man who lives next door to you is more valuable than that of the man who lives a thousand miles away. "It is this which laid the foundation for Mr. Washington's statement that the southern white man was the Negroes' best friend."

On the rostrum were Rev. H. V. Richardson, chaplain, Tuskegee Institute; Dr. F. D. Patterson, president; Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day speaker; Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

APR 12 1941

The Tuskegee Institute choir, conducted by William L. Dawson visiting Alumni inspected the new distinguished physicians here for of the Class of 1921, sang. Infantile Paralysis Unit, heard a ting of the John A. Following the Founder's Day concert by the Institute Band, and Andrew Clinical Society were pre- exercises, the Montgomery-Tuske- attended the informal tea at the sented for short addresses. gee Club followed its annual New Alumni Headquarters in Car- e business meeting custom of gathering at the grave negie Hall. fternoon, the Tus- of the Founder for a brief serv- At the Sunday Vesper Service and their guests ice and to place a wreath. During kegee Trustees and at 7:30 p.m., Trustees and several visited the Tuskegee the afternoon the Trustees and the 58 student flyers in action.

18y-1941

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

HOME AND FARM AGENTS END ANNUAL TUSKEGEE MEETING

FEB 28 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE. — Negro home and farm demonstration agents in Alabama have just closed their annual mid-winter conference at Tuskegee institute. During this conference many current problems were taken up and outstanding officials presented to the group.

P. O. Davis, director of extension service in Alabama, addressed the group, and expressed the thought that the outlook for extension service was never as bright as it is today. He indicated some of the jobs agents have to push with farmers as follows: (1) Make the land feed the people and their livestock; (2) Farmers need twice as much cash today as they did some years ago; (3) Farmers have reached the place where it is necessary for them to use collective action for their constructive advancement; (4) Farmers are not getting enough money for their products

A. W. Jones, state AAA administrator, told the group that farmers need to maintain the ferility of the land and use it wisely in order to get the best living possible from the land.

T. M .Campbell, field agent, with headquarters at Tuskegee institute. Emphasized the importance of the agents cooperating in every way with the national defense program and using their influence with the farmers to get them to follow the various practiives suggested by the planning boards.

The AAA section of the meeting proved to be very interesting to the agents, and they were made familiar with the new provisions.

Among the numerous speakers who brought messages and information to the agents were Miss Etna McGaugh, State Home Demonstration agent, Miss Lavada Curtis, Food Preservation Specialist, J C. Ford, coordinator, Alabama Extension service, J. C. Lowery, agronomist, and W. H. Gregory, assistant agronomist, H. W. Deering, assistant agricultural engineer, J. L Lyles Jr., economist, F. W. Burns livestock specialist, Miss E. DeLony Girls 4-H club leader, T. A. Simms state 4-H club leader, L. D. Bracken, extension editor, W. T. Ingram, chief accountant, J. F. Ivey poultry specialist, and W. A. Ruffin specialist, entomology and horticulture, all of Auburn; E. A. Miller, assistant to director, AAA, and C. F. Clark, AAA, both of Washington; A. L. Holsey, field officer, AAA, with headquarters at Tuskegee institute.

As the meeting closed, the agents expressed themselves as having been greatly benefited from the meetings.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee Plans Summer School; Opens June 5

MAR 9 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. Mar. 6—Announcement of the annual sessions of the Tuskegee Institute Summer School was made here this week by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president. The first session will open June 5 and will continue until July 5; the second session will begin July 7, and will close August 9, with a regular program of commencement activities, Dr. Patterson said.

Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the School of Education, said it is the aim of the summer school to serve public education in the South to the fullest possible extent; that a special effort is made to meet the needs of those wishing to renew, or extend certificates, of teachers and others wishing credit toward degrees; of public school teachers wishing to study progressive methods of teaching any grade of school work; of students enrolled in the regular session of this and any other college who wish to make up work. Those desiring special work in home economics, agriculture, mechanics, public school music, art, speech, physical education, social service and other special fields, will be accommodated. Courses have also been arranged for those interested in teaching in junior and senior high schools or in securing additional training in that field.

"In addition," Dr. Bond said. "there will be several special courses, short courses and combinations of work available for students interested in systematic study of special problems and types of work."

MAR 9 1941

Recreation will include tennis, soft ball, baseball, swimming, badminton, golf and horesback riding along many of the beautiful bridle paths of the Institute. There will be entertainment features by leading artists and plays by members of the Litle Theatre. Some of the outstanding motion pictures of the year will be shown three times per week. Summer School catalogs are ready for distributaion and may be obtained from the office of A. L. Turner, registrar, Dr. Patterson stated.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee Plans Weaving School

MAR 15 1941

For the first time in its long history of service to rural folk, Tuskegee will, this spring, hold a weaving school on the campus.

The weaving school is another phase of the increased emphasis of the program of Tuskegee's school of education to improve and develop native customs and crafts in the rural areas.

The Tuskegee weaving school will open March 5 and will continue for two months. Miss Susan R. Christian, a pupil of Miss Z. H. Van Hall, weaving expert with the FSA, has been engaged to teach the weaving. Patterns and methods of peasant weaving throughout the world will occupy the students enrolled in the school. Seven new Bexell looms at a cost of $113 each have been purchased for the use of the weaving school. The school is the brain-child of Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the school of education, Tuskegee Institute, and authority on rural life programs.

MAR 15 1941

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Tuskegee Host to Alabama State Teacher Trainers

FEB 2

TUSKEGEE Institute, Ala. — Tuskegee Institute was host to 104 state supervisors of agriculture and home economics and representatives of teacher training institutions for Negroes for a busy five-day conference, February 10-14.

The conference, which brought together white federal agents from the United States Office of Education, Washington, D. C., and Negro workers from 16 states, was described by Miss Marie White, southern regional agent, as having the largest attendance of its 10 years of existence.

"The major emphasis of the entire conference," stated Miss White, "is being given to consideration of the joint program of the vocational agriculture teachers and the home economics teachers in relation to the program for improved farm family living."

Miss White stressed the fact that "all members of the conference group are taking active part in all committee work being done."

A feature of the Monday session was the address of welcome by Dr F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, host to the conference, and an address by Miss Edna P. Amidon, chief of Economics Service, Washington, D. C.

Miss Amidon stated that home economics could make a definite contribution to National Defense by (1) making folk more employable through improving their personal living, especially in regard to diet, (2) by training for home-making those who must carry the dual load of home-maker and wage-earner (3) by cooperating with other services for training for the service occupation for hire, especially in connection with food industry, (4) by extending community service to include training nurses, maids and play directors against the time when mothers may be needed in factories or other out-of-the-home defense activities."

Reports on what is being done in the various states to forward National Defensive Training programs occupied the conference on Monday. Reports revealed uneven progress in participation; while Texas and Virginia have projects well underway, West Virginia and Kentucky have practically none.

Reports and discussion revealed that major problems confronting the workers in their efforts to carry on Defense programs were: (1) The difficulty of finding trained personel for teaching the trade work to Negro groups. (2) No buildings for the shop work. (3) The difficulty communities have in meeting the cash requirements for the erection of shop buildings with NYA, WPA aid. (4) The difficulty in meeting the requirements of the National Youth Administration in carrying on cooperative instruction and production projects.

No Defense Program

R. E. Commack, state supervisor of agricultural education for Alabama, reported that to date the Alabama school had no defense programs; that the only defense classes in vocational agriculture were in the four Alabama CCC camps. Mr. Commack stated that plans for defense programs in Alabama schools would be ready by July 1.

FEB 21 1941

Leadership Training schools formed the chief topic of discussion for Tuesday sessions. Mr. W. A. Ross Subject Matter Specialist, Agricultural Education, U.S. Office of Education and outstanding leader in the New Farmers of America and Future Farmers of America programs, fired every one with his enthusiasm for the future of Negro farm youth. In the afternoon, Mr. Ross addressed the upper classmen in the schools of Agriculture and Home Economics on subject matter and teaching materials. Mr. Ross paid high tribute to Abraham Lincoln and to Booker T. Washington, both of whom he said symbolized real education.

Adequate Food for Farm Families was the topic for Wednesday and Thursday. Here the emphasis was put on closer coordination of Vocational Agriculture with Home Economics.

At vesper services in the institute chapel on Wednesday night, President Patterson presentd the conference group to the student body. Alva Tabor, Itinerant Teacher-Trainer, Georgia, and a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, responded for the conference.

FEB 21 1941

Committee meetings at work on the proposed conference bulletin to be published through the U. S. Office of Education occupied much of Thursday and Friday.

Social features of the conference included a tour of Tuskegee's campus, the Veterans facility, a dance honoring the conference, an infantile paralysis benefit dance

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Weaving Schools Set Up On 'Skegee Campus

MAR 2 - 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE-(SNS)—For the first time in its long history of service to rural folk, Tuskegee will this spring hold a weaving school on the campus. The weaving school is another phase of the increased emphasis of the program of Tuskegee's School of Education to improve and develop native customs and crafts in the rural areas.

The Tuskegee weaving school will open March 5 and will continue for two months. Miss Susan R. Christian, a pupil of Miss Z H. Van Hall, weaving expert with the F. S. A., has been engaged to teach the weaving. Patterns and methods of peasant weaving throughout the world will occupy the students enrolled in the school

SEVEN LOOMS BOUGHT

Seven new Bexell looms at a cost of $113.00 each have been purchased for the use of the weaving school. The looms are the eight harness, 45 inch width type, especially designed by Miss Van Hall and adopted by F. S. A. Tuskegee has the distinction of being the only school in the country to possess these latest models of the Bexell loom.

The Tuskegee weaving school is the brain-child of Dr. J. Max Bond, Director of the School of Education, Tuskegee Institute, and authority on rural life programs. It will be remembered that Dr. Bond was largely responsible for the planning and development of the rural life program affecting the hundreds of Negro families brought to the TVA area for the construction of the several dams of the Tennesee valley. Many of these families have remained as day laborers, mechanics, and small farmers.

The weaving school will be conducted under the joint sponsorship of the Farm Security Administration, Tuskegee Institute, and the Rosenwald Fund. The Rosenwald Fund is financing the project. Students from Jackson College, Mississippi, Fort Valley College, Fort Valley and Carleton College, Georgia, and Tuskegee Institute will enroll for this very intensive course in weaving.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Chinese Student Comes To Tuskegee on Exchange Basis

MAR 15 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Chung Ho from Foochow, China, was enrolled in the Tuskegee Institute school of agriculture for the year 1939-40 as the first "exchange" in the Tuskegee exchange-student program. War conditions in the far East have postponed the year of residence in China for the Tuskegee student.

MAR 15 1941

Early this year, Arthur Wiser, majoring in integrated work programs and cooperatives at Cornell University came to Tuskegee for a period as interne consultant with the cadet teachers of the school of education stationed in the rural laboratory teaching centers. The work program in these centers is under the supervision of Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the school of education. A Tuskegee man is to be selected as exchange student to go to Cornell in the near future.

OTHERS AT SCHOOL

From Hampton Institute has come Miss Greta Lee to study weaving in the special weaving school which opened March 5, and pottery design and glazing in the pottery division under Isaac Hathaway. According to the plan, a young woman, physical education major, will go to Hampton to study dancing with C. H. Williams and Charlotte Moton of the Hampton Dancers.

From Atlanta University, Haywood Oubree, graduate student in design under Hale Woodruff, has come to Tuskegee to study design in native craft, African and local, and re-designing with Isaac Hathaway, instructor in ceramics.

MAR 15 1941

Plans are in the making for an exchange student from Tuskegee to study native craft in the Bahamas during the summer, 1941.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

NATIVE CLAY IN ACTION

In one of Macon County's one-teacher colored schools, the pupils are modeling native clay into useful objects and, with the help of the art department at the Tuskegee Institute, are doing a very good job of it.

FEB 27 1941

This using the material right here at home to useful ends should be an inspiration for all of us to use the material and the TALENTS that are given to us to the very best purpose of which we are capable.

FEB

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

E. H. Burke, Secretary of Tuskegee, Dies

MAR 15 1941

E. H. BURKE

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (ANP) — Edmund H. Burke, secretary of Tuskegee Institute, died at John A. Andrew Hospital here, early Friday morning, victim of a stroke.

MAR 15 1941

Arrangements were made for funeral services in New York City, where Mr. Burke's wife and daughter live.

Mr. Burke, a native of the British West Indies, was formerly comptroller at Tuskegee.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

HOLD SERVICE FOR TUSKEGEE COMPTROLLER

Edmund Burke, Institute Attache, Buried From Campus Chapel

MAR 15 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Funeral services for Edmund H. Burke, comptroller of Tuskegee institute and secretary of the board of trustees, who died here Friday, following a brief illness, were held in the institute chapel, Saturday.

Rev. William Byrd Lee, rector St. Andrews mission of the Episcopal church, was in charge of the services. He was assisted by Chaplain Harry V. Richardson, Rev. Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist church, and Rev. T. R. Newman, pastor of Washington Chapel A.M.E. church, both of the institute community.

Burke was born on the Island of Montserrat, British West Indies, of an old and distinguished family, and was educated in the school of the island at Martinique. He spent several years in the British government and was frequently commended for the high character of his work as well as for his loyalty to his superiors.

Coming to this country in 1905, he secured employment in the New York subway system. Because of his keen interest in his work and his willingness to serve in various capacities, he won rapid promotion and attracted the attention of L. P. Hollander and company, of Boston, operating one of the large and successful department stores in New York City. Burke remained with this company for 26 years and rose from junior clerk to auditor.

He came to Tuskegee institute in 1934 to serve as comptroller, succeeding Charles H. Gibson Sr., retired.

MAR 15 1941

His fraternal affiliations included membership in the Phi Beta Sigma, the Sigma Pi Phi (boule), the Masons and the Booker T. Washington lodge of the I.B.P.O.E. of W. He was chairman of the finance committee of the John A. Andrew Hospital Aid society, lay reader, St. Andrews Mission, chairman of the faculty advisory committee; chairman of the Tuskegee Debate society, and treasurer of the local chapter of the Infantile Paralysis unit of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, In

MAR 15 1941

He was one of the founders of the American Tennis association and for the past several years had served as chairman of the National Tournament committee. He contributed much to the advancement of tennis throughout the nation. During the First World war, he served as adjutant of the famous 369th Infantry, New York.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lena Chambers, New York City; his wife, Mrs. Frances Burke, and three sons, Edmund, Wilford and Harold of Cambridge, Mass., and his grandmother.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tuskegee's Secretary Suffers Stroke; Dies

MAR 15 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Mar. 13—(ANP)—Edmund Burke, secretary of Tuskegee institute, died at John M. Andrew hospital here Friday morning at 3:30. Mr. Burke, an expert in the field of accounting and auditing, was born in the British West Indies and received his early education in Martinique. Elected secretary of the board of trustees after valuable service as comptroller, he was beloved by students and faculty. A regular teacher in the Episcopal Mission's Sunday school, Mr. Burke took courses in agriculture and related subjects, to give himself the feel of the current day student's viewpoint.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

TUSKEGEE SCHOOL GETS R.O.T.C. UNIT

MAR 13 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 12—(A — Tuskegee Institute has been awarded a senior R. O. T. C. unit by the War Department, President F. D. Patterson announced Wednesday.

MAR 13 1941

The senior rating will make Tuskegee's R. O. T. C. graduates eligible for army reserve commissions, Patterson said. He expressed the belief the new unit's training would be linked with activity of the air corps pursuit school for Negroes here. Tuskegee has had a military corps for years.

18y-1941
Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Service Magazine Men in Kansas City

Representatives From Tuskegee

Two representatives of Tuskegee Institute's fast-growing Service Magazine, a publication sponsored by the famed institution in the interest of improving the efficiency and job-holdng ability of colored persons engaged in the "service occupations" throughout the country, were Kansas City visitors during the first part of the week. They were John Patterson, sales manager of the magazine, and Nat D. Williams, acting editor.

The duo arrived in Kansas City after an extended automobile tour through the centers of the southeast and Middle West where their journal is widely distributed.

In stating the objectives of the six-year old publication, Mr. Patterson explained that it was a direct outgrowth of the Tuskegee program based on the philosophy of the great Booker T. Washington, whose view of the Negro's role in the field of work was: "We shall prosper insofar as we learn to glorify and dignify labor, and do the common things of life well."

Dr. Fred D. Patterson, third president of the great vocational school, has attempted through Service Magazine, and the Commercial Dietetics course, of which it is the out-of- school extension course, to lend practical impetus to his illustrious successor's principles.

Service sales representatives visit hotels, restaurants, schools, hospitals, laundries, and similar institutions virtually all over the country, where large numbers of Negro "service workers" are employed. They contact these employees and their employers; study working conditions; indicate new trends; and offer their magazine as a trade journal designed to aid the workers in improving their efficiency and thus insuring their retention of their jobs.

Service Magazine is now one of the leading publications of its kind in the country. An immediate and enthusiastic reponse has been accorded by both employers and employees.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Wilberforce Univ. Awards Degree To Tuskegee Head

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., June 26—Wilberforce university cited the head of Tuskegee Institute and the director of religious activities for honorary degrees at the June convocation of the Ohio pioneer university. The exercises were held on the university campus.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws with the citation "for effectively directing the affairs of one of the greatest institutions and for distinguished service to the race and country in these crucial times."

Reverend Harry V. Richardson, chaplain of Tuskegee Institute, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Divinity with the citation: for distinguished service in Christian ministry, particularly in bringing the cause of the rural church to national attention and for leadership in national movements now working in religious problems.

The citations were read and the degrees were conferred by Dr. D. Ormonde Walker, president of Wilberforce university.

Earlier in June, President Patterson was awarded an honorary degree by Virginia State college, Petersburg, Va.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Progress Shown In Tuskegee's Annual Report

Changing Needs Must Be Met, Says Patterson

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(SNS)—Negro unemployment, in manifold aspects together with Tuskegee Institute's responsibility to continue its program of education with necessary adjustments to meet changing economic conditions in the South and the nation are given appropriate emphasis in the Annual Report just issued by President F. D. Patterson.

Changing conditions "in a nation yet counting its unemployed by the millions" requires educational institutions "to seek wider adaptability of their graduates." At the same time, the "economic maladjustment" says President Patterson, has seriously affected the income of private educational institutions "in view of the decline in gifts and the curtailed income from endowment which threatens to grow worse rather than better."

TRAIN IN SERVICE FIELDS

Despite these apparent handicaps, Tuskegee has continued "to foster the development of skills and training in the area of service occupations." This type of training is necessary to the progress of the masses of the Negro race who because of the "pressure brought by the unemployed of other races" are constantly losing jobs in this field "without a corresponding increase in jobs gained in other types of employment."

Tuskegee's President frankly admits that losses of jobs in service occupations are sometimes due to failure on the part of the Negro workers "to keep abreast of changes and new demands in these fields." For that reason it is "imperative that we give renewed effort in the direction stressed by Booker T. Washington and put brains and skill into the common occupations of life."

In a broader concept, Dr. Patterson warns that "unless some Negroes are trained in the capacity of specialists in technological areas, the Negro people as a whole shall remain outside of the main stream of American development and fall far short of the balanced development essential for normal participation in American democracy."

NEED TECHNICIANS

Because the great majority of Tuskegee students come from the South and return to labor in Southern communities the Tuskegee report emphasizes the need in the South for "skilled technicians to stop the prodigal waste of its soil and other material resources."

The Interne-Plan by which students in Trades and Commercial Foods courses are assigned to various institutions is fully explained and supported by strong letters from officials under whom such interned students served.

A special section of this Report is devoted to a review of the growth of the institution during the administration of Dr. Robert R. Moton, second President of the institution who passed away in 1940.

The booklet which is printed in the Institute Printing Department, profusely illustrated with cuts, provises an excellent pictorial review of the Institute's many activities.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Carries On

Educational institutions supported in considerable part by endowment are facing many special problems as a result of a reduction in their income from investments and in new gifts. Tuskegee Institute is no exception to the general rule and its incalculably useful work is subject to the consequent handicaps. All those familiar with this greatly constructive educational endeavor will be reassured, therefore, by the presidential report of Dr. F. D. Patterson for 1940, in which there is extensive impressive evidence that the administrators, faculty members and directors of the institution are carrying on faithfully and well.

In the face of curtailment of income, Dr. Patterson points out, the continuation of unemployment on a large scale has imposed the necessity for educational institutions "to seek wider adaptability of their graduates."

Tuskegee, it is reported, has continued "to foster the development of skills and training in the area of service occupations." Dr. Patterson says that losses of jobs in service occupations by Negro workers sometimes are due to failure to "keep abreast of changes and new demands in these fields," adding that it is consequently "imperative that we give renewed effort in the direction stressed by Booker T. Washington and put brains and skill into the common occupations of life."

Dr. Patterson wisely warns, however, that "unless some Negroes are trained in the capacity of specialists in technological areas, the Negro people as a whole shall remain outside of the main stream of American development . . . and fall far short of the balanced development essential for normal participation in American democracy."

The report stresses the need in the South for "skilled technicians to stop the prodigal waste of its soil and other material resources."

Under Dr. Patterson Tuskegee Institute is fortunate in having a continuation of the wisdom and efficiency of administration shown by its founder, Dr. Washington, and his successor, Dr. Robert R. Moton. This great good fortune—which is suggestive of the providential—is shared by the South and the entire nation as well as the institute itself.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

BRISCOE TAKES OVER DUTIES AS PUBLICITY MAN

Journalist And Tuskegee Instructor Named Aides In Washington

WASHINGTON—(ANP)—Secretary of Agriculture Claude C. Wickard announced last week the appointment to office of two important aides.

Thomas N. Robinson of Tuskegee, who for the past year has been completing work on his doctor's degree in agriculture at the University of Wisconsin on a Rosenwald fellowship, was named special assistant to Roy F. Hendricksnn, director of personnel for the entire department. The scope of Roberts' duties will include supervision of racial relations, a post which is certain to have far reaching possibilities because the agricultural department touches more closely the lives of Negroes than does any other governmental bureau.

The other appointee was Sherman Briscoe, circulation manager of the Chicago Defender, who becomes a member of theh information or publicity department of agriculture.

Roberts, a Georgian by birth, passed through Wayness, Morehouse, Hampton and the University of Wisconsin, receiving a master's degree in the latter and taught in rural schools and at Georgia State college before he went to Tuskegee in 1935 in charge of the land use, soil conservation project, comprising the entire Macon county.

There Roberts had the unique experience of supervising hundreds of men, colored and white, engineers and skilled professionals as well as unskilled. He has been closely associated with Prairie Farms, FSA settlement, and other projects instituted or sponsored by Tuskegee. He is married and has a child.

Briscoe, whose work in publicity will range through all the bureaus of agriculture, is expected to open up new avenues of information regarding the progress being made by Negro farmers as well as to turn the spotlight upon any inequalities which may be found.

A native of Greenville, Miss., Briscoe went through high school at Alcorn and graduated at Southern in Louisiana. He taught and served as assistant principal, before launching the Monroe Broadcast, a weekly paper.

Since 1938 he has occupied several important positions with the Chicago Defender, having served as assistant city editor and director of circulation and public relations. Briscoe left the Chicago Defender to assume his present post.

Both Roberts and Briscoe's positions will be covered by civil service.

Telegraph
Macon, Georgia

Need for Practical Education Cited by Tuskegee's Prexy

Negro unemployment, in manifold aspects together with Tuskegee Institute's responsibility to continue its program of education with necessary adjustments to meet changing economic conditions in the South and the nation are given appropriate emphasis in the annual report just issued by President F. D. Patterson.

Changing conditions "in a nation yet counting its unemployed by the millions" requires educational institutions "to seek wider adaptability of their graduates." At the same time, the "economic maladjustment" says President Patterson, has seriously affected the income of private educational institutions "in view of the decline in gifts and the curtailed income from endowment which threatens to grow worse rather than better."

Despite these apparent handicaps, Tuskegee has continued "to foster the development of skills and training in the area of service occupations." This type of training is necessary to the progress of the masses of the Negro race who because of the "pressure brought by the unemployed of other races" are constantly losing jobs in the field "without a corresponding increase in jobs gained in other types of employment."

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Carries On

Educational institutions supported in considerable part by endowment are facing many special problems as a result of a reduction in their income from investments and in new gifts. Tuskegee Institute is no exception to the general rule and its incalculably useful work is subject to the consequent handicaps. All those familiar with this greatly constructive educational endeavor will be reassured, therefore, by the presidential report of Dr. F. D. Patterson for 1940, in which there is extensive impressive evidence that the administrators, faculty members and directors of the institution are carrying on faithfully and well.

In the face of curtailment of income, Dr. Patterson points out, the continuation of unemployment on a large scale has imposed the necessity for educational institutions "to seek wider adaptability of their graduates."

Tuskegee, it is reported, has continued "to foster the development of skills and training in the area of service occupations." Dr. Patterson says that losses of jobs in service occupations by Negro workers sometimes are due to failure to "keep abreast of changes and new demands in these fields," adding that it is consequently "imperative that we give renewed effort in the direction stressed by Booker T. Washington and put brains and skill into the common occupations of life."

Dr. Patterson wisely warns, however, that "unless some Negroes are trained in the capacity of specialists in technological areas, the Negro people as a whole shall remain outside of the main stream of American development . . . and fall far short of the balanced development essential for normal participation in American democracy."

The report stresses the need in the South for "skilled technicians to stop the prodigal waste of its soil and other material resources."

Under Dr. Patterson Tuskegee Institute is fortunate in having a continuation of the wisdom and efficiency of administration shown by its founder, Dr. Washington, and his successor, Dr. Robert R. Moton. This great good fortune—which is suggestive of the providential—is shared by the South and the entire nation as well as the institute itself.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Capt. Welch Assigned to Duty at Tuskegee

FORT DEVENS, Mass. — Capt. John A. Welch, commanding Company C, 366th Infantry, has been assigned to duty with the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Tuskegee Institute effective August 1.

Captain Welch is originally from Tuskegee, Ala., and before he entered upon active duty with the army on March 23, was head of the department of architecture and mechanical drawing at Tuskegee Institute.

He will leave in the 366th two brothers, Major Ernest R. Welch and First Lieut. George F. Welch.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Patterson Flies to Chanute for Inspection Tour

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (ANP) — President F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee Institute and G. L. Washington, who is in charge of the aviation program at Tuskegee, flew to Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., on Thursday to inspect the preliminary training being given the men of the 99th Pursuit Squadron there.

The flight was made in an army bomber plane of the latest type placed at President Patterson's disposal by the army.

Leaving Maxwell Field at Montgomery, Ala., early Thursday morning, the party arrived at Chanute Field at 1:30 p.m. Following lunch in the oficers' quarters and a tour of the squadron barracks, President Patterson addressed the assembled group.

No Race Problem at Chanute

There are approximately 440 enlisted men and cadets attached to the 99th stationed at Chanute, 278 of whom are enrolled in regular and advance courses. The Tuskegee officials were informed by Acting Commander H. E. O'Neill that the presence and training of colored enlisted men of the 99th had caused no problem on the post.

Keen interest and enthusiasm on the part of post officials, officers directly in charge and the instructors with respect to the general welfare and training of the men of the 99th was reported.

The aptitude and achievement of the enlisted men were reported to be as normally expected of trainees in general. However, the radio operators and mechanics were said to be in advance of normal and ahead of schedule.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee Dramatist on Drama Study Tour

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — S. Earl Walker, Tuskegee dramatist director, left the campus this week on a two-month travel study which will take him to Canada, Mexico, Hollywood and leading universities of the East. He will return to the campus in September.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News From Tuskegee Institute

Inauguration ceremony of the initiation of the training of Negro men for officers and pilots in the U. S. Army Air Corps will be held at the Booker Washington Monument on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, Saturday, July 19, 1941 at four p. m.

President F. D. Patterson will make a brief address of welcome. He will be presented by G. L. Washington, director of Mechanical Industries. Director Washington is director of the C. A. A. Private Pilot training course at the Institute and has worked tirelessly to bring to completion Tuskegee's side of the contract for elementary military flying.

Among those invited to participate in the inauguration program on Saturday are: Major General Walter R. Weaver, Commander of S. E. Training Center at Maxwell Field and his Staff Officers, representative of the American Legion, the U. S. Veterans Administration, Mayor and members of the City Council of the town of Tuskegee, Trustees, Faculty and students of Tuskegee Institute and members of the Press.

The ten flying cadets who will have the honor of being the first members of the 99th Pursuit Squadron will be sworn in at Maxwell Field on Saturday and will report immediately to Tusekgee Institute.

Ground training, mess and sleeping quarters for the flying cadets will temporarily be on the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

The flying field now under construction on the old Eich place about two and half miles from town will be ready for instruction in elementary flying, August 23. The brick hangar, apron and landing field are fast reaching completion.

Basic and advanced training will begin about Nov. 1, on the government Field now being con-Clongles.

18y-1941

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

Humanitarian Award Given To Dr. Carver

AMERICA VARIETY CLUBS HONOR TUSKEGEE SCIENTIST

Dr. George Washington Carver, humble, unassuming Tuskegee college scientist, tonight has been named winner of the 1940 humanitarian award of the Variety Club of America in annual convention in Atlantic City as the person, above all others, who had done most for the human race during the past year.

The presentation, an annual award, which carries a $650 plaque and $1,000 cash, was dramatically made with the first announcement being the flashing on the screen of a short subject dealing with the life of this great scientist, born in slavery, whose experiments with the soil and products of his native Alabama have bettered the lot of his race and that of the southern share cropper in general.

The Variety Clubs of America is the charity organization of the showmen of the nation. Film stars like Dorothy Lamour, Robert Young and nearly 15 others were present but Dr. Carver stole the show just as Miss Martha Berry, who was given the award last year, stole the spotlight at the 1940 convention in Dallas.

Dr. Carver was present. He acknowledged the ovation and said "he was lucky" to win the humanitarian citation. He is the first negro and the third person to receive the plaque. Father Flannigan, of Boys Town, is the other.

R. B. Wilby, high official of the Atlanta Variety Club, told Dr. Carver: "We southerners are pleased and delighted at the selection of such a distinguished scientist and southerner for this outstanding award."

Wilby who operates a theater in Tuskegee, said the Pete Smith short dealing with the life of Carver, which was shown, is the only film short ever to have been applauded by every audience which saw it in the Tuskegee theaters.

Milton Samuel, manager of the Macon Theater, visited with Dr. Carver Tuesday afternoon and carried a personal message of greetings from R. B. Wilby and R. M. Kennedy, who is a member of the Variety Club and district manager of the Wilby Theaters.

Dr. Carver was very grateful for his latest award and his delightful trip to Atlantic City. In his own words Dr. Carver stated that every one was gracious.

Photographs of the Parchment and Plaque, representing Dr. Carvers latest honor, The Variety Clubs of America 1940 Humanitarian Award, will be on display in the lobby of the Macon Theater beginning Sunday.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

Humanitarian Award Given To Dr. Carver

AMERICA VARIETY CLUBS HONOR TUSKEGEE SCIENTIST

Dr. George Washington Carver, humble, unassuming Tuskegee college scientist, tonight has been named winner of the 1940 humanitarian award of the Variety Club of America in annual convention in Atlantic City as the person, above all others, who had done most for the human race during the past year.

The presentation, an annual award, which carries a $650 plaque and $1,000 cash, was dramatically made with the first announcement being the flashing on the screen of a short subject dealing with the life of this great scientist, born in slavery, whose experiments with the soil and products of his native Alabama have bettered the lot of his race and that of the southern share cropper in general.

The Variety Clubs of America is the charity organization of the showmen of the nation. Film stars like Dorothy Lamour, Robert Young and nearly 15 others were present but Dr. Carver stole the show just as Miss Martha Berry, who was given the award last year, stole the spotlight at the 1940 convention in Dallas.

Dr. Carver was present. He acknowledged the ovation and said "he was lucky" to win the humanitarian citation. He is the first negro and the third person to receive the plaque. Father Flannigan, of Boys Town, is the other.

R. B. Wilby, high official of the Atlanta Variety Club, told Dr. Carver: "We southerners are pleased and delighted at the selection of such a distinguished scientist and southerner for this outstanding award."

Wilby who operates a theater in Tuskegee, said the Pete Smith short dealing with the life of Carver, which was shown, is the only film short ever to have been applauded by every audience which saw it in the Tuskegee theaters.

Milton Samuel, manager of the Macon Theater, visited with Dr. Carver Tuesday afternoon and carried a personal message of greetings from R. B. Wilby and R. M. Kennedy, who is a member of the Variety Club and district manager of the Wilby Theaters.

Dr. Carver was very grateful for his latest award and his delightful trip to Atlantic City. In his own words Dr. Carver stated that every one was gracious.

Photographs of the Parchment and Plaque, representing Dr. Carvers latest honor, The Variety Clubs of America 1940 Humanitarian Award, will be on display in the lobby of the Macon Theater beginning Sunday.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Tuskegee Group Sponsors May Day

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Good citizenship was the keynote of the annual May Day and bazaar held at the Chambliss Children's House here.

Prentiss Polk and Katherine Beasley of the 8th grade were elected king and queen of good citizenship. Their attendants were chosen on the basis of their good citizenship in the individual classes from the pre-school through the 8th grade.

Another highlight of campus activity was the meeting of the Southeastern Cooperative Educational Association with Dr. John Carson, Co-operative League, Washington, D. C., Dr. J. W. Broyles, Boaz, Ala., and C. R. Orchard, Farm Credit Union, Washington, D. C.

Officers of the Peoples Cooperative Association, Inc., are: W. A. Shields, president; J. D. Reed, vice president; W. B. Wrenn, secretary, and A. T. Bradley, treasurer.

Officers of the Tuskegee Institute Federal Credit Union, now in its third years of activity are: W. A. Shields, president; James A. Johnson, vice president; A. F. Bradley, treasurer; W. B. Wrenn, assistant treasurer; J. J. Flood, clerk; A. J. Neely, chairman, credit commtitee; W. R. Maynard, chairman, supervisory commitee; Charles G. Gomillion, chairman, educational committee.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

V. D. Johnston Visits Publisher

V. D. Johnston, treasurer of Howard university in Washington, D. C., and Lloyd Isaacs, of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., attended the annual meeting of University Business Officers at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, Wis. Mr. Johnston and Mr. Isaacs were the only two colored members present.

Both are former employees of Anthony Overton, publisher of the Chicago Bee. Before returning to Washington, Mr. Johnston spent two days in Chicago as the guest of Mr. Overton.

Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

CHARLES W. PIERCE, retiring teacher of science at Du Sable High school, was honored last week by the faculty, student body, and Parent-Teacher association of the school. Born in La Grange, Ga., Pierce was graduated from Chicago's Armour institute in 1901 and spent his first years as a teacher under the late Booker T. Washington at Tuskegee institute, Tuskegee, Ala. He served as a YMCA secretary during the world war and began teaching physics at Wendell Phillips High school in 1922. He has taught at Du Sable since 1935. Pierce resides with his wife at 6244 Champlain avenue.

Charles W. Pierce.

Induct Seven In Alpha Kappa Mu

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.--(SNS)—"Scholarship and citizenship" was the theme of an address delivered in the Institute Chapel here Wednesday evening by Jesse O. Thomas, General Field Secretary of the National Urban League in connection with the annual observance of Scholarship Night.

Mr. Thomas told over two thousand students assembled for the exercises that Negro elders needed to make a confession to youth with regard to their lack of social and political consciousness

One of the highlights of the program was the induction of seven students to membership in Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Kappa Mu National Society. Only Junior College students whose scholarship is of the highest order many become eligible for membership in this society. The following students were elected to membership for 1941: Lonnie Bridges, Annemaine, Alabama; George L. Fountain, Bridgeton New Jersey; Umer G. Hathaway, Tuskegee, Institute, Mable D Morris, Boston, Massachusetts, James I. Shelton, Houston, Texas; Carrie Belle O'Neal, Tuskegee, Alabama; Albert G. Ransom, Pensacola, Florida

Dr. I. A. Derbigny, dean of Administration, Tuskegee Institute and National president of Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society, released the following names of persons as members of the honor roll for 1941: Carmen Adams Galveston, Texas; Ozie Adams, William A. Anderson, Attalla Bassey, Raymond Bridges, Joseph Brison Ewing T. Brooks, Ernestine M Brown, E. B. Bush, William Calhoun, Elizabeth Rose Campbell, Laurice Campfield, Alonzo Cephus Marshall Cole, Lloyd Cox, Susie Crenshaw, Mary Charles Cuther, Dorothy R. Davis, Arthus Dickens, Dorinda Duncan, Lola Dunigan, Raymond Edmerson, Adelaide Foster, Charles Francis, Robert T. Frazier, Eleanor Mae Gibson, Theodore Gipson, Mae Louise Goodlett, Norma Haraway, Geraldine Hastings, Arthur Henderson, Ozella Holman, William Irving, Blanche Jackson, Jerlean Jackson, Alfreda Johnson, Allen G. Lane, Johnnie Lee Lane, Florence E. Lewis, Glyde McGowan, Cordelia McKoy Bernice Mathis, Mozella Manefee Charles Moose, Lucy Newell, V Qinton Nunn, Ernest Palmore Robert L. Patterson, Annie Mae Peterson, James A. Polley, Ruth Reagin, E. Irene Reid, Ralpheen Reid, James H. Robinson, Leon Allen Ross, Vida L. Shank, Ernest Simms, Louise Simms, Ethel J Smith, Ethel M. Smith Mary Louise Starke, Calar Stephens, Myrtle Stone, Wayman Surcey, Emerson Thompson, Mary Helen Thompson, Wilbert L. Thompon Elnora Tolliver, Lonnie Tomlin Eliot Van Zandt, Dorothy Walker Margaret Washington, Fannie Velma Williams, Lewis J. Willoughby Helen Olivia Wilson and Charle Ivan Wray.

Savannah Press
MAY 5 1941

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland
MAY 17 1941

108 Get Degrees as Tuskegee Ends 60th Year

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(ANP)—The sixtieth anniversary program at Tuskegee Institute was climaxed on Monday afternoon with the commencement address by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president of Hampton Institute, and the conferring of degrees on 108 graduates by Dr. F. D. Patterson.

Sixteen students were awarded diplomas in nurse training; two received special certificates for refresher courses in commercial dietetics and one a trade certificate.

Honorary M.S. Given

An honorary degree of master of science was conferred on Mrs. Bertha LaBranch Johnson, of the class of 1902.

As in previous years, the commencement exercises were divided into two parts this year, the first consisted of demonstrations by each department which showed the relation of the Tuskegee program to national defense.

Department Banquet

The closing exercises opened on Thursday, at which time Alonzo G. Wright, manager of seven filling stations in Cleveland, spoke at the annual banquet of the department of mechanical industries.

On Friday, Dr. J. Max Bond awarded certificates to fifty graduates of the junior high school of the Chambliss Children's House, the largest class in the history of the school. Dr. I. A. Derbigny, dean at the institute, delivered the commencement address.

Classes Hold Reunion

Class day exercises were held on Friday night and Alumni Day was observed on Saturday, at which time the women of the physical education department, directed by Mrs. Amelia C. Roberts, presented a program. Classes of 1931, 1921 and 1911 held reunions and a declamation contest was held at night.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College delivered the baccalaureate sermon in the institute chapel on Sunday.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.
MAY 24 1941

Washington Marker Dedication Planned At Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., May 28.—After Booker T. Washington's famous "Let down your bucket where you are" Atlanta address in 1895, many persons visited Tuskegee in Macon County, the very heart of the Cotton Belt, to see the effects of an experiment in the transformation of a so-called backward group of people into self-respecting, law-abiding citizens. Since the death of this noted educator in 1915, literally thousands of people of all races, from all parts of the world have made pilgrimages to this institution to study the growth and development of a great philosophy.

Few of the thousands who come and go each year are aware that Butler's Chapel, A. M. E. Zion Church, commonly known as "Zion Hill," pastored by the Rev. W. E. Carson, in the "Negro section" of the town of Tuskegee, is the original site where the now famous "Tuskegee Institute" began—just five minutes' drive from its present location.

MAY 29 1941

During the month of April a huge, rugged marble stone, symbolic of the man himself, was placed on the exact spot where Booker T. Washington taught his first class in a "shanty." The marker is a donation from the Alabama Marble Works, Sylacauga, Ala., through the generosity of H. M. King, assistant general manager. Sand blasted on the face of this giant stone are the following words:

"On this site stood the 'shanty' where Booker T. Washington first opened school, July 4, 1881. Later it became 'State Normal School,' next 'Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute,' now 'Tuskegee Institute'."

The foundation upon which the stone rests was built by the craftsmen who are members of Butler's Chapel.

The idea of permanently marking the place where Tuskegee Institute began dates back to May, 1940, when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt appointed T. M. Campbell, field agent, U. S. Department of Agriculture, a member of the national advisory committee, community service programs of the WPA, and invited him to a meeting at the White House, where he got first-hand information as to possible projects that could be undertaken by local groups for community betterment. Returning to Tuskegee, Mr. Campbell called a meeting of key community folks and explained the objectives of WPA community service. An organization was effected to be known as the "Tuskegee Community Service Agency" with the following officers: T. M. Campbell, chairman; Mrs. M. K. Frazier, vice-chairman; Mrs. B. B. Walcott, secretary; Miss F. E. Riley, assistant secretary; and an advisory committee composed of Messrs. Maladio Morso, V. C. Turner, J. Maddux, L. A. Jones and Rev. W. E. Carson.

On Sept. 5, 1940, J. Howard Miller, executive secretary, national advisory committee, community service programs, WPA, Washington, D. C., while touring the State, visited Tuskegee and held a conference with the community group at which time specific community problems were revealed and solutions suggested. Inspired by these meetings, the group set about to do some tangible work. The first project was to get the assistance and cooperation of Miss Mary Weber, Alabama State director, professional and service division, WPA; and Mrs. Marie Bankhead Owen, director of the Alabama Archives and History Department, who furnished a WPA artist to prepare a suitable plaque honoring Charles W. Greene, Tuskegee Institute's first agricultural teacher. This plaque was dedicated Nov. 4, 1940, and is located in the new extension service building on the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

The placing of a marker where Booker T. Washington started Tuskegee is the second undertaking by the Tuskegee community service agency.

Mayor G. B. Edwards of the town of Tuskegee is one of the moving spirits in this project, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, has manifested great interest in the movement, also.

There are five persons yet living who answered the roll call the first day Dr. Washington opened school in his "shanty" classroom. They are Mrs. W. T. Harris, Mrs. Roxie Brewer, Mrs. Kiziah Day, and Miss Caroline E. Smith, all of Tuskegee, and Smart Boyd of Greenville.

Formal dedication of this project will take place upon completion of suitable landscaping, which has been agreed upon by the city council of Tuskegee.

Argus
St. Louis, Missouri
MAY 2 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTRUCTORS STUDYING IN CHICAGO

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Five members of the faculty of Tuskegee Institute leave the campus this week for six weeks study at the Teachers Work Shop, Northwestern University, Chicago, Illinois, Dr. I. A. Derbigny, Dean of Administration, announced today. Mrs. J. P. Guzman, Dean of Women, and Rev. H. V. Richardson, chaplain, will do special work in guidance. Mr. Albert Murray of the English Division will devote his time to latest procedures in teaching reading and spelling. Mr. J. E. Fuller will work in functional mathematics, and Mr. C. G. Gomillion in the social sciences.

Argus
St. Louis, Missouri
MAY 2 1941

Lincoln Instructor Addresses Tuskegee In-Service Teachers

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Miss Phillis Honesty, director of Home Economics and in charge of Home Management House, Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo., paid a flying visit to Tuskegee Institute July 12.

Miss Honesty, formerly a teacher of art at the A. & M. Institute, Huntsville, Ala., spent a busy day chatting with many old friends and seeing Tuskegee Institute for the first time.

At 11 o'clock, Miss Honesty was presented by Miss Bennie Mae Ware, acting director of the School of Instruction to address the home economics in-service student teachers. Miss Honesty brought greetings from students and faculty of Lincoln University.

Miss Honesty stated that Lincoln, because of its geographical location, has a two-fold problem —its training program has to meet the needs of both rural and of urban life.

Miss Honesty stopped at Tuskegee on her return trip from Atlanta, Ga., where she had spent several days studying the excellent Home Economics setup at Spelman College.

Ly-19-1

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News From Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION APPLICATIONS REACH NEW HIGH

Enrollment in the School of Education, Tuskegee Institute for 1941-42 points to a new high, judging from the applications received at the registrar's office up t August 15. This increase has been stimulated no doubt by a new series of 100 or more scholarships for students interested in teaching elementary and Jr. high schools. These scholarships have been made available through the generosity of interested friends.

Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the School of Education, explains that the all-tuition scholarship of $85.00 is for students of highest rank preparing to teach academic subjects. $35.00 will be made available to the winning students on entrance to Tuskegee Institute. The remaining $50.00 will be applied to the students' account at the rate of $6.25 per month after the first month. A second educaton scholarship valued at $55.00 pays $35.00 on entrance and $5.00 per month for the next four months following entrance to Tuskegee.

Students in the School of Education at Tuskegee will have unusually rich opportunities this year for practical experience with journalism, creative writing, debating and forum participation acting and play production in connection with Tuskegee's chain of seven Little Theatres and the latest equipment for audio-visual aids in instruction, projectors for class room motion pictures recording machines for speech correction, transcribing machines for bringing educational radio programs on national defense and other matters of vital current importance to the class room. Carefully planned educational tours are an integral part of the School of Education program.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE ENROLLMENT TO INCLUDE INCREASED FOREIGN STUDENTS

The outlook for 1941-42 enrollment for Tuskegee Institute has topped that of last year the registrar announced today. The heavy increase in students for the School of Mechanical Industries is due President Patterson states to the success of the Intern Plan and to th Defense Program with a variety of offerings in various phases of aero-mechanics.

National Defense is probably responsible too for the numbers of students interestd in Agriculture. Director Otis states that the prompt placement of Tuskegee graduates in the Agricultural set up of the FSA and the Extension Service has encouraged the high enrollment in Agriculture.

Enrollment in the School of Education has been stimulated by a new series of 100 or more scholarships for students interested in teaching elementary and junior high school. These scholarships have been made available through the generosity of interested friends.

Fifty scholarships will go to old Tuskegee undergraduates who have made an average of B or better during their years in the School of Education.

Another fifty scholarships have been made available for graduates from accredited high schools. The lucky students must have maintained a B or better average during the high school years. These scholarships afford $50.00 each for monthly living expenses.

The announcement comes from th Tuskegee Scholarship Committee of which A. L. Turner is chairman, that these scholarships will not preclude their lucky holders from any additional self-help employment including, NYA.

Several thousand dollars have been made available for student aid loan fund for worthy and needy students who show exceptional promise.

More than 65 applications from young women wishing to enter the nurse training school have been placed on th waiting list. Dr. John A. Kenny, director of the John A. Andrew Nurse Training School states that 30 nurses have been accepted for 1941-42.

The School of Home Economics and Commercial Dietetics holds its own in the quota of applications. The Southern Hotel Association doubled its scholarship grant for Commercial Dietetics students. The increasing demand for trained dietitions and hostesses for army camps has run up the applicants in this training area.

Of the new foreign students to date, two have been accepted from Canada, two from Haiti and two from Africa. Negotiations are still in progress for the acceptance of students from Santiago, Chille and Havana, Cuba.

All and over 1,000 applications have been received from new students. From this number of applicants some 400 to 450 students will be accepted.

TUSKEGEE HAS SENIOR R. O. T. C.

The Department of Military Science and Tactics of Tuskegee Institute broke a precedent of over 40 years when they moved into new quarters in the Academic Building, August 28. Previously the Military staff has shared offices with the men's department which was headed by a commandant and in recent years by the dean of men in the Administration Building.

The new expansion has grown out of the authorization of Tuskegee Institute as a Senior R. O. T. C. Infantry Unit. The two other Negro schools having this authorization are Wilberforce University and Howard University. Tuskegee has previously operated as Junior R. O. T. C. and more recently under National Defense Act, section 55-C.

Col. J. J. Waterman has been assigned by the War Department as Professor of Military Science and Tactics for Tuskegee Institute, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and a secondary school in Opelika. General B. O. Davis and Capt. B. O. Davis, Jr., have previously held this position at Tuskegee Institute. Gen. Davis served in like capacity at Wilberforce. At present the R.O.T.C. units at Wilberforce and Howard are headed by white officers also.

Tuskegee R. O. T. C. Staff

Col. Waterman, P. M. S. & T. will have his headquarters at Auburn, Alabama. The resident members of the Tuskegee outfit are Capt. John A. Welch, acting P. M. S. & T.; 2nd Lieut. John W. Godbolt, Sgt. Henry G. Beasley. An additional lieutenant and one other non-commissioned officer have been appointed to report for duty September 1.

Capt. Welch and Lieut. Godbolt are Reserve officers on extended active duty. Capt. Welch formerly of Howard University Department of architecture and at the time of his call to active army service with the 366th Inf. at Fort Devens, Mass., was head of the division of architectural drawing, Tuskegee Institute. Capt. Welch came from Fort Devens in August. Capt. Welch received junior R. O. T. C. at Tuskegee Institute and senior R. O. T. C. at Howard University and is a graduate of both institutions.

Lieutenant Godbolt received his military training at Tuskegee and receivd his commission as a reserve officer after competitive examination. Sgt. Basley received training at Tuskegee Institute. He went to Fort Benning, Georgia for army service with the 24th Inf. in January 1941. He was appointed to the non-commissioned office of sergeant and in June was placed on the Detached Enlistd Mens List for duty with the R. O. T. C. at Tuskegee Institute.

Work in Two Parts

The R. O. T. C. program is in two parts, (1) Basic training which will be required of freshmen and sophomore men and (2) Advanced training which will be optional for juniors and seniors. The War Department reserves the privilege of restricting the number of enrollees for the advanced work. Those selected will be chosen on the basis of their leadership qualifications, demonstrated and potential.

The course is very comprehensive, Capt. Welch stated in a recent interview. The Basic course comprises 3 hours of drill and 2 hours of theory per week. The Advanced course includes 3 hours of drill and 4 hours of theory per week.

The work will include study of military discipline, customs of the Service, courtesies, military history and sanitation, map reading, practice with organizational weapons, i. e. rifle, automatic rifle, pistol, light and heavy tactics of automatic rifle squad and rifle squad, rifle platoon, weapons, platoon and rifle marksmanship.

Tuskegee Uniforms To be Retained

In response to inquiries from many Tuskegee graduates and friends who for over 50 years have thrilled to the sight of Tuskegee men marching in blue uniforms, President F. D. Patterson announces that the R. O. T. C. will not go into khaki or O. D. but will retain the traditional blue uniforms. These uniforms are made in the Tuskegee Institute tailor shop.

The Tuskegee Institute Band of 75 pieces under Capt. Frank L. Drye will cooperate with the R. O. T. C. as in previous years, for review, guard mount and the like.

R. O. T. C. Enrollees to be Paid

Men enrolled in the Advanced course will be paid approximately 25 cents a day from the time of enrollment until completion with the exception of the six weeks spent in camp. During the camp period the men are paid 70 cents a day. The camp period usually comes the summer after the junior year and is compulsory.

Advanced R. O. T. C. Students Exempt From Draft

Men enrolled in the Advanced R. O. T. C. will be exempt from the draft. For the year 1941-42 only Juniors of Tuskegee are eligible for Advanced course.

Upon completion of the course Basic and Advance, the men will receive commissiones as 2nd Lieutenants of Infantry, Reserved Corps of Army of the United States. Capt. Welch stated that the shortage of Negro officers will practically ensure all commissioned youth to be called to active duty. He stated that many Negro Youth who had received commissions from schools giving R. O. T. C. training had failed to comply with the minimum requirements for reappointment after five years and also for promotion. Without these minimum duties he stated the commissions automatically become dead after ten years.

ELEVEN NEW FLYING CADETS REPORT FOR 99TH AT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

The second unit of 11 flying cadets reported to Capt. B. O. Davis, Jr., for training for the 99th Pursuit Squadron represents a wide geographic distribution and fine educational background. The second group reported August 23 and began five weeks' processing course immediately. The first group began flying training August 25.

The new cadets now beginning 5 weeks' daily regimentation in "squads right", "at ease', 'about face', etc. are: Boyd, William Cornelius, Washington, D. C., studied, Miner Teachers Colege, has had 1 year, 10 months regular army; Brooks, Sidney Paul, Cleveland, studied Ohio State University; Brown, Benjamin A. Jr., Pensacola, Florida, studied Florida A. & M. College; Bundara, Earl L. Baltimore, studied, Morgan College; Dryden, Charles W., Bronx, New York, studied City College, N. Y. and has 77 hours C. A. A. primary and secondary flying record; Jamison, Clarence C., Cleveland, studied University of Chicago, private pilot through C. P. T. C. at University of Chicago; Joyner, Hercules Lionel, Plant City, Florida, B. S. Florida A. & M. College; Lewis, Emile Joseph, Algiers, Louisiana, studied at Xavier University, served 4 months with 367th Inf. at Camp Claiborne; McClure, Harold E., Cincinnati, studied at University of Cincinnati; Moore, Charles H., Knoxville, Tennessee, studied at Knoxville College; Smith, James Ronald, Cincinnati, graduated from St. Paul's N. & I. School, Lawrenceville, Virginia one year at University of Cincinnati.

Members of this group have previously held jobs as bank messenger, school teacher, draftsman, laboratory assistant, U. S. postal clerk, hotel waiter, life guard and Y. M. C. A. camp counseller, private in the regular army.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Tuskegee Freshmen See Many Points of Interest

TUSKEGEE Institute, Ala.—Under the direction of J. J. Flood, personnel director, more than 500 new students were introduced to the many points of interest connected with the history, program, and personnel of Tuskegee institute through an orientation week carefully planned for the opening of the famous Alabama school, founded by Booker T. Washington 60 years ago.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

'Skegee Singers Heard By 366th

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—(ANP)—On invitation from Col. West A. Hamilton, the commanding officer, the noted Tuskegee Institute singers gave a concert for the officers and men of the 366th infantry at Fort Devens last Tuesday evening.

The program featured such favorites as "Deep River," "Go Down, Moses," and "The Battle of Jericho." Included were many plantation melodies. The concert was a break in the daily grind of life at Fort Devens an dwas thoroughly enjoyed by all the officers and men. Several white officers and members of thier families attended the concert.

The members of the Tuskegee singers are Otis D. Wright, first tenor; William Howard and Fred Parks, second tenors; Daniel Andrews, baritone, and William A. Wiley, bass and director. Three of these quintet members are graduates and two are students. Frank P. Chisholm, field secretary of Tuskegee and business manager of the singers, accompanied the group to Fort Devens and made a brief talk.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Alabama Photographer Moves to California

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The personnel of Tuskegee Institute, Talladega college and Alabama Polytechnic institute, (white) as well as hundreds of white and colored citizens throughout Alabama and adoining states, learned with regret that J. J. Quarles, distinguished Negro photographer was leaving Tuskegee to take up permanent residence in Los Angeles.

Mr. Quarles came to Tuskegee Institute in 1921 to join the bookkeeping department. He carried on photography as a hobby, but eventually the hobby outgrew the confines of side line and became a main issue.

When Mr. Quarles returned to Tuskegee from a year's leave (for work with North Carolina Mutual), he opened a studio. Business came in floods. Appointments for sittings had to be made in advance. White patrons out-numbered Negro customers. It was not unusual to meet Mr. Quarles at the post office parcel post window mailing packages of photographs valued at $200 and $300.

Quarles' photographs have appeared on Crisis and Opportunity covers. ANP and Negro newspapers generally use his portraits as well as action pictures.

For a brief period, Mr. Quarles was offcial photographer for Tuskegee. But the teaching program and school duties added to his ever-growing business, being too heavy a drain on his time and health, he resigned and gave his full time to his own studio.

Quarles' "Eventide,' a scene of the Tuskegee Institute Chapel seen through the Lincoln Gates, hangs in hundreds of homes. Scores of his artistic studies have been honored with blue ribbons and gold seals at Gallery ehibits featuring the nations leading photographers

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

'Kegee Aviation Program Gets New Executive

TUSKEGEE, Sept. 18—(ANP)—Owing to a press of duties with the army air corps detachment of which G. L. Washington has been appointed civilian director, Mr. Washington will be considered virtually on leave from duties as director of the school of mechanical industries for the next 60 days, President Patterson announced.

Since Tuskegee is the only Negro school having a government contract to give elementary military training to flying cadets, G. L. Washington as civilian director of a U. S. army air corps detachment, holds a unique position.

The brick hangar, on the new 400 acre Tuskegee-owned air field, has a capacity for housing 15 army planes. The building will also house offices for the officers and civilian instructors, mechanic shop and parachute room.

The broad concrete apron has outlets for refuelling the ships from an underground storage supply in six huge gas tanks.

The field, a natural basin circled by groves of pine and oak, required almost no grading. It is some of the best corn and cotton land in this section of Macon county. A railroad spur that runs across one end of the field will reduce future transportation problems.

The field is accessible from all directions by clear runways adequate for the high powered government planes.

It has been suggested that the Tuskegee field, because of its happy geographic location, may become a particularly convenient refuelling point for government planes traveling northwest, southeast air lanes.

At present 12 flying cadets are receiving elementary military training on the field under Charles A. Anderson, chief flight instructor. Chief Anderson is assisted by Charles Foxx and Melton Crenshaw. Tuskegee trained pilots, holding commercial licenses and instructors re-rating.

Capt. Noel Parrish is the army supervisor. But even so, with such a program of activities, Civilian Director G. L. Washington has a full time job.

18y-1941

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala

Tuskegee Class Told To Study Nazi Lessons

Dr. MacLean Says We Must Awaken Germans From Dream

TUSKEGEE, ALA., May 20.—(AP)—Dr. Malcolm MacLean, president of Hampton Institute, asserted here yesterday that "in our attempt to awaken Germany from her dream—and that we must do, even if many of us die to bring her back to sanity—we must not forget that in her madness she has many deep lessons to teach us in America."

The Virginian spoke before a graduating class of almost 200 at Tuskegee Institute, and approximately 2,000 visitors.

"You, the graduates of 1941, must watch Germany and her struggle and learn by heart the lessons she has to teach," Dr. MacLean said. "Remember that we learn best only from those we love most and loathe most, never from those we are indifferent to. Study, therefore, from here on out what Germany has to teach. Watch her factories, roads, homes, clothes, machines that can be built by getting men and materials together.

"But study, too, how as the days and months ahead flow behind us into history that other lesson—that next great law of life and happiness that you have been learning in college here and that Hitler has never learned. It is the law of the brotherhood of man.

"I think that you graduates of Tuskegee in this year are destined to achieve the happiness that you and I want out of life because you have here been practicing the law of brotherhood in many of its operations and have watched it work in many more."

News
Birmingham, Ala

Learn From Nazis, Tuskegee '41 Told

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (AP) — Dr. Malcolm MacLean, president of Hampton Institute, asserted here Monday that "in our attempt to awaken Germany from her dream—and that we must do, even if many of us die to bring her back to sanity — we must not forget that in her madness she has many deep lessons to teach us in America."

The Virginian spoke before a graduating class of almost 200 at Tuskegee Institute, and approximately 2,000 visitors.

"You, the graduates of 1941, must watch Germany and her struggle and learn by heart the lessons she has to teach," Dr. MacLean said. "Remember that we learn best only from those we love most and loathe most, never from those we are indifferent to. Study, therefore, from here on out what Germany has to teach. Watch her factories, roads, homes, clothes, machines that can be built by getting men and materials together.

"But study, too, how as the days and months ahead flow behind us into history that other lesson—that next great law of life and happiness that you have been learning in college here and that Hitler has never learned. It is the law of the brotherhood of man.

"I think that you graduates of Tuskegee in this year are destined to achieve the happiness that you and I want of life because you have here been practicing the law of brotherhood in many of its operations and have watched it work in many more."

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

The Seventh Annual Institute on Short Course for Ministers will be conducted at the Institute June 2-6.

As usual, a faculty of distinguished persons will offer courses in city pastoring, rural pastoring, social and economic problems from the religious point of view along with lectures and discussions on constructive aspects of church administration. There will also be a full amount of recreation, fellowship and wholesome entertainment.

Meeting at the same time as the Summer School for teachers and Agricultural Extension workers, there will be ample opportunity for wholesome associations in many fields.

Through cooperation with the Institute, the cost of the week is extremely low. For the average minister it will range between three and five dollars.

Ministers of whatever church or denomination are invited and urged to plan now to spend this week at Tuskegee Institute and to have a share in the rich benefits offered.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Dr. MacLean Graduation Speaker At Tuskegee Inst.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Tuskegee Institute closed the 60th year of her outstanding educational history with a roster of interesting and unique programs climaxed with a commencement address on Monday, by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president, Hampton Institute, and the awarding of degrees, certificates and diplomas by Dr. F. D. Patterson president, Tuskegee Institute.

The directors of the respective schools were presented by Dr. I. A. Derbigny, Dean of Administration. J. R. Otis presented 33 candidates for degrees in agriculture, James Bryant presented 15 candidates for degrees in business, Dr. Max Bond, 20 for degrees in education; Mrs. Carrie Gleed, 12 for home economics; G. L. Washington, 24 for mechanical industries, Major Cleve L. Abbott, 4 for physical education Dr. J. A. Kenney, 16 for diplomas in nurse training. Two special certificates for refresher courses in commercial dietetics, and one trade certificate were also presented

Albert L. Turner, registrar, handed the coveted crimson and gold booklets to Dr. F. D. Patterson as each graduate received a congratulatory handshake from President Patterson.

Mrs. Bertha LaBranch Johnson, Tuskegee Graduate, Class of 1902, was presented by Dr. Irving A. Derbigny, dean of administration, to Dr. F. D. Patterson, for an honorary degree of Master of Science. The baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Sunday in the Institute Chapel.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

PROBLEMS OF NEGRO COLLEGE TO BE DISCUSSED BY LEADING EDUCATORS AND STATE LAYMEN

Dr. Buell Gallagher of Talladega, Julius J. Flood of Tuskegee, Dr. Mendenhall and Sidney Redmond to Speak

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Lincoln university will be host to citizens from all parts of the state at its seventy-fifth anniversary Educational conference Friday and Saturday, May 23 and 24.

The opening session will begin at 2 p. m. Friday with subsequent sessions at 7 p. m. Friday, 9 a. m. Saturday and 2 p. m. Saturday.

The conference will open with a welcome address by President Sherman D. Scruggs, followed by an address on "Helping the Student to Realize Himself" by a speaker to be announced. This subject was scheduled to be discussed by Professor Allison Davis of the University of Chicago who will be unable to attend because of illness.

The afternoon discussion leader will be Sidney J. Reedy, professor at Lincoln U.

Dr. Buell C. Gallagher, president of Talladega college, Talladega, Ala., will be the speaker at the Friday evening session, his subject being "Training Negro Youths in Social Relationships." Mrs. Ina A. Bolton, dean of women, will be the discussion leader.

J. J. Flood, personnel director of Tuskegee institute, will be the first speaker at the Saturday morning session. He will speak on "The Negro and Occupational Adjustment." G. Robert Cotton, head of the mechanical arts department at Lincoln, will lead the discussion.

The second speaker at this session will be James E. Mendenhall, acting director for the Institute for Consumer Education at Stephens college, Columbia, Mo. Mr. Mendenhall's subject will be "Consumer Education: A National Need and Responsibility."

At 2 p. m., Attorney Sidney R. Redmond of St. Louis will speak on "Training for Civic Responsibility." Cecil A. Blue, head of the English department at Lincoln, will lead the discussion.

Educators and citizens all over the state have been invited to attend the conference which is revolving around the theme of the seventy-fifth anniversary celebration, "The Negro College in a Changing Order." The conference is concerned with four general areas of the educational activities as delineated by the American Council on Education. The areas are "Self-realization," human relationships, economic efficiency and civic responsibility."

The conference will focus the attention of educator and laymen alike upon the peculiar problems faced by the colored college in preparing its students for life in the American society and upon the best ways to meet those problems.

In announcing the conference President Scruggs said, "We desire that our approach to the problems be practical and concrete in order that out of the addresses and deliberations shall come a body of tangible suggestions as to how the Negro college might be of much more extensive service to the Negro group in particular and to American society in general."

Tuskegee, Ala., News
May 8, 1941

IMPORTANT MEETING

The Alabama Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association in conjunction with the third bi-ennial meeting of the Tri-State Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association composed of the states of Alabama, Georgia, and Florida, met at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 11, 12 and 13, 1916. The meeting can be counted a success from every point of view.

The annual clinic, medical, surgical and dental, in connection with the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital was held with this meeting. As usual, a large number of operations, both major and minor, were performed on needy persons, both in the immediate Tuskegee Institute community and from points at a distance including some from Georgia. A large number of physicians, dentists and pharmacists were present. Some of the operations were very delicate, requiring considerable skill and technich.

Many very interesting papers were read. Dr. L. W. Johnston, of Tuskegee, Alabama, represented the State Health Board and the Board of Medical Examiners of the State, and gave a very instructive address, urging the physicians to attend their meetings and showing the necessity of constant study and keeping abreast of the times. He also urged them to act as health guardians of the people in general by watching out for contagious and infectious diseases and doing their duty when such arise. The address was helpful and highly appreciated.

Members of the faculty and members of the Tuskegee Institute showed many courtesies to the visitors and they seemed to have been much benefitted and to have enjoyed their stay, going to their homes realizing as never before how much Tuskegee Institute, its Hospital and Nurse Training Department means to the whole country and especially to the negro race in the South.

Representatives were present from Nashville Tenn. and Chicago, Ill. These in addition to the regular members.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. J. E. Johnson Honored At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, May 22—Mrs. J. E. Johnson, Prentiss Institute, Chairman of the Advisory Board, and past President of the Mississippi State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, Inc., and President of the Southeastern District of the National Association of Colored Women, was honored by Tuskegee Institute last week, the Institute of which she is a graduate, in recognition of her achievements in educational, social, and civic circles, called Mrs. Johnson back to bestow upon an honorary degree.

Mrs. L. T. Miller, Yazoo City, Chairman of the Executive Board of the State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, and past President of the State and the National Federations was named president-elect in the recent annual session of the Women's Auxiliary to the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association of Mississippi. This organziation is affiliated with the National Women's Auxiliary to the National Medical Association. Mrs. Miller, outstanding in her own right, is the wife of Dr. L. T. Miller, a surgeon of national reputation Still fresh on the minds of club members is the news of a few months ago when Mrs. M. M. Hubert, President of the State Federation, was elected to head the Mississippi Delinquent Home Association.

Montgomery, Ala. Advertiser
June 10, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Shares James Bequests

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—The will of Arthur Curtiss James, one of America's 12 richest men, filed for probate in Surrogate's Court today, provided for the forming of a foundation for religious and charitable purposes and named 28 institutions as beneficiaries of a fund maintaining the foundation.

The man who owned a fourth of the nation's railroad industry died last Wednesday, 20 days after the death of his wife, Harriet Eddy Parsons James.

James's estate, listed at "more than $10,000," was originally left to Mrs. James, but under a codicil the will was amended providing for the foundation.

The 100-page will named 200 legatees, with bequests ranging from $25,000 to $100,000 to relatives. Some 100 employes will receive $500 for each year in James's employ.

Some institutions named included, Tuskegee, Ala., Normal and Industrial Institute.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Honor Student Is Featured Speaker

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Featured on the final commencement program at Tuskegee Institute Monday was an address by Mrs. Umer G. Hathaway, highest honor student. She spoke from the subject, "A New Educational Program for the Elementary School."

Mrs. Hathaway stressed the following points: (1) the church is a vital feature in the development of a rural community; (2) the teacher as well as the preacher must live among the people seven days a week; (3) the cooperative idea must be recognized as a vital part of the modern rural community; (4) rural teachers must be better prepared if they are to live in the community; (5) better houses and better home conditions must be the aim of rural leaders.

MAY 24 1941

Mrs. Hathaway showed in a most interesting way how steps in all these directions had been taken by the cadet teachers in the school fo education during their periods of residence in the seven rural laboratory schools conducted by Tuskegee Institute.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

THEATER NAMED FOR R. R. MOTON

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 22. (ANP)—The newest theater in the Lichtman chain of movie houses, was opened here May 10, and has been named in honor of the late Dr. Robert R. Moton, Tuskegee institute president, as a tribute to his work not only in this area, where for many years he served as commandant and dean of men at Hampton institute, but over the nation, toward the betterment of his race. The Moton theater has been described as the most beautiful motion picture house on the entire Tidewater, Virginia, peninsula.

Montgomery, Ala. Journal
June 3, 1941

Tuskegee Offers Free Aero Training

TUSKEGEE, Ala., June 3.—(AP)—Free schooling in aeromechanics will be available to 45 Macon County negro youth, between 17 and 25, until August 19, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Insitute, announced today.

First classes opened today.

This training unit in aero-mechanics was made possible by an allocation of $6,665 from funds for national defense programs, and $3,400 was spent for equipment. All supplies for the course, including text-books, will be purchased from the fund and will be furnished free.

Three licensed mechanics have been employed on the teaching staff.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Tuskegee Inst. Singers Here Monday Night

The Tuskegee Institute Singers will appear here on Monday evening, in the Academy of Music, as guest artists on the annual program sponsored by the M.M.A. Musical Art Institute and the Pioneer Business School.

These singers coming from this institution in Alabama will be enroute to the New England States where they are scheduled for five major presentations. Dr. Frank B. Chisholm, former student and graduate of Tuskegee, representing the singers. Dr. Chisholm is a resident of Saybrook, Conn.

The program is scheduled to begin promptly at 8.30 o'clock. Others who will appear on the same program are the artists who have been awarded the scholarships from the Ethical Music Guild. Among these are: Hilda Wilmore, contralto; Dennis McNeill, tenor; and Rebecca Winnfield, pianist. A fashion revue will also be presented on the same evening with Harry Mo[illegible] furnishing the music for the prom.

JUN 26 1941

One admission price will serve for all three events.

—A Colored Judge—

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Tuskegee Quintet Heard At Academy

More than 200 persons heard the famous Tuskegee singers Monday evening at the Academy of Music Foyer, Broad and Locust streets.

The Tuskegee Quintet was the special guest of the M.M.A. Musical Art school and Pioneer Institute of Business Training at their annual presentation. The singers are touring the East in behalf of their school.

Messrs. Otis Wright, Fred Parks, William Howard, Daniel Andrews and William Wiley are the members of the quintet.

JUL 3 1941

Two groups of selections were offered by the singers which included: "Viking Song," "Where Ere You Walk," "[illegible] Mine," "Swing Along Chariot," "Good News," "Balm in Gilead," "The Rocks and the Mountains," "Joshua Fit de Battle of Jericho," and "Ezekiel Saw the Wheel."

18y-1941

TUSKEGEE DEBATERS OFF TO A GOOD START

NOV 29 1941

Pres. Johnson Succeeds in Bringing in New Members

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala.—Tuskegee Institute debaters are off to a good start under the expert guidance of Prof. Henry R. Jerkins, debate coach. President Theodore Johnson has succeeded in bringing a large number of new members into the Society. The sophomores are especially well represented. This is, no doubt, due to the fine showing made by William Dobson and Theodore Lange and Crawford Russell last year. Dobson and Lange, although freshmen, were a part of the team that made the great Eastern tour. This tour included debates with Brooklyn College and Columbia University, the latter was broadcast over the New York state hookup.

Although Coach Jenkins would not commit himself, because negotiations are not yet complete, he stated that plans were in the making for engagements with several outstanding Texas colleges and three prominent New York colleges.

Coach Jenkins stated that the early skirmishes during the weekly Monday night meetings had brought out

At a recent meeting of the society, Mr. Wm. A. Shields, president of the Peoples' Cooperative Store, Tuskegee and Mr. Charles G. Gomillion, president of the Community Service League and teacher of sociology and economics, led a stimulating and informative discussion on the working of the Labor unions. Other members of the faculty and outstanding persons in the community have been invited to contribute to the weekly preliminaries.

NOV 29 1941

The question under consideration at present is government regulation of Labor unions.

The faculty members appointed by Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the School of Education, to work with Coach Jerkins as a debate committee are: Mrs. B. B. Walcott, Prof. C. M. Brooks and Mr. Nathaniel Colley.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Two Distinguished Families United

DEC 4 1941 DEC 4 - 1941

Members of distinguished American families were assembled at "The Oaks" at Tuskegee Institute, Ala., on the occasion of the reception which was given in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Douglass, 3rd, last week. Reading from left to right are: Edith M. Washington, Mrs. G W. A. Johnston, Gloria Washington, Mrs. E. Davidson Washington, Booker T. Washington, 3rd; Mrs. Nettie Hancock Washington, mother of the bride; the bride, Mrs. Nettie Washington Douglass; the groom, Dr. Frederick Douglass, 3rd. Mrs. Fannie Howard Douglass, mother of the groom; Mrs. Lella Washington Lee, John H. Washington and Mrs. Edith Johnson Clark.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

DEEMS IT "A REAL PRIVILEGE TO SHARE IN RESPONSIBILITY"

NOV 29 19

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26—(ANP)—Mrs. Frances Payne Bolton, Congresswoman from Cleveland and a member of one of this city's pioneer families, has been elected a member of the trustee board of Tuskegee institute, an announcement from Dr. William Jay Schiefellin, chairman of the board and President F. D. Patterson, said this week.

Mrs. Bolton, one of the foremost women in America, active in many fields relating to the interests of women, succeeded her husband, the late Chester C. Bolton, in Congress.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Two Officers Join ROTC Unit at Tuskegee

DEC 6 - 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — President F. D. Patterson announced this week that he had received notice that Second Lieut. John D. Patton, recent graduate from the Officers' Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., had been assigned to duty with the ROTC at Tuskegee Institute.

Lieut. Patton came to Tuskegee in 1937 as a sergeant from Company F, 24th Infantry D.E.M.L., to serve on the staff of the commandant and dean of men. He was also boxing coach and assistant football coach.

Sgt. Patton reported to Fort Benning to attend the Officers' Candidate School on August 8, 1941, and received his commission as second lieutenant in November. A native of Nashville, Tenn., he, his wife and their son have lived on the campus at Tuskegee since 1937.

Another Joins ROTC Unit

Sgt. Major Thedore Hicks, of the 3rd Battalion, Headquarters Detachment, 24th Infantry, at Fort Benning, Ga., was recently granted discharge that he might re-enlist for appointment DEML with the ROTC Unit at Tuskegee Institute.

Sgt. Hicks was born in Brooklyn, but as a small boy moved with his family to Syosset, Long Island, where he attended the public schools. In 1929, he enlisted and was assigned to the First Medical Regiment, Carlisle Barracks, Pa. He remained with that outfit until it was broken up to send a detachment to West Point, N.Y.

He asked to be transferred to the Tank School Detachment at Fort Meade, Md., where he was stationed from February, 1931, until June, 1932, when he joined the famous 24th.

DEC 6 - 1941

Sgt. Hicks is married. Mrs. Hicks and the children will continue in New York for the present.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Campbell, Pierce Honored In D. C.

DEC 1 - 1941

WASHINGTON, —(ANP) —During the regular session of the supervisors and field workers of the department of agriculture bureau of extension work, a portion of the time was devoted to a tribute to T. M. Campbell and J. B. Pierce, colored members of the staff, who have completed some 35 years with the extension bureau.

Some 100 workers heard the two Negro tributed by the secretary of agriculture in a letter which was read to the gathering and Dr. M. L. Wilson, director of extension worker; Dr. C. B. Smith, retired former director of the bureau, Charles L. Chambers, southern field representative of the U. S. extension work; Reuben Brigham, assistant director of extension work, and Walter H. Conway, who acted as chairman of the meeting.

Dr. Wilson in his speech implied that there was probably a need for speeding up the employment of Negroes in extension work and for furthering the service. Others who followed paid tribute to the efforts of Pierce and Campbell in their fields, while they themselves expressed their thanks at being in the department and told of the work they had done.

DEC 1 1941

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

Tuskegee Is Represented In Color Travelog

C. of C. Announces Premier Showing In Chicago

NOV 20 1941

Alabama's two-reel, natural color motion picture travelog, which has been in production for the last six months, will have its premiere at the Stevens Hotel in Chicago on Dec. 7, it was announced today by officials of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce. The occasion will be the first Travel Show of the season sponsored by The Chicago Daily News, an event that normally attracts between 3,500 and 4,000 persons.

Tuskegee is represented in the State Chamber travelog by a scene made at the old Alexander Home, one of the outstanding ante-bellum homes of this section. Another scene pictures the campus at Tuskegee Institute.

Entitled "Alabama, Yesterday and Today," the first print of the movie is expected to be received in about a week. It will be shown here in Alabama several times before going to Chicago if it is received in time.

NOV 20 1941

The movie was produced by the State Chamber, the State Planning Commission and the State Highway Department as a part of their tourist promotion campaign. It carries a full sound track of narratoin and music and provides a 28-minute show.

Following its premiere in Chicago the film will be distributed throughout the Midwest and East to travel shows, tourist club meetings and similar events. Extra prints will be obtained for simultaneous showing in diferent Northern cities and for use in Alabama.

Commercial motion picture executives in Chicago, where the film was edited, have pronounced it the best state-produced travelog they have seen and compare it favorably with Technicolor films costing several times as much, State Chamber officials said.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Lists Cadet Officers For ROTC Unit

NOV 29 1941

Patterson Announces Appointments For The Year

TUSKEGEE, Nov. 28.—Capt. John A. Welch, acting P. M. S. & T. of the Reserved Officers' Training Corps, Tuskegee Institute has announced the appointment by President Patterson of the following cadet officers in the Infantry Unit of the ROTC for the year 1941-42:

Captains: Elliot Vanzandt, commanding Company A and acting regimental commander. Vanzandt comes from Chicago and has made an enviable record in varsity basketball and tennis; Theophilus, C. Cottrell, commanding Company E and acting battalion commander 1st Battalion. Cottrell is from Jacksonville, Fla.; Clifford H. Russell, also a native of Florida, commanding Company B and acting battalion commander 2nd Battalion; Upshaw Sams, a Texan and varsity football star and track ace, commanding Company G and recreational and P. and T. officer 1st Battalion; Bradley D. Jackson, Asheville, N. C., commanding Company C and P. and T. officer 2nd Battalion; George L. Fountain, New Jersey, commanding Company F.

First lieutenants: Chester D. Baccus, Tulsa, Okla., Co. B; James E. Penn, Reidsville, N. C., adjutant 1st Battalion; Raymond Head, Griffin, Ga., football speedster, Co. C; Lloyd R. Bradley, Trenton, N. J.; Co. G; Joshua H. Brown, Hilton, Ga., outstanding varsity athlete, Co. A; Wilbert T. Thompson, Chattanooga, Tenn., Co. A; Leo E. Breedlove, St. Louis, Mo., Co. F.; Austin E. McLinn, Athens, Ala., Co. 1; Maxwell E. Faulkner, East St. Louis, Ill., president Y. M. C. A., adjutant, 2nd Battalion.

Second lieutenants: James M. Francis, Keysville, Ga.; Stanley M. Goldsboro, Bridgeton, N. J.; Jesse C. Davis, Port Arthur, Texas; William L. Crocker, Schenectady, N. Y.; Lloyd G. Manning, Pittsburgh, Penn.; Samuel J. Vincent, Harthorne, Okla.; Styano B. Turner, Homer, La.; James F. Hudges, French Lick, Ind., band; James M. Hutchinson, Auburn, Ala., band.

NOV 29 1941

Non-commissioned officers: 1st Sergeants: Aaron C. Bass, Junious L. Blake, Ebenezer Bush, Randolph Goodwin, James A. Pomey. Sergeants: Junius Batisto, Noah Brewer, Roy W. Clark, William D. Collins, Leonard A. Harper, M. Anderson Lark, John E. McCain.

The special orders listing these assignments were effective as of Nov. 7, 1941. The ROTC staff has recently been increased through the appointment of Sergt. Maj. Theodore Hicks in October and 2nd Lieut. John D. Patton on Nov. 19. Capt. John A. Welch, 2nd Lieut. John W. Godboldte, and Sergt. Henry Beasley have been with the unit since its organization in September, 1941.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Patton Assigned To 'Skegee ROTC

NOV 30 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE—(SNS) —President F. D. Patterson announced Saturday that he had received notice that Second Lieutenant John D. Patton, recent graduate from the Officers' Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., had been assigned to duty with the ROTC at Tuskegee Institute.

Lieut. Patton came to Tuskegee in 1937 as a sergeant from Co. F the 24th Infantry, D.E.M.L. to serve on the staff of the Commandant and Dean of Men. Sgt. Patton was also the enthusiastic boxing

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Fifth Annual Farm Confab At Tuskegee

DEC 7 - 1941

TUSKEGEE, Dec. 4—(ANP)— Programs are off the press for the 5th Farm and Home Week and Fat Stock show at Tuskegee institute, December 3 to 10.

Tuesday night will give those attending the course an opportunity at the annual banquet to tell how they will put into practice what they have learned during the week. President F. D. Patterson and other distinguished guests will make short addresses to the group. Prof. J. R. Otis, director of agriculture, will award certificates to those who have attended three consecutive years.

The fat stock show promises to have more entries and better stock than last year, which was considered a banner year. The auction sale will be held in the Alumni bowl on Tuesday morning.

DEC 7 - 1941

A new course offered this year is in farm accident prevention. The instructor is Miss Elizabeth Campbell who holds a Red Cross Instructors' certificate. Although this course has been made possible through the interest of Mrs. O. W. Pearson, director of home economics, the farmers as well as their wives may register for the course. The course will include demonstrations in first aid. Miss Martha Driver will be assistant demonstrator.

DEC 7 - 1941

The entire program will emphasize nutrition and health as they are influenced by crops, housing and living conditions.

The climax of the week will be the annual Tuskegee conference on Wednesday with Haygood Patterson, commissioner of agriculture for Alabama, as the principal speaker. Certificates will be awarded to merit farmers by President Patterson.

New York Times
New York, N. Y.

Woman Representative Made Tuskegee Trustee

NOV 30 1941

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton
Harris & Ewing, 1940

NOV 30 19

Representative Frances P. Bolton of Ohio has been elected to the board of trustees of Tuskegee Institute, in Alabama, it was announced yesterday by Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, chairman of the board. Representative Bolton has been interested in Negro education.

18y-1941

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Tuskegee Has Senior ROTC; Ex-Student Heads Corps

Tuskegee Institute now has a Senior ROTC Infantry Unit. The two other Negro schools having this authorization are Wilberforce University and Howard University.

Col. J. J. Waterman has been assigned by the War Department as Professor of Military Science and Tactics for Tuskegee Institute, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and a secondary school in Opelika.

Col. Waterman will have his headquarters at Auburn, Ala. The resident members of the Tuskegee outfit are Capt. A. Welch, acting P.M.S. & T.; 2nd Lieut. John W. Godbolt and Sgt. Henry G. Beasley.

Alumnus Is Captain

Captain Welch and Lieut. Godbolt are Reserve officers on extended active duty. Capt. Welch, formerly of Howard University Department of architecture and at the time of his call to active army service with the 366th Inf. at Fort Devens, Mass., was head of the division of architectural drawing, Tuskegee Institute. He received junior ROTC at Tuskegee Institute and senior ROTC at Howard University and is a graduate of both institutions.

Lieutenant Godbolt received his military training at Tuskegee and received his commission as a reserve officer after competitive examination.

Sgt. Beasley received his training at Tuskegee Institute. He went to Fort Benning, for army service with the 24th Infantry in January, 1941. He was appointed to the non-commissioned office of sergeant and in June was placed on the Detached Enlisted Men's List for duty with the ROTC at Tuskegee Institute.

In response to inquiries from many Tuskegee graduates, President F. D. Patterson announced that the ROTC will not go into khaki or O. D. but will retain the traditional blue uniforms. These uniforms are made in the Tuskegee Institute tailor shop.

The Tuskegee Institute Band of 75 pieces under Capt. Frank L. Drye will cooperate with the ROTC as in previous years, for review, guard mount and the like.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEEANS OF MIDWEST TO MEET IN CHICAGO OCTOBER 9TH

Willis I. Peck of Anderson S. C., president of the Tuskegee General Alumni association, has issued a call for graduates and former students of Tuskegee Institute, who reside in the middle west, to assemble in Chicago, October 9, to take up urgent business of the organization. Tuskegeeans from Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Minnesota, and other states are expected to be here for the meeting.

Some changes in the affairs of Tuskegee Institute prompted Mr. Peck to call the assembly which will take up matters of vital interest to those who received their training at the noted Alabama institution. Tuskegeeans in Chicago are cooperating in plans for the convention, which will be preliminary to a regional meeting of Tuskegeeans to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, November 1 and 2, just two weeks before the annual homecoming at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, on November 15.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

ALLEN SCISCO NEW DIRECTOR AT TUSKEGEE

All Around Track Track Star

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. Sept. 18—The appointment of Allen Scisco as athletic director and instructor in physical education and science at the Tuskegee Institute high school for the academic year 1941-1942, was announced this week by J. Julius Flood, personnel director. Scisco was graduated from Tuskegee Institute in 1939 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education. During the school year 1939-1940 Scisco served as athletic director and instructor in mathematics and history at the Hastings Vocational school, Hastings, Florida. The past year he has been connected with the Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala.

Scisco is one of Tuskegee's most outstanding athletes. He served as captain of the 1938 track team and was co-captain of the football and basketball teams during the 1938-1939 season. While a member of the track team he participated in several national track meets and won numerous honors. At the National A. A. U., Track and Field meet at Randall Island, New York, in 1938, he placed third in the decathlon. Up to that time he was the first Negro athlete to place in this event.

Scisco was a member of the football team when Tuskegee met Wilberforce at Soldier Field in Chicago in 1938 and was honored by having the editor of the Dowagic Daily News, Dowagic, Michigan, and scores of friends make a special trip to Chicago to see him play. After the game his home town friends staged a reception in his honor. Scisco entered upon his new duties Sept. 8.

Gadsden, Ala., Times
September 16, 1941

New State Map Folders Ready For Distribution

Special Mileage Chart, Route Of Principal Highways Feature '42 Alabama Road Diagram

First copies of the official State Highway map folder for 1942 have been received from the printer by the State Highway Department which this week, will begin their distribution throughout Alabama and the nation.

Department map-makers and artists believed the ultimate had been achieved in road information and color-photography eye appeal in turning out the 1941 folder. After looking over the product for 1942, however, they frankly admit it surpasses its predecessor and exceeds in both utility and appearance, their most optimistic expectations. The new color combination is silver on blue.

Capitol On Cover

Replacing the nautral color photograph of the Highway Department building which appeared on the cover of the 1941 map-folder, is one of the beautiful and stately capitol building.

On the reverse cover is reproduced in natural color, a photo of one of Alabama's loveliest and shapeliest daughters, clad in shorts and sweater, poised on the bowsprit of one of the pleasure yachts that abound in Mobile Bay and adjacent waters—waving her head-scarf and smiling jaunty greeting.

Other natural-color photographs reproduced on the map cover, include an entrancing panorama shot of the famous Fort Payne valley, Ross hall at Auburn, the Edmund Pettus bridge at Selma, the Alexander home at Tuskegee, Gorgas Memorial library at the University, Pulpit rock and Mirror lake in Cheaha State park, training "ships" on the line for a take-off at Maxwell field, a state highway patrolman and his squad-car, an open-hearth furnace in operation in the Birmingham district, turning out steel for defense, and Tompkins hall at Tuskegee Institute.

The pictures are grouped about a centre panel in which is displayed a detailed scenic map of the State done in a variety of colors, and illustrative of what the various sections of Alabama are most noted for.

Mileage Chart Added

One of the most striking new features of the 1942 map-folder, is the special mileage chart. Using it as a guide the accurate distance between any of the principal cities and towns of Alabama, can be determined in a matter of seconds. This chart will prove useful to motorists, tuorists, travelers and business men, in many ways, it is believed.

More attention is also given in the new folder, to the important fact that Alabama is the highway cross-roads of the southeastern states. A unique, separate map, shows not only where the principal highway trunk routes of the Southeast intersect in Alabama, but points to which these routes extend in all sections of the country beyond Alabama's boundaries. A glance at this separate map in the center of which flies "Old Glory," fully explains why the War Department has formally designated 1,500 miles of Alabama highway, as strategic highways.

Principal Highways

Two detail maps, showing the routes of principal highways through the cities of Anniston and Tuscaloosa, are added to those of Montgomery, Birmingham, Mobile and Gadsden, appearing in the 1941 folder.

Copies of the 1942 highway map folder may be obtained on request by postcard or letter, or by calling personally, at 110 State Highway Department building, at Montgomery.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Washington Given Leave Of Absence

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS)—Owing to a press of duties with the army air corps detachment of which G. L. Washington has been appointed civilian director, Mr. Washington will be considered virtually on leave from duties as director of the School of Mechanical Industries for the next 60 days, President Patterson announced.

Since Tuskegee is the only Negro school having a government contract to give elementary military training to flying cadets, G. L. Washington, as civilian director of a U. S. army air corps detachment, holds a unique position.

The brick hangar, on the new 400 acre Tuskegee-owned air field, has a capacity for housing 15 army planes. The buliding will also house offices for the officers and civilian instructors, mechanic shop and parachute room.

The broad concrete apron has outlets for re-fueling the ships from an underground storage supply in six huge gas tanks.

The field, a natural basin circled by groves of pine and oak, required almost no grading. It is some of the best corn and cotton land in this section of Macon County. A railroad spur that runs across one end of the field will reduce future transportation problems.

The field is accessible from all directions by clear runways adequate for the high powered government planes.

At present twelve flying cadets are receiving elementary military training on the field under Charles A. Anderson, chief flight instructor. Chief Anderson is assisted by Charles Foxx and Melton Crenshaw, Tuskegee-trained pilots, holding commercial licenses and instructors re-rating. Capt. Noel Parrish is the army supervisor. But even so, with such a program of activities, Civilian Director G. L. Washington has a full time job.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Mrs. B. O. Davis Accepts Knitting Chairmanship

Mrs. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., wife of Captain Davis, on duty with the U. S. Army Air Corps Detachment at Tuskegee Institute, has accepted the chairmanship of Knitting production for the Tuskegee Institute Chapter American Red Cross, Dr. F. D. Patterson chapter chairman, announced Saturday.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Davis, who is an enthusiastic social worker and expert knitter, this important phase of chapter production will have needles clicking throughout the community. Approximately 200 lbs. of yarn will be made into sweaters, socks, caps, and children's garments before Xmas.

The chapter's spring knitting quota was efficiently completed under the chairmanship of Mrs. Wm. L. Dawson. Mrs. Dawson will continue to work with the knitting committee as first vice-chairman, as knitting instructor, and assistant checker.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Windsors Plan Visit To Tuskegee Institute

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(U.P.)—The British press service today said the Duke and Duchess of Windsor planned to visit Tuskegee Institute, negro college in Alabama, around Oct. 27. From Tuskegee they will proceed to Miami to return to the Bahamas.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee President To Attend Meeting

According to reports received here early this week, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, is arranging to attend the proposed regional meeting of Tuskegeeans in Cleveland, O., November 1 and 2. Percy R. Hines, former president of the club, stated that Willis I. Peek, president of the Tuskegee general alumni, has indicated that he will also be present.

With the Tuskegee-Wilberforce annual gridiron classic taking place on October 10, the last regular meeting of the club before the game is scheduled to be held Sunday, September 28, at the Good Shepherd Community center.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

Couple To Visit

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who will visit Tuskegee Institute, Alabama's famed Negro school, on their trip back to Nassau from the duke's ranch near Calgary, Canada. In a dispatch from Washington Tuesday, Associated Press said the duke and his American-born duchess will visit the institute because of his interest in Negro education in the Bahamas, where he is governor. The dispatch said date of the visit probably would be Oct. 22 or 23. The duke and duchess are expected to reach Baltimore Saturday from the Canadian ranch and they will spend five to six days as guests of the duchess' uncle, Gen. Henry M. Warfield. They will be in New York at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel for the next six days and then will leave for Nassau by way of Tuskegee, Associated Press said.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Daily Times
September 25, 1941

NEGROES OF AREA LEAVE FOR SCHOOL

Largest Number in History of City to Attend Colleges of Nation This Year

The largest number of Negroes in the history of Chattanooga are leaving this week for colleges and training schools of higher learning, it was stated yesterday.

Prof. William J. Davenport, principal of Howard High school, said an accurate list of all former students at the school now leaving was not available, but intimated that scholarships offered locally and by several Negro colleges for outstanding student and athletic work "has considerably increased the group this year"

Entering Spelman college for women, in Atlanta, are Eleanor Bryson, Rebecca Guyton and Ruth Taylor; Clark college, in Atlanta, Earnestine Lawson, Gloria McGhee, Minnie Coates, Carol Stanton and Jewel Lemmons; Morehouse College for Men, in Atlanta, Glover Hines, Warren Dean, Douglas Carter, ("Snooks") Stinson and Thomas Hendricks.

Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial college, Nashville, Vivian Cobb, Lucille and Camille Robinson, Alice Worley and Thelma Whitaker; West Virginia State college, Evelyn Cox, Patricia Bynes, Lois Nicholson, Katherine Hill and Arwin White; Tuskegee institute, John Peter Greer, Jr., Leonard Hudson, John Franklin, Joe White, Charles Hendricks, Mary Wallace, Virginia Blake and Armesia Harper.

Hampton institute, Virginia, Geraldine Holland, Willie Mae O'Neal, Emma Taylor, Emily Mann, Horace James and Robert Winston; Dillard university, New Orleans, Leona Glover, Dorothy Pentecost, Evelyn Moore, Lillie B. Smith, Billy Murphy and Napoleon Lewis; Howard university, Washington, D. C., Juliette McCauley and Edna O'Neal; Swift Memorial college, Mary McCauley and Thomas Moore; Fisk university, Nashville, Tardiefay Davis and Billy Dorsey.

Camden academy, Alabama, Joyce Robinson; Knoxville college, Katherine and Edith Fearn, Nellie Clark, Lillian Easterling and Jennie B. Wisdom; Lincoln university, Pennsylvania, Jesse Belmont Barber, Jr., and Wiley college, Marshall, Tex., Evelyn King.

With the reopening of school next week Prof. Davenport stated that the largest enrollment in the history of Howard High school is expected. Prof. T. D. Upshaw, Jr., principal of Booker T. Washington County High school, stated that enrollment there will be increased this year, in spite of the removal of several families in the county from the area where the Volunteer Ordnance works will be constructed. The school, originally thought to be in the area, will be left intact, and the experimental grounds and campus surrounding it have already been cleared for use.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Windsors' Tuskegee Plans Still Indefinite

Plans of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor for visiting Tuskegee, and apparently also Montgomery, have not been worked out, according to a telegram received by Gov. Frank Dixon Friday. Gov. Dixon had wired the Duke of Windsor at Baltimore asking to be advised of plans for his contemplated visit to Alabama and inviting the Duke and his Duchess to be guests at the executive mansion here.

A reply received Friday from the Duke's aide de camp stated: "Duke of Windsor wishes me to thank you for your kind invitation. His Tuskegee plans are still indefinite. Will notify you when anything definite is arranged." The telegram was signed "Philips, A. D. C.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Duke Of Windsor, Patterson Confer

NEW YORK, (ANP)—The duke of Windsor, traveling in this country as the governor of the Bahamas, conferred for a half hour here Thursday with Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, in the Waldorf-Astoria suite of the former English king and his wife, during which time he promised that he would visit the famous institution within a month or so, probably by plane.

William Jay Schiefflin, chairman of the Tuskegee board of trustees, accompanied Dr. Patterson on the visit to the duke for the purpose of seconding the invitation that was to be extended to make the trip to Alabama. The trustees had met earlier that day.

18y-1941

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Tuskegee Has Senior ROTC; Ex-Student Heads Corps

Tuskegee Institute now has a Senior ROTC Infantry Unit. The two other Negro schools having this authorization are Wilberforce University and Howard University.

Col. J. J. Waterman has been assigned by the War Department as Professor of Military Science and Tactics for Tuskegee Institute, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and a secondary school in Opelika.

Col. Waterman will have his headquarters at Auburn, Ala. The resident members of the Tuskegee outfit are Capt. A. Welch, acting P.M.S. & T.; 2nd Lieut. John W. Godbolt and Sgt. Henry G. Beasley.

Alumnus Is Captain

Captain Welch and Lieut. Godbolt are Reserve officers on extended active duty. Capt. Welch, formerly of Howard University Department of architecture and at the time of his call to active army service with the 366th Inf. at Fort Devens, Mass., was head of the division of architectural drawing, Tuskegee Institute. He received junior ROTC at Tuskegee Institute and senior ROTC at Howard University and is a graduate of both institutions.

Lieutenant Godbolt received his military training at Tuskegee and received his commission as a reserve officer after competitive examination.

Sgt. Beasley received his training at Tuskegee Institute. He went to Fort Benning, for army service with the 24th Infantry in January, 1941. He was appointed to the non-commissioned office of sergeant and in June was placed on the Detached Enlisted Men's List for duty with the ROTC at Tuskegee Institute.

In response to inquiries from many Tuskegee graduates, President F. D. Patterson announced that the ROTC will not go into khaki or O. D. but will retain the traditional blue uniforms. These uniforms are made in the Tuskegee Institute tailor shop.

The Tuskegee Institute Band of 75 pieces under Capt. Frank L. Drye will cooperate with the ROTC as in previous years, for review, guard mount and the like.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEEANS OF MIDWEST TO MEET IN CHICAGO OCTOBER 9TH

Willis I. Peck of Anderson S. C., president of the Tuskegee General Alumni association, has issued a call for graduates and former students of Tuskegee Institute, who reside in the middle west, to assemble in Chicago, October 9, to take up urgent business of the organization. Tuskegeeans from Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Minnesota, and other states are expected to be here for the meeting.

Some changes in the affairs of Tuskegee Institute prompted Mr. Peck to call the assembly which will take up matters of vital interest to those who received their training at the noted Alabama institution. Tuskegeeans in Chicago are cooperating in plans for the convention, which will be preliminary to a regional meeting of Tuskegeeans to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, November 1 and 2, just two weeks before the annual homecoming at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, on November 15.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

ALLEN SCISCO NEW DIRECTOR AT TUSKEGEE

All Around Track Track Star

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. Sept. 18—The appointment of Allen Scisco as athletic director and instructor in physical education and science at the Tuskegee Institute high school for the academic year 1941-1942, was announced this week by J. Julius Flood, personnel director. Scisco was graduated from Tuskegee Institute in 1939 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education. During the school year 1939-1940 Scisco served as athletic director and instructor in mathematics and history at the Hastings Vocational school, Hastings, Florida. The past year he has been connected with the Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala.

Scisco is one of Tuskegee's most outstanding athletes. He served as captain of the 1938 track team and was co-captain of the football and basketball teams during the 1938-1939 season. While a member of the track team he participated in several national track meets and won numerous honors. At the National A. A. U., Track and Field meet at Randall Island, New York, in 1938, he placed third in the decathlon. Up to that time he was the first Negro athlete to place in this event.

Scisco was a member of the football team when Tuskegee met Wilberforce at Soldier Field in Chicago in 1938 and was honored by having the editor of the Dowagic Daily News, Dowagic, Michigan, and scores of friends make a special trip to Chicago to see him play. After the game his home town friends staged a reception in his honor. Scisco entered upon his new duties Sept. 8.

Gadsden, Ala., Times
September 16, 1941

New State Map Folders Ready For Distribution

Special Mileage Chart, Route Of Principal Highways Feature '42 Alabama Road Diagram

First copies of the official State Highway map folder for 1942 have been received from the printer by the State Highway Department which this week, will begin their distribution throughout Alabama and the nation.

Department map-makers and artists believed the ultimate had been achieved in road information and color-photography eye appeal in turning out the 1941 folder. After looking over the product for 1942, however, they frankly admit it surpasses its predecessor and exceeds in both utility and appearance, their most optimistic expectations. The new color combination is silver on blue.

Capitol On Cover

Replacing the nautral color photograph of the Highway Department building which appeared on the cover of the 1941 map-folder, is one of the beautiful and stately capitol building.

On the reverse cover is reproduced in natural color, a photo of one of Alabama's loveliest and shapeliest daughters, clad in shorts and sweater, poised on the bowsprit of one of the pleasure yachts that abound in Mobile Bay and adjacent waters—waving her head-scarf and smiling jaunty greeting.

Other natural-color photographs reproduced on the map cover, include an entrancing panorama shot of the famous Fort Payne valley, Ross hall at Auburn, the Edmund Pettus bridge at Selma, the Alexander home at Tuskegee, Gorgas Memorial library at the University, Pulpit rock and Mirror lake in Cheaha State park, training "ships" on the line for a take-off at Maxwell field, a state highway patrolman and his squad-car, an open-hearth furnace in operation in the Birmingham district, turning out steel for defense, and Tompkins hall at Tuskegee Institute.

The pictures are grouped about a centre panel in which is displayed a detailed scenic map of the State done in a variety of colors, and illustrative of what the various sections of Alabama are most noted for.

Mileage Chart Added

One of the most striking new features of the 1942 map-folder, is the special mileage chart. Using it as a guide the accurate distance between any of the principal cities and towns of Alabama, can be determined in a matter of seconds. This chart will prove useful to motorists, tuorists, travelers and business men, in many ways, it is believed.

More attention is also given in the new folder, to the important fact that Alabama is the highway cross-roads of the southeastern states. A unique, separate map, shows not only where the principal highway trunk routes of the Southeast intersect in Alabama, but points to which these routes extend in all sections of the country beyond Alabama's boundaries. A glance at this separate map in the center of which flies "Old Glory," fully explains why the War Department has formally designated 1,500 miles of Alabama highway, as strategic highways.

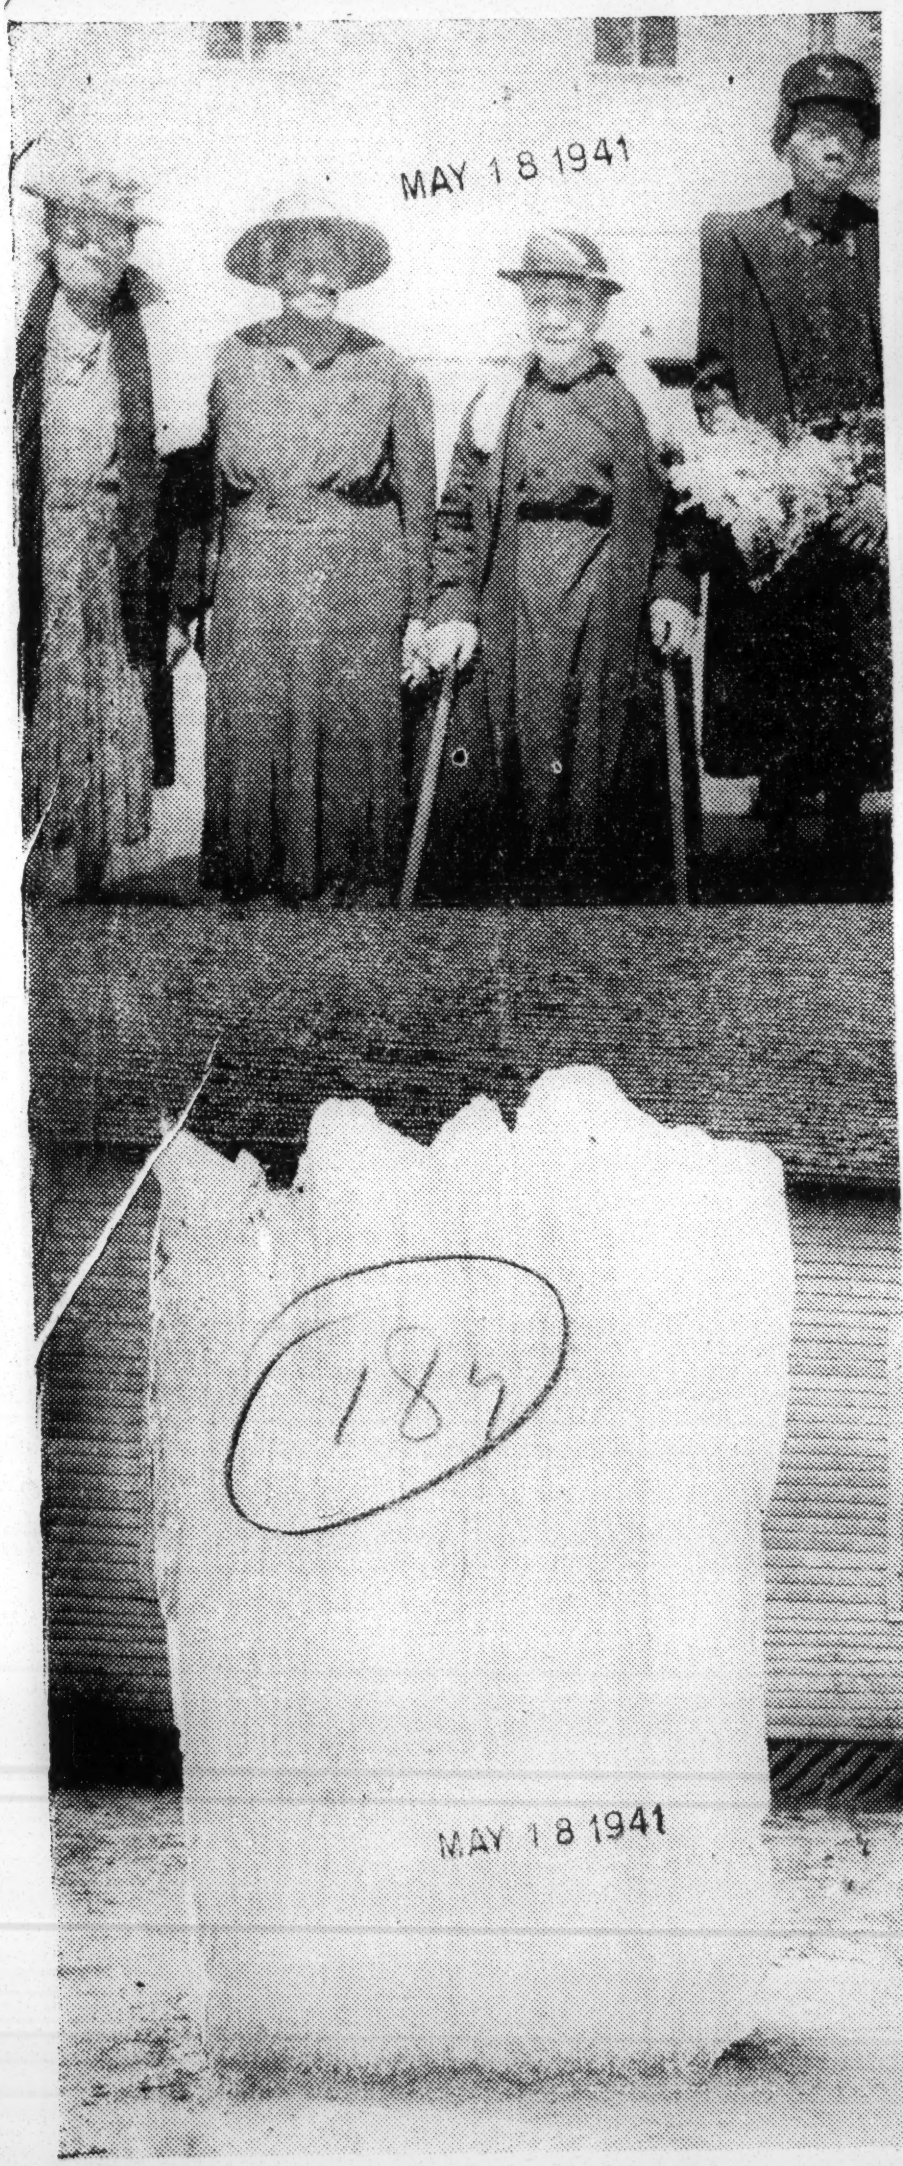
Principal Highways

Two detail maps, showing the routes of principal highways through the cities of Anniston and Tuscaloosa, are added to those of Montgomery, Birmingham, Mobile and Gadsden, appearing in the 1941 folder.

Copies of the 1942 highway map folder may be obtained on request by postcard or letter, or by calling personally, at 110 State Highway Department building, at Montgomery.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Cradle Of Tuskegee Institute



This huge, rugged marble stone, symbolic of Booker T. Washington, has been erected on the exact spot in Tuskegee, Ala., where Mr. Washington taught his first class in a "shanty," marking the beginning of Tuskegee Institute. The marker is a donation of the Alabama Marble Works, Sylacauga, Ala. There are five living persons who answered Dr. Washington's first roll call. Four of them pictured here are l to r Mrs. W. T. Harris, Mrs. Roxie Brewer, Mrs. Kiziah Day and Miss Carolina E. Smith, all of Tuskegee. Smart Boyd, the fifth, who resides at Greenville, Ala., is not pictured.

13y-1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Who Said Beauty, No Brains?

The person who invented tthat little slogan "beauty, but no brains," was certainly mistaken, anyone can see by looking at this quartet of brilliant students of Tuskegee Institute. They are four of 76 who achieved excellence in scholarship during the Academic Year 1940-41 and were honored at chapel exercises in connection with the annual observance of Scholarship Night. At top l to r are Margaret Washington, granddaughter of the Tuskegee founder; Louise Simms, Hempstead, N. Y. Bottom, Misses Mae Louise Goodlett of Tulsa, Okla., and Charlene Cuther of Joplin, Mo. — (Photos by Polk.)

MAY 18 1941

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Closes 60th Year With Colorful Commencement

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., May 19.—Tuskegee Institute closed the 60th year of her outstanding educational history with a roster of interesting and unique programs climaxed with a commencement address today, by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president, Hampton Institute, and the awarding of degrees, certificates, and diplomas by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute.

The directors of the respective schools were presented by Dr. I. A. Derbigny, dean of administration. J. R. Otis presented 33 candidates for degrees in agriculture, James Bryant presented 15 candidates for degrees in business; Dr. J. Max Bond, 20 for degrees in education; Mrs. Carrie Gleed, 12 for home economics; G. L. Washington, 24 for mechanical industries, Major Cleve L. Abbott, 4 for physical education; Dr. J. A. Kenney, 16 for diplomas in nurse training. Two special certificates for refresher courses in commercial dietetics, and one trade certificate were also presented.

Albert L. Turner, registrar, handed the coveted crimson and gold booklets to Dr. F. D. Patterson as each graduate received a congratulatory hand shake from President Patterson.

Mrs. Bertha La Branch Johnson, Tuskegee graduate, Class of 1902, was presented by Dr. Irving A. Derbigny, dean of administration, to Dr. F. D. Patterson, for an honorary degree of master of science. The baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Sunday, in the Institute Chapel.

Early in the week many alumni, especially those of the reunion classes of 1931, 1921 and 1911, began to arrive from all parts of the country together with parents and members of the graduating class. Among the early arrivers were Robert Morgan, Cleveland, Ohio, who was guest interne representative at the annual dinner of the Department of Mechanical Industries on Thursday night, May 15; Emory Thomas, Brunswick, Ga., present to attend the same function; J. J. Henderson, guest interne representative, from Durham, N. C.; Peter M. Jones, Memphis, Tenn., guest interne representative; Alonzo G. Wright, Cleveland, Ohio, principle speaker for the mechanical banquet; Mrs. Edward Barney, wife of Edward Barney, class of 1911, outstanding contractor, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Fannie Mathaway White, retired teacher of George W. Carver School, Lexington, Kentucky, and Dr. R. E. White; Warren Henry, class of 1931 comes from Chicago, Ill., to deliver the alumni address.

Feature for Thursday night was the annual banquet of the department of mechanical industries with Alonzo G. Wright as the principal speaker. Wright, manager of seven filling stations in Cleveland, Ohio, has the distinction of having more overturn in his seven stations than is true of any other station in Ohio.

Friday afternoon occurred the commencement exercises of the Junior High School of the Chambliss Children's House. Dr. J. Max Bond awarded certificates to 50 students, largest class in the history of the school. President F. D. Patterson congratulated Mrs. Hattie S. West, principal of the school, on the fine record made during the year. The commencement address was made by Dr. Irving A. Derbigny, administrative dean, Tuskegee Institute. A feature of the Children's House Commencement was the presentation of a gift to Mrs. Georgia K. Logan, kindergarten teacher from 1915 to 1930. First honor student of the school was Harvey Davis; Mary E. Reynolds, second honor student.

At 7:30 Friday night, White Hall lawn was the scene of the beautiful traditional Class Day exercises.

Saturday was Alumni Day. For the entertainment of the visitors, the young women of the physical education department directed by Mrs. Amelia C. Roberts, presented a physical education demonstration on the gymnasium quadrangle.

Saturday night, Logan Hall was packed for the speaking contest for the president's prize of $50, and the awarding of annual prizes.

Following the custom of many years, the commencement exercise was divided into two parts: Demonstrations by departments at 10 a.m. showed the relation of the Tuskegee program to national defense.

At 1:30, Monday afternoon, the colorful academic procession started from Carnegie Hall headed by President F. D. Patterson, President Malcolm S. MacLean of Hampton Institute, speaker of the day, Warren E. Henry, alumni speaker, members of the executive council, faculty, graduates, visitors, and student body.

The institute concert orchestra directed by Capt. Frank L. Drye, played "War March of the Priests" by Mendelssohn, and the institute choir, William L. Dawson, conductor, sang "Great and Marvellous" by Turner.

Mrs. Umer G. Hathaway, highest honor student spoke from the subject "A New Educational Program for the Elementary School." Mrs. Hathaway stressed the following points: The church is a vital feature in the development of a rural community; the teacher as well as the preacher must live among the people seven days of the week; cooperative living and the organization of cooperative stores and cooperative marketing must be recognized as vital features in the modern rural community; Better house and better home conditions must be the aim of rural leaders. Mrs. Hathaway showed most interestingly how steps in all these directions had been taken by the cadet teachers in the School of Education during their periods of residence in the seven rural laboratory schools conducted by Tuskegee Institute.

Malcolm S. MacLean, recently elected president of Hampton Institute, and for many years head of the General College, University of Minnesota, brought a message of great inspiration and practicality to members of the graduating class.

Sunday night, May 18, at the last vesper services for the year, President F. D. Patterson in his closing chapel talk for the year spoke with deep feeling not only to the outgoing seniors, but to the many men of the student body who would be called by their country before the school term opened again in the Fall.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Training School To Close May 22

WAUGH, ALA., May 14.—The school year at the Montgomery County Training School will close May 22. Albert L. Turner, registrar of Tuskegee Institute will deliver the commencement address at 1:30 p.m. The commencement sermon will be delivered Sunday at 1:30 p.m., by the Rev. J. R. Wingfield, superintendent of the Alabama Reform School, Mt. Meigs, Ala.

There are several interesting programs scheduled before next Thursday. On Friday evening, the high school classes will present a play under the direction of Mrs. Lucile O. Green. On Monday at 7:30 p.m., the elementary grades will hold their closing program for the year. Miss Mary Louise Johnson, Mrs. Laura H. O'Neal and Miss Willie F. Backstrom will have charge of the exercises. The graduates and faculty reception will be held at the principal's home on Tuesday evening. The reception is the annual affair given for the graduating class by the principal and faculty members. It is with much interest that they look forward to this unique affair.

On Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the senior class will hold its class day program in the school auditorium.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala

1931 Tuskegee Class To Observe Anniversary

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., May 15.—The 10th anniversary of the class of 1931 of Tuskegee Institute will be held here May 17, 18 and 19 in connection with the regular scheduled commencement activities. Members of the class who are located in various sections of the country are expected to return to the Institute and participate in the exercises, John M. Cheatham, chairman, stated.

Warren E. Henry, of Chicago, will deliver the alumni address in the chapel at 2 p.m. Monday. The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Hampton, T'kegee Share Railroad Builder's Estate

NEW YORK. — (ANP) — Both Hampton institute in Virginia and Tuskegee institute in Alabama shall share in the will of the late Arthur Curtis James, railroad industrialist, eight-tenths of which will be used to establish the "James Foundation."

The income of the fund will be employed in aiding charitable, educational and religious organizations and institutions which had enjoyed the benefactions of James during his life. No appraisal of the estate has been made, but it is believed to be considerable.

The will stipulates that part of the fund be used for the institutions, income of which shall be divided into 28 shares. In the distribution, Hampton is to receive two shares and Tuskegee will get one share.

James died two weeks ago. Less than a month ago, his wife, Mrs. Harriet Parsons James, passed away. When her will was offered for probate, it was revealed that a $50,000 request had been made to the Lincoln School for Nurses, New York.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

TUSKEGEE CHAPLAIN AT ADULT MOVEMENT MEET

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—The Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain at Tuskegee Institute, is attending the regional conference of the National Adult Movement at Bridgewater, Va., meeting from June 16 to 23.

18y-1941
New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Vocational Teachers From 17 States Hold Five-Day Conference At Tuskegee Institute

MAR 1 1941

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala.—Tuskegee Institute was host to 104 State supervisors of agriculture and home economics and representatives of teacher training institutions for Negroes for a busy five-day conference Monday to Friday.

The conference, which brought together white Federal agents from the United States Office of Education, Washington, D. C., and Negro workers from sixteen states was described by Miss Marie White., Southern regional agent, as having the largest attendance of its ten years of existence.

"The major emphasis of the entire conference" stated Miss White, "is being given to consideration of the joint program of the vocational agriculture teachers and the home economics teachers in relation to the program for improved farm family living."

Miss White stressed the fact that "all members of the conference group are taking active part in all committee work being done."

A feature of the Monday session was the address of welcome by Dr. F. D. Patterson president of Tuskegee Institute, host to the conference, and an address by Miss Edna P. Amiden, chief of Home Economis Service, Washington, D. C.

President Patterson said, "It is very fitting that this conference of workers interested in improving the standard of living of rural Negro families should meet at Tuskegee Booker T. Washington and his successor the late Robert R. Moton throughout their term of service at the head of this institution were interested not only in agriculture, but in bringing white and black together to talk and plan practically and realistically in regard to problems of Negro life, not simply to emote."

President Patterson continued, "We are fortunate to have you here at this time when national leaders are just beginning to discover the people, although Columbus discovered the land in 1492."

Home Economics And Defense

Miss Amidon stated that Home Economics could make a definite contribution to National Defense by (1) making folk more employable through improving their personal living especially in regard to diet, (2) by training for homemaking those who must carry the dual load of home-maker and wage-earner, (3) by cooperating with other services for training for the service occupation for hire, especially in connection with food industry, (4) by extending community service to include training nurse maids and play directors against the time when mothers may be needed in factories or other out-of-the home defense activities."

MAR 1 1941

Reports on what is being done in the various states to forward National Defense Training Programs occupied the conference on Monday. Reports revealed uneven progress in participation; while Texas and Virginia have projects well underway, West Virginia and Kentucky have practically none.

Reports and discussion revealed that major problems confronting the workers in their efforts to carry on Defense programs were: (1) The difficulty of finding trained personnel for teaching the trade work to Negro groups. (2) No buildings for the shop work. (3) The difficulty communities have in meeting the cash requirements for the erection of shop buildings with NYA, WPA aid. (4) The difficulty in meeting the requirements of the National Youth Administration in carrying on cooperative instruction and production projects.

R. E. Commack State Supervisor of Agricultural Education for Alabama, reported that to date the Alabama School had no defense programs; that the only defense classes in vocational agriculture were in the 4 Alabama CCC camps. Mr. Commack stated that plans for defense programs in Alabama schools would be ready by July 1, 1941.

Leadership Training Schools formed the chief topic of discussion for Tuesday sessions. W. A. Ross, subject matter specialist, Agricultural Education, U. S. Office of Education and outstanding leader in the New Farmers of America and Future Farmers of America programs, fired every one with his enthusiasm for the future of Negro farm youth. In the afternoon, Mr. Ross addressed the upper classmen in the schools of Agriculture and Home Economics on subject matter and teaching materials. Mr. Ross paid high tribute to Abraham Lincoln and to Booker T. Washington, both of whom he said symbolized real education.

Defines Education

Ross defined education as not something that could be plastered on, but a reflection of what a man has done and how he did it. "Subject matter," Ross said, "is merely a means to an end. The end is a capable citizen."

"The best teaching material," Ross concluded, "is the material which is closest at hand. We can not do better than to follow the advice given by Booker T. Washington in his famous Atlanta Exposition Speech, 'Let down your bucket where you are'."

"Adequate Food For Farm Families" was the topic for Wednesday and Thursday. Here the emphasis was put on closer coordination of Vocational Agriculture with Home Economics.

MAR 1 1941

At vesper services in the Institute Chapel on Wednesday night, President Patterson presented the conference group to the student body. Alva Tabor, itinerant teacher-trainer, Georgia, and a graduate of Tuskegee Institute responded for the conference.

Committee meetings at work on the proposed conference bulletin to be published through the U. S. Office of Education occupied much of Thursday and Friday.

W. N. Elam, Federal Agent, Agricultural Education, when approached on the subject of the proposed bulletin said, "This bulletin will be a 'first' in Teacher-Training publications. We plan to publish a series of Bulletins dealing with problems concerning the joint program of Agriculture and Home Economics throughout the United States. The first bulletin will be titled, "Negro Farm Families Can Feed Themselves."

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

Obituary

EDMUND H. BURKE

Final rites for Edmund H. Burke, secretary of Tuskegee Institute, who died in John Andrew Hospital at Tuskegee last Friday, were conducted at the church of the Crucifixion, 149th St. and Convent Ave., by the Rev. Egerton E. Hall, rector, Tuesday. Funeral services were also conducted by the Montserrat Progressive Society, of which he was a devoted member, at Eric C. Phillips' Funeral Home 110 West 131st St., Monday evening. Burial was made in Woodlawn Cemetary.

Mr. Burke was born on March 6, 1886, in Montferrat, West Indies, and received his education there and in the French island of Martinique.

MAR 15 1941

He spent several years in the government service before coming to the United States in 1905. He rose from the ranks of a janitor in the New York subway to auditor in the employment of L. P. Hollander Company of Boston, with which he was affiliated for 26 years.

The deceased joined the staff of Tuskegee Institute in 1934, and served as comptroller and secretary of the trustee board. He was a member of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Sigma Pi Phi, (Boule); an Elk and a Mason. A great lover of tennis, Mr. Burke was one of the founders and officers of the American Tennis Association; chairman of the finance committee of the John A. Andrew Hospital Aid Society; chairman of the Tuskegee advisory committee; lay reader of St. Andrews Episcopal Mission; a former adjutant of the 369th Infantry Regiment of the New York National Guard. He was also one of the founders of the Church of the Crucifixion, who worked hard with the founder-rector, the Rev. Jr. Edmeade to establish the church.

MAR 15 1941

Mr. Burke, who was a direct descendant of the great British statesman and liberal for whom he was named, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lena Chambers of New York City; his widow, Mrs. Frances Burke; three sons, Edmund H. Jr., Wilford H. and Harold R., of Cambridge, Mass.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Secretary of Tuskegee Dies

MAR 14 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(ANP)—Edmund H. Burke, secretary of Tuskegee institute, died at John A. Andrew hospital here Friday morning at 3:30. Mr. Burke an expert in the field of accounting and auditing, was born in the British West Indies and received his early education in Martinique.

Elected secretary of the board of trustees after valuable service as comptroller, he was beloved by students and faculty. A regular teacher in the Episcopal Mission's Sunday school, Mr. Burke took courses in agriculture and related subjects to give himself the feel of the current day student's viewpoint.

At one time Mr. Burke served as auditor for one of the most important importing firms in lower New York city. It was his remarkable record there which led to his service at Tuskegee. Mr. Burke leaves a widow and daughter, both live in New York city where funeral services will be held.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE GRADUATES TO ELECT TRUSTEE

MAR 29 1941

DURHAM, N. C., March 27.—Dr. Alphonse Heningburg, who graduated from Tuskegee Institute as valedictorian in 1920, is being prominently mentioned for the position of alumni member of the trustee board. The New England Tri-State Alumni Association, comprising graduates in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, have united with the Durham club in endorsing Heningburg as their candidate. Other clubs and individuals throughout the country have added their endorsement.

MAR 29 1941

During the past year, the chairman of the board requested the General Alumni Association to nominate a graduate for election to the board. The election will take place at Tuskegee Institute on April 4, during the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association. Willis I. Peek, of Anderson, S.C., is president of the general body, and Alvin J. Neely of Tuskegee, is executive secretary.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

DEBATER

Miss Dorinda Duncan, member of the Tuskegee Debate Society, is one of the students representing the institute on its debate tour, where they will meet teams from many of the leading white and colored colleges. She will debate in New York against three white teams. She is a native of Pennsylvania and is active in campus circles. Miss Duncan is a sophomore in the school of education.

MAR 29 1941

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

TUSKEGEE RECEIVES SENIOR R.O.T.C. UNIT

MAR 22 1941

WASHINGTON, March (ANP) —Tuskegee institute has been given a senior Reserve Officers' Training corps unit by the war department, it was revealed here Monday although official announcement has not yet been made. This concession was understood to have been obtained personally by President F. D. Patterson.

MAR 22 1941

This will make Tuskegee the only Negro school other than Howard university to have such a rating. Many others have consistently been turned down. Many white schools have also asked for this kind of unit.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

VETERAN EDUCATOR AT TUSKEGEE DIES

MAR 27 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 26—(AP)—Dr. W. T. B. Williams, vice president of Tuskegee Institute and veteral educator, died at his home here Wednesday.

Dr. Williams was a native of Stonebridge, Va., where he was born July 3, 1869.

He was a graduate of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va., Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., and Harvard University.

He was a member of the education commission to the Virgin Islands in 1930 and also was a member of a commission to Haiti.

MAR 27 1941

In recognition of his service in the field of education, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., conferred an LL.D. degree in 1923. In 1934 he was awarded the Spingarn Medal for his knowledge of and distinguished service in Negro Education.

Funeral will be conducted at the Institute chapel Saturday.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Session To Be Held At Tuskegee

MAR 23 1941

WASHINGTON, D. C. (SNS) — Junior participation in the Nation's defense program will keynote the fourth annual rally of Negro Junior Red Cross members, to be held in Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, March 28 and 29.

Junior Red Cross delegates from schools in eleven southern states have been inivted to attend the two day session. As Chairman of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter, Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute and newly elected member of the American Red Cross Board of Incorporators, will act as host and welcome the young delegates. Dr. Patterson also will be one of the principal speakers at a banquet on the opening night of the conference.

MAR 23 1941

TO DISCUSS HEALTH

National Red Cross officials who will meet with the group include Livingston L. Blair, Assistant National Director, Junior Red Cross; Mrs. Ethel B. Matson, Assistant to the Director, Junior Red Cross both of Washington, D. C.; Stone J. Crane, Red Cross Field Representative in Alabama.

Chief among topics they will discuss are Health for Defense with emphasis on First Aid, Water Safety, Accident Prevention and Public Health Nursing; Civic Understanding through a better Social Concept of the Junior Red Cross as part of Education for the Defense Program; Junior Red Cross Participation in War Relief Production; Use of the National Children's Fund for Relief at Home and Abroad and other related subjects.

The Juniors themselves plan and conduct these annual meetings Teacher-sponsors and adult Junior Red Cross leaders accompany the Juniors and attend their meetings, but except for one joint session with Junior delegates they take no active part in the conference.

FROM ELEVEN STATES

MAR 23 1941

The eleven states from which Junior members are expected to attend are Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana Mississippi, and Georgia. In the past three years the conferences were held respectively in Ashville North Carolina; Richmond, Virginia and Atlanta, Georgia.

Among the outstanding war relief accomplishments of the American Junior Red Cross in the past year were the making of more than 100,000 garments for children in war torn countries abroad, and the allocation of $50,000 from the National Children's Fund for the establishment in England of nursing homes for children injured in warfare.

Montgomery, Ala Journal
March 26, 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt To Visit Tuskegee

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 26.—(AP)—Valdostans were ready today to welcome Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, scheduled to take part in dedicatory exercises at a new library building of Georgia State Woman's College tomorrow.

Mrs. Roosevelt headed for Valdosta by motor from Charleston, where she spent last night as guest of Mrs. George Huntington. After leaving here, she plans to visit Tuskegee, Ala., Friday and Saturday.

Tuskegee, Ala., News
March 13, 1941

Institute "Little Theatre" Is Grateful

The Campaign for the enlargement of the Tuskegee Institute Little Theatre and its subsidiary playhouse for rural people, "The Bucket Theater," is nearing its goal.

The supporters, to a large extent, have been local people, businesses, faculty and students at Tuskegee Institute, and workers at the Veterans Hospital.

The contributors have helped the Little Theater to establish itself as a community supported enterprise, a fact that should make any Theater particularly proud.

The director and members of the Tuskegee Institute Little Theater are most appreciative of the support received and take this opportunity to make public their sincere gratitude.

Talladega, Ala., Daily Home
March 12, 1941

HENRY FORD ATTENDS MUSEUM DEDICATION

Confers For Hour With Noted Alabama Scientist Tuesday

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 12.—Henry Ford, Detroit Automobile manufacturer, and Mrs. Ford participated Tuesday in the dedication of the George W Carver Museum here, named for Tuskegee Institute's noted Negro scientist.

The Fords inscribed their names on a concrete slab into which plastics made by soy beans and fiber, developed by Dr. Carver, had been inserted. Previously, Ford and the scientist conferred alone for an hour.

Ford often has expressed interest in Dr. Carver's experiments in the industrial utilization of farm products. On display in the museum are numerous fibers and other articles, many of them made from waste materials.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford came to nearby Chehaw, Ala., where they were met by F. D. Patterson, institute president, in a private railroad car and left for Atlanta after inspecting the big college for Negroes. Mrs. Ford was shown through the girls' industrial building and the department of home economics.

Madison, Fla., Recorder
March 7, 1941

HAITIAN VISITS STATE TO STUDY AGRICULTURE

Gainesville, Fla.—After studying and observing Florida agriculture for five weeks, Gardy Neptune, of Port au Prince, Haiti, recently returned to Tuskeegee Institute in Alabama to complete work on the degree he will receive in May.

While in the state, Neptune conferred with Frank Pinder, Alachua Negro farm agent, and other Negro extension workers, and visited many Negro farmers in Alachua and Hillsborough counties. He was very much impressed with the extent of diversification on some farms operated by Negroes in Florida and said he was going to emphasize a similar program when he returns to Haiti next summer to do agricultural demonstration work for the Haitian government.

18y-1941
Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee To Hold Summer Sessions

FEB 13 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., Feb. 12.—Announcement of the annual sessions of the Tuskegee Institute Summer School was made here today by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president. The first session of five weeks will open June 5 and will continue until July 5; the second session will begin July 1, and will close Aug. 9, with a regular program of commencement activities, Dr. Patterson added.

Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the School of Education, said it is the aim of the Summer school to serve public education in the South to the fullest possible extent; that a special effort is made to meet the needs of those wishing to renew, or extend certificates of teachers and others wishing credit toward degrees; of public school teachers wishing to study progressive methods of teaching any grade of school work; of students enrolled in the regular session of this and any other college who wish to make up work. Those desiring special work in home economics, agriculture, mechanics, public school music, art, speech, physical education, social service and other special fields, will be accommodated. Courses have also been arranged for those interested in teaching in junior and senior high schools or in securing additional training in that field.

Recreation will include tennis, soft ball, baseball, swimming, badminton, golf and horseback riding along many of the beautiful bridle paths of the institute. There will be entertainment features by leading artists and plays by members of the Little Theater. Some of the outstanding motion pictures of the year will be shown three times per week. Summer School catalogs are ready for distribution and may be obtained from the office of A. L. Turner, registrar, Dr. Patterson stated.

Southern News
Almanac
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Actors To Present Play In Birmingham

FEB 13 1941

The Little Theatre of Tuskegee Institute, under the direction of Saunders E. Walker, will present the play "Our Town" in the Parker High School Auditorium, Birmingham, Friday, February 14, at 8 p.m.

FEB 13 1941

Mr. Walker, a native of Birmingham, holds degrees from Talladega College and the University of Michigan, has studied at Harvard, and was awarded a fellowship in the department of Drama at Yale University. He introduced the Little Treatre movement at Tuskegee after experimenting with a Community Theatre as a High School Theatre. He terms the movement as the Bucket Theatre from Booker T. Washington's admonition "Cast down your buckets where you are."

The program is under the auspices of the Birmingham-Tuskegee Club.

Officers of Birmingham-Tuskegee Club are:

President, E. L. Adams; Vice-Pres., Wm. A. Berry; Secretary, Miss Gertrude Hawkins; Assistant Secretary, Miss Elnora Armstead; Treasurer, T. J. Guice; Chaplain, Rev. A. B. Hawkins; Chairman of Publicity Committee, A. A. Davenport; Chairman of Executive Committee, Robert Mabry.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

40 Enroll For Course In Rural-Carpentry

JAN 11 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—During the past fifty years, Tuskegee Institute has been holding short courses for farmers, rural preachers, extension agents, cooks, and midwives; but not until this year did Tuskegee, in cooperation with the Alabama Extension Service, offer a course for rural Negro carpenters.

Forty of these farmer-carpenters and builders came last month to Tuskegee, twentyeight from Alabama, and the remainder from Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, and enrolled for a week's intensive training in blue print reading, structural foundations, framing, chimney building, interior and exterior carpentry, roofing, painting, practical estimating, and selecting materials.

These carpenters will return to their several communities and assist the county agent in organizing local demonstration housing schools which will be followed up by the extension agricultural engineers; so that, eventually the self-help idea of home improvement will reach the remotest rural areas.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

TUSKEGEE GROUP TO GIVE PLAY HERE

FEB 1 4 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Feb. 13—The Tuskegee Institute Little Theater will present Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" at Parker High School, Birmingham, at 8 p.m. Friday.

"Our Town" is being presented by the Birmingham-Tuskegee Club, Edward Q. Adams, president. There are 35 persons in the cast.

Capt. Alvin J. Neely, executive secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association, will appear on the program.

Saunders E. Walker, formerly a member of the faculty of the Parker High School, is director of the drama at Tuskegee Institute.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

TUSKEGEE STARTS SHORT COURSE IN RURAL CARPENTRY

JAN 10 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE.—Tuskegee institute held its first short course in rural carpentry last week with 40 farmer-carpenters and builders in attendance.

Twenty-eight came from Alabama, the remainder from Florida, Georgia and South Carolina. They enrolled for a week's extensive training in blue print reading, structural foundations, framing, chimney building, interior and exterior carpentry, roofing, painting, practical estimating and selecting materials.

Wetumpka, Ala. Herald
February 20, 1941

MEMBERS OF SENIOR CLASS VISIT A. P. I. AND TUSKEGEE

A large number of the students of the Senior Class of the Wetumpka High School visited Alabama Polytechnic Institute, at Auburn, and Tuskegee Institute, at Tuskegee, on Tuesday of this week.

This trip was planned so that the students could get some idea of college life. They found it to be very beneficial, as it created an ambition in those who had not planned to attend college.

The students thought that Tuskegee Institute was an outstanding feature in education, contributing much towards progressive education for Negroes.

The following comprise the membership of the Senior Class: Marie Arant, Inez Baker, Cathryn Benton, Joseph William Benton, William Bullard, Mary Jim Bush, Randolph Cannon, T. Carpenter, Lloyd Chandler, Eloise Collier, Phoenix Collier, George Collins, Edith Cooper, Webster Cooper, Jane McDonald Culverhouse, Blanche Daniels Ellis Jean Daniels, Emma Frances DeBardelaben, Elizabeth Frances Dickinson, Robert McLain Dickinson, Audrey Louise Dillard, Reid Dozier, Sara Sims Edwards, Joe Billy Fain, Cathlyn Louise Goolsby, Annie Berta Grier, Edith Raye Hall, Katherine Hamlet, Herbert Harden, Annie Mae Harrison, Catherine Louise Heisler, Alder Marie Heisler, George Ray Hill, Cleo Holman, Lilaoise Holman, Franklin Holt, Harlan Holt, Truman Holt, Janie Etta Law, Frank Nelson Law, Mavis Lewis, Laura Aldean Logan, Doris Christine Macon, Arra Elizabeth Martin, Dorothy Jean McCarley, Sara Seals McDaniels, Ruth Merrell McDonald, Elinor McJunkin, Maggie Lee Murchison, Lula Jean Murchison, William David Murchison, Nelson Murchison, Jacqueline Oliver, G. D. Owens, Edsel Owsley, Nettie Ruth Parker, William Richard Perkins, Elizabeth Louise Reams, Robert Reams, William Bailey Reneau, Eloise Reynolds, Cecil Williard Russell, James Monroe Sanford, Lotis Sanford, Madora Lancaster Smith, Ed Speer, Raymond Stone, Claudia Stone, Dorothy Louise Strickland, Delma Estes Taylor, Florence Lorraine Tinsley, Thomas Warren Tinsley, Jean Barker Venable, Emogene White, Bonnie Raine White, Jane Frances Williams, Christian Winard, Margurite Young.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

Vocational Teacher Trainers From 17 States Hold Session At Tuskegee Institute

FEB 27 1941

Tuskegee Institute was host to 104 State supervisors of agriculture and home economics and representatives of teacher-training institutions for Negroes for a busy five-day conference, February 10-14.

FEB 27 1941

The Conference, which brought together white Federal Agents from the U. S. Office of Education, Washington, D. C. and Negro Teacher - Trainers and supervisors from 16 states had the largest attendance of its 10 years of existence.

The major emphasis of the conference was on a joint program of vocational agriculture and home enconomics for improved farm family living.

Argus
St. Louis, Missouri

Defense Aid For Negro In South Lags

FEB 28 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Tuskegee Institute was host to 104 State supervisors of agriculture and home economics and representatives of teacher training institutions for Negroes for a busy five-day conference February 10-14.

The conference, which brought together white Federal Agents from the United States Office of Education, Washington, D. C., and Negro workers from sixteen states, was described by Miss Marie White, southern regional agent, as having the largest attendance of its ten years of existence.

FEB 28 1941

Problems Listed

Defense Training Programs occupied the Conference on Monday. Reports revealed uneven progress in participation; while Texas and Virginia have projects well underway, West Virginia and Kentucky have practically none. Reports and discussion revealed that major problem sconfronting the workers in their efforts to carry on Defense programs were: (1) The difficulty of finding trained personel for teaching the trade work to Negro groups. (2) No buildings for th shop work. (3) The difficulty communities have in meeting the cash requirements for the erection of shop buildings with NYA, WPA aid. (4) The difficulty in meeting the requirements of the National Youth Administration in carrying on cooperative instruction and production projects.

Mr. R. E. Commack, State supervisor of Agricultural Education for Alabama, reported that to date the Alabama School had no defense programs.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Equipment Manufactured By Race Man Used At Warm Springs, Tuskegee

MAR 1 1941

CHICAGO, Ill. —(ANP)— Paul E. Johnson, manufacturer of physical therapy and X-ray equipment who operates one of the most important manufacturing concerns within the race, with his plant located in Chicago, announced last week that he has furnished therapy equipment to both the Warm Springs, Ga., infantile parlysis unit and the new hospital of the same type located at Tuskegee Institute.

RECOGNIZED

Mr. Johnson, speaking with pardonable pride of the increasing recognition which hospitals and physicians are giving to the apparatus which he makes completely, said he was especially gratified at the support which came from people within his own group.

He sells to many white organizations as well but, as he exhibited photostatic copies of checks for $1,550 from Tuskgee; $1.550 from Dr. B. O. Moore, who operates a hospital at Hopkinsville, Ky., and a similar amount from the Louisiana Industrial Life Insurance Company, he said.

MAR 1 1941

"Negro hospitals and insurance companies are converting the nickels, dimes and quarters received from their Negro policyholders into modern equipment costing from $1,000 to 3,000, purchased from a Negro manufacturer. That is a lesson in practical racial economics, for every machine purchased adds to the employment of Negroes."

Mr. Johnson, who has been engaged in production of his line for a score of years, makes shockproof X-ray, short wave diathermy, electro-surgical, galvanic current, sinusoidal current, artficial fever and colonis-therapy equipment and also manufactures mercury quartz lamps, luminious infra-red lamps, carbon arc lamps, water-cooled lamps, hospital and YMCA solariums and physical therapy accessories.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee Plans Sewing Project

MAR 2 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Feb 27—Mr. J. U. Mundy, principal, Tuskegee high school, has been notified that a home project for 50 Negro girls of Macon county has been authorized by the National Youth Administration.

The project is being sponsored by the Tuskegee Men's Club with the Tuskegee high school as co-sponsor. Mr. Mundy has been working diligently for weeks to get the project going to bring cash income and part time employment to Negro girls between 17 and 25 who are out of school and out of work. Girls of 16 years are eligible if they have finished high school and have on all other points met the requirements of certification.

The new project will carry on sewing and knitting. The project probably will be housed, according to Mr. Mundy, in some available room on the campus of Tuskegee Institute. This central location will be most convenient to young women from Greenwood, New Rising Star on the west, and Tuskegee, Cotton Valley, Zion Hill, and Rockefeller Hill on the east.

MAR 2 1941

The young women employed in this N. Y. A. project will make garments to fill the needs of welfare agencies of the county, and hospital garments for the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital.

A supervisor of the new project has not yet been appointed, although several applications for the work have been filed.

Mr. Mundy stated that employment on the project would enable several girls to resume their high school course which they had been forced to drop because of lack of funds.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Westminister Choir Sings At Tuskegee

FEB 22 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The Westminster Choir, one of America's most outstanding choral organizations, sang before a large audience in the Institute Chapel here Friday night.

From the first number, "Sing Ye to the Lord," by John Sebastian Bach, to the very last note of the concludidng selection, the audience was regaled with a program of song of increasing interest and pleasure. Not only did the singing captivate the audience, but the fine discipline of the members of the organization also won wide favorable comment.

Dr. John Finley Williamson, the renowned conductor, anchored himself in the hearts of the appreciative audience because of the warmth of his sincerity, and the charm of his personality, and his very generous response with encores to their repeated and prolonged applause. In grateful appreciation of the founder of Tuskegee Institute he dedicated a number to his memory and a number was also dedicated to the Tuskegee choir and its nationally known conductor, William L. Dawson.

FEB 22 1941

Dr. Williamson paid a fine tribute to Dorothy Maynor who sang with the Westminster Choir, and also expressed appreciation for the pleasure it gave him to hear the Tuskegee choir when it sang at Carnegie Hall several years ago.

The singing of such artists as these do more than can at the moment be realized to foster where it now exists, and to kindle in new hearts, the understanding and the love of fine music.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Tuskegee Summer School

FEB 22 1941

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala. — Announcement of the annual sessions of the Tuskegee Institute Summer School was made here this week by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president.

The first session of five weeks will open June 5 and will continue until July 5; the second session will begin July 7, and will close August 9, with a regular program of commencement activities, Dr. Patterson added.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

NEWS FROM THE INSTITUTE

FEB 27 1941

The Westminister Choir, one of America's most outstanding choral organizations, sang before a large and enthusiastic audience in the Institute Chapel here Friday night. Having been looked forward to since early Fall, when the announcement was made that this famous choir would appear on the campus, those who heard these singers that evening in a beautiful and difficult program were warm in their praise for the festival of music brought to them by the Entertainment Course, and were pleased because they had been rewarded far beyoud any pleasant anticipation which they may have had.

The 8th Annual Southern Conference Basketball Tournament, which will be played in Logan Hall, February 27, 28 and March 1, is slated to be one of the closest contested tournaments which have been played here since this athletic extravaganza was inaugurated by the Southern Conference 8 years ago.

The leading weekly papers including The Chicago Defender, Pittsburgh Courier, Journal and Guide, Kansas City Call Atlanta Daily World, Chicago Bee, Amsterdam News, Indianapolis World, New Orleans Sentinel, Louisiana Weekly and several other outstanding local news gathering agencies will have representatives on hand to give coverage to the tournament. The Associated Press, the United Press and the International News Service will also handle daily dispatches from local representatives.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

AUTHOR TO GIVE TUSKEGEE TALK

FEB 28 1941

Dr. Abraham Flexner To Speak At Institute On Founder's Day

TUSKEGEE, Feb. 27—Dr. Abraham Flexner, educational philosopher and author, will deliver the Founder's Day address in the Tuskegee Institute chapel at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 6, F. D. Patterson, institute president, announced. The annual ceremony honors the memory of Booker T. Washington.

The alumni address is to be delivered by Wilbur J. Hardaway, class of 1921, real estate dealer and city councilman of Gary, Ind., Saturday night, April 15. The Tuskegee board of trustees, the John A. Andrews Clinical Society and members of the institute's 20-year reunion class will be among the guests.

FEB 28 1941

A cross-section of the activities of the theater in rural laboratory teaching centers is being prepared by E. Saunders Walker, speech and dramatics teacher, for the entertainment of Founder's Day celebrants.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

APPOINTED

FEB 23

P. M. CAMPBELL
Field Agent of the U. S. Agricultural Service, and member of the newly established committee of National Defense Training.

18y-1941
Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

FIRST LADY VISITS CAMPUS

APR 3 1941

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was guest of the Institute for several days, the occasion being the meeting of the Rosenwald Fund. Besides attending the meetings of the Rosenwald organization the President's wife addressed a large audience which taxed the capacity of the Institute Chapel Friday evening.

* * *

Dr. W. T. B. Williams Passes

The funeral of Dr. W. T. B. Williams who died at his home Wednesday morning at nine o'clock after a lingering illness was held in the Institute Chapel Saturday afternoon. Chaplain Harry V. Richardson conducted the services. Hundreds of telegrams and funeral designs were received from friends of the deceased all over the country. The following statement of appreciation from the Executive Council which is typical of all was read at the funeral:

An Appreciation of William Taylor Burrell Williams

The death of W. T. B. Williams Wednesday morning, March 26, 1941 brought a gloom of sorrow over the entire Tuskegee Institute community—where he had so conscientiously labored as an official of Tuskegee Institute for twenty years. During these years the community has been greatly enriched by his presence contact, spiritual, and cultural life, which he exhibited in his various walks. He has been well classed as a rare scholar and gentleman of the old school who carried with him, wherever he went, a freshness and love for things new.

APR 3 1941

Beginning in 1902 he was called to Hampton Institute by Dr H. B. Frissell, Principal, where he made his home and headquarters for seventeen years, representing the Institute and different educational boards: The Southern Education Board; the General Education Board; the John F. Slater Fun as well as the Jeanes Foundation. In all of these connections he was spokesman in the educational interest of the Negro.

In his public career he stressed rural education and to this end, when the Jeanes Foundation was organized in 1907 he was appointed field agent. This work took him throughout the South in rural districts, helping the needy. Following the Jeanes work, county training schools were organized in 1912. These schools were rapidly established in rural districts in many counties, and, high school subjects were taught along with industrial subjects to the country boy and girl.

Booker T. Washington sought his advice and association when he made his educational speaking pilgrimages throughout the South, and, Mr. Williams always accompanied him on these trips. He was deeply interested in the Negro ministry and in association with Dr. James M. Dillard, head of the Jeanes and Slater Funds, for a number of summers taught at the preachers Institute, held at Bettis Academy, South Carolina. In further recognition of his service, Mr. Williams was awarded the Twentieth Spingarn Medal in 1934 for his knowledge of and distinguished service to negro education. He was a man of great learning and culture and his work in the educational development of the negro will stand as a mile stone in the progress of our race.

APR 3 1941

Dr. Moton, like Dr. Washington, sought Mr. Williams' advice on problems of education. Since 1920 he has made his home at Tuskegee Institute and served the school in various capacities. The board of trustees appointed him vice president of Tuskegee Institute in 1936, and in this position he was of valuable service to Dr. Fred D. Patterson, president.

In the passing of this distinguished educator Tuskegee Institute has lost a conscientious and devoted worker and the Negro race one of its great constructive leaders.

The Tuskegee Institute faculty and staff members extend heart felt and deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

It is ordered that a copy of this minute be spread upon the records of the Executive Council and faculty of Tuskegee Institute and that a copy be sent to the press and also that a copy be sent to his wife.

APR 3 1941

The Community Service Program meeting was held Monday evening at the Greenwood Baptist Church. A goodly number was present, though not a full house as the merits of the meetings would warrant. One of the principle features of the meeting was the splendid minutes of the proceedings of the previous meeting which were written and read by Mrs. B. B. Walcott, the Secretary of the organization. So full interesting and informing as to the needs of the community were the minutes that it was decided to publish the same and give a copy to all who desire one. Be sure to get your copy from Mr. T. M. Campbell, president and be informed as to the splendid work of this new organization, sponsored by the Federal government and that is doing so much for the community. Dr Patterson was present and made helpful remarks. The next meeting will be held at the Agricultural Extension Building Friday night, April 25th. Please plan and arrange to be present.

APR 3 1941

National Negro Health Week

The observance of National Negro Health Week is quite general over the country. The theme for 1941 is: Personal Hygiene and First Aid Preparedness." Dr. F. D. Patterson, the local Chairman sent letters to all the ministers of local churches urging their cooperation in this total defense measure. The United States Public Health Service is vitally concerned in this program of health for the race and has adopted the National Negro Health Week definitely as a part of its program. The following is an excerpt from a Radio Broadcast on the subject:, by Dr. James a Dolce of the U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

In defense of country, men within the borders of a nation are united as never before. In these weeks of organizing the resources of America toward defense, there is becoming apparent the solidarity of our population—people of all ages, both sexes, all races—joined in the common effort.

APR 3 1941

It is in times like these that the interdependence of all groups in matters of health is more than ever realized. When we understand that defense depends upon human effort, the importance of individual, family, and community health looms large in the total picture.

The theme for National Negro Health Week in 1941 is "Personal Hygiene and First Aid Preparedness." The choice expressed the determination of the Negro people to enter wholeheartedly into the defense plans of our country. This implies that all the groups and individuals who take part in the program, accept responsibility for the betterment of personal health and agree to acquire some skill in first aid as their contribution to the National Defense Program.

* * *

Memorial Service
To Dr. R. R. Moton

Memorial service to the late Dr. R. R. Moton, President Emeritus of Tuskegee Institute will be held in the Institute Chapel Friday afternoon at three o'clock. The public is invited to this service.

APR 3 1941

Founders Day exercises will be held at the Institute Chapel next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. The public is invited to this service.

* * *

The John A. Andrew Clinic medical and dental, will be held at the Institute Hospital beginning Sunday, April sixth and going through Friday April eleventh Distinguished physicians of both races from all over the country will be present and take part in this clinic.

Six young ladies of the Juvenile Choir of the Greenwood Baptist Church accompanaied the pastor, Rev. Chas. W. Kelly to Pepperill, Alabama Wednesday evening and shared in the services of the Baptist Training Union. The service was rendered at the invitation of the pastor of the Pepperill Baptist Church, Rev. Merrill.

* * *

Mrs. Annie M. Garner Passes

The whole community was greatly saddened at the announcement of the death of Mrs. Annie M. Garner of Greenwood Monday morning. Mrs. Garner, the wife of Major Garner, was one of the older citizens of the community. She had been employed in the school's laundry for over twenty years and until recently was on the job until illness prevented her working. Funeral services will be held from the Washington Chapel A. M. E. Church of which she was a most faithful member. The pastor Rev. T. R. Newman will officiate.

Times-Picayune
New Orleans, La.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE HAS FOUNDER'S DAY

APR 8 1941

(The Associated Press)

Tuskegee, Ala., April 7.—Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, celebrated Founder's Day with an elaborate and colorful program Sunday.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"'The soil knows no discrimination;, it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

APR 10 1941

In Memory

Of Robert Russa Moton

His host of friends who remembered him affectionately with the hundreds of students and teachers of the Institute assemuled in the Institute Chapel Friday evening to pay a tribute of respect and love to the late Dr. R. R. Moton, President emeritus of the school. After the organ prelude and the invocation the choir rendered most effectively, "Give Peace in Our Time." The scripture and prayer were read and offered by the Chaplain after which Jack Montgomery played Dr. Moton's favorite selection "Londonderry Air." Expressions of tribute were made by President Patterson and Dr. William J. Scheffelin, President of the Board of Trustees of the school, and Dr. E. H. Dibble manager of the Veteran Facility. Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett of Hampton Institute then conducted the choir in one of his own selections an old melody transcribed from the singing of Dr. Moton. Expressions "In Memoriam" were given by Mr. Albion L. Holsey Secretary of the National Negro Business League; Captain A. J. Neely, Secretary of the Alumni Association of Tuskegee Institute and Mr. Walter R. Brown, the Dean of Men at Hampton. Excerpts from Dr. Moton's Lincoln Memorial Address were read by Miss Ozella Holman of this years class at the Institute. "How Firm a Foundation," one of Dr. Moton's favorite songs was sung by the large congregation after which the main addresses were delivered by Mr. Leo M. Favrot Field representative of the General Education Board (Retired) and Mr. Channing H. Tobias Secretary of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Dett led the choir in another of his own original selections, "Gently, Lord O Gently Lead Us." The service closed with the benediction by Dr. G. Lake Imes. who served Dr. Moton for many years as Secretary.

Founder's Day

Founders Day at Tuskegee has long since become an Institution, looked forward to not only by the school constituency but by friends of the school scattered over the whole country north and south, east and west. The Institute Chapel was taxed to its capacity. Doctors attending the Annual John Andrew Clinic came a day early to be present The Trustees are here to share in a memorial service to the Founder who grows in the minds and hearts of all of us with the passing years. Among the Founders Day speakers have been distinguished men of the land, including such as: Hon. William H. Taft, Dr. M. Ashby Jones Hon. Josephus Daniels, Dr. John H. Filney, Dr. Kelly Miller, Hon John Temple Graves, II and Hon. James A. Farley. The address this year was to have been delivered by Dr. Abraham Flexner who could not serve because of illness. Dr. G. Lake Imes, who knew and served the Founder and school as few men, being Secretary of the Institute and Assistant to the President (retired) gave the address. Twenty five years ago, just after the passing of Dr. Washington, Dr Imes spoke on, "Remember Booker Washington," which was an epic address which was published in booklet form. Dr. Imes' message Sunday will be remembered as one of the finest appraisals of Dr. Washington as has been yet delivered. His subject was, "The Philosophies of Booker T. Washington." The music was most appropriate, "Deep River" sung by the Choir, melody "King of Kings" sung by the school and "Faith of our Fathers" by the congregation.

APR 10 1941

The "Bible Society Record" published by the American Bible Society of N. Y. contains in the February issue a tribute to two faithful workers of the Society. Dr. and Mrs. John P. Wragg who served the organization for two score years. Dr. Wragg began the agency among Negroes more than forty years ago, and after his passing the work was continued by his wife. And even after their passing their work is continued in a Trust Fund of $66,000 which they left in their will from their sacrificial savings. These dear friends of humanity are the God Parents of Mrs. Jessie Parkhurst Guzman, Dean of Women at the Tuskegee Institute.

* * *

The Tuskegee Men's Club will hold its regular monthly meeting at three o'clock, Sunday afternoon, April 13 at the Washington Chapel A. M. E. Church. Dr Prince P. Barker, of the United States Veterans Administration will discuss the topic: "The Importance to the Community of a Mental Hygiene Program." The public, men and women, are invited.

* * *

Noon Day Lenten services are being held each day at 12:40 P. M. and holding twenty minutes or until one o'clock at the Institute Chapel. These services are for meditation and prayer. All are cordially invited to drop in and share in these pre-Easter meditations.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Eubanks of East St. Louis are guests in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Alexander in Greenwood.

* * *

Dr. E. B. Jefferson and son of Nashville, Tenn. are guests in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Kennedy, Greenwood.

APR 10 1941

Dr. John Hall of Boston, Mass is here attending the clinic and is the house guest of Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Kelly.

* * *

Wednesday, April ninth is the Annual Girl's Day at Tuskegee Institute. Girls from over Macon County will assemble in Logan Hall for their annual Educational projects and programs including the traditional spelling match which is so earnestly coveted by all the young people. Success to Girls Day.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Rosenwald Bd. Votes To Continue School Program

APR 5 - 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The board of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund closed its annual two-day session here Saturday. Edwin R. Embree, president, stated that the board voted to continue cooperation with four southern colleges in the development of elementary education programs for Negro and white rural communities.

APR 5 - 1941

The cooperating colleges are Tuskegee institute, Fort Valley State college, Fort Valley, Ga.; Jackson State college, Jackson, Miss., and West Georgia college for whites at Carrolton, Ga.

Embree said the board would continue cooperation with Flint Goodrich hospital, New Orleans; Provident hospital, Chicago, and the John A. Andrew Memorial hospital, Tuskegee institute for the improvement of Negro health; especial attention being given to training nurse-midwives.

The rural elementary school projects at Tuskegee institute are under the supervision of Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the school of education. Embree stated that fellowships were not discussed. They will be taken up in April at a meeting of the fellowship committee which will be held in Washington.

APR 5 - 1941

Members of the Rosenwald family at Tuskegee during the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Lessing Rosenwald, their children, Robert and Joan, Mrs. Snellenburg, Mr. Snellenburg, and Edgar Stern, a son-in-law.

After the Saturday business session, the Rosenwald party visited the new Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis hospital and the Tuskegee airport. At the airport Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, and a member of the Rosenwald board, addressed the Tuskegee aviation staff and student flyers.

Mrs. Roosevelt accompanied by G. L. Washington, coordinator of the Tuskegee aviation program, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee institute, shook hands with each member of the staff. The first lady, after watching acrobatics, went aloft in a Piper trainer with Chief Pilot Alfred Anderson at the controls.

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Institute Notes Founders Day

APR 7 - 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—The memory of Booker T. Washington, Negro educator and founder of Tuskegee Institute, was honored here Sunday at the twenty-fifth Founders Day exercises held on the campus of the college, one of the oldest and largest centers of Negro education in the country.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the faculty during the administration of its founder, and speaker of the day, told an audience of 2,500 that one of the slogans which Booker T. Washington used to drive home his economic philosophy was "the soil knows no discrimination: it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man."

APR 7 - 1941

The man wh opened up the road to education for the American Negro was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, member of the City Council in Gary, Ind., in the alumni address as a man "who, born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color" to become a source of inspiration to his race.

A parade of students, alumni and faculty was escorted by the institute band around the campus to the chapel, marching between lines of 1,000 blue-uniformed institute cadets and 600 girls in blue capes.

Terminating their conventions at the institute at the time of the Founders Day celebration were members of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society and members of the Southern Association of Drama and Speech Arts.

18y-1941

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. G. W. KELLY

APR 17 1941

Special Easter services were held at all the local churches Sunday, special Easter messages being delivered by the pastors. At the Washington Chapel A. M. E. Church there was an Easter Cantata Sunday morning "Christ Triumphant" which was enjoyed by a large congregation which taxed the capacity of the church "Redemption's Song," an Easter Cantata, was rendered by the choir of the Greenwood Baptist Church Sunday evening. Guest artists assisted the regular members of the choir in the person of Mr. Otis Wright, Mr. Nathaniel MaCray and Mr. Willis Brown Two months preparation in earnest practice by the choir produced musical harmony and effects seldom reached in other than professional singers. Mr William Wiley, the Chorister and Mrs. A. R. Ashley the efficient pianist deserve special thanks and commendation for this musical achievement.

APR 17 1941

* * *

Mr. Walter Williams of Washington, D. C. formerly librarian is spending the Easter Holidays here with his wife, Mrs. Minnie Davis Williams. His many friends are glad to see him and are showing him many social courtesies.

* * *

Mrs. R. T. White, mother of Mrs. Selma Richardson, is here visiting her relatives, the Institute's Chaplain and family.

* * *

The Tuskegee Institute Quartette will render a concert at Pepperill, Alabama Saturday evening. The occasion will be under the auspices of the Young Peoples Society in the Pepperill church. The Quintette will fill several engagements locally and in nearby cities before they go East on their annual summer tour.

APR 17 1941

* * *

Mrs. W. T. B. Williams left last Saturday morning, motoring with her sister in law and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tyler for Catledge, Va. and other points for a two weeks rest and vacation.

* * *

Mrs. Joseph Nesbitt of Montgomery, mother of Mrs. George Busby, is confined in our hospital after a serious operation from which she is recovering.

APR 17 1941

Dr. G. Lake Imes sustained minor injuries in an automobile accident on his way here from Baltimore, Md. His injuries while not serious have been very painful, especially since the exertions attending his Founders Day address. He is up however and about the campus visiting old friends, and hopes to return to Baltimore this week. Mrs. Imes is with her husband and they are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Dawson in Greenwood.

* * *

Mrs. Corine Perdue Steele of New York is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jailus Perdue. She has been visiting with Mrs. Martha Hooper, the wife of Col. Chauney Hooper of the 369th Post Artillery, New York.

* * *

The many friends of Mrs. S. P. Martin were glad to welcome her to the campus on her recent visit, on the occasion of the memorial services of Dr. Moton and the Founders Day exercises.

APR 17 1941

Founders Day at Selma University, Selma Alabama will be observed Tuesday, April 22. The occasion honors the Founder of Selma University, Rev. William H. McAlpine, who introduced in the Alabama Colored Baptist State Convention in its sixth annual session at the First African Baptist Church, Tuscaloosa, Alabama, November 1873 a resolution for the establishment of a school by the convention and who nursed the idea to its fruition in the opening of the school January first 1878. The Founders Day address will be delivered this year by Mr. J. A. Watkins of Tuskegee, the President of the Auburn District Sunday School Convention. Mr. Watkins by his energetic support of Selma University and stimulating leadership of the Sunday Schools in the District, comprising fifty two Sunday Schools, has won for himself a place in the religious life of the district and the state which warrants this honor coming to him, of delivering the Founders Day address. Mr. Watkins is the Superintendent of the Greenwood Baptist Sunday school.

* * *

A Young Peoples Conference of the Presbyterian Church was held at Stillman Institute, Tuscaloosa Alabama Tuesday through Friday last week. The occasion brought religious workers from far and near as speakers and teachers. The theme of the Conference was "Thy Will Be Done. Among the leaders were Rev. Samuel L. Gandy, assistant to the Chaplain at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn. who conducted a class in "Christianity and Economic Problems," and Rev. Chas. W. Kelly who brought the inspirational message each evening. The conference was largely attended by youth from over the southland representing the Presbyterian church, and was directed by Miss Ruth D. See of Stillman Institute.

APR 17 1941

The Tuskegee Men's Club Becomes the Tuskegee Civic Asso.

On Sunday afternoon, April 13 1941, at the Greenwood Baptist Church, the members of the Tuskegee Men's Club ratified several proposed amendments to the Constitution. The two amendments of major importance were those which (1) changed the name of the organization from The Tuskegee Men's Club to The Tuskegee Civic Association, and (2) provided for the admission of women to membership. All women who are interested in the promotion of civic well-being are invited to become members of the Association. The regular meetings are held at various churches in the community on the second Sunday of each month, at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

At the last meeting of the organization, Dr. Prince P. Barker of the Veterans' Administration, discussed The Importance to the Community of a Mental Hygiene Program. Following Dr. Barker's formal presentation, he answered numerous questions which came from the audience. Keen interest in the recently organized Tuskegee Mental Hygiene Society was revealed by persons present and the hope that the Society will render useful service to the community was expressed.

APR 17 1941

The Johnston-Clark Wedding

On April 10th at 4:30 o'clock the spacious and well appointed home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. A. Johnston gave a very pretty setting for the wedding of their daughter, Edythe Mae, when she became the bride of Mr. Selburn W. Clark of San Antonia, Texas.

The guests were greeted by Mrs. Jerome J. Peters who was dressed in a very pretty dress of blue with a large off face hat of ecru with accessories to match —Promptly at four fifteen the prenuptial musical program began with Mrs. John W. Chenault presiding at the piano. Mr. John Montgomery rendered very softly and effectively a violin solo—Claire De Lune—after which Mr. Otis Wright in his unassuming but very charming manner sang with feeling and ability—Ich Lube Dich by Greig. Mrs. William Waddell dressed in a cape ensemble of beige and brown with brown accessories and Mrs. Lilla W. Lee dressed in a gray outfit with corn colored spring accessories—lighted the candles—at the improvised altar embanked with palms and baskets of beautiful spring flowers. The Reverend Harry V. Richardson who performed the ceremony took his stand at the alter awaiting the arrival of the contracting parties. The groom entered with his best man, Mr. Drew, then entered the Bride's maid—Miss A. Lucile Davis of Birmingham wearing a dusty pink cape ensemble model—pastel blue flowered hat with harmonizing accessories— She was followed by Mrs. George C. Busby who served as Matron of honor. Mrs. Busby wore as her costume one of the latest models of eton and tucking of ashes of roses blending with corn colored accessories.

Then came the bride with her father. She was very stunning in a model of Heaven blue sheer crepe ensemble, with off face crownless model hat of toast color with waistline veil. Her slippers and accessories blended into darker shade of toast color and her corsage was of beautiful gardenias.

The dining room was beautifully decorated—the table was covered with an exquisite lace cloth with a delicate shade of pink underneath. The center piece was a large four tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom—After receiving many felicitations of the afternoon the groom held the hand of the bride when she cut the first slice of cake—Mrs. Chas. W. Kelly then cut the cake for the guest and was assisted by Mrs. Lucien Greene and Miss Laly Charlton in the dining room where the guest were served very dainty and tasty ribbon sandwiches Pineapple Frappe'-cake mints and salted nuts.

APR 17 1941

The Bride was educated at Tuskegee Institute and Talladega College—and is an excellent Musician—a teacher in piano of many community children. She alsi is a member of the Delta Sororiety.

The groom, after finishing High School in his home town came to Tuskegee for his higher education and received his A. B. from Tuskegee Institute and is now employed at the Tuskegee U. S. Veterans Facility.

Immediately after the wedding, Mrs. Lilla W. Lee and Mrs. J. W. Chenault were co-hostesses at a Buffet supper in honor of the bridal party and a few very intimate friends of the couple at the home of Mrs. Chenault's. The Bride and groom left shortly afterwards for a short honeymoon and upon their return are residing at Tuskegee Institute with the bride's parents. The happy couple are the receipients of many pretty and useful presents..

APR

Mrs. A. P. Mack left Saturday night for St. Louis, Mo. to visit her brother whom she has not seen for over twenty two years. We wish for Mrs. Mack a very pleasant time the few weeks she plans to be away.

APR

The Handicrafters met with Mrs. B. J. Beard Thursday afternoon.

Opelika, Ala. News
April 11, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Will Spend $200,000 Air Training Base

Tuskegee, Ala., April 11.—(AP)—Appropriation of $200,000 by the Tuskegee Institute board of trustees for purchase and development of an 800-acre airdrome was announced today by Dr. William J. Schieffelin of New York, chairman.

The appropriation was made in carrying out the college's aviation program for negroes, which includes a training center for flying cadets to be established here by the War Department.

Mooresville, N. C. Enterprise
April 10, 1941

Tuskegee Students Expect Places In Negro Air Unit

Tuskegee, Ala.—Collegians swiftly sprouting wings at this old institute are convinced they'll win most of the 33 pilot assignments when the Army's first all-Negro air unit—the 99th Pursuit Squadron—is activated here Oct 1.

The 99th is moving a long step nearer reality this month with the recruiting of the 276-man ground crew from among the school graduates who must pass special aptitude tests. Selection of these men is expected to take only a few weeks.

Reason Tuskegeeans are confident they hold the edge for the coveted cadet appointments is that Tuskegee is the only Negro college with an advanced school set up under the Civilian Pilot Training Program of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Amazing speed has marked the growth of this school. Authorized in 1940, students started hitch-hiking 40 miles to Montgomery to take their lessons because there was no field here. Then a temporary field was cleared only seven miles away.

By the time some students worked to the advance flying stage and Tuskegee provided a $10,000 Army type training plane, white students at nearby Auburn (Alabama Polytech) voted unanimously to let the Negro fliers use their field and hangar.

Now a new field has been leased here, the Institute fleet has grown to twelve planes, shop facilities have been built, engine laboratories set up. Charles A. Anderson, first Negro to win a commercial pilot's license, runs the program and holds an Army contract to give elementary training to the fledglings of the 99th.

The cadets will meet the same requirements as for white air corps fliers, having two years of college education—or the ability to pass an examination showing equivalent knowledge—must be single and between 20 and 27 years of age.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
April 7, 1941

Founder's Day Program Held At Tuskegee

Dr. Lake Imes, Former Faculty Member, Is Principal Speaker

TUSKEGEE, ALA., April 6.—(AP)—Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institution of higher learning for negroes, celebrated "Founder's Day" with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md. a member of the Institute faculty during the administration of Booker T Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The Institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1,000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

"Our great founder who, born a slave and a black boy, went forward asking no special consideration because of his color" was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, as "an inspiration" to tens of thousands.

As the Founder's Day program opened, more than 75 physicians and surgeons already had arrived for the 30th annual clinic and 24th meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

Dothan, Ala. Eagle
April 7, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Honors Washington

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) —Tuskegee Institute honored its founder, Booker T. Washington, in a colorful observance here yesterday.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the Tuskegee faculty during the administration of Washington, delivered the principal address, quoting from the founder's writings.

"The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes recalled as one of Booker Washington's homely sayings with which he drove home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, termed "an inspiration" Washington's work while "asking no special consideration because of his color."

Asheville, N. C. Times
April 10, 1941

Negro Boy Tells Of Meeting First Lady In Alabama

Jerome Logan, of Shiloh school, who was a representative of the negro junior Red Cross at the recent negro rally of the Red Cross held at Tuskegee, Ala., told of a visit to the George Washington Carver museum and other experiences at the rally at a meeting of the negro Junior Red Cross group at Allen Home school yesterday afternoon. Five schools were represented at the meeting yesterday, by 14 children and several teachers.

The young boy, who accompanied his teacher, Daisy Glenn, to the rally, told of meeting Mrs. Roosevelt and Julius Rosenwald, while there. It was announced that the rally probably will be held at Asheville next year.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland
APR 26 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt Flies in Tuskegee Plane

Mrs. Roosevelt did a very gracious thing recently. Visiting Tuskegee Institute, she made a flight in one of the training planes with the instructor of the government's new cadet flying field there.

The Roosevelt administration has not been willing to integrate colored flying cadets with regular army flyers. Instead, it has set up a separate training unit at Tuskegee.

APR 26 1941

It is a most undemocratic, impractical, military procedure and bad for morale. The First Lady realized this as quickly as anyone, and her visit to Tuskegee and her flight with the colored instructor were her contributions to good will.

Montgomery, Ala. Advertiser
May 2, 1941

Educational Group Will Meet Today At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, ALA., May 1.—(AP)—A sub-regional conference on cooperatives will be held at Tuskegee Institute Friday and Saturday under auspices of the Southeastern Cooperative Education Association, it was announced today by Elizabeth K. Lynch, of Carrollton, Ga., secretary.

Subjects to be discussed include: Consumer Cooperatives by Dr. J. W. Broyles, Snead Junior College, Boaz; Campus Cooperatives by Dr. J. Max Boyd, Tuskegee Institute; Elementary School Cooperatives by O. Christine Collins, Tuskegee Institute; Credit Unions by C. R. Orchard, Farm Credit Administration, and Agricultural Cooperatives.

Group discussions also are planned.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
June 2, 1941

Summer Short Course Opens At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA. June 1.—The annual Summer short course for ministers will be held at Tuskegee Institute beginning Monday, and continuing through June 6, according to announcement made today by the Rev. Harry V. Richardson, Institute chaplain and executive secretary of the ministers' institute.

From present indications this will be one of the most successful sessions yet held. A large number of distinguished persons will constitute the faculty, including Dr. D. V. Jemison, president of the National Baptist Convention, one of the largest religious organizations in the world; Bishop D. Ward Nichols, of the A. M. E. Church and the Rev. John W. Lemon, of Gloucester, Va., an expert in the field of the rural church. Members of the faculty of Tuskegee Institute will also conduct courses during the sessions. The evenings during the week will be devoted to public meetings in the auditorium of Trades Building A.

Recreational activities will be directed by the physical education staff of the Institute under the direction of Coach Cleve L. Abbott.

18y-1941
Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Week Of Prayer Held At Tuskegee

JAN 13 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., Jan. 12.—"Successful living will never be possible unless we seek it through the Christian way," declared the Rev. William J. Faulkner, to a vast audience of Tuskegee students assembled for the Week of Prayer which closed here Friday night. Throughout the week Dr. Faulkner, who is dean of the chapel at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., spoke to the theme, "Triumphant Living Through Christ."

Capacity audiences which taxed one of the largest auditoriums on the campus assembled each evening to hear the speaker and to share in the stimulating programs. According to Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain of Tuskegee Institute, who arranged and conducted the meetings, this was one of the most remarkable weeks of prayer in the history of the Institute. "A week such as this," Chaplin Richardson stated in an interview, "is convincing evidence that the present generation of college students are not irreligious as is so often said of them. To see young people coming out by hundreds, occupying every available inch of space to share in a prayer meeting is most reassuring."

Rev. Richardson was assisted in the conduct of the services by Rev. Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist Church at the Institute, and Alberta L. Simms, of the Tuskegee Institute Department of Music, as well as by a large number of students who played a major part in the activities of the week.

JAN 18 1941

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland
FEB 22 1941

Teacher Trainers Hold Session at Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Representatives of the U.S. Office of Education, 104 State supervisors, home economics teachers and representatives of teacher-training institutions from sixteen States met here in a vocational conference February 13-14.

Pittsburgh Courie
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tuskegee Postoffice Receipts Break Record

FEB 22 1941

TUSKEGEE, Feb. 20—(ANP)—According to a statement just made public by James A. Johnson, postmaster, Tuskegee Institute, the volume of business for Christmas, 1940, surpassed all previous records in the history of the office. Postal receipts increased 18 per

Mobile, Ala., Register
January 24, 1941

A Research Institute For Alabama?

Proposed establishment of an industrial research institute in Alabama is a recommendation which should receive enthusiastic approval of the entire state.

The proposal was made to officials of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce at a Montgomery meeting Thursday, and a 12-man committee already has been named to study details of the plan.

Value of a modern research institute in this state can easily be recognized when one reflects on the amazing scientific developments produced from humble natural resources of Alabama by Dr. George Washington Carver, aged colored scientist at the Tuskegee Institute. He has discovered new uses for a number of such Alabama products such as peanuts, sweet potatoes and numerous others, and a colored assistant has developed a process for making cheap paint from Alabama clays.

While the work of Dr. Carver cannot be belittled, establishment of an up-to-date laboratory by the state's industrial leaders doubtlessly would offer infinite possibilities for the further development of Alabama's latent resources.

Possible objectives of the institute, as outlined by Dr. Stewart J. Lloyd of the University of Alabama, who proposed the institute plan, might include studies on the extraction of alumina from Alabama clay, discovery of new uses for cotton and slag, the manufacture of wood pulp from scrub oak and removal of phosphorus from iron ore.

Benefits from possible discoveries of the proposed institute would be invaluable to both industry and agriculture, and it consequently deserves the support of everyone interested in improving the economic and social status of Alabama.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Simple Ceremonies For Mrs. Melencia Blackwell

FEB 8 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Feb. 6—Simple and impressive funeral services for Mrs. Melcenia Mack Blackwell were held in the Institute Chapel here Monday, Chaplain Harry V. Richardson officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Charles W. Kelly and Rev. T. R. Newman. The sudden death of Mrs. Blackwell, which occurred following a brief illness, was a great shock to her associates and numerous friends.

A native of Cairo, Illinois, Mrs. Blackwell came to Tuskegee Institute in 1925 from the A. and M. Institute, Normal, Alabama, where she had served in a secretarial capacity. At Tuskegee her early connections were with the Agricultural Department and in the office of the Business Agent. Since 1937 Mrs. Blackwell has served as secretary to the Director of Mechanical Industries and as office manager of the department. This position she held at the time of her death. Her ability as an office administrator as well as her understanding of human engineering made her a highly valued member of the mechanical personnel. Her sympathetic nature and her generous heart were always a source of inspiration to both teachers and students who came in daily personal contact with her.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, President with whom she was associated during her early years at the Institute, and Rev. Harry V. Richardson, Chaplain, who conducted the services, praised her for her loyalty and devotion to the interests of Tuskegee.

The congregation sang the favorite selections of the deceased and at the request of the bereaved family, Jack Montgomery and Nathaniel R. McCray rendered solo numbers. Messages of condolence came from various sections of the country as well as numerous floral offerings.

In her affiliations with the St. Andrews Episcopal Sunday School, the Pierian Literary Society, the Mothers' Study Club and the Tuskegee Womans' Club, Mrs. Blackwell gave her usual energy, devotion and ability.

The Executive Council expressed the sorrow of the staff, faculty and student body in a resolution.

In May, 1923, in Montgomery, Alabama, she was married to Moses N. Blackwell, of Summerton, South Carolina. Two children were born to this union, Moses A. Blackwell, Jr., and Melcenia Louise.

Surviving are her husband, the two children, five sisters, Mrs. Leota Ross, Cairo, Illinois; Mrs. Thelma Allensworth, Mrs. Theresa Lyerson, Mrs. Cassandra Williams, Lorene Mack, Detroit; and four brothers, Willard and Floyd, Detroit; Julius Mack, Cleveland, and John Mack, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Interment took place at Summerton, South Carolina.

Negro Labor News
Houston, Texas

Campbell To Serve On Defense Body

FEB 22 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(ANP)—T. M. Campbell, field agent of United States agricultural extension service, has accepted the invitation to serve as a member of the group of consultants connected with the newly established Committee of National Defense Training in Alabama.

Southern News Almanac
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Group Presents Play In Birmingham

FEB 20 1941

The beautiful, poignant play, "Our Town," written by Thornton Wilder and under the direction of Saunders Earl Walker, was presented by the Little Theatre of Tuskegee Institute last Friday night in the Parker High School Auditorium, Birmingham.

Mr. Walker, a product of Birmingham, is now serving on the faculty of Tuskegee Institute. He has been awarded a fellowship in the department of Drama at Yale University. He introduced the Little Theatre movement at Tuskegee.

The main characters of the play were portrayed by the following students:

Reginald Moms, James Shelton, Floyd Cox, Randolph Goodwin, Elizabeth Campbell, Margaret Washington, Robert Frazier, Annie M. Benson, Albert Ransom.

Laurice Campfield, Osmond Moore, Carutha Harden, Cecelia Batery, James Woodsen, Isaac Curtis, Helen Wilson, Thomas Saunders, and William Calhoun, and a supporting cast of people of the town.

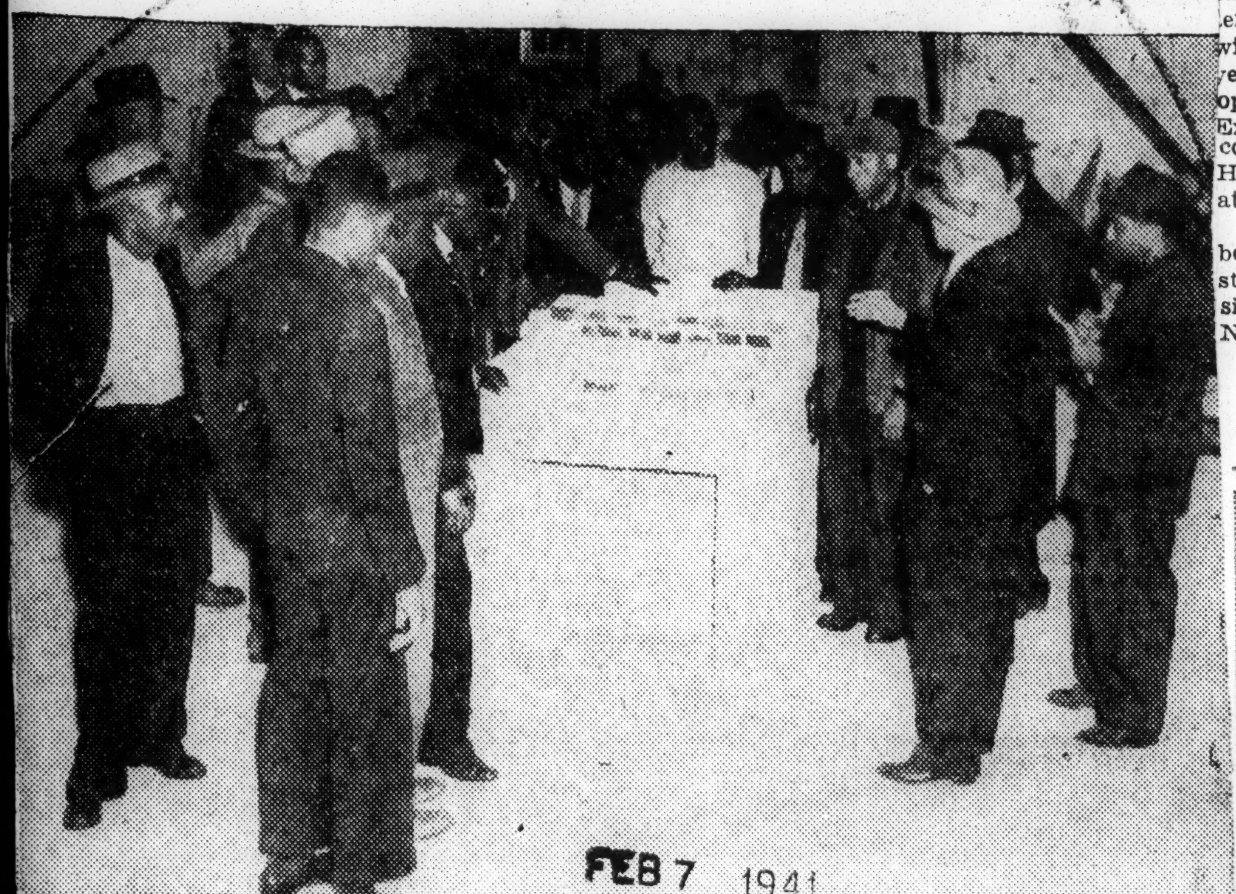
FEB 20 1941

The program, under the auspices of the Birmingham-Tuskegee Club, was enjoyed by a large audience. The officers of the club are the following:

E. Q. Adams, president; Wm. A Berry, vice president; Miss Gertrude Hawkins, secretary; Miss Elnora Armstead, assistant secretary; T. J. Guice, treasurer; Rev. B. A Hawkins, chaplain; A. A. Davenport, publicity, and Robert Mabry executive committee chairman.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Carpenters Take Short Course at Tuskegee Institute



FEB 7 1941

FEB 7

For 50 years Tuskegee institute has held short courses for farmers, rural preachers, extension agents, cooks and mid wives, but it was not until this year that the institute, in cooperation with the Alabama Extension service, offered a course for rural carpenters. Here the carpenters are shown at work.

Top photo shows carpenters being taught chimney construction by D. F. Miller, assistant agricultural engineer, Negro division, Alabama extension service.

Top photo shows the carpenters receiving instruction in the reading of blueprints from H. W. Dearing, assistant extension agricultural engineer.
—ANP Photos.

ZETAS ORGANIZED AT TUSKEGEE

FEB 1 1941

Pictured above is the newly organized Alpha Xi Zeta graduate chapter of the Zeta Phi Beta sorority at Tuskegee, Ala. From left to right are charter members: Sorors Marie Williamson, first anti-basileus; Fannie Campbell, Florence Sorrell, basileus; and Zenobia Smith, grammateus. Missing from the picture is Soror Eunice Dent, tamiouches.

18y-1941

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

OUTSTANDING SPEAKERS TO PRAIRIE VIEW

JAN 10 1941

Dr. DuBois, Dr. Charles S. Johnson and Dr. Patterson to Appear

By ROBY W. HILLIARD

PRAIRIE VIEW, Texas. — In keeping with one of the objectives of the college (to give the students every opportunity to contact outstanding figures), Prairie View will have numerous outstanding leaders to visit during the month of January, 1941.

Dr. Charles D. Hubert, former acting president of Morehouse opened the month by spending January 2-5 inclusive at Prairie View as guest speaker for Religious Emphasis Week.

Doctor Lane is assisting the staff in evaluating the teacher training program. His services are furnished by the American Council on Education as a result of Prairie View's participatin in the Improvement of Teachers Education Program. He is spending two weeks on the campus to January 11.

Tuskegee and Prairie View are the only two colleges for Negroes participating. Other consultants in this connection who will visit Prairie View in January are Dr. C. L. Cushman of Chicago university; Dr. Troyer, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Dorothy Olendoff of Northwestern university.

Under the sponsorship of the division of program and discussion of the Federal Department of Agriculture, a three-day institute o philosophy with 100 persons participating will be held at Prairie View, January 23 through 25.

The following list of distinguished persons will serve as guest lecturers:

JAN 10 1941

Dr. W.E.B. DuBois, professor, Atlanta; Dr. Charles S. Johnson, professor, Fisk university, Nashville Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee institute; Dr. James O. Howard, specialist, federal bureau of agricultural economy; Dr. T. Lynn Smith, professor, Louisiana university, Baton Rouge; Dr. Carl F. Taeusch, specialist, federal bureau of agricultural economics.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Dr. F. D. Patterson Named Red Cross Incorporator

JAN 25 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, has been signally honored by being unanimously elected a member of the Board of Incorporators of the American National Red Cross. Dr. Patterson's election to the Board was officially conveyed to him by letter received from Miss Mable T. Boardman, secretary.

Dr. Patterson is chairman of the Tuskegee Institute Red Cross Chapter which has been active since the first World War and has been commended frequently for the prompt manner in which it has responded when called upon to share when appeal has been made for national emergenucy.

Dr. Patterson is the first to be elected a member of the Board of Incorporators of the American Red Cross.

Bystander
Des Moines, Iowa

BOOKS TO TUSKEGEE

JAN 30 1941

Over 200 books of the extensive medical library of the late Dr. Alvin Jefferson were shipped to Tuskegee Institute, Ala., to be used as reference books in the school's library.

The late physician, who had practiced in Des Moines for 27 years, had several thousand dollars worth of books.

JAN 30 1941

The books were given to Tuskegee by the widow, Mrs. J. Alvin Jefferson, 1825 Washington, who is planning to return to Tuskegee this spring to accept a position in the library. She taught there before coming to Des Moines five years ago.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Dr. Patterson Acknowledges Gift to Tuskegee Aggies

JAN 17 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, announced here this week that the trustees had accepted with thanks the bequest made bp Mrs. Emma B. Puriton of Androscoggin County, Maine, establishing a scholarship fund, the income of which is to be used in aiding worthy students of Tuskegee Institute in the field of agriculture.

Dr. Patterson stated: This recognition of the work that the institute is doing in the field of agriculture is heartening to the administration and of great encouragement to those students who are preparing to become farm owners and agricultural leaders.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Host On Feb. 14

Farm Workers Eligible To Attend Meeting

JAN 24 1941

LANGSTON, Okla.—(ANP)—The National Association of Negro Agricultural Workers will hold its second annual meeting at Tuskegee Institute. February 14, 15, according to information released from the office of Dr. M. F. Spaulding, founder and organizer.

The association was organized a year ago by Dr. Spaulding, director of the division of agriculture, Langston University, and former assistant director of agriculture at Tuskegee and a local sponsoring committee.

After seeking admission to the Southern Association of Agricultural White Workers for several years without success, he decided that Negro workers should establish their own organization to secure for themselves the benefits of cooperation, planning and efforts that their groups of workers have been enjoying for many years.

MET LAST APRIL

The first meeting which convened at Tuskegee last April 5, attracted 41 delegates from Alabama Florida, Louisiana, Mississipp Missouri, Tennessee, West Virginia D. C. and Georgia. A temporar organization was formed with D M. F. Spaulding as president, T N. Roberts as secretary, and I Hanna as treasurer. The followir committees were appointed and wi make their reports at the Febru ary meeting: constitution, A. W Curtis, chairman; membership, F L. Perry, chairman; publicity, T N. Roberts, chairman; executiv T. M. Campbell, chairman.

According to the program the will be a variety of subjects di cussed during the two-day sessio The first will consist of gener discussions of interest to all agr cultural workers. The second se sion provides for sectional meeth for special groups. The third sessio will be devoted to addresses by na tional leaders in agricultural edu cation. The final session will b devoted to the business, includin the formation of a permanent or ganization.

WORKERS ELIGIBLE

Negro workers in all phases o agriculture are eligible to atten the meeting. Although no perma nent plans for state membershi quotas have been established, Di Spaulding has temporarily ap pointed state chairmen in each o the southern states and has em powered each to recruit 10 dele gates for the meeting. Anyone in terested should write Dr. M. F Spaulding, at Langston University

Selma, Ala., Times-Journal
February 3, 1941

TRUCK SCHOOL SHOWS FARMER BEST METHODS

Advice Of Famous Negro Leader Followed By Tuskegee

ATLANTA, Feb. 3—(AP)—The late Dr. Booker T. Washington once said: "Instead of telling the farmer what to do, show him how to do and he will never forget."

That idea was expounded by Dr. Washington in 1906 and today it is still going the rounds in the shape of the movable school truck under the leadership of Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala.

Manned by a home demonstration agent, a farm demonstration agent, and a registered nurse, the vehicle tours Alabama, remaining in each county a week. Negro farm families are given regular lessons in improving their living conditions.

Thomas M. Campbell, field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, with headquarters at Tuskegee, who came here for a conference of southern negro agricultural extension workers, told of the work.

"Wherever it visits, the movable school seeks to leave the house and premises whitewashed, to build a new poultry house or repair the old one.

"The workers try to leave hot beds and cold frames in the garden, to leave the orchard pruned wormed and sprayed, to leave shuck mats and rag rugs on the floor; and more than all, the movable school endeavors to leave the family thrilled with the attractiveness of an old home made new and ready to carry out any program that may provide for further transformation.

"Frequently those who have seen the work done go back home and improve their own premises," explained Campbell, son of a Georgia farm family of Ilkes County.

Personally familiar with the manifold problems of life for the rural negro in the south, Campbell commented:

"When once inspired, the farm-negro farm leaders brought to- ers show much eagerness to learngether supervisors of extension that it gives a hopeful outlook toservice, teacher trainers of voca- the farming situation; for as exten-tional agriculture, negro land- sion work develops, I see in it agrant college president and repre- solution to many problems of thesentative negro farmer from each rural districts."

of the 15 southern states.

The three-day conference of

Montgomery Ala. Journal
February 14, 1941

Dramatics at Tuskegee

Saunders E. Walker, director of the Little Theatre at Tuskegee Institute, with the approval of President F. D. Patterson, has been soliciting a modest fund with which to provide some necessary equipment to carry on the work. It is one of those cases where a little money goes a long way in encouraging creative ability. The program is being enlarged this year by reaching out into the rural sections adjoining Tuskegee with the view of discovering and developing latent talent which so often is to be found in unexpected places. At one of these rural units a barn is being converted into a playhouse, and it will be called "The Bucket Theatre" in recognition of the famous Atlanta Exposition speech by Booker T. Washington in which he admonished his fellow citizens to "cast down your buckets where you are." Even those best acquainted with the Negro race have been amazed by the quality of dramatic talent developed among the race in recent years. It should be in every way helpful if this Little Theatre at Tuskegee can further assist in providing an opportunity and cultural outlet for those who might not otherwise ever have such opportunity.

Richmond, Va. News-Leader
February 3, 1941

Booker Washington's Ideal Survives in Farmer School

Idea Expounded in 1906 Lives in Moveable Truck Which Gives Farm People Instruction

ATLANTA, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The late Dr. Booker T. Washington once said: "Instead of telling the farmer what to do, show him how to do and he will never forget."

That idea expounded in 1906 is still going the rounds today in a movable school truck, under the leadership of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.

Manned by a home demonstration agent, a farm demonstration agent and a registered nurse, the vehicle tours Alabama, remaining in each county a week. By means of varied equipment, Negro farm families are given regular lessons in improving their living conditions.

Thomas M. Campbell, field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, with headquarters at Tuskegee, who came here for a conference of Southern Negro agricultural extension workers, starting today, told of the work.

"Wherever it visits, the movable school seeks to leave the house and premises whitewashed, to build a new poultry house or repair the old one.

"The workers try to leave hotbeds and cold-frames in the garden, to leave the orchard pruned, wormed and sprayed, to leave shuck mats and rag rugs on the floor, and, more than all, the movable school endeavors to leave the family thrilled with the attractiveness of an old home made new and ready to carry out any program that may provide for further transformation.

"When once inspired, the farmers show such eagerness to learn that it gives a hopeful outlook to the farming situation, for as extension work develops, I see in it a solution to many problems of the rural districts.

The three-day conference of Negro farm leaders brought together supervisors of extension service, teacher trainers of vocational agriculture, Negro land-grant college president and a representative Negro farmer from each of the fifteen Southern States.

Birmingham, Ala. News
February 10, 1941

Tuskegee Dramatists Will Present Play Here

The much publicized play "Our Town" will be presented in the Parker High auditorium, at 8 p.m., Friday, by the Tuskegee Little Theater, under direction of Birmingham's Saunders E. Walker.

Excerpts from the nation's leading newspapers all refer to the play as "beautiful, poignant, warm with gentle humor," "Our Town' is tonic for the soul," "Unusual, deeply original, a haunting thing."

This presentation is under the auspices of the Birmingham Tuskegee Club.

Atlanta, Ga. Journal
February 16, 1941

Tuskegee Host To Large Group Of Supervisors

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Feb. 15.—Tuskegee Institute was host to 104 state supervisors of agriculture and home economics and representatives of teacher-training institutions for Negroes for a busy five-day conference, February 10-14.

The conference, which brought together white federal agents from the U. S. Office of Education, Washington, D. C., and Negro teacher-trainers and supervisors from 16 states, had the largest attendance of its 10 years of existence.

The major emphasis of the conference was on a joint program of vocational agriculture and home economics for improved farm family living.

Chief topics discussed were: National defense training programs, leadership training schools, and adequate food for farm families.

Features of the conference were addresses by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute; Miss Edna P. Amidon, chief of home economics service, Washington; W. A. Ross, subject matter specialist, agricultural education, U. S. Office of Education.

Discussion leaders were: Miss Marie White, Southern regional agent; R. E. Commack, state supervisor of agricultural education for Alabama; W. N. Elam, federal agent, agricultural education, and Miss Rua Van Horn, U. S. Office of Home Economics Education.

Gadsden, Ala., Times
February 27, 1941

Founder's Day Will Be Held At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Abraham Flexner, educational philosopher, will deliver the Founder's Day address at Tuskegee Institute April 6, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, announced here today.

The annual ceremony honors the memory of Booker T. Washington.

Wilbur J. Hardaway, city councilman of Gary, Ind., will deliver the annual address on April 5. The Institute board of trustees, the John A. Andrews Clinical Society and members of Tuskegee's 28-year reunion class will be among the guests.

E. Saunders Walker of Birmingham, speech and dramatic teacher, will describe activities of his Bucket theater in rural teaching centers.

Memphis, Tenn. Commercial Appeal
February 2, 1941

"THE OAKS" at Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Ala., one-time home of Booker T. Washington, famed negro literary figure, will be visited by Ted Malone during his American Pilgrimage broadcast over WMPS at 1 this afternoon.

Newport News, Va. Press
February 22, 1941

Tuskegee Chaplain To Speak at Church

The Rev. Henry V. Richardson, chaplain of Tuskegee institute, will be speaker at the morning church services at Hampton institute tomorrow, the Rev. Camille A. Chazeaud, acting chaplain, yesterday announced. The Rev. Mr. Richardson will also address the student body and staff at the chapel service at 7:35 Sunday evening.

Dr. Charles Marshall Muir, pastor of the Bluefield Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, Pa., will speak next Sunday morning, March 2, and Dr. Channing H. Tobias, national secretary of the Y. M. C. A., New York city, will follow Sunday, March 9, at the institute church services.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia
MAR 15 1941

To Honor Dr. R. R. Moton At Tuskegee

Tobias, Favrot To Be Speakers On Program April 4

MAR 15 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —Tuskegee students, faculty and friends, will assemble in the Institute chapel to pay memorial tribute to Robert R. Moton, successor to Booker T. Washington, and president-emeritus of Tuskegee Institute at the time of his death, May 31, 1940.

Leo Favrot, educator and for many years a member of the General Education Board, and Dr. Channing Tobias, of the national board of the YMCA have accepted the invitation of Dr. F. D. Patterson to deliver the principal addresses on the memorial program.

"We are particularly fortunate," stated President Patterson, "to have these two gentlemen who labored for so many years side by side with Dr. Moton to improve educational opportunities and human relationships not only for the Negro people, but for the nation, as our speakers on this significant occasion, when we pay tribute to one who endeared himself to the members of both races."

A committee appointed by Dr Patterson is working out further details of the memorial program. Special music is being prepared by the Institute choir under the direction of William L. Dawson. The memorial program committee includes, A. L. Holsey, chairman; A. J. Neely, H. V. Richardson, R. S. Darnaby, C. O. Fant, William L. Dawson, R. R. Moton, II, I. A. Derbigny, J. H. Palmer, J. L. Anderson, W. T. B. Williams, and B. B. Walcott.

18y-1941

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

DR. CARVER TAUGHT HENRY A. WALLACE ABOUT PLANT LIFE

JAN 3

Kansas City, Mo.—In a spirited address here last week, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's new running mate, Henry A. Wallace, vice presidential candidate on the Democratic National Ticket, said that the American people will not have to give up their way of living or deny themselves and of the comforts they have enjoyed in the past because of the defense program.

"In the United States of America we do not have to choose in the year of 1940 between guns and butter. In some later year, if we find ourselves besieged by a whole world controlled by conquering dictators, we may have to choose. But for this year and next year, it is true, as you all so well know, that the more we spend for preparedness, the more we shall have to eat and to wear." He then went on to explain that as long as we have such a huge reservoir of idle man-power, it is impossible for us to feel any severe strain when we add a few million dollars worth of defense work to the program. "This added work does not replace any other useful work. It replaces a corresponding amount of unemployment. National Defense is automatically drawn from our reservoir of unused productive power. There will be no decrease in luxuries and comforts until all the available man-power is used."

The former secretary of argiculture, who but recently resigned from Secretary of Agriculture to be the President's running mate, had also told his audience how he had been inspired by the eminent Negro scientist, Dr. Carver of Tuskegee Institute to specialize in agricultural work as a profession.

"Because of his friendship for my father,' said Mr. Wallace, "and his interest in children, George Carver often took me with him on his botany expeditions, although I was then only 6 years old. He told my parents I was able to identify different species of grasses. His faith in me aroused my natural interest and kindled an ambition to excel in this field. His praise did me good, as prase of a child often does. an I believe my later interest and work in corn breeding was largely due to him."

Shortly after his brilliant address here last Tuesday week, Mr. Wallace declared that every Negro cotton and tobacco farmer had been greatly benefited under the A. A. A. program and that nearly 200,000 had ben aided by the mortgage loan program.

He was most emphatic in answering a question on lynching, declaring that he certainly would oppose the atrocious crime of mob-murders and pledged himself to do everything in his power to stop it and bring about complete unity in the nation.

In conclusion he said:

"Our present administration has handled the hard and complicated task of re-building a country smashed by the collapse that occurred under Republican management. This re-building is not complete, but it is well along.

We Americans have to consider how best we can assure the continued services of a President and a party that have the experience in foreign affairs to guard us against surprise and the experience in domestic affairs to take us through rough times without disaster. With the thoughtful understanding and continued support of the American people, I believe that this country will come safely through these dark times. Labor, agriculture, industry and government will work together under the inspiring leadership of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

POSTAL FIGURES UP AT TUSKEGEE

Christmas Season Rise Shown By Office At Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Jan. 16—Figures just compiled show an increase in business during the Christmas season in all departments of the Tuskegee Institute postoffice, Postmaster James A. Johnson said.

Compared with the year 1939, the postmaster said the institute postoffice handled a larger volume of Christmas mail and that it was dispatched with all speed possible consistent with efficient and careful handling. The various divisions of the office show the following increase in business handled as compared with the same period last year: Postal receipts increased 18 per cent, money orders 7.3 per cent, insured parcels 5 per cent, and postal savings 1.3 per cent.

In addition to serving the students, teachers and the wide variety of postal services of the institute, the office also serves the entire Greenwood community adjacent to the institute, and a large number of persons of the Veterans Administration Facility are also patrons of the office.

JAN 17 1941

"I was particularly pleased with the way the entire force worked day and night, to handle every piece of mail—from the smallest greeting card to the largest parcel—with the greatest possible speed and efficiency," the postmaster said. He also complimented the patrons of the office for their patience and good humor even though they had to stand in the long line for several minutes and await their turn to be served. "I think they are to be congratulated for their fine spirit," he stated.

The institute postoffice was commended recently for the splendid showing made in the handling of the Booker T. Washington commemorative postage stamp. Philatelists from all sections of the country came to the institute at this time to purchase the first day of issue stamp from the all-Negro operated Tuskegee Institute postoffice.

In addition to the postmaster, the staff consists of George W. Clark, assistant postmaster; Larry Robinson, money order clerk; Charles W. Thomas, assistant money order clerk; J. Willard Reed, dispatch clerk, and Edward B. Mack, special delivery messenger.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

CLOSE WEEK OF PRAYER FRIDAY AT TUSKEGEE

JAN 19 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —"Successful living will never be possible unless we seek it through the Christian way," declared the Rev. William J. Faulkner, to a vast audience of Tuskegee students assembled for the Week of Prayer which closed here Friday night. Throughout the week, Dr. Faulkner, who is Dean of the Chapel at Fisk university, Nashville, Tennessee, spoke to the theme "Triumphant Living Through Christ."

Capacity audiences which taxed one of the largest auditoriums on the campus asembled each evening to hear the speaker and to share in the stimulating programs. According to Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain of Tuskegee institute, who arranged and conducted the meetings, this was one of the most remarkable weeks of prayer in the history of the institute. "A week such as this," Chaplain Richardson stated in an interview, "is convincing evidence that the present generation of college students are not irreligious as as is so often said of them. To see young people coming out by hundreds, occupying every available inch of space to share in a prayer meeting is most reassuring." In his opinion, he said, modern students face religion with two great demands: the first is for an enlightened interpretation of religion so that it will fit into their expanding knowledge, and the second is for honesty of thought and honesty of life in those persons who would lead them. 'Given these two demands, the responses to religion are for the most encouraging, he stated.

Rev. Faulkner is Dean of the Chapel and Director of Religious Activities at Fisk university. He is also Personnel Advisor to young men at that institution. His rich experience in dealing with young people and hs thorough scholarship made a most effective leader for the Week of Prayer.

Rev. Richardson was assisted in the conduct of the services by Rev. Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist church at the institute, and Mrs. Alberta L. Simms, of the Tuskegee institute department of music, as well as by a large number of students who played a major part in the activities of the week.

Noted Tuskegee Educator Dies

Columbia, S. C. [illegible]
January 20, 1941

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 19—(Special) —Funeral services for the wife of M. A. Blackwell, a noted woman educator of Tuskegee institute, will be held in the Institute chapel Monday morning at 10 a. m.

The body will arrive in Sumter, native home of the distinguished teacher, for burial at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the family cemetery.

Atlanta, Ga. Journal
February 8, 1941

TUSKEGEE FINDS SCHOOL TRUCK POTENT FACTOR

A school truck, sponsored by the Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala., has proved one of the most successful means of teaching Negro farm families how to improve their living conditions, Negro farm leaders in a three-day conference here were told Monday.

Manned by a home demonstration agent, a farm demonstration agent and a registered nurse, the vehicle tours Alabama, remaining in each county a week. By means of varied equipment farm families are taught home improvement.

Thomas M. Campbell, field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, with headquarters at Tuskegee, who is here for the conference of Southern Negro Agricultural Extension Workers, told of the work.

"Wherever it visits, the movable school seeks to leave the house and premises whitewashed, to build a new poultry house or repair the old one.

The workers try to leave hot beds and cold frames in the garden, to leave the orchard pruned, wormed and sprayed, to leave shuck mats and rag rugs on the floor; and more than all, the movable school endeavors to leave the family thrilled with the attractiveness of an old home made new and ready to carry out any program that may provide for further transformation.

"When once inspired, the farmers show such eagerness to learn that it gives a hopeful outlook to the farming situation; for as extension work develops, I see in it a solution to many problems of the rural districts," Campbell, son of a Georgia farm family of Wilkes County, commented.

"The movable school idea is no longer an experiment," he said, "it is an investment that pays abundantly in dollars and cents."

The three-day conference of Negro farm leaders, being held at the Hotel Savoy, brought together supervisors of extension service, teacher trainers of vocational agriculture, Negro land-grant college presidents and a representative Negro farmer from each of the 15 Southern states.

Birmingham Ala News
January 28, 1941

Ex-WSGN Announcer Has Song Accepted For BMI Publication

Beverly Bayne Heard; Ex-Jasper Resident On; Rathbone Visits Hope

BY TURNER JORDAN
Radio Editor, Birmingham News

RICHARD WARNER, former Birmingham boy and WSGN announcer, has landed a song with BMI. He wrote the words for "Coming and Going" and the tune was accepted in New York where young Warner has been holding forth since pulling stakes last Summer while announcing for WSGN. . . . He made known the glad news in an air mail letter to his sister, Mrs. Sue Edwards, of this city. . . . The Alabama College News Letter, just received in this department, features "Alabama College on the Air," showing its schedule of events over WAPI, under direction of Nora Landmark, college radio specialist. . . . Bob Hawk, besides his visit to Birmingham Feb. 9 with Take It or Leave It, will make Atlanta Feb. 2, Memphis Feb. 16, New Orleans Feb. 23, Houston March 2, Dallas March 9 and Oklahoma City March 16. . . . Dorothy Claire has succeeded Marion Hutton as girl singer with Glenn Miller's band and is on WAPI-CBS thrice weekly. She won a singing contest at 6 and has two sisters with other orchestras. . . . Gross "time sales" by broadcasting stations and networks in the United States during 1940 amounted to an estimated $207,956,000, an increase of 21 per cent over the preceding year, according to Broadcasting, weekly publication. . . . Allan Jones, who used to be the male singer on Good News and has been on many another radio program, will visit the Magic City this week, singing at the Temple Theater Friday night. . . .

DOROTHY CLAIRE

* * *

TED MALONE, of Between the Bookends fame, who goes around the country each Sunday visiting famous homes, will come into Alabama on his next broadcast. "The Oaks," Booker T. Washington home at Tuskegee Institute, will be the scene of the American Pilgrimage over the NBC-Blue network and WSGN at 1 p.m. Sunday. . . . Mrs. Roosevelt will call on Bill Stern's Sportsreel Sunday and other special spots for that Sabbath Day will include Guy Lombardo on I Am An American (WSGN), and James Melton on Design for Happiness (WAPI). . . . Highspots this Tuesday night will be a former Jasper woman with Prof. Quiz (WAPI) and Sherlock Holmes Basil Rathbone helping Bob Hope (WBRC) find out who's Yehoodi. . . . Other dial dates include Dottie Lamour with Eddie Cantor (WBRC) Wednesday night; Billie Burke with Vallee and Barrymore (WBRC) Thursday night; the NBC Army Show (WSGN) at Ft. Shelby Miss., Marlene Dietrich on Everyman's Theater (WBRC), the Joe Louis - Red Burman fight, Kate Smith (WAPI) Friday night, and a double-header opera (WSGN), Saturday afternoon. Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci."

Montgomery, Ala. Advertiser
February 13, 1941

Tuskegee To Hold Summer Sessions

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., Feb. 12.—Announcement of the annual sessions of the Tuskegee Institute Summer School was made here today by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president. The first session of five weeks will open June 5 and will continue until July 5; the second session will begin July 1, and will close Aug. 9, with a regular program of commencement activities, Dr. Patterson added.

Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the School of Education, said it is the aim of the Summer school to serve public education in the South to the fullest possible extent; that a special effort is made to meet the needs of those wishing to renew, or extend certificates of teachers and others wishing credit toward degrees; of public school teachers wishing to study progressive methods of teaching any grade of school work; of students enrolled in the regular session of this and any other college who wish to make up work. Those desiring special work in home economics, agriculture, mechanics, public school music, art, speech, physical education, social service and other special fields, will be accommodated. Courses have also been arranged for those interested in teaching in junior and senior high schools or in securing additional training in that field.

Recreation will include tennis, soft ball, baseball, swimming, badminton, golf and horseback riding along many of the beautiful bridle paths of the institute. There will be entertainment features by leading artists and plays by members of the Little Theater. Some of the outstanding motion pictures of the year will be shown three times per week. Summer School catalogs are ready for distribution and may be obtained from the office of A. L. Turner registrar, Dr. Patterson stated.

West Palm Beach, Fla. Times
February 3, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Aids Negro Farmers

ATLANTA, Feb. 3. (AP)—The late Dr. Booker T. Washington once said: "Instead of telling the farmer what to do, show him how to do and he will never forget."

That idea, expounded in 1906, is still going the rounds today in a movable school truck, under the leadership of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.

Manned by a home demonstration agent, a farm demonstration agent and a registered nurse, the vehicle tours Alabama, remaining in each county a week. By means of varied equipment, negro farm families are given regular lessons in improving their living conditions.

Thomas M. Campbell, field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, with headquarters at Tuskegee, who came here for a conference of Southern negro agricultural extension workers, starting today, told of the work.

"Wherever it visits, the movable school seeks to leave the house and premises whitewashed, to build a new poultry house or repair the old one.

"The workers try to leave hotbeds and cold frames in the garden, to leave the orchard pruned, wormed and sprayed, to leave shuck mats and rag rugs on the floor; and, more than all, the movable school endeavors to leave the family thrilled with the attractiveness of an old home made new and ready to carry out any program that may provide for further transformation.

"When once inspired, the farmers show such eagerness to learn that it gives a hopeful outlook to the farming situation; for as extension work develops, I see in it a solution to many problems of the rural districts."

The three-day conference of negro farm leaders brought together supervisors of extension service, teacher trainers of vocational agriculture, negro land-grand college president and a representative negro farmer from each of the 15 Southern States.

News
Birmingham, Ala.
Taken from the Column: What Negroes are Doing

MAR 2 1941

At the mass meeting the well-trained choirs of St. John, St. James St. Luke, St. Paul and Allen Chapel Churches of Birmingham and Bessemer, rendered the music. The chief address was delivered by Bishop David H. Sims, of the First Episcopal District of the A. M. E. Church. Speaking for the laymen were Prof. J. B. Johnson, mail carrier, Bessemer, and head of the laymen's organization in this state, and G. W. A. Johnston, business manager of Tuskegee Institute.

MAR 2 1941

The feature of Thursday's program was the board meeting. Plans of enlargement and accrediting of the college was inaugurated. Buildings are being completed and the grounds beautified. President Burghes, Dr. J. B. Calhoun, dean of the college, and Dr. H. C. Holman, dean of the theological department of the institution, came in for fine words of praise.

There has been a definite awakening of interest on the part of African Methodists throughout Alabama under the leadership of Bishop Nichols.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Annual Boys' Day Held at Tuskegee

MAR 7 1941

Tuskegee Instiute, Ala., Continuing in the spirit of Booker T. Washington, who sought an expression for the Negro youth enrolled in the schools in Macon County, the twenty seventh annual boys' day exercises were held here Friday. More than 1,800 youngsters, from 6 to 16 years of age assembled in Logan hall and participated in a program of every day school activities. The demonstrations by the pupils elicited warm praise and reflected the high character of instruction being done by the teachers of Macon County.

Following the devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist Church, Nationel Colley, a senior in the school of education at Tuskegee Institute, in warm and cordial words of greeting, welcomed the boys to the campus. Moses Blackwell, Jr., who is a member of the senior class in the Tuskegee Institute High School, responded.

Demonstrations on the phases of regular school activities were given by pupils of the Prairie Farm school, New Rising Star school, Lewis Adams school, Washington public school, Tuskegee, Ala. the Macon County Training school, Rebba; Chambliss Children's house and the Cotton Valley school.

A beautiful tribute was paid C. J. Calloway, who conduted the first boys day prtgram, long identified with educational work in the state and the nation, by Miss L. C. Davis, of New Rising Star, herself outstanding in the field of education.

Prof. W. B. Riley, county superintendent, spoke. He commended the teachers for their earnstness and devotion to the teaching profession and said, "this annual program is far-reaching in the good that it does". Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, away on a speaking engagement, sent greetings.

MAR 7 1941

The spelling match was conducted by Nelson S. Brooks, in which a representative of each of the 60 schools of Macon County, participated. It took considerable spelling before the successful contestants could be determined. William E. Pugh, representing the Washington public school, won first prize Mrs. Marie B. Williamson is his teacher. Clarence Padgett, sixth grade, 14 years old, Mrs. Betty Mae Robinson teacher, Cowles Station school, won second place; Brady Butler, sixth grade, 14 years old, Mrs. Harriet Braye, Fifth grade, 11 years of age Mrs. Beulah Johnson, teacher of the Hickery Grove school, was fourth. The prizes were awarded by Mrs. B. B. Walcott.

The entire group marched to the cafeteria for dinner by music furnished by the Tuskegee band. Dinner over, the boys assembled at the tomb of Booker T. Washington and paid tributes tt the memory of the founder of Tuskegee Institute and C. J. Calloway.

The boys were shown through the various shops or the William G. Willcox trades buildings by student guides, and later assembled in Logan hall for recreational activities, conducted by Cleve L. Abbott and his assistants. Music for the program was funished by Alberta Sims of the Tuskegee Institute department of music. The program was arranged by Lee A. Jones, superintendent of Macon County Negrt school system. J. U. Mundy, Principal of the Tuskegee Institnte high school, presided.

afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Additional Benefits for Cotton Farmers

FEB 22 1941

TUSKEGEE.—(ANP)—Colored farmers, under the recently announced supplementary cotton program, can earn an additional $3 payment for increasing food production and preservation while at the same time, they can earn $25 in cotton stamps for voluntarily reducing cotton acreage, according to A. L. Holsty, field officer for AAA, with offices here.

FEB 22 1941

"Farmers will share in the $3,000,000 being made available in the South for growing and storing more food this year," Mr. Holsey said. "This will be in addition to the cotton stamps which each cotton farmer can earn by reducing his cotton acreage below his 1941 allotment or his 1940 measured acreage, whichever is smaller."

18y-1941

Guardian
Boston. Mass.

TO SING AT PEOPLES CHURCH

JUL 5 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE MALE QARTETTE who are to appear Wednesday July 9 in a Folk Song Festival at Peoples Bapist Church.

PEOPLES BAPTIST CHURCH, Rev. Richard M. Owens, pastor, will sponsor A FOLK SONG FESTIVAL in People's Baptist Church, WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 9th, at 8:30 o'clock. The famous TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE MALE QUINTETTE will offer a program consisting of Spirituals, Plantation Melodies and Southland Sketches. The program will feature "The Batle of Jericho" and "Old Man River", concluding with a special arrangement of "Water Boy". The members of the quintette pictured above are Otis D. Wright, first tenor; Charles Fox and Willis Brown, second tenors; Richard Montgomery, baritone, and William A. Wiley, bass. This singing unit has a national reputation for its fine interpretation of Race Folk Music.—The Tuskegee Institute Quintette represents the famous Alabama institution which was founded by the late Booker T. Washington. Frederick D. Patterson, who now heads Tuskegee, is its third preesident. Under the capable administration of Dr. Patterson a program of aeronautics is being conducted at Tuskegee to prepare youth of the race to make its contribution in the National Defense Program.—The public is extended a cordial invitation to hear this noted quintette. Admission is fifty cents.

JUL 5 1941

Albany, Ga., Herald
June 23, 1941

College-Trained Chefs Sell Southern Cooking To Hotels, Hospitals

• • •

Tuskegee "Internes" Cook Way Onto Kitchen Staffs.

By A. F. MAHAN.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., June 23 (The Special News Service).—Kitchen internes" are selling skilled Southern cooking to the nation's hotels, hospitals, and restaurants.

Negro students from Tuskegee Institute's 5-year-old School of Commercial Dietetics, spending training periods in the eating places of 25 states, have created a demand for college-graduate chefs.

Edward G. Ramsey, assistant director of the school, says more than 100 good job-offers have come in since March. The school has only 19 full-fledged graduates now, but 144 students are learning kitchen skills at Tuskegee stoves and meat blocks.

Booker T. Washington's credo of "Learning While Doing" is applied to the full in this newest division of the school the slave-born Negro leader founded.

The students start at the bottom, learning the fine points of dish washing, scrubbing, and sanitation before they prepare food.

Their chief laboratory is the institute's cafeteria, where 1,200 persons eat three meals a day. The compact faculty dining hall, on a balcony overlooking the cafeteria, has its own kitchen where everything is fitted closely as in a railroad dining car.

"All we need here is a few curves and bumps to teach equilibrium," says Ramsey.

For further training the students go out on 3-months interneships" in the kitchens of widely scattered hotels, restaurants, and hospitals.

"Internes" have won jobs, Ramsey says, as pastry cooks, diner chefs, ship chefs, hospital dietician, and restaurant helpers.

Griffin, Ga. News
June 24, 1941

College-Trained Chefs Sell Southern Cooking To Hotels And Hospitals

TUSKEGEE, Ala., June 23.—(The Special News Service)—Kitchen "internes" are selling skilled southern cooking to the nation's hotels, hospitals and restaurants.

Negro students from Tuskegee institute's five-year-old school of commercial dietetics, spending training periods in the eating-places of 25 states, have created a demand for college-graduate chefs.

Edward G. Ramsey, assistant director of the school, says more than 100 good job-offers have come in since March. The school has only 19 full-fledged graduates now, but 144 students are learning kitchen skills at Tuskegee stoves and meat blocks.

Booker T. Washington's credo of "learning while doing" is applied to the full in this newest division of the school the slave-born negro leader founded.

The students start at the bottom, learning the fine points of dishwashing, scrubbing and sanitation before they prepare food.

Their chief laboratory is the institute's cafeteria, where 1,200 persons eat three meals a day. The compact faculty dining hall, on a balcony overlooking the cafeteria has its own kitchen where everything is fitted closely as in a railroad dining car.

"All we need here is a few curves and bumps to teach equilibrium," says Ramsey

For further training, the students go out on three-month "interneships" in the kitchens of widely-scattered hotels, restaurants and hospitals.

"Internes" have won jobs, Ramsey says, as pastry cooks, diner chefs, ship chefs, hospital dieticians and restaurant helpers.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Food Specialist U. Of C. Student

AUG 2 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE. — Dr. I. A. Derbigny announced this week that Miss Evanell Renfroe, of the school of home economics, will study community nutrition under Dr. Lydia J. Roberts at the General Education Board workshop at the University of Chicago, July 28 to August 26.

Miss Renfroe will go to Chicago from Bolivar county, Miss., where she has been assisting with the AKA health project. Miss Renfroe spent the year 1940-41 pursuing work in foods and nutrition toward her doctorate degree at the Iowa State university.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Share In Will Of Railroad Builder

Hampton and Tuskegee Remembered By Arthur Curtis James.

NEW YORK, June 19—(ANP)—Both Hampton Institute in Virginia and Tuskegee Institute in Alabama shall share in the will of the late Arthur Curtis James, railroad industrialist, eight-tenths of which will be used to establish the "James Foundation." The income of the fund will be employed in aiding charitable, educational and religious organizations and institutions which had enjoyed the benefactions of Mr. James during his life. No appraisal of the estate has been made, but it is believed to be considerable.

The will stipulates that part of the fund be used for the institutions, income of which shall be divided into 28 shares. In the distribution, Hampton is to receive two shares and Tuskegee will get one share.

Mr. James died two weeks ago. Less than a month ago, his wife, Mrs. Harriet Parsons James, passed away. When the will was offered for probate, it was revealed that a $50,000 bequest had been made to the Lincoln School for Nurses, New York.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News Of Tuskegee Institute

Tuskegee School of Education Instructors Studying In Chicago

Five membres of the faculty of Tuskegee Institute leave the campus this week for six weeks study at the Teachers Work Shop,, Northwestern University Chicago, Illinois, Dr. I. A. Derbigny, Dean of Administration announced today. Mrs. J. P. Guzman, Dean of Women, and Rev. H. V. Richardson, chaplain, will devote his time to latest procedures in teaching reading and spelling. Mr. J. E. Fuller will work in functional mathematics, and Mr. C. G. Gomillion in the social sciences.

Mrs. Christine Collins has been at the Collaboration Center, University of Chicago since early in June studying child development under Dr. Prescott. Mr. Alonzo Davis, head of psychology and Mrs. Emily Webb, director of the ursery School studied with Dr. Prescott during the past year. Mr. Davis returned to the campus for the Summer Session. Mrs. Allen will return in September.

* * *

Tuskegee Food Specialist Studies At University of Chicago

Dr. I. A. Derbigny, announced today that Miss Evanell Renfroe of the School of Home Economics will study Community Nutrition under Dr. Lydia J. Roberts at the General Education Board Work Shop at the University of Cicago, July 28 to August 28.

Miss Renfroe will go to Chicago from Bolivar County, Mississippi, where she has been assisting with the AKA Health Project. Miss Renfroe spent the year 1940-41 pursuing work in foods and nutrition toward her doctorate degree at the Iowa State University.

afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

5 Tuskegee Teachers Study at N'Western

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Five members of the faculty of Tuskegee Institute left this week for six weeks' study at the Teachers' Workshop, Northwestern University, Evanston Ill.

Mrs. J. P. Guzman, dean of women, and the Rev. H. V. Richardson, chaplain, will do special work in guidance. Albert Murray of the English division will study procedures in teaching reading and spelling. J. E. Fuller will work in functional mathematics, and C. G. Gomillion in the social sciences.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

On Defense Job

Booker T. Washington, III, grandson of the educator and founder of Tuskegee Institute, was recently appointed to work with firms of Hilyard Robinson of Washington, D. C., and McKissick and McKissick of Nashville, Tenn., in the planning of the New Army Aviation School for the 99th Pursuit Squadron to be constructed at Tuskegee. Also chosen were Percy Ifil, Conrad Johnson, and Hayden Craigwell, students in architecture at New York University. Ifil was recently awarded third prize in a nation-wide competition for his design of a modern radio station.

Mr. Washington as a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, department of mechanical industries, 1938, and was employed by the Institute as assistant instructor in the architectural division at the time of his graduation. He was a student at New York University, when he received the appointment to return to Tuskegee.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Books and Pictures

Tuskegee's annual report of the president for the year 1940 is illustrated with sixty photographs of student life on the campus.

Usually a university president's annual report deals with figures, finances and problems of administration.

This one takes seriously the Chinese proverb that a picture is worth two thousand words.

On one page is the announcement of a gift of $80,000 and underneath is a picture of students making clay pots.

The auditor's figures show a shrinkage of endowment from seven million to five and a half million, but the illustrations show uniformed students flying planes, milking cows, shearing a sheep or taking chicks out of a brooder.

Many of the photographs are excellent in detail and craftsmanship. The auditor's report is also completely revealing as to the financial operations.

It is rare that we have the two—finances and pictures—in a corporation president's report. It's clear that Tuskegee expects this one to be widely read.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Booker T., 3rd Gets Tuskegee Defense Job

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Booker T. Washington, 3rd, grandson of the educator and founder of Tuskegee Institute, is now at work with firms of Hilyard Robinson of Washington, D. C., and McKissick and McKissick of Nashville, Tenn. in the planning of the new army aviation school for the 99th Pursuit Squadron to be constructed near Tuskegee.

Also chosen were Percy Ifil, Conrad Johnson and Hayden Craigwell, students in architecture at New York University. Ifil was recently awarded third prize in a nation-wide competion for his design of a modern radio station.

Booker T., 3rd, is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, and was employed by the Institute as assistant instructor in the architectural division at the time of his graduation. He was a student at NYU when he received the appointment to return to Tuskegee.—de Mille Foto Features.

——A Colored Judge——

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Tuskegee Dramatic Aide Off To Mexico

TUSKEGEE, (ANP) — Saunders Earl Walker, head of the division of speech and director of rural dramatics and the Tuskegee Little Theatre left the campus this week for two months of travel study that will take him to Mexico, Hollywood, up the Pacific Coast to the University of Alberta at Banff, Canada, where he will study with Dr. Frederick M. Koch, founder and director of the Caroline Playmakers, Chapel Hill, and guest professor of drama at Banff.

From Banff, Prof. Walker will touch the University of Minnesota, drop down the Hudson valley to Cornell university for intensive study of the rural theatre program in New York state, under the guidance of Prof. A M. Drummond. From Ithaca, Prof. Walker will go to New York City to look in on the end-of-summer Broadway productions and return to the campus of Tuskegee in September.

——A Colored Judge——

18y-1941

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

THEY WON SCHOLARSHIPS

Photo shows eight of the 76 students who achieved excellence in scholarship at Tuskegee institute during the academic year, 1940-41. They were honored at chapel exercises in connection with the annual observance of scholarship night. (Left) top to bottom: Margaret Washington, Robert Frazier, Mae Louise Goodlett, Arthur Ducken. (Right) top to bottom: Quinton V. Nunn, Louise V. Sims, Floyd Cox. Charlene Cuther.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

GUEST LECTURERS AT FLINT-GOODRIDGE HOSPITAL

Four nationally known Race doctors are included in the faculty for the sixth annual Postgraduate Course for Physicians at Flint-Goodridge hospital of Dillard university at New Orleans. They are, left to right: Dr. Theodore K. Lawless, lecturer in syphilis and dermatology, Northwestern university school of medicine Chicago; Dr. Peter M. Murray, attending gynecologist, Harlem hospital, New York; Dr. John W. Chenault, director of orthopedic surgery, Tuskegee institute infantile paralysis center, and Dr. Hugh A. Browne, superintendent, McRae Tuberculosis sanatorium, Alexander, Ark. The total faculty for the course is composed of 38 physicians, most of whom are members of the medical school faculty of Tulane university or Louisiana State university. In addition to the four guest lecturers, the four local doctors who head departments of the Flint-Goodridge staff will serve on the faculty.

'A COLLEGE DEGREE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR HARD WORK'

In his address at the annual dinner of the faculty and students of the mechanical department at Tuskegee Institute last week, Alonzo G. Wright, highly successful filling station operator at Cleveland, Ohio, told the students that "not even a college degree is a substitute for the hard work which makes for success."

Upper right—Mr. Wright, operator of 7 large stations, looks on as David A. Lucas, Freshman in Auto Mechanics from Montgomery, Ala., does a grease job on a car. Left to right: student Lucas, C. B. Bond, Head Auto Mechanic Department; Mr. Wright, President F. D. Patterson and G. L. Washington, Mechanical Department director.

Lower picture—Mr. Wright is seen describing his trip to Tuskegee by auto to right are: President F. D. Patterson, A. L. Holsey, Mr. Wright and G. L. Washington.

JUN 5 1941 JUN 5 1941 JUN 5 1941 JUN 5 1941

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Tuskegee President Is Awarded Degree

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Wilberforce University cited the head of Tuskegee Institute's director of religious activities for honorary degrees at the June convocation of the Ohio pioneer university. The exercises were held on the university campus, June 12.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, was awarded the degree of doctor of laws, while the Rev. Harold Cruse, chaplain of Tuskegee Institute, was awarded the degree of doctor of divinity.

JUN 26 1941 JUN 28 1941

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Usher Tuskegee Students Into Life

Presidents Malcolm S. MacLean of Hampton Institute, left, and Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse, who delivered the commencement and baccalaureate addresses at Tuskegee institute last week ushering a large and enthusiastic group of graduates out into the world.

JUN 6 1941

Their respective address were acclaimed among the finest ever delivered at the famous institution.—ANP Photos.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Drama Teacher Attends Festival at U. of N. C.

JUN 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, June 5.—Saunders Earl Walker, director of dramatics, Tuskegee Institute, left this week for Chapel Hill, N.C., at the invitation of Dr. Frederick Koch, director of the North Carolina Playmakers, to attend an outdoor drama festival by the students of the University of North Carolina. Dr. Koch was recently guest speaker for the Southern Association of Dramatic and Speech Arts which held its spring conference at the Tuskegee Institute Little Theatre.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Tuskegee Quintet On Tour of Northern States

By CLEVELAND G. ALLEN

The famous Tuskegee Quintette passed through New York recently on their annual tour which will carry them through northeastern Pennsylvania, New York State, and New England. The singers who are well known throughout the country for their concerts, will appear in churches schools, camps, and various clubs. The present Tuskegee quintette is made up of three graduates, and two students, who are working their way through the institution.

The members of the quintette are Otis Wright, 1st tenor; Fred Parks, 2nd tenor; William Howard, 2nd tenor; Daniel Andrews, baritone; and William Wiley, bass. The singers will be on tour until September when they are scheduled to arrive in Tuskegee. The Tuskegee singers are well known throughout the country for over 40 years.

Captain William Wiley has been a member of the Tuskegee Quintette since 1912. The quintette travels in their special Tuskegee car They are making a fine contribution to the work of Tuskegee.

AUG 2 1941 AUG 2 1941

18y-1941

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

FACTS ABOUT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

AUG 23 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. Eight students received diplomas and 71 were awarded the Bachelor of Science degree at the commencement exercises of the Tuskegee institute summer school session which were held in the institute chapel here Friday night. In accordance with custom Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, led the academic procession from Dorothy Hall, where the line of march had formed, to the chapel for the exercises, regarded as a feature of the various programs in connection with the 60th anniversary of the founding of Tuskegee institute. Dr. Patterson also delivered the impressive commencement address. "We are looking back tonight on sixty years of continuous educational service to the state and nation and we are glad to express our sacred gratitude to those who made this occasion possible," the president stated. He pointed out that the college graduate offers a ray of hope to a war-torn world.

Miss Thelma Meeks, of Joplin, Mo., highest honor student, who received her bachelor of science degree in Education, discussed "The Problems of the Classroom Teacher." Music for the evening was rendered by the Tuskegee institute summer choir, Mrs. Alberta Simms, conducting. Saul T. Wilson, Troy, Ala., conducted the devotions.

AUG 2 8 1941

Dr. I. A. Derbigny, dean of administration, presented the heads of the various departments, who in turn presented the members of the graduating class. The diplomas were awarded and the degrees were conferred by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president.

Those receiving diplomas: Seth E. Alexander, automobile maintenance; Lizell Peterson Allen, education; Rebecca Fitzpatrick, education; Lois S. Ford, education; Lois A. Gavin, automobile maintenance; Lillian Edna Gregory, education; Ira Swain, tailoring; Pearl M. Williams, education; Johnie Wortham, shoe repairing and leather work.

Those receiving the Bachelor of Science Degree:

Agriculture: William C. Allen, Five Points, Ala.; Ewing Tipton Brooks, Dalton, Ga.: James Monroe Conley, Livingston, Ala.; Wilmor C. Easton Jr., Gulfport, Miss.; Rufa Hatten, Alfred Lee Hay, Brownsville, Tenn.; Mary Edmond Kiel, Coffeville, Ala.; Esses B. Lampkin, Henry J. Matthews, Anniston, Ala.; Berry Minor, Cotton Plant, Ark.; Clarence Harrison Saunders, Enterprise, Ala.; Robert L. Shepherd.

Commercial Dietetics: Hiawatha M. Malone, Malakoff, Texas: Claytee McAlister, Starr, S. C.; Ruth V. Perkins, New York City; Clarence Sanders Smith, Fort Worth, Texas; F. Davis Stafford, Montclairfi N. J.; Gertrude Stallworth, Beatrice, Ala.; Clara E. Stephens, Monroeville, Ala.; Joseph R. Battle, Tyler, Texas; Lavonia K. Bolden, Detroit, Mich.; William E. Brunson, Greenwood, S. C.; Marion P. Clem, Springfield, Ill.; William M. Driggins, Corning, New York; Charles Wallace Francis, Lexington, Ky.

AUG 28 1941

Education: Charlie Frankie Armstrong, Wayne, Mich.; Sallye M. Brooks ,Jacksonville, Fla.; Wilhelmina Welch Burrell, Tuskegee, Ala.; Andrey Bacon Byrd, Tuskegee, Ala.; Eliza M. Charles, Madge Revere Cravens, Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala.; Sarah Jeter Downs, Raleigh, Fla.; Willia Johnson Earl, Mobile, Ala.; Alma Goodrich, Birmingham, Ala.; Willie Shelton Goodson, Birmingham, Ala.; Thelma M. Hembrick, Jasper, Ala.; Joseph A. Henry, Crawford, N. J.; Geraldine J. Howard, Kansas City, Mo.; Simmie B. Hunter, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mary A. Johnson, Tuskegee, Ala.; Thomas H. Jones, Athens, Ga.; Bertha Webb Lewis, Beaumont, Texas; Mary G. Martin, Tuskegee, Ala.; Thelma J. Meeks, Joplin, Mo.; Francina Mae Martin, Sanford, Fla.; Odell K. Mickens, Dade City, Fla.; Mamie H. Mitchell, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mary Francis Moody, Freeport, Penn.; Willie Bessie Nolan, Gladys L. Richardson Owens, Tuskegee, Ala.; Terry M. Patton, Demopolis, Ala.; Zephyrus S. Todd, Selma, Ala.; Emma G. Welborn, Tuskegee, Ala.; Elva J. Wilson, Saul Thomas Wilson, Troy, Ala.; Ruby Henderson Woodruff, Tuskegee, Ala.

Home Economics: Minerva Moore Bacome, Sweetwater, Tenn.; Orinza Cleo Badazier, Kansas City, Mo.; Leola Jean Carep, Miami, Fla.: Angie Lou Crawford, Wichita Falls, Texas; Louvenia Carutha Harden, Dayton, Ohio; Mary L. Lewis, Gertrude A. Lucas, Bessemer, Ala.; Julia M. McCoy, Shreveport, La.; Estella Martin, Shreveport, La.; Lillie G. Rogers, Eleanor M. Smith, New York City; Gussie J. White, Minnie B. Williams, Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News From Tuskegee Institute

AUG 28 1941

The opening of Tuskegee Institute has been postponed one week instead of opening September 1 as announced, school will open September 8. This is being done in keeping with the request of the State Health Dept., that all institutions of higher learning in the state of Alabama postpone the opening of school at least til September 8, 1941.

This measure is simply a precautionary one in view of the number of cases of infantile paralysis in the state at this time. Pres. F. D. Patterson stated today that all prospective students and old students have been notified by card of change in date but because so many teachers being away on vacation, urges all interested persons to pass the word along that it may reach those not at their home.

AUG 28 1941 Walcott.

The Washington Public School, Tuskegee, Alabama the Lewis Adams Public School, Tuskegee Institute; the Macon County Training School, Roba, and the New Rising Star School, will open for the Academic Year 1941-1942, on Monday, September 8, Lee A Jones, Supervisor of the Macon County Colored Schools announced today.

Announcement of the faculties of these schools for the ensuing year was also made by Mr. Jones.

WASHINGTON PUBLIC SCHOOL

Mrs. M. K. Frazier, Principal, B. S., Tuskegee. Tuskegee institute, Alabama. Mrs. K. H. Darnaby, Assistant Principal, B.. S., Tuskegee Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Mrs. Clara M. Hicks, B. S., Tuskegee Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Mrs. M. R. Carvens, B. S., Tuskegee, Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala.

Mrs. Willie L. Brewer, Tuskegee, Alabama.

Mrs. Odette C. Baker, Tuskegee, Alabama.

Mrs. Marie B. Williamson, B. S., Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Welch Burrell, Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Mrs. Clara Greenwood, B. S. State Teachers College, Tuskegee, Alabama.

LEWIS ADAMS PUBLIC SCHCOL

Mrs. Letitia E. Carter, Principal, B. S., Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Mrs. B. C. Scott, Assistant Principal, B. S., Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Miss Bernice Williams, B. S. Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Mrs. Mamie R. Welch, B. S., Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Mrs. Annie Motely Higgins, B. S., Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute Alabama.

Mrs. Selma C. Richardson, B. S., Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Miss Catherine Baugh, B. S. Tuskegee, Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Lillie Wilson, B. S., Hampton, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Mrs. Blanche D. Roney, A. B., Fisk, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

MACON COUNTY TRAINING

D. V. Joseph, Principal, B. S., Tuskegee, Roba, Alabama.

Kossuth Thomas, Assistant Principal, B. S., Tuskegee Roba, Alabama.

AUG 28 1941

Mrs. Alice Robinson, B. S., Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Mrs. Edith V. H. Coleman, B. S., State Teachers College, Columbus, Georgia.

Miss Sallie Peterson, B. S. Tuskegee, Tuskegee, Alabama.

Miss Clemmie Terrell, B. S., Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute Alabama.

Mrs. Wilalice L. Williams, B. S., Tuskegee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

NEW RISING STAR SCHOOL

Miss Louise C. Davis, Principal, Waugh, Alabama.

Miss Elizabeth Anderson, B. S., State Teachers College, Uniontown, Ala.

Mrs. Mae Ola Samford Charlow, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

* * *

William E. Gross, who was a student at Tuskegee Institute in 1922, 1923, 1924, specializing in carpentry and designing, now connected with the carpentry division, War Department, Washington, D. C., visited the campus this week.

AUG 28 1941

Mr. Gross is the first Negro to pass the civil service examination in carpentry in the Navy Department where he worked until trasnferred and assigned to duty in the War Department where he is highly regarded for his ability. He has a file of interstring letters from high officials commending him for his mechanical skill and ability and for the excellent service which he has rendered the government as a specialist in his field. He lives at 1401 Montello Avenue, N. E., Washington.

* * *

Miss Vida L. Shank has been appoinaed a teacher of Home Economics at the Athens Industrial High School, Athens, Georgia, for the Acdemic Year, 1941-1942, J. Julius Flood, Personnel, announced here today.

Miss Shank received her Bachelor of Science degree from Tuskegee Institute in May, 1941. During her undergraduate days she was identified with several campus organizations and was highly regarded for her excellent qualities of leadership. She served as President of the Y. W. C. A., and was a member of the A. W. S. (Associated Women Students) the Student Council, Rha Delta Sigma Club and the Tuskegee Choir. For two successive years she was selected for listing in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Miss Shank will enter upon her duties early in September.

AUG 28 1941

Mrs. Mozella McGhee Barton visited Tuskegee Institute, her Alma Mater, this week. She was returning to Washington, D. C. from Starksville, Mississippi, where she hed been visiting her parents, relatives and friends. Mrs. Barton had not been to Tuskegee since her graduation and was amazed and very much pleased with the remarkable progress had made since she was here. She was cordially received by President F. D. Patterson and other admistrative officials who made it possible for her to visit all of the departments of the school including the three airports where students are undergoing training for the Air Corps of the United States Army. Mrs. Barton, who is active in the Tuskegee Club in Washington, is connected with the government printing ofifce.

* * *

Funeral services for Mrs. Kiziah Bowen Day were held here Wednesday from the Butler Chapel, A. M. E. Z., church, Rev. William E. Carson officiating, Mrs. Day, who was graduated from Tuskegee Institute in 1887, taught for several years in Macon County, Alabama, and later served in various capacities as member of the staff of Tuskegee Institute until ill health forced her to retire.

AUG 26 1941

She was known and beloved by hundreds of Tuskegee students scores of whom sent messages of condolence immediately learning of her death. Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute was among many of the members of the faculty who expressed deep sorrow to the bereaved family when informed that Mrs. Day had succumbed. Mr. J. H. Palmer, former registrar of the school was disignated by the Executive Council as the official representative of the Insitute.

* * *

The faculty of the Tuskegee Institute High School, for the Academic Year, 1941-1942, was announced today by J. U. Mundy, Principal, who stated that according to the number of applications received for enrollment the attendance would exceed that of last year by approximately a hundred students. Registration will begin onSeptember 5 and will continue through September 6. All classes will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock on Monday, September 8. The faculty:

Mrs. Hazel Washington Jerkins, Mathematics, Daytona Beach Florida F. T. McQueen, Vocational Agriculture, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama John T. Bracken, Physical Education and Chemistry, Indianapolis, Indiana Leroy L. Brown, Physics and Chemistry, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Minnie Davis Williams, Social Science, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Electa Dingus Green, Commercial Subjects, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama Miss Abigail K. Hobson, Vocational Home Economics, Chicago Illinios Miss Gladys Campanella, English and Physical Education Philadelphia, Penn., Mrs. Clementine R. Nixon, English, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama G. W. A. Scott, Social Science, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama Mrs. Mandry Turpin Williams, Home Economics, Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. Lottie Younge Waddell, English and French Tuskegee Institute, Alabama Jack Montgomery, English and Music Birmingham, Alabama.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Opening Date Of Tuskegee Changed

AUG 27 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(SNS)— The opening of Tuskegee Institute, originally set for September 1, has been postponed until September 8, President F. D. Patterson announced Tuesday.

This postponement was necessary to comply with a request from the State Department of Health, asking that all institutions of higher learning in the state delay opening until the designated date.

The officials of the State Health Department explained that the measure was merely a precautionary one, in view of the number of cases of infantile paralysis in the state at the present time.

All of the students of Tuskegee, old and new, have been notified concerning the change, however, some may be away from home, and the school administrative officials are anxious that neither teachers nor teachers curtail their vacations.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Senior ROTC Is Organized At Tuskegee

Col. Waterman Will Be In Charge of Affairs

TUSKEGEE INST. — (ANP) — The authorization of Tuskegee institute as a Senior ROTC infantry unit Thursday broke a 40-year precedent of the department of military science and tactics at the school. Previously the military staff of the department had shared offices with the men's department, which originally was headed by a commandant and in recent years by the dean of men. Only two other Negro schools have this authorization, they being Wilberforce and Howard Universities. Tuskegee had previously operated a Junior ROTC unit and more recently under the National Defense act, Sec. 55-C.

Assigned as professor of military science and tactics for Tuskegee, Alabama Polytechnic institute and a secondary school in Opelika, is Col. Waterman. General B. O. Davis and Captain B. O. Davis, Jr., had previously held this position at Tuskegee. General Davis was also attached to Wilberforce in like capacity. At present, the ROTC units at Wilberforce and Howard are manned by white officers.

Col. Waterman will have his headquarters at Auburn, Alabama with such resident members as Capt. John A. Welsh, acting PMS and T; 2nd Lieut. John W. Godblot, Sergeant Henry G. Beasley and on additional lieutenant and non-commissioned officer who will be appointed.

SEP 2 1941

IN TWO PARTS

The ROTC program will be in two parts. The first will consist of the basic training required of freshmen and sophomore members, while the second will be advanced training, which will be optional to juniors and seniors. The privilege of restricting the number of enrollees for advanced work is held by the war department and those selected will be chosen on the basis of their leadership qualifications, both demonstrated and potential.

The basic course comprises three hours of drill and two hours of theory weekly, with the advance course increasing the hours of theory to four. The work includes studies of service, courtesies, military history, military discipline, customs of the and sanitation, map reading practice with organizational weapons, and scouting and patrol, tactics of automatic rifle squad and rifle squad, rifle platoon, weapons platoon and rifle marksmanship. However, Tuskegee's blue uniforms will be retained.

A few other interesting charges are the payment of advance students of the course at a rate of 25 cents a day from the time of enrollment until completion, with the camp, when they will be paid 70 cents a day. The camp period, coming in the summer after the junior year, is compulsory. Too, men enrolled in the advanced course are exempted from draft.

Upon completion of the course, students will receive commissions as 2nd lieutenants of the infantry reserve corps of the army. The shortage of Negro officers would ensure all commissioned youths being called to active duty. In Capt. Welsh's opinion, many youths receiving commissions from schools giving ROTC training fail to comply with minimum requirements for reappointment after five years, and also for promotion. Without these minimum duties, he stated, the commissions are automatically dead after 10 years.

Sylacauga, Ala., News
June 27, 1941

In a recent article written for Think Magazine, the president of Tuskegee Institute cites the contributions of his school and its alumni to better living conditions of the negroes of this nation, and he cites their accomplishments in the field of medicine, arts, farming, and trades. The school has trained farmers, nurses, dentists, shoemakers, editors, teachers, mechanics, and others.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Tuskegee Enrollment To Include Increase In Foreign Students

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—The outlook for 1941-42 enrollment for Tuskegee Institute has topped that of last year the registrar announces. The heavy increase in students for the School of Mechanical Industries is due President Patterson states to the success of the Intern Plan and to the Defense Program with a variety of offerings in various phases of aero-mechanics.

National Defense is probably responsible too, for the numbers of students interested in Agriculture. Director Otis states that the prompt placement of Tuskegee graduates in the Agricultural setup of the FSA and the Extension Service has encouraged the high enrollment in Agriculture.

Enrollment in the School of Education has been stimulated by a new series of 100 or more scholarships for students interested in teaching elementary and junior high school. These scholarships have been made available through the generosity of interested friends.

Fifty scholarships will go to old Tuskegee undergraduates who have made an average of B or better during their years in the School of Education.

Another fifty scholarships have been made available for graduates from accredited high schools. The lucky students must have maintained a B or better average during the high school years. These scholarships afford $50 each for monthly living expenses.

The announcement comes from the Tuskegee Scholarship Committee of which A. L. Turner is chairman that these scholarships will not preclude their lucky holders from any additional self-help employment including, N. Y. A.

Several thousand dollars have been made available for student-aid loan fund for worthy and needy students who show exceptional promise.

More than 65 applications from young women wishing to enter the nurse training school have been placed on the waiting list. Dr. John A. Kenny, director of the John A. Andrew Nurse Training School states that 30 nurses have been accepted for 1941-42.

The School of Home Economics and Commercial Dietetics holds its own in the quota of applications. The Southern Hotel Association doubled its scholarship grant for Commercial Dietetics students. The increasing demand for trained dietitions and hostesses for army camps has run up the applicants in this training area.

Of the new foreign students to date, two have been accepted from Canada, two from Haiti and two from Africa. Negotiations are still in progress for the acceptance of students from Santiago, Chile and Havana, Cuba.

All and over 1,000 applicants have been received from new students. From this number of applicants some 400 to 450 students will be accepted.

18y-1941
Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Head Asks For Aid To Poverty Stricken Farmers

Patterson Says Group Needs Winter Security

NOV 4 1941

TUSKEGEE—(ANP)—President F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee Institute, issued a country-wide appeal for aid to impoverished farmers early this week. In a letter to the press, President Patterson called attention to the increase in the price of cotton, and the inability of sharecroppers, tenants, and day laborers on farms in many sections of the Southeastern states to secure adequate security against suffering and privation during the coming winter months.

Said the letter: "A new low in cotton production caused by the worst destruction by the boll weevil in a decade directly affects income. Thousands of tenants and sharecroppers have been reduced to the status of day laborers with uncertain employment which means no customary fall 'settling up.' Active male members of rural families have been lured to urban centers by rumors of jobs opening up in defense industries only to find that, because of lack of skills they cannot qualify, thus reducing farm output of food and feed products with no compensating increase in income."

Holding that it was all the more proof of Christian fortitude and a test of democracy that people of America can share cheer with suffering children in Europe as well as with those in this country who are innocent victims of adversity, the institute's president told of the part which Tuskegee has played in supplanting the sufferings of unfortunates in the south. Staff members of Tuskegee have, in their regular activities, visited many homes where human reserves for national defense are greatly impaired by inadequate diets, insufficient clothing, and miserable shelters. The school has for many years been the medium through which supporters the country-wide have made bequests to alleviate the subnormal conditions.

The president in his letter made the appeal for donations of clothing, books, toys, candy, pictures, et. Money sent for the purchase of gifts is to be spent as directed by the donor.

Savannah, Ga., News
October 26, 1941

Programs Begin Today For Training Negroes

The topic for the first series of monthly forum programs to be held at the First Congregational Church, Habersham and Taylor streets, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, will be "Training the Negro for National Defense."

Invitations have been extended to every defense unit within a radius of seventy-five miles of Savannah and Chatham county to attend and participate in this discussion. William Shell, negro advisor National Youth Administration of Georgia, has been invited to lead the discussion.

Representatives of the colored personnel of National Youth Administration at Dorchester, Jesup and Savannah; United States military forces at Camp Stewart and Savannah Air Base, Works Projects Administration and advisory committee of the Selective Service System, will participate.

In addition to representatives of these organizations Savannah residents who received military training at the first colored officers training camp in 1917 at Des Moines, Iowa, former members of the S. A. T. C., at Tuskegee Institute, graduates of senior R. O. T. C. units at Howard and Wilberforce Universities and former members of R. O. T. C. units in land grant colleges and universities have been extended invitations to be present and participate.

Birmingham, Ala. News
October 17, 1941

Windsor Uncertain Whether He Can Pay Montgomery A Visit

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (AP) — The Duke of Windsor thanked Gov. Dixon Friday for his invitation to visit the Alabama executive mansion as the executive's guest when he and the duchess stop at Tuskegee Institute next week en route back to Nassau from a Canadian holiday.

Dixon was advised plans for the Duke's visit to the huge Negro college at Tuskegee, either next Wednesday or Thursday, still were indefinite, but that he would be notified "when anything definite is arranged."

The telegram, from Towson, Md., where former King Edward VIII and the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, are visiting her uncle, was signed: "Phillips, A. D. C."

"The Duke of Windsor wishes me to thank you for your kind invitation," it said. "His Tuskegee plans are still indefinite. Will notify you when anything definite is arranged."

Washington, D. C. Post
October 7, 1941

Windsors' Return Trip Will Begin Tomorrow

Expected to Reach Maryland Estate Of Gen. Henry Warfield Saturday

By Hope Ridings Miller

With announcement of plans for a return visit of the Duke and Windsor, Washington society is once more in a dither of speculation as to exactly when the couple will be here; whether they will be entertained at the White House, and whether any other parties will be worked into their schedule during their brief Capital sojourn.

HOPE RIDINGS MILLER

Leaving the Duke's Canadian ranch tomorrow, they are expected to arrive at Salona Farms, Maryland estate of Gen. Henry Warfield, on Saturday. They will be there six days, and will come to Washington one day of that time. Gen. Warfield, uncle of the Duchess, has planned no special entertainment for the couple, but powers that be in official Baltimore are whipping up quite a round for the couple—so I understand.

Some of us recall that at the tea the press women here gave the Duchess, Mrs. George Barnett, her cousin, hinted that she might have some social news for us when the ducal couple made their return trip to these parts. So-o-o, there's a chance that either Mrs. Barnett, or Mrs. Buchanan Merryman ("Aunt Bessie"), or both, may be planning some kind of a fete for the Windsors. And I'd be willing to wager that the White House luncheon, postponed the other time because of the illness of G. Hall Roosevelt, will be on the couple's Capital calendar this time.

From Baltimore, the Duke and Duchess will go to New York for a visit and will be at the Waldorf-Astoria. Their return trip to Nassu will include a visit to Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

Gadsden, Ala., Times
October 16, 1941

Duke, Duchess Invited To Governor's Mansion

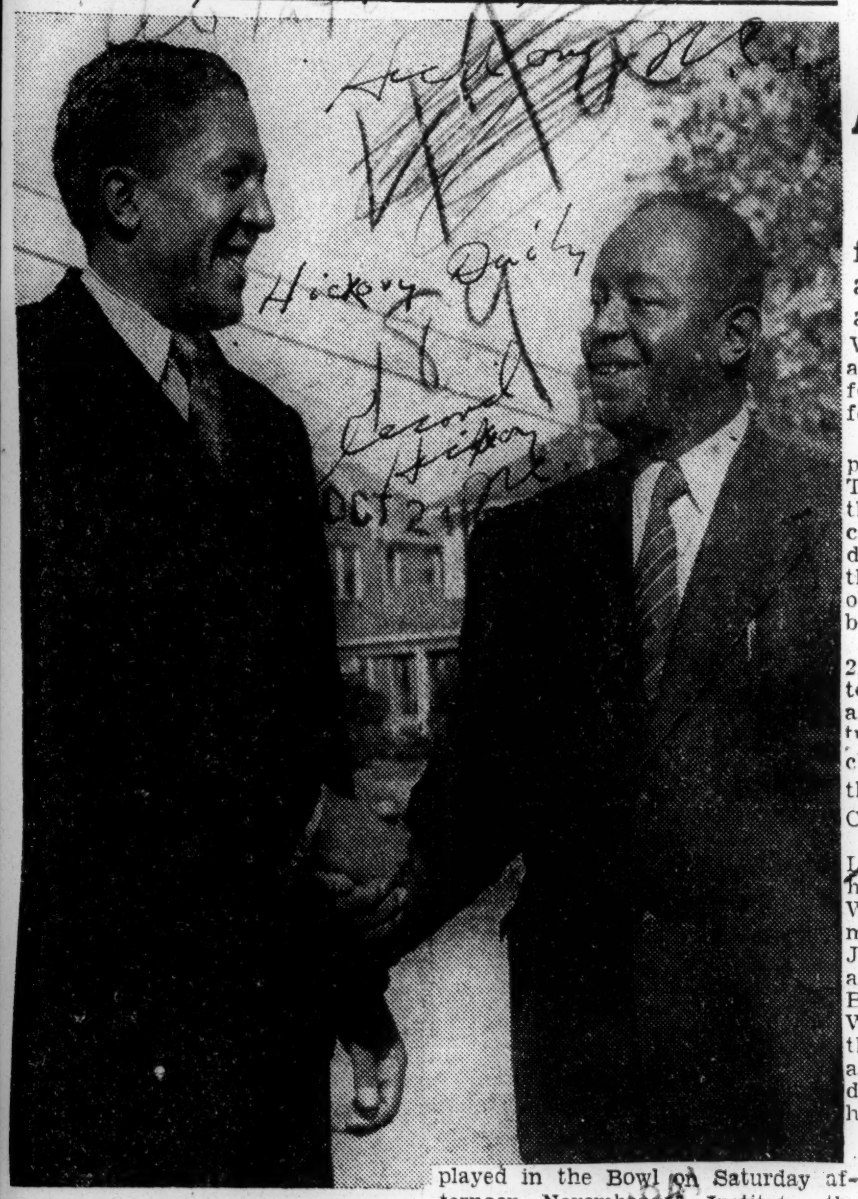
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 16. (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who are scheduled to visit Tuskegee Institute either October 22 or 23, were invited today by Governor Frank Dixon to be his guests at the executive mansion.

In a telegram to the former King Edward VIII and his American-born wife, the governor said:

"I am informed by press releases of your contemplated visit to Alabama. Please advise me as to plans and personnel of party so that proper arrangements can be made. Mrs. Dixon and I will be glad to have you and the Duchess as our guests at the mansion if your plans contemplate a visit to Montgomery, and a trip can easily be arranged to any other part of the state you may desire to visit."

Negro Flier Pauses Here

Hickory Daily Record



Professor A. W. Booker of Hickory is pictured at the right greeting George W. Allen, chief flight instructor for the Civilian Pilots Training course being taught at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala. The negro flier landed at the Hickory Municipal airport Monday because of unfavorable weather and waited until today to resume his flight to Tuskegee. Shortly before noon today Allen took Booker, principal of Ridgeview Negro High school here, aloft for his first plane ride. (Story on page two.)

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Lincoln Alumni To Converge On Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE — Members of the Lincoln University (Pa.) alumni will be largely represented at Tuskegee's home-coming football game with the Lions which will be played in the Bowl on Saturday afternoon, November 15, Institute athletic officials disclosed here today. The game will be called at 1:30 P.M., C. S. T.

The local Lincoln alumni committee has informed members who plan to be present to leave their homes in time to arrive at Tuskegee Institute Friday night, November 14, to participate in the pre-game celebration which will be staged in the Parking Lot, near the "Oaks" home of Booker T. Washington, at 8:00 o'clock. President Wright, of Lincoln, has sent a message which will be read to the Lincoln alumni on this occasion. Dr. Fontaine, Lincoln University, Class of '30, is scheduled to give a brief address, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, will welcome the visitors to the campus. Other speakers will include Capt. Alvin J. Neely, executive secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association, and Willis I. Peek, President of the Tuskegee General Alumni. Cleve L. Abbott, Director of Athletics and head football coach, and members of former Golden Tiger football team, will be presented.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ten Delegates From Race Institutions Attend Conference

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30—"The adequate distribution of food, like our treatment of children and minority groups, is a real test of our civilization. The moving finger writes, and having writ, moves on. Mens, mene, tekel, upharsin. We have been weighed in the balance, and, God help us, have been found wanting. If that isn't food for thought, what is?

Thus, Dr. Park J. White, local professor and liberal, in "Food for Thought" a dietetic sermon before the American Dietetic Association concluded an unusually timely address at the opening luncheon of the 24th annual convention of the organization Monday noon, October 20, at the Jefferson hotel.

The sessions, with more than 2,000 delegates, were attended by ten members of the racial group, all of whom enjoyed all of the features of the convention which included a tea Sunday afternoon on the Starlight Roof of the exclusive Chase hotel.

Here for the meeting were: Mrs. Lucille Maddux, John A. Andrew hospital, Tuskegee; Miss Lucille Womack, Home Economics department, Tuskegee; Arthur L. Glover Jr., in charge of student feeding at Tuskegee Institute; Marianna Beck, home economics department, Washington Technical high school, this city; Miss Mildred Jenkins and Miss Ahelma Carline, dietetics department at Homer G. Phillips hospital; Mrs. Esther W. Williams, General hospital, Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Lexie Prince, Provident hospital, Chicago; Mrs. Helen Bright, staff dietician in charge of the new T.-B. Unit at Freedmen's hospital, Washington, D. C. and Miss Georgette B. White, head dietician, Freedmen's hospital, Washington, D. C.

Socially, the visiting guests were feted at a dancing party hostessed by the Misses Carline and Jenkins of Homer Phillips Wednesday evening at the Nurses' Home at Homer Phillips.

"A group like this," Dr. White stated most significantly at the outset of his talk, "may be relieved upon to give some thought for food. I shall now brazenly attempt to give you some food for thught. I say brazenly because I was asked now to be serious, but this is too good an opportunity for one who is by nature, part-preacher, part-propagandist, to miss."

Dr. Park J. White, who had just returned from a pediatrics convention told how Surgeon General Parran and others discussed nutritional and other pediatric problems arising from mass migration of thousands of families into small towns for employment on various defense projects, the necessity for immunization against disease and the feeding problems growing out of sudden expansions. He also showed how a man, low in the economic scale, may be cured medically but that such a cure is not always effect if he is without work, and that relapses frequently occur.

"Some of our Quaker friends spent the summer working with and for the Negro white croppers at Croppersville, Mo.," the speaker went on, "the lunch hour was the worst part of their day . . when they came in to lunch and the croppers set out under trees—without lunch."

Dr. Park White, quoting from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's "Family Food Consumption and Dietary Levels" (1941) show that almost half the Negro farm families included in the sample had incomes of less than $5 0 per year, while another survey (Are We Well Fed? by Hazel Stiebeling, 1941) states that "Negro families fare poorly because incomes are low, but that Negro families spend food money as wisely as white families, also that food money being equal, Southern diets are as good as anywhere."

"Finally, and I know just how tired you are of hearing this, consider General Hersey's unpleasant findings: that of 1,000,000 men given physical examinations, 400,000 were unfit for general military service. He estimated that perhaps one-third of the rejections (15 per cent of the total number examined) were due directly or indirectly to nutritional deficiencies.

"The 45,000,000 Americans who are below the safety line of diet should consume 35 per cent more butter, and 20 per cent more milk, twice as many green vegetables, and 70 per cent more citrus fruits. . . . What a bitter laugh these figures must evoke from any European. . . Well, it's the old American story, 'We're good producers and bad distributors.' The poor we have with us always. American story? No, it's international.

Grove Hill, Ala., Democrat
October 16, 1941

Date Of Negro Game Is Moved Up A Week

The Negro football game which is to be played here between picked teams of Tuskegee Institute and Alabama Teachers College of Montgomery, has been moved up a week and is now scheduled to be played on Wednesday night, November 5. The game was first announced for Oct. 29 but has since been changed to the November date.

No game ever played in the county attracted more widespread interest than that between these same schools last year. Visitors gathered from far and near and the field was crowded to capacity. Judging by advance comments, the same condition will obtain this year.

By no means the least interesting feature of the occasion was the show put on by the Tuskegee Band, and this crack organization of 89 pieces will again accompany the teams. The stunt which the band puts on between halves, when the field is darkened and the band marches with the shoes and instruments of the members decorated with tiny electric light bulbs is especially striking.

The game will be handled in the same manner as last year. The east side of the field will be reserved for the colored people, with the west side and the end zones being reserved for the whites.

Last year's game was one of the most enjoyable affairs imaginable, with not the slightest incident to mar it, affording a striking example of racial good will and cooperation. This year's game will be handled so as to insure that the same condition exists.

The admission charge will be $1.10, 55c and 40c, the same charge being made to blacks and whites alike. Reserved seats for the whites may be obtained at Dunn Mercantile Company, while A. A. Hicks will handle the reserved seats for the Negroes.

E. Julius Williams, Anniston Dies

Weekly Review, Birm., Ala.

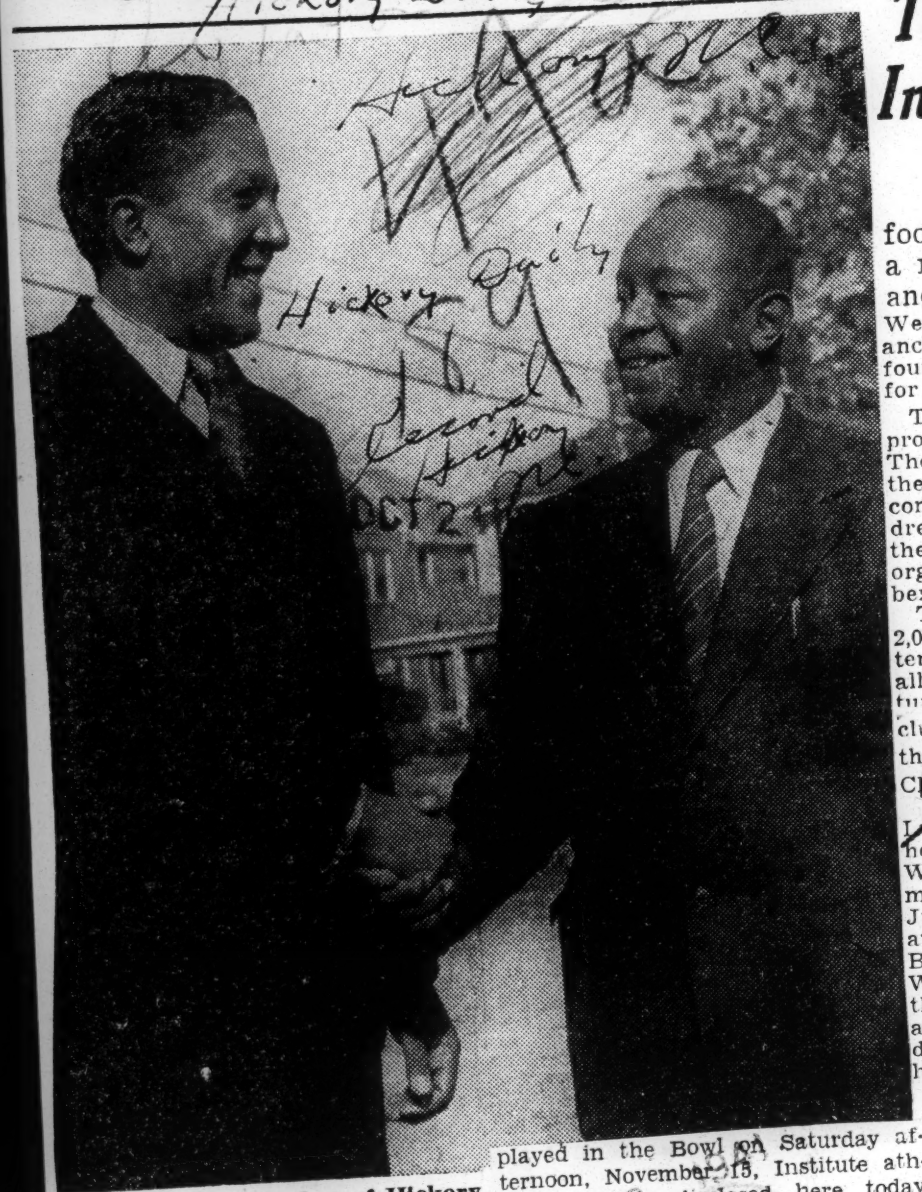
E. Julius Williams, prominent interracial leader, of Anniston, died late last week after a very brief illness. Just this year Governor Dixon appointed him to the Draft Appeal Board of North Alabama And last year Governor Dixon appointed Williams a member on the Governor's Committee to visit and report on the Exposition of Progress at Slossfield.

A Requium High Mass was celebrated at 9:00 A. M. Tuesday in All Saints Catholic Chapel, 15th and Steven Street. Father John Walch, S.S.E., was Celebrant of the Mass. Father John Casey, S.S.E., Pastor, preached a glowing eulogy, saying he could not find terms high enough to praise the untiring efforts of a man whose soul purpose in life seemed to be to make this world a little better for his fellow man to live in. Father Casey pointed out that Mr. Williams' character was respected by all, because he was one who truly followed his conscience, and therefore, was a model to his fellow men.

Father John Paro, S.S.E., and Father J. T. Killion assisted in the choir. In spite of the inoppertune

Negro Flier Pauses Here

Hickory Daily Record



Professor A. W. Booker of Hickory is pictured at the right greeting George W. Allen, chief flight instructor for the Civilian Pilots Training course being taught at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala. The negro flier landed at the Hickory Municipal airport Monday because of unfavorable weather and waited until today to resume his flight to Tuskegee. Shortly before noon today Allen took Booker, principal of Ridgeview Negro High school here, aloft for his first plane ride. (Story on page two.)

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Lincoln Alumni To Converge On Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE — Members of the Lincoln University (Pa.) alumni will be largely represented at Tuskegee's home-coming football game with the Lions which will be played in the Bowl on Saturday afternoon, November 15, Institute athletic officials disclosed here today. The game will be called at 1:30 P.M., C. S. T.

The local Lincoln alumni committee has informed members who plan to be present to leave their homes in time to arrive at Tuskegee Institute Friday night, November 14, to participate in the pre-game celebration which will be staged in the Parking Lot, near the "Oaks" home of Booker T. Washington, at 8:00 o'clock. President Wright, of Lincoln, has sent a message which will be read to the Lincoln alumni on this occasion. Dr. Fontaine, Lincoln University, Class of '30, is scheduled for a brief address, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, will welcome the visitors to the campus. Other speakers will include Capt. Alvin J. Neely, executive secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association, and Willis I. Peek, President of the Tuskegee General Alumni. Cleve L. Abbott, Director of Athletics and head football coach, and members of former Golden Tiger football team, will be presented.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ten Delegates From Race Institutions Attend Conference

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30—"The adequate distribution of food, like our treatment of children and minority groups, is a real test of our civilization. The moving finger writes, and having writ, moves on. Mens, mene, tekel, upharsin. We have been weighed in the balance, and, God help us, have been found wanting. If that isn't food for thought, what is?

Thus, Dr. Park J. White, local professor and liberal, in "Food for Thought" a dietetic sermon before the American Dietetic Association, concluded an unusually timely address at the opening luncheon of the 24th annual convention of the organization Monday noon, October 20, at the Jefferson hotel.

The sessions, with more than 2,000 delegates, were attended by ten members of the racial group, all of whom enjoyed all of the features of the convention which included a tea Sunday afternoon on the Starlight Roof of the exclusive Chase hotel.

Here for the meeting were: Mrs. Lucille Maddux, John A. Andrew hospital, Tuskegee; Miss Lucille Womack, Home Economics department, Tuskegee; Arthur L. Glover Jr., in charge of student feeding at Tuskegee Institute; Marianna Beck, home economics department, Washington Technical high school, this city; Miss Mildred Jenkins and Miss Ahelma Carline, dietetics department at Homer G. Phillips hospital; Mrs. Esther W. Williams, General hospital, Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Lexie Prince, Provident hospital, Chicago; Mrs. Helen Bright, staff dietician in charge of the new T.-B. Unit at Freedmen's hospital, Washington, D. C. and Miss Georgette B. White, head dietician, Freedmen's hospital, Washington, D. C.

Socially, the visiting guests were feted at a dancing party hostessed by the Misses Carline and Jenkins of Homer Phillips Wednesday evening at the Nurses' Home at Homer Phillips.

"A group like this," Dr. White stated most significantly at the outset of his talk, "may be relieved upon to give some thought for food. I shall now brazenly attempt to give you some food for thught. I say brazenly because I was asked now to be serious, but this is too good an opportunity for one who is by nature, part-preacher, part-propagandist, to miss."

Dr. Park J. White, who had just returned from a pediatrics convention told how Surgeon General Parran and others discussed nutritional and other pediatric problems arising from mass migration of thousands of families into small towns for employment on various defense projects, the necessity for immunization against disease and the feeding problems growing out of sudden expansions. He also showed how a man, low in the economic scale, may be cured medically but that such a cure is not always effect if he is without work, and that relapses frequently occur.

"Some of our Quaker friends spent the summer working with and for the Negro white croppers at Croppersville, Mo.," the speaker went on, "the lunch hour was the worst part of their day . . when they came in to lunch and the croppers set out under trees—without lunch."

Dr. Park White, quoting from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's "Family Food Consumption and Dietary Levels" (1941) show that almost half the Negro farm families included in the sample had incomes of less than $5 0 per year, while another survey (Are We Well Fed? by Hazel Stiebeling, 1941) states that "Negro families fare poorly because incomes are low, but that Negro families spend food money as wisely as white families, also that food money being equal, Southern diets are as good as anywhere."

"Finally, and I know just how tired you are of hearing this, consider General Hersey's unpleasant findings: that of 1,000,000 men given physical examinations, 400,000 were unfit for general military service. He estimated that perhaps one-third of the rejections (15 per cent of the total number examined) were due directly or indirectly to nutritional deficiencies. "The 45,000,000 Americans who should consume 35 per cent more butter, and 20 per cent more milk, twice as many green vegetables, and 70 per cent more citrus fruits. What a bitter laugh these figures must evoke from any European. . . Well, it's the old American story, 'We're good producers and bad distributors.' The poor we have with us always. American story? No, it's international.

Grove Hill, Ala., Democrat
October 16, 1941

Date Of Negro Game Is Moved Up A Week

The Negro football game which is to be played here between teams of Tuskegee Institute and Alabama Teachers College of Montgomery, has been moved up a week and is now scheduled to be played on Wednesday night, November 5. The game was first announced for Oct. 29 but has since been changed to the November date.

No game ever played in the county attracted more widespread interest than that between these same schools last year. Visitors gathered from far and near and the field was crowded to capacity. Judging by advance comments, the same condition will obtain this year.

By no means the least interesting feature of the occasion was the show put on by the Tuskegee Band, and this crack organization of 89 pieces will again accompany the teams. The stunt which the band puts on between halves, when the field is darkened and the band marches with the shoes and instruments of the members decorated with tiny electric light bulbs is especially striking.

The game will be handled in the same manner as last year. The east side of the field will be reserved for the colored people, with the west side and the end zones being reserved for the whites.

Last year's game was one of the most enjoyable affairs imaginable, with not the slightest incident to mar it, affording a striking example of racial good will and cooperation. This year's game will be handled so as to insure that the same condition exists.

The admission charge will be $1.10, 55c and 40c, the same charge being made to blacks and whites alike. Reserved seats for the whites may be obtained at Dunn Mercantile Company, while A. A. Hicks will handle the reserved seats for the Negroes.

E. Julius Williams, Anniston Dies

Weekly Review, Birm., Ala.

E. Julius Williams, prominent interracial leader, of Anniston, died late last week after a very brief illness. Just this year Governor Dixon appointed him to the Draft Appeal Board of North Alabama. And last year Governor Dixon appointed Williams a member on the Governor's Committee to visit and report on the Exposition of Progress at Slossfield.

A Requium High Mass was celebrated at 9:00 A. M. Tuesday in All Saints Catholic Chapel, 15th and Steven Street. Father John Walch, S.S.E., was Celebrant of the Mass. Father John Casey, Pastor, preached a glowing eulogy, saying he could not find terms high enough to praise the untiring efforts of a man whose soul purpose in life seemed to be to make this world a little better for his fellow man to live in.

Father Casey pointed out that Mr. Williams' character was respected by all, because he was for years identified with the church, the church was filled with friends and relatives. E. Julius Williams was for years associated with the Famous Tuskegee Singers.

18y-1941
Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

South's Educators To Attend Honor Society Confab

ELIZABETH CAMPBELL

DORINDA DUNCAN

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Miss Elizabeth Campbell and Miss Dorinda Duncan, delegates, who will represent the Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of Tuskegee Institute, at the annual meeting of the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society, which will be held at Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tennessee, December 12 and 13.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Georgia L. Jenkins, Secretary-Treasurer of Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Sorority, which will hold its annual meeting at Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tennessee, December 12-13. Miss Jenkins is a member of the Treasurer's staff at Tuskegee Institute.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Dean I. A. Derbigny, National President of the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society announced today that the annual convention of the society would be held at Knoxville College, on December 12 and 13. The theme of the convention is: "The Place of Work Experience in the Education of Youth for National Defense."

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, will address the convention and lead the discussion group. Other speakers include Dean F. C. Smith, of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, who will deliver the main address on Friday night.

Officers of the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society are: Dean I. A. Derbigny, Tuskegee Institute, president; Miss Lola Foster, Sheffield, Alabama, vice-presdient; Miss Georgia L. Jenkins, Tuskegee Institute, secretary-treasurer; Miss Isabelle Wilson, Denmar, West Virginia, assistant secretary. Dr George W. Gore, Jr., Tennessee A. and I. State College, Nashville and George J. Jones, Arkansas State College, Pine Bluff, are members of the Executive Committee.

Dean Derbigny stated that the following chapters of the organization will have representatives at the convention:

Alpha Delta Sigma Chapter, Mr J. E. Evans, faculty adviser, West Virginia State College, Institute West Virginia.

Alpha Kappa Chaper, Mr. S. D. Williams, faculty adviser, Elizabeth City Teachers College, Elizabeth City, North Carolina.

Alphi Pi Mu Chapter, Mr. Thomas P. Dooley, faculty adviser, Prairie View State College, Prairie View, Texas.

Alpha Upsilon Chapter, Miss Willa Player, faculty adviser, Bennett College, Greensboro, North Carolina.

Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter, Dr. I. A. Derbigny, faculty adviser, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Dilliard University Chapter, Dr. C. W. Buggs, faculty adviser, Dillard University, New Orleans, La.

Eta Sigma Tau Chapter, Dean Hardy Liston and Miss Anna McFarland, faculty adviser, Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn.

Gamma Tau Chapter, Dean Warmouth Gibbs, faculty adviser, A. and T. College, Greensboro, North Carolina.

John Hope Chapter, Mr. Lawrence A. Davis, faculty adviser Arkansas State College, Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

John C. Smith Chapter, Dean T. E. McKinney, faculty adviser, Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, North Carolina.

Kappa Alpha Chapter, Dean J. B. Cade, faculty adviser, Southern University, Scottlandville, La.

Kappa Delta Chapter, Mr. Collie Davis, faculty adviser, Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va.

Kappa Gamma Chapter, Dr. A. Heningburg, faculty adviser, North Carolina College for Negroes, Durham, North Carolina.

Phi Beta Tau Chapter, Dr George W. Gore, Jr. faculty adviser, Tennessee A. and I. College, Nashville, Tenn.

Pi Lambda Chapter, Mrs. Frances B. Hill, faculty adviser, Morgan College, Baltimore, Maryland.

Pi Sigma Kappa Chapter, Mr Lawrence Wilson, faculty adviser Philander-Smith College, Little Rock, Ark.

Rho Beta Chi Chapter, Dean W S. Maize, faculty adviser, Fayetteville State Teachers College, Fayetteville, North Carolina.

Shaw University, Dr. Robert P Daniel, faculty adviser, Shaw

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Ben Russell, 65, Alexander City Leader, Is Dead

Funeral Will Be Held Wednesday Afternoon From Baptist Church

ALEXANDER CITY, Dec. 16.—Benjamin Russell, 65, Alabama civic and business leader for many years, died at his home here Tuesday morning.

He had been confined to his home for the past two weeks with an attack of influenza but his condition had not been considered serious until shortly before his death. He had attended to minor business affairs as late as Sunday.

Funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m., from the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Alexander City cemetery. Officials and employes in his various business enterprises here, to whom his death came as a shock, will serve as active and honorary pallbearers.

As a result of his long years of activity in Alabama civic affairs Mr. Russell had become known from one end of the State to the other as a "builder of Alabama." His interest in education and the social and economic welfare of the State won for him many positions of leadership in groups aimed at civic betterment.

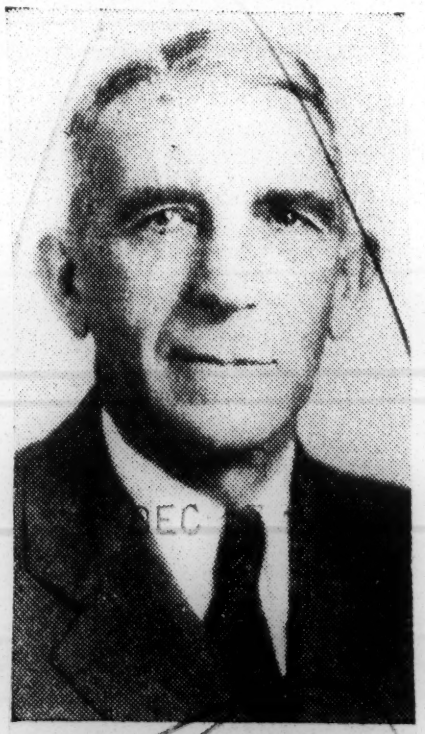
Organized State C. of C.

In 1937 he was one of a group of Alabama business leaders who organized the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce. He was elected first president of the organization and was reelected for two subsequent terms. Only a few weeks ago he was elected to head the newly-formed Alabama Research Institute, another organization for which he drew plans and which he conceived to be vital to the advancement of Alabama.

Born on Nov. 16, 1876, in Tallapoosa County, Ala., the son of Benjamin Francis Commander and Elizabeth Amanda Russell, he received his early education in the public schools of his native county. Later he attended the University of Virginia, graduating in the class of 1899 with a law degree.

Upon completing his education he began the practice of law in Birmingham but soon returned to Alexander City, where he established a textile manufacturing

Industrialist



BENJAMIN RUSSELL
concern that became one of the largest in the State.

To the time of his death his major business enterprise was the Russell Manufacturing Company, in which he initiated many trade practices that have been widely adopted in the textile industry. He was also directing head of several smaller textile concerns.

Throughout his residence in Alexander City he took a lively interest in affairs of his city, having served as president of the Alexander City Hospital, chairman of the local Board of Education and in various posts with the local Chamber of Commerce.

Noted Manufacturer

Although he was most widely known as a textile manufacturer, Mr. Russell had wide connections in other business enterprises. He was president of the First National Bank of Alexander City, president of The Alexander City Outlook, local weekly newspaper owner of the Russell Hotel and head of several smaller business concerns.

Among business and industrial leaders over the State Mr. Russell was recognized as one of the most progressive thinkers on economic affairs in Alabama. He never actively engaged in politics but was often consulted by State and national officials on governmental affairs.

Mr. Russell's interest in education extended over a long period of years and he contributed liberally of his time, talent and money to movements designed to improve education for Alabama youth. He was a member of the board of trustees of Howard College, Birmingham, from which school he held an honorary LL.D. degree. He was also a member of the board of trustees of Tuskegee Institute.

Although his numerous business enterprises had brought him considerable wealth, Mr. Russell continued active service in his various business enterprises. Up until the time he became ill two weeks ago he went daily to his modest office at the rear of the First National Bank here.

Aided Farmers

His interest in agriculture also was widely recognized over the State. One of his major objectives as president of the State Chamber was to increase the cash income of farmers. He owned extensive farming operations himself and to these he applied the same business principles that guided his industrial enterprises. He also had extensive lumber operations and was one of the foremost forest conservationists in the State.

Mr. Russell was a pioneer champion of good roads and an early advocate of tourist promotion work as a means of bringing increased cash income to the State.

All of his immediate survivors are residents of Alexander City, his brother, Thomas C. Russell, having been mayor of the city for more than 30 years.

Surviving beside the brother are the widow, the former Miss Roberta McDonald, of Athens, Ala.; three sons, Benjamin C., Thomas D., and Robert A. Russell; one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Russell Alison; a sister, Mrs. Sallie Thomas, and several grandchildren.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News of Tuskegee Institute

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD NEGRO GIRL WINS PRIZE AT INSTITUTE LIVESTOCK SHOW

When rural Negro boys and girls come into town and spend ten cents or a quarter to go to the motion picture show it is not news. But when rural Negro boys and girls come to the livestock show at Tuskegee Institute and go back to their counties with nearly $2,000 dollars in prizes and money from the sale of fat calves, that is news.

Tuskegee fourth livestock show on December 9 brought 27 entries from N. F. A. and 4-H boys and girls from 7 counties, Monroe, Perry, Talladega, Montgomery, Lowndes, Dallas, and Macon.

Ethel Pearl Shepherd, 15 year old high school girl from Prairie Farms, Macon County Farm Security Project was Grand Champion winner with her aberdeen Angus weighing 950 pounds. The animal bought at 14 1-2c a lb. Company at 14 1-2 cents a pound bringing the proud owner $137.75 She also received $22 in prize money. Ethel's brother was Grand Champion winner in 1940

Charlie Brown, N. F. A. boy from Macon County was Reserved Grand Champion winner and second in the new Farmers group. His Hereford, weighing 980 pounds was sold for $117.60 He received $18 additional in prize money.

Third and fourth N. F. A. winners were Walter Lee Grimes and Lucille Grimes, Macon County. Walter's Hereford weighing 870 pounds was sold at $10.75 a hundred and Lucile's Angus weighing 715 pounds at $9 a hundred.

Angus weighing 715 pounds went to Kennett Murray at $9 a hundred.

First prize winner in the 4-H Club group was Dorothy Kahn, Dallas County. Her 855 pound Hereford placed third Reserved Grand Champion and brought $12.60 a hundred. John Moss, Dallas County with his 940 pound Hereford won second 4-H Club prize and W. A. Gardner, Dallas, came in third with a 885 pound Hereford. These animals brought $12.40 and $10.75 per hundred respectively.

Company and Cudahy.

Increased interest in livestock among Negro farmer boys and girls of Alabama is shown by the fact that total sales from the auction last year were about $600 as against over $1500 for 1941, Director J. R. Otis was proud to point out.

Interested spectators at the auction were: Ray Campbell and Willie Pierce, cattle men from Montgomery, President F. D. Patterson, experienced veterinarian and cattle expert, T. N. Roberts, Personnel Division U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washing- D. C. and former Manager Macon County Land Use Project, farmers and farm agents from over the South.

The activities of the 4th Annual Farm and Home Week closed Wednesday, Dec. 10 with the 51 annual Farmers' Conference. Honorable Haygood Patterson, State Commissioner of Agriculture delivered the principal address at 2:00 p. m. in Logan Hall. President F. D. Patterson awarded certificates to Merit Farmers.

INSTRUCTOR'S COURSE IN FIRST AID CONDUCTED AT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

The following persons have successfully completed the Instructor's Course in First Aid under the sponsorship of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter American Red Cross. The Standard and Advanced First Aid Courses were conducted by Mr. R. C. Owen, Miss Ruth Bray, and Miss Gussie White. The Instructor's Course was conducted by Mr. Donald G. Northey, Washington, D. C.

The class was made up of persons from the U. S. Veterans Hospital, Tuskegee Institute and nearby communities: Delgratia D. Allen, Alonzo R. Ashley, Danella R. Barker, Mildred M. Brown, Elizabeth Campbell, Howard Carter Jr., Lewis N. Crawford, Lillian M. Crayton, Ann E. Dixon, Gracie G. Fields, Sara L. Ford, Pearlena L. Gant, Fred Glover, Goldie M. Griffin, Lucille W. Henry, Jenie L. Hill, Sara B. Howell, Blanche V. Jackson, Theodosia D. Kelly, Louvenia A. Lee, Alma J. Minnis, Rosa L. Peoples, Leola R. Phillips, William A. Shields, Daniel W. Strong, Sadie E. Swaggard, John Tolson, Carroll B. Wardlaw, Daisy F. Watkins, William M. Womack, George L. Fountain.

NOTICE—to all volunteers, observers for Air Raid Warning that volunteered please be ready for service when called. We desire more volunteers. Thanks.

E. H. Cravens Jr.
Observation Post Organizer

AIR CORPS CADETS NEED CIVIL PILOT TRAINING

Negro boys awaiting call to the U. S. Air Corps are strongly advised by G. L. Washington, Civilian Director, U. S. Army Air Corps Detachment, Tuskegee Institute, to avail themselves of the Civil Pilot Training at Tuskegee Institute, Hampton Institute, W. Virginia State Institute, Howard University, A. & T. College, Greensboro, N. C., Lincoln Nniversity, and ot other Negro colleges and cities having such programs. Youths planning to apply to the Air Corps are advised to take Civil Pilot Training now.

Director Washington's advice is based on statistics which show that 92 per cent of Army Air Corps Cadets having had previous Civil Pilot Training courses pass the 35 weeks army training as compared with 51 per cent of those not having had civil pilot training.

Mr. Washington states further that washouts in the primary had been fast and numerous. "Quick washouts of Negro cadets", said Director Washington, "may be attributed to the fact that the majority of the cadets assigned to Air Corps training to date have had no previous flight training and general knowledge of flying."

"How many with previous flight training have been washed out?" Washington was asked

"Only one person with previous Civil Pilot Training has been washed on account of inaptitude in flight. So although previous training does not assure a cadet's passing army training, the figures show the advantage," Washington answered.

Director Washington because of his position as director of the Army Primary Training of flying cadets and the Civil Pilot Training at Tuskegee Institute is in position to make factual observations.

Mr. Washington urges Air Corps applicants to register in the Spring Session Civil Pilot Training Course which will begin according to present schedule about February 1. Applications should be made now.

FOURTH CLASS OF FLYING CADETS BEGIN TRAINING AT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

The fourth group of young men to enter training as flying cadets for the 99th Pursuit Squadron come from eight states. They bring with them athletic records from Johnson C. Smith and Virginia University, three C. A. A. private pilot's license; one has taught school; one has done graduate work; one has served in the Merchant Marine; two are Alphas and one Kappa Nine schools are represented, six of which are Negro institutions —Hampton Institute, Virginia University, Fayetteville Teachers College (North Carolina), Kentucky State, Johnson C. Smith, Howard University. Three white schools are represented—University of Michigan, Eastern Illinois College, Washington State University.

18y-1941
Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Instructor's Course Is Given At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE Inst. —(SNS) — The following persons have successfully completed the Instructor's Course in First Aid, under the sports in First Aid, under the sponsorship of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter American Red Cross. The Standard and Advanced First Aid Courses were conducted by Mr. R. C. Owen Miss Ruth Bray, and Miss Gussie White. The Instructor's Course was conducted by Mr. Donald G. Northey, Washington, D. C.

DEC 14 1941

The class was made up of persons from the U. S. Veterans Hospital, Tuskegee Institute and nearby communities: Delgratia D. Allen Alonzo R. Ashley, Danella R. Barker, Mildred M. Brown, Elizabeth Campbell, Howard Carter Jr., Lewis N. Crawford, Lillian M. Crayton Ann E. Dixon, Gracie G. Fields, Sara L. Ford, Pearlena L. Gant, Fred Glover, Goldie M. Griffin, Lucille W. Henry, Janie L. Hill, Sarah B Howell, Blanche V. Jackson, Theodosia D. Kelly, Louvenia A. Lee, Alma J. Minnis, Rosa L. Peoples, Leola R. Phillips, William A. Shields Daniel W. Strong, Sadie E. Swaggard, Jonn Tolson, Carroll B. Wardlaw, Daisy F. Watkins, William M Womack, George L. Fountain.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

TUSKEGEE CIVIC ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1942

DEC 18 1941

At its last regular meeting of 1941, held in the auditorium of the Academic (High School) building, Tuskegee Institute, Sunday afternoon, December 14, the Tuskegee Civic Association elected the folowing persons as its officers for 1942:

184

Charles G. Gomillion, President; Rev. W. E. Carson, First Vice President; Warner Kennedy Second Vice President; C. B Patterson, Third Vice President; Charles De Campfield, Secretary; T. Rupert Broady, Assistant Secretary; Arthur P. Mack, Treasurer; to membership in the Association: Mrs. Birdie T. Pompey, Dr. Edgar E. Alexander, and Mr. J. T Williamson.

DEC 14 1941

er, and Rev. T. R. Newman, Chaplain. Preceding the election, the officers of the Association during 1941 made their annual reports. During the meeting the following citizens were admitted

Birmingham, Ala., News
December 21, 1941

Tuskegee's Newest Trustee Is Woman From Buckeye State

Member Of Congress Says She Has Worked Much On Negro Problems

BY CARROLL KILPATRICK
Special Washington Correspondent
The Birmingham News-Age-Herald

WASHINGTON—The newest member of the Tuskegee Institute board of trustees is an Ohio Republican from Cleveland's silk-stocking district. She is accepting the position "without any idea of Republican carpetbagging or with any program for changing the South."

"I am accepting the appointment because I have had a long interest in Negro education—a problem that is not regional but national, and one of great importance during this emergency," Representative Frances P. Bolton, of Ohio's 22nd District, said Saturday after being assigned to the board by Chairman William Jay Schiefflin, of New York.

Mrs. Bolton frankly admits that she is no authority on things Southern. "Those are your problems," she said. "You know more about them than I do. But Negro education is a universal problem. It is a problem in my own district that I have studied and worked with for many years."

This member of the House from Ohio admits that people may wonder why she has been put on the Tuskegee board—when she has never even been to Tuskegee.

"I have worked with Negroes for 25 years," she said in answer to that question. "There are many Negroes in my district. I have been on the advisory council of the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses and have done public health work for many years."

Mrs. Bolton was elected a member of the House in February, 1940, to fill the unexpired term of her husband, the late Chester C. Bolton. She was reelected the following November.

She has lived all her life in Cleveland, and her chief interest outside her three sons has been education and health work. She is now a popular and respected member of the lower House and a member of its foreign affairs committee.

She is a handsome, stylishly-dressed person, with graying hair and attractive blue eyes.

"I am looking forward to my first visit to Tuskegee next April," she said. She will make a speech there the night before the board meeting.

"I am interested in the welfare of the Negro. They know I care about their having a place in the sun. They are our citizens and they have been discriminated against. We all know that.

"But I am not advocating any radical changes. I feel very strongly that we need to work out a practical method of integrating our racial groups. We've been shockingly cruel to the Indians, too.

"Education is a preparation for the living of life. Our people must learn to live at peace among themselves just as much as the world must learn to live at peace."

Mrs. Bolton insisted that she had never made rash promises to Negroes or misled them in any way. "I have always discussed their problems with them frankly and with understanding of the questions we all face. I am not going to push with too much insistence on the complete program that we all want, which will mean peace among the races.

"This is no moment to press the differences that do exist but a time for tolerance and understanding on both sides. The Negro has much to give to our civilization, just as we have much to give."

Mrs. Bolton said she always regretted the emphasis upon races and groups as such. "We need to emphasize above all else that we all are Americans."

Mrs. Bolton's first House assignment was to the Indian affairs committee. She keeps emphasizing that her interest is in all racial minorities and in securing for them fair treatment and full rights under the constitution.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

31 GRADUATES IN FIRST AID CLASS

DEC 20 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Dec. 18—The following persons have successfully completed Instructor's Course in First Aid, under the sponsorship of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter American Red Cross. The Standard and Advanced First Aid Courses were conducted by Mr. R. C. Owen, Miss Ruth Bray and Miss Gussie White. The Instructor's Course was conducted by Mr. Donard G. Northey, Washington, D. C.

Delgratia D. Allen, Alonzo R. Ashley, Danella R. Barker, Mildred M. Brown, Elizabeth Campbell, Howard Carter, Jr., Lewis N. Crawford, Lillian M. Crayton, Ann E. Dixon, Gracie G. Fields, Sara L. Ford, Pearlena L. Gant, Fred Glover, Goldie M. Griffin, Lucille W. Henry, Jenie L. Hill, Sara B. Howell, Blanche V. Jackson, Theodosia D. Kelley, Louvenia A. Lee, Alma J. Minnis, Rosa L. Peoples, Leola R. Phillips, William A. Shields, Daniel W. Strong, Sadie E. Swaggard, John Tolson, Carroll B. Wardlaw, Daisy F. Watkins, William M. Womack, George L. Fountain.

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee's Newest Trustee Is Woman From Buckeye State

DEC 21 1941

Member Of Congress Says She Has Worked Much On Negro Problems

BY CARROLL KILPATRICK
Special Washington Correspondent
The Birmingham News-Age-Herald

WASHINGTON—The newest member of the Tuskegee Institute board of trustees is an Ohio Republican from Cleveland's silk-stocking district. She is accepting the position "without any idea of Republican carpetbagging or with any program for changing the South."

"I am accepting the appointment because I have had a long interest in Negro education—a problem that is not regional but national, and one of great importance during this emergency," Representative Frances P. Bolton, of Ohio's 22nd District, said Saturday after being assigned to the board by Chairman William Jay Schiefflin, of New York.

Mrs. Bolton frankly admits that she is no authority on things Southern. "Those are your problems," she said. "You know more about them than I do. But Negro education is a universal problem. It is a problem in my own district that I have studied and worked with for many years."

This member of the House from Ohio admits that people may wonder why she has been put on the Tuskegee board—when she has never even been to Tuskegee.

"I have worked with Negroes for 25 years," she said in answer to that question. "There are many Negroes in my district. I have been on the advisory council of the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses and have done public health work for many years."

Mrs. Bolton was elected a member of the House in February, 1940, to fill the unexpired term of her husband, the late Chester C. Bolton. She was reelected the following November.

She has lived all her life in Cleveland, and her chief interest outside her three sons has been education and health work. She is now a popular and respected member of the lower House and a member of its foreign affairs committee.

She is a handsome, stylishly-dressed person, with graying hair and attractive blue eyes.

"I am looking forward to my first visit to Tuskegee next April," she said. She will make a speech there the night before the board meeting.

"I am interested in the welfare of the Negro. They know I care about their having a place in the sun. They are our citizens and they have been discriminated against. We all know that.

"But I am not advocating any radical changes. I feel very strongly that we need to work out a practical method of integrating our racial groups. We've been shockingly cruel to the Indians, too.

"Education is a preparation for the living of life. Our people must learn to live at peace among themselves just as much as the world must learn to live at peace."

Mrs. Bolton insisted that she had never made rash promises to Negroes or misled them in any way. "I have always discussed their problems with them frankly and with understanding of the questions we all face. I am not going to push with too much insistence on the complete program that we all want, which will mean peace among the races.

DEC 21 1941

"This is no moment to press the differences that do exist but a time for tolerance and understanding on both sides. The Negro has much to give to our civilization, just as we have much to give."

Mrs. Bolton said she always regretted the emphasis upon races and groups as such. "We need to emphasize above all else that we all are Americans."

Mrs. Bolton's first House assignment was to the Indian affairs committee. She keeps emphasizing that her interest is in all racial minorities and in securing for them fair treatment and full rights under the constitution.

Birmingham Ala. Age-Herald
December 20, 1941

NEGRO LEADERS TO AID DEFENSE

Plans For Participation In Civilian Work Is Topic Of Parley

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 19—(AP)—Negro leaders from throughout Alabama made plans Friday for organized participation in civilian defense work, in addition to sacrifices being asked of all individuals, regardless of race, Houston Cole, executive director of the State Defense Council, said.

A committee was set up to work out definite plans, and Cole said it would function in conjunction with local defense groups and encourage the participation of Negroes in all defense activities. A conference at which tentative plans were discussed was addressed by Cole, Maj. Joseph M. Dickerson, state council secretary, and Miss Loula Dunn, state welfare commissioner.

The committee to work out a program for submission to the state council is composed of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute; Dr. J. F. Drake, president of the State A. & M. Institute, Normal; H. C. Trenholm, president of State Teachers College, Montgomery; Dr. J. S. Lambert, of the State Department of Education; J. T. Brooks, Montgomery; T. M. Campbell, Tuskegee; W. H. Dinkins, Selma; Dr. H. M. Gibbs, Montgomery, and A. L. Jackson, Tuscaloosa.

Montgomery Ala Advertiser
December 17, 1941

HE BUILT WELL

With an energy and imagination which were the awe of all who knew him, Benjamin Russell spent more than 40 years translating Alabama's raw resources into goods and services.

In a State with an abundance of human and natural resources, his mission in life was to combine the two in enterprise which created opportunity.

He was a capitalist in the broadest sense of the word, a man whose fertile mind saw possibilities all around him. He was a native of the State he did so much to develop. He saw more in his work than the creation of enterprise for personal gain. To him a factory symbolized jobs, opportunity for people, better schools, better churches, better towns and cities.

Considering the number of enterprises which he built and directed personally, it was always surprising that he gave so freely of his time and energy to developments outside his immediate field of interest.

He was a prime mover in the organization of the Alabama Chamber of Commerce turning over the presidency of the organization only after it had become firmly established and its success assured. He consented to become president of the recently-organized Alabama Research Institute—another project in which he was a pioneer—because those interested insisted that its success would be guaranteed if he did so.

His presidency of the reasearch organization was typical of the enterprises in which he became interested. Others naturally turned to him for leadership, and there is no record of his having turned down any reasonable request upon his time or resources.

His energies were not limited to the State's economic life. He had a continuing interest in education, a field in which his service on the board of trustees of Howard College and Tuskegee Institute are but two examples. He had a constant influence upon young men, especially the membership of his college fraternity, Chi Phi, which he served as national president a few years ago.

Although his interests in recent years have gone beyond the boundaries of Alabama, his civic activities and services in Alexander City were sufficient to occupy the full time of a lesser man.

Alabama needs more men with the qualities of Ben Russell. It needs more men of his vision and zeal. And because of Ben Russell the path has been made easier for others to come. Even so this State is not likely to have again a man embracing such abilities in such quantities.

He was a mighty workman in the building of Alabama. And he built well.

Anniston Ala. Star
December 18, 1941

A Statewide Loss

There are few men in Alabama whom the state could so ill afford to lose as Benjamin Russell, whose death at Alexander City Tuesday afternoon came as a profound shock to the people of the entire state.

Mr. Russell had carved out for himself hrough the exercise of his fine talents of nind and of character a business success that had attracted national attention. And having done that he accepted an obligation of service to the state in which he had made his fortune, thereby setting an example to many of us who have been privileged to live beyond his time.

The work that Ben Russell did for good roads in Alabama would alone stand as a monument to his public-spiritedness. But he was not satisfied with that and through his accomplishments as first president of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce by way of effecting a better balance between industry and agriculture in this state he proved himself to be a leader of unusual proportions. Moreover, his contribution to Howard College and Tuskegee Institute likewise proved his recognition that no man can live to himself alone and that he profits most who serves best.

What Mr. Russell did in his own little corner of the world and what he did for the state of his nativity will cause him to be greatly missed, but to many of us he also will be mourned as a princely gentleman and a devoted friend. It was with especial sorrow that this paper learned of his passing. The like of him is hard to find.

Tuskegee, Ala., News
November 20, 1941

Tuskegee Is Represented In Color Travelog

C. of C. Announces Premier Showing In Chicago

Alabama's two-reel, natural color motion picture travelog, which has been in production for the last six months, will have its premiere at the Stevens Hotel in Chicago on Dec. 7, it was announced today by officials of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce. The occasion will be the first Travel Show of the season sponsored by The Chicago Daily News, an event that normally attracts between 3,500 and 4,000 persons.

Tuskegee is represented in the State Chamber travelog by a scene made at the old Alexander Home, one of the outstanding ante-bellum homes of this section. Another scene pictures the campus at Tuskegee Institute.

Entitled "Alabama, Yesterday and Today," the first print of the movie is expected to be received in about a week. It will be shown here in Alabama several times before going to Chicago if it is received in time.

The movie was produced by the State Chamber, the State Planning Commission and the State Highway Department as a part of their tourist promotion campaign. It carries a full sound track of narratoin and music and provides a 28-minute show.

Following its premiere in Chicago the film will be distributed throughout the Midwest and East to travel shows, tourist club meetings and similar events. Extra prints will be obtained for simultaneous showing in diferent Northern cities and for use in Alabama.

Commercial motion picture executives in Chicago, where the film was edited, have pronounced it the best state-produced travelog they have seen and compare it favorably with Technicolor films costing several times as much, State Chamber officials said.

18y-1941

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Delegates From Negro Colleges Participate In Centennial Exercises Of Fordham Univ.

OCT 4 1941

Representatives of five Negro colleges and universities were in the academic processional marching to the closing exercises of the Centennial Celebration of Fordham University on the spacious lawn in front of Keating Hall last Wednesday.

Institutions represented by delegates were Howard University, Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, pres.; Dr. Walter G. Alexander, alumnus; Morgan State College, Dr. Clinton Everett Knox, professor; Tuskegee Institute, Ernest L. Dimitry, N. Y. Alumni president, and Virgina State College for Negroes, Dr. John M. Gandy, president.

These delegates were among the 559 representatives from foreign, American colleges and universities and Learned Societies, who received a bow of acknowledgment from Rev. Robert I. Gannon, Fordham president, when they responded to the calling of their names. Several also attended the President's dinner at the Waldorf Astoria the preceding evening.

Five other institutions including Atlanta University, Hampton Institute, Morehouse College, Clark University and Talladega had accepted invitation for the exercises but were not represented.

Delegates in the line of march were grouped according to the year of the founding of their respective institutions resulting in the pairing off of representatives of Tuskegee Institute and the University of Texas.

OCT 4 1941

Governor Herbert H. Lehman, Lt. General Hugh A. Drum, Nelson A. Rockefeller and Excellentissimus P.D. Hamletus Joannes Cicognani, were among the 14 persons receiving honorary degrees at the closing exercises.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

A TRIO OF QUEENS

OCT 18 1941
OCT 18 1941
OCT 18 1941

Chicago's Miss Classic, Virgil Cowan; Miss Tuskegee, Dorothy Howard, and Miss Sweetheart of the Classic, Aleatha De Vane, another Chicagoan, stroll arm in arm across the gridiron between halves of the annual Tuskegee Wilberforce game at Soldiers' field, Chicago. The southerners smothered the Ohioans under a 27-6 avalanche.—Clynell photo.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

51ST ANNUAL TUSKEGEE CONFERENCE SET FOR DEC. 10

OCT 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, Oct. 16—(ANP)—The 51st anual Tuskegee conference (formerly Negro Farmers' conference) and the sixth annual Farm and Home Week have been announced by J. R. Otis, director of agriculture and Mrs. O. W. Pearson, directer of the school of home economics, co-chairman of conference committee, to be held December 3-10.

The conference day is December 10 with Claude Wickard, secretary of agriculture, scheduled to be the principal speaker at the afternoon session. The closing features of the afternoon session will be the awarding of prizes for the live stock entries and the presentation of master farmer certificates by President F. D. Patterson.

Live Stock Show

The second annual live stock show and competitive live stock judging contest between 4-H club boys and girls and adult farmers will be climaxed by live stock auction on Tuesday morning, December 9.

OCT 19 1941

The annual farmers' banquet will be staged Tuesday night, December 9 with short addresses by outstanding farmers and farm wives who have been enrolled in farm and home week classes. A free barbecue dinner is a feature of conference day.

Those enrolled in the Farm and Home week classes will have attention given to their individual farm and home problems centering around, improved farm practices, farm carpentry, clothing, housing and family relationship, health, with special attention given to nutrition, the first aid, farm-home accident prevention and care.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

DIRECTOR REVIEWS BOOK

OCT 26 1941

NYA Area Director Michael Howlett (center) looks at a song book, while James Barr, leader of the NYA Chorus (left) and Horace Cayton, director of the Good Shepherd Community Center suggest appropriate numbers for the chorus to sing. The chorus, which holds rehearsals at the Good Shepherd center, has a full fall season ahead.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Annual 'Skegee Farm Week Set For Dec. 3-10

OCT 13 1941

Secretary Of Agriculture In Chief Address

TUSKEGEE—(ANP) — The 51st annual Tuskegee conference (formerly Negro Farmers' conference) and the sixth annual Farm and Home Week have been announced by J. R. Otis, director of agriculture and Mrs. O. W. Pearson, director of the school of home economics, co-chairman of conference committee, to be held Dec 3-10.

The conference day is December 10 with Claude Wickard, secretary of agriculture, scheduled to be the principal speaker at the afternoon session. The closing features of the afternoon session will be the awarding of prizes for the live stock entries and the presentation of master farmer certificates by President F. D. Patterson.

The second livestock show and competitive livestock judging contest between 4-H club boys and girls and adult farmers will be climaxed by livestock auction on Tuesday morning, Dec. 9.

The annual farmers' banquet will be staged Tuesday night, December 9 with short addresses by outstanding farmers and farm wives who have been enrolled in farm and home week classes. A free barbecue dinner is a feature of conference day.

OCT 13 1941

Those enrolled in the Farm and Home week classes will have attention given to their individual farm and home problems centering around improved farm practices, farm carpentry, clothing, housing and family relationship, health, with especial attention given to nutrition, the first aid, farm-home accident prevention and care.

18y-1941

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Physicians' Clinic Meets At Tuskegee On April 6th

MAR 22 1941

TUSKEGEE, Mar. 20—(ANP)—Dr. John A. Kenney, secretary-treasurer of the John A. Andrew Clinical society, announces that the 30th annual clinic and the 24th annual meeting of the society will be held at the John A. Andrew Memorial hospital, Tuskegee, April 6 to 11. One session will be held at the Veteran's Administration facility adjacent to Tuskegee institute.

MAR 22 1941

According to Dr. Kenney, charter member and leading spirit in the society since its beginning, the 1941 clinic will offer not only the usual outstanding professional attractions, but several innovations further to extend the benefits of the meeting. To mention only one, three didactic clinics will be held for one hour each during the afternoon at which time there will be no counter attractions.

Dr. Kenney has been authorized by Dr. J. N. Baker, State health officer of Alabama to announce that a special pre-clinic attraction this year will be a public health institute conducted at the John A. Andrew Memorial hospital, under the auspices of the State health department and the National Tuberculosis Association. This meeting will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 3, 4, 5. The institute will recess for the Robert R. Moton Memorial exercises on Friday, April 4, and will immediately percede Founder's day, Sunday, April 6. There will be no registration fee for the institute.

MAR 22 1941

Three important subjects to be covered during the institute are: tuberculosis, venereal diseases, maternal and infant hygiene. Among the lecturers to conduct the Institute are: Dr. Roderick Brown of Pittsburgh, who will lecture on tuberculosis; Dr. T. K. Lawless of Chicago will present the subject of syphillis, Dr. C. Leon Wilson of Provident hospital, Chicago, will give instruction in obstetrics.

Those who attend the annual clinic will this year have the opportunity to inspect the work and set-up of the new $161,350 infantile paralysis unit of the John A. Andrew hospital, the maternal service which accommodates over 200 maternity patients, annually, the pediatric service; the crippled children's service; the venereal disease service with a traveling clinic carrying examinations and treatments five days a week to patients in every part of the county.

By April, first preparations will be under way for the opening of the new school of midwifery conducted conjointly by the children's bureau in Washington, the Rosenwald fund, the Alabama State Department of Health, and Tuskegee. This school of midwifery will be the first of its kind. Its object is to give special training to graduate nurses to fit them for midwery in the rural districts.

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee, the trustees, faculty and families of the community, have assured Dr. Kenney of their cordial welcome to physicians, nurses, and dentists who will make the spring pilgrimage to Tuskegee.

Other features of the program include some of Dr. Moton's favorite spirituals, which will be sung by the Tuskegee Choir with R. Nathaniel Dett as guest conductor, and a group of Hampton Institute cadets under Major Walter R. Brown, who will serve as honorary guard for the occasion.

MAR 19 1941

Introductory remarks will be made by Dr William Jay Schieffelin chairman of the Board of Trustees and Dr. Patterson, president of the Institute. Dr. Eugene H. Dibble will represent the Tuskegee United States Veterans Hospital on the program. Captain Alvin J. Neely, executive secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association, will read the messages and Albon L. Holsey, who served for many years as Dr. Moton's secretary will review his affiliations with various institutions and national organizations. Chaplain Harry V. Richardson of the Institute and Dr. G. Lake Imes formerly Special Assistant to Dr. Moton, will preside.

Mr. Chas. W. Cooper, president of the local club, with the cooperation of others have outlined a splendid program and plans are underway to give the Executive Secretary a welcome unparalleled by any formally held in this area.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tribute To Be Paid Dr. Moton By Tuskegeeans

MAR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS)—President F. D. Patterson has announced that the Institute will pay memorial tribute to Dr. R. R. Moton, second president of the school, on Friday afternoon April 4, beginning at 2:00 o'clock. The exercises will be held in the Institute Chapel.

Principal addresses will be delivered by Dr. Leo M. Favrot, who served for so many years with the General Education Board, and Dr. Channing H. Tobias, Senior Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., work among Negroes.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

Alvin J. Neely To Address Local Tuskegee Alumni

MAR 21 1941

The Nashville-Tuskegee Alumni Club will hold a Special Call Meeting Monday night, March 24th at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Morris Memorial Building. Captain Alvin J. Neely, Executive Secretary of the Tuskegee Alumni Association will be the Principal Speaker. All graduates, former students and persons interested in the school's program are urged to be present and on time.

In his address Capt. Neely will give a detailed outline of the expansion program in which the Institution engaged in the School of Mechanical Arts, The Photo-Engraving Department and the School of Aviation. Many new courses have been added to the school's curriculum and persons interested are urged to be present to receive this additional information.

MAR 2 1 1941

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Henry Ford Pays Visit To Dr. Carver At Tuskegee

MAR 22 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, accompanied by Mrs. Ford and a secretary, spent several hours at Tuskegee Institute Tuesday conferring with Dr. F. D. Patterson president, and Dr. George W. Carver, Tuskegee's distinguished scientist.

Mr. Ford arrived at Chehaw in his private car early Tuesday morning and was met by Dr. Patterson and hurried to Dorothy Hall, where Dr. Carver awaited him. After he and Mrs. Ford had signed the official visitor's book, Mr. Ford went to Dr. Carver's quarters where they were left alone for an hour's conference. Immediately following the conference Mr. Ford participated in the dedication of the George W. Carver Museum by the insertion of plastics made of soy beans and soy fibre into a concrete slab.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

ANNUAL CLINIC TO BEGIN APRIL 6TH AT TUSKEGEE INST.

MAR 21 1941

Many Medical Problems to be Discussed by Eminent Physicians

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., March 20, 1941—Many problems facing modern medicine will be discussed at the Thirtieth Annual Clinic and the Twenty-Fourth Annual Meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which will be held at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, Tuskegee Institute, April 6-11, it was stated here today by Dr. John A. Kenney, Medical Director. "More than 300 of the leading physicians and surgeons of the nation are expected to come to Tuskegee to appear on the program and to participate in the discussions," Dr. Keneny said.

Such pressing and vital topics as tuberculosis, cancer, venereal diseases, nutrition, maternal and infant hygiene, and the use of sulfanilamide will be discussed during the week. New methods in the treatment of these diseases will be presented in scientific papers by nationally-prominent medical authorities.

MAR 21 1941

Of especial interest to the profession will be discussions by Dr. Roderick Brown of Pittsburgh, who will lecture on tuberculosis; Dr. T. K. Lawless of Chicago, will present the subject of syphillis, and Dr. C. Leon Wilson of Provident Hospital, Chicago, will give instructions in obstetrics.

Dr. Kenney stated that he had been authorized by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer of Alabama, to say that a special feature this year will be a Public Health Institute which will be conducted by the State Health Department of Alabama and the National Tuberculosis Association which will be held at the Institute Hospital on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 3, 4, and 5. This feature is expected to attract a large attendance.

The New School of Midwifery, conducted conjointly by the Children's Bureau in Washington, the Rosenwald Fund, the Alabama State Department of Health and Tuskegee Institute, will open the week of the Clinic. This is said to be the first school of its kind, and its object is to give special training to graduate nurses to fit them for midwifery in the rural districts.

Opportunity will be given the visiting physicians and others in attendance upon the Founder's Day exercises to inspect the new and recently opened $161,350 Infantile Paralysis Unit of the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, the Maternal Service which accommodates over two hundred maternity patients annually; the Pediatric Service; the Crippled Children's Service; the Venereal Disease Service with a travelling clinic, carrying examinations and treatments five days a week in every part of the country.

The usual large number of persons seeking medical attention are expected to avail themselves of the clinic for a correction of their disabilities.

MAR 21 1941

Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, Manager, Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Alabama, is cooperating with the staff of the Tuskegee Institute Hospital in arranging clinics for the visiting physicians.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, President, will welcome the members of the medical profession to the Institute and will appear on various programs during the week.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Mr. And Mrs. Henry Ford Visit Tuskegee Institute

MAR 2 2 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, accompanied by Mrs. Ford and a secretary, spent several hours at Tuskegee institute Tuesday conferring with Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, and Dr. George W. Carver, Tuskegee's distinguished scientist.

Ford arrived at Chehaw in his private car early Tuesday morning and was met by Dr. Patterson and hurried to Dorothy hall, where Dr. Carver awaited him. After he and Mrs. Ford had signed the official visitors' book, Ford went to Dr. Carver's quarters where they were left alone for an hour's conference.

MAR 22 1941

Immediately following the conference Ford participated in the dedication of the George W. Carver museum by the insertion of plastics made of soy beans and soy fibre into a concrete slab.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ford inscribed their names in the cement. The ceremony was witnesses by several institute officials and a group of students. The slab is prominently located in the museum and signifies the deep interest of Ford and Dr. Carver in the industrial utilization of farm crops.

Ford visited with Dr. Carver and manifested keen interest in the native fibres that are on exhibit, and the uses that have been made of waste material. He later visited the Tuskegee institute airport and expressed considerable interest in the progress that the students are making in the program and the future that aviation offers.

While at the airport students in the secondary course of instruction were going through their maneuvers. Several took off and landed and Ford commended the students on the efficient manner in which they handled their planes.

Mrs. Ford was shown through the girls' industrial building and the department of home economics and expressed delight in the preparation of the Tuskegee women students for useful and successful living.

MAR 2 2 1941

After having lunch in Dorothy hall the visitors were welcomed and shown the grounds of the Veterans hospital by Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, manager. Upon the completion of their tour of inspection of the reservation they were driven to Chehaw where they boarded their private car for Atlanta.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Succumbs

MAR 2 3 1941

EDMUND H. BURKE

Beloved secretary of Tuskegee institute, who died Friday morning, the result of a stroke suffered the night before. Mr. Burke was a fine force for good in both the official and student life at Tuskegee. A former auditor for one of America's most important importing firms, he went to Tuskegee as comptroller, his unusual ability winning for him the post as secretary. Services were held in Tuskegee's chapel. (ANP)

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Hampton, Tuskegee Exchange Students

APR 4 - 1941

HAMPTON INSTITUTE, Va. — Hampton institute and Tuskegee institute have taken the first step in what is hoped will be an extensive exchange system between the two institutions.

Martha L. Driver, sophomore student at Tuskegee institute, has just arrived on the Hamptch campus to make an extensive study of the creative dance as taught by Miss Charlotte Moton. At the same time, Hampton sent Gretel Lee, a senior in the division of home economics who is speacializing in weaving, to Tuskegee for an opportunity to develop additional skills in this field and to assist in teaching weaving at that school.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Founder's Day Program Held At Tuskegee

APR 7 - 1941

Dr. Lake Imes, Former Faculty Member, Is Principal Speaker

TUSKEGEE, ALA., April 6.—(AP)—Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, celebrated "Founder's Day" with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the Institute faculty during the administration of Booker T Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The Institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1,000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

APR 7 - 1941

"Our great founder who, born a slave and a black boy, went forward asking no special consideration because of his color" was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, as "an inspiration" to tens of thousands.

As the Founder's Day program opened, more than 75 physicians and surgeons already had arrived for the 30th annual clinic and 24th meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Mentioned for Tuskegee Board

APR 4 - 1941

DR. ALPHONSE HENINGBURG, assistant to the president of North Carolina college at Durham, who is prominently mentioned for the Tuskegee institute trustee to be elected by Tuskegee graduates. Dr. Heningburg was graduated from Tuskegee as valedictorian in 1929 and since 1937 has held the post at the North Carolina school.

APR 4 - 1941

Brunswick, Ga., News
April 7, 1941

TUSKEGEE HONORS NEGRO FOUNDER

Tuskegee, Ala., April 7. (AP)—Tuskegee Institute honored its founder, Booker T. Washington, in a colorful observance here yesterday.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the Tuskegee faculty during the administration of Washington, delivered the principal address, quoting from the founder's writings.

"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes recalled as one of Booker Washington's homely sayings with which he drove home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, termed "an inspiration" Washington's work while "asking no special consideration because of his color."

Chattanooga, Tenn., Daily Times
April 7, 1941

FOUNDERS' DAY IS HELD AT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 6 (AP).—Tuskegee institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, celebrated "Founder's day" with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1,000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

As the Founder's day program opened, more than seventy-five physicians and surgeons already had arrived for the thirtieth annual clinic and twenty-fourth meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

Tampa, Fla. Tribune
April 7, 1941

Booker Washington Honored at College Founded for Negroes

TUSKEG[illegible]—(A.P.)—Tuskegee institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, celebrated "founder's day" with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, a member of the institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Horizon

MORE SENIOR ROTC UNITS SHOULD BE SET UP IN NEGRO SCHOOLS

BY P. L. PRATTIS

ONE of the most important current news items concerns the establishment of a senior reserve officers' training corps unit at Tuskegee. On the surface that does not look like a great deal. But, considered in relation to its potential significance and as a practical pace setter, this new unit opens the way for tremendous advancement if we take advantage of it.

Officers in the United States Army come from either West Point the regular army ranks, the Reserve Corps or the National Guard. Commissions are granted to graduates of senior reserve corps units. Only two colored schools, so far, have had senior units—Howard and Wilberforce. The Tuskegee unit, until the recent adjustment, has been of junior status. It should be mentioned that by far the largest number of officers in the United States Army come from the reserve corps. Hundreds of white schools have senior units of the ROTC. When an emergency comes, such as the present, the graduates from these schools are called into service to help train the new Army. But with only two colored schools, up until this time, qualifying graduates for commissioners, the number of Negro reserve officers has been all too small.

Mr. Prattis

MUST HAVE MORE OFFICERS

WE must have more Negro officers in the United States Army. The fact that we do not have more is partly the fault of the war department and Army policy and partly the fault of the race. The Army does not want too many Negro officers. So far as the Army is concerned, Negro officers are a problem. All the stuff you hear about the incompetence of Negro officers and of Negro soldiers preferring white officers is a lot of baloney.

Negro officers are not wanted because of the social ramifications in the Army and because they would be a menace to the Jim Crow setup in the Army. Negro officers would seek to use the golf courses, the tennis courts, the polo fields; would be entitled to membership in the hinkty officers' clubs. Negro officers would challenge the disposition to slot Negro soldiers into undesirable grooves based on race.

HAVE RIGHT TO PREPARE

BUT we must not let the attitude of the War department and of the Army stop us. We have the right to prepare for careers in the Army. In the past, we have been content to see men largely unprepared fill the ranks of the 24th and 25th Infantry regiments and the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry regiments. One reason more these men have not risen from the ranks to officer status has been the fact that so many of them were not prepared, although it must be admitted that even if they had been prepared the way would not have been as easy for them as for whites. But more of our boys can afford to put the War department on the spot by preparing themselves. It is noted that the War department has planned to regulate the number of students in the senior course at Tuskegee. That is a part of the old diabolical plan to control the number (few) of Negro officers.

THE point I wish to make, however, is that we must take full advantage of the course now opened at Tuskegee. More, we must demand that the War department lift the restrictions at Tuskegee, and we must urge every Negro school which can qualify to seek reserve corps units to prepare Negro youth for commissions in all branches of the Army. That is the next constructive step. Negroes who go to white schools in the North must also join these units and stick through until they get their commissions. Once they have their commissions and keep themselves in good standing, the Army will have to use them in some way.

Leaders of our major national organizations might well come together at this time to consider ways and means of increasing the number of senior reserve corps units in our schools. It is doubtful that we are ever going back to the small army we had before this emergency. The Negro still has a right to insist that no matter how large or how small the army may be, he deserves his proportionate share of officers and men. They may give us the men, but we'll have to fight and plan for the officers. Now is the time to begin planning.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Housing Unit at Tuskegee

30 Homes for Men Attached To Air Base

WASHINGTON.—Federal Works Administratior John M. Carmody has approved a site for the construction of 30 dwellings to provide housing facilities for the families of enlisted and civilian personnel attached to the air base which the army is building near Tuskegee, Ala., to retain Neggro officers and enlisted men.

The project site is a five-acre tract which the Federal Works Agency will lease from Tuskegee institute. It is adjacent to Tuskegee institute and Greenwood Village, with frontage on Franklin Road. The site is about three miles from the city of Tuskegee and six miles from the air base.

The project will be built under the supervision of the Defense Housing Division of the Federal Works Agency. It is proposed to employ a Negro architect to prepare the plans and specifications.

A recent survey of housing facilities in Macon county indicated that few houses are available for occupancy. The Defense Housing Coordinator has recommended the construction of 55 dwellings by private building agencies for the families of noncommissioned officers, in addition to the Government defense housing project of 30 dwellings.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

The Tuskegee Institute Singers, who recently gave a concert for the officers and men of the 366th Infantry at Fort Devens, Mass.

Frank P. Chisholm, field secretary of the institute and business manager of the singers, accompanied the group and made a brief talk.

TUSKEGEE WORKERS HOLD STUDY CLINIC

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Sept. 11.—President F. D. Patterson opened the second all-institute conferance of Tuskegee institute workers Septemper 8 with warm words of greeting to returning members of the staff and welcome to the new members. President Patterson also presented Dr. E. V. Hollis, who represented the Commission on Teacher Education of the American Council on Education, as consultant.

Dr. I. A. Derbigny explained the organization and procedure of the all-institute conference. For further assistance on the problem of student guidance, Rev. H. V. Richardson and Mrs. J. P. Guzman took special work at Chicago university during the summer. J. J. Flood, completing the work for his master's degree in personnel work at the University of Michigan, concentrated on records and counseling.

Reports from these members, in addition to contributions from E. H. Adams, dean of men, and from Alonzo J. Davis, specialist in psychology, were highlights of the conference.

Much interest centered around the new and revised practices in labor, reported by L. A. Raab; in work opportunities, reported by Lloyd Isaacs; in registration and admission, reported by A. L. Turner.

The revision of course content in the light of changing objectives and student needs in the field of biology, English, mathematics, history, industrial arts and home economics was discussed by Misses Willie Deloney and Bennie Maye Ware, Mrs. Willie C. Davis, Harry Romm, J. E. Fuller, Robert D. Reid and Withro McEnge.

The subject of encouragement and development of creative abilities among students was presented by G. L. Washington and Dr. J. Max Bond. Informative reports were made on dormitory conditions, fraternities and sororities by Lloyd Isaacs and Dr. Russell Brown.

Dr. E. V. Hollis, co-ordinator, in his summary of the conference, commended Dr. I. A. Derbigny, chairman, and the members of the planning committee for the smooth running of the conference. It was unanimously voted to make the all-institute conference a permanent part of the school calendar.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Many Faculty Changes Announced at Tuskegee

SEP 12 1941

Mrs. Antoinette Cohen New Registrar Succeeding A. L. Turner Who Resigned

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Many faculty changes were announced by President Frederick D. Patterson in his opening address to the faculty at the all-institute conference luncheon Tuesday, Sept. 9.

"In these days of unprecedented stress and upheaval, I cannot insist too strongly upon the importance of loyalty and confidence in the present program of Tuskegee institute, as well as reverence for its history and traditions," the president said.

SEP 12 1941

The faculty pledged approval by hearty rounds of applause at the conclusion of this statement. "What Booker T. Washington described," President Patterson continued, "in his last chapel talk to faculty and students as "team, work" is the way I interpret your response." Attractively bound copies of "team work" were luncheon souvenirs.

Concerning faculty changes President Patterson said:

"In keeping with the necessity to tighten up our formal program made necessary by normal growth, together with the increasing demand for work opportunities, and the almost simultaneous shrinkage of available income, an important step is being taken to clarify the relationship that exists between the productive and educational side of our work.

"Mr. Lloyd Isaacs, because of his familiarity with productive activities at Tuskegee and his outstanding training in the field of business, is being asked to assume the duties of director of productive activities.

"Mr. Isaacs' former position as treasurer will be filled by Luther H. Foster Jr., who in addition to sound training in the field of business, is competently prepared in educational administration.

"It is felt that this reorganization of the program will clarify our work in such away as to justify the confidence of donors and friends who insist upon sound procedure in both educational and business practices incident to the operation of the institution."

SEP 12 1941

Other faculty changed include the appointment of Timothy Jones to head the electrical division. Mr. Jones succeeds William Childs Curtis who has been promoted to assistant director of school of mechanical industries. This promotion followed the appointment of G. L. Washington, the director, to serve as civilian, director of the army air corps detachment.

Henry R. Jerkins returns to the school of education as professor of English and head of debating. Charles M. Brooks, A. M. in economics from Columbia joins the social science staff of the school of education. Mr. Brooks succeeds Hollis Price who has accepted the office of dean at LeMoyne college.

Mrs. Antoinette Cohen becomes acting-registrar with the resignation of A. L. Turner to join the law faculty of North Carolina College for Negroes at Durham. John H. Smith assumed the duties of assistant to President Patterson on July 1.

Mr. Smith has lived at Tuskegee institute during the years he served as office manager and accountant for the Federal Resettlement and Land-use Project in Macon county under Project Manager Thomas H. Roberts, now with the Washington office, personnel division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The aviation program headed by G. L. Washington has been enhanced by the army training program, which is now well underway, and special defense program supported by state and federal fund.

Negro Labor News
Houston, Texas

Tuskegee Tops Last Year's Number In Enrollment

SEP 6 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (ANP)—The outlook for 1941-41 enrollment for Tuskegee Institute has topped that of last year the registrar announced Thursday. The heavy increase in students for the school of mechanical industries is due, President Patterson states, to the success of the interne plan and to the defense program with a variety of offerings in various phases of aero-mechanics.

National defense is probably responsible too for the numbers of students interested in agriculture. Director Otis states that the prompt placement of Tuskegee graduates in the agricultural setup of the FSA and the extension service has encouraged the high enrollment in agriculture.

Enrollment in the school of education has been stimulated by a new series of 100 or more scholarships for students interested in teaching elementary and junior high school. These scholarships have been made available through the generosity of interested friends.

Fifty scholarships will go to old Tuskegee undergraduates who have made an everage of B or better during their years in the school of education.

SEP 6 1941

Another 50 scholarships have been made available for graduates from accredited high schools. The lucky students must have maintained a B or better average during the high school years. These scholarships afford $50 each for monthly living expenses.

SEP 6

The announcement comes from the Tuskegee Scholarship Committee of which A. L. Turner is chairman, that these scholarships will not preclude their lucky holders from any additional self-help employment including NYA.

Marion, Ala., Standard
September 25, 1941

NEW HIGHWAY MAPS OFF PRESS

New Edition Proclaimed As Best Published To Date By State

INFORMATION VARIED

MONTGOMERY—First copies of the official State Highway Map Folder for 1942 have been received from the printer by the State Highway Department which this week, will begin their distribution throughout Alabama and the Nation.

Department map-makers and artists believed the ultimate had been achieved in road information and color-photography eye appeal in turning out the 1941 folder. After looking over the product for 1942, however, they frankly admit it surpasses its predecessor and exceeds in both utility and appearance, their most optimistic expectations. The new color combination is silver on blue.

Replacing the natural color photograph of the Highway Department Building which appeared on the cover of the 1941 map-folder, is one of the beautiful and stately capitol building. On the reverse cover is reproduced in natural color, a photo of one of Alabama's lovliest and shapeliest daughters, clad in shorts and sweater, poised on the bowsprit of one of the pleasure yachts that abound in Mobile Bay and adjacent waters—waving her head-scarf and smiling jaunty greeting.

Other natural-color photographs reproduced on the map cover, include an entrancing panorama shot of the famous Fort Payne Valley, Ross Hall at Auburn, the Edmund Pettus Bridge at Selma, the Alexander home at Tuskegee, Gorgas Memorial Library at the University, Pulpit Rock and Mirror Lake in Cheaha State Park, training "ships" on the line for a take-off at Maxwell Field, a State Highway Patrolman and his squad-car, an open-hearth furnace in operation in the Birmingham District, turning out steel for defense, and Tompkins Hall at Tuskegee Institute. The pictures are grouped about a centre panel in which is displayed a detailed scenic map of the State done in a variety of colors, and illustrative of what the various sections of Alabama are most noted for.

One of the most striking new features of the 1942 map-folder, is the special mileage chart. Using it as a guide the accurate distance between any of the principal cities and towns of Alabama, can be determined in a matter of seconds. This chart will prove useful to motorists, tourists, travelers and business men, in many ways, it is believed.

More attention is also given in the new folder, to the important fact that Alabama is the Highway Cross-Roads of the Southeastern States. A unique, separate map, shows not only where the principal highway trunk routes of the Southeast intersect in Alabama, but points to which these routes extend in all sections of the country beyond Alabama's boundaries. A glance at this separate map in the center of which flies "Old Glory," fully explains why the War Department has formally designated 1,500 miles of Alabama highways, as Strategic Highways.

Two detail maps, showing the routes of principal highways through cities of Anniston and Tuscaloosa, are added to those of Montgomery, Birmingham, Mobile and Gadsden, appearing in the 1941 folder.

With the 1942 highway map of the State, which takes up practically all of the space on the reverse side of the folder, spread out beside the map for 1941, it immediately becomes apparent how paving along with all other work, has been speeded up within the past year, indicated by the broad red lines extending from the 1941 limits, in every direction, filling up long-existing gaps and pushing deep into communities and sections where they have never appeared before.

Flanking the map is a list of every single city, town and village in the State, with key symbols which with reference to guide numbers on the margin makes it easy to locate them with a minimum of time and effort. Reproductions of principal traffic signs to be encountered along Alabama's highways enables the traveler to identify them and their significance instantly. State and National Park areas are clearly marked, as are Highway Patrol Stations and First Aid Stations as well as Airports.

Principal rivers and other streams, main county roads and railroads are plainly shown and a legend appearing to the left and at the bottom of the map gives full information as to the type of road surface to be encountered everywhere on the Highway System.

The entire folder, including the Highway Map, separate detailed maps, pictures, decorations and all the other information it contains—is the product of many months of hard and conscientious work by Albert Kraus, Senior Cartographer of the Highway Department.

A total of 206,000 of the 1941 maps were printed, but so great and widespread was the demand for them, that by the time the advance copies of the 1942 folder arrived, available remaining copies of the 1941 edition had dwindled to the vanishing point. Anticipating an even greater demand for the 1942 edition, the Highway Department has ordered 282,500 printed.

Copies of the 1942 Highway Map Folder may be obtained on request by postcard or letter, or by calling personally, at 110 State Highway Department Building, Montgomery, Alabama.

18y-1941

Appeals For Aid To Share Croppers And Day Laborers On Farms Who Suffer

Office of the President, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama
November 1, 1941

To the Editor
Dear Sir:

We hope you may be willing to publish the following letter in an issue of your publication:

"Despite the increase in price for cotton, tenants, sharecroppers and day laborers on farms in many sections of the southeastern states are still without adequate security against suffering and privation during the coming winter.

"A new low in cotton production caused by the worst destruction by the boll weevil in a decade directly affects income. Thousands of tenants and sharecroppers have been reduced to the status of day laborers with uncertain employment which means no customary Fall "settling up". Active male members of rural families have been lured to urban centers by rumors of "jobs opening up" in defense industries, only to find that, because of lack of skills, they cannot qualify, thus reducing farm output of food and feed products with no compensating increase in income.

"Without understanding of the economic misfortune which has overtaken their parents, children in these homes face a drab and cheerless Christmas morning. Instead of laughter to greet the emptying of gift-laden stockings hanging beside the mantel, perhaps there will be no stockings to hang and no fire underneath the mantel to bring warmth and kinship with other more fortunate children.

"At a time like the present, it is all the more proof of our Christian fortitude and a test of our democracy that we, in America, can share cheer with suffering children in Europe as well as with those in our own country who are innocent victims of adversity.

"For many years Tuskegee Institute has been privileged to be a medium through which devoted friends in all parts of the country have sent gifts direct to such homes. Experienced members of our staff whose regular activities take them into remote rural areas visit many homes where our human reserves for national defense are greatly impaired by inadequate diets, insufficient clothing and miserable shelter. They know where the need is most acute, and distribution of gifts is made by them.

"We therefore renew our appeal for donations of clothing, books, toys, candy, pictures, etc. Some friends prefer to send money with which to purchase gifts and in such instances the donation is spent as directed.

"Packages and letters may be addressed to: F. D. Patterson, President, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama."

Very truly yours,
F. D. Patterson
President

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Duke of Windsor Talks With F. D. Patterson At New York Conference

The Two Men Confer for Half-Hour In Suite at Waldorf-Astoria; Ask Royal Couple to Visit in Alabama

NEW YORK — (ANP) — The Duke of Windsor, traveling in this country as the governor of the Bahamas, conferred for a half hour here Thursday afternoon with Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, in the Waldorf Astoria suite of the former English king and his wife, during which time he promised that he would visit the famous institution within a month or so, probably by plane.

William Jay Schiefflin, chairman of the Tuskegee board of trustees, accompanied Dr. Patterson on the visit to the duke for the purpose of seconding the invitation that was to be extended to make the trip to Alabama. The trustees had met earlier that day.

The conversations covered the full range of Negro education in the Bahamas, a thing in which the duke was represented to hold more than a casual interest. The problems of industrial relations in the islands also came in for comment, it was said.

Duke Has Wide Knowledge Of Negro Education System

The duke was said to have shown a wide knowledge of Negro education, and to have expressed the desire to pattern the program in the islands along the lines of Tuskegee. For sometime now a large building in Nassau has been vacant. The feasibility of adapting this structure to the educational needs of the island by equipping it with adequate facilities and an experienced staff was also considered.

Dr. Patterson mentioned the fact that for quite a while now G. L. Washington, director of the school of industry at Tuskegee, has served as a consultant on Negro education to the government in the Bahamas having outlined for them a workable program of improvement. He is continuing in the capacity.

At present, the noted educator revealed, there are about a dozen exchange students from the Bahamas matriculating at Tuskegee. In the summer courses many more are generally enrolled. The hope is that with the knowledge and training these young people acquire at the institute, along with the professional advice and active support of competent faculty members, notable success for the undertaking might well be envisioned this far in advance.

"The islands are very much in need of a program of industrial education," Dr. Patterson quoted the former monarch as saying. "Of course, there has been some beginning but nothing of any great extent. We intend to change this by introducing a sound program with competent persons to manage it. We want to have the best and most practical training for our Negroes.

Island Educational Plan Will Be Patterened After Tuskegee

When the duke visits Tuskegee, it will be for the purpose of obtaining first-hand knowledge of just how that famous plant operates. He will inspect the school's facilities and meet its faculty. He will discuss with its officials its program and the manner in which this program can be adapted to the requirements of the Bahamas. Out of this inspection tour and concurrent talks will doubtless evolve the plan of action to be pursued in the islands. In all probability, Mr. Washington will continue as liaison between the English government and Tuskegee, his functions, of course, growing in importance.

Both Dr. Patterson and Mr. Schiefflin found the duke an engaging individual, and were delight to learn of his "great sympathy for the Negro people."

The conference with this member of the British royal family was arranged at the request of Dr. Patterson through Dr. G. Lake Imes of Baltimore, formerly assistant to the president at Tuskegee. Dr. Imes, it is understood, had the cooperation of the British consulate in Baltimore as well as that of the British embassy in Washington.

President Patterson left the city Friday night for Chicago where he attended the meetings of the Commission on Teacher Education, held for four days this week. While in New York, he met also with other members of the Fisk university trustee board.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Soldiers To See Tuskegee, Knoxville

Colored troops at Fort Benning will be furnished free transportation to attend two football games at Tuskegee, Alabama next month according to plans of Major George A. Sossaman, post morale officer.

Military convoys will be provided for troops planning to attend the Knoxville College- Tuskegee game on November 8 and the Lincoln University-Tuskegee game on November 15th.

The trucks will leave the post motor pool at 7:30 A.M. on the day of the games and will return to Fort Benning one hour after the game.

The admission to the game for soldiers in uniform will be forty cents.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

PERSONNEL DIRECTOR GETS M.A. DEGREE

NOV 2 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Oct. 30—J. Julius Flood, personnel director at Tuskegee Institute, has received the Master of Arts degree in Education from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. The degree was conferred at the close of the 1941 Summer school session in August.

J. JULIUS FLOOD

NOV 2 1941

Mr. Flood majored in Student Personnel and Guidance. In addition to his regular duties at Tuskegee Institute as personnel director, Mr. Flood also serves as Placement Officer and director of the Institute Entertainment course. He holds membership in the American College Personnel asociation, the National Vocational Guidance association and the National Institutional Teacher-Placement association. He is also a member of the Kappa Alpha Psi and of Phi Boule of Sigma Pi Phi.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

And Christmas Coming

You know, of course, that cotton prices are much better. And you know that things in the country are improved with some families. Then, too, you know that there are lots of jobs in towns and cities for workers who are not making out so well in the country. So, you may think, there is nothing much to worry about these days when you think of the underprivileged people in the rural regions of the South.

If you do, however, you have another thought coming.

Suppose you were a cotton tenant or share-cropper and the boll weevil got the larger part of your crop. Higher cotton prices would not be such a boon, then. Indeed, despite higher prices you might have little or no cash income. Well, this has been a bad year for boll weevil damage—one of the worst in a long time.

And suppose you went to town and looked for a job and found you were not wanted, because you did not have the required skills. There are plenty of such cases, too.

So, there is still privation in the rural South—and plenty of it. And Christmas is coming, too. It's going to be a lean Christmas for many families. But not as lean as it would be if it were not for the good work of Tuskegee Institute in promoting and sponsoring gifts for such families.

"A new low in cotton production caused by the worst destruction by the boll weevil in a decade directly affects income," Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, says. "Thousands of tenants and share-croppers have been reduced to the status of day laborers with uncertain employment which means no customary Fall 'settling up.' Active male members of rural families have been lured to urban centers by rumors of 'jobs opening up' in defense industries only to find that, because of lack of skills they cannot qualify, thus reducing farm output of food and feed products with no corresponding increase in income."

For years Tuskegee has been receiving gifts from all parts of the country for distribution to these homes for Christmas. The institute's experienced workers know where the needs are greatest.

Clothing, books, toys, candy and such things, and cash for purchases according to direction, are welcome donations for this distribution.

If you want a glow in your heart Christmas morning, you can certainly obtain a warm, satisfying one by contributing to the brightening of the season in some cabin in the South. Any donations may be sent directly to Dr. Patterson at Tuskegee.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

AU Drama Teacher Wins $100

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Owen Dodson, professor of drama at Atlanta University who wrote "Gargoyles in Florida," received first prize of $100 in the first playwriting contest sponsored by the department of drama, school of education and the Commission on Interracial Co-operation, Atlanta.

The second prize of $65 went to Miss Patsy Adaline Graves, West Virginia State College, for her play, "Stick Together Children"; and the third prize of $35 was received by Miss Betty Smith and Robert Finch of Chapel Hill, N.C., for their play, "Early Harvest."

Seventy-two Plays Entered

Seventy-two one-act plays were submitted by contestants from all over the United States.

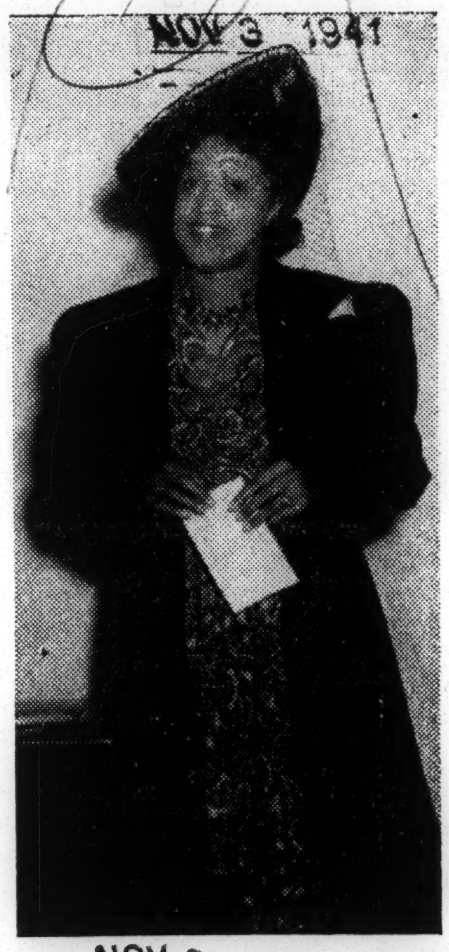
Plays received were centered around the lives and problems of colored persons living in the rural South. The themes were related to economic conditions, living standards, farm tenancy, educational opportunities, religious life, relations with the law, civil and political rights, and interracial sympathy, helpfulness, and co-operation.

The contest was open to the public, including high school and college students, college departments of dramatics, dramatic groups, and other individuals and groups interested in writing plays.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

League Organizer

NOV 3 1941



MRS. E. CLAY of Bristol, Tenn., second vice president of the National Negro Housewives League, was a recent visitor at Tuskegee Institute as guest of the Tuskegee Commercial Association, W. R. Maynard, president. Mrs. Clay is shown addressing a joint meeting of the Commercial Association and women of the Tuskegee Institute community who after her address organized a unit of the Housewives League with Mrs. Phala Kennedy as president and Mrs. R. R. Moton, Jr., as secretary.—(Photo by Polk)

Memphis Tenn. Commercial Appeal
December 28 1941

CHECK GIVEN TO SCHOOL

Negro Founder Of Prentiss Institute Given Fund By J. D. Hayes

PRENTISS, Miss., Dec. 27.—J. E. Johnson, principal and founder of Prentiss Normal & Industrial Institute, negro college here, is in receipt of a check as a contribution to his endowment fund from Jefferson Davis Hayes, grandson of Jefferson Davis, noted Mississippian of many years ago. Mr. Hayes stated that he wanted to contribute something to the school for the reason it was located in Jeff Davis County, named after his grandfather. Professor Johnson is a Pike County negro, who received his education at Alcorn. His father and mother were slaves in their early days. Johnson's wife was educated at Tuskegee under Booker T. Washington. Johnson and his wife cut their school out of a pine forest nearly 40 years ago. No student who has ever attended Johnson's school has ever been arrested. The college's Jubilee Singers are known all over the United States.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Faculty Endorses Payroll Allotment For Defense

DEC 14 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Dec. 13.—Members of the Tuskegee Institute faculty at a special meeting called by President F. D. Patterson here Friday, voted unanimously to endorse the payroll allotment plan as proposed by Jesse O. Thomas, staff assistant, defense savings staff of the U. S. Treasury Department, Washington, who addressed the meeting.

Mr. Thomas, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, stated that Dr. Patterson, who is a member of the State defense bond committee, voluntarily assembled his entire faculty for the specific purpose of affording them an opportunity to receive information respecting the manner in which they may effectively cooperate in the program of national defense through the purchase of bonds and stamps. Many of those present at the meeting made additional purchases of bonds and stamps in response to the speaker's stirring appeal.

Historically, Tuskegee Institute has always been in the forefront in any patriotic movement or any other movement of a community or nationwide character calculated to enhance the welfare of Negroes in particular and other racial groups generally.

Mr. Thomas also stated that presidents of colleges and principals of high schools had been asked to appoint committees of their faculties to facilitate the sale of stamps and bonds on their respective college campuses and school grounds and that every mail is bringing favorable response to this request.

18y-1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Prep Slain By College Riva! For Pretty Coed's Hand

DEC 7 - 1941

DEC 7 - 1941

By Cliff MACKAY
(WORLD Managing Editor)

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala—(SPS)—The tragic aftermath of jitterbug rivalry for the affection of a freshman coed, Robert James, 17, a high school senior of Tuskegee, Ala., was dead from a knife wound in his heart and Macon county police Saturday were holding eighteen-year old John H. Thompson, a sophomore college student of West Palm Beach, Fla., in the county jail without bond in the fatal stabbing Thursday night.

Florida Youth Held In Jail Without Bond

Funeral services for James whom school officials described as one of the best liked students in the high school were held Saturday afternoon. Interment was in Tuskegee.

The event leading up to the slaying were detailed to newspapermen by school officials Saturday.

ROLE OF PRTECTOR

DEC 7 - 1941

Thomspon, it was said, had met the girl, who is also from Florida when both were passengers on the same train en route to enroll for the fall school term. He had immediately assumed the role of protector and had been her escort at various school activities throughout the year.

James an outstanding athlete, a member of both the football and basketball teams, was also attracted to the charming freshman girl whose name was withheld by school authorities.

DEC 7 - 1941

The rivals met at a dining hall during the noon hour the day of the slaying and after a brief exchange of words, were seen to shake hands. Fellow students seeing the act came to the conclusion that the two had reached an understanding.

It was a brief three hours later at the supper hour when Thompson was again seen with the girl. James walked in the dining hall and began talking to her. As she arose to leave, James was seen to grasp her by the arm, asking "May I assist you?"

Thompson stalked out of the room, apparently angered.

Later as James walked toward the library with the girl, Thompson who is an agricultural student, assigned to the floricultural department, called the high school youth to him, witnesses said.

BLADE PENETRATES HEART

Just as James approached, Thompson whipped out a knife, used to prune flowers, and plunged it into the youth's left breast, the blade penetrating his heart.

James staggered to the street and attempted to hail a passing automobile to carry him to the school hospital. After several had passed, a faculty member seeing the wounded boy's condition, placed him in a car and rushed him to the hospital where he died a few minutes after admission.

DEC - 1941

Thompson, officials said, walked to the office of Dean E. H. Adams, where he surrendered, handing him the death weapon.

Later Macon county police were called and he was lodged in the county jail at Tuskegee, without bail to await action of the grand jury, not scheduled to convene until January.

BETTER THAN AVERAGE STUDENT

Thompson it was revealed, was an unusual student and had come to the institution with a fine recommendation from the west Palm Beach high school from which he graduated.

He had maintained better than average grades at Tuskegee, it was disclosed, and was a member of the institute's crack band, playing a clarinet.

DEC 7 - 1941

The jailed youth's mother arrived at Tuskegee Friday night, and attempting to explain her son's action, disclosed that he had often become subject to temperamental fits. He was described as being extremely nurveous and a possessor of a "quick temper."

The slaying was described by president F. D. Patterson Saturday morning as "a most unfortunate incident." He asserted that both the victim and the slayer had never been the subjects of disciplinary action and was at a loss to explain the knife attack.

It was at Dr. Patterson's request that the name of the third member of the triangle, the 17-year old coed, was withheld.

DEC 7 - 1941

FLASH

DEC 1941

The tall—the wise and the Revered heads must fall before the that grim reaper death, which establishes universal democracy in the grave for all men. And so, hundreds and hundreds of white and Negro citizens of Alabama share a distinct loss in the death of Mr. Benjamin Russell of Alexander City, Alabama. Mr. Russell was a trustee of Tuskegee Institute. In Alexander City, the editor of The WEEKLY REVIEW was muchly moved by the fine relationship existing there between the races, and because that fine relationship was based upon the understanding and goodwill which existed between Mr. Russell and Rev. Nunn, a Negro minister of Alexander City, whom the editor has dubbed the Father Divine of the South. Alexander City. P. S. See Editor's Digest.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Patterson Uses Trailer to Solve Tuskegee Problem

DEC 20 1941

JOHN R. PATTERSON, right, of Tuskegee Institute, snapped in one of his trailer offices on a recent visit to Washington, where he is helping colored employees hold their jobs in large hotels. He is seen with his assistant, William Gordon, of Memphis.

DEC 20 1941

WASHINGTON

How he converted what is commonly looked upon as a luxury into a valuable business asset was revealed to the AFRO last week by John R. Patterson of Tuskegee, who visited the capital in one of his trailer offices.

Mr. Patterson, a native of Anacostia, D.C., and a brother of Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee, has been promoting a campaign to distribute the Service Magazine throughout the country to employees of hotels, lunch rooms and restaurants. He has three trailers in operation in various sections of the country.

Has Placement Service

The Service Magazine is edited and designed to increase the efficiency of colored workers and help them hold their jobs against inroads of white domestics and public service workers who have been replacing our group in large hotels. In addition, Tuskegee Institute is carrying on a placement service which helps to find positions for trained workers who meet the standards set up by the magazine editors.

Age-Herald

Birmingham, Ala.

ARMY COMMAND GIVEN CONTROL OF BLACKOUTS

The U. S. Army's Third Interceptor Command, with headquarters in Tampa, Fla., requested Tuesday that no practice blackouts be held except upon its authority and approval, and immediately Gov. Frank M. Dixon responded for Alabama and Col. R. M. Nolan for Birmingham with assurance of full compliance with the request.

Word of the request was received here in a Montgomery dispatch by The Associated Press, which said the message was relayed without elaboration or comment by Col. Irvine F. Belser, acting assistant regional director in charge of civilian protection for the Fourth Corps Area. Alabama defense councils were to be notified accordingly, Associated Press reported.

Meanwhile, as a part of far-reaching preparations of the Jefferson County Civilian Defense Council to insure this district against injury of its residents or damage to property, the council gave assurance that it will provide civilian guards to protect all public works, especially those in which the government is interested directly, against any form of sabotage, Col. R. M. Nolan, executive director of local civilian defense, said.

Reporting steps taken to guard all utilities and defense projects, Col. Nolan announced such an assurance was given to Regional Director Lester N. Marx, of the federal works agency's division of defense public works.

Included on the list of facilities for which the government is seeking protection are hospitals, schools recreation centers, water works sewage disposal plants, power plants, distribution centers, health clinics and other facilities related to defense work.

Also during the day Mayor W. Cooper Green appealed for contributions, large or small, to meet expenses incurred in the operations of the executive staff of the Jefferson County Civilian Defense Council, serving without pay.

Mayor Green said there was no federal, state or local appropriation with which to defray the cost of such needed items as gasoline and incidental expenses of volunteers.

Two more full-time WPA typists were assigned to duty in the council's headquarters Tuesday, it was announced.

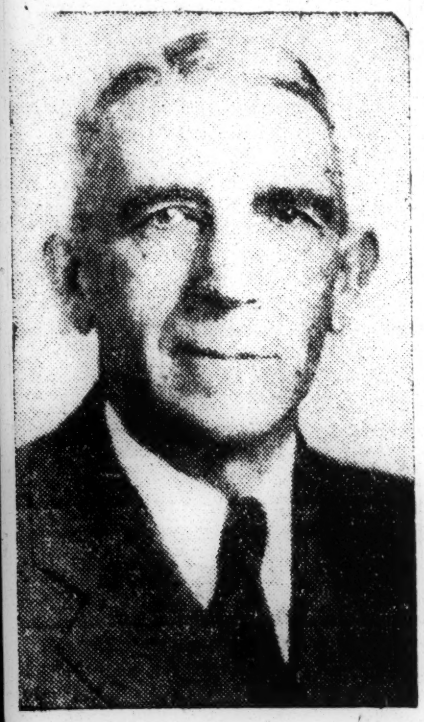
At 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Courthouse examinations on material covered in an air raid warden school will be given for the purpose of selecting instructors for various districts of the county.

Following a meeting Tuesday night at the Courthouse of commanders of American Legion posts in Jefferson County, Legion gatherings for organization of civilian defense cooperative efforts will be held throughout the county at 7 p.m. Friday.

A sidelight in the county's civilian defense preparations is the construction of an air raid warning watch tower on Tennessee Coal Iron & Railroad Company property in the Thomas area. Thetower was started after Mrs. R. F. Whiting, one of the assistant chief observers for the post, reported lack of proper facilities. It almost had been completed Tuesday, it was announced.

The colonel said such procedure would be followed in sounding possible air raid alarms unless and until further notice may be issued.

Leader Expires



Benjamin Russell, widely known Alabama civic and business leader, who died Tuesday.

Benjamin Russell Dies At Age Of 65 After Attack Of Flu

DEC 17 1941

ALEXANDER CITY, Ala., Dec. 16—Benjamin Russell, 65, first president of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, and one of the state's most widely known leaders in the fields of civic progress, industry and business, died Tuesday morning at his home here.

Although Mr. Russell had been kept at home by influenza about two weeks, his condition was not believed serious and he had handled some minor business as recently as last Sunday.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the First Baptist Church of Alexander City, of which he was chairman of the board of deacons. Burial will be in Alexander City Cemetery.

Mr. Russell was born in Tallapoosa County, Nov. 16, 1876, the son of Benjamin F. C. and Elizabeth Amanda Russell. After receiving his early education in the public schools of Alexander City, he attended the University of Virginia and was graduated with a law degree from that university in 1899.

Law Practiced Here

Upon completion of his schooling he moved to Birmingham, where he practiced law for a time. The world of business, however, called him back to Alexander City and here he founded the large textile manufacturing operations that were his chief business interest until his death.

As head of the Russell Manufacturing Company, he initiated numerous business practices that were widely followed by the textile industry. Although the Russell Manufacturing Company was the largest company he headed, Mr. Russell also directed several smaller textile concerns.

He also had extensive holdings in other businesses. He was president of the First National Bank, of Alexander City; president of the Alabama City Outlook Company, publishing a weekly newspaper; owner of the Russell Hotel, and president of the Alexander City Soil Pipe Company. He headed an Alexander City creamery, bakery and farming company.

DEC 17 1941

Throughout his life, Mr. Russell was deeply interested in education, and he contributed liberally of his time and money to the advancement of education. He was a member of the board of trustees of Howard College, from which he held an honorary doctor of laws degree, and was a member of the Howard investment board. He was a member of the board of trustees of Tuskegee Institute.

Fraternity Another Interest

Another of his major interests was Chi Phi Fraternity, of which he became a member while attending the University of Virginia. Through his interest and assistance the chapter house of this fraternity at the University of Alabama was made possible. Several years ago he served as grand alpha (national president) of that fraternity.

A leader in the organization in 1937 of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Russell was elected first president and was re-elected to two additional terms.

Just a few weeks ago he was selected to head the Alabama Research Institute.

Among business men and industrialists of the state, Mr. Russell was regarded as one of the most progressive thinkers on economic affairs. Although he shunned the political field, his friends said he was often consulted by state and national officials on governmental problems.

Despite his considerable wealth, Mr. Russell went daily to his modest office in the rear of the First National Bank, and despite the numerous companies he headed, he maintained a lively interest in even the smallest details of the operation of each.

DEC 17 1941

Time Given To Farming

Mr. Russell had a deep interest in agriculture and in recent years he spent much time toward improving the lot of Alabama farmers.

He had extensive lumber operations and was one of the foremost advocates of forest conservation in Alabama. He also was a pioneer advocate of good roads to serve citizens of the state and also to attract tourists.

For more than 30 years his brother, Thomas C. Russell, has been mayor of Alexander City, and all of Mr. Russell's immediate survivors are residents of Alexander City. They are:

The widow, the former Miss Roberta McDonald, of Athens; three sons, Benjamin C., Thomas D. and Robert A. Russell; a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Russell Alison; a brother, Thomas C. Russell and a sister, Mrs. Sallie Thomas.

Several grandchildren also survive.

RULES GIVEN FOR ALARM

How would you recognize an air raid alarm in Birmingham?

From the description of the planned procedure for giving the alarm, there's probably little likelihood that residents of this immediate vicinity will fail to recognize the warning as such, Col. R. M. Nolan, executive director of the Jefferson County Civilian Defense Council, said this:

All sirens—on fire engines, at plants and wherever else available—would sound for five seconds, lapse momentarily into silence, sound five more seconds, lapse again, and repeat that procedure as long as deemed advisable. If plausible, radio stations also would broadcast the warning.

The all-clear signal would be one long, continuous blast by all the sirens, said Col. Nolan.

Advertiser

Montgomery, Ala.

HE BUILT WELL

With an energy and imagination which were the awe of all who knew him, Benjamin Russell spent more than 40 years translating Alabama's raw resources into goods and services.

In a State with an abundance of human and natural resources, his mission in life was to combine the two in enterprise which created opportunity.

DEC 17 1941

He was a capitalist in the broadest sense of the word, a man whose fertile mind saw possibilities all around him. He was a native of the State he did so much to develop. He saw more in his work than the creation of enterprise for personal gain. To him a factory symbolized jobs, opportunity for people, better schools, better churches, better towns and cities.

Considering the number of enterprises which he built and directed personally, it was always surprising that he gave so freely of his time and energy to developments outside his immediate field of interest.

He was a prime mover in the organization of the Alabama Chamber of Commerce, turning over the presidency of the organization only after it had become firmly established and its success assured. He consented to become president of the recently-organized Alabama Research Institute—another project in which he was a pioneer—because those interested insisted that its success would be guaranteed if he did so.

His presidency of the reasearch organization was typical of the enterprises in which he became interested. Others naturally turned to him for leadership, and there is no record of his having turned down any reasonable request upon his time or resources.

DEC 17 1941

His energies were not limited to the State's economic life. He had a continuing interest in education, a field in which his service on the board of trustees of Howard College and Tuskegee Institute are but two examples. He had a constant influence upon young men, especially the membership of his college fraternity, Chi Phi, which he served as national president a few years ago.

DEC 17 1941

Although his interests in recent years have gone beyond the boundaries of Alabama, his civic activities and services in Alexander City were sufficient to occupy the full time of a lesser man.

Alabama needs more men with the qualities of Ben Russell. It needs more men of his vision and zeal. And because of Ben Russell the path has been made easier for others to come. Even so this State is not likely to have again a man embracing such abilities in such quantities. He was a mighty workman in the building of Alabama. And he built well.

18y-1941

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Duke of Windsor Wants A Tuskegee In Bahama Islands

NEW YORK — A second Tuskegee Institute, patterned closely after the famous agricultural and industrial school founded in Alabama by the late Dr. Booker T. Washington, will rise at Nassau, seat of the government of the Bahamas, as soon as permitted by world conditions.

This pledge was made by the Duke of Windsor during the course of a forty-minute conference last Thursday afternoon with Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee. As result of their meeting, the Duke accepted an invitation to visit Tuskegee before returning to the Bahamas, where he is serving as governor, but he later was forced to cancel the trip, Tuskegee announced Monday.

The Duke and his Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, have three more weeks on their American itinerary, a member of the Duke's secretariat said last weekend.

As far as could be ascertained, only one outsider sat in on the momentous meeting here. This was Dr. William Jay Schiefflin white, chairman of the Tuskegee board of trustees, who accompanied Dr. Patterson to the royal suite in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel for the purpose of seconding the latter's invitation.

The Duke was described as being "mildly astonished" when told that he could make at least part of the now abandoned trip by air in one of the school's own commercial planes with a Tuskegee-trained student at the controls.

AWARE OF PROBLEM

According to the closely studied answers emanating from the Duke's suite, the former British monarch surprised his visitors in turn by his conversational knowledge of the so-called American Negro problem.

Early in the conversation he evinced his interest in agricultural and industrial training and revealed that he had read large packets of literature on the systems in vogue at schools like Tuskegee and Hampton.

Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson informed his royal host, is operated largely on endowment funds, with student tuition fees providing about 25 per cent of the annual budget. The Duke revealed in this connection that the "experimental Tuskegee" which he was planning for the Bahamas would be largely sustained by government appropriations.

TUSKEGEEAN LOANED

It was later revealed that G. L. Washington, director of the school of industry at Tuskegee, had been loaned to the government of the Bahamas earlier this year to serve as a consultant on agricultural and industrial education.

It was further revealed that a start had already been made in industrial education in the islands, but nothing to compare with the program contemplated. It was the Duke's opinion that the islands' agricultural resources were practically untapped.

The trip to Tuskegee will enable the Duke to see just how this famous plant is operated and to decide for himself just how its program can best be adapted to the requirements of the islands.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

Conditions In Bahamas Aired

Royal Visitor Plans To See Famous Alabama Institution

The Duke of Windsor, Governor of the Bahamas, conferred for a half-hour here Thursday afternoon with Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, in his Waldorf-Astoria suite, during which he promised that he would visit the famous institution within a month or so, probably by plane.

William Jay Schiefflin, chairman of the Tuskegee board of trustees, accompanied Dr. Patterson on the visit to the Duke for the purpose of seconding the invitation that was to be extended to make the trip to Alabama.

The conversations covered the full range of Negro education in the Bahamas, a thing in which the Duke was represented to hold more than a casual interest. The problems of industrial relations in the islands also came in for comment, it was said.

The former King Edward VIII was said to have shown a wide knowledge of Negro education, and to have expressed the desire to pattern the program in the islands along the lines of Tuskegee. For some time now a large building in Nassau has been vacant. The feasibility of adapting this structure to the educational needs of the island by equipping it with adequate facilities and an experienced staff was also considered.

Dr. Patterson mentioned the fact that for quite a while now G. L. Washington, director of the School of Industry at Tuskegee, has been serving as a consultant on Negro education to the Government in the Bahamas, having outlined for them a workable program of improvement.

At present, said Dr. Patterson, there are about a dozen exchange students from the Bahamas matriculating at Tuskegee. In the Summer courses many more are generally enrolled. The hope is that with the knowlodge and training these young people acquire at the institute, along with the professional advice and active support of competent faculty members, notable success for the undertaking might well be envisioned this far in advance.

"The islands are very much in need of a program of industrial education," Dr. Patterson quoted the former monarch as saying. "Of course, there has been some beginning but nothing of any great extent. We intend to change this by introducing a sound program with competent persons to manage it.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Appointed A Trustee Of Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, announced this week the election of Archie A. Alexander, Des Moines, Iowa, to the trustee board of Tuskegee institute. Alexander was elected at the fall meeting of the board on October 23 in Ney York.

Alexander has been, since 1914, president of the firm of Alexander and Repass, a nationally known construction company. This company has to its credit several million dollar jobs that include sewage systems, railroad bridges and street paving, largely in the middle west.

In the late spring of 1941 Alexander was awarded the contract to build an airfield for Tuskegee institute, the field on which Tuskegee institute is now fulfilling a contract to the U. S. army air corps to give elementary military flying to Negro cadets training for the 99th Pursuit Squadron.

Mr. Alexander received his formal training at the University of Iowa and London university, London, Eengland. He was graduated from the School of Engineering, University of Iowa in 1912 and in 1925 was awarded a degree in civil engineering from the same university.

Gadsden, Ala., Times
October 20, 1941

Duke To Visit Tuskegee

Facing a Negro problem of no small proportions in the Bahamas, the Duke of Windsor does well to arrange a visit to Tuskegee before returning to Nassau to resume his governmental duties.

At no place has the Negro question been approached with more intelligence that the great Alabama institution founded by Booker T. Washington, whose practical theories of education have been carried out with such success throughout many years.

Booker Washington had no patience with any suggestions of social equality. He was proud of being a member of the Negro race and preached the doctrine that similar pride should be felt by every worthy member of the race, while every effort should be made to impart to the race elements that would justify pride.

He believed that the way for the members of his race to prosper in material things and to enjoy the increasing confidence of the people of opposite color was to be useful; to develop as fully as possible the capacity for performing constructive tasks, and to this end he devoted his talents while striving to impart proper appreciation of moral and spiritual values.

The good thus performed by Booker Washington, and carried on by his successors, has been of incalcuable benefit to the Negro race as a whole and of great value to the South. By seeing what has been done and how it was done the Duke of Windsor can learn much that may be of value in handling the racial problems by which he is confronted.

The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

Tuskegee Studies Care of Infantile Paralysis

(Special to the Daily Worker)

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Nov. 16.—A post-graduate course in the care of infantile paralysis has been completed here at the new Infantile Paralysis Center, patterned after the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, to which Negroes are not admitted. The Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis Center is under the sponsorship of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Dr. John W. Chenaut is director.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Noted Negro Engineer Is Made Trustee Of Tuskegee

NOV 17 1941

Archie Alexander of Des Moines Erected Air Field

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE — (SNS)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, announced today the election of Mr. Archie A. Alexander, Des Moines, Iowa, to the Trustee Board of Tuskegee Institute. Mr. Alexander was elected at the fall meeting of the Board in New York.

Mr. Alexander has been since 1914, president of the firm Alexander and Repass, a nationally known constructon company. This company has to its credit several million dollar jobs that include the city sewage systems, railroad bridges and street paving, largely in the middle west.

In the late spring of 1941 Mr. Alexander was awarded the contract to build an airfield for Tuskegee Institute, the field on which Tuskegee Institute is now fulfilling a contract to the U. S. Army Air Corps to give elementary military flying to Negro cadets training for the 99th Pursuit Squadron.

NOV 17 1941

Mr. Alexander received his formal training at the University of Iowa and London University, London, England. He was graduated from the School of Engineering University of Iowa, in 1912, and in 1925 was awarded a degree in Civil Engineering from the same University.

Tuskegee's new trustee has made many trips to Europe studying the engineering methods in England and on the continent. His achievements in the business world received national recognition in 1927 when he was recipient of the Harmon Award.

Mr. Alexander's achievements and worth have not gone unnoticed by his home state. He is chairman of the Local Draft Board for his District in Des Moines, is chairman of the Negro Division of the State Republican organization of Iowa.

This busy engineer also finds time to serve the Supreme Liberty

Anniston (Ala.) Times
October 17, 1941

The Duke At Tuskegee

The esteemed Lee County Bulletin of Auburn is all steamed up over the possibility of glimpsing "the fabulous Duke and Duchess of Windsor" when that gilded pair make their announced visit to nearby Tuskegee Institute.

We insist that the looking of Lee Countians and of all others at the Duke and his Duchess should be the kind of look one gives to museum pieces—and not very honored museum pieces at that.

At the time he was dropped from his throne we deeply sympathized with the Duke, in our innocence believing that he was frowned upon because of democratic tendencies. But events since that time have changed our view.

At no time has the royal couple shown interest in anything but fashion and comfort. When his nation is in deadly peril he is in a wonderfully safe spot. He has shown neither the courage, the humanity, nor the independence that we had credited him with, and we shall have no regrets if he passes up his visit to Tuskegee. The gesture smacks of no honesty.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

MacLean Elected Head Of College Land Grant Ass'n

NOV 22 1941

HAMPTON INSTITUTE, Va.—Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president of Hampton institute, was elected president of the Negro Land Grant College association Thursday at the concluding session of the nineteenth annual conference, succeeding Dr. Arthur Howell, head of the group for many years.

Other officers elected were Dr. G. L. Harrison, president of Langston university, state school for Negroes, Langston, Okla., vice president; Dr. R. B. Atwood, president of Kentucky State College for Negroes, Frankfort, secretary and Dr. John M. Gandy, president of Virginia State college, Petersburg, Va., treasurer.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

OPEN CARVER ART ROOMS

NOV 17 1941

Ceremonies To Take Place Monday, 2 P.M.

TUSKEGEE (ANP) —Invitations have been mailed for the opening of the Carver Art rooms Monday, November 17 at 2 P. M. at the George Washington Carver museum, Tuskegee institute.

Dr. George W. Carver has been busy during the past several weeks classifying and selecting canvases that have been rolled and packed away for nearly half a century. The aged artist has cleaned every canvas himself. Not only that, he has personally supervised the construction of the frames. When it came to putting the pictures into the frames he trusted no hands but his own. The pictures have been hung by his assistant, Austin W. Curtis, under Dr. Carver's supervision.

Featured in this significant exhibit are many paintings that were done nearly 50 years ago. Four of these, "Yucca, Angnstifolia and Cactus," "Vase of Roses and Gladioli," "Palonais" and "Dutch Wharf" were exhibited at Cedar Rapids, Ia., December 29, 1892. From this exhibit by Iowa artists, paintings were selected to be exhibited at the World's Columbian exposition in Chicago (opening May 1, 1939).

All four of the Carver paintings were among the 50 selected. The struggling young Negro student was able to spare money for framing and shipping only one "Yucca and Catcus". This canvas was given honorable mention by the judges.

NOV 17 1941

These are but a few of the interesting features in store for those who visit the Carver Art rooms during National Art week.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee Grads Stage Fashion Show Saturday

By DANIEL J. FAULKNER

TUSKEGEE VIA CHICAGO—According to reports received here early this week, Mrs. Una Van Zandt, energetic member of the Chicago-Tuskegee club and member of the class of '14, was loudly acclaimed by more than three thousand persons who witnessed her fashion show at Tuskegee Institute Saturday, November 15. The huge crowd consisted of many homecoming guests from all parts of the country who journeyed to the Alabama institution to witness the Tuskegee-Lincoln game in the Alumni Bowl, which was won by Tuskegee.

The event, which was the first of its kind to be staged by an alumnus, took place in the beautiful Logan Hall where the Royal Swingsters, the school orchestra, played soft melodies as a brigade of campus beauties modeled uniquely designed creations for formal and informal attire for 1942. The feature of the evening which was modeled by Miss Doris Wilson, a senior from Pittsburgh, Pa., was a four-way ensemble of baby blue and black, which with minor alterations and shifts, became suitable for sports wear, formal dress, party attire, and everyday wear. Miss Dorothy Howard, Miss Tuskegee of '41 also took turns in modeling the gorgeous creations.

Mrs. Van Zandt indicated that she will remain at the school for several days to visit her son, Elict, a member of the Golden Tigers, then visit Montgomery, Mobile, Birmingham, and other points South before returning to the Windy City about the first of December.

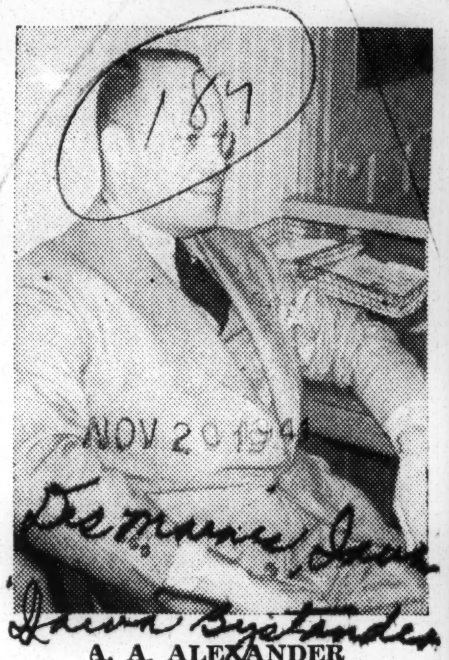
Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

W. E. B. DuBois Lectures At Tuskegee Institute

MAR 8 1941

TUSKEGEE, March 6 (ANP)—The Lewis Adams lecture series sponsored by the Community Service Foundation of the Tuskegee Institute School of Education, had a most auspicious beginning with Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, famed author, sociologist, and scholar as its lecturer in February.

TRUSTEE



NOV 20 1941

A. A. ALEXANDER

Tuskegee, Ala.—Dr. F. D. Patterson president of Tuskegee institute, announced this week the election of Archie A. Alexander, Des Moines, Ia. to the trustee board of Tuskegee institute. Alexander was elected at the fall meeting of the board on Oct. 23 in New York.

NOV 20 1941

Alexander has been, since 1914, president of the firm of Alexander and Repass, a nationally known construction company. This company has to its credit several million dollar jobs that include sewage systems, railroad birdges and street paving, largely in the middle west.

18y-1941

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Wilberforce Professor Scores Hampton, Tuskegee Training

JAN 11 1941

McMillan Tells Roosevelt Tuskegee and Hampton Have Criminally Neglected Training Negro Youth For Industrial Opportunity—Industrial School Staffs Described as Puppets.

WILBERFORCE, O., Jan. 9 — Industrial training at Hampton and Tuskegee institutes is described as a farce in a long letter to President Roosevelt with which Prof. Lewis K. McMillan, Wilberforce university, greeted the New Year.

Dr. McMillan studied in Germany from 1929 until 1933 and is one of the better known historians of the race.

His letter to President Roosevelt is designed primarily to remove some of the confusion concerning the causes of the present war. He refuses to place full blame for the war on Hitler, Mussolini, Churchill or Chamberlain.

"Mr. President," he writes, "All the causes of the present World war within and between Germany and Italy and Britain are on the very surface of the relations of the United States with her Negro population."

Professor McMillan describes in some detail and at great length the abuses which fourteen million American Negroes suffer in this country and bewails their unpreparedness to take full part in the defense program. Of Hampton and Tuskegee he says specifically:

"Mr. President, you will soon learn what a farce is every industrial institution for Negroes, without exception.

"Tuskegee and Hampton institutes have criminally neglected the high task of training young Negroes for American industrial opportunity.

"The southern state colleges, together with those in border and northern States, manned by fawning puppets, are actually unfitting American Negro youth for American life by wasting their time, filling their heads and hearts with false notions and neglecting to expose them to a meaningful training."

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

JAN 18 1941

Agriculture Scholarship Bequeathed To Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute announced here this week that the trustees had accepted with thanks the bequest made by Mrs. Emma B. Puriton of Androscoggin County, Maine, establishing a scholarship fund, the income of which is to be used in aiding worthy students of Tuskegee institute in the field of agriculture.

Montgomery, Ala. Advertiser
January 13, 1941

Week Of Prayer Held At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., Jan. 12.—"Successful living will never be possible unless we seek it through the Christian way," declared the Rev. William J. Faulkner, to a vast audience of Tuskegee students assembled for the Week of Prayer which closed here Friday night. Throughout the week Dr. Faulkner, who is dean of the chapel at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., spoke to the theme, "Triumphant Living Through Christ."

Capacity audiences which taxed one of the largest auditoriums on the campus assembled each evening to hear the speaker and to share in the stirulating programs. According to Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain of Tuskegee Institute, who arranged and conducted the meetings, this was one of the most remarkable weeks of prayer in the history of the Institute. "A week such as this," Chaplin Richardson stated in an interview, "is convincing evidence that the present generation of college students are not irreligious as is so often said of them. To see young people coming out by hundreds, occupying every available inch of space to share in a prayer meeting is most reassuring."

Rev. Richardson was assisted in the conduct of the services by Rev. Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist Church at the Institute, and Alberta L. Simms, of the Tuskegee Institute Department of Music, as well as by a large number of students who played a major part in the activities of the week.

[illegible] Courier
January 17, 1941

POSTAL FIGURES UP AT TUSKEGEE

Christmas Season Rise Shown By Office At Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Jan. 16—Figures just compiled show an increase in business during the Christmas season in all departments of the Tuskegee Institute postoffice, Postmaster James A. Johnson said.

Compared with the year 1939, the postmaster said the institute post office handled a larger volume of Christmas mail and that it was dispatched with all speed possible consistent with efficient and careful handling. The various divisions of the office show the following increase in business handled as compared with the same period last year: Postal receipts increased 18 per cent, money orders 7.3 per cent, insured parcels 5 per cent, and postal savings 1.3 per cent.

In addition to serving the students, teachers and the wide variety of postal services of the institute, the office also serves the entire Greenwood community adjacent to the institute, and a large number of persons of the Veterans Administration Facility are also patrons of the office.

"I was particularly pleased with the way the entire force worked, day and night, to handle every piece of mail—from the smallest greeting card to the largest parcel—with the greatest possible speed and efficiency," the postmaster said. He also complimented the patrons of the office for their patience and good humor even though they had to stand in the long line for several minutes and await their turn to be served. "I think they are to be congratulated for their fine spirit," he stated.

The institute postoffice was commended recently for the splendid showing made in the handling of the Booker T. Washington commemorative postage stamp. Philatelists from all sections of the country came to the institute at this time to purchase the first day of issue stamp from the all-Negro operated Tuskegee Institute postoffice.

In addition to the postmaster, the staff consists of George W. Clark, assistant postmaster; Larry Robinson, money order clerk; Charles W. Thomas, assistant money order clerk; J. Willard Reed, dispatch clerk, and Edward B. Mack, special delivery messenger.

Mobile, Ala. Press
February 5, 1941

Tuskegee's Movable School Expounds Founder's Ideas

ATLANTA, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The late Dr. Booker T. Washington once said: "Instead of telling the farmer what to do, show him how to do and he will never forget."

That idea expounded in 1906 is still going the rounds today in a movable school truck, under the leadership of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.

Regular Lessons Given

Manned by a home demonstration agent, a farm demonstration agent, and a registered nurse, the vehicle tours Alabama, remaining in each county a week. By means of varied equipment, colored farm families are given regular lessons in improving their living conditions.

Thomas M. Campbell, field agent for the United States department of agriculture, with headquarters at Tuskegee, who came here for a conference of southern colored agricultural extension workers, starting today, told of the work.

Has Definite Aims

"Wherever it visits, the movable school seeks to leave the house and premises whitewashed, to build a new poultry house or repair the old one.

"The workers try to leave hotbeds and cold frames in the garden, to leave the orchard pruned, wormed and sprayed, to leave shuck mats and rag rugs on the floor; and more than all, the movable school endeavors to leave the family thrilled with the attractiveness of an old home made new and ready to carry out any program that may provide for further transformation.

"When once inspired, the farmers show such eagerness to learn that it gives a hopeful outlook to the farming situation; for as extension work develops, I see in it a solution to many problems of the rural districts."

The three-day conference of colored farm leaders brought together supervisors of extension service, teacher trainers of vocational agriculture, colored land-grant college presidents and a representative colored farmer from each of the 15 southern states.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

ANNOUNCES REPRINT OF B.T.W.'S STORY OF NEGRO

FEB 15 1941

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(ANP)—Peter Smith Publishers have announced that Booker T. Washington's "The Story of the Negro—the Rise of the Race From Slavery," has been reprinted. The book has been out of print for many years and has been difficult to obtain. Copies are available at the Peter Smith Publishing Company, 321 Fifth avenue, New York City. The price for the set of two volumes is $5.

Bystander
Des Moines, Iowa

JUL 19 1941

DR. PATTERSON AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington (ANP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, was a White House caller Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Patterson conferred with Mrs. Roosevelt giving a picture of the progress of the 99th Pursuit Squadron and reporting upon other projects in which the First Lady has interested herself.

Selma, Ala. Times Journal
February 27, 1941

Abraham Flexner To Be Speaker At Tuskegee April 6

TUSKEGEE, Fla., Feb. 27—(AP)—Dr. Abraham Flexner, educational philosopher, will deliver the Founder's ay address at Tuskegee Institute April 6, r. F. D. Patterson, president, announced here today.

The annual ceremony honors the memory of Booker T. Washington.

Wilbur J. Hardaway, city councilman of Gary, Ind., will deliver the annual address on April 5. The Institute board of trustees, the John A. Andrews Clinical Society and members of Tuskegee's 28-year reunion class will be among the guests.

E. Saunders Walker of Birmingham, speech and dramatic teacher, will describe activities of his Bucket Theater in rural teaching centers.

Montgomery, Ala Journal
February 27, 1941

Dr. Abraham Flexner To Speak at Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Abraham Flexner, educational philosopher, will deliver the Founder's Day address at Tuskegee Institute April 6, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, announced here today.

The annual ceremony honors the memory of Booker T. Washington.

Wilbur J. Hardaway, city councilman of Gary, Ind., will deliver the annual address on April 5. The Institue board of trustees, the John A. Andrews Clinical Society and members of Tuskegee's 28-year reunion class will be among the guests.

E. Saunders Walker of Birmingham, speech and dramatics teacher, will describe activities of his Bucket Theater in rural teaching centers.

Huntsville, Ala Times
February 27, 1941

State Briefs

TUSKEGEE, Feb. 27—Tuskegee's annual observance of Founder's Day, honoring the memory of Booker T. Washington, world-famous educator, race leader, and patriot, will fall for 1941 on April 6.

Dr. Abraham Flexner, distinguished American educational philosopher and author has accepted the invitation of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute ,to deliver the Founder's Institute, to deliver the Founder's Chapel, Sunday, April 6. at 2 p.m

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Commercial Dietetics Offers Job Opportunities to Youths of Race

Caterers Proud To Get Graduates Says Dr. Patterson

MAR 15 1941

NEW YORK—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said recently that the field of commercial dietetics not only promises splendid job opportunities to colored youth but is today demanding far more young men and women than Tuskegee is able to supply with its present enrollment. With only 140 enrolled in the course, there are facilities for training at least 500 and placing them.

Dr. Patterson was in New York after attending the winter session of the American Teachers Association at Atlantic City. Interviewed at the Hotel Theresa where he is stopping, he directed his remarks to the success of the course in commercial dietetics which was begun at Tuskegee a little over four years ago.

The course, President Patterson says, was organized with suggestions and assistance from the Alabama Hotel Association; and was soon thereafter endorsed by the American Hotel Association

UNUSUAL FEATURES

There are three unusually interesting features about the course, one learned as Dr. Patterson discussed it. These are: The interne plan, with pay of at least $15 a week and board; the cooperative arrangement with employers which Tuskegee maintains; and the virtual financial independence of students taking the course.

Four years are required to complete the course. So far only high school graduates have been admitted to the course. The student spends three months in the class room, and three months on the job, over a period of twelve months. At present, there are young people either permanently employd or holding interneships from eighteen states. There are eight men employed in the dining service of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway. Graduates or internes are now in the services of numerous retaurants, hotels, railroads, and hospitals.

MAR 15 1941

WIDE INQUIRIES

Persons interested in the course at Tuskegee come from many places to interview students and school officials. Just recently, Dr. Patterson says, two ladies came from South Carolina; a gentleman from New Hampshire; and the personnel manager of Grandma's Kitchen, one of Miami, Florida's most famous restaurants.

Lecturers have included such persons as Thomas D. Green president of the American Hotel Asociation; Lucius Boomer of the New York Waldorf Astoria, J. C Hamilton of the Waldorf, as well as leading officials of the National Restaurant Association.

"I am convinced after almost five years of our commercial dietetics course," President Patterson says, "that many fine opportunities await young colored students who are willing to take a professional attitude toward this training.

"Fortunately, the young people that have come to us had a long-time professional attitude toward the kind of service we were trying to train them for. This attitude has helped us and them no little."

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Tuskegee Clinic Set For Apr. 6-11

MAR 15 1941

Health Institute To Feature 13th Annual Session

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The thirtieth annual clinic and the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society will be held at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, Tuskegee Institute, April 6 to 11. One session will be held at the veteran's administration facility adjacent to the institute.

According to Dr. John A. Kenney, charter member and secretary-treasurer of the Society, the 1941 Clinic will offer not only the usual outstanding professional attractions, but several innovations further to extend the benefits of the meeting.

To mention only one, three didactic clinics will be held for one hour each during the afternoon at which time there will be no counter attractions.

MAR 15 1941

PUBLIC HEALTH INSTITUTE

Dr. Kenney has been authorized by Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer of Alabama to announce that a special pre-clinic attraction this year will be a public health institute conducted at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital under the auspices of the State Health Department and the National Tuberculosis Association.

This meeting will be held on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, April 3, 4, 5. The Institute will recess for the Robert R. Moton Memorial exercises on Friday, April 4, and will immediately precede Founder's Day, Sunday, April 6. There will be no registration fee for the Institute.

Three important subjects to be covered during the public health institute are: tuberculosis, the venereal diseases, maternal and infant hygiene. Among the lecturers to conduct the Institute are: Dr. Roderick Brown of Pittsburgh, Pa., who will lecture on tuberculosis; Dr. T. K. Lawless, of Chicago, who will present the subject of syphilis; Dr. C. Leon Wilson of Provident Hospital, Chicago, who will give instruction in obstetrics.

SPECIAL FEATURES

Those who attend the annual clinic will this year have the opportunity to inspect the work and set-up of the new $161,350 infantile paralysis unit of the John A. Andrew Hospital; the maternal service which accommodates over 200 maternity patients annually; the pediatric service; the crippled children's service; the venereal disease service with a travelling clinic carrying examinations and treatments five days a week to patients in every part of the county.

SCHOOL OF MIDWIFERY

By April, first preparations will be under way for the opening of the new School of midwifery conducted conjointly by the Children's Bureau in Washington, the Rosenwald Fund, the Alabama State Department of Health, and Tuskegee Institute. This school of midwifery will be the first of its kind. Its object is to give special training to graduate nurses to fit them for midwifery in the rural districts.

Greensboro, Ga., Herald-Journal
March 28, 1941

Interesting and Helpful

Last Thursday, at the high school building, Dr. Cain, Greene county health physician, accompanied by Dr. Lester M. Petrie, of Gainesville, entertained and instructed a large group of patrons and students with an illustrated lecture on the cause and treatment of tuberculosis.

Two reels were shown, one illustrative of the inception and arrest of this dreadful malady; the other of Tuskegee College. This reel was a semi-drama of life at this famous school, the center of the plot being a young woman who had been rescued from the early stages of the tubercular infection. This picture should go into every community in this county and be carefully studied.

18y-1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

APR 7 - 1941

IN SIXTIETH YEAR

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Sunday, April 6, is Founder's Day at Tuskegee Institute at which time a special program will be rendered for the occasion.

Tuskegee Institute is a co-educational school, founded in 1881 by Booker T. Washington, as a result of an appropriation of two thousand dollars from the Alabama State Legislature at the request of Mr. George Campbell (white) and Mr. Lewis Adams (colored) of the town of Tuskegee for a school to train teachers for Negro schools. Booker T. Washington, the founder served as the first principal until his death November 14, 1915. He was succeeded in 1916 by Robert Russa Moton.

Frederick D. Patterson was inaugurated third president of the Institute, October, 1935, succeeding Dr. R. R. Moton who served as president-emeritus until his death, May 31, 1940. The United States Government honored the Founder by including him as one of the five great educators in the 35 famous American series of commemorative United States Postage Stamps issued in 1940. The stamp bearing the picture of Booker T. Washington is brown and of the ten cent denomination.

EXPANSION OF THE SCHOOL

The early Tuskegee Institute comprised three preparatory grades, C. B. and A, corresponding to grades 5, 6, 7, elementary and 4 years of high school. This organizatich and curriculum more than met the requirements for a certificate to teach school in the State of Alabama.

In 1927 the preparatory and high school curricula were expanded to Junior College. In 1929 further expansion enabled the institute to grant Bachelor of Science Degrees in Agriculture, Home Economics, Education and Mechanical Arts

APR 7 - 1941

In 1936 were added courses in Commercial Dietetics. In 1937 this course was expanded to four years' work, leading to the B. S. Degree. The year 1939-1940, under the Civil Aeronautics Authority, Tuskegee Institute for the first time offered a training course for civilian pilots. In 1936, the preparatory grades were discontinued, confining the work of the Institute to three Academic Units: college (day and night), high school (day only), and the Chambliss Children's House. Tuskegee's great contribution to education has been the program of practical industrial training.

RELIGIOUS SERVICE

Church services are held every Sunday, Vesper Services Sunday and Wednesday which is held in the Institute Chapel with music by the famous Tuskegee Institute Choir and orchestra. The chapel was given by members of the Phelps Stokes family. The Department of Religion conducts Sunday School, YMCA and YWCA and a weekly extension course for rural ministers. The Institute maintains a Department of Records and Research, established in 1909 to collect the disseminate lynching data and information on the economic, social and educational status of the Negro.

MUSIC

APR 7 - 1941

Music has played an important part in the development of Tuskegee Institute from the beginning during the early 90's. A Tuskegee quartet began to carry the story of Tuskegee Institute to the North. The Quintet keeps up this tradition each summer.

HEALTH PROGRAM

Tuskegee Institute's health program heads up at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, the gift of Mrs. Elizabeth Mason of Boston, Mass. Annual clinics started in 1911 and the establishment (Institute Hospital) of the Orthopedic Unit for the care of the crippled children in the state of Alabama. In the spring of 1939 the Infantile Paralysis Foundation made a substantial grant to Tuskegee to build unit for the treatment of Negro infantile paralysis victims and for the training of nurses and doctors.

POST OFFICE AND BANK

In 1836 the Tuskegee Institute Station Post Office was established. The volume of business grew so rapidly in 1904 the postmaster general established the Tuskegee Institute independent third class post office. In 1915 the office was raised to second class. The Tuskegee Institute Saving Bank was incorporated in 1916 with Dr R. R. Moton, president.

Tuskegee, Ala., News
April 17, 1941

ACTIVITIES OF INTEREST FROM TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Tuskegee Institute Trustees Vote $200,000 For Aviation

Dr. William J. Schieffelin, New York City, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Tuskegee Institute, states that the meeting of the Board, April 5 and 6, was one of the busiest in its history. Dr. Schieffelin said the most important decision by the Board was the Resolution to make military flying a part of the educational work of Tuskegee Institute. He said the Board voted unanimously to appropriate $200,000 to purchase and equip a 800 acre field three miles from the campus for the military flying program.

Dr. Schieffelin stated further that the Board had expressed satisfaction that this first opportunity for young tors to serve in pursuit Squadron of the U. S. ny Air Corps was to materialize at Tuskegee Institute. This new unit, he said, was being set up as a result of a nation-wide demand that was stressed at a conference on "The Negro in National Defense" recently held at Hampton Institute, Virginia.

Dr. Schieffelin expressed for the Board appreciation of the fine way President Patterson, faculty, and student body have been able to carry forward the Tuskegee Program despite the slightly curtailed budget.

Choir Praised By Trustees

"Even if the Angel Gabriel spoke now when we have just heard the choir sing "Listen to the Lambs," it would be an anti-climax." This tribute Dr. William J. Schieffelin, chairman of the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees paid to the singing of the Institute Choir at the Sunday Vesper Service. Following a tradition, President F. D. Patterson introduced Dr. Schieffelin to deliver the Sunday night talk.

* * *

Dr. Carver Presents New Drug To Treat Pyorrhea

Dr. George W. Carver presented to the Dental Division of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society in session at Tuskegee Institute this week, a new drug for the treatment of the destructive disease of the gums, pyorrhea.

This new drug Dr. Carver has developed from a formula which has the well-known persimmon as its base. The persimmon, the fruit of a tree which grows wild along the roads and in the fields throughout the South is boiled for its juice, Dr. Carver told the eager Dentists. The juice is combined with other ingredients to form a liquid with strong astringent properties.

The Dentists received the new treatment with enthusiasm and were lavish in their praise of its value and potentialities. The Dental Society is to name certain members of their group to be given a quantity of the new drug for controlled experiments. Records of the cases receiving the treatment are to be returned to Dr. Carver for further study.

* * *

Dr. Walter G. Crump Honored By The John A. Andrew Clinical Society

The John A. Andrew Clinical Society, Tuskegee Institute, opened its twenty-fourth annual meeting, Monday Morning, April 7, on a new high with over a hundred and fifty physicians present, President Spencer D. Dickerson, M. D., Chicago, in the chair. Dr. John A. Kenney, Secretary-Treasurer of the Society introduced Walter G. Crump M. D., honorary president of the Society, head of Flower Hospital New York City, member of the staff of at least a dozen other hospitals and for twenty years a governor of the American College of surgeons.

Dr. Crump, in his unimitable manner, swept the audience with his inspiring and informative paper on "The Sable Race in Medicine." Dr. Crump said in part: "The first recorded history of immunization is the story of an African medicine man who rubbed his warriors with snake serum to protect them from snake bites when they went into the jungles." The white haired rotund little doctor plead for training facilities for more Negro doctors.

"Mentality knows no race line There are one million Negroes in Alabama, but only 100 Negro doctors—and twenty-eight of those are practically on the campus of Tuskegee Institute."

Dr. Crump paid tribute to the late Dr. Dan Williams of Chicago Illinois, who was the first surgeon to perform a successful operation on the human heart, and to the late Dr. C. V. Roman as "the soundest philosopher I have ever known."

Dr. Crump was awarded the first C. V. Roman Medal for distinguished service in medicine at the C. V. Roman Public Health Meeting, Wednesday night in the Institute Chapel. Eugene H Dibble, M. D., U. S. Veterans Facility, presiding, introduced Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute, who made the award. As President Patterson pinned on the gold disk, the audience of 2500 visitors, students and faculty rose to its feet with prolonged applause.

A second feature of the Public Health meeting, and one of great significance was the presentation of a scroll to Mrs. Elizabeth A Mason, who in the interest of Negro Health and because of her great humanitarian spirit gave Tuskegee the John A. Andrew Hospital and Clinic Annex in memory of her grandfather, John A. Andrew, war governor of Massachusetts. Through Mrs Mason's philanthropy, the John A. Andrew Clinics have been made possible. The scroll was presented by John A. Kenney, M. D., director, John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital.

On Tuesday night, the session was held at the U. S. Veterans Facility auditorium Featured speakers were Newdigate M Owensby, M. D., Atlanta, Ga., "Psycho-somatic Disorders;" Charles Prudhomme, M. D., U. S. Veterans Facility, "The Challenge of Mental Disease among Negroes;" W. A. Younge, M. D., St. Louis, "Diagnosis and Treatment of Cardiac Arrythmias;" and Charles F. Sherwin, M. D., St. Louis, "Surgery of the Breast with Special Reference to Good Arm Function after Radical Operations." (with natural color motion pictures.).

Tuskegee, Ala., News
April 17, 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE CELEBRATES TWENTY-FIFTH FOUNDER'S DAY

On April 6th the beautiful chapel was filled with the 2500 friends, faculty, students, and alumni assembled to pay tribute to the man who was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, graduate of the Class of 1921, in the Alumni Address as "our noble Founder, who born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color . . . our great Founder and source of inspiration whose body but not his spirit sleeps in yonder grave, for in the members of the Class of 1921, in tens of thousands who have felt the touch of Booker T. Washington, his spirit marches on."

The line of march, with Captain W. A. Richardson of the Class of 1902 as Marshal of the Day moved from Carnegie Hall at 1:30 p. m. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Dr. G. L. Imes, Founder's Day Speaker, Dr. William J. Scieffelin, chairman of the Board of Trustees, followed by members of the Board, the Executive Council, the reunion class of 1921, alumni and faculty, were escorted by the Institute Band, Capt. F. L. Drye, director, down the campus road to the Chapel, between the open ranks of 1000 blue-uniformed Institute cadets and 600 young women of the college with their long blue capes thrown back to disclose the snow white blouse and blue skirt of the Tuskegee uniforms.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute, presented the principal speaker, Dr. Lake Imes, who effectively set forth the philosophies of Booker T. Washington. Dr. Imes said that Booker Washington held to the idea that the best possible education came through experience, came by doing the thing rather than talking about it. "When asked if he thought education would solve the race problem, Booker Washington replied, 'I don't know; but no problem was ever solved by ignorance.'" To Booker Washington industrial education was not a theory but a very practical solution of intensely practical problems.

Members of the Board of Trustees, Tuskegee Institute, arrived on the campus Friday morning, April 4, for the Annual spring meeting of the Board, and to pay tribute to the late Robert R. Moton, president-emeritus, at Memorial Services in his memory Friday afternoon, and for the Annual Founder's Day exercises Sunday afternoon, 2:00 p. m., Institute Chapel.

* * *

Colored Graduate Nurses Hold Fifth Annual Institute

The Fifth Annual Institute for Colored Graduate Nurses held at Tuskegee Institute Friday, April 4 and 5, 1941, closed the most successful session of its history Saturday morning.

One hundred and six nurses were registered for the Institute according to Johnnie Lou Dent R. N., Nurse for Movable School Tuskegee Institute. Miss Linna N. Denny, executive secretary urged all of the nurses who qualify for Red Cross nurses to file their applications. She stated that Alabama has fifteen Negro nurses already to go to camp. It was further learned that Miss Gladys Giles, Public Health Nurse Macon County, Alabama, was leaving April 26 for Red Cross Nursing Service at Fort Bragg North Carolina.

* * *

Physicians arrive for annual clinic

More than 75 physicians and surgeons have already arrived on the campus to attend the 30th Annual Clinic and Twenty-Fourth Meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, April 6-12, and Founder's Day exercises. This announcement was made by Dr John A. Kenney, Secretary-Treasurer of the Society and Medical Director of Tuskegee Institute.

The Dental Division of the Society will open its sessions Monday 9:00 a. m. at the Alumni Hut (Little Theatre). Features of the morning is a demonstration and discussion of New Drug in Treatment of Pyorrhea by Dr George W. Carver.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
May 2, 1941

EDUCATORS WILL MEET

Cooperatives To Be Discussed At Tuskegee Conference

TUSKEGEE, Ala., May 1—(AP)—A sub-regional conference on cooperatives will be held at Tuskegee Institute Friday and Saturday under auspices of the Southeastern Cooperative Education Association, it was announced Thursday by Elizabeth K. Lynch, of Carrolton, Ga., secretary.

Subjects to be discussed include: Consumer cooperatives by Dr. J. W. Broyles, Snead Junior College, Boaz, Ala.; campus cooperatives by Dr. J. Max Boyd, Tuskegee Institute; elementary school cooperatives by O. Christine Collins, Tuskegee Institute; credit unions by C. R. Orchard, Farm Credit Administration, and agricultural cooperatives.

Group discussions also are planned.

Defense Stamp And Bonds Go On Sale At 'Skegee

Savannah Journal
MAY 3 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS)—The United States Defense Saving Bonds and Postal Savings Stamps will be placed on sale at the Institute Post Office at the opening of business on Thursday, May 1, as part of the national effort to make America impregnable.

MAY 3 1941

Postmaster James A. Johnson, of the Tuskegee Institute post office, announced today that plans are nearly completed for the community, along with thousands of others from coast to coast, to do its full part at the opening of the savings program. It is expected that Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute and other civic leaders will be among the first purchasers of saving bonds and stamps here.

The new Defense Savings Bond is similar to the familiar "Baby Bond", of which more than five billion dollars worth have been bought by more than two and a half million Americans since 1935.

A Defense Bond may be purchased May 1, or thereafter, for $18.75. In ten years, this bond will be worth $25.00. This is an increase of 33 1-3 per cent, equal to an annual interest return of 2.9 per cent, compounded semi-annually. Any time after sixty days from the date of purchase, the bond may be redeemed for cash in accordance with table of redemption value printed on face of the bond.

Secretary Morgenthau said that even a boy or girl who saved 10 cents to buy a Savings Stamp would help the country. He added that "you can safeguard your own money and your own future while helping the national defense, by buying United States Savings Bonds now."

MAY 3 1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Boy, 12, Buys Tuskegee's First Defense Stamps

MAY 9 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The first Defense Stamps sold by Postmaster James A. Johnson at the Tuskegee Institute Post Office went to twelve years old Thomas M. Edwards. The first Defense Bond was bought by Frank Wright Junior, also twelve years old.

MAY 9 1941

Young Edwards bought 4 twenty-five cent stamps with money he earned selling GRIT. He plans to buy at least one stamp a week until he has paid for his bond. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, operators of two popular foods establishments at the Institute. His grandfather, Edwards was a co-worker of Booker T. Washington and many of his aunts and uncles as well as his father are Tuskegee graduates.

Young Edwards is known to motion picture fans for his portrayal of George Carver, the boy in the picture George Washington Carver. Edwards is in the 8th grade at the Chambliss Children's House where he owns shares in the Children's Coop and is a member of the Stamp Club. He also has a small saving account in the Institute Saving Bank and a Xmas Savings account.

MAY 1941

Young Wright earned the $18.75 for his Bond by shining shoes for doctors attending the clinic and by his bicycle errand service about the Institute and Greenwood Community. Wright is the son of Mr. Frank Wright, Sr., head pressman at the Tuskegee Institute print shop and Tuskegee graduate. Frank Junior last year bought a share of Tuskegee Building and Loan Stock and started a small savings account. He is soloist for the chorus of the Chambliss Children's House where he is in the 8th grade. He says he wants to be an orchestra leader when he grows up.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
July 11, 1941

Tuskegee Carries On

Educational institutions supported in considerable part by endowment are facing many special problems as a result of a reduction in their income from investments and in new gifts. Tuskegee Institute is no exception to the general rule and its incalculably useful work is subject to the consequent handicaps. All those familiar with this greatly constructive educational endeavor will be reassured, therefore, by the presidential report of Dr. F. D. Patterson for 1940, in which there is extensive impressive evidence that the administrators, faculty members and directors of the institution are carrying on faithfully and well.

In the face of curtailment of income, Dr. Patterson points out, the continuation of unemployment on a large scale has imposed the necessity for educational institutions "to seek wider adaptability of their graduates."

Tuskegee, it is reported, has continued "to foster the development of skills and training in the area of service occupations." Dr. Patterson says that losses of jobs in service occupations by Negro workers sometimes are due to failure to "keep abreast of changes and new demands in these fields," adding that it is consequently "imperative that we give renewed effort in the direction stressed by Booker T. Washington and put brains and skill into the common occupations of life."

Dr. Patterson wisely warns, however, that "unless some Negroes are trained in the capacity of specialists in technological areas, the Negro people as a whole shall remain outside of the main stream of American development . . . and fall far short of the balanced development essential for normal participation in American democracy."

The report stresses the need in the South for "skilled technicians to stop the prodigal waste of its soil and other material resources."

Under Dr. Patterson Tuskegee Institute is fortunate in having a continuation of the wisdom and efficiency of administration shown by its founder, Dr. Washington, and his successor, Dr. Robert R. Moton. This great good fortune—which is suggestive of the providential—is shared by the South and the entire nation as well as the institute itself.

18y-1941

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE CELEBRATES TWENTY-FIFTH FOUNDER'S DAY

APR 17 1941

On April 6th the beautiful chapel was filled with the 2500 friends, faculty, students, and alumni assembled to pay tribute to the man who was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, graduate of the Class of 1921, in the Alumni Address as "our noble Founder, who born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color . . . our great Founder and source of inspiration whose body but not his spirit sleeps in yonder grave, for in the members of the Class of 1921, in tens of thousands who have felt the touch of Booker T. Washington, his spirit marches on."

The line of march, with Captain W. A. Richardson of the Class of 1902 as Marshal of the Day moved from Carnegie Hall at 1:30 p. m. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Dr. G. L. Imes Founder's Day Speaker, Dr. William J. Scieffelin, chairman of the Board of Trustees, followed by members of the Board, the Executive Council, the reunion class of 1921, alumni and faculty, were escorted by the Institute Band, Capt. F. L. Drye, director, down the campus road to the Chapel, between the open ranks of 1000 blue-uniformed Institute cadets and 600 young women of the college with their long blue capes thrown back to disclose the snow white blouse and blue skirt of the Tuskegee uniforms.

APR 17 1941

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president Tuskegee Institute, presented the principal speaker, Dr. Lake Imes, who effectively set forth the philosophies of Booker T. Washington. Dr. Imes said that Booker Washington held to the idea that the best possible education came through experience, came by doing the thing rather than talking about it. "When asked if he thought education would solve the race problem, Booker Washington replied, 'I don't know; but no problem was ever solved by ignorance.'" To Booker Washington industrial education was not a theory but a very practical solution of intensely practical problems.

Members of the Board of Trustees, Tuskegee Institute, arrived on the campus Friday morning, April 4, for the Annual spring meeting of the Board, and to pay tribute to the late Robert R. Moton, president-emeritus, at Memorial Services in his memory Friday afternoon, and for the Annual Founder's Day exercises Sunday afternoon, 2:00 p. m., Institute Chapel.

APR 17 1941

Colored Graduate Nurses Hold Fifth Annual Institute

The Fifth Annual Institute for Colored Graduate Nurses held at Tuskegee Institute Friday, April 4 and 5, 1941, closed the most successful session of its history Saturday morning.

One hundred and six nurses were registered for the Institute according to Johnnie Lou Dent, R. N., Nurse for Movable School Tuskegee Institute. Miss Linna N. Denny, executive secretary urged all of the nurses who qualify for Red Cross nurses to file their applications. She stated that Alabama has fifteen Negro nurses already to go to camp. It was further learned that Miss Gladys Giles, Public Health Nurse Macon County, Alabama, was leaving April 26 for Red Cross Nursing Service at Fort Bragg North Carolina.

APR 17 1941

Physicians arrive for annual clinic

More than 75 physicians and surgeons have already arrived on the campus to attend the 30th Annual Clinic and Twenty-Fourth Meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, April 6-12, and Founder's Day exercises. This announcement was made by Dr John A. Kenney, Secretary-Treasurer of the Society and Medical Director of Tuskegee Institute.

The Dental Division of the Society will open its sessions Monday 9:00 a. m. at the Alumni Hut (Little Theatre). Features of the morning is a demonstration and discussion of New Drug in Treatment of Pyorrhea by Dr George W. Carver.

Clarkedale, Miss. Register
April 17, 1941

Girl From Lula Speaks at School

Elnora Pendleton Makes Welcome Address at Tuskegee Girls Day.

Tuskegee Institute—Tuskegee institute was host today to more than 2,000 girls from the Macon county schools who assembled here for the fifteenth annual observance of Girls' day. The attendance was not only greater than on previous Girls' day celebrations, but the general interest and participation in all features of the day's program was noticeably better.

Hattie S. West, president of the Macon county teachrs association opened the morning session with a brief address, pointing out the reason for this annual meeting of the girls enrolled in the elementary schools of Macon county on the Tuskegee institute campus, indicating that the "good derived from these associations, contacts and friendly competition are fundamental and character building."

Elnora Pendleton, senior, school of education, Lula, Miss., in a gracious and cordial welcomed the girls to "an institution with a warm and friendly spirit, where girls and boys too, learn to do by doing; where the training received fits one for society and for service." Sarah Warren seventh grade pupil of the Washington school, Tuskegee, Ala., made the response.

The features of the morning program were centered around daily classroom activities and experiences and were carried out in dramatized expositions by the pupils of the Macon county school, the Chamblissa Children's house, Cotton Valley, New Rising Star school, Washington Public school and the school at Prairie farms. All of these exercises were well received.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
April 29, 1941

Commencement Speaker Named

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., April 28—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, announced today that Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of the Morehouse College, Atlanta, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the members of the graduating classes in the institute chapel at 2 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, May 18. Dr. Mays was formerly dean of the School of Religion at Howard University, Washington, D. C., and is an outstanding author and lecturer.

The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia, in the chapel at 2 o'clock, Monday afternoon, May 19. Prior to accepting the presidency of Hampton Institute Dr. MacLean was director of the general college at the University of Minnesota. He has been chairman of the national committee on general education. He is a member of the committee on general education of the American Council on Education and chairman of the North Central Association on general education.

Warren Henry, Chicago, class of 1931, will be the Alumni speaker. More than a hundred students will be presented for graduation. The degrees will be conferred by Dr. F. D. Patterson.

The annual competitive drill of the cadet regiment will be held in the alumni bowl at 9 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, May 3, the president announced.

Class night exercises will be held in Logan Hall at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, May 16. The President's Prize Contest will be held in Logan Hall, Saturday evening, May 17, at 7:30. This contest will be between representatives of the junior and senior classes.

Gadsden Ala Call-Post
4-19-41

Crump Honored By Clinical Society

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (Special To The Call-Post)

The John A. Andrew Clinical Society, Tuskegee Institute, opened its twenty-fourth annual meeting, Monday Morning, April 7, on a new high with over a hundred and fifty physicians prsent, President Spencer D. Dickerson, M. D., Chicago, in the char. Dr. John A. Kenney, Secretary-Treasurer of the Society introduced Walter G. Crump, M. D., honorary president of the Society, head of Flower Hospital, New York City, member of the staff of at least a dozen other hospitals and for twenty years a governor of the American College of surgeons.

Dr. Crump, in his unimitable manner, swept the audience with his inspiring and informative paper on "The Sable Race in Medicine." Dr. Crump said in part "The first recorded history of immunization is the story of an African medicine man who rubbed his warriors with snake serum to protect them from snake bites when they went into the jungles." The white haired, rotund little doctor plead for training facilities for more Negro doctors.

"Mentality knows no race line. There are one million Negroes in Alabama, but only 100 Negro doctors—and twenty-eight fo those are practically on the campus of Tuskegee Institute."

Dr. Crump paid tribute to the late Dr. Dan Williams of Chicago, Illinois, who was the first surgeon to perform a successful operation on the human heart, and to the late Dr. C. V. Roman as "the soundest philosopher I have ever known."

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Queen Of Sweet Gum Crowned At Prairie Farms Festival

APR 28 1941

Dr. Patterson, Tuskegee Band On Hand During Spring Festival

APR 28 1941

SHORTER, Ala.—(SNS)—With a fully uniformed band from Tuskegee Institute to play her coronation march, pretty Miss Jessie Wimbish of Sweet Gum was crowned Queen of the May before more than 600 people who came from two counties around for the second annual Spring Festival at Prairie Farms, FSA project school near Shorter, Ala.

Dr. F. D. Petterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, was outstanding among the group of notables of both races who greeted the celebrants or took part in the full day's program.

Morning and evening sessions were devoted to speeches, plays and motion pictures, all dealing with the subject of "Good Health." Dr. B. F. Austin, Alabama State health officer, was chief speaker of the evening.

WIN FIELD HONORS

APR 28 1941

Boys from Montomery County Training School easily took top honors in track and field events that were presented in the afternoon as amusement for Queen Wimbish and her court. Athletic honors for girls went to a home team of students from Prairie Farm School.

APR 28 1941

Home-grown and home-roasted barbecue was served by Prairie Farm School trustees at noon, and there was some fish to be had, cooked "old fashioned way" in a big iron kettle. A junior cooperative group from the school had its own refreshment stand and sold candy and chewing gum.

Being hosts to their friends from two counties climaxed a year of special achievement for students of Prairie Farms School. In January, 21 boys and girls, members of the local F. F. A. chapter, entered home fattened calves in a state-wide contest held at Tuskegee. Prairie Farms students won first, second and third, and fourth—eight prizes in all, and brought home more than $100 in prize money.

APR 28 1941

GLEE CLUB SINGS

Following a group of their parents, who won econd place in the Tuskegee 'Bucket Theatre" contest for original plays, Prairie Farms youngsters distinguished themselves in dramatic contests at the institute. Early in April the newly robed glee club sang at one of the much visited Sunday afternoon services in Tuskegee chapel.

Considered one of the most progressive schools for rural Negro children in the South, Prairie Farms is used as a training center by Tuskegee's Department of Education. Built by the Farm Security Administration on its community arm project where 34 former tenant families are working towards land ownership and cooperative living, this school provides modern educational opportunities for children from the entire western end of Macon county.

In a short talk during the morning session, 83-year-old Professor Martin, who began teaching in Macon county Negro schools in 1877, compared this modern plant with the slab pine shack in which he taught his first three-month term school. An even greater improvement, Prof. Martin said, has been made in the quality of teaching. For this he gave credit to Tuskegee Institute.

APR 28 1941

VISIT COTTAGES

During the day visitors had a chance to visit many of the electrically lighted white cottages with their well landscaped lawns that have replaced old sharecropper cabins on what once was a single plantation.

Homesteaders and the all Negro staff of Farm Security officials who care for the project and school explained the workings of the project cooperative. This farm-run association has a store, a tractor, a cannery and other equipment. In a large community pasture beef cattle are raised and all members share in the profits.

Recently the cooperative's marketing service made an agreement with wholesalers in Columbus to handle all the fresh vegetables homesteaders can produce. Ultimately these will be used in the kitchens of nearby army camps.

MRS. PATTRIDGE DIRECTOR

APR 28 1941

Mrs. Deborah Pattridge, principal of Praire Farms School, was director of the festival, assisted by Coleman D. Camp, project manager Harry Bright, his assistant, W. Cooper, vocational agriculture teacher, and many teachers from Macon and Montgomery counties. A special welcome was given Mrs. Elizabeth Crocker, who recently joined the staff as nurse to serve both homesteader families and those in the surrounding district.

Following the evening session there was a community dance, with music furnished by Tuskegee's Royal Swingsters.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Commencement Speaker Named

APR 29 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA. April 28—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, announced today that Dr. Benjamin E. Mays president of the Morehouse College Atlanta, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the members of the graduating classes in the institute chapel at 2 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, May 18. Dr. Mays was formerly dean of the School of Religion at Howard University, Washington, D. C., and is an outstanding author and lecturer.

APR 29 1941

The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, president of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia, in the chapel at 2 o'clock, Monday afternoon, May 19. Prior to accepting the presidency of Hampton Institute Dr. MacLean was director of the general college at the University of Minnesota. He has been chairman of the national committee on general education. He is a member of the committee on general education of the American Council on Education and chairman of the North Central Association on general education.

APR 29 1941

Warren Henry, Chicago, class of 1931, will be the Alumni speaker. More than a hundred students will be presented for graduation. The degrees will be conferred by Dr. F. D. Patterson.

The annual competitive drill of the cadet regiment will be held in the alumni bowl at 9 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, May 3, the president announced.

Class night exercises will be held in Logan Hall at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, May 16. The President's Prize Contest will be held in Logan Hall, Saturday evening, May 17, at 7:30. This contest will be between representatives of the junior and senior classes.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Negro Leader To Speak At Tuskegee Institute

MAY 14 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., May 13.—Alonzo G. Wright, negro owner and operator of seven gasoline service stations in Cleveland, Ohio, will be the principal speaker here Thursday evening when the students and teachers of the school of mechanical industries hold their annual dinner, President F. D. Patterson announced today.

G. L. Washington, director of Mechanical Industrial, said that a number of Tuskegee Institute trade students have served industrial internships in the Wright Service Stations and for that reason the owner of this successful enterprise was selected as the speaker this year. "We seek," he said, "to select speakers for this occasion who have achieved success so that their talks to our students may be a recital of actual experiences."

MAY 14 1941

Many Tuskegee graduates in trades will return to the Institute for this annual dinner, which this year will devote full discussion to the theme: "Industrial Internships."

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Boy, 12, Buys First Tuskegee Defense Stamp

MAY 9 - 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE. — The first Defense bond sold at the Tuskegee post office went to Frank Wright Jr., 12-year-old son of Frank Wright, head pressman at the Tuskegee print shop.

The first Defense stamps were bought by John M. Edwards, also 12, who purchased four 25 - cent stamps with money he earned selling magazines.

MAY 9 1941

Young Wright earned the $17.75 for his bond by shining shoes for doctors attending the clinic and from his bicycle errand service.

Tuskegee Ala. News
May 22, 1941

NEARLY 200 GRADUATE AT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE MON.

Dr. Malcolm MacLean, president of Hampton Institute, asserted here that "in our attempt to awaken Germany from her dream—and that we must do, even if many of us die to bring her back to sanity—we must not forget that in her madness she has many deep lessons to teach us in America."

The Virginian spoke before a graduating class of almost 200 at Tuskegee Institute, and approximately 2,000 visitors climaxing the commencement week activities.

"You, the graduates of 1941, must watch Germany and her struggle and learn by heart the lesson she has to teach," Dr. Mac Lean said. "Remember that we learn best only from those we love most and loathe most, never from those we are indifferent to Study, therefore, from here on out what Germany has to teach. Watch her factories, roads, homes clothes, machines that can be built by getting men and materials together.

"But study, too, how as the days and months ahead flow behind us into history that other lesson—that next great law of life and happiness that you have been learning in college here and that Hitler had never learned. It is the law of the brotherhood of man.

"I think that you graduates of Tus kegee in this year are destined to achieve the happiness that you and I want out of life because you have here been practicing the law of brotherhood in many of its operations and have watched its work in many more."

18y-1941
Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Faculty Changes Made At 'Skegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(SNS)—"In these days of unprecedented stress and upheaval, I cannot insist too strongly upon the importance of loyalty and confidence in the present program of Tuskegee Institute, as well as reverence for its history and traditions."

So spoke President Patterson in his address to the faculty at the All-Institute luncheon, Wednesday in the Institute Cafeteria. The faculty pledged their approval in rounds of hearty applause..

"What Booker T. Washington described in his last chapel talk to teachers and students as Team Work, is the way I interpret your response," said Patterson. Attractively bound copies of Team Work were luncheon souvenirs.

LISTS PROJECTS

As outstanding projects for the year, President Patterson referred to the mid-wifery school with the State Health Department, Rosenwald Fund, and Children's Bureau as co-sponsors with Tuskegee Institute: the health program under Dr. John A. Kenney, the work in drama and speech sponsored by the School of Education under the guidance of Dr. J. Max Bond, the expanded opportunities for training landscape and gardening specialists offered by the new up-to-date green house just completed by the School of Agriculture under Mr. J E. Otis, director and the increasing of the goat herd for supplying milk goats to needy rural families with undernourished children.

The Tuskegee interne plan which has met with nation-wide approbation and support will continue to be stressed in all areas.

The aviation program headed by G. L. Washington has been enhanced the army training program, which is now well underway, and special defense program supported by state and federal fund.

TELLS OF CHANGES

Concerning faculty changes President Patterson said:

"In keeping with the necessity to tighten up our formal program made necessary by normal growth, together with the increasing demand for work opportunities, and the almost simultaneous shrinkage of available income, an important step is being taken to clarify the relationship that exists in the productive and educational side of our work.

Mr. Lloyd Isaacs, because of his familiarity with productive activities at Tuskegee and his outstanding training in the field of business, is being asked to assume the duties of director of Productive Activities.

"Mr. Isaacs' former position as treasurer will be filled by Mr. Luther H. Foster, Jr., who in addition to sound training in the field of business, is competently prepared in educational administration. It is felt that this reorganization of the program will clarify our work in such a way as to justify the confidence of donors and friends who insist upon sound procedure in both educational and business practices incident to the operation to the Institution."

Other faculty changes include the appointment of Timothy Jones to head the electrical division. Mr Jones succeeds Wm. Childs Curtis who has been promoted to assistant director of the School of Mechanical Industries. This promotion followed the appointment of G. L. Washington, the director, to serve as civilian director of the army air corps detachment.

BROOKS JOINS FACULTY

Henry R. Jerkins returns to the School of Education as professor of English and head of debating. Charles M. Brooks, A. M. in Economics from Columbia joins the social science staff of the School of Education. Mr. Brooks succeeds Hollis Price, who has accepted the office of dean of LeMoyne College.

Mrs. Antoinette Cohen becomes acting-registrar with the resignation of A. L. Turner to join the law faculty of North Carolina College for Negroes at Durham. John H Smith assumed the duties of assistant to President Patterson on July 1. Mr. Smith has lived at Tuskegee Institute during the years he served as office manager and accountant for the Federal Resettlement and Land-use Project in Ma

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Record-Breaking Crowd Of 11,000 Sees Tuskegee Ruin Alabama 33-6

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Tuskegee's great offensive powerhouse, led by two outstanding running backs, Upshaw Sams and Arthur Sawyer, who ran wild to score twice each, continued their impressive scoring record in Cramton Bowl as they handed Alabama State's plucky Hornets a 33 to 6 defeat in their annual Thanksgiving Day battle before a record crowd of some 11,000 spectators.

The once-beaten machine of Coach Cleve Abbott displayed plenty of sip, courage and finesse as they rocked along with plenty of class until given a scoring opportunity, they struck with plenty of speed and power for their six-pointers.

Alabama State had a well-drilled offense and flashed an outstanding running back in Joe Crenshaw, who played most of the game and must have run with the ball four dozen times, but the Hornets' hard running attack was stopped four times within the shadow of Tuskegee's goal. In the first period they were stopped on the three; in the second on the 17; in the third on the one, and in the fourth again on the one.

Tuskegee broke the ice in the first quarter by scoring a safety when they tackled Tarrant behind the goal line attempting to kick the ball out. Midway the second period Robinson pitched a 12-yard pass to Sawyer for the first Tiger six-pointer to touch off a 65-yard drive. Robinson had recovered State's fumble on the Tiger 35 to start the march. Ivey's attempt for the extra point was no good. Three minutes later after five plays from the kickoff, Robinson pitched another strike—to the speedy and elusive Sams who grabbed the toss about midfield and outran the Hornet secondary to score. The play was good for 56 yards. Robinson booted the extra point and Tuskegee led, 15-0.

Alabama State received the kickoff, Crenshaw carrying ball back to his own 36. Then they drove 64 yards for their lone marker, Crenshaw pitching to Cheatham 12 yards for the score. The try for the point was wild, 15-6.

Aided by a clipping penalty following Van Cleve's pass interception, Tuskegee drove to another score on the last play of the first half. Van Cleve bucked the ball over from the one-yard line. Sams and Sawyer alternated at carrying the pig-skin for another score two minutes after the second half kickoff. Sawyer drove over from the one. Robinson's attempted place kick was wild. Score 27-6.

Late in the third quarter, Tuskegee's great little back, Sams, intercepted a wild State pass on his own 43 and raced 57 yards through the entire Hornet team for the final score of the game. Sams was given some beautiful downfield blocking on the play. It was an exciting gallop and was easily the most thrilling play of the game. The try for the point was no good and the game wound up, 33-6.

Both teams displayed plenty of talent. Alabama State's Elvie Sullinger, John Leftwich and Yancey Griggs did fine work in the line while Crenshaw, Cheatham and Tate were the big guns in the backfield. Tuskegee's Dennis Stewart, Linnie Fyles and Charles Perry featured in the line while Sams, Sawyer and Robinson starred in the backfield, although the Tigers unleashed a trio of "cat backs" in Raymond Head, Herman Anderson and William Shaw, that chalked up plenty of yardage while they were in the ball game.

Rival bands of the two schools, as well as the State championship Hornet High School band, put on quite a show at the half. The loudly acclaimed Tuskegee musicians, with Ralpheen Reed, one of the nation's most outstanding drum majorettes, and Robert Johnson, as drum major, fronting the famous musical organization, were vociferously applauded at the conclusion of their intermission feature. The Crimson Pipers, under the leadership of Capt. Frank L. Drye, always put on a classy exhibition.

Pos.	Tuskegee (33)	Alabama (6)
LE	Perry	White
LT	Fuller	Griggs
LG	Stewart	A. Jackson
C	Bowman	Mason
RG	Ross	Leftwich
RT	Brown	Sauls
RE	Ivey	Sullinger
QB	Robinson	Tate
LH	Sams	Crenshaw
RH	Sawyer	Cheatham
FB	Smiley	Ellis

SCORE BY PERIODS

Tuskegee	2	19	12	0—33
Alabama State	0	6	0	0—6

Scoring Tuskegee Touchdowns: Sawyer (2); Sams (2); Van Cleve. Safety: Tarrant tackled behind line. Scoring Alabama State touchdown: Cheatham.

TIGER-HORNET FACTS

First downs	13	17
Yards rushing	190	266
Yards lost att. rushing	-34	-32
Net yards rushing	156	234
Forward passes att.	12	18
Passes complete	7	7
Passes incomplete	5	5
Passes int. by enemy	6	0
Yards gained passing	140	127
Punts	12	6
Av. yards punts	36	38
Passes int. for t. d.	1*	0

*(Same—56 yards).

OFFICIALS: B. T. Harvey (Colgate) Referee; H. L. Mosley (Morehouse) Umpire. Wallace O. Hawkins (Knoxville) ..Head linesman: Frank A. Young (Chicago Defender) Field Judge.

Andalusia, Ala., News
November 20, 1941

The father of Dr. R. R. Moton, who for years was president of the Tuskegee Institute, was the son of an African ~~king~~. Moton's father was brought to the United States and sold as a slave. One day a visitor was looking at a group of slaves as they shuffled off to work and he saw in the lead a handsome fellow, who held back his shoulders and walked with pride. "Who is that fine looking fellow in the lead?" inquired the visitor. "Oh, that fellow, why sir he is a son of an African king" replied the man, "And he never forgets that." When a soul is adopted into the family of God, he becomes a son of the Heavenly King. So many of us are down here among the drudgeries of life until we forget that we are the child of a King, and that we are being trained for a throne in the sky. To be sure we must do a lot of drudgery down here, but that should not destroy our spiritual pride, for we are the child of a King.

Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union
November 10, 1941

A WORTHY UNDERTAKING

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, calls attention, as is his annual custom, to conditions in some rural areas of the Southeast that will appeal strongly to humanitarians of the Nation. In a letter to The Times-Union he says that "despite the increase in price for cotton, tenants, sharecroppers and day laborers on farms in sections of the Southeastern States are still without adequate security against suffering and privation during the coming Winter."

A new loy in cotton production caused by the worst destruction by the boll weevil in a decade directly affects income, he points out. "Thousands of tenants and sharecroppers have been reduced to the status of day laborers with uncertain employment which means no customary Fall 'setting up.' Active male members of rural families have been lured to urban centers by rumors of 'jobs opening up' in defense industries only to find that, because of lack of skills they cannot qualify, thus reducing farm output of food and feed products with no compensating increase in income.

"Without understanding the economic misfortune which has overtaken their parents, children in these homes face a drab and cheerless Christmas morning. Instead of laughter to greet the emptying of gift-laden stockings hanging beside the mantel, perhaps there will be no stockings to hang and no fire underneath the mantel to bring warmth and kinship with other more fortunate children.

"At a time like the present, it is all the more proof of our Christian fortitude and a test of our democracy that we, in America, can share cheer with suffering children in Europe as well as with those in our own country who are innocent victims of adversity.

"For many years Tuskegee Institute has been privileged to be a medium through which devoted friends in all parts of the country have sent gifts direct to such homes. Experienced members of our staff whose regular activities take them into remote rural areas visit many homes where our human reserves for national defense are greatly impaired by inadequate diets, insufficient clothing and miserable shelter. They know where the need is most acute and distribution of gifts is made by them.

"We therefore renew our appeal for donations of clothing, books, toys, candy, pictures, etc. Some friends prefer to send money with which to purchase gifts and in such instances the donation is spent as directed."

Packages and letters may be addressed to: F. D. Patterson, president Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Here is a great opportunity for those who are profiting by the national spending spree to lay away something to their credit for that final day of reckoning toward which all are looking. A deposit toward providing a cheerful Christmas morning for unfortunates brings large returns in good will and warmth of brotherly love.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
November 5, 1941

Tell It To Old Grandma

CHRISTMAS REMINDER

Editor, The Advertiser:

Despite the increase in price for cotton, tenants, sharecroppers and day laborers on farms in many sections of the Southeastern States are still without adequate security against suffering and privation during the coming Winter.

A new low in cotton production caused by the worst destruction by the boll weevil in a decade directly affects income. Thousands of tenants and sharecroppers have been reduced to the status of day laborers with uncertain employment which means no customary Fall "settling up." Active male members of rural families have been lured to urban centers by rumors of "jobs opening up" in defense industries only to find that, because of lack of skills they cannot qualify, thus reducing farm output of food and feed products with no compensating increase in income.

Without understanding of the economic misfortune which has overtaken their parents, children in these homes face a drab and cheerless Christmas morning. Instead of laughter to greet the emptying of gift-laden stockings hanging beside the mantel, perhaps there will be no stockings to hang and no fire underneath the mantel to bring warmth and kinship with other more fortunate children.

At a time like the present, it is all the more proof of our Christian fortitude and a test of our democracy that we, in America, can share cheer with suffering children in Europe as well as with those in our own country who are innocent victims of adversity.

"For many years Tuskegee Institute has been privileged to be a medium through which devoted friends in all parts of the country have sent gifts direct to such homes. Experienced members of our staff whose regular activities take them into remote rural areas visit many homes where our human reserves for national defense are greatly impaired by inadequate diets, insufficient clothing and miserable shelter. They know where the need is most acute and distribution of gifts is made by them.

We therefore renew our appeal for donations of clothing, books, toys, candy, pictures, etc. Some friends prefer to send money with which to purchase gifts and in such instances the donation is spent as directed.

Packages and letters may be addressed to: President, Tusekgee Institute, Ala.

F. D. PATTERSON.

Columbus, Ga. Ledger
October 25, 1941

Our Negro Institutions

The Tuskegee Institute and Morehouse College bands, representing two outstanding Alabama and Georgia negro institutions of higher learning, whose respective football teams met here last night, gave a colorful downtown demonstration as a prelude to the game.

It was s..king and indeed a credit to the leadership ... these institutions, where much is being accomplished to educate and develop the southern Negro.

Success is assured for the Negro who attends either of the two schools and it is in itself a tribute to the painstaking efforts of those responsible for developing such a keen sense of value among Negroes privileged to attend either Tuskegee or Morehouse.

Atlanta, Ga. Journal
November 5, 1941

LETTERS

Go, write it in a martial-hand, be brief—it is no matter how witty.—Twelfth Night.

TUSKEGEE READY TO SERVE

Editor, The Journal: Despite the increase in price for cotton, tenants, sharecroppers and day laborers on farms in many sections of the Southeastern States are still without adequate security against suffering and privation during the coming winter.

A new low in cotton production caused by the worst destruction by the boll weevil in a decade directly affects income. Thousands of tenants and sharecroppers have been reduced to the status of day laborers with uncertain employment which means no customary fall "settling up." Active male members of rural families have been lured to urban centers by rumors of "jobs opening up" in defense industries only to find that, because of lack of skills they cannot qualify, thus reducing farm output of food and feed products with no compensating increase in income.

Without understanding of the economic misfortune which has overtaken their parents, children in these homes face a drab and cheerless Christmas morning. Instead of laughter to greet the emptying of gift-laden stockings hanging beside the mantel, perhaps there will be no stockings to hang and no fire underneath the mantel to bring warmth and kinship with other more fortunate children.

For many years Tuskegee Institute has been privileged to be a medium through which devoted friends in all parts of the country have sent gifts direct to such homes. Experienced members of our staff whose regular activities take them into remote rural areas visit many homes where our human reserves for national defense are greatly impaired by inadequate diets, insufficient clothing and miserable shelter. They know where the need is most acute and distribution of gifts is made by them.

We therefore renew our appeal for donations of clothing, books, toys, candy, pictures, etc. Some friends prefer to send money with which to purchase gifts and in such instances the donation is spent as directed.

Packages and letters may be addressed to: F. D. Patterson, President Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

F. D. PATTERSON
President.

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Grove Hill, Ala., Democrat
October 30, 1941

Advance Ticket Sale Indicates Large Crowd

Advance sale of tickets for the Negro football game which is to be played here next Wednesday night indicate that the crowd this year will be as large as, if not larger than, the crowd of last year.

The game will be played between teams from Tuskegee Institute and State Teachers College of Montgomery, the same teams which played here last year. In addition, the crack Tuskegee Institute Band of 91 pieces will accompany the teams and will put on a special show between halves. This colorful spectacle, with its lighting effects, is one of the chief attractions of the occasion.

Those who have never seen a Negro football game will enjoy it for this reason and those who have will want to see another.

Officials in charge of arrangements have had requests for reservations from many neighboring towns. They state that they are endeavoring to secure canvassing committees to visit some of these towns before the game and give those wanting to attend a chance to secure choice tickets.

As was the case last year, the east side of the field will be reserved for the Negroes.

The gates will be opened at 5 o'clock, the lights will be turned on at 6 o'clock and a program of band music will be rendered before the game.

Brunswick, Ga., News
November 1, 1941

DUKE CANCELS VISIT

Tuskegee, Ala., Nov. 1. (AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today the Duke of Windsor had informed him he would be unable to visit the famed negro institution on his current visit to the United States but planned to fly back here from the Bahamas within the next month or two.

Selma, Ala., Times-Journal
November 14, 1941

Tuskegee Quintet To Appear In City

The Tusekegee quintet, known as "Sons of the South," heard often in concert and radio, will make a personal appearance here at the First Baptist Church for negroes, corner Jeff Davis and Sylvan Streets, for the benefit of the Library Fund of Knox Academy, on Wednesday, Nov. 19, at 8 p. m.

The singers have appeared before President Roosevelt for a command performance, and are heard often on the air, having the distinction of being the only negro group in advertising programs in the south. They appear regularly over WSFA.

1ay-1941

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tuskegee Instructors Studying In Chicago

TUSKEGEE, July 31—(ANP)—Five members of the faculty of Tuskegee Institute leave the campus this week for six weeks or study at the teachers work shop, Northwestern University, near Chicago, Dr. I. A. Derbigny, dean of administration announced. Mrs. J. P. Guzman, dean of women and Rev. H. V. Richardson, chaplain, will do special work in guidance. Albert Murray of the english division will devote his time to latest proceedures in teaching, reading and spelling. J. E. Fuller will work in functional mathamatics and C. G. Gomillion in the social sciences.

Mrs. Christine Collins has been at the collobaration center, University of Chicago, since early June studying child development under Dr. Prescott; Alonzo Davis, head of psychology, and Mrs. Emily Webb Allen, director of the nursery school, studied with Dr. Prescott during the past year. Mr. Davis returned to the campus for the summer session. Mrs. Allen will return in September.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News From Tuskegee Institute

Tuskegeeans Win Red Cross Certificates

Coach Cleve Abbott is very proud of the Red Cross Certificates awarded to assistants to his staff during the National American Red Cross Aquatic School held at Tennessee A. & I. State College, Nashville, Tenn., July 9-19.

Coach Ross Owens, who returned to the Golden Tiger coaching staff this month after an absence of several years, was awarded Instructors Certificate in First Aid, Home and Farm Accident Prevention and Water Safety. Elizabeth R. Campbell and Martha L. Driver, were awarded Instructors Certificates in Water Safety. Frances Anne Walcott was awarded Instructors Certificate in First Aid, and Home and Farm Accident Prevention.

The Tuskegeeans were outstanding in the water pageant staged on the beautiful lake on the campus of Tennessee State. Frances Walcott, dance soloist with a group of attendants entertained King Neptune with Hawaiian dances, made realastic by native music and costumes. Ross Owens and Martha Driver gave a spectacular demonstration of canoeing. Eliazbeth Campbell did a realastic life saving exhibition.

Elizabeth Campbell also served on the editorial staff of the Aqua News the official news sheet of the Aquatic School.

The Tuskegeeans were sent to the Aquatic School by the Tuskegee Institute Chapter of the American Red Cross, Dr. F. D. Patterson, chairman.

Tuskegeeans At American Teachers Association

Tuskegee Institute faculty will be represented at the annual meeting of the American Teachers Association at West Virginia State College, July 28 - August 1, 1941, by Professor Thomas H. McCormick, head department of physics, School of Mechanical Industries; Miss Queen E. Shootes, instructor in home management, School of home Economics; Professor William A. Clark, education, School of Education; B. B. Walcott, director, Bureau of Public Relations.

Professor McCormick who is president of the Alabama Science Teachers Association will be active in the science sections of the national meeting. Mrs. B. B. Walcott is a member of the symposium on integegation of extra curricular activities, and co-chair man with W. H. Ridley of Virginia State Teachers College of the section devoted to audio-visual instruction with special emphasis on radio.

Headed by President F. D. Patterson, Chairman of the Steering Committee, and Albon L. Holsey, Executive Secretary, a group of Tuskegeeans are making preparations to attend the meeting of the national Negro Business League in Memphis.

The enthusiastic revival of business interest through the organization of the Tuskegee Cooperative Association indicates that Tuskegee will send her largest representation in a number of years.

Among those expected to attend are William H. Maynard, cashier, Tuskegee Institute Savings bank, and President of the Tuskegee Cooperative Association; A. F. Bradley, cashier and Lloyd Isaacs, treasurer of Tuskegee Institute; William A. Shields, President, Tuskegee Credit Association, Mrs. Evadne Woods, manager, Tuskegee Cooperative Grocery Store Mr Henry R. Partridge instuctor of economics; P. D. Davis, instructor in business and official reporter for the Business League.

The theme for the 1941 Business League session as proposed by President Patterson's Committee is "What the schools can contribute to strengthen Negro business for the purpose of integrating business into the defense program."

The following rules will be strictly enforced at the 25th Anniversary Tennis Championships which will be played on the Championship Courts at the Institute, August 18th to 23rd, inclusive and all entrants are respectfully requested to comply with them.

Entries close positively on Saturday, August 16, 1941, at 9 P. M., therefore, all entries must be in the hands of theCommittee before that time. All entries must be accompanied by full entry fee, otherwise they will not be accepted. All doubles entries must be fully paid for whether partners are named or not. Entries are limited to two events only. Players under 16 years of age may not enter the senior events. All players entered in the veterans' singles must be 45 years or over during the year ofcompetition and may not enter men's singles.

Junior singles and doubles, and girls' singles events are open to players who have not reached their eighteenth birthday before January 1, 1941. Boys' singles are open to players who have not reached their fifteenth birthday before January 1, 1941. A boy may not compete in the junior events. A copy of birth certificate or other authenticated record of age must accompany entry of all juniors, both boys and girls.

All entries must be accredited to the satisfaction of the Tournament Committee. The Committee reserves the right to reject any entry.

Entry fees for the tournament are as follows: Each individual entry is $2.00, except Juniors' events and Boys' and Girls' events. The individual entry for Juniors and for Boys and Girls will be $1.00.

Entries should be addressed to Bertram L. Baker Secretary, 399 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, New York. After August 10 all entries should be sent to Executive Secretary, American Tennis Association, Local Headquarters, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Play will begin at 9:00 A. M., Monday morning, August 18, Central Daylight Savings time, and will continue on schedule to be announced daily. The finals will be played on Friday, August 22 and Saturday, August 23. All players must report to the referee on arrival at the grounds for assignment of time and court. Players not reporting within ten minutes after their names are called wil be defaulted. The Wilson championship ball will be used. The draws will be made publicly at "The Oaks," Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, Sunday, August 17.

The tournament will be conducted in accordance with the rules and regulations of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. All matches will be best of three sets except that beginning with the semi-finals in all men's events best of five sets will be played. Sterling silver bowls and cups will be awarded to the winners and runner-up in all events.

Requests for reservations should be addressed to Capt. Charles Ecton, Chairman of Housing Committee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama. The deadline for these reservations will be Thursday, August 14. No deposit will be required.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

51st Tuskegee Confab Dec. 10

Annual "Farmers' Meeting" to Hear Agriculture Secretary Wickard

TUSKEGEE—The 51st annual Tuskegee conference (formerly Negro farmers' conference) and the sixth annual Farm and Home Week have been announced by J. R. Otis, director of agriculture, and Mrs. O. W. Pearson, director of the school of home economics, cochairman of conference committee, to be held December 3-10.

The conference day is December 10 with Claude Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, scheduled to be the principal speaker at the afternoon session. The closing features of the afternoon session will be the awarding of prizes for the live stock entries and the presentation of master farmer certificates by President F. D. Patterson.

The annual farmers' banquet will be staged Tuesday night, December 9, with short addresses by outstanding farmers and farm wives who have been enrolled in farm and home week classes. A free barbecue dinner is a feature of conference day.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday.—We reached Washington in time for lunch yesterday and the visitors began to arrive at once. I did have a little time to talk over one or two important family things with the President before he was again engulfed in government affairs, and I was chatting with various people.

We said good-bye to Johnny and Rommie, who were starting for the West Coast, and waited to meet my daughter Anna, who was coming in from Seattle, Wash., to attend Mayor La Guardia's meeting on civilian volunteer participation in defense.

* * *

Afterward, Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, the president of Tuskegee Institute, came to tell me how well the training of flying cadets is progressing there, and that Tuskegee is being named as a recreational area for Negro men on leave from Fort Benning.

The Crown Princess of Norway and her party left to return to Massachusetts on an evening train. Our only other dinner guests were Dr. Floyd Reeves, of the American Youth Commission, and Dr. James Meader of Russell Sage College.

* * *

Today has been given up entirely to the meeting held in the White House by Mayor La Guardia's committee. Five members have been named from every corps area and represent all the different interests that enter into our national life. The President received the whole group and spoke to them for a few minutes and then the Mayor proceeded to outline his general ideas.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

TUSKEGEE GIVES SEASON AWARDS

71 Students At Summer Session Get Bachelor Of Science Degrees

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Aug. 11—Eight students received diplomas and 71 were awarded the bachelor of science degree at the commencement exercises of the Tuskegee Institute Summer school session Friday night. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, led the academic procession from Dorothy Hall to the chapel. It marked the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of Tuskegee. Dr. Patterson also delivered the commencement address.

"We are looking back tonight on 60 years of continuous educational service to the state and nation and we are glad to express our sacred gratitude to those who made this occasion possible," the president stated. He pointed out that the college graduate offers a ray of hope to a war-torn world.

Thelma Meeks, of Joplin, Mo., highest honor student, received her bachelor of science degree in education. Music was rendered by the Tuskegee Institute Summer Choir, Mrs. Alberta Simms conducting. Saul Thomas Wilson, Troy, Ala., conducted the devotions.

Dr. I. A. Derbigny, dean of administration, presented the heads of the various departments, who in turn presented the members of the graduating class. The degrees were conferred by Dr. Patterson.

Those receiving diplomas: Seth E. Alexander (automobile maintenance), Lizell Peterson Allen (education), Rebecca Fitzpatrick (education), Lois Smith (education), Louis A. Gavin (automobile maintenance), Lillian Edna Gregory (education), Ira Swain (tailoring), Pearl M. Williams (education), Johnie Wortham (shoe repairing and leather work).

Receiving the bachelor of science degree were:

Agriculture—William C. Allen, Five Points, Ala.; Ewing Tipton Brooks, Dalton, Ga.; James Monroe Conley, Livingston, Ala.; Wilmor C. Easton, Jr., Gulfport, Miss.; Rufua Hatten, Alfred Lee Hay, Brownsville, Tenn.; Mark Edmond Kiel, Coffeeville, Ala.; Esses B. Lampkin, Henry J. Matthews, Anniston, Ala.; Berry Minor, Cotton Plant, Ark.; Clarence Harrison Saunders, Enterprise, Ala.; Robert L. Shepherd.

Commercial Dietetics—Hiawatha M. Malone, Malakoff, Tex.; Claytee McAlister, Starr, S. C.; Ruth V. Perkins, New York City; Clarence Sanders Smith, Fort Worth, Tex.; F. Davis Stafford, Montclair, N. J.; Gertrude Stallworth, Beatrice, Ala.; Clara E. Stephens, Monroeville, Ala.; Joseph R. Battle, Tyler, Tex.; Lavonia K. Bolden, Detroit, Mich.; William E. Brunson, Greenwood, S. C.; Marion P. Clem, Springfield, Ill.; William M. Driggins, Corning, N. Y.; Charles Wallace Francis, Lexington, Ky.

Education—Charlie Frankie Armstrong, Wayne, Mich.; Sallye M. Brooks, Jacksonville, Fla.; Wilhelmina Welch Burrell, Tuskegee, Ala.; Audrey Bacon Byrd, Tuskegee, Ala.; Eliza M. Charles, Madge Revere Cravens, Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala.; Sarah Jeter Downs, Raleigh, Fla.; Willia Johnson Earl, Mobile, Ala.; Alma Goodrich, Birmingham, Ala.; Willie Shelton Goodson, Birmingham, Ala.; Thelma M. Hembrick, Jasper, Ala.; Joseph A. Henry, Crawford, N. J.; Geraldine J. Howard, Kansas City, Mo.; Simmie B. Hunter, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mary A. Johnson, Tuskegee, Ala.; Thomas H. Jones, Athens, Ga.; Bertha Webb Lewis, Beaumont, Tex.; Mary G. Martin, Tuskegee, Ala.; Thelma J. Meeks, Joplin, Mo.; Francina Mae Martin, Sanford, Fla.; Odell K. Mickens, Dade City, Fla.; Mamie H. Mitchell, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mary Frances Moody, Freeport, Pa.; Willie Bessie Nolan, Gladys L. Richardson Owens, Tuskegee, Ala.; Terry M. Patton, Demopolis, Ala.; Zephyrus S. Todd, Selma, Ala.; Emma G. Welborn, Tuskegee, Ala.; Elva J. Wilson, Saul Thomas Wilson, Troy, Ala.; Ruby Henderson Woodruff, Tuskegee, Ala.

Home Economics—Minerva Moore Bacome, Sweetwater, Tenn.; Orinza Cleo Badazier, Kansas City, Mo.; Leola Jones Garey, Miami, Fla.; Angie Lou Crawford, Wichita Falls, Tex.; Louvenua Carutha Harden, Dayton, Ohio; Mary L. Lewis, Gertrude A. Lucas, Bessemer, Ala.; Julia M. McCoy, Shreveport, La.; Estella Martin, Shreveport, La.; Lillie G. Rogers, Eleanor M. Smith, New York City; Gussie J. White, Minnie B. Williams, Birmingham, Ala.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Henry Booker, Organist, Is Heard At Tuskegee Inst.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Henry Booker, well-known organist, was presented in recital by the Tuskegee Institute Entertainment Course in the Institute Chapel, Sunday evening, August 3, at 6:00 o'clock before a large and appreciative audience.

Mr. Booker is an outstanding graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music and is a member of the American Guild of Organists.

Presenting a program representing the different schools of organ composition, the artist brought forth from the organ all the varying colors and beauty of that great instrument. In the opening number, a Largo movement from Handel's 12th Organ concerto, there was a serene beauty in the simple melody played on the beautiful string tones of this organ. The major work of Johann Sebastian Bach, the greatest composer of all times for the organ, the Toccata, Adagio, and Fugue in C major was given a briliant reading. Opening with the Toccata in rapid running passages there was a long and intricate cadenza for pedals along which Mr. Booker played with mastery. The Adagio movement was representative of the very finest melodic beauty of Bach, running into the Fugue which closes the work. The fugue was crystal-clear in enunciation, a quality or organ-technique which is characteristic of all of Mr. Booker's playing, and there was a sparkling vivaciousness in it all.

There followed two Bach Choral-preludes, based on the church hymns of Bach's day, the familiar and lovely "Jesu, joy of man's desiring" and "Now thank we all our God."

In the understanding of Bach, who is the foundation of organ playing, Mr. Booker displayed unusual accomplishment; clear phrasing, voices and melodies well-pronounced, contrast in registration and mastery of technical difficulties.

Other numbers by Farnam, Dickinson, Widor, and an arrangement of the hymn tune, "Abide with me," by Parry, further served to display the beauty of the organ in the hands of this organist.

Unusual and beautiful effects of registration marked the entire concert as one by a young artist of real accomplishment and understanding of his instrument. There lies ahead for this young artist a brilliant career in his chosen field as is testified by such a concert as this and much other similar acclaim which he has received in other places where he has played.

Mr. Booker was called from an active concert and teaching career in Washington in April into the military service of the United States Army and is now a non-commissioned officer stationed at the Infantry Training Center, Camp Croft, South Carolina.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Chicago-Tuskegee Club News

By DANIEL J. FAULKNER

Now that the Tuskegeeans have regained their voices which they lost at the annual Tuskegee-Wilberforce classic in Soldier Field Friday night, October 10, when the Golden Tigers slaughtered the courageous green wave in tucking away one of the most spectacular, and sensationally fought contests of the series, their attention is focused upon another phase of the annual classic, that of attempting to fill many of the very numerous vacant seats at the spacious arena.

In that direction, the executive committee of the club was summoned for a special meeting Friday, October 17, at the Poro college, 4415 South Parkway, by the president, Col. John C. Robinson, to discuss with Capt. R. S. Darnaby ways and means by which the club could best aid in the promotion to double or triple the attendance for the game.

An outline of the plans and suggestions which resulted from the meeting will be submitted to the rank and file members of the organization at the regular monthly meeting, Sunday, October 26, 5:30 p. m., at the Good Shepherd Community Center, 5120 South Parkway.

Among the other interesting reports which are expected to be made at this session is a report of the developments of the special meeting of Tuskegeeans which took place Friday a. m., Oct. 10, at the Poro college, the objectives of the assembly, etc. Also a report of the co-chairmen of the social committee which had charge of the open-house Friday, Oct. 10, at the same address. All Tuskegeeans are especially urged to be present Sunday for this important meeting.

18 -1941

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TODAY'S TALK

BOOKER T.'S THEORY OF YESTERDAY A DREADFUL PHILOSOPHY TODAY

BY A. N. FIELDS

IT HAS taken fifty years for the Negro to realize that Booker Washington was right in his system of education instituted at Tuskegee. It has now developed that Mr. Washington's method of training of that day is the thing needed very much today to make the Negro a greater factor in the defense of America.

We fought industrial education at that time because education was to us a new implement of play. On one side was a leadership that believed that the Negro race should be educated primarily in the higher arts, and in the most difficult sciences. They missed the point, of course, because they did not include as a part of that artistic training the skill of the mechanical technician and the philosphy of making a living closely connected with this art. It is only unfortunate that they scarcely realized how closely interwoven in the fabric of a group's economic status is that group's power in the mechanical technician field.

A. N. Fields

ON LAWYERS, DOCTORS

The thought prevalent in that day among the leaders who advocated higher education was that every mother's son should be a lawyer, doctor or teacher. This was fit and proper in a sense, but only for those who showed such exceptional ability as would justify them to pursue that course.

Lawyers, if they are to be successful in the pursuit of their profession, must have clients. These clients must be capable of paying and their business must be of a respectable nature. No honorable lawyer desires to gain wealth through the dubious activities of a criminal class. Hence, if he is to succeed and his business is to be obtained from members of that group, that group must be a factor in the wealth-getting and wealth-using activities of mankind.

THE SAME is true with respect to the doctor. As to the teacher who went forth to instruct his less fortunate brothers, he and she too, became apostles of the group who advocated higher education. It was natural that the pupils they taught looked in an opposite direction from where they could earn their livelihood, by methods which required the use of their hands. Unfortunately Latin and Greek were given preference over the trowel and the anvil, so after leaving school those who had been taught in the philosophy of higher training could find no fruitful field for profitable sale of their wares.

MEN HAMPERED

Those who found employment at their profession in the southern states were only able to serve poverty stricken communities, hence their opportunity for future study and development of their own minds was seriously hampered.

OUT OF this untoward situation we were forced to accept a leadership whose philosphy of life did not fit in the scheme of a continuous improved social order. That is to say, we did not move with the times. We failed to recognize that the obtaining of freedom and fighting continuously for additional rights were but barren speculations unless we were fully conscious of, and appreciate the corresponding responsibility which goes with freedom.

WE MUST CONTROL

Our failure to appreciate the importance of building econonically from within has placed us on the last rung of the American ladder of progress. A different type of education would have compelled us to sense the importance that in our own communities we should control the sale of such things as food, shoes and clothes.

THESE THREE things everyone must have. In addition thereto laundries and bakeshops in a well organized community are natural necessities. The opportunity of conducting these things were placed at our disposal from the fact that prejudice and proscription placed around us an iron ring within which we are generally compelled to live. This however, was lost sight of, and we allowed other racial groups to move into our midst, build up their fortunes, educate their children, direct our buying activity and create a restricted territory for themselves, from us, but at our expense.

BASIS OF EQUALITY

Equality is not based on empty words, nor lengthy speeches on scientific questions. If there is any rule by which it is measured it is through the ability to approach and compete with the accomplishments of our fellow men. A race that cannot protect its women by affording healthy empoyment cannot regard itself as being on par with progressive people. The ability to care for and maintain respectacle standards of life for the women of the group is the first objective towards equality with other races.

IT HAS been said that "man's grand distinction is his intellect, his mental capacity. It is this which renders him highly and peculiarly responsible to his creator." This grant of power has not been denied to us and we should assume our proper place in the direction of affairs of our fellowmen.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

T. N. Roberts Is Assistant In U. S. D. A.

Has Background, Wide Experience And Varied Career

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(ANP)—Thomas N. Roberts, for the past six years project manager of Tuskegee Development Project, a multiple land use project of the soil conservation service, USDA, has been appointed special assistant to the personnel director, in the office of the Secretary of Agriculture.

His appointment is out of the new policy of the Department of Agriculture to encourage competent and trained young Negroes to seek careers in the various bureaus of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Part of Mr. Robert's duties will consist of making available to the Negro land grant colleges and other institutions information relating to the technical, professional, clerical and social science opportunities within the department of agriculture.

He will also work with Negro students in white land grand colleges and universities with a view to specific preparation in their fielfids of concentration. Since all appointments will be under civil service after July 1, 1941, qualified Negro college and university graduates in agriculture and related fields will be constantly advised of examinations and urged to take them and get on the register.

HAS BROAD TRAINING

Mr. Roberts, who is an "agricultural career man," brings to his new job an interesting background of training and experience. After completing his grammar school education in the Savannah, Ga., public school system, he entered Voorhees Institute, Denmark, S. C., where he received the high school diploma and a certificate in vocational agriculture. He then entered Morehouse College and for two years took special studies in biology and chemistry.

He received the bachelor of science degree in agriculture from Hampton Institute in the class of 1927 where he majored in agricultural education and took a minor in general agriculture. Upon graduating from Hampton, Mr. Robeh was awarded a general education board scholarship which enabled him to enter the University of Wisconsin and pursue courses in agricultural economics. He received the bachelor of science degree in agriculture from the University of Wisconsin in 1928 majoring in general agricultural economics.

In 1931, Mr. Roberts received his first Rosenwald fellowship and returned to the University of Wisconsin where he received the degree of master of science in agricultural economics, majoring in cooperative marketing and purchasing and took minors in agricultural education and land economics. Another Rosenwald fellowship was awarded in 1940, and a third in 1941 permitting Mr. Roberts to complete the work for doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Wisconsin in agricultural economics. He was attending the University of Wisconsin at the time of his appointment as special assistant to the personnel director of the USDA.

Beginning his professional career as a rural school teacher in Camden County, Ga., Mr. Roberts moved steadily up the ladder in his chosen field. He taught vocational agriculture and became the first resident teacher-trainer for vocational agriculture at the Georgia State College in 1928, after graduating from the University of Wisconsin.

He inaugurated the "Quarterly system of Apprenticeship teaching' for prospective "Vo-Ag" teachers in 1929. Mr. Roberts remained at the Georgia State College for six years; while there he also taught courses in agricultural economics and for five years served as camp director of the State 4-H Clubs Camp.

In 1930, Mr. Roberts also taught in the first Negro In-Service Extension School, a coperative venture between the U. S. Extension Service and the Julius Rosenwald Fund. He was stationed at the Nashville, Tenn., and Prairie View, Texas, centers for this work.

FIRST PROJECT MANAGGER

When the Federal Land Utilization Program got under way in 1935, Mr. Roberts was appointed the first Negro project manager of a multiple-land use project in the county. The 12,000 acre Tuskegee project on which extensive operations in forestry, grazing, game and wild life developments, erosion control, fire protection and suppression, the resettlement and rehabilitation of families stranded on the land afforded a large opportunity for analysis of the composite approach to land use.

An excellent staff of Negro technicians, clerical workers, mechanics and supervisors were developed on the project. During his six years as project manager, Mr. Roberts served in several bureaus of the Department of Agriculture, including the Land Policy Section AAA, the Resettlement Administration Farm Security Administration Bureau of Agricultural economics and the Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Roberts is a member of the American Farm Economic Association, the Southern Economic Association, Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity and a vice president of the Hampton General Alumni Association. He is married, his wife Mrs. Emma Lou Goff Roberts, and daughter, Anne Laura, are residents of Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

When asked what he thinks the expected cooperation within and without the department of this new project, we may look forward to the gradual integration of competent Negro technicians in the Washington and field offices for the Department of Agriculture, which initiate, Mr. Roberts said, and "Judging from my observation on a recent trip to Washington and that this is a tough job but I am convinced the problems are by no means insurmountable. With ple. serves so many of our people

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. Patterson's Report Emphasizes Job Needs

JUL 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., July 1—Negro unemployment, in manifold aspects together with Tuskegee Institute's responsibility to continue its program of education with necessary adjustments to meet changing economic conditions in the South and the nation are given appropriate emphasis in the Annual Report just issued by President F. D. Patterson.

Changing conditions "in a nation yet counting its unemployed by the millions" requires educational institutions "to seek wider adaptability of their graduates."

In a broader concept, Dr. Patterson warns that "unless some Negroes are trained in the capacity of specialists in technological areas, the Negro people as a whole shall remain outside of the main stream of American development . . . and fall far short of the balanced development essential for normal participation in American democracy."

Because the greater majority of Tuskegee students come from the South and return to labor in Southern communities, the Tuskegee report emphasizes the need in the South for "skilled technicians to stop the prodigal waste of its soil and other material resources."

A special section of this report is devoted to a review of the growth of the institution during the administration of the late Robert R. Moton, second President of the institution who passed away in 1940.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

65 Soldiers Spend July 4 at Tuskegee

JUL 19 1941

FORT BENNING, Ga.—(ANP)—Sixty-five colored soldiers of the quartermaster detachment, corps area service command, spent July 4 at Tuskegee Institute.

The trip was made in army trucks, under the direction of Second Lieut. James A. Bickerson, who was aided by Warrant Officer Henry Moore, an alumnus of the institute. Both are members of the corps area service command. The men entrucked at 7:30 a. m., carried a luncheon with them, and returned to Fort Benning at 7:00 p. m. the same day.

The purpose of the trip, aside from a holiday excursion, was to acquaint the men with the opportunities which are being afforded Negroes at the institute.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

White Blasts 'Kegee Prexy On Air Corps

JUL 26 1941

BORDENTOWN, N. J.—Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, speaking on the Negro in National Defense at the Y.M.C.A. Labor Men's Conference here last week, vigorously condemned President F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee institute for throwing what he called "stumbling blocks" in the path of those who are waging a fight to open all military aviation training centers to Negroes.

He was backed up in his contention by Judge William H. Hastie, civilian aide to the secretary of war; and Hubert Delaney, member of the board of directors of the U. S. O.

White argued that jim crow facilities place limits upon the opportunities for Negroes, and are a serious blow to racial pride and self respect and should never be sought even though they seem to promise immediate gains.

He stated that Negroes who favor segregation have jim crow conditioned minds and are only in favor of jim crow because it enables them to do a sub standard job and get away with it.

It was his opinion that the successful application filed with the War Department by Dr. Patterson for a jim crow aviation training center at the school will result in the training of a very small number of Negro flyers and also act as a stumbling block in the current fight to open all military aviation training centers to Negroes.

Judge Hastie, civilian aide to the secretary of war, supported White and added that "we should let the other fellow figure out a solution to the segregation pattern over our objection and not accept segregation voluntarily."

White's statement were enthusiastically welcomed by members of the National Airmen's association in Chicago. Spokesmen for the airmen indicated that they planned to continue their fight against discrimination in the air forces with renewed vigor.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
August 12, 1941

TUSKEGEE GIVES SEASON AWARDS

71 Students At Summer Session Get Bachelor Of Science Degrees

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Aug. 11—Eight students received diplomas and 71 were awarded the bachelor of science degree at the commencement exercises of the Tuskegee Institute Summer school session Friday night. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, led the academic procession from Dorothy Hall to the chapel. It marked the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of Tuskegee. Dr. Patterson also delivered the commencement address.

"We are looking back tonight on 60 years of continuous educational service to the state and nation and we are glad to express our sacred gratitude to those who made this occasion possible," the president stated. He pointed out that the college graduate offers a ray of hope to a war-torn world.

Top Honors To Missourian

Thelma Meeks, of Joplin, Mo., highest honor student, received her bachelor of science degree in education. Music was rendered by the Tuskegee Institute Summer Choir, Mrs. Alberta Simms conducting. Saul Thomas Wilson, Troy, Ala., conducted the devotions.

Dr. I. A. Derbigny, dean of administration, presented the heads of the various departments, who in turn presented the members of the graduating class. The degrees were conferred by Dr. Patterson.

Those receiving diplomas: Seth E. Alexander (automobile maintenance), Lizell Peterson Allen (education), Rebecca Fitzpatrick (education), Lois Smith (education), Louis A. Gavin (automobile maintenance), Lillian Edna Gregory (education), Ira Swain (tailoring), Pearl M. Williams (education), Johnie Wortham (shoe repairing and leather work).

List Of Graduates

Receiving the bachelor of science degree were:

Agriculture—William C. Allen, Five Points, Ala.; Ewing Tipton Brooks, Dalton, Ga.; James Monroe Conley, Livingston, Ala.; Wilmor C. Easton, Jr., Gulfport, Miss.; Rufua Hatten, Alfred Lee Hay, Brownsville, Tenn.; Mark Edmond Kiel, Coffeeville, Ala.; Esses B. Lampkin, Henry J. Matthews, Anniston, Ala.; Berry Minor, Cotton Plant, Ark.; Clarence Harrison Saunders, Enterprise, Ala.; Robert L. Shepherd.

Commercial Dietetics—Hiawatha M. Malone, Malokoff, Tex.; Claytee McAlister, Starr, S. C.; Ruth V. Perkins, New York City; Clarence Sanders Smith, Fort Worth, Tex.; F. Davis Stafford, Montclair, N. J.; Gertrude Stallworth, Beatrice, Ala.; Clara E. Stephens, Monroeville, Ala.; Joseph R. Battle, Tyler, Tex.; Lavonia K. Bolden, Detroit, Mich.; William E. Brunson, Greenwood, S. C., Marion P. Clem, Springfield, Ill.; William M. Driggins, Corning, N. Y.; Charles Wallace Francis, Lexington, Ky.

Education—Charlie Frankie Armstrong, Wayne, Mich.; Sallye M. Brooks, Jacksonville, Fla.; Wilhelmina Welch Burrell, Tuskegee, Ala.; Audrey Bacon Byrd, Tuskegee, Ala.; Eliza M. Charles, Madge Revere Cravens, Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala.; Sarah Jeter Downs, Raleigh, Fla.; Willia Johnson Earl, Mobile, Ala.; Alma Goodrich, Birmingham, Ala.; Willie Shelton Goodson, Birmingham, Ala.; Thelma M. Hembrick, Jasper, Ala.; Joseph A. Henry, Crawford, N. J.; Geraldine J. Howard, Kansas City, Mo.; Simmie B. Hunter, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mary A. Johnson, Tuskegee, Ala.; Thomas H. Jones, Athens, Ga.; Bertha Webb Lewis, Beaumont, Tex.; Mary G. Martin, Tuskegee, Ala.; Thelma J. Meeks, Joplin, Mo.; Francina Mae Martin, Sanford, Fla.; Odell K. Mickens, Dade City, Fla.; Mamie H. Mitchell, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mary Frances Moody, Freeport, Pa.; Willie Bessie Nolan, Gladys L. Richardson Owens, Tuskegee, Ala.; Terry M. Patton, Demopolis, Ala.; Zephyrus S. Todd, Selma, Ala.; Emma G. Welborn, Tuskegee, Ala.; Elva J. Wilson, Saul Thomas Wilson, Troy, Ala.; Ruby Henderson Woodruff, Tuskegee, Ala.

Home Economics—Minerva Moore Bacome, Sweetwater, Tenn.; Orinza Cleo Badazier, Kansas City, Mo.; Leola Jean Carey, Miami, Fla.; Angie Lou Crawford, Wichita Falls, Tex.; Louvenua Carutha Harden, Dayton, Ohio; Mary L. Lewis, Gertrude A. Lucas, Bessemer, Ala.; Julia M. McCoy, Shreveport, La.; Estella Martin, Shreveport, La.; Lillie G. Rogers, Eleanor M. Smith, New York City; Gussie J. White, Minnie B. Williams, Birmingham, Ala.

SCHOOL FOR NEGRO MIDWIVES PLANNED

By United Press.

TUSKEGEE, Sept. 4.—A shortage of physicians in rural areas of the South has led to the establishment of a school for Negro nurse-midwives—and it will open here Sept. 15.

The school will be conducted jointly by the state and Macon County Health Departments, the Rosenwald Fund, Tuskegee Institute and the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

The John A. Andrews Memorial Hospital will be the instruction center and Miss Margaret W. Thomas, a native of Baltimore and until recently assistant director of the Maternity Center Assn. of New York City, will be chief instructor.

Birmingham, Ala., Post
Birmingham, Ala.

Graduate nurses.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

FWA Gives Approval To Tuskegee Project

SEP 5 1941

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A site near Tuskegee Institute for the construction of 30 dwellings to house families of enlisted and civilian personnel at the Tuskegee (Ala.) air base for training negro pilots was approved today by the Federal Works Administration.

The five-acre site will be leased from Tuskegee Institute. It is adjacent to the institute and Greenwood Village, with frontage on Franklin Road, about three miles from Tuskegee and six miles from the air base.

John M. Carmody, FWA administrator, said the project would be built under supervision of FWA's defense housing division, and a negro architect would prepare the plans and specifications.

The defense housing coordinator has recommended construction of 55 dwellings by private builders for the families of non-commissioned officers, in addition to the Government defense housing project of 30 dwellings.

Huntsville, Ala., Times
October 12, 1941

Nurses Training To Be Increased

Two Alabama Schools Receive Part Of $900,000 Appropriation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Eighty-eight nursing schools were selected by the U.S. Public Health service today to receive a total of $900,000 for training student nurses.

The program, the funds for which were provided in the Federal Security Agency Appropriation Act, was expected to increase enrollment by 2,000 young women. Surgeon General Thomas Parran estimated there would be need for 50,000 student nurses this year, because of increased demand of the armed services and defense industries. The average yearly enrollment is about 40,000.

The amount each school will receive and the number of additional students expected for each was not announced.

Among the schools were:

Alabama — Baptist Hospital School of Nursing, Birmingham; Tuskegee Institute School of Nursing, Tuskegee.

18y-1941

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Dr. Walter G. Crump Given Medal At Tuskegee Inst.

APR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—The John A. Andrew Clinical Society, Tuskegee Institute, opened its twenty-fourth annual meeting Monday morning, with over a hundred and fifty physicians present. President Spencer D. Dickerson, M.D., Chicago, was in the chair. Dr. John A. Kenney, secretary-treasurer of the Society, introduced Walter G. Crump, M.D., honorary president of the Society, head of Flower Hospital, New York City, member of the staff of at least a dozen other hospitals and for twenty years a governor of the American College of Surgeons.

APR 19 1941

Dr. Crump was awarded the first C. V. Roman Medal for distinguished service in medicine, at the C. V. Roman Public Health Meeting, Wednesday night in the Institute Chapel. Eugene H. Dibble, M.D., U.S. Veterans Facility, presiding introduced Dr. F. D. Patterson president, Tuskegee Institute, who made the award. As President Patterson pinned on the gold disk the audience of 2500 visitors, students and factulty rose to its feet with prolonged applause.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE TO BE HOST TO SPEECH, DRAMA MEET

APR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, April 17—(ANP)—The Southern Association of Drama and Speech Arts will hold its annual conference at Tuskegee Institute, April 23-26. At this time will be held the usual dramatic festival with one-act plays presented by several of the member schools, and in addition addresses by men prominent in the fields of drama and speech will be heard. The seminars will be conducted by directors of the several schools who are experts in the several branches of the theater arts.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

WHAT ABOUT INDUSTRIAL TRAINING?

FEB 1 1941

AND SPEAKING OF TUSKEGEE, we are reminded that the tendency of most Negro educational institutions during the past decade has been to place less emphasis on industrial training and more on the purely academic subjects. While we agree that there is need for the raising of the academic standards of all our schools, we also believe that it is a mistake to educate Negroes for professions only.

FEB 1 1941

Trained mechanics are as vital to a democracy as professional men, who cannot become prosperous unless the masses of the people have a measure of security and are able to pay for such services as are afforded by physicians, dentists, ministers and teachers. It has also been proved that a great many more people are able to learn to do things with their hands than can successfully take a professional course in any college. Many people, white and colored, are mechanically minded and industrial training for such people might make them more useful citizens than were they to try to undertake a career for which they have less aptitude.

FEB 1 1941

Governor Lawrence W. Cramer of the Virgin Islands in his last annual report to the Secretary of Interior quoted Rear Admiral James H. Oliver, the first American Governor of the Virgin Islands, on the educational needs of those islands, as follows:

"The existing system of public instruction in these islands leaves about every thing to be desired. . . . The inhabitants need above everything else instruction in the use of their hands and the existing school system supplies such instruction not at all. There are no normal schools so that natives can look forward to seeing their children as school instructors even if they display natural abilities for entering that profession. No school exists in the islands where children might obtain technical schooling in the trades, nor is there an agricultural training school."

FEB 1 1941

Rear Admiral Oliver made the above statement in 1917, and a few years later a President of the United States was to remark on the poverty of the peoples of these islands.

In our opinion unless greater emphasis is placed on industrial training for Negroes, both in the North as well as the South, we too will find ourselves in much the same position as natives of the Virgin Islands are today, with the masses of the Negro population becoming more and more dependent on the paternalism of the federal government.

It is quite true that many handicaps of our group are due to outside influences, but we can do much to help ourselves if we but realized the truth of Dr. Washington's statement that any honest labor is dignified and that a bricklayer or farmer can be just as useful to society as those who seek leadership.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tuskegee Head Addresses New York Alumni

APR 26 1941

NEW YORK, April 24—Dr. Frederick [illegible]erson, president of Tuskegee Institute, speaking at the annual Founder's Day exercises of the New York Tuskegee Alumni Association held at the Mt. Calvary Methodist Church praised the ideals of the late Booker T. Washington, and defended his administration at Tuskegee. Dr. Patterson pointed out that there are few skilled Negroes in the South. He also praised the work of the late Dr. Robert R. Moton, the successor to Booker T. Washington, who justified the faith in Negro leadership. Dr. Patterson in speaking of those who had stood by Booker T. Washington in his work at Tuskegee referred to the aid that had been given to the founder by Monroe Work, Dr. John A. Kenny, J. H. Palmer, George Washington Carver, C. J. Galloway, Fred R. Moore, editor of the New York Age; Warren Logan, Dr. Emmett J. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. T. Edward Owens, Frank Chisholm, Ernest T. Atwell and J. R. E. Lee.

APR 26 1941

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
April 15, 1941

Haile Selassie's Pilot Visitor At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., April 14—Col. John C. Robinson, noted negro flyer, arrived here yesterday in his Stinson plane to spend a few days in consultation with President F. D. Patterson and Director G. L. Washington on plans for courses in aviation mechanics in connection with the flying fields soon to be constructed here.

Robinson received the title of "Colonel" when he served some years ago as colonel-commander of the Ethiopian air force and personal pilot for His Majesty, Hailie Selassie. In an interview today he stated that he has been invited to return to Ethiopia to resume his former duties.

Col. Robinson, who has had some special advanced training at Chanute Field, is director of an NYA aviation class in Chicago. He is a native of Gulfport, Miss., and received much of his early training at Tuskegee Institute.

Tallahassee, Fla. Democrat
April 3, 1941

Tuskegee Holds Edge for Negroes' First Air Squadron

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — Collegians swiftly sprouting wings at this old institute are convinced they'll win most of the 33 pilot assignments when the army's first all-negro air unit—the 99th pursuit squadron—is activated Oct 1.

The 99th is moving a long step nearer reality this month with the recruiting of the 276-man ground crew from among high school graduaes who must pass special aptitude tests. Selection of these men is expected to take only a few weeks.

Reason Tuskegeeans are confident they hold the edge for the coveted cadet appointments is that Tuskegee is the only negro college with an advanced school set up under the civilian pilot training program of the civil aeronautics board.

Amazing speed has marked the growth of this school. Authorized in 1940, students started hitch-hiking 40 miles to Montgomery to take their lessons because there was no field here. Then a temporary field was cleared only seven miles away.

By the time some students worked to the advance flying stage and Tuskegee provided a $10,000 army type training plane, white students at nearby Auburn (Alabama Polytech) voted unanimously to let the negro fliers use their field and hangar.

Now a new field has been leased here, the institute fleet has grown to 12 planes, shop facilities have been built, engine laboratories set up. Charles A Anderson, first negro to win a commercial pilot's license, runs the program and holds an army contract to give elementary training to the fledglings of the 99th.

The cadets will meet the same requirements as for white air corps fliers, having two years of college education—or the ability to pass an examination showing equivalent knowledge,—must be single and between 20 and 27 years of age.

Norfolk, Va., Pilot
April 7, 1941

Tuskegee Holds Founder's Day

Booker T. Washington's Slogan Recalled at Negro Institute

Tuskegee, Ala., April 6.—(AP)—Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, celebrated Founder's Day with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man'," Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

"Our great founder who, born a slave and a black boy, went forward asking no special consideration because of his color" was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, as "an inspiration" to tens of thousands.

As the Founder's Day program opened, more than 75 physicians and surgeans already had arrived for the 30th annual clinic and 24th meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

Durham, N. C., Morning Herald
April 4, 1941

SPAULDING UNABLE TO ATTEND SERVICE

Local Negro Leader Asked To Participate In Tuskegee Exercises

C. C. Spaulding, president of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, was invited to participate in the formal memorial exercises at Tuskegee Institute today in honor of the late president, Dr. Robert Russa Moton, who died May 30, 1940.

Circumstances are such that President Spaulding could not attend the services much to his regret. In a statement yesterday the local Negro executive gave an appreciation of Dr. Moton's life work and sent a telegram to the noted Negro institution made famous by the late Booker T. Washington and Dr. Moton.

President Spaulding and Dr. Moton were close friends and were associated in the work of the National Negro Business League, of which Dr. Moton was president for a number of years.

Quoting Dr. Moton's farewell words to the Negro Business League, President Spauding said: "I hope we will always cherish the memory of this beloved person and seek to emulate his noble and eventful life."

Dr. Moton's farewell word was: "In the future we should give no less attention to the inspirational aspect of business development, but we should also if we are true to the ideals and aspirations of Booker Washington, emphasize more the business efficiency aspect and share more largely and effectively in the financial affairs of the nation, especially as touching and affecting our group; for whatever affects in a business way one group of American citizens must of necessity affect other groups."

Spaulding sent the following telegram to Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute:

"It is with regret I find myself unable to be present and express in person the high esteem in which I hold the memory of the individual to whom tribute is being paid. Tuskegee Institute, the nation and the Negro race as fortunate in that a man like Robert Russa Moton lived and labored in their midst. His life was one of usefulness. His constructive san leadership and unselfish service will ever serve as a guiding light to Tuskegee Institute, the National Business League, and the many educational, civic and religious agencies with which he was identified. He was a friend of the people and the influence of his noble life will long serve as an inspiration to those who follow him."

Gadsden Ala Call-Post
4-19-41

Tuskegee Votes $200,000 For Aviation

Dr. William J. Schieffelin, New York City, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Tuskegee Institute, states in the meeting of the Board, April 5 and 6, the most important decision by the Board was the Resolution to make military flying a part of the educational work of Tuskegee Institute. He said the Board voted unanimously to appropriate $200,000 to purchase and equip a 800 acre field three miles from the campus for the military flying program.

Dr. Schieffelin stated further that the Board had expressed satisfaction that this first opportunity for young Negro aviators to serve in the Pursuit Squadron of the U. S. Army Air Corps was to materialize at Tuskegee Institute. This new unit, he said, was being set up as a result of a nation-wide demand that was stressed at a conference on "The Negro in National Defense" recently held at Hampton Institute, Virginia.

Dr. Schieffelin expressed for the Board appreciation of the fine way President Patterson, faculty, and student body have been able to carry forward the Tuskegee Program despite the slightly curtailed budget.

Dr. Heningburg who was nominated by the Alumni for membership on the Board of Trustees, was an honor graduate from Tuskegee Institute in 1920. He received a Rosenwald Scholarship to Grinnel College, Iowa, and was graduated from that Institute in 1924, a member of Phi Kappa National Honor Society. After a few years of teaching, Mr. Heningburg spent nearly two years in study at the Sorbonne in France, and travel-study in Spain and Italy. He returned to America to hold important positions on the Faculty of Tuskegee Institute, successively, Head of the Division of Romance Languages in the high school and college, Principal of the Tuskegee Institute High School, Personnel Director, Tuskegee Institute. At present, Dr. Heningburg is special assistant to the President of North Carolina College for Negroes in Durham.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE HAS 1ST MEMORIAL FOR DR. MOTON

APR 20 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., April 17—Reminiscences and personal tributes marked Tuskegee Institute's first formal memorial service to the second president of the school, Dr. Robert R. Moton, held in the Institute chapel here last Friday afternoon.

Principal addresses were delivered by Leo M. Favrot of the Louisiana State university, Baton Rouge, and former field representative of the General Education Board, and Dr. Channing H. Tobias, secretary, National Council, Young Men's Christian Association, New York.

Brief expressions of appreciation were given by Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, chairman, Tuskegee board of trutees; President F. D. Patterson, Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, manager, U. S. Veterans Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala.; Albon L. Holsey, who served as Dr. Moton's secretary for more than a decade; Alvin J. Neely, executive secretary, Tuskegee Alumni association, and Major Walter R. Brown, dean of men, Hampton Institute, who was accompanied by a squad of Hampton Institute cadets.

Miss Ozella Holman of Tulsa, Okla., and representing the class of 1941, Tuskegee Institute, read excerpts from Dr. Moton's address delivered at the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C.

APR 20 1941

Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett of A. and T. college, Greensboro, N. C., who was choir conductor at Hampton while Dr. Moton was there, was guest conductor of the Tuskegee choir which rendered two of his own compositions, "L'Envoi" and "Gently Lord, O Gently Lead Us." A violin solo, "Londonderry Air", was rendered by Jack Montgomery.

Captain Neely read telegrams and messages from both white and Negro leaders. Government officials who sent messages included Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, Senators Bankhead and Hill from Alabama, and Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell. Presidents of Negro Land-Grant colleges and other educators sent expressions of appreciation. Messages from Dr. J. E. Walker of Memphis and C. C. Spaulding of Durham, both of whom have served as president of the Business League since Dr. Moton's retirement as active leader of the organization.

Dr. Howard W. Odum, Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jackson Davis of the General Education Board, Eugene Kinckle Jones, Dr. W. W. Alexander, President Malcolm S. MacLean of Hampton, Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, Emmett J. Scott, P. B. Young, Carl Murphy and Fred R. Moore were among others who sent telegrams and letters expressing appreciation for Dr. Moton's contribution to education, interracial understanding and general progress of the Negro.

APR 20 1941

Dr. G. Lake Imes, former secretary of the school, presided.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

The Elements at The Classic

THE Tuskegee-Wilberforce annual football classic has begun to attract a type of person who adds nothing to the prestige of the affair. The recent football game at Soldier's Field verifies this fact.

At that game the football fans who witnessed the athletic event saw multiple, unscheduled sideshows characteristic of warped behaviour patterns and traits possessed by the hoodlum element who is as much out of place at a football game as a goldfish is in a movie house.

This element did everything it could to bring the classic into disrepute.

The promoters of the game will have to discourage such persons from attending the game or lose the patronage of those which has been built up through the years.

APR 20 1941

18y-1941

E. W. Burke, Tuskegee Secretary Passes Away

MAR 15 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP)—Edmund H. Burke, secretary of Tuskegee Institute, died at John M. Andrus hospital here Friday morning at 3:30. Mr. Burke, an expert in the field of accounting and auditing, was born in the British West Indies and received his early education in Martinque.

Elected secretary of the board of trustees after valuable service as comptroller, he was beloved by students and faculty. A regular teacher in the Episcopal Mission's Sunday school, Mr. Burke took courses in agriculture and related subjects, to give himself the feel of the current day student's viewpoint.

MAR 15 1941

At one time Mr. Burke served as auditor for one of the most important importing firms in lower New York City. It was his remarkable record there which led to his service at Tuskegee. Mr. Burke leaves a widow and daughter, both of whom live in New York City where funeral services will be held

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland
FEB 22 1941

ALA. MAN TO SERVE WITH DEFENSE TRAINING GROUP

TUSKEGEE —(ANP)— T. M. Campbell, field agent of U. S. agricultural extension service, has accepted the invitation to serve as a consultant connected with the newly established committee of national defense training in Alabama.

Huntsville, Ala., Times
March 7, 1941

Tuskegee Comprtoller, Edmund H. Burke Dies

TUSKEGEE, March 7 (AP)—Edmund H. Burke, comptroller of Tuskegee Institute, died here today, after having been stricken yesterday while at his desk. He did not regain consciousness.

Burke was one of the founders of the American Tennis Association, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, and during the first World War was adjutant of the 369th Infantry, New York.

Opelika, Ala. News
March 7, 1941

COMPTROLLER, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, DIES TODAY

Tuskegee, Ala., March 7.—(AP)—Edmund H. Burke, comptroller of Tuskegee Institute, died here today. He was stricken yesterday at his desk and did not regain consciousness.

Burke was one of the founders of the American Tennis Association.

Troy, Ala., Messenger
March 7, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Comptroller Dies

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 7—(AP)—Edmund H. Burke, comptroller of Tuskegee Institute, died there today. He was stricken yesterday at his desk and did not regain consciousness. Burke was one of the American Tennis Association members

Tuscaloosa, Ala., News
March 7, 1941

COMPTROLLER DIES.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 7—(AP)—Edmund H. Burke, comptroller of Tuskegee Institute, died here today, after having been stricken yesterday while at his desk. He did not regain consciousness.

Montgomery, Ala. Journal
March 7, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Comptroller Dies

TUSKEGEE, March 7.—(AP)—Edmund H. Burke, comptroller of Tuskegee Institute, died here today, after having been stricken yesterday while at his desk. He did not regain consciousness.

Burke was one of the founders of the American Tennis Association, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, and during the first World War was adjutant of the 369th Infantry, New York.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON TO BE HONORED IN BROADCAST FROM TUSKEGEE

JAN 30 1941

Tuskegee will be the setting for a nationwide broadcast honoring Booker T. Washington this Sunday, February 2nd at 2:00 P. M. EST when Ted Malone brings his American Pilgrimage here to broadcast from Mr. Washington's study at "The Oaks" on the Tuskegee campus. The program, which will be heard over the coast-to-coast Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company, is the 17th in a series of thirty-one broadcasts being made by Ted Malone from the homes and shrines of great American authors. Heads of English departments in 400 universities and colleges chose the authors to be honored in a survey conducted last spring.

Broadcasting from the study where Mr. Washington spent evenings with his family and where his books, photographs, diplomas, medals, and degrees are kept today, Mr. Malone will retell the familiar story of the great educator and author of "Up From Slavery." A group of Tuskegee student will furnish background music of spirituals and contemporaries of Mrs. Washington's at Tuskegee will be present, as well as President F. D. Patterson.

JAN 30 1941

The story of what a hunger for better things and a passionate desire for education can accomplish began when Booker Washington was a slave valued at $400 and son of a slave-mother who was a cook on the Burroughs plantation near Lynchburg, Virginia. He had his first taste of what a schoolroom looked like when he carried the "Master's" children's books to school. From the first opportunity to study which came after the Civil War when the family moved to Malden, West Virginia, he dreamed of Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute as the "gates of Heaven" and although he had to sleep under a board in the sidewalk in Richmond on his way to Hampton, it was only a few years before he was appointed to the faculty of the same institution.

The chapter on Tuskegee Institute, the crowning achievement of his life, began when he started teaching about forty students in a "dilapidated shanty near the Methodist church which was in such poor repair that when it rained a student would leave his lessons and hold an umbrella over me while I heard recitations. He was an inspiration to his students, and his ability to plead his cause brilliantly throughout the north and south won the admiration of the whole nation as well as the personal friendship of the most prominent men of his day. When Booker T. Washington died in 1915, Tuskegee owned over 27,000 acres of land and 100 buildings, had 1,537 students and 197 faculty members.

Ted Malone who will make this broadcast tried out his technique of "story-telling-on-the-spot" last year when he visited the poets' homes. This year again he is working on the theory that a certain amount of awe is attached to actually being in the house where a great man lived and worked and that by radio the feeling may be transmitted to the vast audience which can never hope to make such a pilgrimage in reality. Whenever possible, he uses some sound effects, such as the rustling of a famous manuscript or the striking of a clock, the rapping of a cane or the scratching of a pen. Malone is also familiar to a large weekday audience for his poetry reading program, "Between the Bookends," and to readers of Good Housekeeping Magazine, of which he is Poetry Editor.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Robert R. Moton Memorial April 4

MAR 14 1941

TUSKEGEE. — (ANP) — On Friday afternoon, April 4, Tuskegee students, faculty and friends, will assemble in the Institute chapel to pay memorial tribute to Robert R. Moton, successor to Booker T. Washington and president-emeritus of Tuskegee at the time of his death, May 31, 1940.

Lee Favrot, educator and for many years a member of the General Education board, and Dr. Channing Tobias of the national board of the Y.M.C.A. have accepted the invitation of Dr. F. D. Patterson to deliver the principal addresses on the memorial program.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Offer Free Trip To Dedication In 'Kegee Drive

FEB 23 1941

Daniel J. Faulkner, executive secretary, Tuskegee institute Airport Fund Campaign, announced early this week that the Citizens Committee of the drive has completed arrangements to give a free trip to the dedication of the airport to the major raising the highest amount over his quota of $250. Faulkner explained that this action was the result of a letter from Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee institute, to Brig. Gen. S. C. Dickerson, chairman of the Chicagoland drive. The letter stated, it is said, a request that the drive be stepped up, as the school needs the airport immediately to develop its Civilian Pilot Training Programs. It further stated that the facilities of the army air unit (scheduled to be established in that community) definitely would not be available to the trainees in the civilian aviation which is in operation at the school. FEB 23 1941

25 Majors Eligible

Under the arrangements, twenty-five majors are eligible to compete for this trip as the guest of the committee. The airport fund drive is operated in four divisions with each having five majors. They are: the army division, commanded by Capt. Richard Jones; air corps, Col. John C. Robinson; navy, commanded by Arthur W. Sewell; medical corps, Dr. Mary F. Waring; marine corps, under command of Mrs. LeRoy Henry.

The group will hold a joint meeting with the Chicago-Tuskegeeans Sunday, February 23, at the Poro college, 4415 South Parkway, at 5 p.m.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Gets Senior ROTC Unit

MAR 15 1941

MAR 14 1941

TUSKEGEE (SNS)—President F. D. Patterson, of Tuskegee Institute, announced Wednesday that the famed institution had been awarded a senior ROTC unit by the war Department.

MAR 14 1941

The award means that ROTC graduate now will be eligible for commission in the Army Reserves, according to Dr. Patterson. He said that it was his opinion that the new unit's endeavors would be dovetailed with those of the Air Corps' Pursuit School here.

Tuskegee long has been noted for its military unit.

Clayton, Ala., Record
March 6, 1941

TUSKEGEE QUINTETT COMING TO CLAYTON

The Tuskegee Quintett will appear at the Clayton Court House, Sunday, March 9, at 3:15 p. m., under the auspices of the Barbour County Training School.

Both white and colored are cordially invited to hear these singers. A small admission fee will be charged, which will go to the school. 1tp.

Dothan, Ala., Eagle
March 21, 1941

Tuskegee To Offer Course In Midwifery

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)— A school of midwifery, to give special training to graduate nurses and fit them for service in the rural districts, will be held at Tuskegee Institute this spring.

Preparations for the course are well under way, and the work is expected to be explained during the 13th annual clinnic of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society here April 6-11.

Birmingham Ala. Age-Herald
March 17, 1941

How Tuskegee Serves

For the past six years, Tuskegee Institute has been publishing a monthly magazine called Service, which almost perfectly exemplifies the basic Tuskegee plan of rendering practical, effective aid to Negroes generally and thus to the whole Southern region. The magazine is devoted from month to month to emphasis on restaurant and hotel management, operation and service. It is used as a follow-up to Tuskegee graduates to assist them in improving their effectiveness in all capacities in the restaurant and hotel business from bellhops, to waiters, to cooks, to departmental and general management.

If one wants to know what Tuskegee is and what Tuskegee means, a perusal of the monthly magazine offers a very good idea, for it gets down to cases and problems, and it emphasizes in every way feasible the sort of efficiency and effectiveness that has usually characterized Tuskegee graduates.

The following editorial from the current issue of Service is of particular interest in connection with the kind of work Tuskegee is trying to do under President Patterson's skilled guidance:

Tuskegee Institute offers a course in the field of food preparation, food handling and general food theory which is presented under the head of commercial dietetics.

Those who take the course are fitted for service in the highest type of food-handling establishments, in the best hotels, restaurants, hospitals and other institutions. There is a demand for Tuskegee commercial dietetics graduates. The graduates have uniformly "delivered the goods" when placed in service. Numerous letters have been received by the head of the department at Tuskegee commending the work of the commercial dietetics graduates and praising the course.

This issue of Service Magazine carries articles commemorating the fourth anniversary of the course. We urge our subscribers and readers to read these articles. We urge that they be read because Service Magazine is dedicated to "service". . . because it is a publication which is a direct outgrowth of Tuskegee's desire to follow its graduates out into life and work, and aid them in the great job of keeping abreast of trends and developments in the various vocational fields . . . because Service Magazine is the "town crier" for Tuskegee's pioneer and unique course in training service workers for service occupations, as symbolized by the course in commercial dietetics.

This rather sums up the contemporary application of the Booker Washington ideal that actuated him in founding the institute.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Daily Times
March 25, 1941

REPRESENTATIVE NAMED BY EAST FIFTH SCHOOL

Pearl Williams, sponsor, and Ann Taylor, council official of the East Fifth Street School Junior Red Cross have been selected to represent the school at the national Junior Red Cross conference, March 28-29, at Tuskegee institute, Alabama.

The school's council, organized in both elementary and junior high school departments, has "made definite contributions to the development of our community," Prof. J. L. Jenkins, principal, said yesterday, and listed its accomplishments. Making calendars for veterans and crippled soldiers at Johnson City; securing baskets for the East Fifth Street school nursery and Newton Community center; groceries for the colored orphans at the Holly Street orphanage, and raising funds to equip and maintain a first-aid room at the school among the work.

Prof. Jenkins, area scout commissioner of Negro Boy Scouts, also announced the Rev. H. Joe Johnson, pastor or Orchard Knob Baptist church, as the principal speaker at the fourteenth annual sermon of the scouts, at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Scouts will mobilize at the Lincoln Community center, Holly street, at 1 p.m., and will parade through the Churchville and Bushtown sections before proceeding to the church at East Third and Hawthorne.

The outstanding scout for 1940 will be presented with the William V. Ochs award, which is an official scout watch. The most popular scoutmaster will be presented and an Eagle scout named, as special features of the program.

Dunnellon, Fla.,
March 21, 194

HAITIAN VISITS STATE TO STUDY AGRICULTURE

Gainesville, Fla. — After studying and observing Florida agriculture for five weeks, Gardf Neptune, of Port au Prince, Haiti, recently returned to Tuskeegee Institute in Alabama to colplete work on the degree he will receive in May.

While in the state, Neptune conferrede with Frank Pinder, Alachua Negro, farm agent, and other Negro extension workers, and visited many Negro farmers in Alachua and Hillsborough counties. He was very much impressed with the extnet of diversification on some farms operated by Negroes in Florida and said he was going to emphasize a similar program when he returns to Haiti next summer to do agricultural demonstration work for the Haitian government.

Birmingham Ala., Age-Herald
March 22, 1941

MIDWIFERY TO BE TAUGHT

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 21—(AP)—A school of midwifery, to give special training to graduate nurses and fit them for service in the rural districts, will be held at Tuskegee Institute this Spring. The work is expected to be explained during the annual clinic of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society here April 6-11.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Old Grads Flay Lack of Athletes

APR 5 - 1941

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Failure of Tuskegee Institute's athletic teams to reach the heights which former Tiger teams attained brought a demand this week from the school's alumni association for a more "liberal policy" which will invite outstanding athletic material to the school.

The Birmingham Tuskegee Club, E. G. Adams, president, pased a resolution at its last meeting recommending that the chairman of the athletic committee at Tuskegee be selected from the alumni association and that whatever funds derived from athletic activities be converted into an athletic fund.

In addition, the graduates urged that a more liberal policy be shaped that will be inviting to more outstanding athletic material.

APR 5 - 1941

Policy Restricted

Tuskegee was once the power of the nation's athletic teams, particularly in football, but in recent years the school has produced only mediocre teams. Much stress has been put on minor sports, tennis and track and field, together with women's athletic activities.

In a statement on the resolution, the alumni emphasized that the athletic policy has been so shaped or restricted by the present administration that it has invited much public criticism, and that graduates throughout the country feel that the lack of the advertising value of an outstanding athletic activity and the lack of a more liberal policy toward athletics has in a large measure hurt attendance.

APR 5 - 194

The graduates charge that the change in policy of having as chairman of the athletic committee, a member of the alumni association, and converting athletic income to general funds instead of placing it into an athletic fund "may or may not have contributed to the falling off of outstanding activities in that department."

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE SENDS TWO DELEGATES TO RED CROSS MEET

APR 26 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 24—The Junior Red Cross of Tuskegee Institute Chapter is sending two delegates, Helen Dibble and Harvey Davis, to the National Red Cross Convention in Washington, April 21-24, Dr. F. D. Patterson, chairman, Tuskegee Institute Chapter, announced today. Helen and Harvey are outstanding members of the eighth grade of the Chambliss Children's House, campus Laboratory School of the School of Education, Tuskegee Institute.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Director Awarded Master's Degree

NOV 1 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—J Julius Flood, personnel director at Tuskegee institute, has received the master of arts degree in education from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. The degree was conferred at the close of the 1941 summer school session in August.

J. J. Flood

Flood majored in student personnel and guidance. In addition to his regular duties at Tuskegee institute as personnel director, Flood also serves as placement officer and director of the institute's entertainment course. He holds membership in the American College Personnel association, the National Vocational Guidance association and the National Institutional Teacher-Placement association. He is also a member of the Kappa Alpha Psi and of Phi Boule of Sigma Pi Phi.

18y-1941
Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Johnston-Clark Wedding Solemnized At Tuskegee

APR 15 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., April 14. — The marriage of Miss Edythe Mae Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. A. Johnston, to Selburn M. Clark, was solemnized on Thursday afternoon at 4:30, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev Harry V. Richardson, chaplain of Tuskegee Institute, performed the ceremony in the presence of a group of friends and relatives of the bridal couple.

An improvised altar was formed in the living room before a bank of palms and green foliage. Floor baskets filled with snapdragons, flanked either side of the altar. Tapers in seven-branched candelabra were lighted by Mrs. Lilla Washington Lee and Mrs. William Waddell. Satin ribbons forming an aisle were held by Helen Dibble, Thomasine Flood, Edythe and Gloria Washington.

The musical program was presented by Jack Montgomery, violinist; Otis D. Wright, soloist, and Mrs. John W. Chenault, pianist.

Mrs. George C. Busby served as matron of honor. She wore a gown of dusty pink crepe. Her flowers were a corsage of yellow and pink rosebuds. Miss Lucille Davis, of Birmingham, bridesmaid, wore a cape ensemble of petal pink crepe with a corsage of yellow roses. Each wore a Spring hat harmonizing with the costume.

The radiantly lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, John Drew. The bride chose for her marriage an afternoon model of dream blue crepe. Her off-the-face straw had featured a shoulder-length veil. She wore a gardenia corsage. Mrs. Johnston, mother of the bride, wore a blue crepe dress and a corsage of talisman roses. She is the former Edythe Mae Kelly, of Cincinnait. The father of the bride is widely known throughout the South and the nation. He is business manager of Tuskegee Institute and a nephew of Booker T. Washington.

Mrs. Clark, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. A. Johnston, is a graduate of Tuskegee and of Talladega College. She is an accomplished musician, a member of the Delta Sigma Theta sorority and is one of the most popular members of the younger set on the Tuskegee campus.

The groom is a native of San Antonio, Texas, where he received his early education. He was graduated from Tuskegee Institute in 1938 with a bachelor of science degree and is connected with the Veterans' Administration Facility, Tuskegee, Ala. A reception followed the ceremony. The bride's book was kept by Mrs. William Waddell. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. J. J. Peter, Mrs. Lucian Green, Mrs. Charles W. Kelly and Miss Laly Charlton. Centering the lace-covered bride's table was a large four-tiered wedding cake banked with mixed white and pastel flowers and flanked by silver candlesticks holding burning pink tapers.

APR 15 1941

Following the reception the bride and groom were entertained at dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Chenault with Mrs. Chenault and Mrs. Lilla Washington Lee as co-hostesses. During the evening the couple left for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside at Tuskegee Institute.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Race R.N.'s Hold Fifth Institute

APR 16 1941

TUSKEGEE — (ANP) — The fifth annual institute for colored graduate nurses held at Tuskegee institute, April 4 and 5, closed the most successful session of its history Saturday morning with the presentation of a large bouquet of crimson roses to Miss Linna N. Denny, R.N., executive secretary, Alabama State Board of Nurses Examiners. The presentation was made by Nurse Rosa Tyler Thomas, Montgomery, in behalf of the 106 nurses present.

In the mass meeting held Friday night, President F. D. Patterson referred to Miss Denny in the following terms: "Miss Denny has a genuine and heartfelt interest and in the nursing service regardless of race, and it it largely through her interest and tireless efforts that these institutes for colored graduate nurses have been made possible.

DR. PRUDHOMME SPEAKS

The Saturday morning session had as its highlight a paper by Dr. Charles Prudhomme, Veterans Administrations facility, and member, executive committee of the Tuskegee Mental Hygiene society. Dr. Prudhomme listed and explained 11 opportunities where nurses could study and render assistance in connection with patients mentally ill.

APR 16 1941

He also gave nine possbile misconceptions with regard to the mentaly ill which he said it was the duty of all nurses to correct: (1) the mentally ill are not necessarily weak-minded, (2) insanity is a legal and not medical term, (3) recoveries from mental illness are about equal to the recoveries from infection, (4) psychiatric patients are not necessary dangerous, (5) mental illness is not a hereditary doom, (6) the mentally ill are not insensitive to their surroundings or to comments made in their presence, (7) overwork does not lead to nervous breakdown, it is the emotional stress of conflicts present that cause the mental illness, and (9) mental illness is not a disgrace, nor a thing to be ashamed of, and frequently, can be cured.

APR 16 1941

NEW FIELD DISCUSSED

Dr. George C. Branche discussed the "Opportunities for Colored Nurses in the Psychiatric Field." He stated that "mental cases were on the increase due partly to the psychiatric fight of totalitarianism against democrady, and due to individual rejected for army service." Dr. Branche made a further statement that of the 800,000 men soon to be conscripted into the United States Army, 18,000 in a short time would be psychiatric patients.

APR 16 1941

Dr. John A. Kennedy in a closing word to the institute challenged the nurses to greater service and urged them not to let obstacles ever be the cause for discouragement. "You have the most wonderful vocation. I hope you have not gone into it just for a living. If you have you will fail. Let your ideals and objectives be Service. If you do that, the living will take care of itself."

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

ACTIVITIES OF INTEREST FROM TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

APR 17 1941

Tuskegee Institute Trustees Vote $200,000 For Aviation

Dr. William J. Schieffelin, New York City, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Tuskegee Institute, states that the meeting of the Board, April 5 and 6, was one of the busiest in its history. Dr. Schieffelin said the most important decision by the Board was the Resolution to make military flying a part of the educational work of Tuskegee Institute. He said the Board voted unanimously to appropriate $200,000 to purchase and equip a 800 acre field three miles from the campus for the military flying program.

Dr. Schieffelin stated further that the Board had expressed satisfaction that this first opportunity for young Negro aviators to serve in the Pursuit Squadron of the U. S. Army Air Corps was to materialize at Tuskegee Institute. This new unit he said, was being set up as a result of a nation-wide demand that was stressed at a conference on "The Negro in National Defense" recently held at Hampton Institute, Virginia.

Dr. Schieffelin expressed for the Board appreciation of the fine way President Patterson, faculty, and student body have been able to carry forward the Tuskegee Program despite the slightly curtailed budget.

APR 17 1941

Choir Praised By Trustees

"Even if the Angel Gabriel spoke now when we have just heard the choir sing "Listen to the Lambs," it would be an anti-climax." This tribute Dr. William J. Schieffelin, chairman of the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees paid to the singing of the Institute Choir at the Sunday Vesper Service. Following a tradition, President F. D. Patterson introduced Dr. Schieffelin to deliver the Sunday night talk.

APR 17 1941

Dr. Carver Presents New Drug To Treat Pyorrhea

Dr. George W. Carver presented to the Dental Division of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society in session at Tuskegee Institute this week, a new drug for the treatment of the destructive disease of the gums, pyorrhea.

This new drug Dr. Carver has developed from a formula which has the well-known persimmon as its base. The persimmon, the fruit of a tree which grows wild along the roads and in the fields throughout the South is boiled for its juice, Dr. Carver told the eager Dentists. The juice is combined with other ingredients to form a liquid with strong astringent properties.

The Dentists received the new treatment with enthusiasm and were lavish in their praise of its value and potentialities. The Dental Society is to name certain members of their group to be given a quantity of the new drug for controlled experiments. Records of the cases receiving the treatment are to be returned to Dr. Carver for further study.

APR 17 1941

Dr. Walter G. Crump Honored By The John A. Andrew Clinical Society

The John A. Andrew Clinical Society, Tuskegee Institute, opened its twenty-fourth annual meeting, Monday Morning, April 7, on a new high with over a hundred and fifty physicians present, President Spencer D. Dickerson, M. D., Chicago, in the chair. Dr. John A. Kenney, Secretary-Treasurer of the Society introduced Walter G. Crump, M. D., honorary president of the Society, head of Flower Hospital, New York City, member of the staff of at least a dozen other hospitals and for twenty years a governor of the American College of surgeons.

Dr. Crump, in his unimitable manner, swept the audience with his inspiring and informative paper on "The Sable Race in Medicine." Dr. Crump said in part: "The first recorded history of immunization is the story of an African medicine man who rubbed his warriors with snake serum to protect them from snake bites when they went into the jungles." The white haired rotund little doctor plead for training facilities for more Negro doctors.

"Mentality knows no race line. There are one million Negroes in Alabama, but only 100 Negro doctors—and twenty-eight of those are practically on the campus of Tuskegee Institute."

Dr. Crump paid tribute to the late Dr. Dan Williams of Chicago Illinois, who was the first surgeon to perform a successful operation on the human heart, and to the late Dr. C. V. Roman as "the soundest philosopher I have ever known."

Dr. Crump was awarded the first C. V. Roman Medal for distinguished service in medicine at the C. V. Roman Public Health Meeting, Wednesday night in the Institute Chapel. Eugene H Dibble, M. D., U. S. Veterans Facility, presiding, introduced Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute, who made the award. As President Patterson pinned on the gold disk, the audience of 2500 visitors, students and faculty rose to its feet with prolonged applause.

A second feature of the Public Health meeting, and one of great significance was the presentation of a scroll to Mrs. Elizabeth A Mason, who in the interest of Negro Health and because of her great humanitarian spirit gave Tuskegee the John A. Andrew Hospital and Clinic Annex in memory of her grandfather, John A. Andrew, war governor of Massachusetts. Through Mrs. Mason's philanthropy, the John A. Andrew Clinics have been made possible. The scroll was presented by John A. Kenney, M. D., director, John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital.

On Tuesday night, the session was held at the U. S. Veterans Facility auditorium Featured speakers were Newdigate M Owensby, M.D., Atlanta, Ga., "Psycho-somatic Disorders;" Charles Prudhomme, M. D., U. S. Veterans Facility, "The Challenge of Mental Disease among Negroes;" W. A. Younge, M. D., St. Louis, "Diagnosis and Treatment of Cardiac Arrythmias;" and Charles F. Sherwin, M. D., St. Louis, "Surgery of the Breast with Special Reference to Good Arm Function after Radical Operations." (with natural color motion pictures.).

Roanoke, Ala., Leader
April 2, 1941

THIS WEEK

TO BLACKWOOD: Delegates to the Blackwood conference, Mildred Stewart, Floy Gunter, Ouida Wright, and O. B. Griffin, left last Friday afternoon for the three-day session held by the young people of the Congregation-Christian movement at Blackwood. Dean W. Adelbert Redfield carried the students, and all took part on the program.

TUSKEGEE: Last Sunday morning at eleven o'clock a bus loaded with more than 24 college students left for a field trip of Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Alabama. The group arrived about two o'clock that afternoon, and, after taking dinner in the college dining hall, was shown over the vast campus of the Negro institution. Vespers were attended that evening, the group returning when this service was over.

Among those to enjoy this trip were: Lettie Mae Ingram, Lawrence Mitchell, J. W. Ray, Huel Love, Clifford Owsley, Morris Ratcliff, Inez Spears, Eunice Collins, Thelton Eubanks, Clara Sims, Beulah Ward, Helen Roquemore, Thomas Brown, Juanita West, June Roy, James Evans, Vivian Mullins, Odell Griffith, and Clarence Shelnutt.

SHORT TAKES: Anybody with even an average intellect could see the progressive strides being made by the Negro race by a visit to the famous Institute at Tuskegee. There, where there is an endowment of seven and a half million dollars, the most illiterate white is treated with a respect seldom shown to even the most cultured of the black race. The Negro has realized that his 13 million can't rise against the force of the overwhelming white race, and therefore, he is approaching the problem tactfully—with kindness and humbleness. This scribe wishes that all those who hold a prejudice against the Negro could see Tuskegee, see and hear its president, note the work being done there, and feel the friendliness shown to those visiting the campus. Then the approach to the fraternity of mankind taught by a Man beside the Sea of Galilee two thousand years ago would be brought nearer to those of the twentieth century.

Troy, Ala., Messenger
April 11, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Will Develop 800-Acre Airdrome

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 11—(AP)—An appropriation of $200,000 by the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees for purchase, and development of an 800-acre airdrome was announced today by Dr. William J. Schefflein of New York, chairman.

The appropriation was made in carrying out the college's aviation program for negroes, which includes a training center for flying cadets to be established here by the War Department.

Mobile, Ala., Register
April 7, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Eulogizes Founder

Alabama Negro School Gives Annual Salute To Booker T. Washington

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 6.—(AP) Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, celebrated "Founder's Day" with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1,000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

"Our great founder who, born a slave and a black boy, went forward asking no special consideration because of his color," was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, as "an inspiration" to tens of thousands.

As the Founder's Day program opened, more than 75 physicians and surgeons already had arrived for the thirtieth annual clinic and twenty-fourth meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

Atlanta, Ga. Constitution
April 7, 1941

Founder's Day At Tuskegee Draws Throng

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 6.—(AP) Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, celebrated "Founder's Day" with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1,000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man," Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people in his economic philosophy of the soil.

"Our great founder who, born a slave and a black boy, went forward asking no special consideration because of his color" was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, as "an inspiration" to tens of thousands.

As the Founder Day's program opened, more than 75 physicians and surgeons already had arrived for the 30th annual clinic and 24th meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

New York Times
New York, N. Y.

JAMES LEFT FUND FOR A FOUNDATION

Eight-tenths of Estate Goes to Corporation to Aid Charity, Religion and Education

28 SHARES ESTABLISHED

Christodora House, Beneficiary of Wife's Will, Among Nine Getting Two Parts Each

JUN 10 1941

Arthur Curtiss James, railroad industrialist who died last Wednesday, bequeathed nearly eight-tenths of his extensive estate for the establishment of the "James Foundation," the income of which is to be used to aid charitable, religious and educational institutions. His will was filed yesterday in the Surrogate's Court here.

Mr. James bequeathed one-tenth of his estate to the United States Trust Company of 45 Wall Street as an executor of the estate of his wife, Mrs. Harriet Parsons James, who died less than a month ago, with directions that it be distributed as part of her personal estate under the terms of her will.

In her will Mrs. James bequeathed to the Christodora House of the Young Women's Settlement, 147 Avenue B, and to the Young Women's Christian Association $100,000 each and contingent bequests of $400,000 each.

JUN 10 1941

In a codicil Mr. James directed his executors, William W. Carman of Summit, N. J., a business associate for years, and the United States Trust Company to divide one-tenth of his residuary estate into as many shares as there were survivors at his death among the children of his uncles, William O. Stuart, James M. Stuart, William D. James, and his aunt, Mrs. Robert Hoe, or to their issue.

18 Cousins Share Bequest

Listed as sharing in this bequest are eighteen of his cousins, Robert and Arthur I. Hoe, both of Claremont, Calif.; Laura Carter, 115 East Sixty-ninth Street; Ruth Sterling, 19 East Seventy-seventh Street; Audrey Pleydel-Bouverie, Silvia Wilson, Millicent Howard, Alexandra Fawcus and Helen Stephen, all of England; James M. Stuart, 37 West Forty-fourth Street; Harold C. Stuart, Brookline, Mass.; Ellen Russell, Tucson, Ariz.; Olva Roos, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Henry L. Slade, Westport, Conn.; Ellen James Lewis, 57 East Ninety-second Street; Robert T. Evans, Fairfield, Conn.; Samuel H. Evans, Spuyten Duyvil, this city, and Thyrza Benson Fowler, Far Hills, N. J.

In setting up the "James Foundation," Mr. James said it was his desire that a corporation be formed for a term of twenty-five years, and that the board of trustees or directors should consist of directors of Curtiss Southwestern Corporation, and Curtiss Southwestern Company, a Delaware corporation, which are holders and managers of certain of his properties. He directed that the board consist of seven persons, two of whom were to be named by his wife and one by the United States Trust Company.

Fund Divided Into 28 Shares

Mr. James directed that the board of the foundation use part of the funds vested in it from time to time to further the work of certain charitable, religious and educational institutions to which he had made contributions. He directed that the income be divided into twenty-eight shares and be distributed as follows:

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Boston; Christodora House, the First Presbyterian Church here, the Hampton (Va.) Normal and Agricultural Institute, the Children's Aid Society, Amherst College, the Presbyterian Hospital, the New York Public Library, the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, and the American Museum of Natural History, one share each, and the American University of Beirut, Syria, one-half share.

Also the Society for the Promotion of the Gospel Among Seamen share.

JUN 10 1941

distinguished service in medicine at the C. V. Roman Public Health Meeting, Wednesday night in the Institute Chapel. Eugene H Dibble, M. D., U. S. Veterans Facility, presiding, introduced Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute, who made the award. As President Patterson pinned on the gold disk, the audience of 2500 visitors, students and faculty rose to its feet with prolonged applause.

A second feature of the Public Health meeting, and one of great significance was the presentation of a scroll to Mrs. Elizabeth A Mason, who in the interest of Negro Health and because of her great humanitarian spirit gave Tuskegee the John A. Andrew Hospital and Clinic Annex in memory of her grandfather, John A. Andrew, war governor of Massachusetts. Through Mrs. Mason's philanthropy, the John A. Andrew Clinics have been made possible. The scroll was presented by John A. Kenney, M. D., director, John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital.

On Tuesday night, the session was held at the U. S. Veterans Facility auditorium Featured speakers were Newdigate M Owensby, M. D., Atlanta, Ga., "Psycho-somatic Disorders;" Charles Prudhomme, M. D., U. S. Veterans Facility, "The Challenge of Mental Disease among Negroes;" W. A Younge, M. D., St. Louis, "Diagnosis and Treatment of Cardiac Arrythmias;" and Charles F. Sherwin, M. D., St. Louis, "Surgery of the Breast with Special Reference to Good Arm Function after Radical Operations." (with natural color motion pictures.).

Roanoke, Ala., Leader
April 2, 1941

THIS WEEK

TO BLACKWOOD: Delegates to the Blackwood conference, Mildred Stewart, Floy Gunter, Ouida Wright, and O. B. Griffin, left last Friday afternoon for the three-day session held by the young people of the Congregation-Christian movement at Blackwood. Dean W. Adelbert Redfield carried the students, and all took part on the program.

TUSKEGEE: Last Sunday morning at eleven o'clock a bus loaded with more than 24 college students left for a field trip of Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Alabama. The group arrived about two o'clock that afternoon, and, after taking dinner in the college dining hall, was shown over the vast campus of the Negro institution. Vespers were attended that evening, the group returning when this service was over.

Among those to enjoy this trip were: Lettie Mae Ingram, Lawrence Mitchell, J. W. Ray, Huel Love, Clifford Owsley, Morris Ratcliff, Inez Spears, Eunice Collins, Thelton Eubanks, Clara Sims, Beulah Ward, Helen Roquemore, Thomas Brown, Juanita West, June Roy, James Evans, Vivian Mullins, Odell Griffith, and Clarence Shelnutt.

SHORT TAKES: Anybody with even an average intellect could see the progressive strides being made by the Negro race by a visit to the famous Institute at Tuskegee. There, where there is an endowment of seven and a half million dollars, the most illiterate white is treated with a respect seldom shown to even the most cultured of the black race. The Negro has realized that his 13 million can't rise against the force of the overwhelming white race, and therefore, he is approaching the problem tactfully—with kindness and humbleness. This scribe wishes that all those who hold a prejudice against the Negro could see Tuskegee, see and hear its president, note the work being done there, and feel the friendliness shown to those visiting the campus. Then the approach to the fraternity of mankind taught by a Man beside the Sea of Galilee two thousand years ago would be brought nearer to those of the twentieth century.

Troy, Ala., Messenger
April 11, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Will Develop 800-Acre Airdrome

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 11—(AP)—An appropriation of $200,000 by the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees for purchase, and development of an 800-acre airdrome was announced today by Dr. William J. Schefflein of New York, chairman.

The appropriation was made in carrying out the college's aviation program for negroes, which includes a training center for flying cadets to be established here by the War Department.

Mobile, Ala., Register
April 7, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Eulogizes Founder

Alabama Negro School Gives Annual Salute To Booker T. Washington

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 6.—(AP) Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, celebrated "Founder's Day" with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1,000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"'The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man,'" Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people his economic philosophy of the soil.

"Our great founder who, born a slave and a black boy, went forward asking no special consideration because of his color," was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, as "an inspiration" to tens of thousands.

As the Founder's Day program opened, more than 75 physicians and surgeons already had arrived for the thirtieth annual clinic and twenty-fourth meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

Atlanta, Ga. Constitution
April 7, 1941

Founder's Day At Tuskegee Draws Throng

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 6.—(AP) Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's oldest and largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, celebrated "Founder's Day" with an elaborate and colorful program today.

Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Md., a member of the institute faculty during the administration of Booker T. Washington, the founder, was principal speaker.

The institute's band led a parade to the college chapel, where the exercises were held. The line of march included 1,000 blue-uniformed Tuskegee cadets and 600 girls dressed in blue capes.

"The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man," Dr. Imes said was one slogan Booker Washington used to drive home to his people in his economic philosophy of the soil.

"Our great founder who, born a slave and a black boy, went forward asking no special consideration because of his color" was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, alumni speaker, as "an inspiration" to tens of thousands.

As the Founder Day's program opened, more than 75 physicians and surgeons already had arrived for the 30th annual clinic and 24th meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, which closes its sessions Saturday.

New York Times
New York, N. Y.

JAMES LEFT FUND FOR A FOUNDATION

Eight-tenths of Estate Goes to Corporation to Aid Charity, Religion and Education

28 SHARES ESTABLISHED

Christodora House, Beneficiary of Wife's Will, Among Nine Getting Two Parts Each

JUN 10 1941

Arthur Curtiss James, railroad industrialist who died last Wednesday, bequeathed nearly eight-tenths of his extensive estate for the establishment of the "James Foundation," the income of which is to be used to aid charitable, religious and educational institutions. His will was filed yesterday in the Surrogate's Court here.

Mr. James bequeathed one-tenth of his estate to the United States Trust Company of 45 Wall Street as an executor of the estate of his wife, Mrs. Harriet Parsons James, who died less than a month ago, with directions that it be distributed as part of her personal estate under the terms of her will.

In her will Mrs. James bequeathed to the Christodora House of the Young Women's Settlement, 147 Avenue B, and to the Young Women's Christian Association $100,000 each and contingent bequests of $400,000 each.

JUN 10 1941

In a codicil Mr. James directed his executors, William W. Carman of Summit, N. J., a business associate for years, and the United States Trust Company to divide one-tenth of his residuary estate into as many shares as there were survivors at his death among the children of his uncles, William O. Stuart, James M. Stuart, William D. James, and his aunt, Mrs. Robert Hoe, or to their issue.

18 Cousins Share Bequest

Listed as sharing in this bequest are eighteen of his cousins, Robert and Arthur I. Hoe, both of Claremont, Calif.; Laura Carter, 115 East Sixty-ninth Street; Ruth Sterling, 19 East Seventy-seventh Street; Audrey Pleydel-Bouverie, Silvia Wilson, Millicent Howard, Alexandra Fawcus and Helen Stephen, all of England; James M. Stuart, 37 West Forty-fourth Street; Harold C. Stuart, Brookline, Mass.; Ellen Russell, Tucson, Ariz.; Olva Roos, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Henry L. Slade, Westport, Conn.; Ellen James Lewis, 57 East Ninety-second Street; Robert T. Evans, Fairfield, Conn.; Samuel H. Evans, Spuyten Duyvil, this city, and Thyrza Benson Fowler, Far Hills, N. J.

In setting up the "James Foundation," Mr. James said it was his desire that a corporation be formed for a term of twenty-five years, and that the board of trustees or directors should consist of directors of Curtiss Southwestern Corporation, and Curtiss Southwestern Company, a Delaware corporation, which are holders and managers of certain of his properties. He directed that the board consist of seven persons, two of whom were to be named by his wife and one by the United States Trust Company.

Fund Divided Into 28 Shares

Mr. James directed that the board of the foundation use part of the funds vested in it from time to time to further the work of certain charitable, religious and educational institutions to which he had made substantial contributions. He directed that the income be divided into twenty-eight shares and be distributed as follows:

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Boston; Christodora House, the First Presbyterian Church here, Hampton (Va.) Normal and Agricultural Institute, the Children's Aid Society, Amherst College, the Newport (R.I.) Hospital, the New York Public Library, the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, and the American Museum of Natural History, receive two shares each, and the Union Theological Seminary, three shares; the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church, the Presbyterian Hospital, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Seamen's Friends Society, the Port of New York, one and one-half shares each, and the Promotion of Art, one share.

Also the Society for the Relief of Ruptured and Crippled, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the Society for the Relief of Widows and Children of Clergymen in Communion with the Protestant Episcopal Church in the City of New York, the Society for the Relief of Poor Widows with Small Children, the Society for the Relief of Aged Indigent Females, the Society for the Relief of Aged Indigent Females, the Society for the Relief of Aged Indigent Females

18y-1941

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News From The Institute

* * *

The final meeting for the year 1940 of the Football Coaches and Officials Association was held in the Alumni Association Headquarters Friday. Organized in 1927 by Cleve L. Abbott as President, and R. S. Darnaby as Secretary, the organization has met each week during the regular football playing season for a discussion and an interpretation of the rules.

JAN 16 1941

"A Review of the Past Football Season," was the topic for discussion. Particularly interesting were the "Oddities of the Past Season," such as the fifth down, illegal substitution and the lights in a park going out just as a player was galloping down the field for a touchdown, which were discussed by Coach Abbott. Band, majorettes, baton twirlers, herald trumpeters and other features which add to the color of a football game were discussed and praised for the important part they play in this particular sport.

In discussing the new rules Coach Abbott said he thought the changes would speed up the game and in some respects would make it easier on the officials. Also the public probably would have a chance to see how good some of the coaches can quarterback because the new substitution rule will give them frequent opportunities to send in information. However, contrary to opinion expressed by some coaches, there will not be a stream of substitutes going in and coming out of the game; as it is believed the rule covering when a substitute may enter the game has not been changed. This rule is that substitutions may be made without penalty only when time is out and the time is not necessarily out after each play when the ball is declared dead by the referee.

Those present at the meeting and participating in the discussions were: Cleve L. Abbott, who presided; Edward H. Adams, Ernest T. Bailey, R. A. Mundy Guy R. Trammell, Sgt. John D. Patton, James H. McCarthy Charles G. Berans, James A Johnson, J. Julius Flood, Capt Frank L. Drye, Richard B. Collins, William L. Dawson, Capt Walter J. Love, Henry C. Harrison and R. S. Darnaby.

* * *

"If you know positively what you are about, your work is half done."

* * *

Members of the Tuskegee Institute Tennis Club met Saturday and discussed plans for the celebration of the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Championships of the American Tennis Association which will be played on the Championship Courts at the Institute August 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23.

The Silver Anniversary meeting of the American Tennis Association will be one of the most important and largest attended sessions of the Association. Tennis players and followers of the game will come to Tuskegee to witness the sterling brand of play and to participate in the many entertainment features which will be planned by Tuskegee Institute and members of the local Tennis Club.

JAN 16 1941

Margaret and Roumania Peters, students at Tuskegee, National Doubles Champions will defend their title at this meeting. Kathryn Jones, Tuskegee Sophomore, will attempt to wrest the National Women's Singles Championship from Mrs. Agnes Lawson of Prairie View College Prarie View, Texas. Mrs. Lawson defeated Miss Jones in a blistering three-set match at Wilberforce University for the National Singles crown last year.

Margaret and Roumania Peters had a little trouble in defeating Ora Washington and Aneta Gant in the Doubles Finals.

Helen Hutchinson, Tuskegee Sophomore, National Girls' Singles Champion has graduated from the girls' events and will take part in the events for women. However, Thelma McDaniels, Tuskegee Freshman, and last year's runner-up to Helen Hutchinson will again play in the girl's singles events. Miss McDaniels, who is only sixteen, has two more years of eligibility for girls' events.

Clifford Russell, and Howard Minnis, Tuskegee Sophomores National Doubles Champions will be the defenders in this event. At Wilberforce these two youngsters shocked the packed galleries by taking the crown from the then champions, Jimmy McDaniels and Richard Cohen Russell and Minnis will play in the singles events where they are nationally ranked. At Wilberforce it was Russell who eliminated the favored Dr. Reginald Weir from National Championship in the first quarter finals in what spectators said was one of the best matches of the tournament.

Present at the meeting were: Dr. J. A. Kennedy, President, Tuskegee Tennis Club; Charles G. Bevans, Secretary, Tuskegee Tennis Club; Lloyd Isaacs, Treasurer, Tuskegee Institute; G. W. A. Johnston, Business Agent, Tuskegee Institute, and Chairman of the Trophy Committee; Edmund H. Burke, Comptroller, and Chairman of the American Tennis Association Tournament Committee; R. S. Darnaby, publicity director, who has handled all of the publicity at Tuskegee for the 1931 and 1937 tournaments, and Cleve L. Abbott, Vice-President of the American Tennis Association and Chairman of the Local Tournament Committee; George C. Busby, Supply Officer, Veterans Administration Facility.

JAN 16 1941

The Eighth Annual Southern Conference Basketball Tournament will be held in Logan Hall at Tuskegee Institute February 27-28, and March 1, it was announced here today by a Tournament official. He also stated that the Thirteenth Annual Junior and Senior Women's Track and Field Championships and the Fifteenth Annual Relay Carnival will be held in the Bowl, May 9 and 10, respectively. The golf and tennis championships will be held on May 8.

* * *

"Successful living will never be possible unless we seek it through the Christian way," declared the Rev. William J. Faulkner, to a vast audience of Tuskegee students assembled for the Week of Prayer which closed here Friday night. Throughout the week Dr. Faulkner, who is Dean of the Chapel at Fisk University Nashville, Tennessee, spoke to the theme, "Triumphant Living Through Christ."

Capacity audiences which taxed one of the largest auditoriums on the campus assembled each evening to hear the speaker and to share in the stimulating programs. According to Rev. Harry V. Richardson, Chaplain of Tuskegee Institute who arranged and conducted the meetings, this was one of the most remarkable weeks of prayer in the history of the Institute. "A week such as this," Chaplain Richardson stated in an interview, "is convincing evidence that the present college students are not religious as is so often said of them. To see young people coming out by hundreds, occupying every available inch of space to share in a prayer meeting is most reassuring." In his opinion, he said, modern students face religion with two great demands: the first is for an enlightened interpretation of religion so that it will fit into their expanding knowledge and the second is for honesty of thought and honesty of life in those persons who would lead them. "Given these two demands, the responses to religion are often most encouraging, he stated.

Rev. Faulkner is Dean of the Chapel and Director of Religious Activities at Fisk University. He is also Personnel Advisor to young men at that institution. His rich experience in dealing with young people and his thorough scholarship made a most effective leader for the Week of Prayer.

Rev. Richardson was assisted in the conduct of the services by Rev. Charles W. Kelly, Pastor of the Greenwood Baptist Church at the Institute, and Mrs. Alberta L. Simms, of the Tuskegee Institute Department of Music, as well as by a large number of students who played a major part in the activities of the week.

JAN 16 1941

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Dean Williams Ill At Tuskegee Home

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Dr. W. T. B. Williams, vice president and dean of men at Tuskegee institute, was taken suddenly ill Tuesday, and has been confined to his residence since then. Reports from his home this week stated that Dr. Williams is resting comfortably, his ailment is yielding to treatment and that he is improving.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Tuskegee Chaplain to Join Christian Mission Team at St. Louis Sunday, Feb. 9

FEB 7 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE. — For the second time this season the Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain of Tuskegee institute will join the National Christian Mission when it opens in St. Louis, Mo., the week of February 9. He was formerly with the Mission in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mr. Richardson is a native of Jacksonville, Fla. He is a graduate of Western Reserve university of Cleveland, and an honor graduate of the Divinity school of Harvard university, where he took his theological studies. For the past eight years he has been chaplain and director of religious activities at Tuskegee institute, having served one year as professor of history at the institute.

FEB 7 1941

He is nationally known as a religious leader among young people and is much in demand as a speaker in universities and schools. In addition to his work at Tuskegee institute, Mr. Richardson has been active in improving religious life in the South, especially in rural areas.

He is director of a commission in the A. M. E. church for the study of rural churches, and is founder and executive secretary of the State Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, an interracial body. As director of religious extension work at Tuskegee institute, he conducts classes and other activities for rural ministers. He is a delegate to the Federal Council of Churches and recently spoke before the biennial session of that body in Atlantic City. He has written widely for magazines and religious publications and at present conducts monthly columns in two magazines.

The Rev. Mr. Richardson will go from St. Louis to New Orleans by plane to attend the winter session of the Bishop's council of the A. M. E. church.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee Campus Scene Of Marriage

JAN 18 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The marriage of Miss Rubena Mae Davis, daughter of Mrs. Laura Mae Davis, of Boston, Mass. and Auderbach Louis Flood, of Washington, D. C., took place in Pinehurst apartments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Freeman Bradley.

The ceremony, performed by Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain of Tuskegee institute, was characterized by simplicity and dignity, and assembled only relatives and a few close friends of the bridal couple.

The bride was given in marriage by her sister, Mrs. A. Freeman Bradley, and chose as her only attendant, Miss Naomi Perdue. Robert R. Moton, Jr., served as best man to the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs Flood left on a wedding trip, after which they will reside in Washington, D. C.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

TED MALONE VISITS HOME OF BOOKER T.

Radio Poet Broadcasts From 'The Oaks' on Tuskegee Campus

FEB 7 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE. — Tuskegee institute was the setting for a nationwide broadcast honoring Booker T. Washington Sunday, February 2, when Ted Malone brought his American Pilgrimage here to broadcast from Dr. Washington's study at "The Oakes" on the Tuskegee campus.

The program was the seventeenth in a series of 31 broadcasts being made by Ted Malone from the homes and shrines of great American authors. Heads of English departments in 400 universities and colleges chose the authors to be honored in a survey conducted last spring.

Broadcasting from the study where Dr. Washington spent evenings with his family, or with leaders of both races on problems important to the South and the nation, where his books, photographs, diplomas, medals and degrees are about the walls as he left them, Mr. Malone retold the familiar story of the author of "Up From Slavery," America's distinguished educator and Tuskegee's beloved founder.

Present for the broadcast were members of the Washington family who reside at Tuskegee; A. B. Terrell, the foreman of the construction of "The Oaks," Miss Carolina Smith, one of the oldest living local graduates, whose home is just a few yards from the spot on Zion Hill where Booker Washington opened school on July 4, 1881; Warren Logan and J. H. Palmer, Tuskegee's first treasurer and registrar, respectively; Mr. and Mrs. George Wright, whose relatives introduced the bill in the legislature for the appropriation of $2,000 that made the school possible; William L. Dawson, director of music, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute.

FEB 7 1941

Ted Malone, who made the broadcast, last year visited poet's homes; among them was the home of Paul Laurence Dunbar, the author of the Tuskegee Song. Ted Malone is familiar to a large week day audience for his poetry reading program "Between the Bookends."

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee to Open Midwives' School

MAR 1 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — A school to give graduate nurses special training to fit them for midwifery in rural districts, to be conducted jointly by the Children's Bureau in Washington, the Rosenwald Fund, the Alabama State Department of Health and Tuskegee Institute, is being considered here.

Memorial services for the late Dr. R. R. Moton, former president of Tuskegee, will be held on April 5 1941 Leo Favrot, for many years a member of the General Education Board, and Dr. Channing Tobias of the National YMCA board, as speakers.

MAR 5 1941

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Warm Springs, Tuskegee Use Negro Manufacturer's Infantile Paralysis Unit

Shows Photostatic Copies of Checks Amounting To Close To $5000

Aids Negro Employment

MAR 1 1941

CHICAGO — (ANP)— Paul E. Johnson, manufacturer of physical theraphy and X-ray equipment who operates one of the most important manufacturing concerns within the race, with his plant located in Chicago, announced this week that he has furnished theraphy equipment to both the Warm Springs, Ga., infantile paralysis unit and the new hospital of the same type located at Tuskegee institute.

MAR 1 1941

Mr. Johnson, speaking with pardonable pride of the increasing recognition which hospitals and physicians are giving to the appartus which he makes completely, said he was especially gratified at the support which came from people within his own group. He sells to many white organizations as well but as he exhibited photostatic copies of checks for $1,550 from Tuskegee; $1,550 from Dr. B. O. Moore who opeartes a hospital at Hopkinsville, Ky., and a similar amount from the Louisiana Industrial Life Insurance company, he said, "Negro hospitals and insurance companies are converting the nickels, dimes and quarters received from their Negro policyholders into modern equipment costing from $1,000 to $3,000, purchased from a Negro manufacturer. That is a lesson in practical racial economics, for every machine purchased adds to the employment of Negroes".

Mr. Johnson, who has been engaged in production of his line for a score of years, makes shock proof x-ray, short wave diathermy, electric-surgical, galvanic current, sinussoidal current, artificial fever and colonis-therapy equipment and also manufactures mercury quartz lamps; luminious infra-red lamps; carbon arc lamps water-cooled lamps, hospital and YMCA solariums and physical therapy accessories.

MAR 1 1941

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee To Honor Late R. R. Moton

MAR 15 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE—Friday, April 4, Tuskegee students, faculty and friends, will assemble in the institute chapel to pay memorial tribute to Robert R. Moton, successor to Booker T. Washington, and president emeritus of Tuskegee institute who died May 31, 1940.

Leo Favrot, educator and for many years a member of the General Education board, and Dr. Channing Tobias, of the National Board of the Y.M.C.A., have accepted invitations of Dr. F. D. Patterson to deliver the principal addresses on the memorial program.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Annual Spring Clinic At Tuskegee, April 6

MAR 15 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Mar. 13—Dr. John A. Kenney, secretary-treasurer of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society announces that the 30th Annual Clinic and the 24th annual meeting of the Society will be held at the John A. Andrew Memorial hospital, Tuskegee Institute, Ala., April 6 to 11. One session will be held at the Veteran's Administration Facility adjacent to the Institute.

18y-1941

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Tuskegee Student Slain; Rival Held After Quarrel Over Girl

By LEM GRAVES, Jr.

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Stark tragedy struck into the heart of Tuskegee Institute here last week, took the life of one student, the freedom of another and threw a pall of gloom and sadness over the students, staff members and teachers who knew intimately the three youngsters involved in a tragic stabbing incident which grew out of a love triangle.

Robert James, 17-year-old senior in Tuskegee High School, died last Wednesday night in John Andrew Hospital here as the result of a stab wound over his heart, allegedly inflicted by a fellow student after a series of quarrels during the day over the affections of a young woman student of the college.

His death came within a half hour of the fatal stabbing incident which took place just outside the library on the campus. Held in the Macon County jail in Tuskegee is John H. Thompson, 18, sophomore college student, who is charged with murder in connection with the unfortunate stabbing.

STAR FOOTBALL PLAYER

Young James, a native of Altoona, Pa., who had lived in the Tuskegee community for several years with his mother, an employee of the college, was a star blocking back on the Tuskegee High School football team. Thompson, hails from West Palm Beach, Fla. He played in the band.

Students who knew the two lads intimately, found it difficult to explain the stabbing although it was known on the campus that the boys had quarreled about the girl twice during the day. Neither of the quarrels had been serious, however, and the stabbing came as a distinct surprise to the entire college. The action of the lad in knifing the Tuskegeean was described by President F. D. Patterson as apparently a case of temporary insanity.

It was thought that both had become interested in the young woman and had paid some attention to her. It was generally thought that typical college friendships had sprung up between the girl and the two boys.

QUARRELLED IN DINING ROOM

At the noon meal on the day of the stabbing, it was reported by Tuskegee students, the two lads had words at a table in the student dining room. However, before they left the building, the boys shook hands and went off, apparently in good spirits. At the night meal, James is reported to have spoken to the girl about seeing her at the library that night.

Before leaving the dining room, he is said to have touched her on the arm and asked her if she was ready to go home. He said that the bell would soon ring and that he would like to walk home with her.

The girl declined his invitation and James went out. About 7:30, while on his way to the library, he was called by Thompson, who was standing in front of the library.

Witnesses say that there was no arguments, no tussle, no fist fight. It is alleged that James was stabbed once, the knife entering his chesht right over the heart. The weapon was an ordinary pocket knife, used by Thompson in pruning flowers on his job in the floriculture department.

SURRENDERS TO DEAN OF MEN

James fell mortally wounded. He was rushed to the school hospital where physicians prepared for a blood transfusion. However, he succumbed almost immediately.

Thompson turned himself over over to Dean of Men E. H. Adams within 15 minutes, according to local sources. He was interviewed by President Patterson, who reported that the lad was given to fits of violent anger, during one of which the stabbing occured. He was turned over to the local police and held without bond pending presentment to the grand jury the first week in January.

Both students were popular and had good scholastic averages. Thompson, said Dr. Patterson, was highly recommended when he came to the school last year. During his entire freshman year he had been a model student and had been no disciplinary problem. Both before and after the stabbing, he appeared calm and in control of his senses, reported the president.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee Int. Hi School '11' Has Impressive Record, Undefeated In Alabama

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Dec. 3—The Tuskegee Institute high school football team, which closed its season at Panama City, Florida, November 21, with a 19 to 0 victory over the strong Rosenwald high school eleven of that city,, is undefeated in state competition. The "Baby Tigers" have turned back some of the strongest teams in the state with impressive victories.

The season record of the team, which is the best that the high school has made within the past five years, follows:

Tuskegee High	0—Booker Washington High, Atlanta, Ga.	13
Tuskegee High	19—Auburn High, Auburn, Ala.	7
Tuskegee High	34—Snow Hill Institute, Snow Hill, Ala.	6
Tuskegee High	20—Troy High, Troy, Ala.	0
Tuskegee High	0—Washington High, Pensacola, Fla.	13
Tuskegee High	13—Coffee County Training School, Enterprise, Ala.	0
Tuskegee High	19—Rosenwald High, Panama City, Fla.	6

The team is coached by Allen Scisco, of Dowagiac, Michigan, former versatile Tuskegee athlete and highly regarded for his accomplishments in national collegiate sports. Coach Scisco has had to decline several invitations extended to his team to play in various sections of the country. He said he regarded these invitations as a fine tribute to the members of the squad in recognition of their sportsmanship, for which the Prinicpal and Faculty are very grateful.

Coach Scisco expects to lose the following players who are candidates for graduation in May, 1942: James Hairston, John Hutchinson, Clayton Yates, Robert James and Stanwood Simmons.

James Hairston, captain of the team, who has attended the Tuskegee institute high school for the past four years, as a native of Pittsburgh, Pa. He is a right guard and has been a standout during the current season. Hairston was named a member of the All-Star football team which played in the All-State North Alabama vs. the All-State South Alabama game in Montgomery, Ala. on November 21.

John Hutchinson, the son of Captain Conrad Hutchinson of the Tuskegee institute faculty, closes his high school career with a fine record of gridiron attainment. He is an excellent pass receiver and a remarkably good blocker.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Abraham Flexner To Be Founder's Day Speaker At Tuskegee

MAR 8 1941

TUSKEGEE.—(ANP) — Tuskegee's annual observance of Founder's Day, honoring the memory of Booker T. Washington, world-famed educator, leader and patriot, will fall for 1941 on April 6.

Dr. Abraham Flexner, distinguished American educational philosopher and author, has accepted the invitation of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee, to deliver the Founder's day address in the Insaitute chapel, Sunday, Apr. 6, at 2 p. m. Wilbur J. Hardaway, class of 1921, real estate dealer and city councilman of Gary, Ind., will deliver the alumni address on Saturday evening, April 5.

The boar of trustees, members of the John A. Andrew Clinical society, and members of Tuskegee's 20-year reunion class will be among the special guests for Founder's day celebration.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Love Slaying at Tuskegee

Pa. Senior Stabbed by Rival, 18

DEC 13 1941

By ART CARTER

AFRO Staff Writer

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The tragic end of a campus love triangle, involving bitter rivalry between two teen-age boys for the affections of a pretty 17-year-old college freshman girl, was solemnly unfolded here Saturday afternoon, as the body of Robert James, 17, was buried in the Town of Tuskegee.

Less than a quarter mile away, John H. Thompson, 18, accused slayer of the youth, sat mournfully in the county jail, awaiting a fate that may lead to the same path—death.

James, native of Altoona, Pa., and senior in the Tuskegee High School, was fatally stabbed, allegedly by Thompson, early on Thursday night in front of the college library as the shocking aftermath of a quarrel over the question of who should have the hand of the charming brown skin coed, whose name was withheld by Tuskegee officials.

Held Without Bail

Thompson, sophomore student in the college, hails from West Palm Beach, Fla., which is also reported to be the home State of the girl involved in the romantic campus triangle. Thompson is being held without bail, pending action by Macon County grand jury which will not convene until January.

If indicted and convicted on a first-degree murder charge in a trial that will follow immediately after the jury's action, Thompson will face death by execution under the Alabama State law.

No fight between the two students preceded the killing, according to the story of the slaying as unfolded to the press by college officials here Saturday morning.

Thompson and James, campus rivals for the co-ed's hand, had met earlier Thursday afternoon in the college dining hall when they had a "few words with each other," but had departed with a handshaking gesture that led eyewitnesses to presume that everything was all right between the two.

Seen at Dining Hall

Four hours later, when students gathered in the dining hall for supper, Thompson was seen in company with the young girl when James entered and sought to engage the co-ed in conversation.

DEC 13 1941

As she arose from the table to depart from the hall, James touched her arm in an attempt to assist her from the building, asking: "May I help you?"

This is believed to have peeved Thompson, who stalked out of the dining hall in an apparent fit of anger. He was not seen again until the time of the fatal stabbing.

James escorted the girl to the college library and, upon reaching the building, was hailed by Thompson. The angered rival, who is an agricultural student, assigned to work in the floricultural department, whipped out a knife and plunged the steel-bladed weapon into the left chest of James.

Used Pruning Knife

The blade of the knife, used to prune flowers in Thompson's daily chores at the floricultural department, penetrated James's heart, causing almost instant death.

James, described by college authorities as an outstanding student in the high school and the "best blocking back" ever developed at the school, tried frantically to gain the attention of passing motorists on the street right off the library. He was eventually picked up by a passing professor who rushed him to the Tuskegee Institute Hospital where he died thirty minutes later.

Thompson, also revealed as a model student, who played the clarinet in the Tuskegee band, told friends that he had stabbed James but did not think that he killed him. Later, upon learning of his rival's death, he gave himself up to Dean Edward H. Adams, who in turn called in county police.

DEC 13 1941

The youth was transferred to the county jail where he has been and will be lodged until grand jury action.

The student slayer was described by college officials as quiet, peaceful and never a disciplinary problem, but upon arrival of the youth's parents on the scene it was disclosed that Thompson was given to "temperamental fits of anger," possessed a "quick temper" and was "highly nervous."

Never Gains Consciousness

James was unconscious upon arrival at the hospital and never regained consciousness long enough to make a deathbed statement. Details of the affair, as outlined here, were taken from reports given to college officials by the girl, Thompson and other witnesses.

Thompson and the girl reportedly met on the train en route to Tuskegee last fall. Thompson, being a sophomore and home State friend, immediately assumed the role of protector for the freshman co-ed. He was a constant companion of the girl, guiding her in the ways of the institution, escorting her to and from classes and always at her side at campus extra-curricular activities.

DEC 13 1941

First Meeting of Rival

In recent weeks, James, a two-sport athlete in the high school department and exceedingly popular for his prowess on the football field, had taken a fancy to the girl and sought her affections. The first time the rivals had met personally was the afternoon of the tragedy, according to witnesses.

Funeral services for James were held Saturday afternoon in the Town of Tuskegee, with relatives and friends in attendance. James's mother, who is employed at the college airport, attended.

"Unfortunate Incident"

President Frederick D. Patterson Saturday morning termed the slaying "a most unfortunate incident," adding that he knew of no way in which the institute could have prevented it. He explained that both students, the slayer and the victim, had been models of behavior, never the subjects of disciplinary action and always engaged in some cultural activity on the campus.

President Patterson asserted the knife attack may have been the result of "temporary insanity," hailing Thompson as a student who had maintained better than average grades.

The death of James is the fifth in a series of violet deaths which have taken place within the college community since 1930.

In August, 1930, Miss Mary Booth, head nurse at Tuskegee Hospital and sister of Mrs. Robert R. Moton, was shot to death on the campus.

In 1932, Mrs. Mary Helen Howard, for 25 years a resident of Tuskegee, and operator of a cafe and grocery, was shot to death.

DEC 13 1941

Professor Russell C. Atkins, assistant principal of Tuskegee, was shot and killed in 1933.

In 1939, Tracy Brannon, assistant postmaster, employed in the postoffice for 26 years, killed himself as he lay in a hospital bed. Brannon was reported to have planned to kill the late Dr. R. R. Moton, Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, and R. H. Harris, institute postmaster.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Graduate Takes Over Ft. Benning Chorus

JAN 2 1942

JAN 2 5 1942

FORT BENNING, Ga.—(SNS)—Pvt. Jack Montgomery, talented graduate of the Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Alabama, has taken over the direction of the Fort Benning Reception Center chorus, Capt. R. P. Langley, morale officer, announced Friday.

Private Montgomery, who was inducted in the Army December 2, 1941, has directed recent weekly broadcasts of the chorus and is working on arrangements for future programs by the male singers, who have established an excellent reputation in local music circles.

Montgomery, who formerly resided at 823 South 16th Street, Birmingham, was graduated from Tuskegee in 1935 with a bachelor one year as an instructor of violin and stringed instruments in Houston, Texas, he was recalled to Tuskegee to teach public school music, direct the high school chorus in the Institute, and give violin and stringed instruments lessons in the college department. He was engaged in this work until his induction into the army in December.

JAN 2 5 1942

The Reception Center chorus is composed of talented singers selected from among members of the permanent cadre at the center. In addition to the weekly radio program, the chorus presents entertainments at Fort Benning several times a month.

18y-1941

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
November 9, 1941

Tuskegee Plea

To The News and Courier:

Despite the increase in price for cotton, tenants, sharecroppers and day laborers on farms in many sections of the southeastern states are still without adequate security against suffering and privation during the coming winter.

A new low in cotton production caused by the worst destruction by the boll weevil in a decade directly affects income. Thousands of tenants and sharecroppers have been reduced to the status of day laborers with uncertain employment which means no customary Fall "settling up". Active male members of rural families have been lured to urban centers by rumors of "jobs opening up" in defense industries only to find that, because of lack of skills they cannot qualify, thus reducing farm output of food and feed products with no compensating increase in income.

Without understanding of the economic misfortune which has overtaken their parents, children in these homes face a drab and cheerless Christmas morning. Instead of laughter to greet the emptying of gift-laden stockings hanging beside the mantel, perhaps there will be no stockings to hang and no fire underneath the mantel to bring warmth and kinship with other more fortunate children.

At a time like the present, it is all the more proof of our Christian fortitude and a test of our democracy that we, in America, can share cheer with suffering children in Europe as well as with those in our own country who are innocent victims of adversity.

For many years Tuskegee Institute has been privileged to be a medium through which devoted friends in all parts of the country have sent gifts direct to such homes. Experienced members of our staff whose regular activities take them into remote rural areas visit many homes where our human reserves for national defense are greatly impaired by inadequate diets, insufficient clothing and miserable shelter. They know where the need is most acute and distribution of gifts is made by them.

We therefore renew our appeal for donations of clothing, books, toys, candy, pictures, etc. Some friends prefer to send money with which to purchase gifts and in such instances the donation is spent as directed.

Packages and letters may be addressed to: F. D. Patterson, President, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama."

Very truly yours,
F. D. Patterson
(President, Tuskegee Institute, Tuskeegee, Ala.)

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Muriel Rahn 'Raved' Over By Critics

NOV 29 1941

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26—Muriel Rahn, radiant young luminary of thee oncert stage gave two outstanding recitals in this section which brought raves from critics and audience ilke, Singing last Saturday night in Washington, D. C., at the Armstrong High School Auditorium to an audience which consisted of the Capital's City's very best citizens, Miss Rahn went to town on a program which demanded (and got) the essence of good singing. The young Dramatic Soprano who recently became the first and only Negro singer to make the Opera Group of the exclusive National Orchestral Association, exhibited a voice of beautiful quality and brillance and completely disarmed the huge audience with her gracious and charming personality.

NOV 29 1941

Three nights later she was repeating her success at Bluefield State Teachers' college. The Bluefield Daily Telegraph, leading white paper in the West Virginia city gave Miss Rahn unprecedent coverage claiming that she "possesses a natural voice of rare beauty and tone and wide range. . . thrilled her hearers in a concert which was one of the most successful and enjoyable ever given in Bluefield." Unspoiled by her God-given gift of music," continued the Telegraph, "and having a pleasing personality and appearance, she charmed her hearers by her stage presence as well as her truly marvelous performance." According to local townpeople these sort of superalatives have not been brought out by the paper in such profusion before for any artist as far as they could remember.

Miss Rahn's appearance will be in Lindehurst, Long Island, at the beautiful Lindenhurst High School Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, December 7th. The singer is under the management of her husband, Dick Campbell, with whom she lives in their Eastside studio apartment at 57 East 122nd street, in New York.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

'SKEEGEE HIGH WINS

DEC 6 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Dec. 4 — The Tuskegee Institute high school football team closed a successful season at Panama City, Florida, Friday night, by defeating the Rosenwald high school, 19 to 6, in a colorful battle. Having won eight of the last ten games played, the Bulldogs of Rosenwald high entered the battle highly favored to win.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Bolton Elected Tuskegee Trustee; Famed Philanthropic And Political Figure

CLEVELAND, Nov. 25—(ANP)—Mrs. Frances Payne Bolton, congresswoman from Cleveland and a member of one of this city's pioneer families, has been elected a member of the trustee board of Tuskegee Institute, an announcement from Dr. William Jay Schiefellin, chairman of the borad and President F. D. Patterson, said this week.

NOV 28 1941

Mrs. Bolton, one of the foremost women in America, active in many fields relating to the interests of women, succeeded her husband, the late Chester C. Bolton, in congress. For many years here and nationally, Mrs. Bolton has been a supporter of organizations and institutions devoted to the advancement of colored people. She has been especially active in the field of health and has served in the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses in an advisory capacity. Mrs. Bolton is vice chairman of the Republican Planning committee of which the late Dr. Glenn Frank was chairman.

In discussing her acceptance of the invitation in her office here, Mrs. Bolton said, "I have long been interested in the fine work which Tuskegee Institute has done, and is doing, and I consider it a real privilege to share in the responsibility for its continued development."

The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

First of 'Evenings With Negro Authors'

NOV 26 1941

William Attaway and Ralph Ellison, Negro writers, Samuel Sillen, literary critic, and Roy Wilkins, editor of the magazine "Crisis," will speak Thursday evening at the first session of a series, "Evenings With Negro Authors," held under the auspices of the Schomburg Collection of Negro Literature of the New York Public Library. The session will start at 8 P. M. at the Harlem Branch of the Public Library, 9 West 124th Street. Admission is free.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

DEC 1 21941

BOOKKEEPER—

Chester D. Baccus, a graduate of Booker T. Washington high school, Tulsa, class of 1939, is employed as a bookkeeper at the Tuskegee Institute bank, Tuskegee, Ala. He is in his junior year at the school, majoring in business administration. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Baccus of Vernon, Okla. A sister, Mrs. Mattie Adams, lives at 1614 North Madison street, Tulsa.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

College Student Slays His Rival

DEC 1 31941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., (ANP)—Robert James, 17, of this city, a senior in high school, was stabbed here, Tuesday night by John H. Thompson, 18, of West Palm Beach, Fla., a sophomore in the college. James died shortly after arrival at the Institute Hospital.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

COLLEGE MAN HELD AFTER KNIFE DEATH

DEC 13 1941

Rivalry Over Girl Is Blamed For Alabama Campus Tragedy

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Violence once again invaded the campus of this historic institution last week when a sophomore college student stabbed a high school senior to death during an altercation over an unnamed young woman student.

Dead Tuesday night, a few minutes after he was rushed to the Institute hospital, was Robert James, 17-year-old Tuskegee student in the high school department.

DEC 13 1941

In custody of law officers, following the fatal stabbing, was John H. Thompson, 18, of West Palm Beach, Fla., a college sophomore.

Though details of the altercation were effectively smothered by school officials, it was learned that the stabbing occurred as James was leaving the library.

Whether or not James was armed could not be learned immediately. Nor was it disclosed who was the aggressor in the fatal fight.

Thompson's parents, notified of the incident, notified school officials that they would arrive at the campus within a few days.

Meanwhile, relatives of James went about the sad task of arranging for his funeral which is expected to be held in the campus chapel with fellow students participating.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Grand Champion Winner At Tuskegee Show Raised By Girl

DEC 10 1941

TUSKEGEE, Dec. 9.—When rural Negro boys and girls come into town and spend ten cents or a quarter to go to the motion picture show it is not news. But when rural negro boys and girls come to the livestock show at Tuskegee Institute and go back to their counties with nearly $2,000 in prizes and money from the sale of fat calves, that is news.

Tuskegee's second livestock show today brought 27 entries from N. F. A. and 4-H boys and girls from seven counties, Monroe, Perry, Talladega, Montgomery, Lowndes, Dallas and Macon.

Ethel Pearl Shepherd, 15-year-old high school girl from Prairie Farms, Macon County Farm Security Project was grand champion winner with her Aberdeen Angus weighing 950 pounds. The animal was bought by Swift and Company at 14 1-2 cents a pound, bringing the proud owner $137.75. She also received $22 in prize money. Ethel's brother was grand champion winner in 1940.

Charlie Brown, N. F. A. boy from Macon County was reserved grand champion winner and second in the new farmer's group. His Hereford, weighing 980 pounds was sold to Cudahy for $117.60. He received $19 additional in prize money.

DEC 10 1941

Third and fourth N. F. A. winners were Walter Grimes and Lucille Grimes, Macon County. Walter's Hereford weighing 870 pounds was sold to Cudahy at $10.75 a hundred and Lucile's Angus weighing 715 pounds went to Kennett Murray at $9 a hundred.

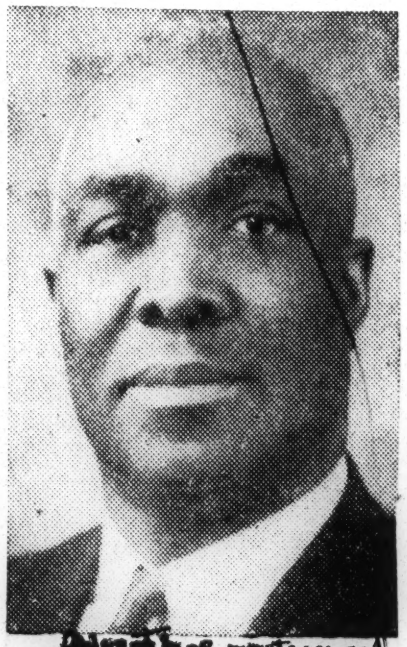
First prize winner in the 4-H Club group was Dorothy Kahn, Dallas County. Her 855-pound Hereofrd placed third reserved grand champion and brought $12.60 a hundred from Swift and Company. John Moss, Dallas County with his 940-pound Hereford won second 4-H Club prize and W. A. Gardner, Dallas came in third with a 885-pound Hereford. These animals brought $12.40 and $10.75 per hundred respectively from Swift and Company and Cudahy.

Increased interest in livestock among negro farmer boys and girls of Alabama is shown by the fact that total sales from the auction last year were about $600 as against over $1,500 for 1941, Director J. R. Otis was proud to point out.

DEC 10 1941

Interested spectators at the auction were: Ray Campbell and Willie Pierce, cattle men from Montgomery; President F. D. Patterson, experienced veterinarian and cattle expert; T. N. Roberts, personal director U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and former manager Macon County land use project, farmers and farm agents from over the South.

The activities of the 4th annual Farm and Home Week will close tomorrow with the 51st annual Farmer's Conference. Honorable Haygood Paterson, State commissioner of agriculture will deliver the principal address at 2 p.m., in Logan Hall. President F. D. Patterson will award certificates to merit farmers.



JESSE O. THOMAS (above), staff assistant, defense savings staff, U. S. Treasury Department, Washington, who addressed a special meeting of the Tuskegee Institute faculty, urging larger participation in the purchase of savings stamps and bonds. The Tuskegee faculty endorsed the payroll allotment plan as proposed by Mr. Thomas.

DEC 14 1941

LOVE SLAYING AT TUSKEGEE; INSANITY THOUGHT CAUSE

DEC 1 3 1941

Pennsylvania Senior Stabbed By Rival, 18

Weekly Review
Birmingham Ala

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The tragic end of a campus love triangle, involving bitter rivalry between two teen-age boys for the affections of a pretty 17-year-old college freshman girl, was solemnly unfolded here Saturday afternoon, as the body of Robert James, 17, was buried in the town of Tuskegee.

Less than a quarter mile away, John H. Thompson, 18, accused slayer of the youth, sat mournfully in the county jail, awaiting a fate that may lead to the same path—death.

DEC 14 1941

James, native of Altoona, Pa., and senior in the Tuskegee High School, was fatally stabbed, allegedly by Thompson, early on Thursday night in front of the college library as the shocking aftermath of a quarrel over the question of who should have the hand of the charming brown belle.

No fight between the two students preceded the killing, according to the story of the slaying as unfolded to the press by college officials here Saturday morning.

Thompson and James, campus rivals for the co-ed's hand, had met earlier Thursday afternoon in the college dining hall when they had a "few words with each other," but had departed with a handshaking gesture that led eye-witnesses to presume that everything was all right between the two.

Seen at Dining Hall

Four hours later, when students gathered in the dining hall for supper, Thompson was seen in company with the young girl when James entered and sought to engage the co-ed in conversation.

As she arose from the table to depart from the hall, James touched her arm in an attempt to assist her from the building, asking: "May I help you?"

DEC 12 1941

This is believed to have peeved Thompson who stalked out of the dining hall in an apparent fit of anger. He was not seen again until the time of the fatal stabbing.

James escorted the girl to the college library and, upon reaching the building was hailed by Thompson. The angered rival, who is an agricultural student, assigned to work in the floricultural department, whipped out a knife and plunged the steel-bladed weapon into the left chest of James.

Used Pruning Knife

The blade of the knife, used to prune flowers in Thompson's daily chores at the floricultural department, penetrated James' heart, causing almost instant death.

James, described by college authorities as an outstanding student in the high school and the "best blocking back" ever developed at the school, tried frantically to gain the attention of passing motorists on the street right off the library. He was eventually picked up by a passing professor who rushed him to the Tuskegee Institute Hospital where he died thirty minutes later.

Thompson, also revealed as a model student, who played the clarinet in the Tuskegee band, told friends that he had stabbed James, but did not think that he killed him. Later, upon learning of his rival's death, he gave himself up to Dean Edward H. Adams, who in turn called in county police.

The youth was transferred to the county jail where he has been and will be lodged until grand jury action.

The student slayer was described by college officials as quiet, peaceful and never a disciplinary problem, but upon arrival of the youth's parents on the scene it was disclosed that Thompson was given to "temperamental fits of anger," possessed a "quick temper" and was "highly nervous."

Never Gains Consciousness

James was unconscious upon arrival at the hospital and never regained consciousness long enough to make at deathbed statement. Details of the affair, as outlined here, were taken from reports given to college officials by the girl, Thompson and other witnesses.

"Unfortunate Incident"

President Frederick D. Patterson Saturday morning termed the slaying "a most unfortunate incident," adding that he knew of no way in which the institute could have prevented it. He explained that both students, the slayer and the victim, had been models of behavior, never the subjects of disciplinary action and always engaged in some cultuarl activity on the campus.

President Patterson asserted the knife attack may have been the result of "temporary insanity," hailing Thompson as a student who had maintained better than average grades.

News of Tuskegee Institute

DEC 1 1 1941

Dean I. A. Derbigny, National President of the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society announced today that the annual convention of the society would be held at Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn., on December 12 and 13. The theme of the convention is: "The Place of Work Experience in the Education of Youth for National Defense."

Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, will address the convention and lead the discussion group. Other speakers include Dean F. C. Smith, of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, who will deliver the main address on Friday night.

Officers of the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society are: Dean I. A. Derbigny, Tuskegee Institute, President; Miss Lola Foster, Sheffield, Ala., vice president; Miss Georgia L. Jenkins, Tuskegee Institute, secretary-treasurer; Miss Isabelle Wilson, Denmar, West Virginia, Assistant secretary. Dr. George W. Gore, Jr., Tennessee A. and I. State College, Nashville, and George J. Jones, Arkansas State College, Pine Bluff, are members of the Executive Committee.

18y-1941

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News of Tuskegee Institute

IMPORTANT FACULTY CHANGE ANNOUNCED

As outstanding projects for the year,, President Patterson, at the faculty All-Institute Luncheon September 9th, referred to the mid-wifery school with the State Health Department, Rosenwald Fund, and Children's Bureau as co-sponsors with Tuskegee Institute. The health program under Dr. John A. Kenney, the work in drama and speech sponsored by the School of Education under the guidance of Dr. J. Max Bond, the expanded opportunities for training landscape and gardening specialists offered by the new up-to-date green house just completed by the School of Agriculture under Mr. J. E. Otis, director; the increasing of the goat herd for supplying milk goats to needy rural families with undernourished children are important features of the year's program.

The Tuskegee interne plan which has met with nation-wide approbation and support will continue to be stressed in all areas.

The aviation program headed by G. L. Washington has enhanced by the army training program, which is now well underway, and special defense program supported by state and federal fund.

Concerning faculty changes President Patterson said:

"In keeping with the necessity to tighten up our formal program made necessary by normal growth, together with the increasing demand for work opportunities, and the almost simultaneous shrinkage of available income, an important step is being taken to clarify the relationship that exists the productive and educational side of our work Mr. Lloyd Isaacs, because of his familiarity with productive activities at Tuskegee and his outstanding training in the field of business, is being asked to assume the duties of Director of Productive Activities.

"Mr. Isaacs' former postion as treasurer will be filled by Mr Luther H. Foster, Jr. who in addition to sound training in the field of business, is competently prepared in educational administration. It is felt that this reorganization of the program will clarify our work in such a way as to justify the confidence of donors and friends who insist upon sound procedure in both educational and business practices incident to the operation to the Institution."

Other faculty changes include the appointment of Mr. Timothy Jones to head the electrical division. Mr. Jones succeeds Mr Wm. Childs Curtis who has been promoted to assistant director of the School of Mechanical Industries. This promotion followed the appointment of G. L Washington, the director, to serve as civilian director of the army air corps detachment.

Mr. Henry R. Jerkins returns to the School of Education as professor of English and head of debating. Mr. Charles M. Brooks, A. M. in Economics from Columbia joins the social science staff of the School of Education. Mr. Brooks succeeds Mr. Hollis Price who has accepted the office of dean of LeMoyne College.

Mrs. Antoinette Cohen becomes acting-registrar with the resignation of A. L. Turner to join the law faculty of North Carolina College for Negroes at Durham Mr. John H. Smith assumed the duties of assistant to President Patterson on July 1. Mr. Smith has lived at Tuskegee Institute during the years he served as office manager and accountant for the Federal Resettlement and Land-use Project in Macon county under Project Manager Thomas N. Roberts, now with the Washington office, personnel division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Among his various duties, Mr. Smith travels with the president and acts as his representative in conferences of various kinds.

Mrs. Ophelia Pearson returns from two years study at Columbit University where she received her Masters' degree and professional diploma in Home Economics, to become director of the School of Home Economics. Mrs. Doris Bodden will teach applied art in the School of Home Economics during the absence of Mrs. Oreta A. Curtis on leave for special study. Miss Evanell Renfrow of the same department has had her leave extended another year for continued work in nutrition.

Mr. Robert Reid has leave for one year to complete his textbook in social science. The book is especially planned for use in Negro colleges. Certain chapters have been used in manuscript form in the freshman class at Tuskegee Institute.

Mr. Emile Hooker of the School of Agriculture will return to Cornell on a General Education Board Fellowship. Mr. Louis A Rabb has leave for one year to study personnel and guidance and Mrs. A. C. Roberts leave for the first quarter to observe work in physical education. Both are beneficiaries of Tuskegee Institute scholarships and will probably study at the University of Michigan.

At the Institute hospital, Dr. John A. Kenney, director, announces the appointment of Miss L. G. Creamon as superintendent of nurses. Miss Cremo is a graduate of St. Paul's school, Lawrenceville, Va. and Burrell Memorial Hospital at Roanoke, Va She holds professional certificates from Harlem hospital, Chicago University, and City Hospital, Newark, N. J. She was appointed American Red Cross Nurse in 1935 and is a registered nurse in Virginia and Alabama and their reciprocating states. Miss Carrie B. Williams is Chief Maternal Supervisor. She studied at Provident Hospital, Chicago, Lying-in Hospital, and Harlem Hospital and was formerly supervisor in obstetrics at Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn. The assistant maternal supervisor is Miss Nola Byers, graduate of Richardson Memorial Hospital, Greensboro, N. C. and graduate student at Cook County Hospital, Chicago.

* * * *

More than 35 candidates for the 1941 Golden Tiger football team reported for practice Monday. The customary lecture by the head coach, introduction of the coaching staff and the new candidates for the team, took less than 30 minutes. Following these preliminaries the members of the squad began the serious business of learning something about football. Equipment was issued Saturday.

Among the candidates reporting were Dennis Stewart, captain, 210 pound guard; Joshua Brown, Richard Lewis, William Fuller, Daniel James, James Rowser, tackles, Raymond Head William Shaw, quarterbacks; Upshaw Sams, Arthur Sawyer, Carter Bowman, Samuel Vincent, Clemenceau Maultsby, halfbacks; centers, Jacob Ross, guard, George Robinson, fullback; Eugene Porter, Robert Ivy, ends, and Archie McClinton, tackle and center.

Lonnie Fyles, Thomas Hornburger, Shelton Moran, the battling boy from the Blue Grass and Marian Smiley have wired that they may be expected to join the squad this week.

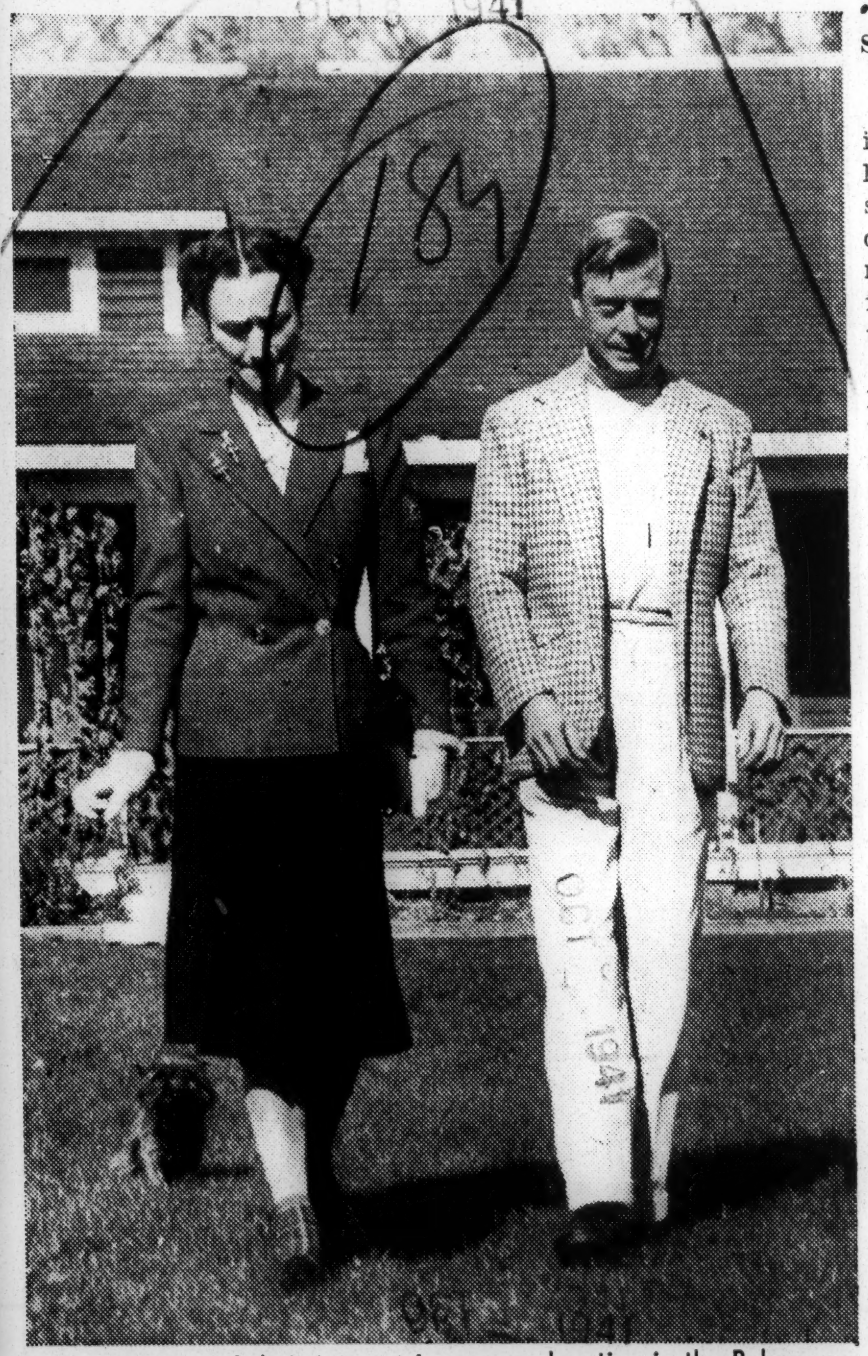
The opening game of the Tuskegee Institute 1941 football season with Xavier University of New Orleans, Louisiana, will be one of the feature attractions on the home schedule. The members of the Gold Rush team have won the admiration and respect of the Golden Tigers. The gridders from the Crescent City were the victors in 1939 and again in 1940 but the Tigers have given notice that they will turn back the Wrightmen this year. Indications are the game will be witnessed by the largest season opener in many years.

Tuskegee's crack band of 80 pieces, under the direction of Capt. Frank L. Drye, is scheduled to appear during the intermission and give an exhibition of intricate marching maneuvers. A feature of this performance will be the effective arrangement of colored lights which the musicians will wear on their caps and on their shoes. The instruments will also be decked in these varicolored lights. When the band takes the field the stadium will be plunged into darkness for the performance which will follow immediately.

The Tuskegee Band has been widely acclaimed not only for the high calibre of its music, but for the excellence of its field formations.

Commercial Appeal
Memphis, Tennessee

Windsors To Visit Alabama



Because of their interest in negro education in the Bahamas, where he is governor, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor (above) will visit Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala., on their way back to Nassau late this month. Here they are pictured on a stroll in front of the ranch house at the duke's 300-acre estate in Canada. They will go to Baltimore, the duchess' former home, Saturday. —Associated Press Photo

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

News of Tuskegee Institute

Setting-Up Conference For Tuskegee Women Students

In line with guidance programs in the nation's outsanding colleges, Tuskegee Institute women student leaders and women's club leaders of the Institute community met for a half day's conference on Effective Living, Saturday, October 4.

Under the general guidance of Mrs. Jessie P. Guzman, Dean of Women, with group singing directed by Hattie Hall '42 and games led by Edith Jeter, '42, the afternoon was profitably and pleasantly filled.

Tuskegee Student Receives Appointment As Short Wave Coordinator For Emergency

The department of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute, has the distinction of having a student in the Electrical division Henry Hunter Jr., appointed Emergency Coordinator of the American Radio Relay League for Macon County in the Alabama section of the Southeastern division.

Hunter operates short wave station W4-GRL at Tuskegee Institute. He is a senior in Commercial Industries in the division of electricity.

Cross Country Flying And Instructor Training Offered

Tuskegee is one of nine flying schools designated as Type B Training Centers, authorized by the Department of Commerce, Civil Aeronautics Administration, to give Cross Country and Instructor Courses in Region 2 (Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama). Tuskegee is the only Negro school in the group and the only Alabama school in this authorization.

One class of six students will be assigned to each Training Center every 12 weeks. The courses, for each class, will extend over a period of twelve weeks.

The first class will report Oct. 6, 1941, with the second (Class B) coming up December 29, 1941. These will be followed by a third group on March 23, 1942 and Class D on June 15, 1942.

George L. Washington, director of Tuskegee's C. A. A. program, states that he has nine men on the eligible list. Six of these will be designated by the Regional Office to report to Tuskegee Airport, October 6. The other three, and three additional men, will begin the training December 29.

Winston Salem, N. C., Sentinel
September 21, 1941

Tuskegee Club Plan Endorsed

Tuskegee, Institute, Ala. — A movement started by members of the Chicago-Tuskegee Club to have Tuskegee Clubs scattered throughout the nation to purchase from one to ten or more tickets to the Tuskegee-Wilberforce football game, which will be played at Soldier Field, Friday night, October 10, and send a representative to the game, is meeting with encouraging response. Colonel John C. Robinson, club president, said here today. "This is the first time such an effort has been put forth," said Colonel Robinson, "and it is very gratifying to note the magnificent spirit that is being manifested in getting members of the Tuskegee alumni to take more interest in the game and give financial support to it.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

DUKE OF WINDSOR THANKS GOV. DIXON

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 17 — (AP)—The Duke of Windsor thanked Gov. Dixon Friday for his invitation to visit the Alabama executive mansion as the executive's guest when he and the duchess stop at Tuskegee Institute next week en route back to Nassau from a Canadian holiday.

Dixon was advised plans for the duke's visit to the huge Negro college at Tuskegee, Ala., either next Wednesday or Thursday, still were indefinite, but that he would be notified "when anything definite is arranged."

The telegram, from Towson, Md., where the former King Edward VIII and the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, are visiting her uncle, was signed: "Phillips, A.D.C."

"The Duke of Windsor wishes me to thank you for your kind invitation," it said. "His Tuskegee plans are still indefinite. Will notify you

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Duke And Duchess To Visit Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE—(ANP)—The duke and duchess of Windsor are expected at Tuskegee institute this week. The famous couple indicated their interest in visiting the famous Negro school. More than 90 percent of the population of the Bahamas islands over which the duke is governor are Negroes. There are countless problems there and the most effective educational work being done in the islands is that carried on by several schools manned by Tuskegee graduates where sorely needed industrial training is being given.

The duke is said to desire to see at first hand what is being accomplished in the training for vocational careers at Tuskegee. The exact time of the visit has not been announced yet.

18y-1941
Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TRUSTEE BOARD HELD AT TUSKEGEE; MRS ROOSEVELT ATTENDS

APR 4 - 1941

To Continue Cooperation with Four Schools and Three Hospitals; See Air Show by Tuskegee Aviation Students

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, —The board of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund closed its annual two-day session here Saturday. Edwin R. Embree, presdient, stated that the Board voted to continue cooperation with four southern colleges in the development of elementary education programs for Negro and white rural communities.

APR 4 - 1941

The cooperating colleges are Tuskegee institute, Fort Valley State college, Fort Valley, Ga.; Jackson State college, Jackson, Miss.; and West Georgia college for whites at Carrolton, Ga.

Mr. Embree said the board would continue cooperation with Flint Goodrich hospital, New Orleans; Provident hospital, Chicago; and the John A. Andrew Memorial hospital, Tuskegee institute for the improvement of Negro health; especial attention being given to training nurse-midwives.

The rural elementary school projects at Tuskegee institute are under the supervision of Dr. J. Max Bond, director of the school of education. Mr. Embree stated that fellowships were not discussed. They will be taken up in April at a meeting of the fellowship committee which will be held in Washington.

Members of the Rosenwald family at Tuskegee during the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Lessing Rosenwald, their children, Robert and Joan, Mrs. Snellenburg, Mr. Snellenburg, and Mr. Edgar Stern, a son-in-law.

After the Saturday business session the Rosenwald party visited the new Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis hospital and the Tuskegee Airport. At the Airport Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, and a member of the Rosenwald board, addressed the Tuskegee Aviation staff and student flyers.

APR 4 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by G. L. Washington, coordinator of the Tuskegee Aviation program and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee institute, shook hands with each member of the staff. The First Lady, after watching acrobatics, went aloft in a Piper trainer with Chief Pilot Alfred Anderson at the control. Mrs. Roosevelt had special congratulations for the Tuskegee young women who had recently received their Private Pilot's license.

APR 5 - 1941

More than 300 people including 150 Junior Red Cross delegates from Florida, Virginia, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Indiana, Oklahoma, Tennessee, North Carolina and Texas, were at the airport to see the air show arranged for the Rosenwald party.

Trustees, alumni and hundreds of friends will meet at Tuskegee institute April 6 to pay tribute to Booker T. Washington, founder of the famous Negro institution. Dr. Abraham Flexner, well-known educationalist, has accepted invitation to deliver the principal address at the Founder's Day exercises which will be held in the institute chapel Sunday afternoon, April 6.

afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee Alumni Asso. Squawks

APR 5 - 1941

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — The local Tuskegee Institute Alumni Association has issued a five-page report calling for six changes in administration.

They include the following:

1. More efficient administrators of trade school which is on the down grade.

2. Elimination of office of dean of administration which office was responsible for recent student strike.

3. Quicker investigation of student complaints.

4. Organization of student council.

5. Reorganize agricultural department so institute will raise its own foodstuffs as it used to do.

6. Reduce personnel of department of administration and the campaign department.

E. J. Adams, alumni president said the institute was surveyed by Dr. Edgar W. Knight of the University of North Carolina and a group of Alabama white educators.

APR 5 - 1941

The survey, he said, recommended that Federal funds be taken from another colored school and given to Tuskegee, but fortunately it was not adopted.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

BEAUTIFUL OPERETTA COMES TO TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

APR 10 1941

On the evning of April the 16, "Jeanie," an operetta will be presented by the Band Fund Committee and the Junior Choir of the Greenwood Baptist church at Logan Hall, Tuskegee Institute. This operetta promises to be one of the best of its kind with many thrilling musical numbers and dramatic action that will keep you looking for "Whats Next?"

There are 100 persons in the cast which includes a 25 piece orchestra, under the direction of Capt. Frank L. Drye, Tuskegee Institute's much loved Bandmaster for more than 25 years. Mrs. Victoria H. Nicholson as Musical Director and Mrs. Clara E. Williams Director of the operetta who has spared no pains to make your evening an enjoyable one, but you will have to see the play to appreciate it's romantic beauty. The story will be dramatized by a well trained cast. Tickets can be purchased in advance on the Institute campus and the community of Greenwood and through mail by addressing either of the above named directors at Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

High Washington Official Visits Tuskegee

FEB 27 1941

Mr. Rueben Brigham, Assistant Director, Extension Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. was a Tuskegee Institute visitor this week. Mr. Brigham conferred with Dr. F. D. Patterson president of Tuskegee Institute, and Mr. T. M. Campbell, field agent, Agricultural Extension Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the Extension Staff. Mr. Brigham's visit was for the purpose of initiating a broad educational campaign for Negro Extension agents in the south with reference to the food and feed program for National Defense. This program has to do with the utilization of lands made available by cotton reduction acreage.

Miami, Fla., News
March 12, 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.— (AP) — Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, and Mrs. Ford participated in the dedication of the George W. Carver museum here, named for Tuskegee Institute's noted negro scientist. The Fords inscribed their names on a concrete slab into which plastics made of soy beans and fiber, developed by Dr. Carver, had been inserted. Previously, Ford and the scientist conferred alone for an hour.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

WILL FEATURE CLINIC CONFAB AT TUSKEGEE

APR 5 - 1941

Meet Slated For April 6 To 12 As Part Of The Founder's Program

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE— (ANP)—The nation's leading physicians, surgeons and clinicians will gathers here April 6-12, to take part in the 30th annual clinic and the 24th annual meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical society. A feature will be the special founder's day program honoring the memory of Dr. Booker T. Washington.

Conference agenda as outlined by clinic officials:

Sunday, April 6, founder's day; April 7, registration, opening of out-patient clinic; Monday through Thursday mornings, reading and discussion of papers; daily out-patient clinics; Tuesday through Saturday, morning operations. The Tuesday evening session will be held at the Veterans' administration facility.

APR 5 - 1941

Among the special attractions will be the following: April 9, presentation of distinguished service medal to a member of the society, selected by a committee, who has done the most outstanding service for the profession; citation and presentation of scroll to a distinguished patron.

While the professional features will be the main attractions, there will be some let-ups for diversion, a reception and other social functions having been planned.

Dr. Spencer C. Dickerson of Chicago, a member of the staff of Provident hospital and former colonel of the 8th regiment, is president of the John A. Andrew Clinical society. Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, Jr., is manager of the Veterans' Administration facility.

afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Dr. G. Lake Imes Hurt in Accident

APR 5 - 1941

BALTIMORE. — Dr. G. Lake Imes, well-known lecturer of 1940 Druid Hill Avenue, received a slight chest injury, and bruises Saturday afternoon when he swerved the car he was driving on the Washington Boulevard to avoid striking another which cut directly across him.

Dr. Imes was en route to Washington on a business trip when the accident occurred at Murkirk, Md.

APR 5 - 1941

According to State Policeman Frank White, who was riding his motorcycle directly behind Dr. Imes, a car coming in opposite direction cut directly in front of Dr. Imes and, to avoid striking it, he cut to the left and the car came to a stop on the opposite side of the road when it struck some railroad ties.

The steering wheel and chassis of the Imes car was badly damaged and it was towed back to Baltimore.

Other Driver Fined $10

The driver of the other car, Francis A. Brown of Mitchellville, Md., was found guilty of reckless driving charges in Hyattesville police station on Monday morning and fined $10.

Officer White said that after the accident it was necessary for him to chase Brown three miles to apprehend him.

Dr. Imes refused hospital treatment, but a call to Baltimore to his wife, Mrs. Grace McCard Imes, brought her and Dr. Berkley Butler who rendered first-aid and returned him to his home, where he is under the care of his regular physician, Dr. William H. Wright.

APR 5 - 1941

Mrs. Imes told the AFRO on Monday afternoon that Dr. Imes would be well enough Wednesday morning to make his scheduled motor trip to Tuskegee, Ala., where he is to speak on Friday at the memorial services for the late president emeritus of the college, Dr. Robert R. Moton, and on Saturday at the annual founders' day exercises at the college. Dr. Imes has just returned from a Southern lecture tour.

Guardian
Boston, Mass.

"RACE" IS MEANLINESS — ALL BRAZILIANS EQUAL—12-YEAR-OLD COLORED GIRL DEFINES DEMOCRACY — PRESIDENT PATTERSON'S DISSERVICE

APR 12 1941

By Llewellyn L. Lewis

THE TERM "RACE" IS MEANINGLESS

"The term 'race' is meaningless and should be dropped from anthropoligical vocabularies," Dr. M. F. Ashley-Montagu, anatomist at Hahneman Medical College, Philadelphia, at the University of Chicago at the annual meeting of the American Asso. of Physical Anthropologists. He said the term "race" ignores latest discoveries in the modern science of genetics. He declared, "When the anthropological concept of race is subjected to rigorous examination in the light of modern genetical research, it is seen that the concept corresponds to nothing in nature. Anthropologists have too long avoided facing the consequences of experimental genetics upon their conception of race; a conception which they have taken for granted as if it corresponded to s omething real."

APR 12 1941

PORTUGUESE, "NEGROES," INDIANS INTEGRATED IN BRAZIL

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted Dr. Arthur Ramos, distinguished physician and anthropoligist, when he delivered a lecture on "Social Conditions in Brazil Today" before the Pan-American Council in Chicago Saturday. Dr. Ramos, among others is visiting the United States as guest of the U. S. Government for the purpose of improving relations between the people of the two republics. Although Brazilians once held slaves, the slaves were as a rule well treated and the racial hate so general in other countries never existed and the slaves were emancipated by a practically unanimous vote of the people without resort to civil war and at once took their place as citizens in all walks of life. The Portuguese, "Negro" and Indian elements are today thoroughly integrated in the Catholic Church and by intermarriage, so there is no such thing as a concept of a "minority." There is no discrimination of any kind by the government on account of race color or previous condition. All Brazilians stand on an EQUAL PLANE OF CITIZENSHIP.

12-YEAR OLD COLORED GIRL DEFINES AND DEFENDS DEMOCRACY

APR 12 1941

Speaking before the Achievement Clubs of Cook County Schools, Illinois, Haroldine Johnson of District 151 said: "Democracy is a precious gift which does not give unless we put something back. Democracy is not a great bread basket but an ideal which permits each of us to touch the stars at a price. The price is sacrifice, cooperation and god will. When we aer grown-ups let us live and work as we do as children. We ask of the grown-ups that they leave intact for us the torch on the Statue of Liberty."

PRESIDENT PATTERSON OF TUSKEGEE DID COLORED GROUP DISSERVICE

APR 12 1941

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson did the colored group a great disservice, says Charles J. Jenkins, prominent attorney of Chicago and many years a member of the Illinois legislature, when he declared in a recent address "that opportunity to serve in any capacity is more important than overstressed matters as discrimination in the army and navy." Patterson's speech elicited approval from the totalitarian South; he is certainly at variance with Northern group opinion.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE EXERCISE HONORS BOOKER T.

APR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 17—"The soil knows no discrimination; it will produce as much for a black man as it will for a white man," was one of the slogans Booker T. Washington used to drive home to his people, his economic philosophy of the soil," declared Dr. G. Lake Imes, Baltimore, Maryland, in the twenty-fifth Founder's Day address at Tuskegee Institute last Sunday, honoring the memory of Booker T. Washington.

The beautiful chapel was filled with the 2500 friends, faculty, students, and alumni assembled to pay tribute to the man who was described by Wilbur J. Hardaway, graduate of the class of 1921, in the Alumni address as "our noble founder who, born a slave and a black boy, went forth asking no special consideration because of his color—our great Founder and source of inspiration, whose body but not his spirit sleeps in yonder grave, for in the memberts of the class of 1921, in tens of thousands who have felt the touch of Booker T. Washington, his spirit marches on."

APR 19 1941

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Mrs. Garner Of Tuskegee Passes Away

APR 12 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Final rites for Mrs. Annie Canty Garner, who died at her home here Monday, were conducted from Washington Chapel A.M.E. church Thursday, Rev. T. R. Newman, pastor ,officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain Tuskegee institute, and Rev Charles W. Kelly, pastor of the Greenwood Baptist church.

Mrs. Garner was born at Fort Mitchell, Ala., moved to Washington D. C., and attended school there until she entered Tuskegee institute in 1889, graduating in 1901. Upon recommendation she went to Columbus, Ga., after her graduation from Tuskegee institute and assumed charge of the home economics department in the public school system.

APR 12 1941

She resigned her position upon her marriage to Major Mitchell D. Carner in 1905 and moved to Tuskegee institute. It was because of her known ability in the field of public instruction that her services wer esought by Charles W. Greene, widely known agricultural leader, and she became a demonstration agent with headquarters in Macon county.

afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

WE'RE GETTING NERVOUS

APR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —Although the colored man in the past has shown few signs of nervous disorders, he has become susceptible to the white man's nervous troubles, Dr. Newdigate Owensby, Atlanta psychiatrist, told physicians at the John A. Andrew Clinical Society here Tuesday.

APR 19 1941

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

Institute "Little Theatre" Is Grateful

The Campaign for the enlargement of the Tuskegee Institute Little Theatre and its subsidiary playhouse for rural people. "The Bucket Theater," is nearing its goal.

MAR 12 1941

The supporters, to a large extent, have been local people, businesses, faculty and students at Tuskegee Institute, and workers at the Veterans Hospital.

The contributors have helped the Little Theater to establish itself as a community supported enterprise, a fact that should make any Theater particularly proud.

MAR 12 1941

The director and members of the Tuskegee Institute Little Theater are most appreciative of the support received and take this opportunity to make public their sincere gratitude.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

300 Soldiers In Sightseeing Tour Of Tuskegee

Under the direction of the Colored Army and Navy YMCA, 300 soldiers of the Colored Reception Center of Font Benning, of which Lt.-Col. Frank Lockhead is Commander, were taken on a tour to Tuskegee Institute and the United States Veteran Hospital at Tuskegee, last Sunday.

The soldiers were transported in army trucks, and carried lunches which were served picnic style on the picnic site of the United States Re-Forestation project near Tuskegee. Members of the YMCA went in private cars. The convoy left the YMCA at noon Sunday.

Among the points of interest visited were the Tuskegee Air Port, Veterans Hospital, the Institution Dining Hall, and the George Washington Carver Memorial.

18y-1941

McRae, Ga., Telfair Enterprise
March 6, 1941

Ministerial Life . . . Huckabee

NO. 22

During the twelve years of my agency of the Home I went to many other orphanages and educational institutions to study their methods so that I could be able to recommend to our board any improvements that would make our Home more efficient. My desire was to be able to adopt the very best methods for the proper education and development of our children.

The finest and best orphanage I found was in Clinton, S. C. It was owned and operated by the Southern Presbyterian church. Dr. Jacobs was the manager or superintendent. The children were kept in dormitories just large enough for about twenty to twenty-five inmates with a matron in charge of each cottage. In the cottages where the very small children were kept they had both boys and girls. Where the larger ones slept they occupied separate cottages. All the children were fed in a great central dining hall. It was a two story building with a cook room and store room below while the dining room was above. It was a large room with open windows on at least three sides. They had no screens yet there was not a fly to be seen. The grounds and surroundings were kept so sanitary that flies had nothing to live on and no place for them to be hatched or raised. This made a deep impression on me. As I understood it that orphanage served and I think yet serves the whole South. That institution is named for a noted Presbyterian minister. It is called the Thornwell Orphanage. I visited that home twice and found the above conditions both times.

Then in the same state I visited once for a short while the Connie Maxwell Home at Greenwood, S. C. in charge of Dr. Jamison. So far as my brief stay would permit I learned all I could concerning that home. It was fashioned somewhat the same as Thornwell. I did not stay long enough to make careful study. From all I could learn it is a splendid institution and worthy of the support and patronage given it.

The Baptist Orphanage at Hapeville was more like ours was when I first became agent. All housed in one building but I never spent but an hour or two there and could not write about it in an intelligent way. One thing I know they have housed and fed and educated many a child that possibly would have died by neglect and dire poverty.

The Methodist Home supported by the North Georgia Conference was very much like ours and run after the same manner in general with an agent, superintendent, and matrons. Ours is neither the one large building nor the cottage plan but a sort of cross between them. So is the North Georgia Home at Decatur. Rev. Howard Crumley was agent in those days and like Brother J. A. Smith he gave his whole life to that work.

I went to see the Booker T. Washington Institute at Tuskeegee, Ala., but that was on such a big scale that I got no workable information that I could use in connection with our Home.

All these Homes or Institutions had gardens or fields where they made part of their support. Some of them had shops where the children could learn how to use tools to greater or less degree. This was highly beneficial. They had the Head, Heart and Hand idea of an education which I think is the best.

Several years after Mrs. Mahony gave the first $50.00 on the Baby Cottage I was sent as pastor to Grace Church in Savannah. One evening when I was about ready to begin the services in the church I had a call to come to see an old lady who was said to be dying in St. Joseph's Hospital. I said "I am just about to begin the evening service as soon as it is over I will come right over." He said "I fear it will be too late then for she is rapidly sinking." I said to my wife, who was entering the church with me to tell the leader of the choir to keep them singing until I returned."

When I got to the hospital she had already gone into a coma and did not know me or any one else. Her sister asked men to pray at her bedside anyway. I did so and returned to the church as soon as I could.

After the service was over I went again to the hospital to see if by chance she had regained consciousness. She had not. I had a chance to talk to the dying woman's sister. I remarked that her face was one I was sure I had seen before. I said "She looks like a Mrs. Mahony I met several years ago in Wesley church. She said, "She is Mrs. Mahony and she used to attend Wesley church." Then I told about her giving me the first $50.00 on the baby cottage for which I was raising money at that time and the cottage had been built and occupied. I told her that her substantial gift had made it possible to get the building much sooner than otherwise. With this I went back to the parsonage and went to sleep. The next day her son came for me to hold her funeral. I went and did so relating to the people present the above facts. Her sister said that Mrs. Mahony was a Catholic and that they had held a service already; her son , said she, was a Methodist and he wanted a Methodist minister to hold her funeral and burial service, so I said the last rites and pronounced the benediction.

In collecting funds for building the baby cottage the gift of Mrs. Mahony had a great effect on the others to whom I made an appeal for funds for the building. Her name should have been placed somewhere in the building. It took several months to raise sufficient funds to build it. There was one more building I wanted to raise money for, that was a reception cottage, so many children came who had or had been exposed to some infectious or contagious disease.

I had an idea that they should be detained for three or four weeks until it had been proved that they had no disease that could be transmitted to the other children. A ward for boys and one for girls was to be the plan.

This was approved by the executive board. I did not know it then but the end of my agency was drawing to a close.

I could stand on the lawn and look in every direction and see the many improvements that had been made with the money I had raised for the improvement of the physical plant. Inside of every building I could see it. In the children themselves it was alike apparent both in the number and appearance. It could be seen in their faces and heard in their songs and laughter. God had been with me all the way and I rejoiced and was glad, but those who claimed that the agent should live in Macon were busy. They were looking for a man that could do the work and live in Macon and they did not have to go far to find him. He was living in Macon. When I took hold of the work the board had searched the whole conference and could not find one who was willing to try but now it was different and several wanted the place. I had worked and earnestly prayed that I might be able to put the home on the hearts in its true light and the collection made in a Scriptural way. I never took an auction collection while I was agent. I never made an appeal to pride. I made it so that no one would know what anyone else gave unless he chose to let it be known. I made it as nearly Scriptural as I knew how. In this way all the above named improvements were made and we were supporting 30 per cent more children than they were when I began. We had the room and they were using it.

When the board met at conference I made my report as usual but when they came to elect an agent they, I think, told me they would excuse me, anyway I got the idea that they wanted me to leave the room and I did so. After I had been out for some time Brother Wardlaw came to me outside and asked if I would serve if just a good strong majority elected me, that two or three of the trustees wanted another man, but it looked like there would be a division. I said, "If it means a split in the board I will withdraw my name in the interest of harmony. That if I accepted the opposition would make it hard for me and maybe make me fail if they could." After all I think God was putting His finger down ahead of me because He wanted me at another place. That was when the conference was meeting in Columbus in 1910 and Bishop Morrison was presiding and he sent me to Douglas.

Rev. J. A. Smith was elected my successor and he has been the agent ever since. Much good has been the result of his work. Many an orphan and other underprivileged child has found a refuge there. The institution deserves all the financial aid given it by the people who have contributed toward its support. May it live, grow, and prosper for many years to come.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia
OCT 25 194

Windsors Scheduled To Visit Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(ANP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are expected at Tuskegee Institute this week. The famous couple have indicated their interest in visiting the famous Negro school. More than 90 per cent of the population of the Bahamas Islands over which the duke is governor are Negroes.

There are countless problems there and the most effective educational work being done in the islands is that carried on by several schools manned by Tuskegee graduates where sorely needed industrial training is being given. The duke is said to desire to see at first hand what is being accomplished in the training for vocational careers at Tuskegee.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee Girls Seek Indoor Track Title

APR 5 - 1941

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—The great team of Tuskegee, Ala., will send full representation to the women's division of the National Indoor Track and Field Championships of America in the Atlantic City Auditorium, Easter Saturday, April 12, it was announced, Monday, by Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, president of the Middle Atlantic AAU, sponsors of the event.

There has been no women's championships for five years and the team title remains open to any club, college or school that can produce a winning combination.

APR 5 - 1941

Tuskegee has been the outdoor team champions for the past three years and at present holds the United States title. Their great 440-yard relay team is still intact, not having tasted defeat since 1937.

Rowena Harrison begins the 440, passes the baton to Lulu Perry, who relays it to Lucie Newhall and thence to the anchor, the great Lulu Mae Hymes. The quartet who will meet strong opposition here in the Loyal Order of Moose Girls from Philadelphia, who are coached by Mrs. Bonniwell, herself a national figure in the women's sports world.

Other than their defeat by the Tuskegee girls, the Moose team has never been beaten. And they are mighty anxious to avenge that defeat when the two teams clash in Atlantic City.

Individuals Entered

In addition to the relay, Tuskegee will enter Miss Hymes and Rowena Harrison in the 50-meter event: Lucy Newhall in the 200-meters against champion Stella Walsh, and Lulu Perry in the hurdles as well as Alice Coachman in the high jump.

Miss Perry's foremost foe in the 50-meter hurdles will be Sybil Cooper of the German-American Club of New York, national women's champion. Miss Coachman is the national outdoor champion and will attempt to set a new indoor record for women.

Jane Lane to Run

APR 5 1941

Besides these, Tuskegee also boasts some better than average broad jumpers and shot put artists, who will be seeking individual and team honors. Another great feminine athlete who will compete is Jane Lane of Wilberforce, Ohio, 50-meter outdoor champion. She won honors in Ocean City, last summer, by nosing out at the tape Stella Walsh in the 100 meters and will compete here in the 50- and 200-meter events.

APR 5 - 1941

Not to be outdone by the South and Midwest, the East also has a great athlete in Miss Jeannette Jones of Harrisburg, Pa. Only 17 years old, Miss Jones is the Middle Atlantic indoor and outdoor 50-yard champion. She will be the hope of the Middle Atlantic to carry them to a national team title in this event.

Among the outstanding males who will compete in the men's division will be Mozel Ellerbe of Tuskegee; Barney Ewell of Penn State; Eulace Peacock, former Temple University track idol and intercollegiate champion, and Thomas East of Cheyney Institute.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Mrs. Bethune Is Speaker for Women Students

APR 5 - 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, a director of the National Youth Administration, was guest speaker for the annual banquet of the Associated Women Students of Tuskegee Institute, here, Tuesday.

Miss Ozella Holman, senior in the school of education and president of the A.W.S. presided, young women from various sections of the South, were co-honorees. Miss Ruth Lucas of Stanford, Conn., senior in the school of education, represented the senior college women.

Presidents Speaks

Mrs. Bethune was presented by Mrs. Jessie Parkhurst Guzman, dean of women, Tuskegee Institue. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute, in the closing remarks paid high tribute to the unparalleled contribution that Mrs. Bethune has made to the welfare of the youth of her race.

APR 5 - 1941

Musical selections were given by the Tuskegee Institute concert orchestra and a solo by Jesse Chambliss, baritone soloist of the Tuskegee Institute choir.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Daily Times
March 28, 1941

MRS. ROOSEVELT VISITS TUSKEGEE

Will Meet There Today and Tomorrow With Trustees of Rosenwald Fund

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 27 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, headed a group of distinguished members arriving today for Friday and Saturday meetings of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund, often a benefactor of nationally known Tuskegee institute.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here from Albany, Ga., where she addressed a civic club earlier in the day.

The trustees, following a business session, will visit two rural projects conducted under the institute's school of education, New Rising Star and Harris Barrett schools. Later they will go to "The Bucket" theater on the Russell plantation, where farmer adults will present a play.

The theater got its name from Booker T. Washington's famous admonition to his; the Negro race: "Let down your buckets where you are."

The Tuskegee institute weaving school, opened March 5, and rural health projects, especially those for training of midwives, shop workmen, aviators and public health workers also will be visited.

Besides Mrs. Roosevelt, Rosenwald trustees arriving today included Dr. O. M. Bousefield, Fred Wale, Dorothy Elvidge, Edwin R. Embree and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frank.

Others expected here tomorrow include William Rosenwald, Robert E. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Odum, Edgar B. Stern, Dr. Leonard M. Rieser, George M. Reynolds, Dr. W. W. Alexander, Franklin C. McLean, Dr. Clifford Waller and Mark Ethridge.

Clanton, Ala., News
March 27, 1941

THORSBY NEWS

The 1941 Seniors of Thorsby Institute took their annual trip to Tuskeegee Institute on Friday, March 21. It was a most enjoyable and eudcational trip.

The last open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will he held on Friday night, April 4. at 7:30 under the direction of Miss Elsie Tinker

There will be a Christian Endeavor the American composer. Stephen Foster, "From The Old South". The arrangement of the program will be given next week. Everyone is invited.

A music recital under the auspices of the Clanton Music Club was given on Monday night, March 24, at 7:30 by Miss Elsie Tinker, music instructor at the Institute, Miss Rubye Raybon and Miss Katherine Bryan both students of Thorsby Institute. This was a most enjoyable program.

* * *

The Ladies Guild served the Lions Club in the Fellowship Hall of the Congregational Church on Tuesday night, March 25.

There wil lbe a Christian Endeavor Social in Fellowship Hall of the Congregational Church on Saturday night, March 29, at 7:00. All members and friends of the Christian Endeavor are invited to attend.

The Christian Endeavor was led last Sunday evening by the Missionary Committee. We studied about the churches in other lands and the work they are doing. Special music was rendered by Frances Wood and Jeanette Plant. Everyone is invited to attend these meetings each Sunday evening at 6:20 in the Fellowship Hall of the Congregational church.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

State Nurses Hold Institute At Tuskegee

APR 13 1941

The Institute for Colored Graduate Nurses sponsored by the Nurses Board of Examination and Registration of Alabama was held at the John A. Andrews Memorial Hospital, Tuskegee Institute. The theme of the institute was "Mental Hygiene and Psychiatric Nursing."

Mrs. Linna N. Denny, R. N., executive secretary Alabama State Board of Nurse Examiners presided Friday morning. Following the morning session the delegation were guests at a luncheon at the Veterans' Hospital, through the courtesy of the nurses.

The afternoon session was held in the recreation building of the hospital, with Mrs. E. V. Davis presiding. The evening session was held in Tuskegee Institute Chapel with Dr. H. V. Richardson presiding.

The sessions Saturday were held at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital with Mrs. Ross E. Robert, R. N., president, Alabama State Board of Nurse Examiners presiding. Among the speakers were Dr. A. M. Gaulocher, associate director division of mental hygiene, State Department Public Health; Mrs. Agnes N. Steele R. N., superintendent of nurses, Bryce State Hospital, Tuscaloosa; Dr. Charles Prudhomme, Dr. C. C. Branche, assistant clinical director; Dr. John H. Dibble, Jr., manager Veterans' Administration Facility; Dr. John A. Kenny, medical director, John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital; Dr. F. D. Patterson, president Tuskegee Institute; Dr. Murray Smith, Macon County health officer; Miss Elizabeth T. McDowell, R. N., director Community Nursing Bureau, Birmingham and others.

APR 13 1941

At the close of the institute the annual meeting of Colored State Nurses Association was held with Miss E. V. Rivers, R. N., president, presiding.

After discussions the business session the following officers were elected as State officers: Mrs. Minnie Howard, Birmingham, president; Mrs. Rose Thomas, Montgomery, vice-president; Miss Fannie Williams, Tuskegee, recording secretary; Miss Wilma Giddis, Birmingham, corresponding secretary; Miss Winnie Hatcher, Montgomery, financial secretary-treasurer; Miss Johnnie L. Dent, Tuskegee, reporter.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Windsors Cancel Plans To Visit Southland

ATLANTA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Constitution, in a special dispatch from Washington, said today that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor would be unable to visit Atlanta and other Southern cities before returning to Nassau but expect to do so on another trip in the near future.

OCT 27 1941

Information to this effect was received by Lawrence Wood (Chip) Robert, Jr., of Atlanta and Washington, in a telegram from the former British King, now in New York, the paper said.

The Duke's equerry, Maj. Grey Phillips, later telephoned to Robert that the Windsors had been forced to postpone the Southern trip because of the unexpected demands made on their time in New York.

OCT 27 1941

18y-1941

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Donate Marble Shaft To Mark Spot Where Tuskegee Inst. Was 'Borned'

MAY 24 1941

By FLORENCE E. RILEY

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—After Booker T. Washington's famous "Let down your bucket where you are" Atlanta address in 1895, many persons visited Tuskegee in Macon county, the very heart of the Cotton Belt, to see the effects of an experiment in the transformation of a so-called backward group of people into self-respecting, law abiding citizens.

Since the death of this noted educator in 1915, literally thousands of people of all races, from all parts of the world have made pilgrimages to this institution to study the growth and development of a great philosophy.

Few of the thousands who come and go each year are aware that Butler's Chapel A.M.E. Zion church, commonly known as "Zion Hill," pastored by the Rev. W. E. Carson, In the "Negro section" of the town of Tuskegee, Ala., is the original site where the now famous Tuskegee institute began—just five minutes drive from its present location.

During the month of April, a huge, rugged marble stone, symbolic of the man himself, was placed on the exact spot where Booker T. Washington taught his first class in a "shanty." The marker is a donation from the Alabama Marble Works, Sylacauga, Ala., through the generosity of H. M. King, assistant general manager. Sand blasted on the face of this giant stone are the following words:

"On this site stood the 'shanty' where Booker T. Washington first opened school, July 4, 1881. Later it became 'State Normal School,' next 'Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute,' now 'Tuskegee Institute.'"

The foundation upon which the stone rests was built by the craftsmen who are members of Butler's Chapel.

The idea of permanently marking the place where Tuskegee institute began dates back to May, 1940 when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt appointed T. M. Campbell, field agent, U. S. department of Agriculture, a member of the National Advisory committee, Community Service programs of the WPA, and invited him to a meeting at the White House, where he got first-hand information as to possible projects that could be undertaken by local groups for community betterment.

Returning to Tuskegee, Campbell called a meeting of key community folk and explained the objectives of WPA Community Service. An organization was effected to be known as the "Tuskegee Community Service Agency" with the following officers: T. M. Campbell, chairman; Mrs. M. K. Frazier, vice chairman; Mrs. B. B. Walcott, secretary; Miss F. E. Riley, assistant secretary, and an advisory committee composed of Maladie Morse, V. C. Turner, J. Maddux, L. A. Jones and Rev. W. E. Carson.

On September 5, 1940, J. Howard Miller, executive secretary, National Advisory committee, Community Service programs, WPA, Washington, D. C., while touring the state, visited Tuskegee and held a conference with the community group at which time specific community problems were revealed and solutions suggested.

Inspired by those meetings, the group set about to do some tangible work. The first project was to get the assistance and cooperation of Miss Mary Weber, Alabama state director, professional and service division, WPA; and Mrs. Marie Bankhead-Owen, director of the Alabama archives and history department, who furnished a WPA artist to prepare a suitable plaque honoring Charles W. Greene, Tuskegee institute's first agricultural teacher. This plaque was dedicated November 4, 1940, and is located in the new Extension Service building on the campus of Tuskegee institute.

The placing of a marker where Booker T. Washington started Tuskegee is the second undertaking by the Tuskegee Community Service agency.

Mayor G. B. Edwards of the town of Tuskegee is one of the moving spirits in this project, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, has manifested great interest in the movement, also.

There are five persons yet living who answered the roll call the first day Dr. Washington opened school in his "shanty" classroom. They are, Mrs. W. T. Harris, Mrs. Roxie Brewer, Mrs. Kiziah Day, Miss Caroline E. Smith, all of Tuskegee, Ala., and Smart Boyd, residing at Greenville, Ala.

Formal dedication of this project will take place upon completion of suitable landscaping, which has been agreed upon by the city council of Tuskegee.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

JUN 14 1941

Charles A. Anderson, chief flight instructor, Division of Aeronautics, Tuskegee Institute, left the campus Friday for Boston, Massachusetts, where on Monday, June 2, he will begin a three weeks course in cross country instruction training.

The course is offered by the Civil Aeronautics Authority of which Grant Webster is director. The training will be given at the Northeast Airlines, Municipal Airport, East Boston. The course will include intensive work with the newest instrument designed to take many of the old hazards out of cross country flights.

Pilot L. A. Jackson returns this week from Boston, having completed three weeks special training in cross country instruction.

This course will enable Chief Anderson and his co-workers to give the enrollees in the Summer Aviation Program at Tuskegee Institute the best and latest developments in the field of aeronautics.

A plane with an engine of higher horsepower and a cabin of larger capacity than the ones now owned by the Institute, is to be purchased for Tuskegee's first cross country training which is scheduled to begin the middle of June. Several planes have already been flown to Tuskegee airport for inspection. G. L. Washington, director of aeronautics and Lloyd Isaacs, treasurer of the Institute, stated that the make and model of the new plane had not been finally settled upon, but the new plane would probably reach the Tuskegee airport at the time of Chief Anderson' return from Boston.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hill, Baltimore, Maryland, enthusiastic workers in foods preparation and service for nearly a quarter of a century, took "time out" October, 1940, to May 19, 1941, to brush up on the latest quirks of the calorie and vitamins, developments in nutrition and food cost, and control, at the Tuskegee Institute School of Commercial Dietetics.

During their period of study at Tuskegee Institute, Mr. and Mrs. Hill rendered valuable service as part time instructors in the experimental kitchen and salad pantry, respectively .

At the commencement exercises, May 19, 1941, Mr. and Mrs. Hill were awarded Tuskegee's first certificate for "a refresher course in Commercial Dietetics." Mr. and Mrs. Hill left the Institute immediately after the commencement exercises for Flume Reservation, Franconia, New Hampshire, where Mr. Hill is employed as managing chef and Mrs. Hill is in charge of pastry and the salad pantry.

Before coming to Tuskegee, Mr. and Mrs. Hill had been employed for many seasons at the Mayflower Hotel, Ocean City, New Jersey, and in charge of Y. M. C. A.. kitchens. When the depression struck they were conducting their own foods business.

* * *

During the Annual Tournament of the American Tennis Association; which will be held at Tuskegee Institute, Augest 18-23, 1941, players and visitors will be requested to pay only room rent at the time of their arrival on the campus, administration officials announced here to day.

Cafeteria, and table hotel service may be secured in the "Rose Room" of the Cafeteria. All meals will be paid for as served. The Cafeteria will be open from 7:30 a.m., to 8:00 p.m., throughout Tournament Week, and the "Rose Room" will be open at convenient hours for each meal.

The regular charge for room rent will be $1.00 per day. The Institute, will, however, be able to provide a limited number of quarters for players only at the rate of $4.00 for the week. The lower rates will apply to quarters where four or more persons will occupy the same large room. The accommodations furnished under this lower rate will differ from those under the higher rate only in the number occupying the same room.

All players interested in the lower rate accommodation should make reservation well in advance of the Tournament. The dead line for these reservations will be Thursday, August 14, 1941.

In order to facilitate the matter of housing players and guests immediately upon their arrival, it is urged that a written request for reservation be sent to Captain Charles Ecton, Chairman of the Housing Committee, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, at the earliest possible date. No deposit is required with such notice.

* * *

Michael Tondow, menu classifier, and office assistant to Gabriel Lugot, executive chief of the Waldorf-Astoria, will conduct classes in the ten-week Summer Course for advance students in Commercial Dietetics at Tuskegee Institute, beginning June 4, Dr. F. D. Patterson, President, announced here today. Mr. Tondow has worked under the personal supervision of Gabriel Lugot for the past five and one-half years, acquiring the necessary training and background for his planned career of a hotel chef.

He came to the Waldorf-Astoria in October, 1935, as an apprentice in the first class to take the course in culinart art conducted by the hotel. After graduation he was assigned to a permanent job in the kitchen and worked for two years on the ranges and in the various kitchen stations. He has been in his present post for one year.

Tuskegee this summer, will conduct courses in "Advanced catering," which included buying and soring; economy and preparation; casserole cookin; international cooking; a-larte service, and Menu Making and Special Hotel Cooking and Catering," including cooking styles and variations, menu composition and planning; including cooking game and seafood, cold meats, salads and salad dressing, desserts, and kitchen management.

* * *

Forty-five Negro boys from Macon County, between the age of 17 and 25 will be able to attend school free of cost June 2 to August 19, to learn aero- mechanics, according to an announcement made by President F. D. Patterson.

This training in aero-mechanics was made possible by an allocation of $6,665 from funds for National Defense Programs. Thirty-four hundred dollars is being spent for equipment. All supplies for the course, including text-books, etc., will be purchased from the fund and furnished free of cost to the boys enrolled.

Three licensed mechanics will be employed on the teaching staff. W. S. Allen, State Itinerant Teacher Trainer, has been appointed supervisor of the project and has outlined the course of study which has been approved by the State Board.

G. L. Washington, director of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute, has assigned one of the buildings of the William G. Willcox Trades School to be used as headquarters for these Defense Training Program operations.

No fees will be charged for the training; textbooks and supplies will be furnieshed, but enrollees must pay for their board, room and transportation. While any youth from 17 to 25 years of age is eligible, preference will be given to those especially interested in mathematics and science.

Application blanks may be obtained from the office of W. S. Allen, Supervisor, Trade Building A, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

* * *

The will to succeed is what carried Nathaniel S. Colley through four years of study at Tuskegee Institute and to the top in scholarship attainment. Colley, who came to Tuskegee from Snow Hill Institute, Snow Hill, Alabama, had little cash money, but ability and a determined will to accomplish something.

Immediately after registration he entered heartily into the spirit of the institution and by participating in many extra-curricular activities began to accomplish results. He points to the fact that he memorized the words of "The Tuskegee Song" while riding from Chehaw, the little railway station, five miles from the Institute, which connects the main line to Montgomery and Atlanta, and was able to repeat the words of this song when called upon to do so by an upperclassman just before he entered the office of the Dean of Men for registration and room assignment. During his early days on the campus he met personally many of the instructors and students, was able to locate the principal places and points of interest, and upon graduation was one of Tuskegee's best known young men.

Colley was graduated from Tuskegee Institute with high scholastic honors, May 19, 1941, with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education. He was awarded the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity medal for maintaining the highest scholastic average of any male student in his class. His campus connections and activities included: Listed in Who's Who Among students in American colleges and universities for the years 1939-1940 and 1940- 1941.

Three times elected to the Student Council.

President of the Y. M. C. A.

President of the Pi Gamma Debating Society.

President of the Carver Chemical Society.

President of the N. Y. A. Club.

First Lieutenant in the Tuskegee Institute Cadet Corps.

President of the Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Mu Scholarship Fraternity.

Colley desires to become a chemist, in which field he has already made some interesting studies.

* * *

Ninety Agricultural Extension agents representing six States have registered for classes in the Summer in-service agents short course in the school of agriculture, Tuskegee Institute, J. R. Otis, Director, announced today.

The courses are designed to give practical immediate aid to in-service agricultural extension workers in their complex job of improving farm life in a changing system of agriculture.

A strong corps of specialists from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., the Alabama Extension Service, Auburn, Alabama, will supplement the regular members of the Tuskegee Institute Institute Agricultural faculty in forming the teaching and lecturing staff for the agents' course.

Mr. E. H. Shinn, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will conduct the course in "Planning the Organization and Program for Extension Teachers;" Miss Quida Midkiff, Mississippi State College, will have "Selection and Use of Cotton Materials;" Miss Lavada Curtis, Auburn Polytecrnic Institute, Auburn, Alabama, "Food Conservation and Use;" Mr. J. H. Williams, Prairie View State College, Prairie View, Texas, yill give instruction in "Home Tanning and Harness aking;" Messrs J. E. McLean and C. W. Clift of the Tuskegee Institute faculty, will teach "Conservation and Use of Farm Land;" R. A. Munday will give instruction in "Home Use and Marketing of Farm Poultry;" Mr. W. H. Gregory, of the U. S. Department of Agrisulture, will have animal Husbandry, Feed and Pasture Development."

Lecture, entertainment and other facilities of the regular Summer School, plus field trips and special receptions by the the agricultural faculty are extra-curricular features of the course. Devotional exercises will be held in the agricultural assembly room on Tuesday and Friday mornings at 11:30 o'clock.

Those attending the short course are: ALABAMA—J. D. Barnes, Joseph Bradford, Miss Rosella Brown, Theodore Bridges, Mrs. C. A. Gee, Julius C. Gordon, James Holland, Miss Clentyne Hightower, Miss Ruth Hightower, Lawrence Johnson, Miss Hattie M. McKay, Mrs. Ella B. McKissack, Robert T. Phillips, Charles S. Sampson, P. Floyd Thomas, Miss Tommie Whitlow. GEORGIA: S. H. Lee. LOUISIANA: Miss Cordelia Blackburn, Milton L. Duty, Miss Ruby Fisher, Mrs. Jerushia P. Griffin, Booker D. Harrison, Samuel W. Jones, J. A. M. Lloyd, Lawrence Joseph Washington, T. J. Jordan, State Agent.

MISSISSIPPI: Mrs. Ada B. Adams, William B. Ammons, Mrs. Wieda Bowden, Miss Ophelia L. Carter, Miss Willie M. Carroll, Mrs. Beatrice Childress, Miss Mable R. Clopton, Miss Lessye L. Davis, Miss Jessie L. Dowsing, Miss Geneva Edwards, Charles R. Fletcher, Mrs. Eva L. Gordon, Miss Dorothy D. Gordon, Garrett E. Gray, Mrs. Ethel Hall, Miss Dollye L. Holmes, Mrs. Emma G. Whitfield, Ernest A. Holtzclaw, Mrs. Jannie V. Hunt, Miss Mary Lee Jones, Mrs. Marian V. Latimore, R. E. Lee, Miss Alice I. Little. Mrs. Graftie A. Meadow, Miss Lettye M. Montgomery, Emmett S. Haskin, Chester W. Owen, Miss Laura E. Powell, Miss Bessie Rainey, Mrs. Medora Louise Reed, Mrs. Cornelia A. Richards, Miss Vera Lee Sledge, Mrs. Mable L. Thomas, Miss Sarah E. Whiteside, John A. Willis, Mrs. Annie B. Wimbs and Miss Hannon R. Woods.

Enterprise, Ala. Ledger
June 13, 1941

NEGRO YOUTHS ARE GIVEN SCHOLARSHIPS TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Did Fine Work As Students At Coffee County Training School, Coppinville, Under Direction of Teacher Seets.

That Alabama's expanding program for public schools is gradually removing the bars to opportunity for all children, regardless of class or color, is proven by the successful records of two negro youths, Eugene Zacheous and Grover Brown, recent graduates of the Coffee County Training School, who were enrolled at Tuskegee Institute on June 2.

These boys, students in vocational agriculture under H. B. Seets, were members of the New Farmers of America, an organization for negro youth, similar to the Future Farmers of America and the 4-H clubs. During a period of three years they have gained much valuable information and experience through their supervised farm projects.

Zacheous, beginning with one gilt, has sold $77.00 worth of hogs; $35.00 worth of fryers from his flock of chickens and and $9.75 worth of eggs. He has on hand at present one hog and 85 broilers. He beautified the lawn at his home, assisted in painting the residence, built a brooder house and a laying house for his poultry flock. He was a leader in school activities, being active in athletics; treasurer of the New Farmers of America and chairman of two of its important committees, second honor student of the senior class, teacher in the Sunday School and active worker in the B. Y. P. U.

Grover Brown has sold up to date $37.00 worth of hogs and now has on hand two brood sows, 18 pigs, one No. 1 hog, 10 laying hens, a dozen fruit trees, a year-around garden and has beautified his home lawn. He was president of the senior class, vice-president and secretary of the N. F. A., active in athletics, member of the N. F. A. chorus and high school chorus and an active worker in religious and church affairs.

Both boys entered college on work scholarships warranted by their records.

18y-1941

AVIATION

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE NOT PLAYING WITH AVIATION

School Will Continue to Be Center of Aviation Activities for Negroes—Five Distinct Courses to Be Offered—School Will Have Three Airports—C. Alfred Anderson, Chief Flight Instructor.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., July 24—Because of the facilities it offers and the extrordinary record it has and is making, Tuskegee institute is and will continue to be the center of aviation for Negroes in relation to the government's civil and defense program.

Tuskegee institute is not playing with aviation. With G. L. Washington, head of the department of mechanical industries as co-ordinator between the school and the Civil Aeronautics Authority in the Civilian Pilot Training program, Tuskegee is destined to make and hold ranks as one of the greatest aviation schools of the nation.

It has already outstripped all other colored schools designated in the Civilian Pilot Training Program. It is proceeding now, with the backing of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, the Board of Trutees, federal agencies and Mr. Washington, to provide the same facilities and the same advanced instruction which can be obtained at any civil aviation school of which America can boast.

WILL OFFER FIVE DISTINCT COURSES

By the time this story reaches print, Tuskegee will be well on the way to offering five distinct courses in civil aviation. These courses, all including the proper ground school work, may be outlined as follows:

1. A primary course. This is the course originally set up at Negro colleges. It includes ground school work and leads to a private pilot's license after 35 hours of solo flying.
2. A secondary course with 40 additional hours of flying.
3. A student instructor (apprentice) course with 30 hours flying.
4. A cross-country course with 40 hours flying.
5. A commercial course (commercial refresher and secondary (advance) instructor course) with 60 hours flying. This course will be started in the fall.

How did this broad and advanced program in aviation at Tuskegee develop?

When Negro colleges were given the opportunity to co-operate in the CAA'S Civilian Pilot Training Program in 1939, Tuskegee undertook to do its part by accepting responsibility for the primary course.

A Division of Aeronautics under Mr. Washington, alluded to above, was set up, and ground school courses were taught with special facilities provided at the school. Assisting Mr. Washington has been John O. Hopkins who is in charge of the school's airport.

The Alabama Air Service at Montgomery, 40 miles away, was given a contract by the CAA to give flying instructions to the students in Tuskegee's ground school. However, the distance to be traveled each day made this arrangement impractical and Tuskegee later leased a suitable field for an airport seven miles from Tuskegee and qualified to teach flying. Tuskegee became the first Negro school to qualify for both ground school and flying instruction.

TUSKEGEE STUDENTS HAVE MADE FINE RECORD

The record made by Tuskegee students in primary instruction so impressed officials of the CAA that Tuskegee became the first Negro school to be selected for a secondary course in aviation in which students from other Negro schools might train.

From that point on Tuskegee's aviation program has expanded rapidly in two directions. There were two causes. The growth of civilian aviation preparedness among Negroes dictated the need for instructors and advanced training. The birth of the 99th Pursuit Squadron presented the opportunity to provide a base for the primary and elementray instruction of these prospective future cadets. Tuskegee Institute set itself to do both jobs.

Army Air Corps Training for flying cadets is ordinarilly divided into four sections as follows:

1. A five week "pool" period.
2. A 10-week civil elementary school period.
3. Ten weeks of basic training.
4. Ten weeks of advanced training.

When a cadet has finished the advanced course, he is put on the reserve list as a second lieutenant or placed in active service.

Here is where Tuskegee fits into the Army Training plan. It has been the practice of the Army to let contracts to schools with the proper facilities to give the "pool" training, inspections and examinations to prospective cadets and also the elementary training. The Army exclusively takes care of the last twenty weeks of basic and elementary training.

Tuskegee Institute's secondary course covers the Army elementary course. Therefore, when students at Tuskegee they are prepared to have finished the secondary course apply for basic and advanced training at the new Army training school which is being built for the 99th Pursuit Squadron.

It is expected that most of the young men who qualify for the Army training school to train for commissions in the 99th Pursuit Squadron will clear through Tuskegee's civil aviation school.

TUSKEGEE TO HAVE THREE BIG AIRPORTS

Instead of one there are three airports related to the aviation program at Tuskegee. The first is the airport leased originally for primary and secondary work at Tuskegee itself. The second is a new field acquired through a loan of $200,000 made by the board of trustees to qualify for the Army's elementary course. The third is the new $2,000,000 school and field being constructed by the government for the 99th Pursuit Squadron.

Tuskegee invested approximately $50,000 in facilities for its primary training program.

For ground instruction it provided a demonstrational laboratory containing a complete army trainer, air-cooled engines, water cooled engines, wing sections, propellers, cylinders, accessories, etc., used for ground instruction, charts, slides, and classroom visual aids. Four ground instructors holding CAA ground instructors's certificates for all subjects taught were employed.

For flight instruction Tuskegee leased the airports upon which it constructed hangars, an office, a classroom, a shop and other necessary building facilities.

In May, Tuskegee had seven Piper Cubs of 65 horse power, used for primary instructor apprentice course, four Waco 220 horsepower Army primary training planes for secondary acrobatic training course and one 300 horsepower Stinson Reliant used for cross-country instruction.

The school has seven instructors headed by Chief Flight Instructor C. Alfred Anderson. Four of the instructors are white and three are colored. All of the white instructors and one of the Negro instructors received their instructor training under two of the Negro instructors.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
August 7, 1941

Tuskegee Institute President Tells of Training of Negro Air Pilots at His School

BY DOUGLASS HALL

One of the nation's leading educators visited this city late Wednesday but very few persons here knew about it.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, in company of three other persons, was in town just long enough to get "a bite to eat" and to give this writer a few pointers on his whereabouts and information concerning the aviation program that is under way at Tuskegee.

"They love it," the educator answered when questioned about the colored soldiers and civilians that are in training at the school. He also revealed that the boys seem to have the qualifications necessary to do the job of flying. "They are a fine bunch and they are coming along fine with their flying," he further asserted.

FLYING THERE FOR KEEPS

Dr. Patterson also expressed the belief that flying was at Tuskegee for keeps. When this present emergency is over, he velieves that courses in flying will become a part of the curriculum of the institute. He stated that one field is completed at the college, aonther is near completion and a great deal of work has been done on a third and larger base.

Tuskegee is one of the first bases that the government set has up up for the training of Negro pilots. However, there are only 11 army fliers there at present or rather soldiers who desire to become army fliers. The president asserted that the civilian pilot training that is being conducted at the school is where the boys are really getting a chance to prove themselves. And one could tell from the emphasis with which he related the experiences of these beginners, that he was proud of them and of the achievement that they have made thus far.

"Training will get get going at Tuskegee in a big way about October 1," Dr. Patterson stated, "and we except about 500 boys to be there and all of the buildings and grounds etc., completed about that time. Already we have been assured that a company of 400 from Illinois would be there not later than October.

The Tuskegee head stated that he was not on a vacation but that he had been North on business and was returning to his school. He first visited Washington, D. C. and conferred with Gen. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Corps.

afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Cross Country Course Begins at Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Tuskegee Institute is one of nine flying schools designated as Type B Training Centers, authorized by the Department of Commerce, Civil Aeronautics Administration, to give cross country and instructor's courses in Region 2, made up of Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama.

Tuskegee is the only colored school in the group and the only Alabama school in this authorization. One class of six students will be assigned to each training center every twelve weeks—the period required by the courses for each class.

Underway on Monday

The first class reported on October 6, with the second to report on December 29. These will be followed by a third group on March 23, 1942 and a fourth on June 15, 1942.

George L. Washington, director of Tuskegee's CAA program, stated that he had nine men on the eligible list, six of whom were designated by the regional office to report to the airport on Monday. Three of these and three additional men will begin the training in December.

Eligibles Listed

The men now registered for cross country and instructor's course all of whom received their secondary training here, are: Ernest Henderson of Memphis, Tenn. (W.Va. State); Herbert Van Strong of Memphis, Tenn. (Tuskegee); Adolph J. Moret, Jr. of New Orleans (W.Va. State); Roscoe D. Draper of Haverford, Pa. (Hampton primary); Harold C. Hayes of Boston (A. and T. College); Linkwood Wilson Rose of Oklahoma (Tuskegee primary); Irvin D. Laurence, Jr. of Cleveland, Ohio (Tuskegee); Hector William of Madison, Ill. (Tuskegee).

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE'S PILOT TRAINING SETS PATTERN IN NATION

SEP 14 1941

By FLORENCE MURRAY

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Sept. 11—(ANP)—Tuskegee Institute has already entered into the picture of national defense in more ways than one; but its most publicized activity to date is that of aviation. Harangued by Negroes, since the beginning of the defense program, for an opportunity to prove their mettle in the technical branches of the army, the government chose this school for its experiment with colored army aviators just a few months ago.

Two years before the plans were completed to establish a pursuit squadron at Tuskegee, the school launched on its flying career, and up to this time has four courses going in civilian pilot training: an elementary course, a secondary course, an instructor's training course, and a refresher course for commercial pilots.

One of the 400 colleges)five colored) originally selected by the Civil Aeronautics authority in 1939 to set up a civil course in elementary flying, Tuskegee later became the only Negro school authorized to give the secondary course.

It began its initial flight training without even an airport, using the Montgomery, Ala., air field some 40 miles away for flight work and its campus for ground training. It was no easy job for Dr. Patterson and his director of mechanical industries, George L. Washington, to persuade the CAA to install the elementary course at the school, when threre was no landing field within the required 10-mile distance; but they were able to bring officials around with their pledge that they would soon get an airport near the school grounds.

SEP 4 1941

Once off the ground, Tuskegee students set a record among white and colored colleges in the South by passing 20 out of 20 in the ground school of the first class; then sending its quota of 20 through the flight tests.

One of its students, Alexander Anderson, scored 100 on civil air regulations and 92 on navigation and meteorology, standing among the top scores made by all students in the CAA examinations. Charley Foxx, another student, averaged 97 on to examinations and was later chosen one of the seven private licensed pilots trained in the first civil course to represent Region II in a contest conducted by the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences. The other six were white. (Region II is composed of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida and Alabama).

The secondary training program at Tuskegee, begun in July, 1940, enrolled elementary trained flyers from the other colored schools: Lincoln university in Pennsylvania, Virginia State college near Petersburg, Howard university in Washington, West Virginia State college, North Carolina Agricultural and Technical college, and Hampton Institute in Virginia.

By this time the institute had leased a field seven miles from its campus and students had prepared it themselves for use in the first course, while the second-course flyers used the field of Alabama Polytechnical college (white) at Auburn, about 20 miles distant.

SEP 4 1941

Begining with two Cubs in its hanger, Tuskegee soon purchased its first Waco plane and became flight contractor as well as ground contractor. This fleet has since increased to eight Cubs and four Wacos, and it is now among the few schools, white or ,colored, to own and control facilities for flight instruction. And this is a doubly large star in the institute's crown, because flight training has, for the most part, been limited to commercial centers of long-established experience.

To flight-train its students in the second course, the school was able at first to adhere to its tradition of completely Negro staff, and obtained two well-trained colored instructors, Charles A. Anderson and Louis A. Jackson. Mr. Anderson, head instructor, was the first Negro to earn a commercial pilot's license by the government, and has for some years been known to Negroes for his outstanding flights, having flown non-stop to Haiti. On the first of June he left Tuskegee for a course in cross-country flying given by the CAA at the Northeast Airlines Municipal airport in East Boston.

Since the appointment of these two men, the aviation staff had to be increased, and the school added another colored instructor, George W. Allen, and three white ones; and further additions are expected to me made at the opening of the next fall term. The ground school staff, besides Mr. Washington, is composed of a retired naval flyer, Lieut. B. M. Cornell, professor of aeronautical engineering at Alabama Polytechnic; Robert G. Pitts, also white, and William C. Curtis, head of the school's electrical division.

Tuskegees present flying field is such that, as one government examiner put it, "every landing here is a spot landing.' It is bound by trees on one side and a highway on the other. Last year President Patterson initiated a campaign to raise money to build an airport and mechanics building on the institute's spacious grounds where there is a good location. Alumni clubs and other groups raised the sum of $30,000 and work on the new airport, which is on the school's grounds, began in June.

Up to March of this year, Tuskegee had completed the training of eight apprentice instructors and had contracted to give refresher courses to other qualifying colored instructors. Its primary training program has been enlarged from groups of 20 students to three annual classes of thirty students, and its secondary program quota has been trebled. This school, with six other colored colleges, has caused the commerce departments list of certified colored pilots to jump from 31 in 1939 to 106 in September, 1940.

But this is not all. Proud of their chance to demonstrate their ability to cope with other racial groups in whatever fields of progress opening up, Negroes at Tuskegee and the country over were far from satisfied at their countrys refusal to consider training them for the army.

Finally the early part of this year they won their first victory in the scheduled establishment of an army flying unit. This unit, to be called the 99th Pursuit squadron, for which the war department allotted $1,813,402, has begun training. The institute will furnish living quarters for the complete outfit of nearly 300 men.

With the coming of the flying cadets, their instructors, ground crew, administrators, messmen and other employees, and their families, Tuskegee expects to see hundreds of new residents added to her school community, which already numbers approximately 5,000 persons.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Cross Country Aviation To Be Added By CAA

Only Negro School In Region Two To Be Included

TUSKEGEE, Ala.— (SNS) —Tuskegee is one of nine flying schools designated as Type B Training Centers, authorized by the Department of Commerce, Civil Aeronautics Administration, to give Cross Country and Instructor Courses in Region 2 (Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama). Tuskegee is the only Negro school in the group and the only Alabama school in this authorization.

One class of six students will be assigned to each Training Center every 12 weeks. The courses, for each class, will extend over a period of twelve weeks.

The first class will report October 6, 1941, with the second (class B.) coming up December 29, 1941. These will be followed by a third group on March 23, 1942 and Class D on June 15, 1942.

NINE ON LIST

George L. Washington, director of Tuskegee's CAA program, states that he has nine eligible list. Six of these will be designated by the Regional Office report to Tuskegee Airport, October 6. The other three, and three additional men, will begin the training December 29.

The men now eligible for Cross Country and Instructor's Course are: Roscoe B. Draper, Haverford, Pennsylvania, (Hampton primary); Hector Strong, Memphis (W. Va. State primary); Sherman T. Rose, Oklahoma (Tuskegee primary); Irvin D. Laurence Jr., Cleveland, Ohio (Tuskegee). Ernest Henderson, Mountalla, South Carolina (Hampton); Herbert Van Allen Clark, Pine Bluff (Tuskegee); Adolph J. Moret Jr., New Orleans (W. Va State); Harold C. Hayes, Boston (A. and T. College); Linkwood William. Madison, Illinois (Tuskegee). All men received their secondary at Tuskegee. Pilot Lewis Jackson is in charge of the Cross Country and Instructor's course. Jackson has an enviable flying record. He also took an intensive course in instrument flying at Boston Airport, the first of the summer, to get the last word in Cross Country flying.

Jackson will be remembered as the diminutive airman who flew to Memphis in August to thrill the delegates, to the National Negro Business League, with his acrobatics in the air. Something of the scope of cross country flying instruction is revealed by the line up of equipment required for every six students taking the course. Tuskegee will use one four place cabin plane—a Howard, one three place cub cruiser, one Waco, and one cub. Both the Howard and the cruiser are equipped with ear phones and other instruments necessary for night flying. All ships are certificated.

BIG STAFF USED

To keep the Tuskegee CAA Airport organized and planes, hangars and grounds in condition for the three civilian programs, elementary, secondary, and cross country—a staff of some fifteen to twenty persons is required in addition to the instructors.

Assistant to the director is John O. Hopkins; the superintendent of maintenance, Elliot Grey; airport secretary, Mildred Hanson dispatchers, Marcus Davis and Langston Caldwell. In addition, there are more than a dozen mechanics janitors, and helpers employed.

Eligibility requirements for Cross Country.

The applicant for cross country and instructor courses must:

1. Be a graduate of the Secondary Course of the Civilian Pilot Training Program.

2. Not be enrolled in an educational institution.

3. Be able and willing to devote his entire time to this training.

4. Provide his own transportation to and from the Training Center.

5. Be able and willing to pay the following fees:

a. Insurance fees, Cross Country Course $10. Instructor Course $6.50.

b. Equipment fee, Cross Country $10 (approximately).

6. Indicate his desire to become a flight instructor.

7. Be able and willing to pay an amount of approximately $50 per month for room and board during the time he is at Training Center.

8. Hold or immediately obtain a valid Restricted Radiotelephone operator Permit issued by the Federal Communications Commission.

9. Not be on active duty or enlisted and awaiting call with the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps.

10. Not hold or have held a Commercial Certificate.

11. Women applicants are not eligible.

OCT 5

18y-1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Will Make Military Flying Part Of Ed. Work At Institute

APR 14 1941

Dr. William J. Schieffelin, New York City, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Tuskegee Institute, states that the meeting of the Board, April 5 and 6, was one of the busiest in its history. Dr. Schieffelin said the most important decision by the Board was the Resolution to make military flying a part of the educational work of Tuskegee Institute. He said the Board voted unanimously to appropriate $200,000 to purchase and equip a 800 acre field three miles from the campus for the military flying program.

APR 14 1941

Dr. Schieffelin stated further that the Board had expressed satisfaction that this first opportunity for young Negro aviators to serve in the Pursuit Squadron of the U. S. Army Air Corps was to materialize at Tuskegee Institute. This new unit, he said, was being set up as a result of a nation-wide demand that was stressed at a conference on "The Negro in National Defense" recently held at Hampton Institute, Virginia.

When questioned concerning the election of a Tuskegee alumnus to the Trustee Board, Dr. Schieffelin replied that the General Alumni association at their meeting April 4, 1941, had nominated Dr. Alphonse Heningburg, Class of 1920, for membership on the Trustee Board. He said the nomination of Dr. Heningburg had been acknowledged but no action would be taken on it until October, 1941, the regular time for election of Board members.

Dr. Schieffelin expressed for the Board appreciation of the fine way President Patterson, faculty, and student body have been able to carry forward the Tuskegee program, despite the slightly curtailed budget.

Dr. Heningburg who was nominated by the Alumni for membership on the Board of Trustees, was an honor graduate from Tuskegee Institute in 1920. He received a Rosenwald Scholarship to Grinnell College, Iowa, and was graduated from that Institute in 1924, a member of Phi Beta Kappa National Honor Society. After a few years of teaching, Mr. Heningburg spent nearly two years in study at the Sorbonne in France, and travel-study in Spain and Italy. He returned to America to hold important positions on the faculty of Tuskegee Institute, successively, head of the division of Romance Languages in the high school and college, Principal of the Tuskegee Institute High School, Personnel Director, Tuskegee Institute. At present, Dr. Heningburg is special assistant to the President of North Carolina College for Negroes in Durham.

APR 14 1941

Claude A. Barnett, a graduate of Tuskegee, has been a member of the Board for a number of years, but he was selected directly by the Board to replace a deceased member, and was not a nominee of the Alumni as their representative on the Board.

Clarksdale, Miss. Register
April 17, 1941

Negro Fliers Get Training

Tuskegee Institute Center of Army's Newest School for Pilots.

Tuskegee Institute.—Negro youth throughout the country are making application to the Army Air Corps for training as Flying Cadets. Director G. L. Washington of Tuskegee's School of Mechanical Industries has from the beginning directed and had immediate supervision of Tuskegee Institute's aviation program. At the same time he has been closely associated with Army Air corps officials having to do with the shaping of the Army's plans for the enlistment and training of negro cadets. Director Washington has advanced the following information and diferentiation regards aviation activities to be centered about Tuskegee Institute. Such information and clarification should be both timely and of particular interest to those interested and planning to participate in Army air corps flying cadet training.

Flight training of flying cadets in the army air corps consists of elementary, basic, and advanced Each phase extends over approximately ten weeks. Applicants passing the physical and educational examinations and who are assigned to training are first given a five weeks initiation period prior to flight training. During this period, he is equipped with uniform, flying suit mechanic's suit, etc., necessary to flight training. Immediately upon acceptance the cadet received $75 per month pay plus allowance for board and lodging.

At the conclusion of the introductory five weeks period, the cadet is assigned to a civil advanced flying school having army contract for elementary training of army cadets. Some 28 civil advanced flying schools throughout the country have such contracts at the present time. and the army anicipates increasing this number. Stationed at the civil advanced flying school is detached army personnel for purposes of supervision and joint administration of the program. About 40 per cent of the cadets assigned are expected to be eliminated during the ten weeks course First ranking reason for elimination would be inability to perform flight maneuvers up to required standard. Cadets eliminated are subject to further cadet training for phases of air corps operations having to do with ground services and functions.

The sixty per cent graduating from the elementary training course at the civil advanced school are then transferred to an army air corps base for 10 weeks of basic training. Here some are eliminated during the course though the percentage is considerably smaller than obtains during the elementary trainings. Cadets successfully completing the basic course are assigned to advanced training. The advanced course is of ten weeks duration and 99 per cent of those entering are expected to be graduated. Upon graduation from the advanced course the cadet is commissioned as a 2nd. Lieutenant and placed on reserve or is assigned for active duty in an air corps unit. Owing to the present defense program, practically all such graduates are placed in active service.

Applicants for flying cadet training must pass a rigid physical examination and an education examination In cases of the educational examination, those applicants who can present to the examining board acceptable evidence of at least two full years of college training leading to a degree in a recognized college or university are not required to undergo the educational examination. All applicants must present birth certificates; if this cannot be secured, a certifying statement made out by parents or guardians on special form and notarized will be accepted. Applicants under 21 years of age must submit written permission of parents or guardian to enlist for such training. All applicants must be unmarried and none will be accepted who has exceeded his 27th birthday. Application is made through the corps area headquarters for the state in which the applicant resides. Applicants need not have had previous flight training though it does not bar the applicant from entering the elementary course.

April 25, 1941

Negro Air Unit To Receive Aid From Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 25 — A primary air corps training school for negroes — first of its type in the country — is coming into being at Tuskegee Institute, famous Southern negro educational school.

The first all-negro air unit, the 99th pursuit squadron is to be "activated" at Tuskegee next October, and at present a 276-man ground crew is being recruited at the institute.

The first quota to be trained here will include approximately 50 negro flying cadets. Most of these are expected to be drawn from those now attending ground school at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill. The majority of these cadets are graduates of or recent students at such negro colleges, as Morris Brown, Morehouse, Clark University and Tuskegee.

For a year Tuskegee has had a civilian pilot training school in operation and the training fleet now consists of 12 planes

Fayetteville, N. C., Times-News
April 25, 1941

NEGRO AIR UNIT TO GET TUSKEGEE AID

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Apr. 25.—(UP)—A primary air corps training school for negroes—first of its type in the country—is coming into being at Tuskegee institute, famous southern negro educational school.

The first all-negro air unit, the 99th pursuit squadron is to be "activated" at Tuskegee next October, and at present a 276-man ground crew is being recruited at the institute.

The first quota to be trained here will include approximately 50 negro flying cadets. Most of these are expected to be drawn from those now attending ground school at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill. The majority of these cadets are graduates of or recent students at such negro colleges as Morris Brown, Morehouse, Clark university and Tuskegee.

For a year Tuskegee has had a civilian pilot training school in operation and the training fleet now consists of 12 planes.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

'Kegee Airport Benefit Musical A Huge Success

The musical which was given for the benefit of Tuskegee's own airport fund and featuring some of the South Side's leading gospel choruses and soloists at Du Sable high school, May 18, was a financial success, according to Mrs. Una Van Zandt who arranged the unique event. Realizing that many other big events were scheduled for the same date, Mrs. Van Zandt stated that she emphasized the importance of the advance sale of tickets to her staff and secured commendable results. She also pointed out that a number of people who could not be present bought tickets any way because they were anxious to support the movement which is designed to develop the first airport to be owned and controlled entirely by our t[illegible]

MAY 2 5 1941

A surprisingly large crowd was present as the program got under way with Mrs. Frances Gaines, president, National Nurses Assn., presenting Dr. G. Norman Adamson, who served as master of ceremonies. Dr. Adamson spoke for a few minutes upon the advantages it would be to colored people throughout the country.

Mahalia Jackson, noted gospel singer, who was accompanied by Wm. Webb, rendered "Watching and Waiting" by Dorsey; an encore gave. "The Last Mile" also by Dorsey. The Independent Choralettes from Monumental Baptist church sang a series of selections which were graciously received by the audietnce. Cora Winters Swift, assisted by her choral group, rendered several selections for which they were loudly applauded. Colonel John C. Robinson, famous aviator and former ace of the Ethiopian Air Force, was the guest speaker. Robinson told of many of his experiences during the period he served with His Majesty's Air Force. Particularly interesting was his account of many of the events which many of his listeners recalled made headline stories in the daily papers both in Europe and America. A brief question period was observed at the conclusion of his address at which time he answered various questions submitted by people in the audience.

MAY 2 5 1941

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

ALL TUSKEGEE AIR STUDENTS PASS EXAMS

MAY 23 1941

Make High Grades in CAA Ground Work Test; Average 93

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE. — Twenty-seven students enrolled in Primary Civilian Pilot Training Course at Tuskegee were given examination in ground work, Friday, by Gerald D. Latham, Civil Aeronautics Administration Inspector, of Washington, D. C.

All 27 students passed. The class average was 93. Three members of the class, Faythe McGinnis, Oklahoma, James Wright, Georgia, and Peter F. Rose Jr., Virginia, each had individual averages of 97.

Twenty students enrolled in Secondary Civilian Pilot training course took the Ground School examinations. Nineteen passed in all subjects. Class average is 85.5. Individual high point average was made by Langston Caldwell, Denver, Colo., with an average of 90. George Bolling, Tully Hickman, Linkwood Williams, and Walter Lawson came second with an 89 average. Secondary ground examination was given by L. E. Marden, ground school inspector, C. A. A. Washington, D. C.

Ground Instructor for the primary course at Tuskegee is Joseph T. Camilleri; for the secondary, Warren G. Darty , Wilmot G. Rhodes, Lewis A. Jackson, and Joseph T. Camilleri.

George L. Washington, director of the division of aeronautics, stated that he was well pleased with the record made. This is the fourth group to complete the primary and the third to complete the secondary since Tuskegee began Civilian Pilot training in October 1939 under the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Five courses in civilian flying are now in operation at the Tuskegee Airport: Primary Civilian Pilot Training, Secondary Pilot Training, Secondary Civilian Pilot Training, Student (apprentice) In- and Secondary Instructor Refresher. Charles A. Anderson is chief flight instructor.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

All Tuskegee Pilots Pass Flight Test

MAY 24 1941

TUSKEGEE. — Twenty-seven students enrolled in primary civilian pilot training course at Tuskegee were given examination in ground work Friday by Gerald D. Latham, AAA inspector, Washington. All 27 students passed. Class average was 93.

Three members of the class, Faythe McGinnis, Oklahoma; James Wright, Georgia, and Peter F. Rose Jr., Virginia, each had individual averages of 97.

Twenty students enrolled in secondary civilian pilot training course took the ground school examinations. Nineteen passed in all subjects. Class average is 85.5. Individual high point average was made by Langston Caldwell, Denver, with an average of 90. George Bolling, Tully Hickman, Linkwood Williams and Walter Lawson came second with an 89 average. Secondary ground examination was given by L. E. Marden, ground school inspector, CAA Washington.

MAY 24 1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

To Train Boys In Aviation Mechanics

MAY 25 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE—(SNS)—Thanks to the National Defense Training Program, forty-five Macon County Negro boys between the age of 17 and 25 will be able to attend school free of cost from June 2 to August 9, 1941, to learn aero-mechanics, according to an announcement made by President F. B. Patterson.

MAY 26 1941

This training unit in Aero-mechanics was made possible by an allocation of $6,665 from funds for National Defense Programs. Thirty-four hundred dollars is being spent for equipment. All supplies for the course, including the text books, etc, will be purchased from the fund and furnished free of cost to the boys enrolled.

Three licensed machines will be employed on the teaching staff. W. S. Allen, State Itinerant Teacher-Trainer, has been appointed supervisor of the project and has outlined the course of study which has been approved by the state Board.

O. L. Washington, director of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute, has assigned one building of the William G. Wilcox School to be headquarters for those Defense Training Program operations.

MAY 2 6 1941

No fees will be charged for the training; textbooks and supplies will be furnished, but the enrollees must pay for their board, room and transportation. While any youth 17 and 25 years of age is eligible, preference will be given to those especially interested in mathematics and science.

Application blanks may be obtained from the office of Supervisor W. S. Allen in Trades Building at the the Institute.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Student Pilots All Pass Tests At Tuskegee

27 Members Of Group Get High Marks In Civilian Flight School

TUSKEGEE. (ANP) — Twenty-seven students enrolled in primary civilian pilot training course at Tuskegee were given examination in ground work Friday by Gerald D. Latham, AAA Inspector, Washington, and all 27 students passed. The class average was 93. Three members of the class, Faythe McGinnis, Oklahoma; James Wright, Georgia; and Peter F. Rose, Jr., Virginia, each had individual averages of 97.

MAY 29 1941

Twenty students enrolled in the secondary civilian pilot training course took the ground school examination. Nineteen passed in all subjects, with class average of 85.5. Individual high point average was made by Langston Caldwell, Denver, with an average of 90.

George L. Washingon, director of the division of aeronautics, stated that he was well pleased with the record made. This is the fourth group to complete the primary, and the third to complete the secondary since Tuskegee began civilian pilot training in October, 1939, under the CAA.

Five courses in civilian flying are now in operation at the Tuskegee airport: primary civilian pilot training, secondary civilian pilot training, student (apprentice) instructor, commercial refresher, and secondary instructor refresher.

MAY 29 1941

Charles A. Anderson is chief flight instructor.

—A Colored Judge—

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinoi

TUSKEGEE GETS STATE-WIDE FLIGHT PERMIT

OCT 1 1 1941

Is Only Institution In Alabama Now Under Authorization

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Tuskegee is one of nine flying schools designated as type B training centers, authorized by the Department of Commerce, Civil Aeronautics Administration, to give cross country and instructor courses in region 2 (Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama). Tuskegee is the only Negro school in the group and the only Alabama school in this authorization.

One class of six students will be assigned to each training center every 12 weeks. The courses, for each class, will extend over a period of 12 weeks.

The first class will report October 6, with the second (Class B) coming up December 29. These will be followed by a third group on March 23, 1942 and Class D on June 15, 1942.

OCT 1 1 1941

George L. Washington, director of Tuskegee's C. A. A. program, said that he has nine men on the eligible list. Six of these will be designated by the regional office to report to Tuskegee airport, October 6. The other three, and three additional men, will begin the training December 29.

The men now eligible for cross country and instructor's course are: Roscoe D. Draper, Haverford, Pa.; Hector Strong, Memphis; Sherman T Rose, Oklahoma; Irvin D. Laurence Jr., Cleveland, Ohio; Ernest Henderson, Mountalla, S. C.; Herbert Van Allen Clark, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Ado'ph J. Moret Jr., New Orleans; Harold C. Hayes, Boston; Linkwood William, Madison, Ill.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Establish New C. A. A Courses

Class of Six To Be Trained Every 12 Weeks

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE. Tuskegee is one of nine flying schools designated as Type B Training centers authorized by the Department of Commerce, Civil Aeronautics Administration, to give Cross Country and Instructor courses in Region 2 (Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama). Tuskegee is the only Negro school in the group and the only Alabama school in this authorization.

One class of six students will be assigned to each Training Center every 12 weeks. The courses, for each clas. will extend over a period of 12 weeks.

The first class will report October 6, with the second (Class B) coming up December 29. These will be followed by a third group on March 23, 1942 and Class D on June 15, 1942.

George L. Washington, director of Tuskegee's C. A. A. program, states that he has nine men on the eligible list. Six of these will be designated by the Regional Office to report to Tuskegee airport, October 6. The other three, and three additional men, will begin the training December 29.

The men now eligible for Cross Country and Instructor's Course are: Roscoe D. Draper, Haverford, Pa., (Hampton primary); Hector Strong, Memphis, (W. Va., State primary); Sherman T. Rose, Oklahoma (Tuskegee primary); Irvin D. Laurence Jr., Cleveland, Ohio, (Tuskegee); Ernest Henderson, Mountalla, S. C., (Hampton); Herbert Van Allen Clark, (Tuskegee); Adolph J. Moret Jr., New Orleans (W. Va. State); Harold C. Hayes, Boston (A. and T. College); Linkwood William, Madison, Illinois, (Tuskegee).

All men received their secondary at Tuskegee. Pilot Lewis Jackson is in charge of the Cross Country and Instructor's course. Jackson has an enviable flying record. He also took an intensive course in instrument flying at Boston airport, the first of the summer, to get the last word in Cross Country flying.

Jackson will be remembered as the diminutive airman who flew to memphis in August to thrill the delegates, to the National Negro Business League, with his acrobatics in the air. Something of the scope of cross country flying instruction is revealed by the line up of equipment required for every six students taking the course.

Tuskegee will use one of four place cabin plane—a Howard, one of three place cub cruisers, one Waco, and one cub. Both the Howard and the cruiser are equipped with ear phones and other instruments necessary for night flying. All ships are certified.

To keep the Tuskegee C. A. A. Airport organized and planes, hangars and grounds in condition for the three civilian programs, elementary, secondary, and cross country—a staff of some 15 to 20 persons is required in addition to the instructors.

The assistant to the director is John C. Hopkns; the superintendent of maintenance, Elliot Grey; airport secretary, Hildred Hanson; dispatchers, Marcus Davis and Langston Caldwell. In addition there are more than a dozen mechanics, janitors, and helpers employed.

Eligibility Requirements

The applicant for cross country and instructor courses must:

1. Be a graduate of the Secondary Course of the Civilian Pilot Training program.
2. Must be enrolled in an educational instiltion.
3. Be able and willing to devote his entire time to this training.
4. Provide his own transportation to and from the Training Center.
5. Be able and willing to pay the following fees: (a.) Insurance fees, Cross Country Course, $10; Instructor Course, $6.50. (b) Equipment fee, Cross Country ($10 (approximately).
6. Indicate his desire to become a flight instructor.
7. Be able and willing to pay an amount of approximately $50 per month for room and board during the time he is at Training Center.
8. Hold or immediately obtain a valid Restricted Radiotelephone Operator Permit issued by the Federal Communications Commission.
9. Not be on the active duty or enlisted and awaiting call with the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps.
10. Not hold or have held a Commercial certificate.
11. Women applicants are not eligible.

Birmingham, Ala. News
September 19, 1941

Air Service Co-Owner Dies Of Auto Injuries

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(AP)—J. B. Atkinson, Jr., aviator and co-owner of the Alabama Air Service at Auburn, died Thursday of injuries suffered in the head-on collision of his automobile and a truck on the Auburn-Tuskegee highway Tuesday night.

Atkinson swerved to avoid hitting a mule-drawn wagon, colliding with the truck, state patrolmen reported. His injuries, at first, were believed not to be serious.

The Alabama Air Service holds the contract for civilian pilot training at Auburn, and Atkinson formerly taught similar classes at Tuskegee Institute. He was widely known in Alabama aviation circles.

Funeral plans were not announced immediately.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

DISCUSS TUSKEGEE AIR FIELD

SEP 29 1941

William C. Curtis, left, assistant director of the School of Mechanical Industries at Tuskegee, talks with Archie A. Alexander at a corner of the airfield Contractor Alexander has just built for the Tuskegee Institute elementary military flying school. Mr. Alexander was elected a trustee of the school last month.—(ANP).

Hickory, N. C. Record
October 21, 1941

Negro Flight Instructor Likes Local Hospitality

George W. Allen, chief flight instructor for the Civilian Pilots Training program at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., resumed his flight to that point today after being forced to land at the Hickory Municipal airport Monday because of bad weather.

The negro pilot said he had been to Potstown, Pa., to have the instrument trainer plane he fled overhauled.

Soon after Allen, who has been flying for nine years, landed at the local airport, Al Jones, local flight instructor for the CPT, made him acquainted with Professor A. W Booker, principal of Ridgeview Negro High school in Hickory.

Speaks At Colored School

Professor Booker invited the colored flier to the local negro school, where he made a talk on aviation before the entire student body, and then showed him various spots of interest in Hickory. In appreciation for the kindness shown him, Allen took Professor Booker aloft shortly before noon today for the ocal man's first airplane ride.

"It was the most wonderful experience I've ever had," Professor Booker, thirty-nine years old, told a Hickory Daily Record reporter soon after he landed.

"I did not realize," he added, "that Hickory was so beautiful a city from the air. Everyone should go up."

Professor Booker declared that he did not feel the peculiar sensation he had expected in taking off nor "the elevator-like sensation" in landing.

Allen permitted Professor Booker to put his hands on the control-wheel while they were aloft and the principal declared as a consequence he thought he would make at least a fair pilot.

"I intend to go up at every opportunity," he commented.

Has 36 Students

Allen said he has thirty-six students, most of them Southerners, in his Civilian Pilots Training courses —twenty in the primary group, ten in the advanced group, and six in the cross-country category.

Asked if he had any trouble securing students, Allen said that on the contrary the negro students were eager to learn to fly. One former student of the school—a youth from Texas—is now with the R.A.F. in Canada, he said.

Incidentally, the only all-negro pursuit squadron in the country is stationed at an Army field about eight miles from Tuskegee. It is known as the Ninety-Ninth Pursuit Squadron.

Allen, a native of Tirone, Pa., became flight instructor at Tuskegee a year ago last Saturday. He said he was amazed at the geniality of Hickory's white citizens he met and described Mr. Jones as being one of the most courteous and friendliest white pilots he had met anywhere.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

FIRST NEGRO AIRPORT GROUND SERVICE TRAINING COMPLETED AT TUSKEGEE

WASHINGTON, D C.—Completion of 90 days of intensive training in the first course of its kind offered Negroes and the immediate beginning of a second class of trainees at Tuskegee Institute is announced by the Work Projects Administration's Nation-wide Project for the training of Airport Servicemen.

NOV 15 1941

Of the ten members of the first training class for Negro airport servicemen, seven have already been promised jobs at the Tuskegee Airport or have the assurances of jobs at other airports in the vicinity. It is expected that the others will have no difficulty in obtaining employment as a result of their training.

The airport servicemen's program, of which the class at Tuskegee Institute is a part, operates in 37 states throughout the country. Approximately 550 persons are in training at 51 airports where the program is conducted. Fifty classes have been completed. This means that some 500 graduates are now able to service the nation's mounting number of airplanes. Already, more than 70 percent of the trainees have received private employment as a result of their training.

NOV 15 1941

Supporting this important nation-wide project are the Office for Production Management, the Civil Aeronautics Administration, and the Office of Education. These three Government agencies are sponsor and co-sponsors respectively. The airport ground service training course is conducted by the WPA with the cooperation of local aviation officials.

Typical of similar classes located in other parts of the country, the enrollment of future ground service experts at Tuskegee Institute is made up of men taken from the WPA rolls in the vicinity. Most of the men have been employed on a soil conservation project of the WPA. One trainee had been a waiter in one of the dining halls at Tuskegee Institute. All of these men had to meet strict qualifications based on education, health, sight, hearing, and ability to meet the public. The first Negro trainees were reported as showing up well even in the early period of their training.

NOV 15 1941

A. O. L. Burnside a youthful and enthusiastic Negro, who received his training in Syracuse, N. Y., is the WPA instructor in charge of the project at Tuskegee. He is responsible for the actual training of the men under him to service airplanes, airplane equipment and to learn all the angles of ground service work.

Mr. Burnside teaches regular, daily classes. With the aid of diagrams on the blackboard he begins the course of training by giving the trainees information on the functions of the different parts of planes. Practical experience is gained by the trainees servicing ships in all kinds of weather. The trainees not only learn to clean airplanes, but they check landing gears, controls, fuel and oil and other functions vital to the operation of planes in flight. All phases of the training, either in the hangars or on the field, are done under the watchful eyes of the instructor.

Ground service trainees under Mr. Burnside's supervision are divided into two groups. Classes and instruction begin at 6:30 in the mornings and continue until 6:30 in the evenings. A grounded Stinson training ship has been placed at the disposal of the WP A project.

NOV 15 1941

At the Tuskegee Airport, where these trainees have become a part of the ground service crew, are several airplanes provided by the U. S. Army Air Forces. Other ships there are small Cub trainers. The Tuskegee Institute Airport was approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration as a site for the training of airport ground servicemen.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Civil Pilot Training Seen As Aid To Youths Entering Army Air Corps

DEC 14 1941

Six Negro Colleges Now Offering Courses to Youths, Survey Shows

TUSKEGEE Inst., Ala. —(SNS)— Negro boys awaiting call to the U. S. Air Corps are strongly advised by G. L. Washington, Civilian Director, U. S. Army Air Corps Detachment, Tuskegee Institute to avail themselves of the Civil Pilot Training at Tuskegee Institute, Hampton Institute, W. Virginia State Institute, Howard University, A. & T. College, Greensboro, North Carolina, Lincoln University, Missouri and at other Negro colleges and cities having such programs. Youth planning to apply to the Air Corps are advised to take Civil Pilot Training now.

Director Washington's Advise is based on statistics which show that 92 per cent of Army Air Corps Cadets having had previous Civil Pilot Training courses pass the 35 week army training as compared with fifty-one per cent of those not having had civil pilot training.

Mr. Washington states further that washouts in the primary had been fast and numerous. "Quick washouts of Negro cadets," said Director Washington, "may be attributed to the fact that he majority of the cadets assigned to Air Corps raining to date had no previous flight training and general knowledge of flying."

"How many with previous flight training have been washed out?" Washington was asked.

"Only one person with previous Civil Patrol Training has been washed on account of inaptitude in flight. So although previous training does not assure cadet's passing army training, the figures show the advantage," Washington answermed.

DEC 14 1941

Director Washington because of his position as director of the Army Primary Training of flying cadets and the Civil Pilot Training at Tuskegee Institute is in position to make factual observation.

Mr. Washington urges Air Corps applicants to register in the Spring Session Civil Pilot Training Course which will begn, according to present schedules, February 1. Applications should be made now.

18y-1941 Aviation

TUSKEGEE ENROLLS THIRD CLASS OF FLYING CADETS

Ten New Youths Answer Captain Davis' Roll Call

Tallahassee, Fla.
10-19-41

99th Barracks Rapidly Nearing the Completion

Capital-City-Post

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(S N S)—The third class of Flying Cadets, to train for the 99th Pursuit Squadron, reported to Captain B. O. Davis, Jr., at Tuskegee Institute, October 4. The ten new cadets bring the total number now receiving training up to thirty.

The ten new men represent seven Negro colleges and two white universities. The geographical distribution covers nine states and the District of Columbia. Their aviation experience is practically negative.

Answering roll call in this group, designated as Class 42E are: Bowie, Embra Coleman, from Baltimore and a B. S. from Morgan College; Flowers, Chas. Herbert Jr., Greensboro, N. C. and student at A. & T. College; Holt, Theodus Jack, Fort Worth, Texas and a B. S. from Lane College, Jackson, Tennessee, Omega; Knighten, James Bernard, Tulssa, Okla., A. B. from Dillard; Knox, George Levi, Indianapolis, and A. B. from Fisk University, Kappa; Lyle, Edward Harrison, Arkansas, student at Ohio State University; Lytle, Erskine Jr., Nashville, Tennessee and B. S. from Kentucky State College, Omega. Melton, Manson Arthur II, Kentucky and A. B. from Kentucky State College, Kappa; Rayford, Lee, Washington, D. C., and A. B. Lincoln University (Pa.) Omega; White, Sherman Windham Jr., Montgomery, Alabama, student at the University of Chicago, Kappa.

All Flying Cadets are at present housed on the campus of Tuskegee Institute and have their meals in the Institute Cafeteria.

BARRACKS PROGRESS

Construction of barracks at the 99th Pursuit Base is progressing rapidly under the Building Contractors McKissack & McKissack. Cadets who successfully complete the elementary course in November will be transferred to the new barracks for Basic and Advanced flight training at the Army Field. The elementary flight training is being given by Tuskegee Institute under government supervision at the Tuskegee owned air field. This is officially known as the U. S. Army Air Corps Detachment Training School, Tuskegee Institute.

The Army Air Corps Detachment program of Tuskegee Institute is not to be confused with the training of civilian pilots by Tuskegee Institute under the Civil Aeronautics Authority. The elementary military flying training is being conducted on the Air Corps Detachment Field; the civilian pilot training is being conducted at the Tuskegee Airport of C. A. A. Field. The Basic and Advanced military flying training will be conducted at the army field, the 99th Pursuit Squadron Base now under construction.

10-18-41

A new group of ten will report to the U. S. Army Air Corps Detachment, Tuskegee Institute for elementary military flying training every five weeks, according to the present authorization.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

ROBINSON FLIES TO TUSKEGEE

APR 19 1941

APR 19 1941

APR 19 1941

Col. John Robinson, famed flyer of the Ethiopian army, now assistant in charge of all aviation activities in Illinois, who flew to Tuskegee in his 4-passenger cabin plane last week, taking William Wells and Julius Williams, expert aero mechanics who hope to become part of the expanded mechanical unit at the Alabama institution. Incidentally, this week also saw the granting of his primary instructor's rating to Grover C. Nash of Chicago, 10th Negro instructor to be re-rated and former pupil of Col. Robinson.

Columbus, Ga. Enquirer-Sun
April 5, 1941

MUCH FLYING AT TUSKEGEE

Expects to Furnish Many Assignments in All-Negro Air Unit

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 4—(AP)—Collegians swiftly sprouting wings at this old institute are convinced they'll win most of the 33 pilot assignments when the army's first all-negro air unit — the 99th pursuit squadron—is activated here October 1.

The 99th is moving a long step nearer reality this month with the recruiting of the 276-man ground crew from among high school graduates who must pass special aptitude tests. Selection of these men is expected to take only a few weeks.

Reason Tuskegeeans are confident they hold the edge for the coveted cadet appointments is that Tuskegee is the only negro college with an advanced school set up under the civilian pilot training program of the Civil Aeronautics board.

Amozing speed has marked the growth of this school. Authorized in 1940, students started hitch-hiking 40 miles to Montgomery to take their lessons because there was no field here. Then a temporary field was cleared only seven miles away.

By the time some students worked to the advance flying stage and Tuskegee provided a $10,000 army type training plane, white students at nearby Auburn (Alabama Polytech) voted unanimously to let the negro fliers use their field and hangar.

Now a new field has been leased here, the Institute fleet has grown to 12 planes, shop facilities have been built, engine laboratories set up. Charles A. Anderson, first negro to win a commercial pilot's license, runs the program and holds an army contract to give elementary training to the fledglings of the 99th.

The cadets will meet the same requirements as for white air corps fliers, having two years of college education—or the ability to pass an examination showing equivalent knowledge—must be single and between 20 and 27 years of age.

Dothan, Ala. Eagle
April 11, 1941

$200,000 Provided For Tuskegee Airport

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)—An appropriation of $200,000 by the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees for the purchase and development of an 800-acre airdrome was announced today by Dr. William J. Schieffelin, of New York, chairman.

The appropriation, Dr. Schieffelin said, was made in carrying out the college's aviation program for Negroes, including primary and advanced schools under the civilian pilot program of the CAA and a training center for flying cadets to be established here by the War Department.

The new field is located about three miles from the campus.

Dr. Schieffelin also announced that the institute's general alumni association had nominated Dr. Alphone Heinburg, a 1920 graduate, for membership on the board of trustees. Action was deferred until the regular trustee elections in October.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Young Flight Instructor To Join Tuskegee Staff

OAKLAND, Cal.—(ANP)—Archie Williams, who set a new world's record in the 400-meter race and then won that event in the 1936 Olympics, received his pilot's license May 29. He is now studying at the Oakland Flying school for his instructor's rating and plans to join the staff of instructors at the Tuskegee institute air school in the fall.

While a member of the flying school's ground crew, Williams studied meteorology, navigation and aerodynamics. He made his first flight in 1936—when going from London to Stockholm to compete in one of the post-Olympic international meets.

JUN 14 1941

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Association of CAA Aviation Schools Formed

NOV 18 1941

HAMPTON, Va. — (ANP) — Representatives of eight colleges and two private flying schools participating in the Civilian Pilot Training Program last week formed the Aeronautical Association of Negro Schools during a meeting at Hampton Institute.

The twenty-five delegates accepted West Virginia State College's invitation to hold next year's meeting there and elected the following officers:

G. L. Washington, Tuskegee, president; Willa B. Brown, Coffey School of Aeronautics, Chicago, vice-president; John L. Frank, white, Hampton, secretary, and G. Robert Cotton, Linco'n University of Missouri, treasurer.

Would Expand Training

In an effort to combat the problem of limited opportunities for advanced training, a plan was adopted whereby the eight colleges now conducting elementary courses would be asked to support the two advanced-training centers, at Tuskegee and the Coffey school, and the CAA would be asked to enlarge the quotas for these centers.

NOV 18 1941

Other Problems Attacked

Other problems to which attention was given were:

Allowance of college credits for CPT courses, difficulty in filling quotas, financing transportation and living expenses of deserving students for advanced training at secondary centers, need for other advanced training centers, use of obsolete army aviation equipment for ground school;

Introduction of aircraft and engine courses, establishment of aircraft service courses at other airports, annual college air meet, more non-college programs, and the retention of pilot certificates by CPT graduates.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

G. L. WASHINGTON ISSUES INFORMATION

TO STUDENTS INTERESTED IN AIR CORPS

APR 20 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., April 17—Negro youth throughout the country are making application to the Army Air Corps for training as Flight Cadets. Director G. L. Washington of Tuskegee's School of Mechanical Industries has from the beginning directed and had immediate supervision of Tuskegee Institute's aviation program.

At the same time he has been closely associated with Army Air Corps officials having to do with the shaping of the Army's plans for the enlistment and training of Negro cadets. Director Washington has advanced the following information and differentiation regards aviation activities to be centered about Tuskegee Institute.

Such information and clarification should be both timely and of particular interest to those interested and planning to participate in Army air corps flying cadet training.

Flight training of flying cadets in the army air corps consists of elementary, basic, and advanced. Each phase extends over approximately ten weeks. Applicants passing the physical and educational examinations and who are assigned to training are first given a five weeks initiation period prior to flight training.

Cigen Equipment

During this period he is equipped with uniform, flying suit, mechanic's suit, etc, necessary to flight training. Immediately upon acceptance the cadet receives $75 board and lodging.

At the conclusion of the introductory five weeks period, the cadet is assigned to a Civil Advanced Flying School having army contract for elementary training of army cadets. Some 28 Civil Advanced flying school is detached the country have such contracts at the present time, and the army anticipates increasing this number. Stationed at the civil advanced flying school is deteached army personnel for purposes of supervision and joint administration of the program. About 40 per cent of the cadets assigned are expected to be eliminated during the ten weeks course. First ranking reason for elimination would be inabilitty to perform flight maneuvers up to required standard. Cadets eliminated are subject to further cadet training for phases of air corps operations having to do with ground services and functions.

APR 20 1941

The sixty per cent graduating from the elementary training course at the civil advanced flying school are then transferred to an army air corps base for 10 weeks of basic training. Here some are eliminated during the course though the percentage is considerably smaller than obtained during the elementary trainings. Cadets successfully completing the basic course are assigned to advanced training. The advanced course is of ten weeks duration and 99 per cent of those entering are expected to be graduated. Upon graduation from the advanced course, the cadet is commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant nad placed on reserve or is assigned for active duty in an air corps unit. Owing to the present defense program, practically all such graduates are placed in active service.

APR 20 1941

Pass Test

Applicants for flying cade training must pass a rigid physical examination and an educational examination. In cases of the educational examination, those applicants who can present to the examining board acceptable evidence of at least two full years of college training leading to a degree in a recognized college or university are not required to undergo the educational examination. All applicants must present birth certificates; if this cannot be secured, a certifying statement made out by parents or guardians on special form and notarized will be accepted. Applicants under 21 years of age must submit written permission of parents or guardian to enlist for such training. All applicants must be unmarried and none will be accepted who have exceeded their 27th birthday. Application is made through the corps area headquarters for the state in which the applicant resides. Applicants need not have had previous flight training though same does not bar the applicant from entering the elementary course.

2 Years College

Deviation to the above training sequence obtains in case of students completing the secondary or advanced training course under Civilian Pilot Training. These graduates have already met the educational requirement of two years college training, passed a rigid C. A. A. medical examination patterned after that of the Army Air Corps, met the age requirements, and completed 80 hours of flight training held to be equivalent to elementary flying cadet training under the Army. This obtains in case of C. P. T. secondary students in college units. Non-college unit secondary C. P. T. graduates may or may not be exempted from the educational examination requirement. All such graduates, nevertheless, must file application in the usual manner if they desire entrance into the Army Air Corps and must undergo the physical examination. They would, however, be exempt from taking the elementary training course and be assigned directly to basic training.

40 Graduates

The steps and procedures reported above apply to any applicant for cadet training. Aviation activities now in progress and planned about Tuskegee Institute conform exactly to such procedure. The following information bearing particularly upon Negro flying cadets may be better understood in light of the above picture.

3 APR 20 1941

The aviation training program at present conducted at Tuskegee Institute is a Civilian Pilot Training program financed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. The private pilot's course, secondary or advanced course, student instructor course, and advanced or secondary instructor refresher course are conducted at this center. By the end of June, 1941, forty students will have been graduated from the secondary course at Tuskegee Institute These graduates in addtion to those completing similar courses at the Harlem Airport in Chicago who apply for cadet training will have met elementary army training requirements as to flight training, and will be entered directly into the 99th Squadron Base for basic and advanced training These cadets will not have undergone army discipline experienced by those entering through strictly army channels.

Equal Opportunities

In order to provide equal opportunities for training of Negro youth as cadets, a civil elementary army training facility will be provided. In this unit Negro youth with no previous flight training but who have been accepted as flying cadets will begin training for the air corps at $75 per month plus subsistence and other provisions. It is in this connection that Tuskegee Institute will enter the strictly army training picture The Institute, having already an advanced flying school rated by the United States Department of Commerce as such, has been designated to receive army contract for the elementary training of cadets just as in case of some 28 such schools throughout the country. Graduates of this unit will be transferred to the 99th Squadron Base for the next and basic course.

APR 20 1941

After December, 1941, the one avenue to entrance into the 99th Squadron Base will be through Tuskegee Institute's elementary army training unit. Prior to that time the enrollment of cadets in this unit will be restricted in numbers thus allowing the C. A. A secondary graduates to be cleared without overloading training facilities and schedule of graduate at the 99th Squadron training center. Beginning in December the cadet enrollment at the Tuskegee Institute elementary army training unit will be 30 cadets every five weeks with concurrent classes.

4

Separate Facilities

Tuskegee Institute will continue to conduct the Civilian Pilot Training programs now in progress and which it has conducted with success and national recognition and publicity. There will be entirely separate facilities for the army training program. These will consist of base and auxiliary landing fields. At the base will be constructed hangars, repair shops, classroom and laboratory facilities, facilities for Institute and army administrative personnel, facilities for flight surgeon and infirmary, dining hall, dormitories, etc. Tuskegee Institute and army supervising persnnel will number some 79 persons including 12 filght instructors who will have previ-

Thre distinct aviation training facilities, therefore, will be centered about Tuskegee Institute—the 99th Squadron Training Base at Fort Davis just outside of Tuskegee, the Tuskegee Institute Elementary Army training at Tuskegee, and the Civilian Pilot Training Programs at the existing Tuskegee Airport. The 99th Squadron Base is a strictly army setup.

facilities, therefre, will be centered

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

Tuskegee Gets $1,000,000 Fund For Establishment of Army Flying School

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE—President F. D. Patterson announced Friday, that $1,091,000 has been appropriated by the War Department for a flying field and all other facilities for advanced Army flying at the school.

JAN 25 1941

The pursuit squadron will consist of 400 enlisted men, 33 pilots and 27 planes, and will be selected with care and trained at Chanute Field, Ill., where the army is building an air school.

Needs Private Field

Despite that, however, President Patterson is trying to raise $25,000 to build a private flying field at the Institute for students who are interested in advanced Army work.

At a meeting held here at Tuskegee Thursday, 17 colored schools throughout the country sent representatives to discuss the aviation program for Negro youth. Among the schools were Wilberforce University, Virginia State, Hampton, Langston university, Lincoln university, Fisk, Tennessee State, Morehouse, Alabama A. & M., Xavier and Alabama State. The group endorsed unanimously the program of establishing an air squadron and base at Tuskegee.

Major Smith of Maxwell Field where army fliers are being trained, came in to discuss the problems involved. Student aviators in the course at Tuskegee were in the meeting when Major Smith spoke.

Mobile, Ala., Register
January 9, 1941

CAA Exams Passed By 2 Prichard Students

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Jan. 8.—Leon C. Roberts and Raymond H. Perry, Jr., of Pritchard were two of seven colored students who passed the CAA ground school examination for private pilot's license here, according to G. L. Washington, coordinator of the CAA program.

Tuskegee Institute is the only negro college in the United States authorized to offer commercial restricted secondary and instructors rating in aviation.

Opelika, Ala. News
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Is Being Considered By Army, Air Training Site

Washington — Tuskegee is being given serious consideration by high officials of the U. S. Army Air Corps as the site for an aviation training school for Negroes, the first of its kind the army has ever contemplated it was learned reliably here.

Several other sites also are being considered, but Senator Lister Hill and Representative Henry B. Steagall, of the Third District, both of whom have been active on behalf of Tuskegee, expressed confidence Saturday they would be successful in their efforts.

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, was in conference with Senator Hill on the subject last week. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, was in Washington, last week to explore the matter with army officials.

The civilian training program, which operates under the Civil Aeronautics Administration, already has a school at Tuskegee for training Negro aviators and Negro aviation mechaincs. The air corps is expected to operate its proposed school in connection with the CTP if Tuskegee is chosen as the site.

Opelika Ala News
March 12, 1941

Tuskegee Student Makes Chute Jump

Tuskegee Institute, Ala., March 12—Over 2,000 spectators saw Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Ark., student aviator, bail out of his plane and drop 4,500 feet in a perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

The jump was made from a plane piloted by C. Alfred Anderson, senior flight instructor of Tuskegee Institute. The student is enrolled in the Tuskegee civil aeronautics civilian pilot training program.

Alexander S. Anderson is a recent possessor of a CAU license and will be able to jump every Sunday between 1 and 4 p. m. for six months.

He is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class and at present is a junior in the school of mechanical industries, majoring in industrial arts.

Gadsden Ala. Call-Post
3-8-41

Pilot Training High

Tuskegee, Ala.—With four air training classes being taught on the campus, Tuskegee Institute has one of the best ratings of any school offering courses under the Civilian Pilot Training Program in the South.

Since July, Tuskegee Institute has been the center of advanced training of the nation's Negro student pilots, with a Waco 225-horsepower biplane available for the use of advanced students.

During the school term of 1939, the school trained 21 pilots. The course average of 88 established a C. P. T. record unsurpassed by any other Negro or white school in seven Southern states.

Gastonia N. C. Gazette
March 21, 1941

Young Gastonia Negro Receives Pilot's License

MARSHALL CABINESS

Marshall Schuyler Cabiness, son of Samuel Cabiness, well-known local colored citizen, has received his private pilot's license as a first step in what he hopes to make a career in aviation. His record since leaving Highland high school in 1935 has been most creditable.

Upon graduation from high school young Cabiness entered Moorehouse College and obtained his degree there in 1939. At present he is manager of the Tuskegee Institute branch of Alexander and company, the only licensed general insurance company in Alabama. This organization placed all the aviation insurance at Tuskegee Institute and has written coverage on property valued at more than three million dollars.

Cabiness received private pilot's license no. 92654-41 after completing the Civilian Pilot Training Course at Tuskegee, a program under supervision of the Federal government. Tuskegee is the largest Negro college in the world.

Young Cabiness is 23 years old, having been born in Gastonia, November 12, 1918. He expects to resume training this summer in the advanced course, which consists of stunt flying in preparation for a commercial license.

Montgomery Ala. Advertiser
March 12, 1941

Tuskegee Student Jumps With 'Chute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., March 11.—Over 2,000 spectators saw Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Ark., student aviator, bail out of his plane and drop 4,500 feet in a perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

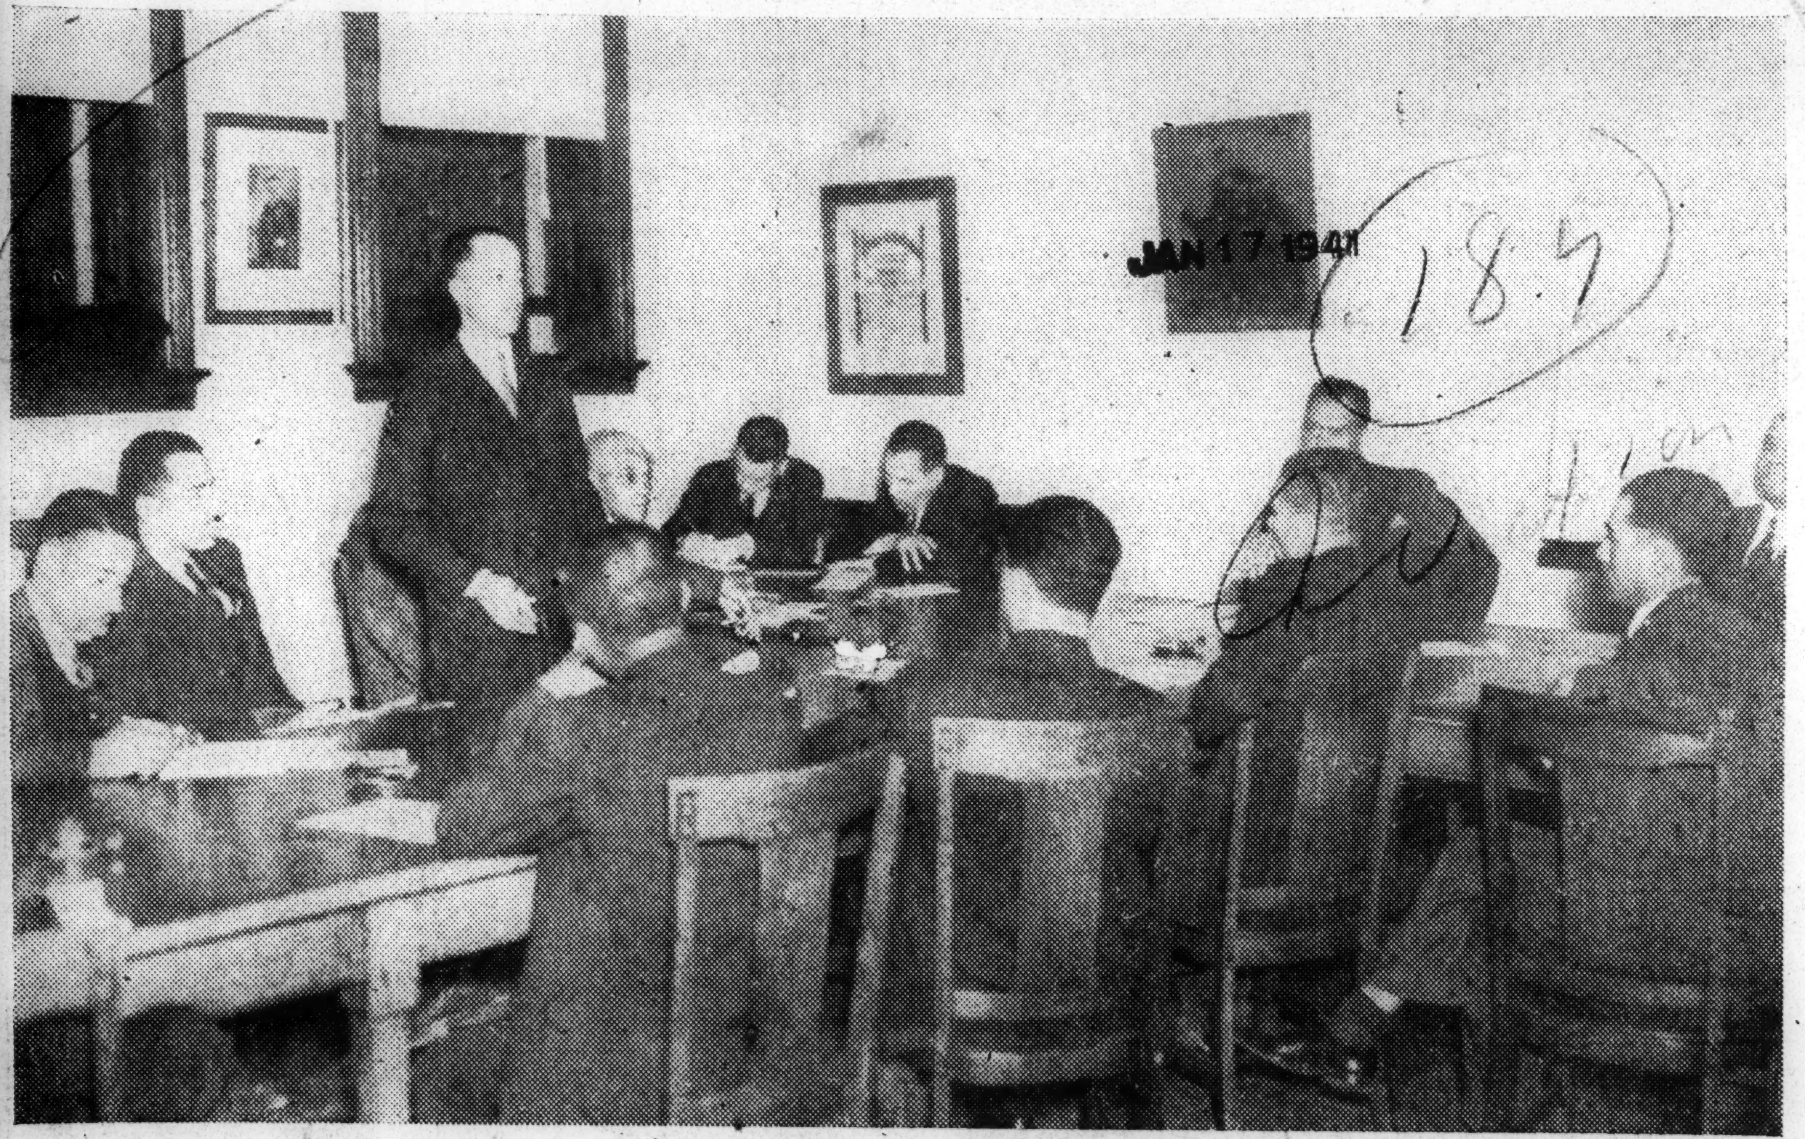
The jump was made from a plane piloted by C. Alfred Anderson, senior flight instructor of Tuskegee Institute. The student is enrolled in the Tuskegee civil aeronautics civilian pilot training program.

Alexander S. Anderson is a recent possessor of a CAU license and will be able to jump every Sunday between 1 and 4 p.m. for six months.

He is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class and at present is a junior in the school of mechanical industries, majoring in industrial arts.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

As Problems Of Training Army Aviators Were Discussed



JAN 17 1941

187

H. W. Crawford of South Carolina State College was speaking Thursday afternoon when this photograph was made of the delegates attending the aviation conference called by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute. Representatives of eleven schools were present during the discussions of problems arising in the incorporation of aeronautics training in the regular school curricular. Plans for the establishment of an United States Army Air Corps training station at Tuskegee for the training of Negro personnel were disclosed at the meeting. (SNS Staff Photo by Mackay).

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Lunceford Pays Visit To Tuskegee Airport

MAR 15 1941

Jimmie Lunceford took time out the past week to pay a flying visit to Tuskegee Institute.

Being a pilot as well as a musician, Lunceford was especially interested in Tuskegee's air training program. After a visit to the Tuskegee airfield to obtain first hand information on the program, equipment and facilities, Lunceford was most enthusiastic. He said that he wished to congratulate President F. D. Patterson on the efficiency and potentialities of the Tuskegee program of aeronautics.

Lunceford congratulated the young men enrolled in the several courses, that is, the primary and apprentice instructor courses, primary and secondary (advanced or restrictive) commercial. He especially commended those just completing the first refresher program for instructor's ... rating, for their ambition to improve their training. He also heartily praised the plans for the proposed Cross Country "Good Will" Course that Tuskegee hopes to perfect by the summer of 1941.

MAR 1 5 1941

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Student Jumps With 'Chute

MAR 12 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., March 11.—Over 2,000 spectators saw Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Ark., student aviator, bail out of his plane and drop 4,500 feet in a perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

The jump was made from a plane piloted by C. Alfred Anderson, senior flight instructor of Tuskegee Institute. The student is enrolled in the Tuskegee civil aeronautics civilian pilot training program.

Alexander S. Anderson is a recent possessor of a CAU license and will be able to jump every Sunday between 1 and 4 p.m. for six months.

He is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class and at present is a junior in the school of mechanical industries, majoring in industrial arts.

Orangeburg, S. C., Times & Demo.
April 10, 1941

Negro Aviators On Good Will Tour

Three negro aviators from Tuskee Institute at Tuskee, Ala., paid a visit to State College Tuesday on a good will tour. They came in after having visited Charlotte, Columbia and several other points.

An air unit is being established by the army at Tuskee and the flyers came in on a tour for the purpose of interesting prospective negro flying cadets.

The first plane arrived around 11 o'clock and remained until 2 o'clock when it was joined by the other two flyers who refueled and all three took off. The aviators were flying cub type planes.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

CONTRACT LET FOR NEGRO PILOT SCHOOL

The new Army Air Base to train Negro pilots at Tuskegee, Ala., widely publicized as the nation's first all Negro unit, will be just that. The War Department announced Saturday that contracts totaling $1,[illegible] for the base have been awarded the McKissick & McKissick Construction Company, Nashville, Tenn., and Hilyard R. Robinson, Washington, D. C., architect.

Both are Negro firms.

JUN 28 1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Airdrome Plans Gain Momentum

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (SNS—The presence on Tuskegee's campus, Monday, of Hilliard Robinson, architect, Washington, D. C., marked the beginning of development of the third program of aeronautic activity at Tuskegee Institute. Mr. Robinson was recently named the architect for the airdrome for the 99th Pursuit Squadron which will be located about 4 1-2 miles from the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

The basic and advanced phases of military flying will be taught at the 99th Pursuit Squadron Training School at Tuskegee, Alabama. Hilliard Robinson is the architect; McKissack and McKissack, Nashville. are the contractors.

The ground will be broken for this new development within a few weeks. This airdrome for the 99th Pursuit Squadron will be a training base. As fast as cadets complete the training at this base, they will be sent out into active service. The personnel for the 99th Pursuit Squadron will consist of enlisted men, ground instructors, communication officers, mechanics, civilians and cadets in training.

The training of the ground crew for the 99th Pursuit Squadron has already been indicated. Sixty students from Alabama and Georgia left several weeks ago for Chanute Field, Rantoul, Illinois, for training in aircraft maintenance, and several have gone since for training in the communication service.

Flight surgeon Captain Maurice Johnson has been at Tuskegee for several months pursuing study and training for duties of flight surgeon. After examination, he will be given further experience to fit him for his duties as flight surgeon for the 99th Pursuit Squadron.

Capt. Benjamin O. Davis, Jr., who in the Spring was transferred from assignment and duty as Professor of Military Science and Tactics at Tuskegee Institute to Fort Riley, Kansas, has recently been transfered from Ft. Riley to Tuskegee where he is now undergoing training as a flying cadet. It is thought that Captain Davis will become squadron commander.

Ground duties in connection with the maintenance of the airdrome will be performed by enlisted men, but only after they have received special training for work at an airfield. For assignments to this special type of training for ground duty, a group of Negro enlisted men have been sent to Maxwell Field at Montgomery, Alabama. In every instance the men who are being trained for work in connection with the 99th Pursuit Squadron Airdrome have been sent to the best places available in this country.

Charlotte N. C. Observer
June 20, 1941

TUSKEGEE GETS AIR UNIT FUNDS

$80,000 Contract Given For Primary Training For Negro Pursuit Squadron.

The Observer Bureau, 1230 Nt'l. Press Bldg.
By Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, June 18 — The War department announced today the award of an $80,000 contract to Tuskegee institute, Tuskegee, Alabama, for the preliminary training of aviation cadets enrolled by the army for the 99th pursuit squadron, the first Negro tactical unit in the air corps, and which is available for Negro cadets from the Carolinas.

The contract is for a year, during which the institute will give preliminary instruction to approximately 100 cadets. They will be enrolled at the rate of 10 cadets to a class. A new class will be formed every five weeks. Each class will receive 15 weeks of instruction. The first five weeks will be devoted to pre-flight training. The next 10 weeks are for elementary flying instruction.

Upon completing the 15 weeks' course covered by the Tuskegee contract, an aviation cadet will begin his final 20 weeks of instruction at an army basic and advanced flying school to be built near Tuskegee.

This procedure is in accord with the general training program of the army air corps under which all preliminary training of aviation cadets has been decentralized and distributed among private schools operating under army contracts and subject to army regulation and supervision. The course offered under the Tuskegee contract will be the standard primary course prescribed by the army air corps.

Under the Tuskegee contract, the first class of 10 cadets will start training Julf 19, and actual flying instruction will begin August 23.

Columbus, Ga. Enquirer Sun.
June 20, 1941

TUSKEGEE WILL TRAIN FLIERS

Institute Gets $80,000 Contract For Preliminary Aviation Work

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP) The war department awarded an $80,000 contract today to Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., to give preliminary training to aviation cadets enrolled for the 99th pursuit squdaron, the first negro unit established in the air corps.

The contract is for one year, with the first class of 10 cadets beginning training July 19 and actual flying instruction starting August 23. Preliminary instruction will be given approximately 100 cadets, enrolled at the rate of 10 cadets to a class. A new class will be formed every five weeks.

Tuskegee will give each class 15 weeks of instruction, the first five weeks being pre-flight training and the next 10 weeks elementary flying instruction.

On completion of the 15-week course, cadets will start their final 20 weeks of instruction at an army basic and advanced flying school to be constructed near Tuskegee.

Formation of the 99th pursuit squadron was announced by the Army on March 21. Fifty-two pilots a year will be trained and commissioned to man the squadron and 6 to 14 non-flying officers will be commissioned or transferred to the unit. In addition, 276 enlisted men of the squadron are now undergoing training as mechanics and technical specialists at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill.

Bystander
Des Moines, Iowa

Tuskegee to Be Aviation Center Says Alexander

A. A. Alexander, Des Moines contractor and enineer, flew to the city this week end from Tuskegee, Ala. where the Alexander and Repass company has under construction a quarter million dollar government aviation field and general offices situated on 800 acres two and one-half miles from the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

Negro and white skilled labor is being used in developing this land, Mr. Alexander said, pointing out that Russell Jackson of Des Moines was chief engineer. The 260 employees are classified as mechanics, brick masons, carpenters, electricians, pipe fitters, machine operators and a stenographer.

"With so much aviation training going on in the state of Ala. Tuskegee will be an aviation center," Mr. Alexander commented.

The Iowan said he "feels quite at home working in Alabama," and that the white and colored citizens are enthused over the aviation training for Negroes.

In October, 1939, Tuskegee was authorized to train pilots under the Civil Aeronautics Authority. In June 1940 Tuskegee was given authority to give courses in advanced training under the Civil Aeronautics Authority. This proram of training has gone on and will continue with the training of private civilian pilots. This summer a course in cross-country flying, commercial flying and refresher courses have been included.

On May 31, 1941, Tuskegee Institute signed a contract for elementary flight training of the United States Arm Air Corps Flying cadets. This contract included the providing of facilities for five weeks' course in indoctrination commonly known as "the R" which all flying cadets must undergo prior to army flight training.

For fulfillment of this flight contract, Tuskegee was able to purchase 800 acres, which is being developed by the Alexander-Repass company. The first class in flying will begin August 23.

Mr. Alexander flew back to Tuskegee Monday evening following a confeerence here with Polk County Draft Board No. 6 of which he is the chairman.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Pres. F. D. Patterson Inspects Men Training For the 99th Squadron

War Dept. Announces 10 Youths Will Start Pre-Flight Course at Tuskegee on July 19; More Later

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(ANP).—July 19 has been set by the war department as the date on which training will begin for members of the 99th pursuit squadron at Tuskegee. Ten youths will form the initial class and they will begin a five-week pre-flight course. Other sections of 10 will be added periodically, so that a total of 30 will be in training at all times and 100 pilots will be completely trained within a year.

JUL 18 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE. — (ANP).—Flying in an army bomber plane of the latest type, placed at his disposal by the army, President Patterson of Tuskegee, accompanied by G. L. Washington in charge of the aviation program at Tuskegee, flew to Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., to inspect the preliminary training being given to the men of the 99th pursuit squadron there and to get an intimate idea of the sort of training being given in this "West Point" of the air corps.

Some 300 of the Negro boys being trained in the important ground crew and field work of an army air corps are in training at Chanute.

Welcome By Staff Members

Leaving Maxwell field at Montgomery, Ala., near here in the morning, they were welcomed at Chanute field at 1:30 of the same afternoon by Acting Commandant Col. R. E. O'Neill, Lieut. Col. A. C. Kincard, Capt. Maddux and other staff members.

After lunch in the officers' quarters, the Tuskegee officials were conducted on an inspection tour of men and quarters of the 99th pursuit squadron. President Patterson addressed the assembled group. Later in commenting on his impression President Patterson said:

JUL 18 1941

"I can but feel that this group will reflect credit to the war department and officials and instructors of Chanute field. The war department is to be commended for this opportunity accorded Negro youth whom I am certain will prove the wisdom of its decision.

On Friday morning the party inspected the entire training facilities of Chanute. "The tour," stated G. L. Washington, "was most enlightening, informative, and impressive. A thorough job of training is being carried on there. We observed members of the 99th n class and laboratory courses."

At the request of Dr. Patterson, the evening meal on Thursday was taken with the 99th in their mess hall where the food was found to be of good quality and wholesome. At breakfast and lunch on Friday, the visitors were again guests of the Officers' club.

JUL 18 1941

There are approximately 400 Negro enlisted men and cadets in the 99th stationed at Chanute. Approximately 278 are enrolled in regular and advance courses. The men are satisfactorily provided with barracks and mess facilities on the original site of such facilities at Chanute. The Tuskegee officials were informed by the acting commander that the presence and training of Negro enlisted men of the 99th had caused no problem on the post.

Observe Keen Interest

Patterson and Washington said they observed keen interest and enthusiasm on the part of post officials, officers directly in charge and the instructors with respect to the general welfare and training of the men of the 99th. The aptitude and achievement of the Negro enlisted men were reported to be as normally expected of trainees in general. However, Negro radio operators and mechanics were in advance of normal and ahead of schedule.

Indicative of the fine impression made by the Negro boys was the voluntary and enthusiastic reports coming from white enlisted men on the post relative to the distinguished showing made by men of the 99th in the inter-detachment athletic competitions and their record of first place in the Chanute field track meet.

Dr. Patterson and Mr. Washington were beseiged with questions relative to the progress and plans for pilot training of flying cadets at Tuskegee Institute. Officers and men were enthusiastic over the progress made by the Tuskegee pilots who had recently qualified for the cross-country course, for commercial licenses, and for instructor re-rating.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Air-Minded Young Lady Of Tuskegee

Miss Mildred Hanson, of Tuskegee, who finished the course for private pilot's license at the Tuskegee Air School in the spring. She is also secretary to John Hopkins Jr., manager of the Airport. This is the plane in which she took The Courier representative for a flight.

Savannah, Ga., Press
May 29, 1941

To Teach Aviation at Auburn College

WILMOT GOODALE RHODES

MAKES FINE RECORD AS FLYING STUDENT

RHODES WILL GRADUATE IN AERONAUTICS AT AUBURN

A Savannah student, Wilmot Goodale Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Rhodes, has made an enviable record in aviation at Auburn (Alabama Polytechnic Institute) and will graduate in this course on Monday of next week.

The college has offered Mr. Rhodes a position as an instructor in aeronautics, and after a brief visit home, following his graduation, he will return there to take up his duties. As a senior majoring in aeronautics he has done an amount of teaching in aviation during the past several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes and daughter, Pauline, will go on Monday to Auburn for the graduation exercises. Young Mr. Rhodes will probably return with them for a few days' vacation before taking up his duties at Auburn.

He has given ground school instruction during the past several months both at Auburn and at the colored college, Tuskegee Institute. At Auburn he also gave private lessons and one of his students, a business man, recently bought his own plane. Mr. Rhodes has a private pilot's license.

The Savannahian received his elementary schooling at Pape School. He was later graduated from Savannah High School and then attended Clemson College three years. Clemson did not have the course in aeronautics he wanted so he enrolled in Auburn. Having been there two years, majoring in aeronautics, he will now graduate.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
June 3, 1941

COURSE GIVEN IN AERO-MECHANICS

TUSKEGEE, Ala., June 2—(AP)—Free schooling in aero-mechanics has been made available to 45 Macon County Negro youths, between 17 and 25, until Aug. 19, said Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute. Classes opened Monday.

This training unit in aero-mechanics was made possible by an allocation of $6,665 from funds for national defense programs, and $3,400 was spent for equipment.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Air School Contract For Tuskegee Institute

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP)—The war department awarded an $80,000 contract today to Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., to give preliminary training to aviation cadets enrolled for the 99th pursuit squadron, the first negro unit established in the Air Corps.

The contract is for one year, with the first class of 10 cadets beginning training July 19 and actual flying instruction starting August 23. Preliminary instruction will be given approximately 100 cadets, enrolled at the rate of 10 cadets to a class. A new class will be formed every five weeks.

Formation of the 99th pursuit squadron was announced by the army on March 21. Fifty-two pilots a year will be trained and commissioned to man the squadron and 6 to 14 non-flying officers will be commissioned or transferred to the unit.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

$80,000 Award Is Given Tuskegee For Air Course

More Than 100 Cadets Will Get Training During Year

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(SNS)—The War Department announced Saturday the award of an $80,000 contract to Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama, for the preliminary training of aviation cadets enrolled by the Army for the 99th Pursuit Squadron, the first colored tactical unit in the Air Corps.

The contract is for a year, during which the Institute will give preliminary instruction to approximately 100 cadets. They will be enrolled at the rate of 10 cadets to to a class. A new class will be formed every five weeks. Each class will receive 15 weeks of instruction. The first five weeks will be devoted to pre-flight training. The next 10 weeks are for elementary flying instruction.

Upon completing the 15 weeks' course covered by the Tuskegee contract, an aviation cadet will begin his final 20 weeks of instruction at an Army basic and advanced flying school built near Tuskegee.

This procedure is in accord with the general training program of the Army Air Corps under which all preliminary training of Aviation Cadets has been decentralized and distributed among private schools operating under Army contracts and subject to Army regulation and supervision. The course offered under the Tuskegee contract will be the standard primary course prescribed by the Army Air Corps.

Under the Tuskegee contract the first class of 10 cadets will start training July 19, and actual flying instruction will begin August 23.

Formation of the 99th Pursuit Squadron was announced by the War Department March 21, 1941 Present plans call for the training and commissioning of 52 pilots per year to man the squadron, and transfer or commissioning of 6 to 14 non-flying officers.

In addition, 276 enlisted men of the 99th Pursuit Squadron are now undergoing training at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Illinois, for duty as mechanics and other technical specialists.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

TUSKEGEE GETS AIR CADET FUND

Army Awards Contract For Training Negro Pursuit Pilots

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP)—The War Department awarded an $80,000 contract Thursday to Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., to give preliminary training to aviation cadets enrolled for the Ninety-Ninth Pursuit Squadron, the first Negro unit established in the Air Corps.

The contract is for one year, with the first class of 10 cadets beginning training July 19 and actual flying instruction starting Aug. 23. Preliminary instruction will be given approximately 100 cadets, enrolled at the rate of 10 cadets to a class. A new class will be formed every five weeks.

Tuskegee will give each class 15 weeks of instruction, the first five weeks being pre-flight training and the next 10 weeks elementary flying instruction.

On completion of the 15-week course, cadets will start their final 20 weeks of instruction at an army basic and advanced flying school to be constructed near Tuskegee.

Formation of the Ninety-Ninth Pursuit Squadron was announced by the army March 21. Fifty-two pilots a year will be trained and commissioned to man the squadron and 6 to 14 non-flying officers will be commissioned or transferred to the unit. In addition, 276 enlisted men of the squadron are now undergoing training as mechanics and technical specialists at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

$80,000 FOR TUSKEGEE JIM CROW AIR UNIT

War Department Awards Contract For Cadets Prelim Training

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The War department announced Thursday the award of an $80,000 contract to Tuskegee institute, Tuskegee, Ala., for the preliminary training of aviation cadets enrolled by the army for the jim crow 99th Pursuit Squadron, the first colored tactical unit in the Air Corps.

The contract is for a year, during which the institute will give preliminary instruction to approximately 100 cadets. They will be enrolled at the rate of 10 cadets to a class. A new class will be formed every five weeks.

Each class will receive 15 weeks of instruction. The first five weeks will be devoted to pre-flight training. The next ten weeks are for elementary flying instruction.

Upon completing the 15 weeks' course covered by the Tuskegee contract, an aviation cadet will begin his final 20 weeks of instruction at an army basic and advanced flying school to be built near Tuskegee.

This procedure is in accord with the general training program of the Army Air Corps under which all preliminary training of aviation cadets has been decentralized and distributed among private schools operating under army contracts and subject to army regulation and supervision.

The course offered under the Tuskegee contract will be the standard primary course prescribed by the Army Air Corps.

Under the Tuskegee contract, the first class of 10 cadets will start training July 19, and actual flying instruction will begin August 23.

Formation of the jim crow 99th Pursuit Squadron was announced by the War Department March 21, and met almost universal protest. Present plans call for the training and commissioning of 52 pilots per year to man the squadron, and transfer or commissioning of 6 to 14 non-flying officers.

In addition, 276 enlisted men of the jim crow squadron are now undergoing training at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., for duty as mechanics and other technical specialists.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

JUN 28 1941

Aeronautic Activities Are Developing Rapidly At Tuskegee Institute

99th Pursuit Squadron Makes Third Aviation Program Under Way; to Break Ground for Airdrome Soon

JUL 4 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The presence of Tuskegee's campus of Hilliard Robinson, architet, Washington, D. C., marked the beginning of the development of the third program of aeronautic activity at Tuskegee Institute. Mr. Robinson was recently named the architect for the airdrome for the 99th pursuit squadron which will be located about four and one-half miles from the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

The basic and advanced phases of military flying will be taught at the 99th pursuit squad training school at Tuskegee, Ala. Hilliard Robinson is the architect, and McKissack and McKissack, Nashville, Tenn., are the contractors.

The ground will be broken for this new development within a few weeks. This airdrome for the 99th pursuit squadron will be a training base. As fast as cadets complete the training at this base, they will be sent out into active service. The personnel for the 99th pursuit squadron will consist of enlisted men, ground instructors, communication officers, mechanics, civilians and cadets in training.

Training Indicated

The training of the ground crew for the 99th Pursuit squadron has already been indicated. Sixty students from Alabama and Georgia left several weeks ago for Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., for training in aircraft maintenance, and several have gone since for training in the communication service.

JUL 4 1941

Flight Surgeon Captain Maurice Johnson has been at Tuskegee for several months pursuing study and training for duties of flight surgeon. After examination, he will be given further experience to equip him for his duties as flight surgeon for the 99th pursuit squadron.

Capt. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., who in the spring was transferred from assignment and duty as professor of military science and tactics at Tuskegee Institute to Fort Riley, Kas., has recently been transferred from Fort Riley to Tuskegee Institute where he is now undergoing training as a flying cadet. It is thought that Captain Davis will become squadron commander.

Ground duties in connection with the maintenance of the airdrome will be performed by enlisted men, but only after they have received special training for work at an air field. For assignments to this special type of training for ground duty, a group of Negro enlisted men have been sent to Maxwell Field at Montgomery, Ala. In every instance the men who are being trained for work in connection with the 99th pursuit squadron airdrome have been sent to the best places available in this country.

Two Other Aviation Programs.

The advance of the aeronautic program at Tuskegee Institute has been so rapid that some confusion has resulted in the relationship existing between the programs of the 99th pursuit squadron and the other two flight programs now assigned to Tuskegee.

In October, 1939, Tuskegee was authorized to train private pilots under the Civil Aeronautics Authority. In June, 1940, Tuskegee was given authority to give courses in advanced training under the Civil Aeronautics Authority. This program of training has gone on and will continue with the training of private civilian pilots. This summer a course in cross-county flying, commercial flying, and refresher courses have been included. The C.A.A. courses are being conducted on a field leased by Tuskegee Institute and equipped for its program with eleven planes, hangar, and a corps of competent instructors. Charles Anderson is chief flight instructor.

JUL 4 1941

Elementary Training.

On May 31, 1941, Tuskegee Institute signed a contract for elementary flight training of the United States Army Air Corps Flying cadets. This contract also included the providing of facilities for five weeks' course in indoctrination, commonly known as "the pool," which all flying cadets must undergo prior to army flight training. It is the custom of the army air corps to contract to an advanced flying school the elementary training of United States army cadets. In as much as Tuskegee Institute is operating an advanced flying school licensed under the department of commerce, she was granted the contract.

JUL 4 1941

For the fulfillment of this flight contract, a flying field of 400 acres was needed. Tuskegee Institute was able to purchase 800 acres of property two and one-half miles from the institute. Work is already underway on this tract of land; the hangar has been staked out, and trees are being cleared for the landing field. The contractor for this flying field is A. A. Alexander of the firm of Alexander and Repass, general contractors, Des Moines, Iowa. Building engineer for this job is Russell P. Jackson of Des Moines, Iowa.

Contract Flying Class.

According to President F. D. Patterson, the first class for the five-week course of indoctrination known as "the pool" will begin on July 19. The first class in flying is scheduled to begin August 23. Cadets having undergone the pool experience for five weeks, followed by elementary flight training, ten weeks, will be transferred to the United States army post, the 99th pursuit squadron, where they will receive advanced and basic training. After the completion of the advanced training at the squadron, cadets will graduate with the rank of second lieutenant and will be detailed to active service in the United States army air corps.

JUL 4 1941

This basic and advanced training at the 99th squadron base will be done in classes with units of ten. A number of Civil Aeronautics Authority secondary graduates having had flight training equivalent to that offered in the elementary army program will be taken directly into the squadron without undergoing the elementary army training. Thus, Negro flying cadets from all over the country will be at Tuskegee for the pool or indoctrination for elementary training.

For further clarification, it is to be understood that Tuskegee's program of primary and advanced training for private pilots licensed under the Civil Aeronautics Authority will continue on Tuskegee's leased field which is six miles from Tuskegee Institute. The contract training for the elementary program will be conducted on the field now under construction whose physical facilities are owned by Tuskegee Institute and operated under army supervision.

JUL 4 1941

This field is two and one-half miles from the institute; its purchase was made possible by a loan of $200,000 approved by the trustees and which is to be repaid from income from the U. S. army in return for training given by the institute. The 99th squadron base will be an army post owned and controlled by the U. S. army flying corps. Here basic and advanced phases of army flying will be taught. This field will be about 4 and one-half miles from Tuskegee Institute.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

JUL 5 1941

Tuskegee Now Has 3 Distinct Air Programs

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—The recent arrival of Hilliard Robinson, architect for the airdrome for the Ninety-ninth Pursuit Squadron, to be located about four and a half miles from Tuskegee Institute's campus, marked the beginning of the development of the third program of aeronautics activity here.

Tuskegee's first program was the authorization to train private pilots under the Civil Aeronautics program, granted in October, 1939. This summer a course in cross country flying, commercial flying and refresher courses are being offered under the CAA program. Charles Anderson is chief flight instructor.

JUL 3 1941

Air Cadet Training

The second program was instituted on May 31, 1941, when the school contracted for elementary flight training of Army Air Corps Flying Cadets. The first class for the five-week course of indoctrination under this program, known as "the pool," will begin on July 19.

This air cadet training will be conducted on the recently purchased 800-acre field about two and a half miles from the campus and already being put into shape by A. A. Alexander, Des Moines, Iowa, general contractor. Physical facilities of this field are owned by Tuskegee and operated under army supervision.

Army Flight Training

The Ninety-ninth Squadron base will be an army post, owned and controlled by the U.S. Army Flying Corps. Here basic and advanced phases of army flying will be taught and as fast as cadets complete this training they will be sent into active service.

Elementary training of squadron personnel is now being conducted at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., and at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala. Captain B. O. Davis, Jr., who it is believed will become squadron commander, and Flight Surgeon Captain Maurice Johnson are undergoing instruction here.

18y-1941
Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

AVIATION

Noted Chicago Pilot Visits 'Skegee

APR 23 1941 APR 23 1941

APR 23 1941

Col. John C. Robinson, Chicago aviation training director, who flew to Tuskegee Sunday, is shown in the top picture standing beside Chief Pilot C. A. Anderson, of Tuskegee, right. In the background is Col. Robinson's plane, the Brown Condor. The noted Chicago flyer, who attracted international attention as head of the Ethiopian air forces in the Italian invasion, went to Tuskegee to see the activities of the institute's aviation program and to discuss with President F. D. Patterson and Coordinator G. L. Washington plans for courses in aviation mechanics. The bottom photograph shows Mr. Washington greeting Col. Robinson as he landed at Tuskegee. (ANP Photo)

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Select Site To Train Pursuit Squadron

MAY 10 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., May 8—Advice was received here this week that the training field and airdrome to be developed for the training of the 99th Pursuit Squadron, first all-Negro unit of its kind ever to be organized for service as a part of the U. S. Army Air Corps, will be located near Cheaha in this county, and immediately adjoining State Park, considered by many one of the most beautiful in the entire South.

MAY 10 1941

Decision to establish the airdrome in the vicinity of Tuskegee Institute where a large group of students are already far advanced in the prescribed Civil Aeronautics Authority training course, was announced some weeks ago.

Cheaha, in earliest days one of the principal towns of the Creek Indian Nation, is only six miles north of the Tuskegee Institute campus.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Air School Site Sought By War Department

MAY 10 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(ANP)—Finding the soil around Fort Davis unsuitable for a military airdrome, army engineers have abandoned plans for establishing the new basic-advanced flying school for Negroes there, and are now surveying other sites within a 10-mile radius of Tuskegee.

MAY 10 1941

It was revealed that in all probability one of the sites now being tested will be selected within the next two weeks. The war department has set aside about $1,890,000 for this project, the school, and barracks and facilities for the 99th Pursuit squadron, first Negro tactical unit in the air corps.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Lunceford Aids Tuskegee Airport Fund

MAY 11 1941

MAY 11 1941

MAY 11 1941

Since Jimmie Lunceford, nationally famous band leader and licensed pilot, visited Tuskegee recently and flew solo from the inadequate airport at the school, he was visited backstage at the Regal theatre during his recent engagement for a statement about the urgent need for the school's own airport. Lunceford, who has supported this drive in other cities, stated "I was very much impressed during my recent visit to Tuskegee at the remarkable progress our boys are making in the field of aviation. Therefore, I am happy to be included among those of Chicago who are helping to make this progress permanent by contributing to the development of the school's own airport." Left to right: Lunceford hands check for his donation to Daniel J. Faulkner, the executive secretary of the drive; Mrs. O. J. Plummer, president, Dentists Wives club and captain in the drive; Dr. G. Norman Adamson, major; James T. Copper, grand auditor of the Elks and a member of the Citizens Committee, and Faulkner who is reaching for the check.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

27 Tuskegee Students Pass Pilot's Test

Three Average 97; Nineteen Okehed on Ground

MAY 20 1941

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.— (SNS) —Twenty-seven students enrolled in Primary Civilian Pilot Training Course at Tuskegee Institute were given examination in ground work here Friday by Gerald D. Latham of Washington, D. C. All of the twenty-seven students who took part in the examination passed. The class average was 93. Three members of the class. Faythe McGinnis, Oklahoma; James Wright, Georgia, and Fleming F. Rose, Virginia, each had an individual average of 97.

Twenty students enrolled in Secondary Civilian Pilot training course, took the ground school examination. Nineteen passed in all subjects. The class average was 85.5. Individual high point average was made by Largston Caldwell, Denver Colorado with an average of 90.

George Bolling, Tully Hickman, Linkwood Williams and Walter Lawson came second with an average of 88. The secondary ground examination was given by L. E. Marden, Ground School Inspector C. A. A. Washington, D. C. Ground instructor for the Primary Course at Tuskegee Institute is Joseph T. Camilleri; for the Secondary, Warren G. Darty Wilmot G. Rhodes, Lewis A. Jackson and Joseph T. Camilleri.

G. L. Washington, director of the division of Aeronautics stated that he was well pleased with the records made. This is the fourth group to complete the Primary and third to complete the Secondary since Tuskegee began Civilian Pilot training in October, 1939, under the Civil Aeronautics Authority. Five courses in civilian flying are now in operation at the Tuskegee Airport: Primary Civilian Pilot Training, Secondary Civilian Pilot Training, Student (Apprentice) Instructor, Commercial Refresher, and Secondary Instructor Refresher.

Charls A. Anderson is the Chief Flight Instructor.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Aero Mechanics Training Unit For Negro Boys

MAY 23 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., May 23.—Thanks to the national defense training program, 45 Macon County negro boys between the age of 17 and 25 will be able to attend school free of cost from June 2 to August 9, to learn aero-mechanics was made possible by an allocation of $6,665 from funds for national defense programs. Thirty-four hundred dollars is being spent for equipment. All supplies for the course, including the text books, etc., will be purchased from the fund and furnished free of cost to the boys enrolled.

Three licensed mechanics will be employed on the teaching staff. W. S. Allen, State itinerant teach-trainer, has been appointed supervisor of the project and has outlined the course of study which has been approved by the State board.

G. L. Washington, director of mechanical industries, Tuskegee Institute, has assigned one building of the William G. Wilcox Trades School to be headquarters for these defense training program operations.

No fees will be charged for the training; textbooks and supplies will be furnished, but the enrollees must pay for their board, room and transportation. While any youth 17 and 25 years of age is eligible, preference will be given to those especially interested in mathematics and science.

Application blanks may be obtained from the office of Supervisor W. S. Allen in trades building A at the Institute.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

'Skegee Fliers Expect To Dominate New Unit

APR 12 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Apr. 10—When the 99th Pursuit Squadron, the U. S. Army's first all race air unit, is organized here on Oct. 1, Tuskegee Institute's fledgling fliers, already far advanced in training activities confidently believe that from among their number will be chosen a majority of the 33 pilots to be assigned to duty with the new Squadron. With the recruiting of high school graduates to make up the complement of the ground crew of 276 youths and young men the 99th is moving this month, a long step nearer to reality.

Tuskegee Institute is the only Negro college with an advanced school setup under the Civil Aeronautics Board's civilian pilot training program. This is the reason Institute students taking training in the school here are so firm in their belief that to them will go most of the pilot appointments. Authorized only last year, the school and its work have grown with amazing speed. Because there was no field established for them here, the first students to enroll, hitch-hiked, when they couldn't pay bus fare, to Montgomery, 40 miles away, to receive instructions.

WHITE STUDENTS AID

A temporary flying field was eventually cleared some 7 or 8 miles out in the country, where students quickly worked up to the advanced flying courses. The next development was the acquiring for their use by the Institute, at a cost of $10,000, of an Army type training plane, when they immediately got another "break." White students at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, located at Auburn, only a few miles away, voted unanimously to permit the colored flying students to have the use of their field and hangar for plane and instruc-

APR 12 1941

While they were going ahead learning to fly at the Auburn field, a new field was leased for their use adjacent to the Institute. Since then the single plane has increased to a fleet of 12, and all facilities have been established. Holding an Army contract ot give elementary training to the fledglings trying for pilot assignments in the 99th, Charles A. Anderson, first Negro to win a commercial pilot's license, has charge of the instruction program.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Selected For Air School

APR 10 1941

ATLANTA, April 9.—(AP)—Tuskegee, Ala., has been selected as the site of the first all-negro primary air corps training school, army officials announced today at Fourth Corps Area headquarters.

The army officials were quick to point out that the school was not to be confused with the all-negro air unit, the 99th Pursuit Squadron, which is expected to go into active service sometime in the Fall.

In all probability the school's first quota of 50 men will be filled from the 60 negroes now attending ground school at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill.

Army officials said they did not know what the school's quota would be when completed and added they did not think the War Department had decided yet.

Requirements for applicants will be the same as those for white cadets; at least two years of college, 20 to 26 years of age and good physical condition.

APR 10 1941

Tuskegee students have been undergoing training by civilian pilots for several months for places in the 99th Squadron.

A 276-man ground crew also is being recruited among high school graduates who have passed a special aptitude test.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Seventy Persons Hired As Teachers

APR 17 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS) — Negro youth throughout the country are making application to the Army Air Corps for training as Flying cadets. Director G. L. Washington of Tuskegee's School of Mechanical Industries has from the beginning directed and had immediate supervision of Tuskegee Institute's aviation program. At the same time he has been closely associated with Army Air Corps officials having to do with the shaping of the Army's plans for the enlistment and training of Negro cadets. Director Washington has advanced the following information and differentiation regards aviation activities to be centered about Tuskegee Institute. Such information and clarification should be both timely and of particular interest to those interested and planning to participate in Army air corps flying cadet training.

Flight training of flying cadets in the army air corps consists of elementary, basic, and advanced. Each phase extends over approximately ten weeks. Applicants passing the physical and educational examinations and who are assigned to training are first given a five weeks initiation period prior to flight training. During this period he is equipped with uniform, flying suit, mechanic's suit, etc., necessary to flight training. Immediately upon acceptance the cadet rereceived $75 per month pay plus allowance for board and lodging.

At the conclusion of the introductory five weeks period, the cadet is assigned to a Civil Advanced Flying School having army contract for elementary training of army cadets.

APR 17 1941

First ranking reason for elimination would be inability to perform flight maneuvers up to required standard. Cadets eliminated are subject to further cadet training for phases of air corps operations having to do with ground services and functions.

The sixty per cent graduating from the elementary training course at the civil advanced flying school are then transferred to an army air corps base for ten weeks of basic training.

Upon graduation from the advanced course, the cadet is commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant and placed on reserve or is assigned for active duty in an air corps unit. Owing to the present defense program, practically all such graduates are placed in active service.

Applicants for flying caadet training must pass a rigid physical examination and an educational examination. In cases of the educational examination, those applicants who can present to the examining board acceptable evidence of at least two full years of college or university are not required to undergo the educational examination.

APR 17 1941

All applicants must present birth certificates; if this cannot be secured, a certifying statement made out by parents or guardians on special form and notarized will be years of age must submit written, accepted. Applicants under 21 permission of parents or guardian to enlist for such training.

All applicants must be unmarried and none will be accepted who have exceeded their 27th birthday. Application is made through the corps area headquarters for the state in which the applicant resides. Applicants need not have had previous flight training though same does not bar the applicant from entering the elementary course.

APR 17 1941

In order to provide equal opportunities for training of Negro youth as cadets, a civil elementary Army training facility will be provided. In this unit Negro youth with no previous flight training but who had been accepted as flying cadets will begin training for the air corps at $75 per month plus subsistence and other provisions. It is in this connection that Tuskegee Institute will enter the strictly Army training picture.

The Institute, having already an advanced flying school rated by the United States Department of Commerce as such, has been designated to receive Army contract for the elementary training of cadets just as in case of some 28 such schools throughout the country. Graduates of this unit will be transferred to the 99th Squadron Base for the next and basic course.

APR 17 1941

After December 1, 1941, the one avenue to entrance into the 99th Squadron Base will be through Tuskegee Institute elementary Army training unit. Prior to that time the enrollment of cadets in this unit will be restricted in numbers thus allowing C.A.A. secondary graduates to be cleared without overloading training facilities and schedule of graduates of the 99th Squadron training center.

Beginning in December the cadet enrollment at the Tuskegee Institute elementary Army training unit will be 30 cadets every five weeks with concurrent classes.

Tuskegee Institute will continue to conduct the Civil Pilot Training programs now in progress. There will be entirely separate facilities for the Army training program. These will consist of base and auxiliary landing fields. At the base will be constructed hangers, repair shops, classroom and laboratory facilities, facilities for Institute and Army administrative personnel, facilities for flight surgeon and infirmary, dining hall, dormitories, etc.

APR 17 1941

Tuskegee Institute and Army supervising personnel will number some 70 persons including 12 flight instructors who will have previously undergone special Army training, 3 ground school instructors, and some 20 mechanics and helpers for maintenance of aircraft.

Three distinct aviation training facilites, therefore, will be centered about Tuskegee Institute—the 99th Squadron Training Base at Fort Davis just outside of Tuskegee, the Tuskegee Institute Elementary Army training unit at Tuskegee, and the Civilian Pilot Training programs as the existing Tuskegee Airport. The 99th Squadron Base is a strictly Army setup.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

First Lady Tries Out Tuskegee Plane

APR 13 1941

APR 13 1941

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt spent a day on the Tuskegee Institute campus recently and the photographer happened along just as Chief Flight Inspector Charles A. Anderson, of Tuskegee, took off with the First Lady. The noted visitor had high praise for the 'Skegee airport.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

'Skegee Fliers Expect To Dominate New Unit

APR 1 2 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Apr. 10—When the 99th Pursuit Squadron, the U. S. Army's first all race air unit, is organized here on Oct. 1, Tuskegee Institute's fledgling fliers, already far advanced in training activities, confidently believe that from among their number will be chosen a majority of the 33 pilots to be assigned to duty with the new Squadron. With the recruiting of high school graduates to make up the complement of the ground crew of 276 youths and young men, the 99th is moving this month, a long step nearer to reality.

Tuskegee Institute is the only Negro college with an advanced school setup under the Civil Aeronautics Board's civilian pilot training program. This is the reason Institute students taking training in the school here are so firm in their belief that to them will go most of the pilot appointments. Authorized only last year, the school and its work have grown with amazing speed. Because there was no field established for them here, the first students to enroll, hitch-hiked, when they couldn't pay bus fare, to Montgomery, 40 miles away, to receive instructions.

WHITE STUDENTS AID

A temporary flying field was eventually cleared some 7 or 8 miles out in the country, where students quickly worked up to the advanced flying courses. The next development was the acquiring for their use by the Institute, at a cost of $10,000, of an Army type training plane, when they immediately got another "break." White students at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, located at Auburn, only a few miles away, voted unanimously to permit the colored flying students to have the use of their field and hangar for plane and instruction.

APR 1 2 1941

While they were going ahead learning to fly at the Auburn field, a new field was leased for their use adjacent to the Institute. Since then the single plane has increased to a fleet of 12, and all facilities have been established. Holding an Army contract ot give elementary training to the fledglings trying for pilot assignments in the 99th, Charles A. Anderson, first Negro to win a commercial pilot's license, has charge of the instruction program.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Tuskegee Trustees Give Aid

Will Help In Civilian Pilot Training Here

APR 1 2 1941

STAFF CORRESPONDENCE

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Tuskegee Institute's trustees, holding their annual board meeting here last Saturday, agreed to underwrite Tuskegee's aviation cadet training program to the extent of $200,000 in a history making session, and then journeyed, in a group, to the Civilian Pilot Training Program airfield of the Institute, about seven miles out of town, where the students put on an acrobatic air show for the benefit of the trustees.

While the source of the $200,000 was not revealed here this week, President Frederick D. Patterson expressed himself as greatly gratified and encouraged by the action of the trustees in approving the expenditure of the sum of $200,000 on the development of the army air corps cadet training program which begins at Tuskegee on July 15.

APR 1 2 1941

TUSKEGEE PROJECT

The president explained that this training will be a project of Tuskegee Institute under contract let by the United States army as contrasted to the air squadron base for colored aviators, to be located near here, which is to be an Army post and which will have no official connection with Tuskegee Institute.

Before the air show began, the sixty-odd Negroes now taking the three aviation courses offered at Tuskegee under a corps of seven pilot instructors, lined up on the Tuskegee airport where they were reviewed by the trustees, Dr. Patterson, and Dean G. L. Washington of the trades department, coordinator of flight instruction.

The CPTP students lined up according to classification as advanced instructors, secoindary trainees, and primary trainees. They were addressed, briefly by William J. Schieffelin, chairman of the board of trustees; W. M. Scott, of New York, trustee; Claude Barnett of Chicago, trustee; and Mrs. Schiefflin. Each congratulated the instructors and the students on the progress made at Tuskegee and the splendid record the school's flyers had made. The fact that $200,000 would be made available for expanding the aviation program so as to be able to train prospective army cadets was loudly ceeered by the flyers. Dr. Patterson and Mr. Washington also spoke birefly.

AIR SHOW

APR 1 2 1941

The air show was directed by Chief Flight Instructor C. Alfred Anderson. Four students, all in the advanced pilot instructors course, were selected to fly the four Waco biplanes used by the students, two of which belong to Tuskegee and the others loaned by the Army for instruction purposes.

APR 1 2 1941

These students were: Harold C. Hayes, of A. and T.; T. M. Campbell of Tuskegee; Davis, of Hampton; and Charles Foxx of Tuskegee. They engaged in acrobatic maneuvers over the airport and astounded the spectators with sensational flying. The students did all kinds of fancy stunts.

Later, Lewis Jackson, assistant to the chief instructor, took one of the Waco planes up for more advanced stunt flying and "Red" Rosenberg, a white instructor, did some fancy acrobatics with a single wing Cub trainer, one of seven owned by the airport.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Plans For Training Of Negro Army Pilots Laid

Conference on Aviation Is Held at Tuskegee Institute

JAN 17 1941

By CLIFF MACKAY
(WORLD Managing Editor)

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Definite plans looking toward the establishment at Tuskegee Institute of an United States Army Air Corps training center for the specific purpose of providing pilots and ground crews for a proposed Negro air squadron were discussed here Thursday as representatives of eleven Negro colleges gathered at the first conference on aviation.

The meeting was called by President F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee Institute, the school which has pioneered in the training of young Negroes in aviation.

TELLS OF ARMY PLAIS

Dr. Patterson, who recently returned here following a conference with army air corps officials in Washington disclosed the plans for the setting up of the new school to train Negro military pilots during the evening dinner session of the conference held in Tompkins Dining Hall.

The principal speaker at this session, Dr. Patterson using as his topic "Cadet Training in the Army Air Corps and the Negro," told how specific details in the proposed establishment of the school had been worked out.

During the opening session held Thursday morning in the Executive Council Room adjoining President Patterson's office problems which have arisen in the training of young Negroes under the Civil Aeronautics Authority program were discussed by representatives from those schools which have qualified for these courses.

NEED MECHANICS

Chief "bottleneck" in which has developed in these courses, the various discussions disclosed, was the extreme shortage of Negroes qualified to give instruction in aeronautical mechanics.

J. M. Marteena, who represented A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. C., first brought this problem to the fore reporting on the progress which had been made at his school.

Mr. Marteena disclosed that two training planes, a station wagon to transport the pupils to the field and even a $10,000 hangar equipped with classrooms had been obtained by the school, but the chief difficulty remained in the employment of a competent Negro mechanic to give necessary "ground" instructions.

J. C. Evans, representing West Virginia State College, which has one of the largest of the several aeronautical courses, testified to substantially the same situation at his school. The school, he said, was in possession of a large amount of material, but thus far the "ground" training program had lagged far behind.

SEE SOLUTION

A possible solution of this problem was visioned by those present in the statement of Mack W. Greene of Wilberforce, who told of the NYA "ground" training program being conducted at his school Wilberforce offers no pilot course, he said.

A quanity of material had been obtained through the NYA and a score of students were given basic and training in the science of airplane motors. From this class, it is hoped, that the badly needed mechanics can be supplied to the schools.

Other problems discussed dealt with the importance of secondary training and present and future plans of colleges offering primary training to make this available to their students. Tuskegee is the only Negro college which is now offerng secondary coureses.

ANDERSON SPEAKS

Other speakers heard during the day-long conference included Charles A. Anderson, chief flight instructor, Tuskegee and G. L. Washington, head of the trades division of Tuskegee.

Mr. Anderson will be remembered for his Good-Will Flight two years ago to South America, which was sponsored by Major R. R. Wright of Philadelphia.

The visiting delegates were also carried on an inspection tour of the school's airfield, which now boasts eight planes and a hangar.

Delegates attending included P. V. Jewell and H. W. Crawford, South Carolina; G. R. Cotton Lincoln University (Mo.); J. E. Taylor, Langston; J. C. Ballard, Tennessee State College; President F. D. Bluford and J. M. Marteena, A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. C.; J. C. Evans, West Virginia State College; Victor Fields and St. Elmo Brady, Fisk University; R. W. Brazeal, Morehouse; Lloyd Issacs, F. D. Patterson, G. L. Washington, Tuskegee Institute; Cliff Mackay, Atlanta Daily World.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee to Get Second Air Unit

FEB 22 1941

(By ANP)
WASHINGTON

Almost on the heels of the announcement three weeks ago that an army pursuit squadron would be established at Tuskegee Institute, word has been received that an additional training unit—a civil elementary flying school will be set up there.

The new school, with a capacity of sixty students, the first of which will be admitted July 15, will be operated by Tuskegee Institute under the supervision of the civilian elementary authorities. It will require the development of an additional new air field with emergency landing fields.

CAA Defects Overcome

The training the students will receive in this basic and elementary flying school will fit them to enter the pursuit squadron school immediately upon graduation.

This, according to sponsors, will overcome the disadvantages of the CAA schools which army flyers have pointed out were not entirely suitable for the training of army flyers.

Protests Renewed

Meanwhile, a new attack on the principle of racial separation involved in the Tuskegee venture was launched by Cornelius R. Coffey of Chicago, president of the National Airmen's Association.

FEB 22 1941

In a statement issued following the recent announcement of an antagonistic attitude on the part of NAACP officials, Mr. Coffey said:

"The plan which would exclude colored men from training offered at Kelly Field, popularly known as the 'West Point of the Air,' is even more ridiculous than the policy which calls for separate units in the army and navy, yet permits colored youths to attend either West Point or Annapolis."

Whites Supported, Paid

He pointed out that the Tuskegee trainees will be required to finance themselves during certain periods of their training, whereas white youths are not only given subsistence by the Government, but are paid $75 monthly from enrollment to completion of the course.

He further declared that, in spite of statements by the War Department to the contrary, it is impossible to train at Tuskegee, flyers who can compare with the graduates of Kelly Field in Texas.

N. Y. Body Urges Backing

On the other hand, an inclination to support the Tuskegee project is evidenced in a statement issued Saturday by Douglas C. Watson of New York, chairman of the Negro Aeronautic Forum.

He characterized the move as " a step toward equality in the armed forces" and suggested that "it is therefore up to the colored youths who feel themselves qualified to band together to meet the Government more than halfway to present an irrefutable argument for the completion of the plans."

FEB 22 1941

Few Applicants

Calling attention to delay in filling the quota of trainees, Mr. Watson said:

"The great number of colored youths who can meet the requirements, and whose names are on file at the draft boards, yet have not been called. This is ample evidence that the army is not doing all in its power to go through with the formation of the squadron."

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

New Flying School Slated For 'Skegee

FEB 18 1941

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(ANP)—Tuskegee Institute is to become one of the really important units in the national defense program of the United States Army Air Corps. Almost on the heels of the announcement three weeks ago that a pursuit squadron would be established at the famous Alabama school word has been received that an additional training unit will be established there. This will be a Civil Elementary Flying School. It will have a capacity of 60 students, the first of which will be admitted July 15.

The new school will be operated directly by Tuskegee Institute under the supervision of the Civiliar Elementary Authorities. It will require the development of an additional new air field with emergency landing fields. The training the students will receive in this basic and elmentary flying school will fit them to enter the pursuit squadron school immediately upon graduation.

FEB 18 1941

This will overcome the disadvantages of the CAA schools which army flyers have pointed out were excellent for the training of civil or commercial flying but which were not entirely suitable for the training of army flyers. Tuskegee will now have a complete army training school from the ground up. Its cadets will be paid a salary and wear uniforms furnished by the government. Students will be accepted from all over the country.

In addition to the personnel needed for this new school, instructors, mechanics and ground crew, will be the pursuit squadron which will consist of 33 student pilots, 37 planes and technical and ground men to the number of 400. The pursuit squadron fields will be located ten miles east of Tuskegee. The Civil Elementary School will be located on Tuskegee's campus

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee To Get Second Air School

FEB 22 1941

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(ANP)—Almost on the heels of the announcement three weeks ago that a jim-crow pursuit squadron would be established at Tuskegee institute, word has been received that an additional training unit will be established there. This will be a Civil Elementary Flying school. It will have a capacity of 60 students, the first of which will be admitted July 15.

FEB 22 1941

The new school will be operated directly by Tuskegee institute under the supervision of the Civilian Elementary authorities. It will require the development of an additional new air field with emergency landing fields. The training the students will receive in this basic and elementary flying school will fit them to enter the jim crow pursuit squadron school immediately upon graduation.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

A Tuskegee Parachutist 'Does Stuff'

MAR 8 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Over 2,000 spectators saw student aviator Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Ark., bail out of his plane and catapult 4,500 feet through space in a technically perfect parachute jump here Sunday.

The jump was made from a plane piloted by senior flight instructor C. Alfred Anderson of Tuskegee institute. The student is enrolled in the Tuskegee Civil Aeronautics Civil Pilot Training program.

Anderson is the recent possessor of a Civil Aeronautics Authority certificate and will jump every Sunday between the hours of 1 and 4 p.m. for six months.

He is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class and at present is a junior in the school of mechanical industries, majoring in industrial arts.

MAR 8 1941

His primary and secondary flight courses have been completed and he now has plans to enter the apprentice instructors' course. In the primary course the young student score one of the highest grades reported in the CAA program. His 100 and 92 on civil air regulations and meteorology, respectively, were achievements of first quality.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Donates To Tuskegee's Airport

APR 6 - 1941

APR 6 - 1941

APR 6 - 1941

Erskine Hawkins, who was visited back-stage at the Regal Theatre, Chicago, during his recent engagement by this group of Tuskegee Airport Fund workers, explains that "I am happy to make this donation towards helping to develop the first airport to be owned and controlled entirely by Negroes." In the photo are left to right, Capt. Sims, a member of the band; Mrs. Lucy Dunlap, a captain in the campaign; Dr. G. Norman Adamson, a major; Daniel J. Faulkner, executive secretary; Mrs. Janet H. Waterford, a major; Col. John C. Robinson, Commander, Air Corps Division of the drive; Mrs. Clarence Browning, captain; L. Stainfield, member of the band, and Erskine Hawkins. His entire aggregation was furnished with the special 'Skegee airport fund buttons which indicated their support. (ANP).

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Flyers Visit Birmingham

Chief Pilot C. A. Anderson and Earl King, 19-year-old student flyer, both of Tuskegee, who flew to Birmingham Wednesday, of last week were welcomed by a large delegation of citizens. Miss Louise Washington, granddaughter of Booker T. Washington, is pictured, lower left, greeting the two 'Skegee flyers. King lives at 16 Center St., Bessemer, Ala. and was greeted by members of his family pictured above. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William King and has been flying since last year. King entertained the crowd with stunts in the air for a half hour and before departing flew the plane to Bessemer to receive the applause of his "home town folk".—Photo by Britton Bros.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

LUNCEFORD AIDS AIRPORT FUND

Jimmie Lunceford, nationally famous bandleader and licensed pilot, visited Tuskegee recently and flew solo from the inadequate airport at the school. This group of Tuskegee Airport Fund workers visited him back-stage at the Regal theatre during his engagement last week for a statement about the urgent need of the school's own airport. Lunceford who has donated to this drive in other cities, stated, "I was very much impressed during my visit to Tuskegee at the remarkable progress our boys are making in the field of aviation, therefore, I am happy to be included among those of Chicago who are helping to make this progress permanent by contributing to the development of the school's own airport." Left to right: Daniel J. Faulkner, executive secretary; Mrs. O. J. Plummer, president, Dentists' Wives club and captain in the drive, and Jimmie Lunceford.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Flight Instructor Off For Boston

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Charles A. Anderson, chief flight instructor, division of aeronautics, Tuskegee institute, left Friday for Boston, where on Monday, June 2, he will begin a three weeks course in cross country instruction training.

The course is offered by the Civil Aeronautics Authority of which Grove Webster is director. The training will be given at the Northeast Airlines, Municipal Airport, East Boston. The course will include intensive work with the newest instrument designed to take many of the old hazards out of cross country flights.

Pilot L. A. Jackson returns this week from Boston, having completed three weeks special training in cross country instruction.

This course will enable Chief Anderson and his co-workers to give the enrollees in the summer aviation program at Tuskegee Institute the best and latest developments in the field of aeronautics.

A plane with an engine of higher horsepower and a cabin of larger capacity than the ones now owned by the institute, is to be purchased for Tuskegee's first cross country training which is scheduled to begin the middle of June.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Charles A. Anderson Futhering Studies In Flight Training

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Charles A. Anderson, chief flight instructor, Division of Aeronautics, Tuskegee Institute, left the campus Friday for Boston, Mass., where on Monday, he will begin a three weeks course in cross country instruction training.

The course is offered by the Civil Aeronautics Authority of which Grove Webster is director. The training will be given at the Northeast Airlines, Municipal Airport, East Boston. The course will include intensive work with the newest instrument designed to take many of the old hazards out of cross country flights.

Pilot L. A. Jackson returns this week from Boston, having completed three weeks of special training in cross country instruction.

This course will enable Chief Anderson and his co-workers to give the enrollees in the Summer Aviation Program at Tuskegee Institute the best and latest developments in the field of aeronautics.

A plane with an engine of higher horsepower and a cabin of larger capacity than the ones now own de by the Institute, is to be purchased for Tuskegee's first cross country training which is scheduled to begin the middle of June. Several planes have already been flown to Tuskegee airport for inspection. G. L. Washington, director of aeronautics and Lloyd Isaacs treasurer of he Institute, stated that the make and model of the new plane had not been finally settled upon, but the new plane would probably reach the Tuskegee airport at the time of Chief Anderson's return from Boston.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

Pilot Anderson To Examine New Tuskegee Cadets

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., JUNE 4—Summer activities at the Tuskegee Airport will start June 15 G. L. Washington, director of aeronautics, Tuskegee Institute, stated that the Civil Aeronautics Administration has authorized 30 students for primary training, 20 for secondary, 5 for a commercial refresher course, 10 for student instructors course and 6 for the long anticipated cross country course.

The variety of offerings for the summer will necessitate the employing of an additional flight instructor. Director Washington said he was not ready to name the new flight member.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration Service has approved Chief Pilot Charles A. Anderson as examiner for secondary flight training. Twenty secondary students will finish their flight tests under Chief Pilot Anderson this week at Tuskegee Airport.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

TUSKEGEE AIR BASE CONTRACTS GIVEN RACE

WASHINGTON—(SNS)—Two colored firms have been awarded contracts totaling $1,480,295 for the new Army Air Base to be erected at Tuskegee Institute.

Pilots will be trained at the base, which will be the nation's first all-Negro unit.

The War Department awarded the contracts to the McKissick & McKissick Construction Company, Nashville, Tennessee, and Hilyard R. Robinson, Washington, D. C., architect.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla.

Young Flight Man To Join Tuskegee Staff

OAKLAND, Calif.—(ANP)—Archie Williams, who set a new world record in the 400 meter race and then won that event in the 1936 Olympics, received his pilot's license May 29. He is now studying at the Oakland Flying school for his instructor's rating and plans to join the staff of instructors at the Tuskegee Institute air school in the fall.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

New Yorker Among 3 Teaching Airplane Mechanics In Ala.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Three licensed mechanics arrived on the campus of Tuskegee Institute to have charge of classes in the new Aero-Mechanics Course which begin on June 15. The new instructors are Austin H. Humbles, Cincinnati, Ohio, who will teach engine maintenance; Ned F. Simeon Chicago, Illinois, to teach related subjects, and Vincent Talby, New York City who will teach aircraft maintenance.

The course in aero-Mechanics is an N. Y. A. Defense project. It is under the general supervision of W. S. Allen, itinerant teacher-trainer, and will give instruction to 45 out of school youths.

Through the cooperation of Dr. F. D. Patterson and G. L. Washington, director of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute, one of the buildings of the William G. Willcox Trades School on the campus has been turned over for instructional purposes in connection with the course.

The N. Y. A., defense course in aero-mechanics is not designed just to keep 45 out-of-school enrollees out of mischief during the summer, but to give them practical first-hand knowledge of how airplanes are put together and what keeps them in the air, W. S. Allen, supervisor of the program, stated here.

Two battered-trainer cubs have been procured by G. L. Washington for the use of the young aero-mechanics. The planes will be taken apart, the sections studied, and where possible, repaired by the boys. The ships will then be built up again and be submitted to tests for air-worthiness and licenses. Such practical vocational training should be a means of providing Uncle Sam with an excellent quota of skilled mechanics from the ranks of young America.

Selma, Ala., Times Journal
June 19, 1941

Tuskegee Receives Contract To Train Negro Plane Pilots

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP)—The War Department awarded an $80,000 contract today to Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., to give preliminary training to aviation cadets enrolled for the 99th Pursuit Squadron, the first negro unit established in the Air Corps.

The contract is for one year, with the first class of 10 cadets beginning training July 19 and actual flying instruction starting August 23. Preliminary instruction will be given approximately 100 cadets, enrolled at the rate of 10 cadets to a class. A new class will be formed every five weeks.

Tuskegee will give each class 15 weeks of instruction, the first five weeks being pre-flight training and the next 10 weeks elementary flying instruction.

On completion of the 15-week course, cadets will start their final 20 weeks of instruction at an Army basic and advanced flying school to be constructed near Tuskegee.

Formation of the 99th Pursuit Squadron was announced by the Army on March 21.. Fifty two pilots a year will be trained and commissioned to man the squadron and 6 to 14 non-flying officers will be commissioned or transferred to the unit. In addition, 276 enlisted men of the squadron are now undergoing training as mechanics and technical specialists at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Civilian Air Director Has Unique Post

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Sept. 18—Owing to press of duties with the army air corps detachment of which G. L. Washington has been appointed civilian director, he will be considered virtually on leave from duties as director of the School of Mechanical Industries for the next 60 days, President Patterson announced today.

Since Tuskegee is the only Negro school having a government contract to give elementary military training to flying cadets, Mr. Washington as civilian director of a U. S. army air corps detachment, holds a unique position.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Dr. Patterson Flies To Inspect Air Corps

Tuskegee Head Views Chanute Field Workers

Army Air Corps Provides Plane For Long Flight

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —(S N S)—Chanute Field is, to much of the public, still in the class with names out of the Arabian Nights or from books of the Old Testament. When "Rantoul Illinois" is offered as explanation even Illinois becomes foreign in the Far-East suggestion of "Rantoul." What a good many folk do know is that Chanute Field, whatever and wherever it is, is a place where Negro boys have been sent during the last few months, for training in connection with the National Defense Army training program in general and the 99th Pursuit Squadron in particular.

It was interest in the training program for the 99th Pursuit Squadron non-flying personnel that took President F. D. Patterson and Director of Mechanical Industries G. L. Washington of Tuskegee Institute to Chanute Field a few weeks ago.

IN ARMY PLANE

President Patterson and Mr. Washington made the trip from Maxwell Field in Montgomery to Chanute Field in Illinois and return through facilities provided by the Army Air Corps. Leaving Maxwell Field on the morning of June 19, they were welcomed at Chanute Field at 1:30 that afternoon by Acting Commandant, Colonel R. E. O'Neill, Lieutenant Colonel A. C. Kincard, Captain Maddux and other staff members.

After lunch in the officers' quarters, the Tuskegee officials were conducted on an inspection tour of men and quarters of the 99th Pursuit Squadron. President Patterson addressed the assembled group. Later in commenting on his impressions President Patterson said:

"I can but feel that this group will reflect credit to the War Department and Officials and Instructors of Chanute Field. The War Department is to be commended for this opportunity accorded Negro Youth whom I am certain will prove the wisdom of its decision." On Friday morning the party inspected the entire training facilities of Chanute Field. "The tour," stated G. L. Washington, "was most enlightening, informative and impressive. A thorough job of training is being carried on there. We observed members of the 99th Pursuit Squadron in class and laboratory courses."

DINES WITH MEN

At the request of President Patterson, the evening meal on Thursday was taken with the 99th Pursuit Squadron in their Mess Hall where the food was found to be of good quality and wholesome. At breakfast and lunch on Friday, the visitors were again guests of the Officers' Club.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

UNDER THE MICROSCOPE

By E. WASHINGTON RHODES

TUSKEGEE FLIERS MAKE RECORD

OF ALL the student fliers of all groups in all schools all over America the students at Tuskegee maintain the highest average. Because of their efficiency and adaptability, they are being trained as pursuit plane pilots. These young fliers are those whom the United States Army refused to accept. Tuskegee is doing a great job of training fliers. It is unfortunate that there had to be a war and insistent demands before colored people could be trained as fliers for the United States Army.

RHODES

I had an interesting talk with Tuskegee's chief pilot Alfred Anderson last week. He believes that there will be larger opportunities for colored pilots in the not too distant future. Most all of Philadelphia remembers Alfred Anderson. He was an automobile chauffeur out in the suburbs of Philadelphia. He wanted to fly and at odd moments took flying lessons. He piloted old crates. Finally he got his license. He made a transcontinental flight. Then he got the chance to make a "goodwill" flight to Haiti for the Citizens and Southern Bank. E. C. Wright accompanied Anderson. It was a memorable event. Now he is training other men to fly. He prepared himself and his chance did come.

"MIKE" WINS VICTORY

Now that the city has ordered 5,000 street signs so that citizens and visitors may find their way around, I believe "Under The Microscope" has achieved a victory for the people. Philadelphia is the only first class city in the world with its streets not marked. Since that battle has been won, I move on another battle front: Men should be forced to dress comfortably in the hot weather. It is foolish, stupid, silly and reactionary for men to torture themselves with tight-fitting collars and ties during the intense heat. A coat, regardless of how light, is a burden.

MEN, ARISE!

Men, let us rebel against the ancient custom of the horse and buggy days. I suggest a mass meeting against collars, ties and coats. Arise men and fight for your freedom. Let the banners unfurl with great big letters — No more coats! No more ties! No more collars in the hot summer time. Cafes, hotels and other public places which refuse to admit men without coats should be boycotted.

Women can undress almost to the last stitch, but men, the leaders of the empire, must endure the tortures of the damned because a thousand years ago somebody thought it looked nice for a man to wear a coat.

Women have gained their freedom and it is time for all men to join the crusade for comfortable wearing apparel when the thermometer registers around 90. If women can take off everything, why can't a man take off his coat? True it is that women have beautiful bodies, but what is wrong with the manly form? Even the hair on his chest can be endured for a few months. And I am not going to give up the fight until men get equality with women. I personally object to being tortured. All men do. They simply lack sufficient courage to forget the ancient customs and dress as they please. Men, arise and fight for your freedom.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.
JUL 26 1941

DEAR BOSS!

Johnny Goes to Tuskegee . . . Goes Up in a Plane and Comes Down Again! — Says Students Can Really Fly!

TUSKEKEE AIR SCHOOL, Tuskegee, Ala., July 24—Dear Boss: I know you and everybody else have been wondering what the student pilots down here at this air school are really doing. Well, so did I until I got here. To tell the truth I had heard so many wild tales about this place that I hardly knew what to expect.

I thought about the best place for me to get pictures of the student pilots would be in the hospital. When Prattis said let's go to the airport I was prepared to take pictures of a hangar that wasn't there and a junk pile that had at one time or other been planes used by the students. I was never so wrong in all my born days.

PRATTIS GOES UP WITH FEMININE PILOT

In the first place, there were no pilots in the hospital for me to photograph. And, believe it or not, the hangar was there. It isn't exactly what the "doctor" ordered, but it is what the government required before Tuskegee could call that 'mushball diamond' an airport. To top it off all of the planes were in the air but two. One was being repaired by a student mechanic and the other (I later learned) was waiting for a couple of 'chumps' like Prattis and myself.

Well, Boss, you could have followed me. We weren't at the airport one hour until a female pilot had Prattis and was gone. And he's the guy who doesn't like women drivers. He went up laughing and came down doing the same thing. Psychiatrists say that 'fear' affects people in different ways.

I agree with the psychiatrists because I didn't laugh when I went up. There wasn't anything funny to see 2,000 feet in the air and I didn't see a doggon thing to laugh at while we were landing. It wasn't my first time in the air but it might as well have been. I get that 'why-did-I-ever-do-it' feeling every time.

SAYS STUDENT PILOTS KNOW THEIR WAY ABOUT

Now, we didn't go up in that plane on any hearsay that the pilots could fly. We watched them first. I'm no authority on flying but I got sense enough to know when a pilot ain't and that is what I go by. The student pilots are still in the making and have a lot of technical stuff to learn, but right now they know their way around enough to take care of themselves.

You wouldn't know that if you saw them on the ground without all of that harness on. One student looked like a country farmer; another looked like a backstreet jitterbug; two of them looked like they didn't have sense enough to pour water out of a bucket if the direction were on the bottom and one of the instructors reminded me of Sliding Billie Watson, the comedian.

But, Boss, you ought to see them brothers fly. They have to know how to fly or there would be a crack-up every day. Their landing field isn't much larger than a downtown parking lot. From up in the air, it looks like somebody's backyard with a dog house at one end. The hangar looks like the dog house. Most pilots would pass the spot up looking for a place to make a forced landing.

THRILLED TO STAND ON GROUND; LOOK UP

I got a thrill out of standing on the ground looking up at those student [illegible] through the air with the ease of a veteran eagle. They go through their maneuvers in the air better than most of the 'rookie' soldiers can on land. They fly upside down and I haven't seen any soldiers running that way.

As I said before I heard a lot of wild tales about this air school and some mighty harsh things have been said. Unless I miss my guess the 99th Pursuit Squadron is going to make Uncle Sam mighty proud of it some day. They want to fly and here's hoping they make the grade.

Will write you and the gang from Camp Shelby in Mississippi.
Your Fairthful Correspondent,
Johnny Taylor.

Famous Negro Aviator Lands His Plane At Tuskegee Institute

COL. JOHN C. ROBINSON Chicago aviation training director, who flew to Tuskegee last Sunday, is shown in the top picture standing beside Chief Pilot C. A. Anderson, of Tuskegee, right. In the background is Col. Robinson's plane, the Brown Condor.

The noted Chicago flyer, who attracted international attention as head of the Ethiopian air forces in the Italian invasion, went to Tuskegee to see the activities of the institute's aviation program and to discuss with President F. D. Patterson and Coordinator G. L. Washington plans for courses in aviation mechanics.

The bottom photograph shows Mr. Washington greeting Col. Robinson as he landed at Tuskegee. (ANP Photo)

Waycross, Ga., Journal-Herald
April 3, 1941

Tuskegee Collegians Confident Winning Most Pilot Appointments As Recruiting Negro Unit Begins

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Apr. 3 (AP)—Collegians swiftly sprouting wings at this old institute are convinced they'll win most of the 33 pilot assignments when the army's first all-Negro air unit—the 99th Pursuit Squadron—is activated here October 1.

The 99th is moving a long step nearer reality this month with the recruiting of the 276-man ground crew from among high school graduates who must pass special aptitude tests. Selection of these men is expected to take only a few weeks.

Reason Tuskegeeans are confident they hold the edge for the coveted cadet appointments is that Tuskegee is the only Negro College with an advanced school set up under the civilian pilot training program of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Amazing speed has marked the growth of this school. Authorized in 1940, students started hitch-hiking 40 miles to Montgomery to take their lessons because there was no field here. Then a temporary field was cleared only seven miles away.

By the time some students worked to the advance flying stage and Tuskegee provided a $10,000 army type training plane, white students at nearby Auburn (Alabama Polytech) voted unanimously to let the Negro fliers use their field and hangar.

Now a field has been leased here, the institute fleet has grown to 12 planes, shop facilities have been built, engine laboratories set up. Charles A. Anderson, first Negro to win a commercial pilot's license, runs the program and holds an army contract to give elementary training to the fledglings of the 99th.

The cadets will meet the same requirements as for white air corps fliers, having two years of college education—or the ability to pass an examination showing equivalent knowledge—must be single and between 20 and 27 years of age.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
April 3, 1941

Tuskegee Prepares for All-Negro Aviation Unit

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 3.—(AP)—Collegians swiftly sprouting wings at this old institute are convinced they'll win most of the 33 pilot assignments when the army's first all-negro air unit—the 99th Pursuit Squadron—is activated here October 1.

The 99th is moving a long step nearer reality this month with the recruiting of the 276-man ground crew from among high school graduates who must pass special aptitude tests. Selection of these men is expected to take only a few weeks.

Reason Tuskegeeans are confident they hold the edge for the coveted cadet appointments is that Tuskegee is the only negro college with an advanced school set up under the civilian pilot trainnig program thead-raG..bC Civil Aeronautics Board.

Amazing speed has marked the growth of this school. Authorized in 1940, students started hitchhiking 40 miles to Montgomery to take their lessons because there was no field here. Then a temporary field was cleared only seven miles away.

By the time some students worked to the advance flying stage and Tuskegee provided a $10,000 Army type training plane, white students at nearby Auburn (Alabama Polytech) voted unanimously to let the negro fliers use their field and hangar.

Greensboro, N. C., News
April 7, 1941

NEGRO FLIGHT GROUP TO VISIT GREENSBORO

The Tuskegee fliers on their goodwill tour of schools of aviation in negro colleges of the country will visit A. and T. college today, according to J. M. Marteena, director of the school of aviation at the local college.

The Tuskegee flight group consisting of three planes, each manned by an instructor and an advanced student, will arrive at the airport at noon today. The group will inspect the A. and T. hangar and will visit the campus. One of the students is Harold Hayes, a member of the first graduating class of the A. and T. school of aviation. The purpose of the tour is to stimulate interest in aviation in all the negro colleges.

Hattiesburg, Miss. American
April 4, 1941

Tuskegee Training Negroes For Air Units

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 4—Collegians swiftly sprouting wings at this old institute are convinced they'll win most of the 33 pilot assignments when the army's first all-negro air unit—the 99th pursuit squadron—is activated here Oct. 1.

The 99th is moving a long step nearer reality this month with the recruiting of the 276-man ground crew from among high school graduates who must pass special aptitude tests. Selection of these men is expected to take only a few weeks.

Reason Tuskegeeans are confident they hold the edge for the coveted cadet appointments is that Tuskegee is the only negro college with an advanced school set up under the civilian pilot training program of the civil aeronautics board.

Amazing speed has marked the growth of this school. Authorized in 1940, students started hitch-hiking 40 miles to Montgomery to take their lessons because there was no field here. Then a temporary field was cleared only seven miles away.

By the time some students worked to the advance flying stage and Tuskegee provided a $10,000 army type training plane, white students at nearby Auburn (Alabama Polytech) voted unanimously to let the negro fliers use their field and hangar.

Now a new field has been leased here, the institute fleet has grown to 12 planes, shop facilities have been built, engine laboratories set up. Charles A. Anderson, first negro to win a commercial pilot's license, runs the program and holds an army contract to give elementary training to the fledglings of the 99th.

The cadets will meet the same requirements as for white air corps fliers, having two years of college education—or the ability to pass an examination showing equivalent knowledge—must be single and between 20 and 27 years of age.

Charlotte, N. C. Observer
April 4, 1941

NEGRO COLLEGIANS JOIN UNCLE SAM'S AIR CORPS

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 3.—(AP)—Collegians swiftly sprouting wings at this old institute are convinced they'll win most of the 33 pilot assignments when the army's first all-Negro air unit—the 99th pursuit squadron—is activated here October 1.

The 99th is moving a long step nearer reality this month with the recruiting of the 276-man ground crew from among high school graduates who must pass special aptitude tests. Selection of these men is expected to take only a few weeks.

Reason Tuskegeeans are confident they hold the edge for the coveted cadet appointments is that Tuskegee is the only Negro college with an advanced school set up under the civilian pilot training program of the Civil Aeronautics board.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Tuskegee Trustees Vote $200,000 For Aviation

APR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Dr. William J. Schieffelin, New York City, chairman of the board of trustees of Tuskegee Institute, states that the meeting of the Board, last week was one of the busies in its history. The most important decision by the board was the resolution to make military flying a part of the educational work of Tuskegee Institute.. The board voted unanimously to appropriate $200,000 to purchase and equip an 800-acre field three miles from the campus for the military flying program.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE AVIATORS IN ACROBATICS

APR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 17.—Following the business meeting on Saturday afternoon, the Tuskegee trustees and their guests visited the Tuskegee airport to see the 5 student flyers in action.

Take offs and 3-point landings in the seven cub trainers, lazy eights, chandelles, rolls and glides in the four Waco army type planes, thrilled the visitors for an hour. Present among the guests was Dr. Alfred Forsythe, Atlantic City, and a former Tuskegee student. Dr. Forsythe flew from Tuskegee in 1934 in his plane, the Booker T. Washington, for a good will tour of the West Indies and Central America. The pilot of the Booker T. Washington was C. Alfred Anderson, chief pilot in charge of flight instruction at Tuskegee Institute. The Booker T. Washington was christened at Tuskegee by Mrs. Robert R. Moton.

Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE CLUB SEEKS FUND FOR SCHOOL AIRPORT

The Chicago Tuskegee club recently started a campaign to raise funds for an airport at Tuskegee [Ala.] institute, the only Negro college in the country which has a primary and secondary CAA program. The airport will be owned and controled entirely by the school, which plans to start a permanent department of aeronautics.

Contributions may be made at campaign headquarters, 4316 South Park way, according to Brig. Gen. Spencer Dickerson, who heads the citizens committee for the drive. Others on the committee are Claude Barnett, 3507 South Park way; Daniel J. Faulkner, 4947 South Park way, and Arthur Sewell, 4707 South Park way.

Recently Tuskegee was the only colored or white college in seven southern states which had all its students passed by the CAA board examinations.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
April 10 1941

Tuskegee Selected For Air School

ATLANTA, April 9.—(AP)—Tuskegee, Ala., has been selected as the site of the first all-negro primary air corps training school, army officials announced today at Fourth Corps Area headquarters.

The army officials were quick to point out that the school was not to be confused with the all-negro air unit, the 99th Pursuit Squadron, which is expected to go into active service sometime in the Fall.

In all probability the school's first quota of 50 men will be filled from the 60 negroes now attending ground school at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill.

Army officials said they did not know what the school's quota would be when completed and added they did not think the War Department had decided yet.

Requirements for applicants will be the same as those for white cadets; at least two years of college, 20 to 26 years of age and good physical condition.

Tuskegee students have been undergoing training by civilian pilots for several months for places in the 99th Squadron.

A 276-man ground crew also is being recruited among high school graduates who have passed a special aptitude test.

Col. Robinson

APR 26 1941

Airport, Sunday, April 13. Colonel Robinson made the trip to Tuskegee to see the activities of the aviation program, but primarily to discuss with Dr. F. D. Patterson and Coordinator G. L. Washington, plans for courses in aviation mechanics.

While Colonel Robinson has made an enviable record for his success in the field of flying, and has had prestige from his position as special pilot to his Majesty Haile Selassie, his chief interest is in training aviation mechanics. Colonel Robinson stated that he feels aviation mechanics offer almost unlimited possibilities for trained Negro youth.

Colonel Robinson was accompanied in his Stinson, "The Brown Condor," by Miss Janette Harmon, R.N., William Wells, Galveston, Texas, junior instructor, and Julius Williams, Memphis, Tenn., both of the Chicago aviation unit.

Miss Harmon

Miss Harmon is a licensed pilot who has owned two planes. Flying is her hobby. She is regularly employed as nurse by the Metropolitan funeral home. Miss Harmon is a native of Griffin, Ga.

Both Wells and Williams expressed themselves as particularly interested in the civilian commercial aspects of aviation. They feel that army air corps experience will furnish excellent background for civilian development in commercial areas.

APR 26 1941

Colonel Robinson stated that he had been requested by his Majesty Haile Selassie to return to Ethiopia. He stated that he had not yet decided to accept the invitation, but was considering it in the light of the possibilities it might offer for new openings for Negro youth trained as pilots and as aviation mechanics.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

PLAN AVIATION MECHANICS AT TUSKEGEE

APR 26 1941

Col. Robinson Flies To School To Visit New Program

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Col. John C. Robinson, director of the Chicago Resident Technical Center, Aviation Unit No. 9, NYA, landed at the Tuskegee

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

His Leap Thrills 2,000

MAR 5 1941

MAR 5 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Alabama—Over 2,000 spectators saw student aviator Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Arkansas, bail out of his plane and catapult 4,500 feet through space in a technically perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

Anderson is the recent possessor of a Civil Aeronautics Authority license and is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class. At present he is a junior in the School of Mechanical Industries, majoring in Industrial Arts.

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Alabama

Defense Training Offered Free To 45 Negro Boys

Thanks to the National Defense Training Program, forty-five Macon County Negro boys between the age of 17 and 25 will be able to attend school free of cost from June 2 to August 9, 1941 to learn aero-mechanics according to an announcement made by President F. D. Patterson today.

This training unit in aero-mechanics was made possible by an allocation of $6,665 from funds for National Defense Training programs. Thirty-four hundred dollars is being spent for equipment. All supplies for the course, including text books, etc., will be purchased from the fund and furnished free of cost to the boys enrolled.

Three licensed mechanics will be employed on the teaching staff. W. S. Allen, State Itinerant Vocational Teacher-Trainer has been appointed Supervisor of the Project and has outlined the course of study which has been approved by the state board.

G. L. Washington, director of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute, has assigned one building of the William G. Wilcox Trades School to be headquarters for the Defense Training Program operations.

No fees will be charged for the training, textbooks and supplies will be furnished, but the enrollees must pay for their board room and transportation. While any youth between 17 and 25 years of age is eligible, preference will be given to those especially interested in mathematics and science.

MAY 30 1941

Application blanks may be obtained from the office of Supervisor W. S. Allen in Trades Building A at the Institute.

18y-1941
News
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Receiving Army Consideration As Air Training Site

BY CARROLL KILPATRICK
Special Washington Correspondent for The News-Age-Herald

WASHINGTON—Tuskegee is being given serious consideration by high officials of the U. S. Army Air Corps as the site for an aviation training school for Negroes, the first of its kind the army has ever contemplated, it was learned reliably here Saturday.

JAN 12 1941

Several other sites also are being considered, but Senator Lister Hill and Representative Henry B. Steagall, of the Third District, both of whom have been active on behalf of Tuskegee, expressed confidence Saturday they would be successful in their efforts.

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, was in conference with Senator Hill on the subject last week. Dr. F. D. Patterson president of Tuskegee Institute, was in Washington last week to explore the matter with army officials.

The civilian training program, which operates under the Civil Aeronautics Administration, already has a school at Tuskegee for training Negro aviators and Negro aviation mechanics. The air corps is expected to operate its proposed school in connection with the CTP if Tuskegee is chosen as the site.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

RESOLUTION CONDEMNS PLAN TO ESTABLISH SQUADRON OF NEGRO FLYERS IN ALABAMA

Association Wants Negroes Integrated in Army Air Corps, Not Set Apart in 'Jim-Crow School'

JAN 24 1941

By Enoc P. Waters Jr.

CHICAGO.— A Astrong resolution condemning the War department's plan to establish an all-Negro pursuit squadron as a part of the United States Army Air Corps was adopted by the National Airmen's Association here Friday.

At the same time, the asosciation, made up of Negro flyers throughout the country, voted to intensify its campaign to have Negroes integrated without regard to race into the United States Army Air Corps which presently bars Negroes.

According to under secretary of War, Patterson, the squadron consisting of a ground crew of 400 men, 33 pilots and 27 planes, will be set up at Tuskegee institute in Alabama where a flying field and other facilities will be provided.

The ground crew, according to the announcement will be trained at Chanute field, Illinois, for several months before going to the southern school. The squadron, it is understood, will be commanded by a white officer.

Commends Resolution

Cornelius R. Coffey who in addition to being the president of the Chicago chapter of the association is also national president, in commenting said the action taken Friday is in line with the association's policy.

JAN 24 1941

"Our fight for entrance into the air corps has been long. We don't intend to compromise now. Both the army and navy have stressed tradtion in arguing against the abolition of segregated units.

"In the air corps there is no traditoin neither favorable or unfavorable to complete racial interregation. If we permit the establishment of a Negro unit, it will be establishing a precedent which will be hard to break down.

Asks "No Segregation"

"We'd rather be excluded," Coffey said, "than to be segregated. There's no constitutional support for segregated units and the only traditions existing in aviation as I know it are ones which would make complete integration sane and logical."

Coffey is director of the aviation school at Harlem airport which handles flight training for a junior college and an advanced Civil Aeronautics Administration program, in both of which Negroes and whites have participated without friction.

Willa B. Brown, secretary of the association, and coordinator for Chicago's CAA programs, held up the Civilian Pilot Training program as an example of a successful interracial project in aviation.

"There is no segregation in the CAA programs,' she said. "and there have been no race riots or violence because of this fact. I think the War department is attempting to inject the racial issue where none has existed in the past."

Describes CAA

She described the CAA and the national defense aviation classes at Wendell Phillips high school in Chicago where at least a third of each group is white. All instructors are Negroes she said, and there is no resentment on the part of the whites because of this.

"One of the first 10 youngsters to win flight scholarships under our non-college program early last year," she said, "was a white youth, Chester Krupa, who received his private pilot's license along with nine Negroes, one of them a girl.

"I don't see why this same spirit of interracial cooperation cannot be carried over into the army air corps."

As an afterthought she mentioned that one of the instructor's at Coffey's school, the largest private school controled by Negroes, is white.

The National Airmen's association was organized in Chicago in February 1939 and includes in its membership practically all Negro flyers from some of the earliest pioneers to CAA students. Most of the Negro CAA flight and group instructors are members. The organization does not bar white members, in fact the Chicago chapter has had several white members.

A 43-inch trophy, the coveted award of all Negro flyers, is the Dwight Green trophy presented the organization in 1939 by the present governor of Illinois.

Greensboro, N. C. Record
January 15, 1941

Negro Aviation Class Planned

Training Will Be Given To Dozen Young Men

Opportunity is knocking at the door of one dozen young unemployed negro men. That number is offered the golden chance of securing training as aircraft mechanics and helping meet a vital defense need of their country. The only drawback is that opportunity may have difficulty in finding the right doors on which to pound.

Preliminary plans for an aircraft mechanics class at A. and T. college to train unemployed negro men were made at a conference Tuesday night between C. C. Cooley, supervisor of national defense classes for the vocational education department of Greensboro city schools, and the regional director of negro national defense classes.

Class Is Limited.

Young negro men without previous mechanics training are preferred, according to Mr. Cooley. They must be as old as 18 years, and it is preferred that they be no older than 30. The class will be limited to 12 pupils. It will operate for three or four months, five nights a week for 20 or 30 hours a week. It will start as soon as the proper 12 can be enroled, and will be taught by a government licensed mechanic.

Applications may be made through Watts of the negro division of unemployment service.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE SELECTED TO TRAIN

FLYERS

JAN 25 1941

New Unit to Have 35 Officers and Grand Crew of 400.

JAN 25 1941

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.— One day after the Secretary of War and four major generals had been sued by a Howard University student for excluding him from the Army Air Corps "solely because of his race", the War Department on Thursday announced the formation of the first Army air corps squadron with an all-Negro personnel which will begin actual training in February.

Creation of the new unit, a pursuit squadron, is in keeping with a policy of including colored persons in every branch of the Army, Undersecretary of War Patterson said in making the announcement.

TUSKEGEE SITE CHOSEN

With many colored pilots now available, he disclosed it is proposed to give the flying instructions at Tuskegee Institute, Ala. When finaly organized, the pursuit squadron will have a normal complement of 33 pilots, 27 planes, and around 400 enlisted men constituting the ground force.

Pilots are to be selected from among the men who have completed the secondary course offered by the Civil Aeronautics Board, which is considered prerequisite to basic Army flight training. The enlisted men will be chosen from soldiers now in service and will receive their initial training at Chanute Field, Ill. After some months of training, they will be sent to Tuskegee, Mr. Patterson said.

It is estimated that the training of the new squadron will take from one year to a year and a half, the normal period before a unit of this kind is ready for active service.

The War Department has received numerous applications from colored men for service in the Air Corps as well as other branches, it was stated. There will be no actual limit on the number of applications for training in the unit, but it is anticipated that only a few of the large number of cadets called will be selected at the end of the training period.

Tuskegee Daily World

Air Unit Praised

JAN 29 1941

Colonel Robinson Says Trainees Have Opportunity

By DANIEL J. FAULKNER

CHICAGO—(ANP)—Col. John C Robinson, internationally famous aviator, former ace of the Ethiopian Air Force, who in 1936 was the only American aviator who had experience in modern "blitz" warfare, charged that the attack made upon the War Department for its plans to establish an all Negro air pursuit squadron at Tuskegee Institute was deliberate, unjustified and certainly did not reflect the opinion of the Negroes of this country as a whole.

As he addressed an overflow audience at the meeting of the Chicago Tuskegee Club, an organization boasting of over a thousand members, Sunday evening, the noted aviator explained that the army air unit will be a living monument to the courageous Negro aviators who have undergone hardships for many years and placed their lives on the altar of sacrifice time and again in their efforts to awaken the conscience of the military officials in Washington, D. C., of the qualifications of the Negro pilots.

The former instructor of the Curtis Wright Aeronautical university, whose daring exploits made in the face of tremendous odds during the Italian-Ethiopian conflict which made headline news abroad and in this country, charged that discrimination is not sufficient basis for the attack upon the war department. In support of his position, Robinson pointed out that the 184th Field Artillery, former 8th Regiment of Ill., the 369th Anti-aircraft unit of New York, the 9th, and 10th cavalries are all Negro units. These units have compiled records which defy criticism the Negroes of the nation are justly proud of these records which have commanded the respect of the race's most severe critics.

He exclaimed, "while I am opposed to segregation and discrimination not only in the defense forces, but in all other phases of American democracy, I sincerely believe that in this, the early stages of this training, an all Negro unit will enable the trainees to progress more rapidly, prove his ability, and establish himself in this service."

Like Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, Col Robinson feels that the establishment of this branch in the service is another signal victory in attaining full status in American democracy has been achieved.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

5 Hampton Students Leave For Tuskegee To Join Air Corps

FEB 1941

HAMPTON INSTITUTE, Va.—Five Hampton Institute students have been selected for advanced training as army air corps cadets for the recently announced Negro pursuit unit of the U.S. Army air corps, according to an announcement by John L. Frank, in charge of Civilian Pilot Training at Hampton.

Wiliam Ashley of Sumter, S. C. G. Richard Bolling of Hampton, Va., Ernest C. Henderson of Mountville, S. C., Walter J. Lawson of Newtown, Va., and C. Gordon Southall of Washington, D. C., are the students picked to be in the first Negro arm of the air corps.

Though they have all earned their private pilot's license, Hampton Institute has sent the five to Tuskegee for further training in military flying and examination by Army physicians. Tuskegee has been designated as the center of training for this new military arm of the service and it is expected that it will take eighteen months to adequately train the entire personnel to the point of efficiency demanded by the air corps.

Mr. Ashley was studying printing; Mr. Bolling, radio electricity; Mr. Henderson, business; Mr. Lawson, auto mechanics, and Mr. Southall, plumbing and heating, before leaving Hampton to answer their country's call for total defense.

Washington Tribune
Washington, D. C.

NEGRO AVIATION CORPS WILL BE FORMED IN FEB.

JAN 25 1941

Tuskegee May be Scene of Training For Pursuit Unit

One day after the Secretary of War and four major generals had been sued by a Howard University student for excluding him from the Army Air Corps "solely because of his race," the War Department on Thursday announced the formation of the first Army air corps squadron with an all-Negro personnel which will begin actual training in February.

Creation of the new unit, a pursuit squadron, is in keeping with a policy including colored persons in every branch of the Army, Undersecretary of War Patterson said in making the announcement.

433 Men Needed

With many colored pilots now available, he disclosed, it is proposed to give the flying instrucion at Tuskegee Institute, Ala. When finally organized, the pursuit squadron will have a normal complement of 33 pilots, 27 planes, and around 400 enlisted men constituting the ground force.

Pilots are to be selected from among men who have completed the secondary course offered by the Civil Aeronautics Board, which is considered prerequisite to basic Army flight training. The enlisted men will be chosen from soldiers now in service and will receive their initial training at Chanute Field, Ill. After some months of training, they will be sent to Tuskegee, Mr. Patterson said.

JAN 25 1941

Year's Training Needed

It is estimated that the training of the new squadron will take from one year to a year and a half, the normal period before a unit of this kind is ready for active service.

The War Department has received numerous applications from colored men for service in the Air Corps as well as other branches, it was stated. There will be no actual limit on the number of applications for training in the unit, but it is anticipated that only a few of the large number of cadets called will be selected at the end of the training period.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Another Air Training School For Tuskegee

FEB 22 1941

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 20—It was announced this week that another air training school would be established at Tuskegee Institute to serve as a feeder to the recently-established pursuit squadron at the Alabama school.

The new school will be a Civil Elementary Flying School with a capacity of sixty students. The training received in this basic school will fit the students to enter the pursuit squadron school immediately after graduation. Students will be admitted from all sections of the country and the school is scheduled to open July 15.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

TUSKEGEE FLYING CADETS TO PURSUIT SQUADRON

MAR 1 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Negro flying cadets will be selected from the civilian pilot training program conducted at Tuskegee Institute, beginning with the spring session, 1941. This training will parallel the elementary training of the Army Air Corps usually conducted at civilian pilot training schools having an Army contract.

Grove Webster, chief, private flying development division, Washington, D. C., spent several days in January at Tuskegee in connection with the 1941 spring program at Tuskegee. Two additional Waco trainers loaned by the Army Air Corps are already at the Tuskegee airport.

Graduates of the spring secondary will constitute the first candidates for the new pursuit squadron. Young men who have received S2 rating in flight and ground as a result of their work in the advanced courses completed at Tuskegee in September, 1940 and January, 1941, will also be eligible as candidates for the pursuit squadron.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Perfect Jump Made By Aviator

MAR 8 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Over 2,00 spectators saw student aviator Alexander S. Anderson, Sherill, Ark., bail out of his plane and catapult 4,500 feet through space in a technically perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

The jump was made from a plane piloted by Senior Flight Instructor C. Alfred Anderson of Tuskegee Institute. The student is enrolled in the Tuskegee Civil Aeronautics Civil Pilot Training program.

MAR 8 1941

Alexander Anderson is the recent possessor of a CAA license. He is a former Tuskegee student leader, having been president of his sophomore class and at present is a junior in the school of mechanical industries, majoring in industrial arts.

His primary and secondary flgiht courses have been completed and he now has plans to enter the apprentice instructors' course. In the primary course, the young student scored one of the highest grades reported in the CAA program. His 100 and 92 on civil air regulations and meteorology, respectively, were achievements of first quality.

18y-1941

AVIATION SCHOOL

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Receiving Army Consideration As Air Training Site

JAN 12 1941

BY CARROLL KILPATRICK
Special Washington Correspondent for The News-Age-Herald

WASHINGTON—Tuskegee is being given serious consideration by high officials of the U. S. Army Air Corps as the site for an aviation training school for Negroes, the first of its kind the army has ever contemplated, it was learned reliably here Saturday.

Several other sites also are being considered, but Senator Lister Hill and Representative Henry B. Steagall, of the Third District, both of whom have been active on behalf of Tuskegee, expressed confidence Saturday they would be successful in their efforts.

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, was in conference with Senator Hill on the subject last week. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, was in Washington last week to explore the matter with army officials.

The civilian training program, which operates under the Civil Aeronautics Administration, already has a school at Tuskegee for training Negro aviators and Negro aviation mechanics. The air corps is expected to operate its proposed school in connection with the CTP if Tuskegee is chosen as the site.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
January 21, 1941

Washington Footnotes

BY CARROLL KILPATRICK
Washington Bureau, The Birmingham Age-Herald-News

The problems of the Washington correspondent are varied and dangerous. Hollywood has overdone the dangers encountered by a police reporter, but never the dangers to a Washington reporter who has any dealings with the War Department. Or perhaps I should say the esteemed New Yorker has never had a really gripping profile of a newspaper sleuth trying to find out the time of day in the War Department.

At the mention of the War Department, Washington reporters begin talking under their breath. The State Department and the treasury are open books compared to the War Department.

In the awarding of defense contracts, the War Department has the final say. Reporters have to keep a close watch to find out what is happening. And every time you ask a question you are suspected of being a Nazi spy. It's a wonder the G-men don't have us all locked up in a barrel.

Recently I learned that Tuskegee was being considered as a site for a training school for Negro pursuit pilots. I wished to know, before writing the story, whether there were any other schools in the army for Negro pilots. I thought that this would be one question the War Department would know in a hurry.

I telephoned the press relations section. No, they didn't know. But a certain lieutenant would know. He was sorry and transferred me to a colonel, who sent me to another colonel, who put me in touch with a captain, and finally I was told to call Maj. So-and-So. I asked Maj. So-and-So whether there were any Negro pilot training schools.

I am sure that if I had announced I was a Nazi agent I could have caused no more concern and agony for Maj. So-and-So. He had no idea about such things, he could not give out such information if he had it, and, furthermore, he had never heard of me and wondered how I had ever heard of him. I explained that he just happened to be the only man in the War Department except the secretary of war and the chief of staff that I hadn't talked to and that I had been referred to him by one of his fellow officers.

The poor fellow finally recovered his composure enough to hang up the telephone. I don't believe I have been investigated by the G-men yet, but it was a close call.

I had talked to exactly 13 people in the War Department.

Then I realized the Civil Aeronautics Authority might know the answer to my question, even though the CAA has nothing to do with army aviation. The CAA did know the answer and gave it to me immediately. So far as I know the pillars of democracy have not been undermined by my publishing the fact that so far there are no army air corps training schools for Negroes in the United States.

* * *

At a press conference a few weeks ago President Roosevelt denied categorically that a sales tax would be resorted to by the federal government as a means to raise money. Mr. Roosevelt didn't seem to like the question when it was put to him, and contented himself with a simple no. He did not elaborate.

It is probable the president knew even then that economists within the administration have been thinking of the sales tax as an instrument to stop inflation. It need never be doubted that this administration is fully aware of the dangers of inflation. It knows that a deflation helped oust the Republicans in 1930 and 1932, and it knows that an inflation would be fatal to the Democrats at the next election.

At more than one press conference Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has discussed the danger of inflation, and on at least two occasions has said with emphasis that the danger was real but that it could be avoided as long as Franklin D. Roosevelt is in office and clothed with the powers over money he now has.

A couple of weeks ago a well known economist who is engaged in a study for the president on post-war economic possibilities told me he thought a sales tax might be necessary to prevent inflation. It is not an imminent need, he explained, but it may be needed before too many months have passed.

Last week Secretary Morgenthau talked at some length at his press conference about the problems of inflation. He praised Leon Henderson, who is charged with keeping prices from becoming inflated. In lumber, wool and scrap iron there have been sharp price rises, and Secretary Morgenthau said he could see no good reason for the rises.

When he was asked whether the administration would resort to a sales tax as a means of limiting the demand for goods and thus serving as a check on prices, the secretary said he would not hesitate to urge it if necessary.

He emphasized that every officer of the treasury and the Federal Reserve System should constantly be on guard against price rises and stop them before they got out of hand.

* * *

The reason for the rise of prices in lumber is easily explained. When the War Department realized it would have to buy very large supplies of lumber it made inquiries throughout the country. Lumber men compared notes, and added together the number of inquiries. They thought the War Department would need the total of the amounts discussed, when as a matter of fact the single inquiries were a good reflection of the amount the army needed.

Then, on top of this, the army placed orders for all the lumber it would need over a period of four or five months. This made the lumber dealers think in colossal terms, and prices began going up.

When the War Department realized its error, it quickly began explaining its inquiries more carefully and placing orders at regular intervals instead of all at once.

This course has been offered citizens of the Central and South American countries in an effort to stimulate goodwill between the United States and the Latin Americas.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Negro Among Foreigners Getting Air Training

FEB 15 1941

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(By ANP) — Among the 35 young men of Central and South American nationalities, now studying in the United States at colleges participating in the civilian pilot training program, Albert Pierre Coureau, a native of Haiti, now studying at Tuskegee institute training center, will be given an opportunity to qualify for private pilts' certificates under the CAA preliminary flight training course, it was announced here last week.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

Negro Among 35 Foreign In Air School

FEB 15 1941

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(ANP)—Among the 35 young men of Central and South American nationalities now studying in the United States at colleges participating in the civilian pilot training program, Albert Pierre Coureau a native of Haiti now studying at Tuskegee Institute training center will be given an opportunity to qualify for private pilots' certificates under the CAA preliminary flight training course it was announced here last week

Upon concluding the preliminary course of 72 ground school hours and 35-40 hours of flying on light airplanes the young man has a chance of continuing in the secondary course which involves 125 hours of additional ground school and 45 hours additional flight work on aircraft approximating the type used for primary military training.

Birmingham, Ala. Age-Herald
February 28, 1941

TUSKEGEE PILOT TRAINING IS HIGH

Negro School Near Top With Four Classes In Flying Taught

Tuskegee Negro student pilots are near the top in the Civilian Pilot Training Program in the South, with four air training classes being taught this semester on the campus, a recent report indicates.

Under the Private Flying Development Division of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, Tuskegee is now offering a private, or elementary flying course, a secondary (restricted commercial) course, a course for the training of student instructors and a secondary instructor "refresher" course.

Inaugurating its air training classes in October, 1939, Tuskegee trained 21 pilots during that school term. Every member of the class passed, and the course average was 88, which established a C. P. T. record unsurpassed by any other school, either Negro or white, in seven Southern states.

Beginning in July, 1940, advanced training of the nation's Negro student pilots was centered at Tuskegee Institute, at which time the school purchased a Waco 225-horsepower biplane for advanced training.

A drive is now in progress among Tuskegee alumni to raise funds for the construction of an airport on the institute's property, to make possible the training of non-flying cadet mechanics and technicians. At present, the school is using the Tuskegee Airport, leased for training purposes, with the Alabama Polytechnic Institute's field serving as an auxiliary airport.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Tuskegeean Makes Perfect 'Chute Jump

MAR 14 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE.—Over 2,000 spectators saw student aviator Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Ark., bail out of his plane and catapult 4,500 feet through space in a technically perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

The jump was made from a plane piloted by senior flight instructor C. Alfred Anderson of Tuskegee institute. The student is enrolled in the Tuskegee Civil Aeronautics Civilian Pilot training program.

Anderson is the recent possessor of a Civil Aeronautics Authority license and will be able to jump every Sunday between the hours of 1 and 4 p. m. for six months.

He is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class and at present is a junior in the school of mechanical industries, majoring in industrial arts.

His primary and secondary flight courses have been completed and he now has plans to enter the apprentice instructors' course. In the primary course the young student scored one of the highest grades reported in the CAA program. His 100 and 92 on Civil Air Regulations and Meterology, respectively, were achievements of first quality.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Student Aviator Starts Sunday Parachute Jumps

MAR 4 5 1941

TUSKEGEE, — (ANP) — Over 2,000 spectators saw student aviator Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Ark., bail out of his plane and catapult 4,500 feet through space in a technically perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

The jump was made from a plane piloted by senior flight instructor C. Alfred Anderson of Tuskegee institute. The student is enrolled in the Tuskegee Civil Aeronautics Civilian Pilot Training program.

MAR 15 1941

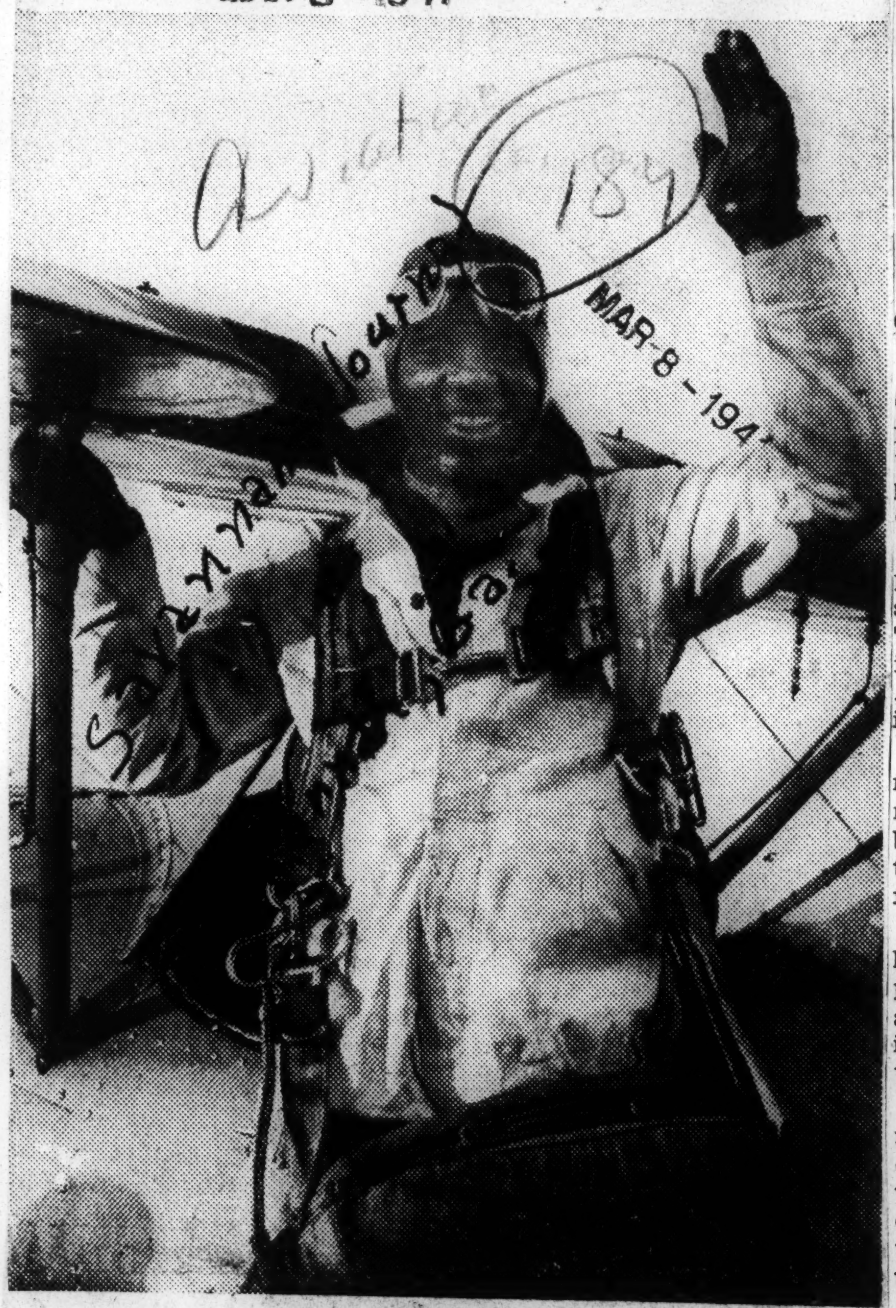
Alexander S. Anderson is the recent possessor of a CAA license and will be able to jump every Sunday between the hours of 1 and 4 p. m. for six months.

He is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class and at present is a junior in the school of mechanical industries, majoring in Industrial Arts.

His primary and secondary flight courses have been completed and he now plans to enter the apprentice instructors' course. In the primary course the young student scored one of the highest grades reported in the CAA program. His 100 and 92 on civil air regulations and meteorology, respectively, were achievements of first quality.

His Leap Thrills 2,000

MAR 8 - 1941 MAR 8 - 1941



TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Alabama—Over 2,000 spectators saw student aviator Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Arkansas, bail out of his plane and catapult 4,500 feet through space in a technically perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

MAR 8 - 1941

Anderson is the recent possessor of a Civil Aeronautics Authority license and is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class. At present he is a junior in the School of Mechanical Industries, majoring in Industrial Arts.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Student Aviator At Tuskegee Bails Out Of Plane With Chute

MAR 2 2 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Over 2,000 spectators saw student aviator Alexander S. Anderson, Sherrill, Arkansas, bail out of his plane and catapult 4,500 feet through space in a technically perfect parachute jump here Sunday afternoon.

The jump was made from a plane piloted by senior flight instructor C. Alfred Anderson of Tuskegee Institute. The student is enrolled in the Tuskegee Civil Aeronautics Civilian Pilot Training program.

MAR 2 2 1941

Alexander S. Anderson is the recent possessor of a Civil Aeronautics Authority license and will be able to jump every Sunday between the hours of 1 and 4 p.m. for six months.

He is a former student leader, having been president of his sophomore class and at present is a junior in the School of Mechanical Industries, majoring in Industrial Arts.

MAR 2 2 1941

His primary and secondary flight courses have been completed and he now has plans to enter the apprentice instructors' course. In the primary course the young student scored one of the highest grades reported in the CAA program. His 100 and 92 on Civil Air Regulations and Meterology, respectively, were achievements of first quality.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Cannot Fill Job Demand, Dr. Patterson Says Of New Course

Commercial Dietetics Seen As Successful

MAR 9 1941

NEW YORK—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said this week that the field of Commercial Dietetics not only promises splendid job opportunities to colored youth but is today demanding far more young men and women than Tuskegee is able to supply with its present enrollment. With only 140 enrolled in the course in Commercial Dietetics there are facilities for training at least 500 and placing them.

MAR 9 1941

Dr. Patterson was in New York this week after attending the winter session of the American Teachers Association at Atlantic City. Interviewed at the Hotel Theresa where he is stopping, he directed his remarks to the success of the course in Commercial Dietetics which was begun at Tuskegee a little over four years ago.

The course, President Patterson says, was organized with suggestions and assistance from the Alabama Hotel Association; and was soon thereafter endorsed by the American Hotel Association. There are three unusually interesting features about the course, one learned as Dr. Patterson discussed it. These are: the interne plan, with pay of at least $15 a week and board (internes have made as much as $180 a month with board during the summer season); the cooperative arrangement with employers which Tuskegee maintains; and the virtual financial independence of students taking the course.

MAR 9 1941

Four years are required to complete the course. So far only high school graduates have been admitted to the course. The student spends three months in the class room, and three months on the job, over a period of twelve months. At present there are young people either permanently employed or holding interneships in eighteen states. There are eight men employed in the dining service of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway. Graduates or internes are now in the service of numerous restaurants

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Tuskegee Dietetics Students To Hear Waldorf-Astoria Chef

MAY 24 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, — (ANP)—Michael Tondow, assistant to the chef, Hotel Waldorf-Astoria will be guest-chef for the summer semester of the commercial dietetics course, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, announced last week.

After completing the Waldorf-Astoria course of study in food preparation, Mr. Tondow was appointed chef assistant, the position which he now holds. In addition, he has done special work in nutrition and dietetics at Columbia University.

Lucius Boomer, president of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, says that Mr. Tondow "is Capable, well trained, and I belive, will make his classes thoroughly interesting, as well as practically worthwhile."

MAY 24 1941

The selection of Mr. Tondow as special instructor for the summer course came as a result of a conference between Robert A. Spicely, head of the Tuskegee Commercial Dietetics school, now on leave for advance study in hotel training at Cornell and W. I. Hamilton, personnel director of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. Mr. Tondow will begin his work at Tuskegee on June 5.

Beginning five years ago as an experiment planned in cooperation with the Alabama Hotel association, the American Hotel association, W. I. Hamilton of the Waldorf-Astoria and other leaders in the food field, the Tuskegee Commercial Dietetics course now has 144 students enrolled and all graduates to date employed.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Noted Chef To Teach At Tuskegee

JUN 1 1941

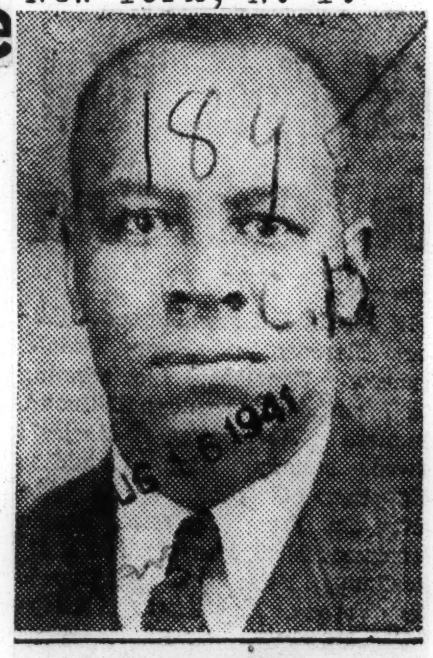
At the request of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, Michael Tondow, menu classifier and office assistant to Gabriel Lugot, executive chef of the Waldorf-Astoria, will conduct cooking classes in the ten-week Summer course for advanced students at the Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., beginning June 4.

Tondow has worked under the personal supervision of Gabriel Lugot for the past five and one-half years, acquiring the necessary training and background for his planned career of a hotel chef.

He came to the Waldorf in October, 1935, as an apprentice in the first class to take the course in culinary art conducted by the hotel. After graduation he was assigned to a permanent job in the kitchen and worked for two years on the ranges and in the various kitchen stations. He has been in his present post for one year.

At Tuskegee this Summer he will conduct courses in "Advanced Quantity Food Preparation and Catering" which includes buying and storing; economy of preparation; casserole cooking; international cooking; a-la-carte service; wines and spirits merchandising; food control; cafeteria quantity cooking, and "Menu Making and Special Hotel Cooking and Catering" including cooking styles and variations; menu composition and planning; butchering of meats, game and seafood; cold meats; salads and salad dressings; desserts, and kitchen management.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.



R. A. SPICELY

R. A. Spicely Back At Tusksgee; Won $500 Travel Scholarship

AUG 9 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—R. A. Spicely, head of the Commercial Dietetics Department at Tuskegee Institute, has returned to the campus after an absence of several months. Mr. Spicely was awarded a $500 travel scholarship by the American Hotel Association and since last September has visited the leading hotel and restaurants observing methods of management, food preparation and service.

Speaking of the trip, which he stated was both educational and informing, Mr. Spicely said he was very cordially received in the various hotels and restaurants which he visted throughout the country and that every facility was placed at his dispjosal in order that he might obtain the information which he sought.

AUG 9 1941

Mr. Spicely spent considerable time observing personal management, culinary techniques and the finest of European cuisine at the Waldorf-Astoria, Hotel Pennsylvania, the Savarin Restaurants and the New Yorker Hotel. He regards these experiences as very valuable and said many features in operation and management, preparations of foods and personal services will be put in the course here thus giving the students in the department the latest and most improved methods in this field which is becoming increasingly a more important one.

"More and more," Mr. Spicely said, "the general public is becoming better informed about the aims and purpose of our program of public service and institutions are constantly turning to Tuskegee for trained workers in this field of employment.

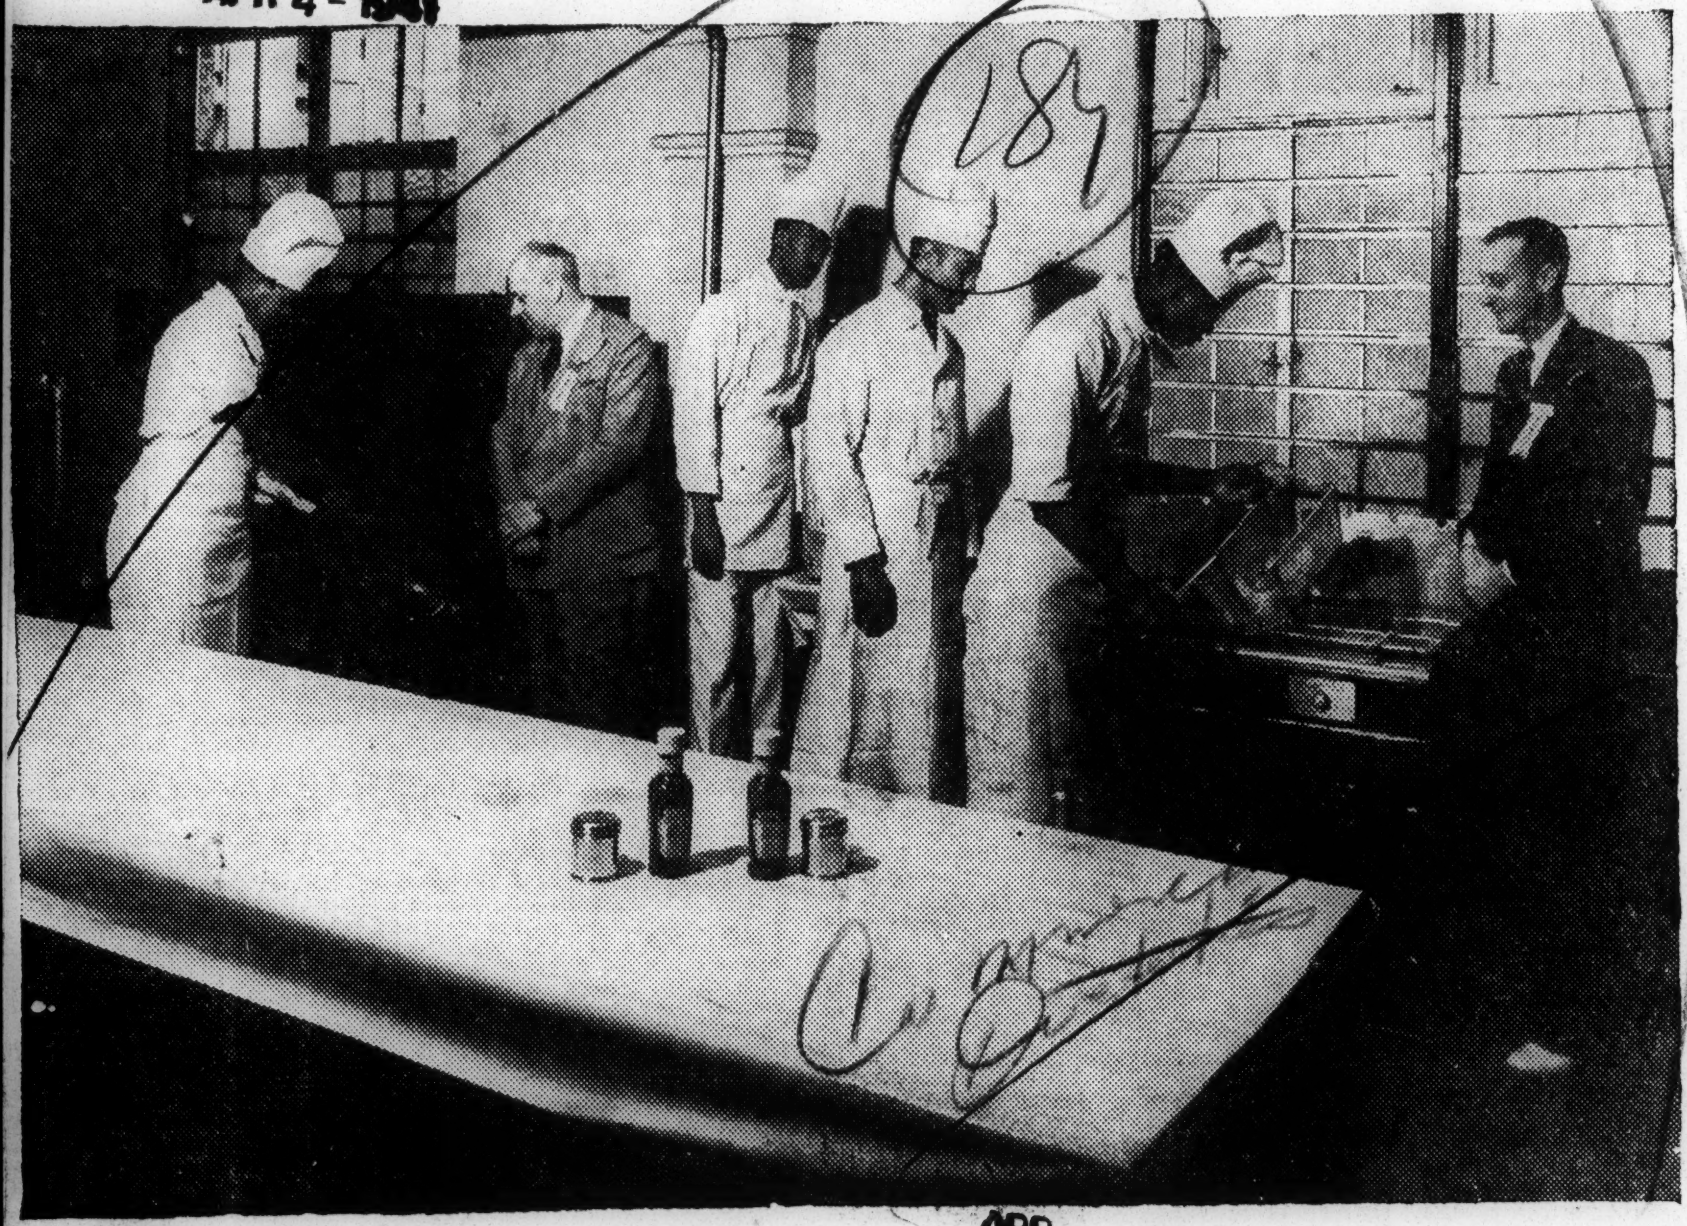
Mr. Spicely cited the emergency request received this week from Lieut. O'Brian, Fort Benning, Ga., one of the largest army training posts in America, for four men for services in the officers' mess, to replace four workers sent to the Post in the late Spring, as one of the many calls that he has had for trained food specialists since his return to the Institute. "We were able to send two men, Leroy Wilcoxson and Charles Dingus, and I am informed that they are highly regarded at the post and that they are giving satisfactory service," Spicely said.

Prior to his assignment at Fort Benning, Lieut. O'Brian was in charge of food purchases for the New York Public School system, serving 90,000 meals a day. Lieut. O'Brian stated that when he made an effort to staff the officers' mess with competent men, he was told that Tuskegee Institute was the only institution in the South where a qualified food service personnel might be obtained.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Tuskegee-Trained Chefs Demonstrate for Restaurant Association

APR 4 - 1941



APR 4 - 1941

During the recent regional conference of restaurant owners held in Miami, Fla., three Tuskegee students in commercial dietetics with E. W. Ramsey, acting director of the department, conducted demonstrations. Left to right: Robert Johnson, J. C. Pittman, maker of the Pitco Frialator which was used in the deep-fat frying demonstration, Paul Keller, E. W. Ramsey, Oscar Howard and Thomas Offutt of the Washington, D. C., Gas company who is an expert in gas cooking appliances.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

TUSKEGEE STUDENTS SHOW DIETETICS SKILL IN MIAMI

APR 4 - 1941

MIAMI, March 27.—(ANP)—Three students from the Tuskegee School of Commercial Dietetics were featured here this week during the three days session of the Southern Regional Restaurant convention and exposition. Under the leadership of E. W. Ramsey, acting director of the Tuskegee school, these students assisted with food demonstrations and their work was highly praised by the managers of the several booths with whom they served.

Thomas Offutt of the Washington Gas Light company had charge of the cooking demonstrations with gas ranges and appliances. The Tuskegee boys were assigned to this section and demonstrated baking, roasting, broiling and deep fat frying.

APR 4 - 1941

On Tuesday they assisted Miss Margaret Canavan of Standard Brands, Inc., New York, who demonstrated salads and desserts and Wednesday afternoon they were assigned to help Mrs. Earnestine Grigsby of the Surplus Marketing Administration, Washington, who discussed school lunches.

The Tuskegee students were Robert Johnston, Paul Keller and Oscar Howard, C. G. Campfield representing Service Magazine, also accompanied the Tuskegee group.

Negroes Apply Education During Summer Months

Students From Tuskegee Employed At Mammoth Cave

MAMMOTH CAVE, Ky., Sept. 4.—Nine students of Tuskegee Institute, famed Negro education center, make practical application of their college courses during summer employment in the hotel at Mammoth Cave National Park. Four of them are students of commercial dietetics, and they constitute the major part of the chef's staff. The five others, students in various branches, supplement the kitchen employees as waiters, bussboys, and dishwashers.

William Stokes "Fibber" McGee of Tuscaloosa, Ala., is the hotel chef. Vernon Dazier, Beaumont, Texas, a 1940 Tuskegee graduate in education, is cook; and Thomas Payne, Miami, is second cook. Pantrymen are Jesse White and William Slaughter, both of Bessemer, Ala. The four undergraduates will all be juniors this fall in the professional dietetics course of study.

The remainder of the Tuskegee group complementing the kitchen staff include Lonnie Fyles, Houston, Texas, a junior in education; Charles Scott, Selma, Ala., senior in agricultural education; Leon Roberts, Mobile, Ala., senior in education; and Otis D. Goodwin, El Dorado, Ark., senior in agriculture. Six of the boys are serving their second seasond at Mammoth Cave while Payne, Scott and Goodwin are completing their first summer.

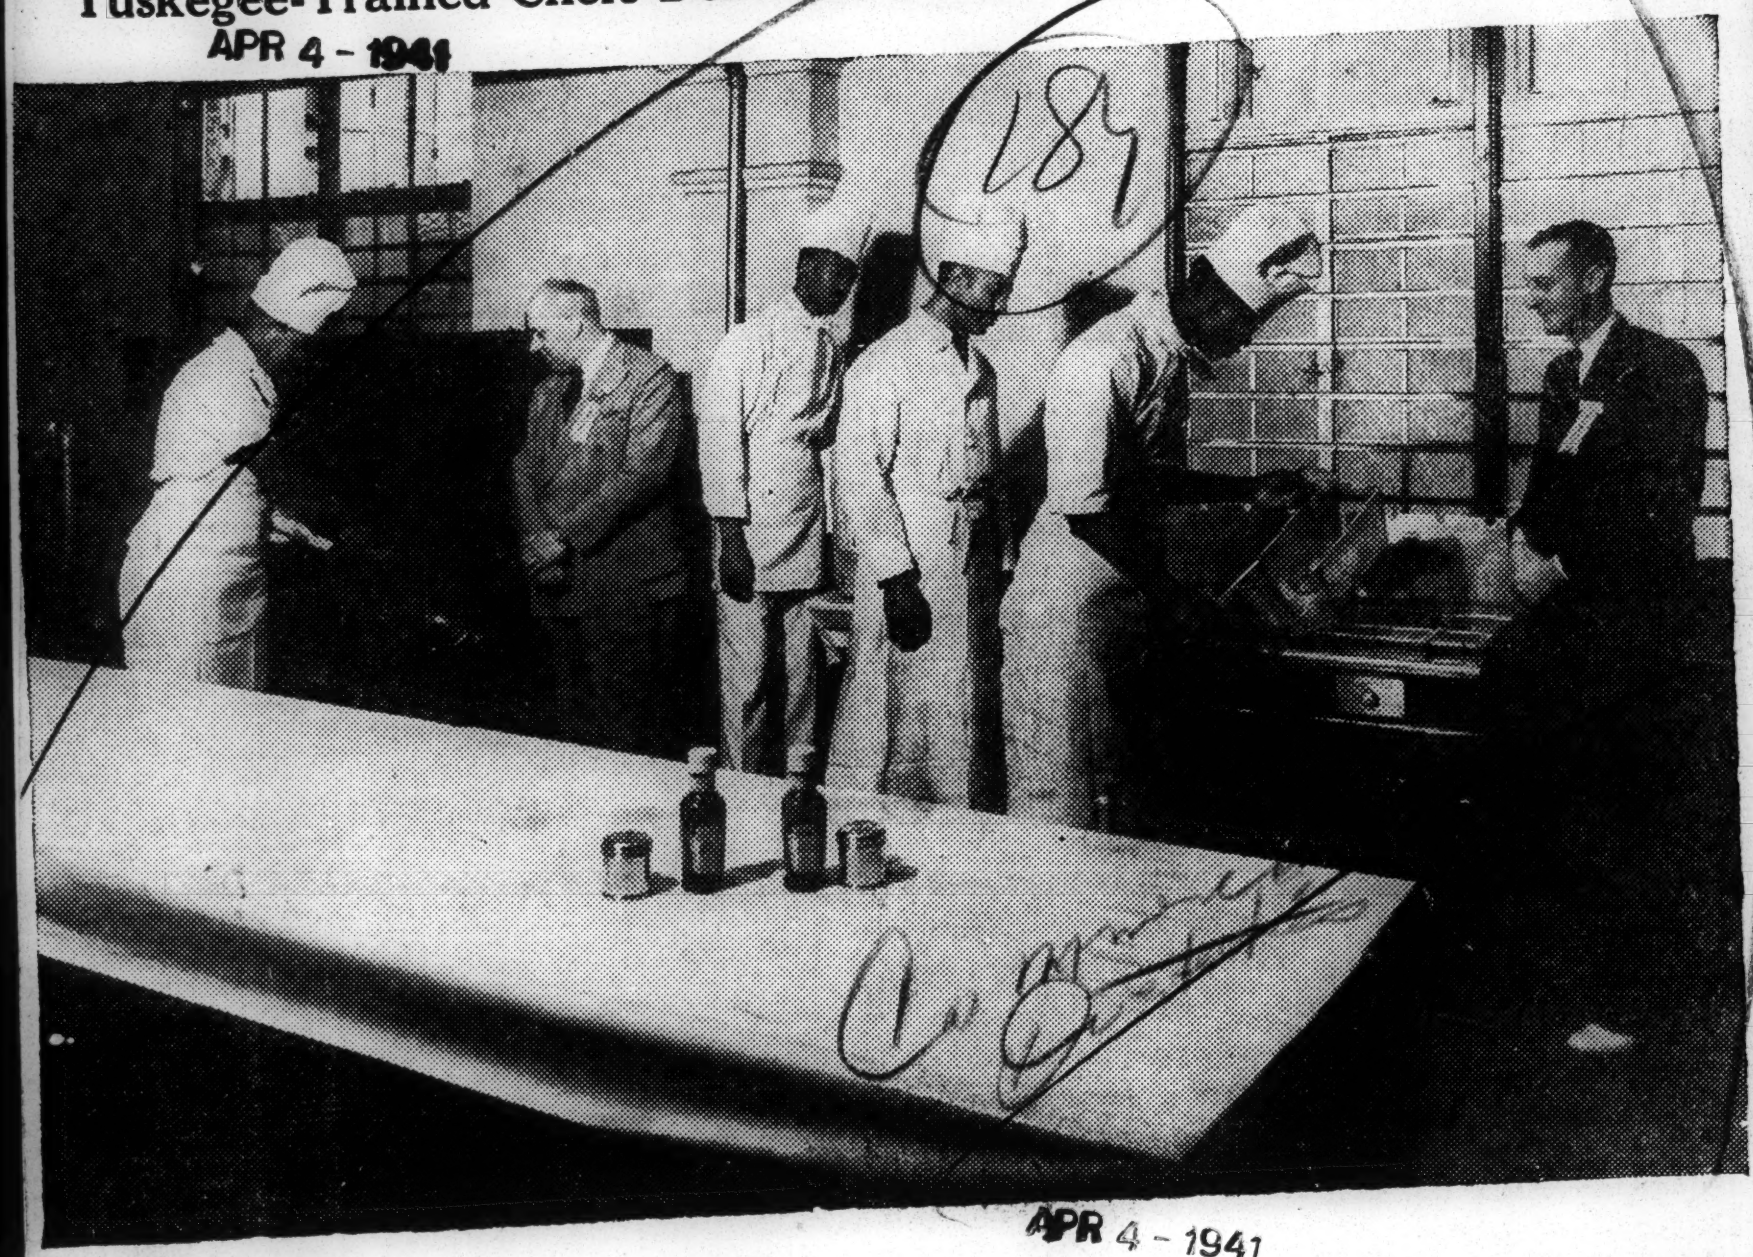
All the men are members of the R. O. T. C. unit at Tuskegee. Roberts has passed examinations for admission as a cadet in the 99th Pursuit Squadron, new colored unit being organized by the Army Air Corps.

SEP 5 - 1941

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

APR 4 - 1941

Tuskegee-Trained Chefs Demonstrate for Restaurant Association



APR 4 - 1941

APR 4 - 1941

During the recent regional conference of restaurant owners held in Miami, Fla., three Tuskegee students in commercial dietetics with E. W. Ramsey, acting director of the department, conducted demonstrations. Left to right: Robert Johnson, J. C. Pittman, maker of the Pitco Frialator which was used in the deep-fat frying demonstration, Paul Keller, E. W. Ramsey, Oscar Howard and Thomas Offutt of the Washington, D. C., Gas company who is an expert in gas cooking appliances.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

TUSKEGEE STUDENTS SHOW DIETETICS SKILL IN MIAMI

APR 4 - 1941

MIAMI, March 27.—(ANP)—Three students from the Tuskegee School of Commercial Dietetics were featured here this week during the three days session of the Southern Regional Restaurant convention and exposition. Under the leadership of E. W. Ramsey, acting director of the Tuskegee school, these students assisted with food demonstrations and their work was highly praised by the managers of the several booths with whom they served.

Thomas Offutt of the Washington Gas Light company had charge of the cooking demonstrations with gas ranges and appliances. The Tuskegee boys were assigned to this section and demonstrated baking, roasting, broiling and deep fat frying.

APR 4 - 1941

On Tuesday they assisted Miss Margaret Canavan of Standard Brands, Inc., New York, who demonstrated salads and desserts and Wednesday afternoon they were assigned to help Mrs. Earnestine Grigsby of the Surplus Marketing Administration, Washington, who discussed school lunches.

The Tuskegee students were Robert Johnston, Paul Keller and Oscar Howard, C. G. Campfield representing Service Magazine, also accompanied the Tuskegee group.

Negroes Apply Education During Summer Months

Students From Tuskegee Employed At Mammoth Cave

MAMMOTH CAVE, Ky., Sept. 4.—Nine students of Tuskegee Institute, famed Negro education center, make practical application of their college courses during summer employment in the hotel at Mammoth Cave National Park. Four of them are students of commercial dietetics, and they constitute the major part of the chef's staff. The five others, students in various branches, supplement the kitchen employees as waiters, busboys and dishwashers.

William Stokes "Fibber" McGee of Tuscaloosa, Ala., is the hotel's chef. Vernon Dazzler, Beaumont, Texas, a 1940 Tuskegee graduate in education, is cook; and Thomas Payne, Miami, is second cook. Pantrymen are Jesse White and William Slaughter, both of Bessemer, Ala. The four undergraduates will all be juniors this fall in the professional dietetics course of study.

The remainder of the Tuskegee group complementing the kitchen staff include Lonnie Fyles, Houston, Texas, a junior in education; Charles Scott, Selma, Ala., senior in agricultural education; Leon Roberts, Mobile, Ala., senior in education; and Otis D. Goodwin, El Dorado, Ark., senior in agriculture. Six of the boys are serving their second seasond at Mammoth Cave while Payne, Scott and Goodwin are completing their first summer.

All the men are members of the R.O.T.C. unit at Tuskegee. The 99th Pursuit Squadron, new colored unit being organized by the Army Air Corps, has passed examinations for admission as a cadet in the Army Air Corps.

SEP 4 - 1941

Louisville Courier-Journal
Louisville, Ky.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Cannot Fill Job Demand, Dr. Patterson Says Of New Course

Commercial Dietetics Seen As Successful

MAR 9 1941

NEW YORK--Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said this week that the field of Commercial Dietetics not only promises splendid job opportunities to colored youth but is today demanding far more young men and women than Tuskegee is able to supply with its present enrollment. With only 140 enrolled in the course in Commercial Dietetics, there are facilities for training at least 500 and placing them.

MAR 9 1941

Dr. Patterson was in New York this week after attending the winter session of the American Teachers Association at Atlantic City. Interviewed at the Hotel Theresa where he is stopping, he directed his remarks to the success of the course in Commercial Dietetics which was begun at Tuskegee a little over four years ago.

The course, President Patterson says, was organized with suggestions and assistance from the Alabama Hotel Association; and was soon thereafter endorsed by the American Hotel Association. There are three unusually interesting features about the course, one learned as Dr. Patterson discussed it. These are: the interne plan, with pay of at least $15 a week and board (internes have made as much as $180 a month with board during the summer season); the cooperative arrangement with employers which Tuskegee maintains; and the virtual financial independence of students taking the course.

MAR 9 1941

Four years are required to complete the course. So far only high school graduates have been admitted to the course. The student spends three months in the class room, and three months on the job, over a period of twelve months. At present there are young people either permanently employed or holding internships in eighteen states. There are eight men employed in the dining service of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway. Graduates or internes are now in the service of numerous restaurants

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Tuskegee Dietetics Students To Hear Waldorf-Astoria Chef

MAY 24 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, — (ANP)—Michael Tondow, assistant to the chef, Hotel Waldorf-Astoria will be guest-chef for the summer semester of the commercial dietetics course, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, announced last week.

After completing the Waldorf-Astoria course of study in food preparation, Mr. Tondow was appointed chef assistant, the position which he now holds. In addition, he has done special work in nutrition and dietetics at Columbia University.

Lucius Boomer, president of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, says that Mr. Tondow "is Capable, well trained, and I belive, will make his classes thoroughly interesting, as well as practically worthwhile."

MAY 24 1941

The selection of Mr. Tondow as special instructor for the summer course came as a result of a conference between Robert A. Spicely, head of the Tuskegee Commercial Dietetics school, now on leave for advance study in hotel training at Cornell and W. I. Hamilton, personnel director of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. Mr. Tondow will begin his work at Tuskegee on June 5.

Beginning five years ago as an experiment planned in cooperation with the Alabama Hotel association, the American Hotel association, the Waldorf-Astoria and other leaders in the food field, the Tuskegee Commercial Dietetics course now has 144 students enrolled and all graduates to date employed.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Noted Chef To Teach At Tuskegee

JUN 1941

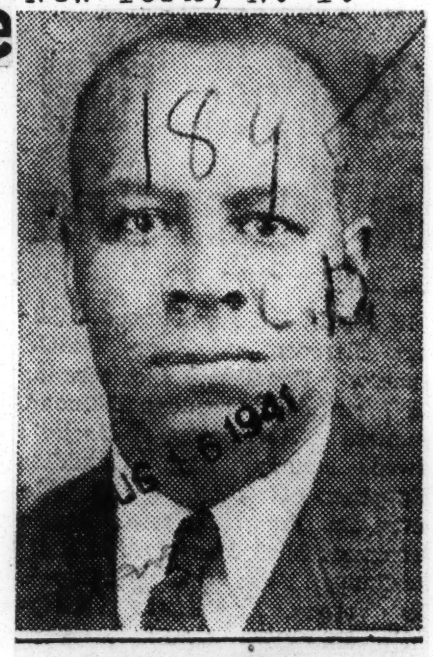
At the request of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, Michael Tondow, menu classifier and office assistant to Gabriel Lugot, executive chef of the Waldorf-Astoria, will conduct cooking classes in the ten-week Summer course for advanced students at the Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., beginning June 4.

Tondow has worked under the personal supervision of Gabriel Lugot for the past five and one-half years, acquiring the necessary training and background for his planned career of a hotel chef.

He came to the Waldorf in October, 1935, as an apprentice in the first class to take the course in culinary art conducted by the hotel. After graduation he was assigned to a permanent job in the kitchen and worked for two years on the ranges and in the various kitchen stations. He has been in his present post for one year.

At Tuskegee this Summer he will conduct courses in "Advanced Quantity Food Preparation and Catering" which includes buying and storing; economy of preparation; casserole cooking; international cooking; a-la-carte service; wines and spirits merchandising; food control; cafeteria quantity cooking; and "Menu Making and Special Hotel Cooking and Catering" including cooking styles and variations; menu composition and planning; butchering of meats, game and seafood; cold meats; salads and salad dressings; desserts, and kitchen management.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.



R. A. SPICELY

R. A. Spicely Back At Tusksgee; Won $500 Travel Scholarship

AUG 9 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—R. A. Spicely, head of the Commercial Dietetics Department at Tuskegee Institute, has returned to the campus after an absence of several months. Mr. Spicely was awarded a $500 travel scholarship by the American Hotel Association and since last September has visited the leading hotel and restaurants observing methods of management, food preparation and service.

Speaking of the trip, which he stated was both educational and informing, Mr. Spicely said he was very cordially received in the various hotels and restaurants which he visted throughout the country and that every facility was placed at his dispjosal in order that he might obtain the information which he sought.

AUG 8 1941

Mr. Spicely spent considerable time observing personal management, culinary techniques and the finest of European cuisine at the Waldorf-Astoria, Hotel Pennsylvania, the Savarin Restaurants and the New Yorker Hotel. He regards these experiences as very valuable and said many features in operation and management, preparations of foods and personal services will be put in the course here thus giving the students in the department the latest and most improved methods in this field which is becoming increasingly a more important one.

"More and more," Mr. Spicely said, "the general public is becoming better informed about the aims and purpose of our program of public service and institutions are constantly turning to Tuskegee for trained workers in this field of employment.

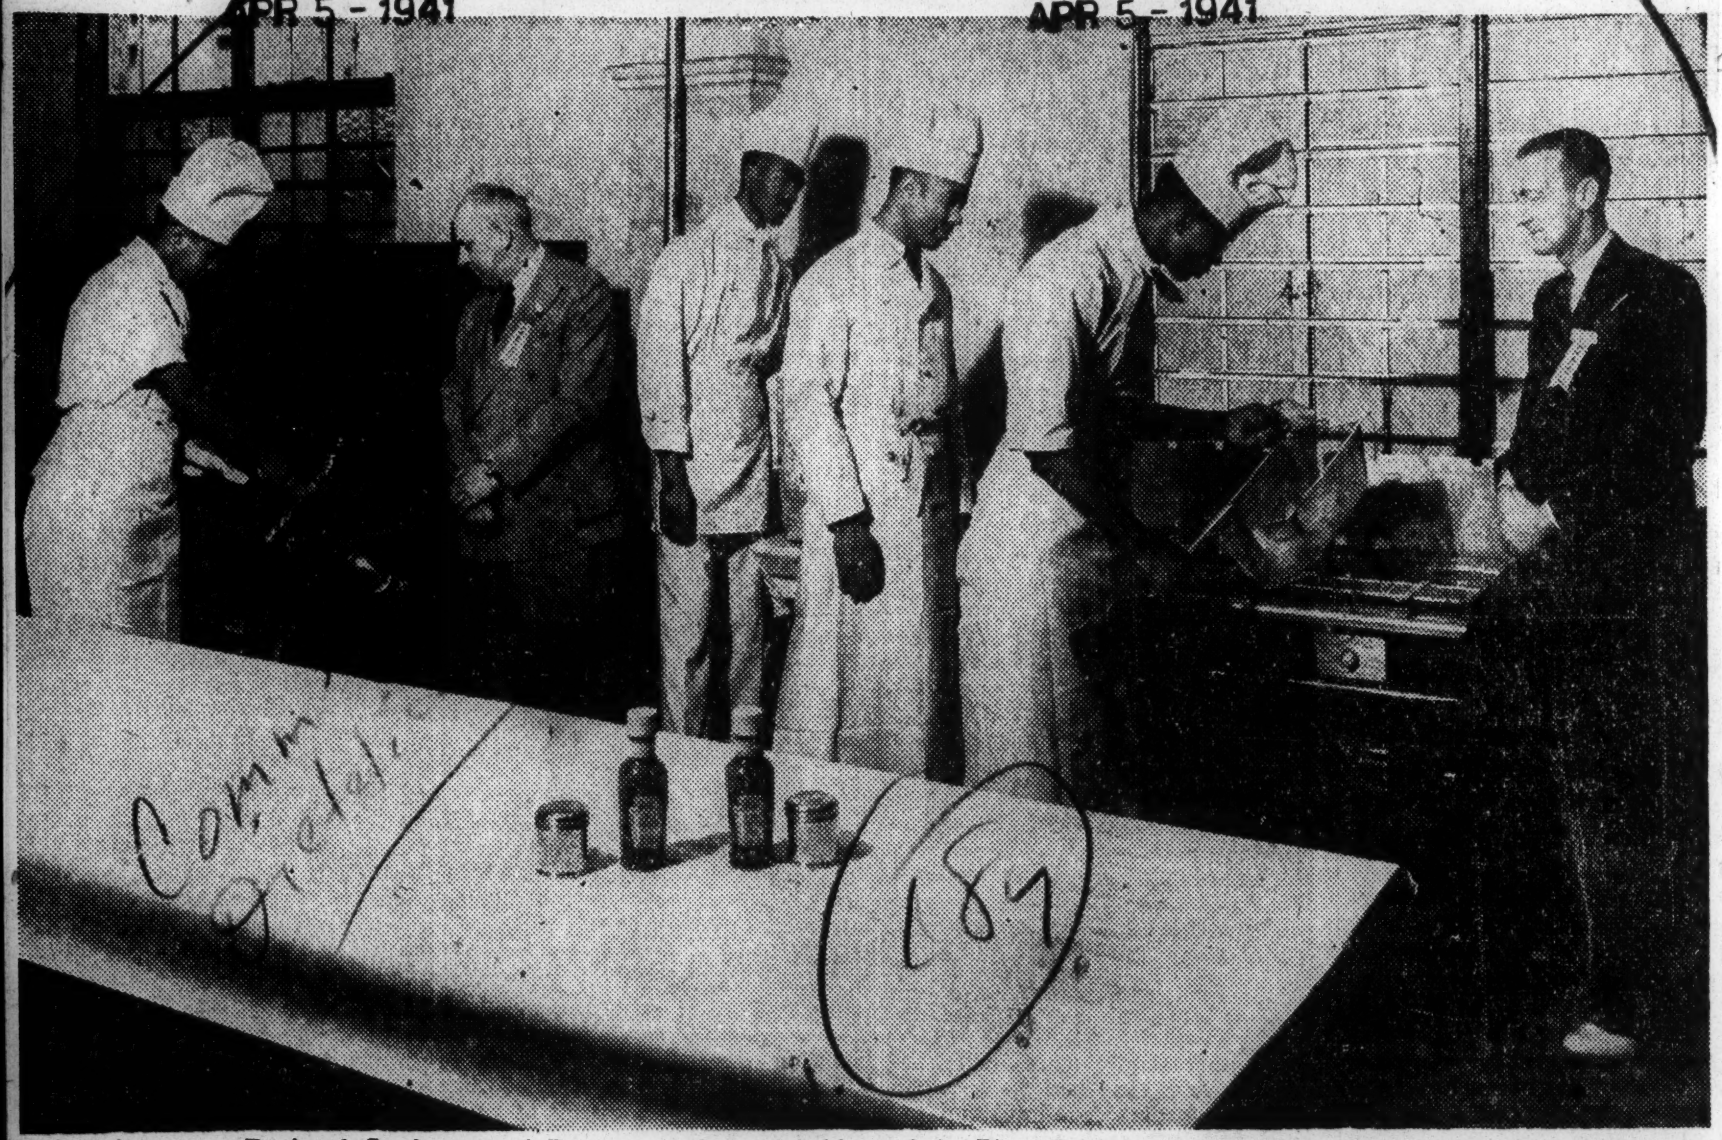
Mr. Spicely cited the emergency request received this week from Lieut. O'Brian, Fort Benning, Ga., one of the largest army training posts in America, for four men for services in the officers' mess, to replace four workers sent to the Post in the late Spring, as one of the many calls that he has had for trained food specialists since his return to the Institute. "We were able to send two men, Leroy Wilcoxson and Charles Dingus, and I am informed that they are highly regarded at the post and that they are giving satisfactory service," Spicely said.

Prior to his assignment at Fort Benning, Lieut. O'Brian was in charge of food purchases for the New York Public School system, serving 90,000 meals a day. Lieut. O'Brian stated that when he made an effort to staff the officers' mess with competent men, he was told that Tuskegee Institute was the only institution in the South where a qualified food service personnel might be obtained.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE CHEFS DEMONSTRATE HOW IT'S DONE.

APR 5 - 1941
APR 5 - 1941

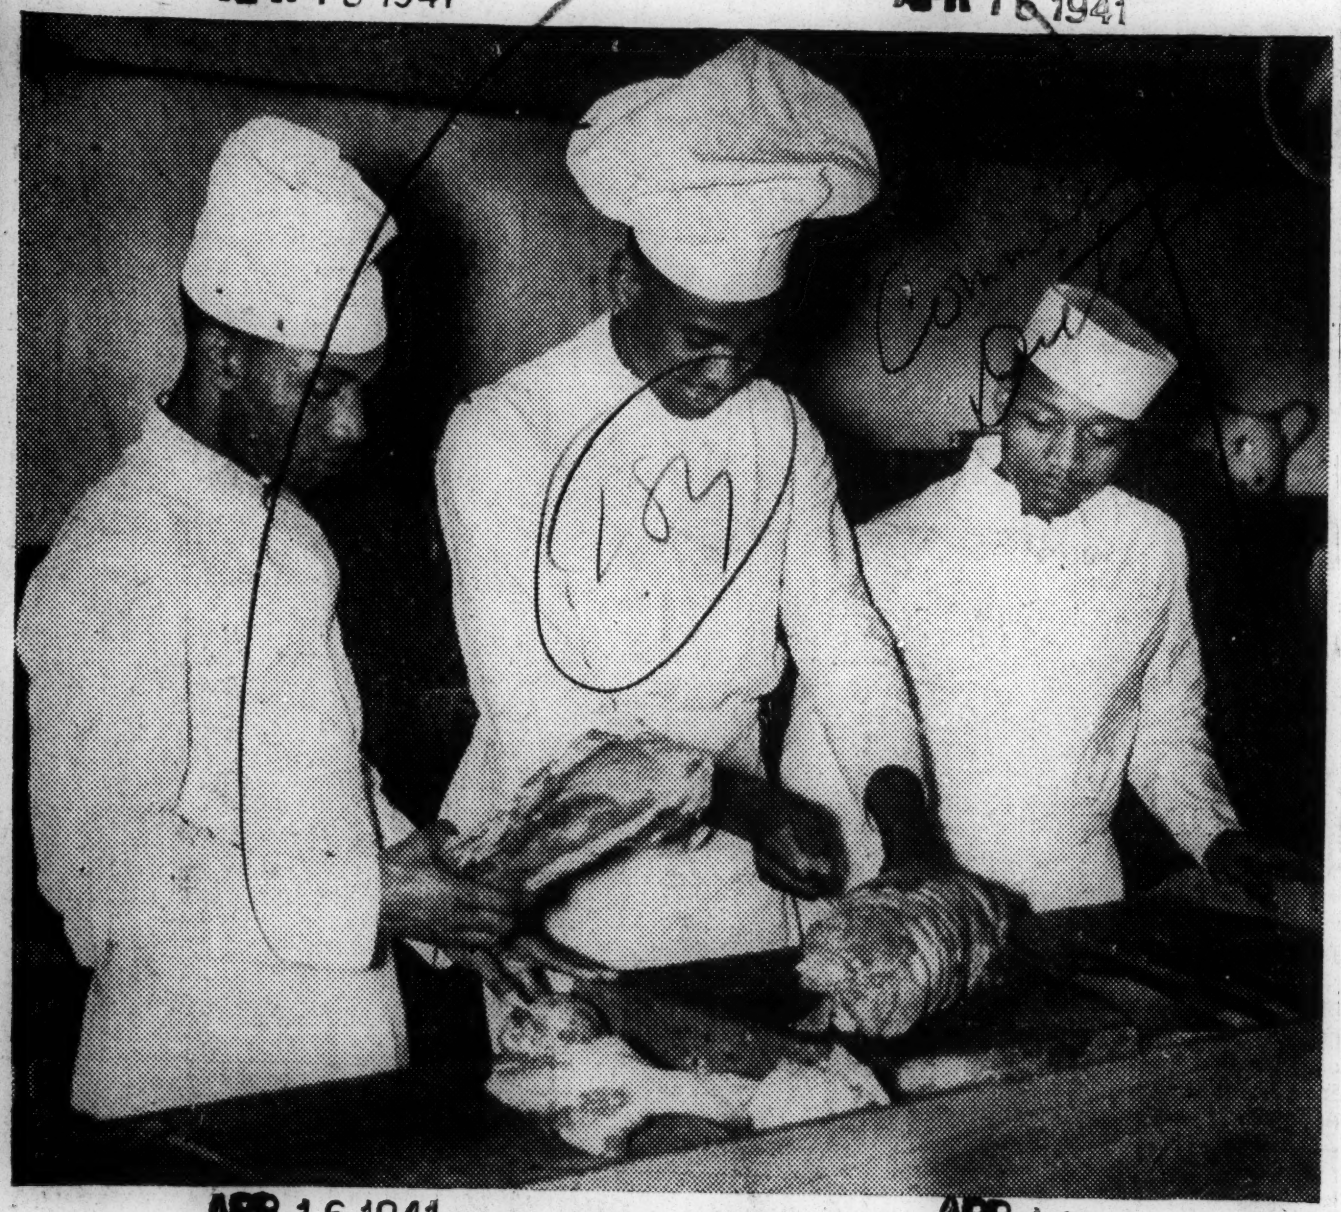


During the recent Regional Conference of Restaurant Owners held in Miami, Fla., three Tuskegee students in commercial dietetics with E. W. Ramsey, acting director of the department conducted demonstrations. Left to right, Robert Johnson, J. C. Pittman, maker of the Pitco Frialator which was used in the deep-fat frying demonstration; Paul Keller, E. W. Ramsey, Oscar Howard and Thomas Offuitt of the Washington, D. C., Gas company who is an expert in gas cooking appliances.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Students Holding Big Jobs

APR 16 1941



APR 16 1941

Clifton Green, left, and Roosevelt Johnson, center, two products of Tuskegee Institute's Commercial Dietetics department, are showing Frank Ball, an assistant, how to make a meat roll. The youngsters are receiving high praise from the management of Windsor Hotel, Americus, Ga., where they are employed. Green is a baker, and Johnson a chef.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

JUN 14 1941

Waldorf-Astoria Chef Teaches At Tuskegee

JUN 14 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., June 12—Michael Tondow, menu classifier and office assistant to Gabriel Lugot, executive chef of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City will, at the request of Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, conduct special cooking classes during the ten weeks summer course now under way at the college.

At the Institute he will conduct courses in advanced quantity food preparation and catering, which will include buying and storing, economy of preparation, casserole cooking, international cooking, a-la-carte service, wine and spirits merchandising, food control, cafeteria quantity cooking, menu making and special hotel cooking and catering, menu composition and planning, cooking styles and variations, salad and salad dressing making, and kitchen management.

Columbia, S. C. Record
June 23, 1941

Tuskegee 'Internes' Spread Southern Cooking Through Hotels, Hospitals Of Nation

By A. F. MAHAN

TUSKEGEE, Ala., June 23. — (The Special News Service) — Kitchen "internes" are selling skilled southern cooking to the nation's hotels, hospitals and restaurants.

Negro students from Tuskegee institute's five-year-old school of commercial dietetics, spending training periods in the eating places of 25 states, have created a demand for college graduate chefs.

Edward G. Ramsey, assistant director of the school, says more than 100 good job-offers have come in since March. The school has only 19 full-fledged graduates now, but 144 students are learning kitchen skills at Tuskegee stoves and meat blocks.

Booker T. Washington's credo of "learning while doing" is applied to the full in this newest division of the school the slave-born Negro leader founded.

The students start at the bottom, learning the fine points of dishwashing, scrubbing and sanitation before they prepare food.

Their chief laboratory is the institute's cafeteria, where 1,200 persons eat three meals a day. The compact faculty dining hall, on a balcony overlooking the cafeteria, has its own kitchen where everything is fitted closely as in a railroad dining car.

"All we need here is a few curves and bumps to teach equilibrium," says Ramsey.

For further training, the students go out on three-month "interneships" in the kitchens of widely-scattered hotels, restaurants and hospitals.

"Internes" have won jobs, Ramsey says, as pastry cooks, diner chefs, ship chefs, hospital dieticians and restaurant helpers.

Negro students from Tuskegee Institute's five-year-old school of commercial dietetics, spending training periods in the eating places of 25 states, have created a demand for college graduate chefs.

Edward G. Ramsey, assistant director of the school, says more than 100 good job-offers have come in since March. The school has only 19 full-fledged graduates now, but 144 students are learning kitchen skills at Tuskegee stoves and meat blocks.

Booker T. Washington's credo of "learning while doing" is applied to the full in this newest division of the school the slave-born Negro leader founded.

Learn From Bottom

The students started at the bottom, learning the fine points of dishwashing, scrubbing and sanitation before they prepare food.

Their chief laboratory is the institute's cafeteria, where 1,200 persons eat three meals a day. The compact faculty dining hall, on a balcony overlooking the cafeteria, has its own kitchen where everything is fitted closely as in a railroad dining car.

"All we need here is a few curves to teach equilibrium," says Ramsey.

For further training, the students go out on three-month "interneships" in the kitchens of widely-scattered hotels, restaurants and hospitals.

"Internes" have won jobs, Ramsey says, as pastry cooks, diner chefs, ship chefs, hospital dieticians and restaurant helpers.

Gadsden, Ala., Times
June 23, 1941

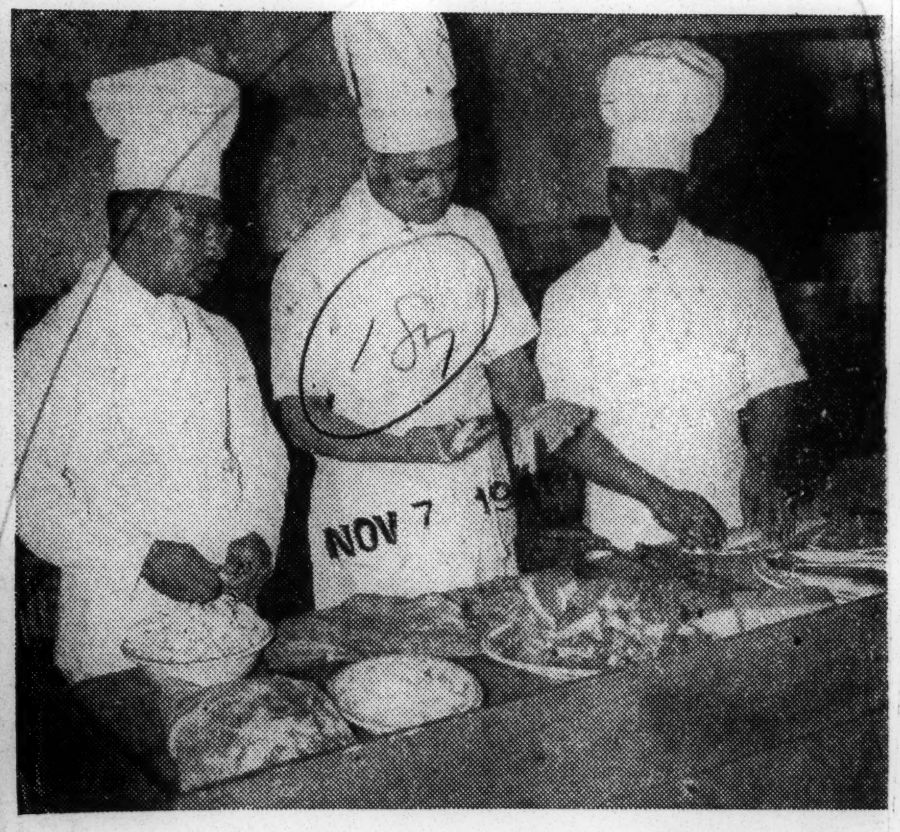
'Internes' Cook Way Into Jobs

Students In Tuskegee Dietetics School In Demand Over Country

TUSKEGEE, Ala., June 23.—Kitchen "internes" are selling skilled Southern cooking to the nation's hotels, hospitals and restaurants.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Interning In Americus



These three young men, who are taking the commercial dietetics course inaugurated by President F. D. Patterson at Tuskegee Institute, are shown as they are serving their internship at the Windsor Hotel, Americus, Ga. Pictured l to r are Wayne Morton, baker; Kenneth Latta, chef, who writes an article elsewhere on this page; and Frank Ball, breakfast chef.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Student Cooks Win Praise

DEC 3 - 1941

The above group of advanced students in Commercial Dietetics at Tuskegee Institute recently operated the kitchen at the popular Hotel Mayflower at Ocean City, Maryland. This was a part of their internship which supplements class room work with practical experience.

DEC 3 - 1941

The hotel management in commenting upon their work said they were not only efficient, but that unlike some other kitchen crews, they did their work without disorder or friction among themselves. Oscar Howard, first to left, served as head-chef in charge of the group. Others left to right are: Harry B. Harris, Herman McCall, Robert Johnson, Joshua Westbrooks and Miss Mabel Morris.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

These Men Promoted By Afro-American Life

FEB 18 1941

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(SNS)—During the recent Managers and Superintendents Conference just held at the Home Office of the Afro-American Life Insurance Company, a number of pleasantly surprising incidents were noted.

Ralph B. Stewart, the veteran Manager of the East Side Jax District, was samed Assistant Director of Agencies, as was David H. Dwight, the popular churchmen, civic and political leader, and Manager of the West Side Jax District.

Also named Assistant Director of Agencies was L. M. Argrett, prominent in church work and youth activities among our people in Jax and Florida, and Manager of the Ordinary Life Department of the Afro.

The elevation of these three trusted and efficient representatives of the Afro was a striking recognition of faithful services, efficiently rendered, and was an acknowledgement of their meritorious endeavor. Singularly, each of these three young men so honored by the Afro is actively and effectively engaged in the activities of the church of their choice.

Assistant Director, Ralph B. Stewart has been an active member of the official body of Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church over a period of years, and at the present time is teacher of the large and progressive Men's Class and Business Manager of Florida's largest A. M. E. Church.

FEB 18 1941

Assistant Director, D. H. Dwight, has also been long active in the operations of Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church, has served in a number of official positions, at present Superintendent of the Sunday School, the man that brought Boy Scouting to our boys and holds the highest degree in Scouting of any man of our race in the Southland.

Assistant Director L. M. Argrett has continuously served for years as Church Clerk and Deacon of Bethel Baptist Institutional Church. He heads up the work of the youth of this great church, having steered successfully the operations of the Baptist Training School and trained into practical service hundreds of the young people of the church of his choice.

Assistant Manager, H. B. Wynns who has served so long and efficiently on the Jacksonville District, was promoted to District Manager and assigned to the St. Petersburg District. This, too, is a merited elevation that came to a reserving young man.

The transfer of George W. Cabaniss from the St. Petersburg Dis. proved one of the surprises of the session. The friends and acquaintances of these young men throughout our State, and in fact all over the Afro system will learn with pleasurable pride of the merited promotions they have gained.

Perhaps the most touching incident during this splendid Conference was experienced when the Managers in a tense moment sprang a happy surprise and presented to Robert P. Steward, the aggressive and successful Director of the Field Forces of the Afro, a valuable and useful present as a token of the high esteem and brothedly affection felt and held by the hundreds of men working under his direction. This, indeed was an unexpected pleasure that visibly affected the veteran Director.

FEB 18 1941

A presentation to Assistant Director John T. Betsch, in charge of the Georgia forces, was also a surprisingly pleasurable incident that elicited admiration of every one present.

The recent Managers Conference was acclaimed by all the greatest in the history of the Afro. Many of the men in attendance have gained for themselves national prominence in the Insurance field, being recognized as successful men in their chosen profession.

RALPH B. STEWART

L. M. ARGRETT

FEB 18 1941

DAVID H. DWIGHT

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE CLUB NEWS

MAR 23 1941

By DANIEL J. FAULKNER

The executive committee of the Chicago-Tuskegee club met Wednesday evening, March 12, at the home of Mrs. Una Van Zandt, 4743 Prairie avenue. Col. John C. Robinson, the chairman, was in charge of the meeting, which represented the largest executive session of the year.

The enthusiastic group decided to present a series of benefit affairs designed to raise funds with which to foster the program to which the organization has committed itself. The first of these affairs, a card party, was announced by Co-Chairmen Atty. Milton R. Nelson and Mrs. Corinne Dunagan, which is scheduled to be held in the spacious home of Mrs. Dunegan, 4912 Forrestville avenue, Saturday evening, March 29, at 10 o'clock.

Dr. G. Norman Adamson, chairman of the program committee announced that the committee's plans for appropriate Founder's Day exercises are progressing quite satisfactorily.

The members of the Tuskegee Airport Fund Citizens committee are gratified at the enthusiastic interest the Tuskegeeans are taking in the drive, and are rallying to make a success of this campaign in Chicagoland. Tuskegeeans and non-Tuskegeeans are proudly wearing the special Tuskegee Airport Fund buttons which are designed with a pair of wings and made up in the school's famous colors (crimson and gold), which indicates they are supporting the drive.

MAR 23 1941

All Tuskegeeans are especially urged to attend the meeting of the club Sunday, March 23, 5:30 p. m. at the club headquarters in the Walker college, 4703 South Parkway. I am authorized to state that this meeting definitely will be closed at 7:30 p. m., hence you are urged to be present promptly at 5:30 p. m.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

Alvin J. Neely To Address Local Tuskegee Alumni

MAR 2 1 1941

The Nashville-Tuskegee Alumni Club will hold a Special Call Meeting Monday night, March 24th at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Morris Memorial Building. Captain Alvin J. Neely, Executive Secretary of the Tuskegee Alumni Association will be the Principal Speaker. All graduates, former students and persons interested in the school's program are urged to be present and on time.

In his address Capt. Neely will give a detailed outline of the expansion program in which the Institution engaged in the School of Mechanical Arts, The Photo-Engraving Department and the School of Aviation. Many new courses have been added to the school's curriculum and persons interested are urged to be present to receive this first hand information.

MAR 2 1 1941

Mr. Chas. W. Cooper, president of the local club, with the cooperation of others have outlined a splendid program and plans are underway to give the Executive Secretary a welcome unparalleled by any formally held in this area.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Tuskegee Inst. Gets Senior ROTC Unit

MAR 2 2 1941

WASHINGTON — (ANP) — Tuskegee Institute has been given a senior Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit by the War Department. This concession was understood to have been obtained personally by President F. D. Patterson.

MAR 2 2 1941

New York Age
New York. N. Y.

Tuskegee Graduates To Elect A Trustee

MAR 29 1941

Heningburg Nominated

DURHAM, N. C.—Dr. Alphonse Hemingburg, who graduated from Tuskegee Institute as valedictorian in 1920, and who came to North Carolina College, is being prominently mentioned for member of Tuskegee's trustee board. The New England Tri-State Alumni Association, comprising graduates in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania have united with the Durham Club in endorsing Heningburg as their candidate. Other clubs and individuals throughout the country have added their endorsement.

Heningburg worked at Tuskegee twelve years as Academic Director and later as Personnel Director. He is one of the few Negroes in the country to have earned the degree of doctor of philosophy in college administration. It is primarily because of his close acquaintance with affairs at the Institute as well as his training in college administration that his supporters are urging his unanimous selection as the first representative on the board to be elected by the graduates.

MAR 29 1941

Great enthusiasm has been developed among Tuskegee graduates throughout the country over the forthcoming electon of an alumnus to the Board of Trustees of the Institution.

During the past year, the chairman of the Board requested the General Alumni Association to nominate a graduate for election to the Board. The election will take place at Tuskegee Institute on April 4, during the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association. Willis I. Peek, of Anderson S. C., is president of the general body, and Alvin J. Neely of Tuskegee is executive secretary.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE CLUB NEWS

MAR 30 1941

By DANIEL J. FAULKNER

The Chicago-Tuskegee club held its regular monthly meeting at the club's headquarters, Sunday, March 23, at 5:30 p.m. Col. John C. Robinson, the president, was in charge of the meeting, which was well attended.

Among the business which was transacted by the body was the completion of plans to present a benefit card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dunagan, 4912 Forrestville avenue, Saturday night, March 29. The president appointed a special committee to cooperate with the Good Shepherd Comumnity Center's Tea; the committee will be headed by Mrs. Corinne Dunagan.

Col. John C. Robinson was named by the body to represent the Chicago-Tuskegee club at the annual meeting of the Tuskegee General Alumni association which will convene at Tuskegee institute, Friday, April 4.

MAR 30 1941

The club endorsed Dr. Alphonso Heningburg for the vacant seat on the trustee's board. Dr. Heningburg is the vice president of the North Carolina State college for Negroes, and an alumnus of Tuskegee institute.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Club Holds Meeting

MAR 31 1941

The Montgomery Tuskegee Club held its annual meeting Tuesday with Professor J. R. Wingfield at Mt. Meigs. The meeting was largely attended. Dr. F. D. Paterson, president of Tuskegee Institute was the guest speaker. Captain R. S. Dearaby, J. Julius Flood and Gur Tramble also composed the party and appeared on program.

President Paterson presented by Professor Wingfield, gave a lovely address, outlining the conditions of Tuskegee today, giving many reasons why negroes as a race should be proud. A musical selection by the band followed: instrumental solo, Miss Wilhelmenia Grey; reading, Mrs. Bertha J. Carter. After the program, J. F. Scott, president of the club presented the other visitors.

The entertainment for the remainder of the evening were old fashioned games. Mrs. M. L. Berkley was awarded a token. Dr. Paterson was presented a token.

Guests were then ushered into the dining room where a two-course luncheon and ice course were enjoyed by all.

MAR 31 1941

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Boyinton, March 8.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE CLUB NEWS

By DANIEL J. FAULKNER

The executive committee of the Chicago-Tuskegee club held its monthly meeting Wednesday evening, April 16, at the home of Mrs. Una Van Zandt, 4743 Prairie avenue. In the absence of President John C. Robinson, who was at Tuskegee institute on business, yours truly acted as chairman of the meeting, which was well attended.

APR 27 1941

The members of the group voiced their sincere appreciation to several heads of the standing committees who presented different affairs during the month, and made remarkable reports. Among those who were singled out for special mention were Dr. G. Norman Adamson, program chairman, who arranged the interesting and appropriate Founder's Day program, which was magnificently presented by the charming and talented Mrs. Coralie D. Crook. The co-chairmen of the social committee, Corinne Dunagan and Atty. Milton R. Nelson, who successfully presented a benefit card party which was most enjoyable.

Mrs. Van Zandt, who always makes a lovely hostess, served a tasty repast at the conclusion of the enthusiastic meeting.

Al Burns, who is an energetic Tuskegeean and proprietor of the New York Shoe store, left the city early Sunday morning, April 20, for Valdosta, Ga., to the bed side of his stricken mother.

Mesdames Corinne Dunagan, Doris M. Robinson, Mary Flourney, and Miss Pearl C. Tate were the charming hostesses in charge of the Chicago-Tuskegee club's table at the Good Shepherd Community Center's benefit tea Sunday, April 20.

APR 27 1941

The club will hold its next meeting Sunday April 27 at the club headquarters in the Walker college, 4703 South Parkway, at 5:30 p.m. In addition the important business of the organization which will be discussed, a unique program has been arranged by the program chairman. All Tuskegeeans are especially urged to be present.

WIFE OF PROF. J. E. JOHNSON SIGNALLY HONORED

J. E. Johnson, principal and founder of the Prentiss Normal and Industrial Institute, with his family, attended the 60th Annual Commencement at Tuskegee Institute, Ala., Sunday and Monday. Around 250 young men and women received certificates and diplomas from the various departments of the institution, the enrollment of which has reached 2000, representing practically every state in the Union and many foreign countries where Negroes are found.

Principal Johnson's wife graduated from Tuskegee in 1902 under Booker T. Washington. At the commencement exercises Monday she was awarded an honorary Master of Science Degree by her Alma Mater for her outstanding contribution of service to her race, and is the first woman to receive such recognition from the institution. She was called to the rostrum before the vast throng of people and presented the award by the president, F. D. Patterson, who used the following words in making the presentation:

"Bertha LaBranche Johnson, your outstanding work as a pioneering educator who has shared in the founding of three schools for members of your race; your untiring work in behalf of interracial good will; and your inspiring leadership offered to Negro women throughout the Nation—have made for a life rich in achievement. You have brought honor to Tuskegee Institute; distinction to your race and service to humanity. I therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Board of Trustees, and upon the recommendation of the Committee on Meritorious Awards, confer upon you the honorary degree, Master Science with all of the rights and privileges appertaining thereto here and elsewhere."

MAY 3 1941

Professor Johnson as he is called by his host of white friends and his wife were born on the same day, were graduated on the same day, he from Alcorn, and she from Tuskegee, and were married 38 years ago. They came to Prentiss 33 years ago and founded the Prentiss Normal and Industrial Institute, and down through the years have rendered untold service to the young people of their race. The education the Negroes receive at the institution headed by these two worthy people consist of more than book knowledge . . . they are taught to be better citizens, and to serve in every capacity to the very best of their ability and to be loyal to God and country.

So the Headlight joins their friends in offering hearty and sincere congratulations to them in the honor so wisely bestowed.

Washington Tribune
Washington, D. C.

Ex-Tuskegee Students Hear Dr. Patterson

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, addressed an informal gathering of about 100 graduates and former students of Tuskegee at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pinkard, 1256 Columbia Road, Northwest, Friday evening.

Dr. Patterson was in the city to confer with the Secretary of War in connection with the aviation program at his school. He was accompanied here by Alvin J. Neely, executive secretary of the General Alumni Association and by G. L. Washington, director of mechanical industries.

Jesse O. Thomas, field secretary of the National Urban League, was present and spoke briefly.

Dr. Patterson, who in 1935 succeeded the late Dr. Robert R. Moton at the institution founded by Booker T. Washington in 1881, sketched for the group the development of the airplane pilot training course, and told of expansion in the agriculture and commercial dietetics department at Tuskegee.

JAN 18 1941

The group was entertained with vocal solos by Miss Olive English and Mrs. Brunette Abercrombie and with a piano solo by Miss Elizabeth Lacy. The hosts were: Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lang, Mr. Mrs. M. Echols, Mrs. Willadean Satterfield, and Jackson Higgins.

—Oversize classes must be reduced—

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Aviator New Head Of Tuskegee Club

JAN 11 1941

Members of the Chicago-Tuskegee club at their meeting Sunday, Dec. 22, cast a record-breaking vote which swept Col. John C. Robinson, former ace of the Ethiopian air force, into the presidency.

Colonel Robinson, who is NYA aviation consultant for Illinois and director of an aviation school which bears his name, succeeds Percy R. Hines as the organization's chief executive. Hines was not a candidate for re-election.

Other officers for 1941 are Daniel J. Faulkner, vice president; Miss Pearl C. Tate, recording secretary; Miss Alberta I. Smith, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Corinne Eggleston, financial secretary; Mrs. Una Van Zandt, treasurer; Thomas R. Traylor, chaplain; E. L. Houser, custodian; Theodore T. Greene, historian, and Robert Vandiver, sergeant-at-arms.

Commercial Appeal
Memphis, Tennessee

NEGRO SCHOOL HELP IS ASKED BY BROWN

Head Of Fargo Appeals To Arkansas For $2000

From The Commercial Appeal
Little Rock Bureau

JAN 1 1941

LITTLE ROCK, Dec. 31.—Obviously proud of his 21 years work which had seen a $2.85 investment grow into a $100,000 school, Floyd Brown, Tuskegee graduate and negro founder of the Fargo Agricultural School in Monroe County, appeared before the presession Joint Legislative Budget Committee Tuesday to ask for financial aid for his school.

Brown said his school taught 12 grades and was a combination of farm and self-help school to teach negroes agricultural work and keep them on the farm. He said 90 per cent of the revenue of the school was from outside the state, but that contributions had been dropping off because of "lack of proof of the interests of our homefolks in our work."

The fact of a $2000 legislative appropriation, Brown said, would bring in $50,000 a year in private donations.

He explained that the Fargo School, located about two miles north of Brinkley, included a 350-acre farm, a $100,000 plant and a student body of 200 taught by 11 teachers.

"Our task is to teach the negro how to live. We have improved the condition of the East Arkansas negro farmer a great deal. We keep 90 per cent of our graduates on the farm and do not give them a technical or professional education which sends them to the cities where they are a misfit," Brown declared.

He said he attended Tuskegee Institute when Booker T. Washington was in charge there and has "tried to do the same thing for my race in Arkansas that he did for them in the entire South."

The committee asked that he return later with an itemized appropriation request.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Challenges "New" Chance For Race

JAN 3 1941

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(SNS) J. Thomas Wilson, principal of the Liberty Hill School at North Charleston, S. C., who dared anyone to give the present day Negro the chances given Negroes during the reconstruction period.

A graduate of Tuskegee in Education and former captain in the Military Department at Tuskegee, the young educator has headed the Liberty Hill School for four years. He is also president of District Four Teachers' Association, a Mason and a Progressive. He is son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Wilhis challenge before the county obson and has two brothers who are in school work. Mr. Wilson issued servance of Emancipation Day, January 1.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Tuskegee Graduate Enters Nursing School

MAR 8 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Miss Harriett Clarke, who received her bachelor of science degree in education from Tuskegee Institute in May, 1939, has entered the Nurse Training School of Lincoln Hospital, New York City. She was one of the 20 students admitted to the Lincoln School for Nurses and was the only one registered from the South.

During her undergraduate days at Tuskegee Institute, Miss Clarke was a member of the championship women's track and field team and was identified with numerous other campus student activities.

Miss Clarke was accompanied to New York City by her mother, Mrs. Annie T. Clarke. Children of Mrs. Clarke who have graduated from Tuskegee Institute are: Mrs. Annie Bobbie Clarke Baber, secretary to William L. Dawson, director, department of music at Tuskegee Institute; Sylvannus B. Clarke, secretary to Alva Tabor director, itinerant teacher training, Fort Valley, Ga.; John R. Clarke, dietary department, U. S. Veterans Facility, Tuskegee, Ala.; and Jennie R. Clarke, home economics teacher at the Dallas County Training School, Beloit, Ala.

Washington Tribune
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Rayford Logan, Speaker At D. C. Tuskegee Club Tea

APR 12 1941

Dr. Rayford W. Logan, Howard U. history professor and author, was principal speaker when the Washington Tuskegee Club paid tribute to Booker T. Washington at a Tuskegee Institute Founder's Day tea on Saturday evening in the Rose Room of Phyllis Wheatley YWCA.

APR 12 1941

Taking note of the ancient controversy between the ideologies of Dr. Washington and those of other leaders of the race, Dr. Logan cited a quotation from Dr. W. E. B. DuBois clarifying and coordinating the two views, and pointed out that the present demand for skilled workers in defense industries accentuates the basic wisdom of the founder's views.

John Haguely, executive secretary of Howard University, preceded the main address with a brief sketch of Tuskegee's history.

APR 12 1941

Instrumental music was furnished by Mrs. Margaret Baker and by Miss Elnora Davis, daughter of Brigadier General B. O. Davis.

The program ended with remarks by Miss Susie Elliott, dean of women of Howard University, and by John H. Pinkard, club president. H. M. Griffin served as program chairman.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Tuskegee Alumni Hosts At Dinner For College Chief

APR 19 1941

Members of the New York Tuskegee Alumni Association played host to President F. D. Patterson of the Tuskegee Institute on Sunday afternoon at the 137th street YWCA.

APR 19 1941

Chairman of the dinner committee was Mrs. J. H. Bailey. Present were Mr. and Mrs. George H. Royal; Emma Hays; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Royal; Isaac Webb, Frank Chisholm, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Atwell, Dr. Frederick Patterson, Mrs. Bess Brandon, John Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Julian B. Thomas, Mrs. Sarah Martin, Mrs. P. R. Ricketts, Mr. and Mrs. Carrington; Mrs. Mary Hicks, Mrs. Mary Royall, Mrs. M. T. Smith, Mrs. M. Rosenberg Mr. and Mrs. Fred C Moultrie, J. C. Snow, Miss Blanche Wells, Miss Jane Anderson, A. Turner, Cleveland G. Allen, Mrs. M. A. Dillard, Mrs. Callie B. Williams, Dr. J. D. Jarmon and Ashton C. Kitchens.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Wants State To Help Him Keep Up School

JAN 11 1941

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 9—Floyd Brown, Tuskegee graduate and founder of the Negro Agricultural School in Monroe County, who takes an obvious and understandable pride in his 21 years of work as an educator, during which he has seen an investment of $2.85 grow into the present $100,000 school property he founded, appeared before the Joint Legislative Budget Committee here Tuesday to ask for financial aid for the institution.

Explaining that Fargo is a combination self-help and farm school to instruct Negroes in agricultural work and keep them on the farm, he said twelve separate grades are taught there. He was appearing before the committee requesting financial assistance, he stated, due to the fact that "because of lack of proof of the interest of our home-folks in our work," contributions have been decreasing with a consequent drop in the approximately 90 per cent of the school's revenue that heretofore has come from outside the State of Arkansas in the form of these donations.

Naming no specific amount in his appeal for assistance, he made the point, however, that a State appropriation of $2,000 would mean receipt of a minimum of $50,000 a year in private contributions. The school, located some two miles north of the town of Brinkley, the educator recalled, includes a 350-acre farm, a school plant comprising properties representing a value of $100,000, a student body of 200 and a staff of 11 teachers.

"Our task is to teach the Negro how to live," he declared. "We have improved the condition of the East Arkansas farmer a great deal We keep 90 per cent of our graduates on the farm and do not give them a technical or professional education that will send them to the cities where they are a misfit." Recalling that he attended Tuskegee Institute when Booker T. Washington was the institute's president, he said he has "tried to do the same thing for my race in Arkansas that he did for them in the entire South."

The committee which manifested deep interest throughout the hearing, asked him to prepare an itemized appropriation request and present it as soon as it is ready.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE CLUB NEWS

FEB 2 1941

By DANIEL J. FAULKNER

The largest crowd in several years attended the meeting of the Chicago-Tuskegee club Sunday evening, January 26, at the club headquarters, 4703 South Parkway, to greet the new president Col. John C. Robinson, who called the first meeting of the organization for 1941 to order at 5:30 p. m. Despite the season's heaviest snow, the wide awake Tuskegeeans came out to seek definite information, which they received, along with their urge to shake the hand of the organization's chief executive.

FEB 2 194

Those who came for information regarding the student strike received authentic information from the school release, which was read, individuals who talked over long distance telephone to Tuskegee Institute ,and still others who had received letters from various students at the school. At the end of these discussions, the club gave Dr. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute, and the executive council an unanimous vote of confidence.

To those who were more interested in the facts concerning the establishment of the army pursuit squadron, they were given the latest developments which Dr. Patterson had just relayed to the Airport Fund Campaign committee. His letter stated that the success of the army air unit will depend to a large extent on the number of young men to whom we can give preliminary training, since this training is required. Hence, we need the airport on the campus more so now than before. The contributions for the airport were led by a group of young ladies of the International Girls Flying Club, Miss Lola Jones, president, with $25.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

TUSKEGEE CLUB NEWS

JAN 12 1941

By DANIEL J. FAULKNER

The members of the Chicago-Tuskegee club paused during the Christmas festivities long enough to attend the December meeting of the club to elect and witness the installation of officers for '41. The group which packed the club headquarters at 4703 South Parkway, cast a record breaking vote which swept Col. John C. Robinson, the former ace of the Ethiopian Air Force, into the presidency.

Col. Robinson, who is Aviation Consultant for the State of Illinois and director of an aviation school which bears his name, succeeds Percy R. Hines as the organization's chief executive. Mr Hines, it will be remembered has been one of the club's most consistent and conscientious laborers for many years. He announced several weeks earlier that he would not be a candidate for re-election. It is believed, he will accept an important post in the new cabinet

Immediately after the election, Earnest A. Greene, State Representative and prominent attorney, who was presented by Daniel J. Faulkner, installed the new staff of officers for 1941. They are: Col. John C. Robinson, president; Daniel J. Faulkner, vice president; Miss Pearl C. Tate, recording secretary; Miss Alberta I. Smith, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Corinne Eggleston, financial secretary; Mrs. Una Van Zandt, treasurer; Thomas R. Taylor, chaplain; E. L. Houser, custodian; Theo. T. Greene, historian; Robert Vandiver, seargent-at-arms.

Mrs. Emily W. Allen, a member of the Tuskegee institute faculty who was visiting the city for the holidays, was present at the meeting and gave several interesting observations of the activities at the school. Vice President Henry C. Taylor was in charge of the meeting.

Chattanooga, Tenn. Daily Times
February 5, 1941

OFFICIAL OF TUSKEGEE VISITS ALUMNI IN CITY

Capt. A. J. Neely, executive secretary of the general alumni association of Tuskegee institute, spent the evening here in conference with local Tuskegee alumni. He was en route to the school from Washington and Baltimore, where alumni meetings have been held.

Capt. Neely is an alumnus of the school, a World war veteran, and for many years headed the cadet department of the Alabama institution.

Speaking of the recent strike staged by students at the school in protest against alleged dining conditions, he said, "that has all been ironed out, and we expect no further trouble. This was the first thing of its kind experienced at the institution, and we certainly hope it will be the last."

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Miamian Makes Good

JAN 25 1941

MIAMI, Fla.—(SNS)—

O CONNOR T. CLARK—A Tuskegee graduate of Miami, son of Mrs. C. B. I. Pitts, local beautician, who majored in auto mechanics, will go to the Ford Motor Plant this spring upon recommendation of J. O. McMahon, president of the Northern District of Ford and Lincoln dealers.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Mrs. Alice Simmons, Club Caroline Head, Slashed By Resident

MAR 15 1941

Mrs. Alice Simmons, who for the past four years has been directress of the well known Club Caroline at 262 West 127th street, was rushed to Harlem Hospital Friday evening in a critical condition from multiple cuts and stab wounds of the head, body and arms, said to have been inflicted by one of the residents.

The assailant, arrested by Detective O'Connor of the 28th Squad, identified herself as Mary Hayes, 30, waitress and said she had been living at the Club Caroline for the past seven months. When questioned by the detective for reasons for the assault the young woman said that "the directress nagged her".

MAR 15 1941

The argument began, it is reported, on Friday morning when Miss Hayes is said to have accused Mrs. Simmons of causing her to lose her job. Considering the incident closed when she told Miss Hayes that she did not even know her employer, Mrs. Simmons is said to have left the club and gone shopping with friends.

In the interim Miss Hayes is said to have visited the Community Service Society on West 125th street, and threatened to kill one of the workers, Alvin Martin. She returned to the club determined to "get even" with Mrs. Simmons whom she blamed for her plight and left word at the desk that she wanted to see the directress. When Mrs. Simmons was admitted to her room the woman is said to have leaped upon her slashing her furiously until screams of the wounded directress brought help.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

GRADUATES

Tuskegee Alumni Score Administration Policies; Arouse Ire of Dr. Patterson

Photo on Page 2

Sweeping criticisms of the current Tuskegee Institute administration in a recently-released survey by the Birmingham, Ala. Tuskegee Club, brought a sharp retort from President F. D. Patterson of the school this week. Dr. Patterson charged that the statement "showed very little real insight into the real program of Tuskegee Institute" and expressed doubt of the Birmingham organization's sincerity in its criticisms.

APR 12 1941

The survey, which recommended marked changes in policy and abolition of many current positions in the institution encouraging a trend "away from the fundamental ideals and objectives of the founder," was drawn up, Dr. Patterson charged, "without consulting either the president or officials of the Institute."

"I regard the whole approach as unfortunate and calculated to do the institution which they pretend to revere more harm than good," the president declared.

Charging that "forces are at work which if continued will uproot every original tradition of the old Tuskegee and silence forever the purpose and objectives of its Founder," the survey linked the recently reported student difficulties directly with the administration's policies, placed full blame upon the latter.

The survey, released over the signature of E. Q. Adams, president, the Birmingham-Tuskegee Club urged:

APR 12 1941

1. Selection of the school's athletic committee chairman from the alumni association, conversion of athletic activities returns into a regular athletic fund, and shaping of a more liberal policy which will be inviting to more outstanding athletic material.

2. More efficient administration of the Trades School, consolidation of the Department of Mechanical Industries and Department of Maintenance, giving students wider practical experience "not now available because of outside workmen," and readjustment in the class schedule for students in the Trades School to provide "sufficient hours of theory and practice to better equip them as finished tradesmen."

3. Elimination of the office of Dean of Administration, more willingness by the administration to probe student complaints and permission for students to organize their council through elections independent of faculty advice on selection of members.

4. A survey of the Agricultural Department with a view to reorganization.

5. Elimination of the office of Secretary of Labor and reassignment of these duties to the office of the Registrar, reassignment of the duties of Personnel - Director to the office of the Registrar and reassignment of the Personnel Director to his former duties in the office of the President.

6. A thorough survey of the Campaign Department with a view to reorganization for increased efficiency in raising funds "to offset the necessity of seeking avenues of relief that might reduce the prestige of the Institution and revamp some of its most salient policies and independence of action."

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Gets Meharry M.D.

JUN 14 1941

T. M. Campbell, Jr., M.D., recent graduate of Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tennessee. Dr. Campbell, a native of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Campbell, of that city. He was born and reared at Tuskegee, receiving his elementary, high school and college training at the Institute. He was graduated with the degree of B.S. in Education in the summer of 1936.

Campbell received his degree of doctor of medicine from Meharry in May 27, on the same day he received a commission as first lieutenant, Medical Corps Reserve, U. S. Army, subject to call upon the completion of his interneship. He will interne at Lincoln Hospital, Durham, North Carolina, beginning July 1.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Accepts Call

AUG 16 1941

AUG 16 1941

The Rev. Robert E. James, who is the new pastor of the First Baptist Church, Clifton Forge, Va. Rev. Mr. James received his training at Tuskegee Institute and Virginia Theological Seminary and College, Lynchburg, Va. He is the son of Dr. A. L. James, president of the Lott Carey Foreign Missionary Convention and pastor of the First Baptist Church, Roanoke, Va.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Faculty Member

SEP 6 1941

Miss Mary Frances Freeman, 1941 graduate of the Atlanta University School of Social Work, has recently been appointed to the staff of the North Carolina State School for the Blind and Deaf, Raleigh. Miss Freeman is also a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, and has been employed during the past few years as superintendent of the University summer vacation school, sponsored by Johnson C. Smith, Charlotte, N. C.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Funeral For Mrs. Bowen At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Funeral service for Mrs. Hannah Bowen Day were held here Wednesday [illegible] the Butler Chapel A. M.E.Z. church, Rev. William E. Carson, officiating. Mrs. Day, who was graduated from Tuskegee Institute in 1887, taught for several years in Macon County, Ala., and later served in various capacities as a member of the staff of Tuskegee Institute until ill health forced her to retire.

SEP 17 1941

She was known and beloved by hundreds of Tuskegee students, scores of whom sent messages of condolence immediately on learning of her death. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, was among many of the members of the faculty who expressed deep sorrow to the bereaved family when informed that Mrs. Day had succumbed. J. H. Palmer, registrar of the school, was designated by the executive council as the official representative of the institute.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Her Marriage Announced

Mrs. Annie Brown Branche, who was Miss Annie Beatrice Brown before her marriage April 22, 1941 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hodge near Henderson, N. C. Announcements of the marriage is made by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Brown of Whiteville, N. C. The bridegroom, Jerome Edison Branche, son of Mrs. Emily Branche, is principal of Stoney Lawn School in Warren County, Warrenton, N. C. The bride is home demonstration agent in Warren County and is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, Ala. The bridegroom is a graduate of Kittrell College, Kittrell, N. C. The bride and groom are on a ten-day trip to New York City and will be at home in Warrenton, N. C. after May 27.

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

What Negroes Are Doing

BY OSCAR W. ADAMS

The Negro people of Sipsey, Ala., and of Walker County, together with a large number of white friends and officials of the DeBardeleben Coal Corporation, tendered a banquet Friday evening, Sept. 12, to Porf. R. W. Taylor, principal of Sipsey Industrial High School, in recognition of his 25 years of service in Sipsey, when he was presented a loving cup and numerous other gifts from present and former students and friends.

R. C. Thomas, a former pupil, presided and introduced the many speakers who vied with each other in paying tribute to Prof. Taylor as teacher, counsellor and friend. Features of the occasion were the messages brought by T. G. Fotenberry, of the general office of the DeBardeleben Coal Corporation, and the letter read from Milton H. Fies, vice president of the DeBardeleben Coal Corporation, and friend of man. Mr. Fies' letter in part follows:

"Prof. Taylor's work at Sipsey over the long period of years has been outstanding. He has contributed, in a manner I think not excelled by many citizens of Walker County, greatly toward its upbuilding. He has responded to every responsibility with cheerfulness and with a sense of honor which all men, it seems to me, might seek to emulate.

"The Negroes in Sipsey and the Negroes throughout the county have been blessed through the many years by his presence. He is vitally a part of the DeBardeleben organization and all of us cherish his services and prize his frienship.

"I cannot resist this opportunity to impress on the Negroes of Sipsey that the world needs those fine fundamental traits of the Negro race more sorely today than at any time in the world's history—certainly more than at any time in the history of the American Negro. And those qualities to which I refer, with which the Negro has been blessed, are his eternal optimism, his fine sense of humor, his devotion to his friends, and his faith in God. May I suggest, on this occasion, that the Negroes at Sipsey and wherever they may abide, devote their energies to the perpetuation among their own people of these fine principles, rather than to turn their attention to those less valuable and material trends with which the world is presently obsessed and cursed. Taylor has known and lived these truths through the years.

"I hope you will extend to Taylor this expression, inadequate as it is, of my deep sense of obligation to him for his fine spirit and for the immeasurable accomplishment which has been his in the education of the Negro children in Walker County. And also to him my best wishes for many more years of useful life. Mrs. Fies joins me in everything I have said.—Milton H. Fies."

With deep emotion, Prof. Taylor made a brief but appropriate response. He is among the many men, graduates of Tuskegee Institute, who, like the founder of that great institution, Booker T. Washington, "let down their buckets where they are," in the South, and has made an immeasurable contribution to the education and proper training of the people in this section.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla.

Merit Rewarded; Receives Appointment

Miss Mercia M. Tucker, who was awarded her Master's degree from Columbia University, New York, in Home Economics last summer, has received appointment to instructorship in her field in Florida A. and M. College at Tallahassee.

Miss Tucker did her High School work in the Booker T. Washing High School of Haskell, Oklahoma. She completed her Bachelor's work in Tuskegee Institute and taught eight successful years in the Lincoln High School of Holdenville. Officials and patrons appreciative of her efficient services and worth, kept her on the job there until advanced to present appointment.

President J. R. E. Lee of Florida A. and M. College, eminent and veteran educator, who guides the destinies of that institution, and who has advanced and influenced the educational interests of the entire Negro race for the past several decades, notified her to report for duty September 15th.

Miss Tucker is eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Tucker of Haskell. Her father is principal of the Separate School system.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla.

Physician Says English Negro With American Wife Objects Taking Human Life

SEP 27 1941

Once Lived in America But Went to England to Escape Race Prejudice

Used In Non-Combatant Duties

LONDON.—(ANP)—Dr. Guy Errington Kerr, one of the best known Negro medical practitioners in England who has a practice in the exclusively white district of Cheem, Surrey, appealed as a conscientious objector when called upon to fight for his king and country here recently. Dr. Kerr, who was born in the West Indies, and who is married to the former Gertrude Gamblin, daughter of the well known Tuskegee grocer, appealed to the London tribunal saying that he objected to taking life on humanitarian grounds.

"I lived in the United States in the 1920's when gangsterism was rampant," said Dr. Kerr, who left America and came to England to escape race prejudice.

"Some doctors entered into agreement with the gangsters—which in many cases made their practices lucrative—to treat these men when they were wounded in gun battles with the police—the G-men.

"I feel," said Dr. Kerr, "hat these doctors were as guilty as their gangster patients were in the crimes they committed."

It was Mrs. Kerr who made the best witness for her husband, however. A graduate of Tuskegee institute and of Fisk university, she was formerly girl reserve secretary in the Indianapolis YWCA. A charming person with a soft southern accent, she said that when her husband was 19 and in the United States he had stopped a mob from lynching a man by talking to them.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Thomas To Take Oath On Monday

OCT 1 9 1941

In compliance with the telegraphic request from James L. Houghteling, assistant to the secretary of the United States Treasury, Jesse O. Thomas, field director of the National Urban League, is scheduled to leave Atlanta Sunday afternoon in order to arrive in Washington for the purpose of taking oath of office in connection with the recent appointment by the United States Treasury Monday morning.

Mr. Thomas will not serve as Assistant to Doctor William Pickens, as stated in a previous Associated Press Release. In fact, there is no Department of which Dean Pickens is head, in connection with the Defense Bonds Sales Campaign. Dean Pickens is a member of the staff of the Assistant Secretary, James L. Houghteling. Mr. Thomas' designation will also be staff assistant.

In order to accept this assignment in connection with the United States Treasury Department, Mr Thomas has secured a leave of absence from the National Urban League, with headquarters at 1133 Broadway, New York.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Jesse O. Thomas Appointed To Treasury Department Post

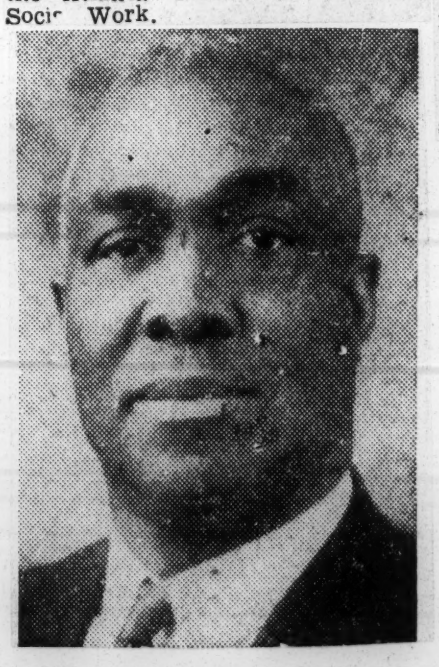
OCT 17 1941

WASHINGTON.—(ANP)—Jesse O. Thomas, field secretary of the National Urban league, has been named a staff assistant in the U. S. Treasury department devoted to the promotion of defense bond sales. He will have headquarters in Washington and serve as an assistant in the office headed by William Pickens.

In explaining the appointment the following statement was issued:

"The treasury department felt the need of adding an additional person to the staff who had had experience and success in promoting and establishing various types of community organization, also a person whose interracial integrity, moral courage and intellectual honesty was known to and respected by white and colored citizens in all parts of the nation.

"Mr. Thomas has had marked success in organizing some 10 branches of the National Urban League, he is also the founder of the Atlanta University School of Social Work.



JESSE O. THOMAS

"For a number of years he was employed as field secretary of Tuskegee institute, with headquarters in Rochester, N. Y. He resigned this position to become the principal of Voorhees Industrial institute at Denmark, S. C., which had a faculty and administrative staff of 31 persons representing many of the leading educational institutions in America. He resigned this position to accept the position as state supervisor of Negro economics in the state of New York. At the same time he served as examiner in charge of U. S. Employment Service, New York City.

"In 1919 he resigned from the position with the federal government to accept the position as field secretary of the National Urban League and established headquarters in Atlanta.

OCT 17 1941

"During 1939, when the executive secretary of the National Urban League became seriously ill, the appointee's base of operation was transferred to New York, where he became the acting executive secretary of the National Urban League. It is reported that more new sources of financial income were discovered during the year he was in charge than the organization had found during a single year since 1931."

DR. F. H. GOW

GUEST SPEAKER —Dr. F. H. Gow, pastor, Bethel AME Church, Capetown, South Africa, will be guest speaker at Allister Temple AME Church, Rev. L. G. Long pastor, Sunday at 11 a. m. Dr. Gow is a member of colored advisory Council of Union of S. Africa, receiver of the Kings medal for work done for us and approved by Bishops Council of AME Church recently for election as bishopric for S. African work.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Appointed On Ga. State College Faculty

NOV 1 1941

Booker T. Washington.

Mrs. Julia L. Skinner, above, was recently appointed a resident teacher trainer at Georgia State College, after having been on the faculty of Bluefield State College, West Virginia, for twelve years, as director of home economics department. NOV 1 1941

Mrs. Skinner obtained both her bachelors and masters degrees from Columbia University. She has also studied beyond her Masters which includes one summer at Chicago University and foreign study in Europe and South America, directed by Columbia University and two years of law completed. Her teaching positions have been both private and state.

Her name is listed in the 'Who's Who In American Education," 1938 edition; "Who's Who In Colored America," 1932 edition. She is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. The appointee has also compiled one hundred selected sayings of

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Tuskegee Grad Leads Fort Benning Band

NOV 22 1941

Pvt. Alton A. Davenport, 26, Birmingham, Alabama, schoolteacher, and graduate of Tuskegee Institute, is shown leading the newly created band at the Reception Center, Fort Benning, Ga. Starting his musical career at the age of 10 by beating on kitchen utensils, Private Davenport has followed music throughout his high school and college career and now into professional life.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Davenport of Birmingham. He was graduated from the Conservatory of Music at Tuskegee in 1937 with a bachelor of science degree in music education and immediately joined the public school faculty in Birmingham where he taught until he was inducted into the Army May 28, 1941. During his spare time as a civilian Davenport played the drum with Fess Whatley's orchestra, a dance band.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

8 STATE UNITS AT WEEK-END REGIONAL MEET

NOV 22 1941

Reveal $15,000 More For 1941 Has Been Given To Association

Representatives from Detroit, Chicago, New York, Connecticut, Washington, D. C., Kentucky, Pennsylvania, and Albama attended a two-day regional meeting of the Tuskegee Alumni Association here Saturday and Sunday, November 8 and 9, at the Phyllis Wheatley association.

Highlights of the meeting were addresses by Frank P. Chisholm of Connecticut, a Tuskegee graduate of the class of 1902, who has been a field agent for Tuskegee in the East for 30 years. NOV 22 1941

Fifteen thousand dollars more has already been contributed to Tuskegee by friends this year than last year, stated Chisholm. He also stressed the importance of complete coordination between the trustees, administrative staff and the alumni.

Capt. Alvin J. Neely, executive secretary of the alumni association, gave a brief sketch of the financial support the alumni has rendered to Tuskegee during the last 15 years. Thirty-three dollars was presented to Captain Neely by the assembly as an expression of appreciation for the 33 years of service he has already rendered Tuskegee institute and the General Alumni association.

Correspondence was read from Col. John C. Robinson, Claude A. Barnett, Dr. Alfonso Henningburg, Percy R. Hines, Jesse O. Thomas and the Milwaukee club expressing their regrets for not being able to attend the meeting.

Saturday memorial services were held for Dr. Washington. Fred D. Crayton gave an appropriate address for the occasion and many others joined in with quotations and eulogy for the founder of Tuskegee institute. Music was furnished by the Maxwell quartet.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Sellers in honor of visiting delegates after the Saturday night business session. More than 100 were in attendance.

The assembly went on record as organizing into a temporary body pending the approval of the General Alumni association at its next annual meeting.

Sylvester S. Davis, president of the Cleveland Tuskegee Alumni was elected regional president; Robert H. McClasky of Louisville Ky., vice president; Doris Murphy of Chicago, Ill., secretary; Mary Trotter of Detroit, assistant secretary; C. M. Kynette of Cleveland, corresponding secretary and C. B. Hosmer of Detroit, treasurer.

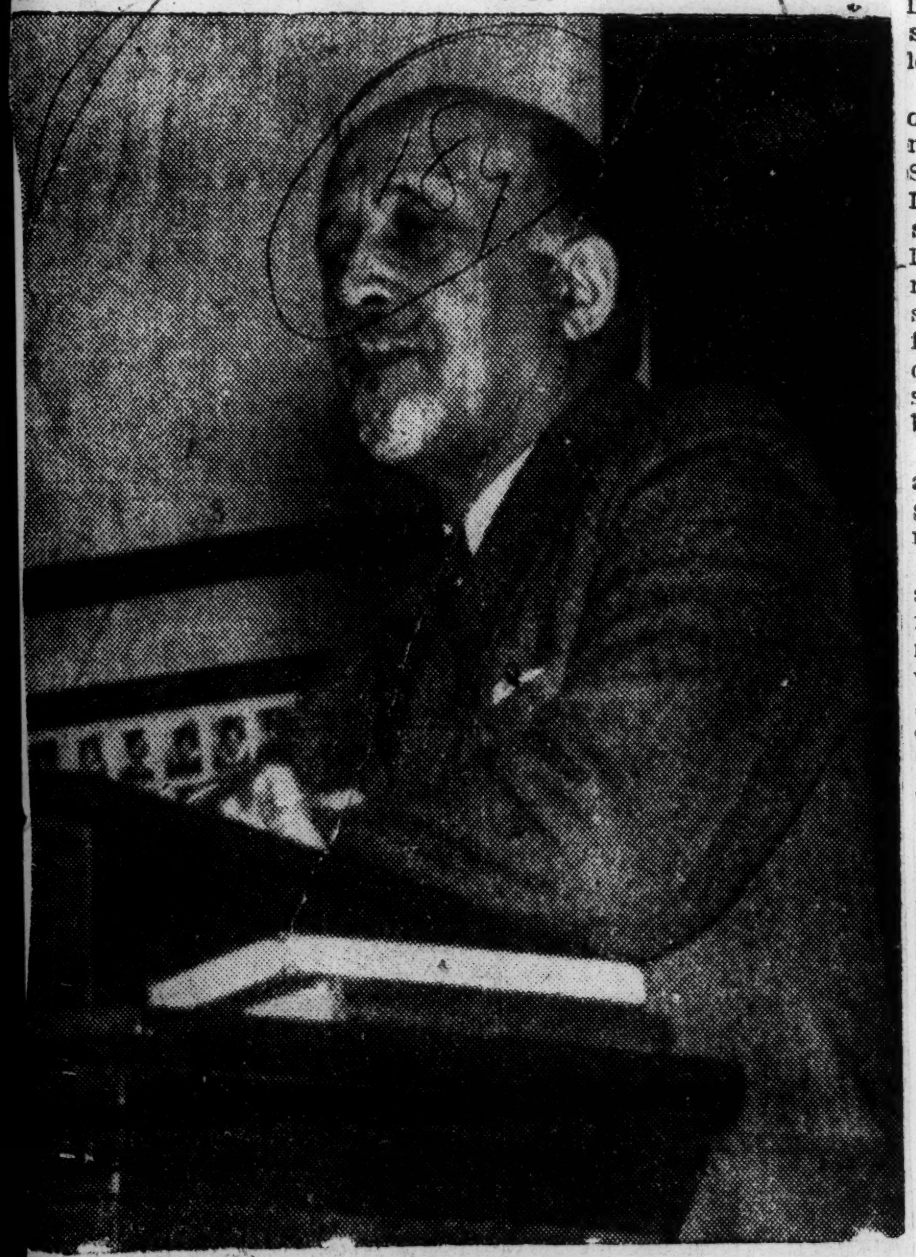
At the end of the meeting heads were bowed in a brief moment of silence in memory of the late Minor C. Reid who labored to help build the Cleveland-Tuskegee Alumni and founded the Cleveland-Tuskegee Alumni Credit Union.

The next meeting will be held in Detroit on Saturday and Sunday preceeding Labor Day, 1942.

18y [1941]
Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

He Traces World's Ills

MAR 2 - 1941



Dr. W. E. B. DuBois of Atlanta University, who as the first speaker in Tuskegee's Lewis Adams Lecture Series, told his hearers last week that the "present economic stress began with the African slaves trade and the subsequent capitalistic system that developed in England."

World's Present Ills Laid To Slave Trade

MAR 2 - 1941

LEWIS ADAMS LECTURE SERIES

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE—(SNS)—The Lewis Adams Lecture Series, sponsored by the Community Service Foundation of the Tuskegee Institute School of Education, had a most auspicious beginning with Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, famed author, sociologist, and scholar as its lecturer, Friday.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute and chairman of the Tuskegee Community Service Foundation introduced Dr. DuBois as "a shining light of scholarly opinion." He referred to Dr. DuBois' long years of achievement in the field of letters and sociology, and Tuskegee's good fortune to hear him discuss "Cooperatives: A way Out of the Present World-Wide Economic Shambles."

Dr. DuBois said in part: "You are in the midst of one of the great revolutions of the world—a revolution of work and wages that is world-wide. Economic illiteracy is a grave present ill. We now regard economics with the same mystery as that with which the world once surrounded disease and hospitals. Many people think income is a matter of luck; others think it is the result of effort; still others contend it is reward."

Dr. DuBois said, "The present economic stress began with the African slave trade and the subsequent capitalistic system that developed in England. The 18th Century heard the cry for freedom, but it was freedom for mechantile expansion, adventure for profit. In our day a technique of handling goods grew up and with it the voice of the masses demanding a place in the new commercialism," continued Dr. DuBois. "Labor became looked upon as a commodity. Out of this grew up a philosophy regarding laborers as people who could not think, but who were born to labor for others.

"Trade Unions developed as a part of the imperialism of England and France." DuBois said that while poverty and unemployment were rampant in this country, in Rochedale, England, a group of thinkers began to unravel this great economic tangle and to take the mystery out of income through the organization of cooperatives. The speaker cited the evils of present day advertising that results in the public buying beyond its means, and the coffers of the capitalists being filled thereby.

The courageous professor challenged the sincerity of thousands of Americans who make lavish use of the term "Democracy" and the "Democratic Way of Life" as the alpha and omega of their desires and designs. "Nine out of ten people don't really want equality—that is what democracy means," said DuBois. "Most people want just the opposite—everybody wants to be on the level of those just above him. You can't have democracy work by saying you believe people ought to have it. It is necessary to educate people in the understanding of the way to run organized efforts before you can have democracy in anything," insisted Dr. DuBois. Dr. DuBois expressed belief that Negroes should join the thinkers, form cooperatives, become producer conscious and get in on the ground floor; change from economic illiteracy to economic literacy, by changing their ideas of production for sale to ideas of production for use.

Huntsville Ala. Times
January 14, 1941

Tuskegee Center To Be Dedicated

$161,350 Institution To Treat Paralysis Among Negroes Ready

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 14 (AP)—The new $161,350 center, for research and instruction in the treatment of infantile paralysis among negroes, will be dedicated tomorrow in ceremonies participated in by representatives of Tuskegee Institute, the Infantile Paralysis Foundation and the Rosenwald fund.

The money for the center was provided by the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, and Basis O'Connor, president, will be the principal dedication speaker.

Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director, negro health, Julius Rosenwald fund, will outline the need for the institution.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the Tuskegee College for Negroes, said the center would conduct exhaustive research and train negro physicians and nurses who will return to localities throughout the nation and specialize in treatment of the disease.

The center, to be under direction of Drs. J. W. Chenault and J. A. Kenny, will have a 30-bed capacity. The building cost $80,000 equipment $40,000 and the remainder of the available funds was set aside for the first year's operations.

Dr. Patterson said technicians of the nearby infantile paralysis treatment center, Warm Springs, Ga., would be very valuable in the undertaking for negroes, by helpful guidance in a consulting capacity.

Montgomery, Ala. Journal
January 14, 1941

Paralysis Center To Be Dedicated

O'Connor to Be Principal Speaker At Tuskegee Rites

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The new $161,350 center, for research and instruction in the treatment of infantile parlysis among negroes, will be dedicated tomorrow in ceremonies participated in by representatives of Tuskegee Institute, the Infantile Paralysis Foundation and the Rosenwald Fund.

The money for the center was provided by the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, and Basis O'Connor, president, will be the principal dedication speaker.

Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director, negro health, Julius Rosenwald Fund, will outline the need for the institution.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the Tuskegee College for Negroes, said the center would conduct exhaustive research and train negro physicians and nurses who will return to localities throughout the nation and specialize in treatment of the disease.

The center, to be under direction of Drs. J. W. Chenault and J. A. Kenny, will have a 30-bed capacity. The building cost $80,000, equipment $40,000 and the remainder of the available funds was set aside for the first year's operations.

Dr. Patterson said technicians of the nearby infantile paralysis treatment center, Warm Springs, Ga., would be very valuable to the undertaking for negroes, by helpful guidance in a consulting capacity.

Atlanta Ga. Journal
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Center Is Dedicated

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP). Tuskegee Institute's new medical center was ready Thursday to be utilized in teaching Negro physicians and nurses improved methods of treating infantile paralysis, after dedicatory exercises here Wednesday.

The $161,350 center was built through co-operation of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, the Rosenwald Fund and Tuskegee Institute.

President Roosevelt, in a message to Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foudation, declared that from the medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia
JAN 23 1941

Announce Staff For Infantile Paralysis Unit

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS)—The official staff of the newly dedicated $161,350 Infantile Paralysis Center which has been erected here for Negroes was announced this week by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., of which Basil O'Connor is president.

The men and women who will form the personnel of the new unit were listed as follows:

Dr. John A. Kenney, Medical Director, John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital; Dr. John W. Chenault, Director Infantile Paralysis Center.

Dr. John A. Kenney and Dr. George C. Branche, members of the Board of Admission.

Mr. Edmund H. Burke, Treasurer, Tuskegee Institute Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Incorporated.

Miss Irene C. Kennedy, Secretary, formerly with United States Housing Authority, Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Marjorie Franklin, Head of Physical Therapy, registered Physical Therapy Graduate, University of Michigan; she recently returned from a year's special study in the New York hospital for ruptured and cripple.

Miss Lula Boswell, Head Nurse, formerly student health service, Wilberforce University, recently member of Slossfield Nursing Staff, Birmingham, Alabama. Miss Boswell has pursued graduate work at University Hospital, Augusta, Georgia and Harlem Hospital, New York.

Miss Juanita Turpin, Nurse graduate, John A. Andrew Nurse Training School, Tuskegee Institute.

Miss Catherine Parker, Nurse, graduate, John A. Andrew Nurse Training School, Tuskegee Institute Miss Parker has done a year of graduate work at the University of California.

Mrs. Sally Miller Adams, Nurse, formerly City Hospital, Columbus, Georgia.

Miss Marie Harris, Nurse, Graduate, John A. Andrew Nurse Training School. Miss Harris is on leave for 9 months for special study at Cook County School of Nursing, Cook County, Illinois.

Mr. Frank L. West, Head, Shoemaking Division, Tuskegee Institute in charge of Trace Making shop.

Mrs. Martha Reed, Supervisor of Household, A. and I. College, Nashville, Tenn.

JAN 23

Mr. James Upshaw, Maintenance Manager, Graduate, Tuskegee Institute, School of Mechanical Industries.

Orderlies: Irvin Birmingham, Coy Simms and Medford Trawick.

Nursing Attendants: Mrs. Ruby Byrd Wright and Mrs. Audry Bacon Byrd.

Pool Attendants: Elliott Van Zandt and Cleophus Stewart.

New Orleans, La., Times-Picayune
January 17, 1941

Roosevelt Lauds Tuskegee on New Medical Center

(The Associated Press)

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 16.—President Roosevelt said in a message Wednesday that from the dedication of Tuskegee Institute's new $161,350 medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

The message was read by Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, who also delivered the principal dedicatory address of the center, to be utilized in teaching Negro physicians and nurses how better to treat infantile paralysis cases among members of their race.

The center was built through co-operation of O'Connor's foundation, the Rosenwald Fund and Tuskegee Institute, the Deep South's major seat of learning for Negroes.

Macon Ga. News
January 16, 1941

New Polio Center Opens in Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., [AP]—Tuskegee Institute's new medical center was ready today to be utilized in teaching Negro physicians and nurses improved methods of treating infantile paralysis, after dedicatory exercises here yesterday.

The $161,350 center was built through co-operation of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, the Rosenwald Fund and Tuskegee Institute.

President Roosevelt, in a message to Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, declared that from the medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

TUSKEGEE GRANTED $2,000 FELLOWSHIP

NEW YORK, July 31—(ANP)—The distribution by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis of new grants totaling $195,030 with which to carry on its battle to conquer infantile paralysis was anounced Friday by Basil O'Connor, New York, president of the Foundation.

Included in the grants is one to Tuskegee institute, for $2,000 to provide a fellowship for a man trained in orthopedic shoe making.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

The Globe Trotter

By Cliff Mackay

Let's Help

JAN 19 1941

ONE OF THE MOST terrible diseases to afflict mankind is the dread scourge of infantile paralysis. During the last few years nationwide attention has been focussed on the drive to eradicate infantile paralysis through the annual President Roosevelt birthday balls held on January 30, through Eddie Cantor's proposal of the 'march of dimes," and through the "mile of dimes" campaigns.

In none of these efforts have Negroes become overly enthusiastic, though Negro children fall victims of this dread disease in the same, if not greater, proportion than do white children.

The money raised through these annual drives is turned over to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., of which Mr. Basil O.Conner is president. A percentage of the funds raised in each locality is left to be spent by local units of this organization The balance is used to conduct a nation wide campaign against the disease.

JAN 19 194

FOR WHITE ONLY

The focal point of the national effort has been centered at Warm Springs, Ga., where an elaborate center has been erected for white sufferers of the disease. No facilities had been provided there for Negro patients.

This fact proved the chief complain of many Negroes who chanced to be approached for support of the drive and was used by many as an excuse not to contribute. Even in the face of this failure to provide facilities for Negroes, a surprisingly large number of Negroes, because they knew the bulk of the funds would be turned over to the local setup where their people were being given aid through clinics, generously gave to the fund. Some of these have even staged birthday balls.

No longer need Negroes hesitate to rally whole-heartedly behind this humanitarian movement, for at Tuskegee has been erected an Infantile Paralysis Center that will equal in design, equipment and personnel any to be found in the world.

JAN 19 1941

This writer had the good fortune to be at Tuskegee on January 15 when the formal dedicatory program was held for this new unit and had the pleasure of being conducted through the beautiful fireproof three-story building.

MORE THAN A HOSPITAL

Just as Mr. O'Conner asserted in his dedicatory address, which no doubt, many of you heard broadcast, this center is more than just a hospital, where patients come seeking relief. How true that is in more than one way.

It is a monumet to the skill and genius of young Negro craftsmen. Plans for this beautiful building were prepared by two young men, George L. Washington, director of Tuskegee's School of Mechanical Industries, and Louis Fry, head of the division of agriculture. They decided on the designed after a careful inspection of the Warm Springs Foundation and the Denver Crippled Children's Hospital.

The plans were accepted by the foundation and turned over to Calvin McKissack, widely known Negro builder of Nashville, who took charge as superintendent of construction. The vast resources of Tuskegee were called upon. Electrical student solved the difficult wiring problem, plumbing students worked out all details of this phase of construction, carpenters and brickmasons did their share in building this useful monument to the skill of Negro builders.

And embodied in Dr. John W. Chenault, who is to serve as director of the new center, is all the skill of Negro surgery. He is a refutation of the stupid assertion on the part of some our people that "Negroes doctors just can't do it."

BUILT AROUND CHENAULT

So brilliant is this young orthodepic specalist, that it was frankly admitted that the decision to grant the $161,350 for the erection of the building very definitely hinged on the fact that Dr. Chenault was to serve as its director.

And the contribution the center and its staff can make to the relentless campaign being waged to combat this mysterious disease that is leaving thousands with withered limbs and deformed hands and feet cannot be measured.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa

"Gays" Present Library To 'Kegee

A movable library was presented to the Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis Hospital at Tuskegee Alabama last week by the members of the Gay Northeasterners, an organization of young women prominent in eastern society with chapters in the large cities along the Atlantic coast north of Washington, D. C.

Planned in such a way that it will reach all patients, the library will contain books being selected by Morteza D. Sprague, director of the Tuskegee Institute library. The group plans to add to the library from time to time.

MAY 22 194

For a number of years, the Gay Northeasterners, founded in June, 1929, have done charitable work. A scholarship is given each year to an outstanding student attending Howard University. In 1940, an award was given to a graduate nurse to enable her to pursue a post-graduate course in public health nursing at Virginia Medical college.

Members of the Philadelphia Chapter of this organization to whom credit is due for their commendable efforts are: Mesdames Helen Wormley, Lela Jones, Lenore Ashe, Phyllis Berry, Edna Harris, Marian Wyatt, Dorothy Amonitti, Lucille Paul, Peggy Wood, Barbara Abele, Irene Connor, Dorothy Feagans, Laura Nash, Grace Marshall, Virgil Spaulding, (Hazel Thomas, Charlotte Strickland, Marian Stubbs, and Miss Mary White, who also serves the group as national president.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Shoemaker For Crippled Children To Be Trained

NEW YORK—(ANP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has just announced at its headquarters here, the appropriation of $10,906 for the hospital unit for crippled children, located at Tuskegee Institute. This is the sum which was expended beyond the first $161,000 appropriation.

An additional $2,000 has been appropriated to defray the cost of having Tuskegee train an orthopedic brace and shoemaker during the coming year, to take the place of the present worker who has reached retirement age. A complete booklet telling the story of the Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis unit is in course of preparation and will be available for the public soon.

18y-1941

Washington Tribune
Washington, D. C.

POLIO CENTER

"Gays" Aid Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis Hospital

The Gay Northeasterners, an exclusive social club composed of daughters of prominent negro families in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore, has presented a movable library to the Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis Hospital at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama. The library can be wheeled to the bedside of patients and the books are being selected by Director Morteza D. Sprague of the Tuskegee Institute library. The new hospital, where negro victims of the crippling disease are receiving every possible medical attention under the direction of the noted surgeon, Dr. John W. Chenault, was constructed and equipped at Tuskegee through funds granted by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

JUN 6 1941

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

JUN 6 1941

TUSKEGEE NURSES TO SPONSOR BALL FOR POLIO VICTIMS

DEC 6 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Dec. 4—The Tuskegee Graduate Nurses' Association has accepted the invitation of the Tuskegee chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to sponsor the annual President's Birthday Ball in January, 1942, Dr. John W. Chenault, chapter vice-chairman and director of the Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis Center, has announced.

Mrs. Olive Taylor Hall, formerly with the nursing staff of Lincoln Hospital, New York and more recently with the John A. Andrews Memorial Hospital, Tuskegee, is president of the Association.

Chicago Defender
Chicago. Illinois

Warm Springs, Tuskegee Use Therapy Equipment Manufactured By Negro

MAR 8 1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Paul E. Johnson, manufacturer of physical therapy and X-ray equipment who operates one of the most important manufacturing concerns within the race, with his plant located in Chicago, announced this week that he has furnished therapy equipment to both the Warm Springs, Ga., infantile paralysis unit and the new hospital of the same type located at Tuskegee institute.

Johnson, speaking with pardonable pride of the increasing recognition which hospitals and physicians are giving to the apparatus which he makes completely, said he was especially gratified at the support which came from people within his own group.

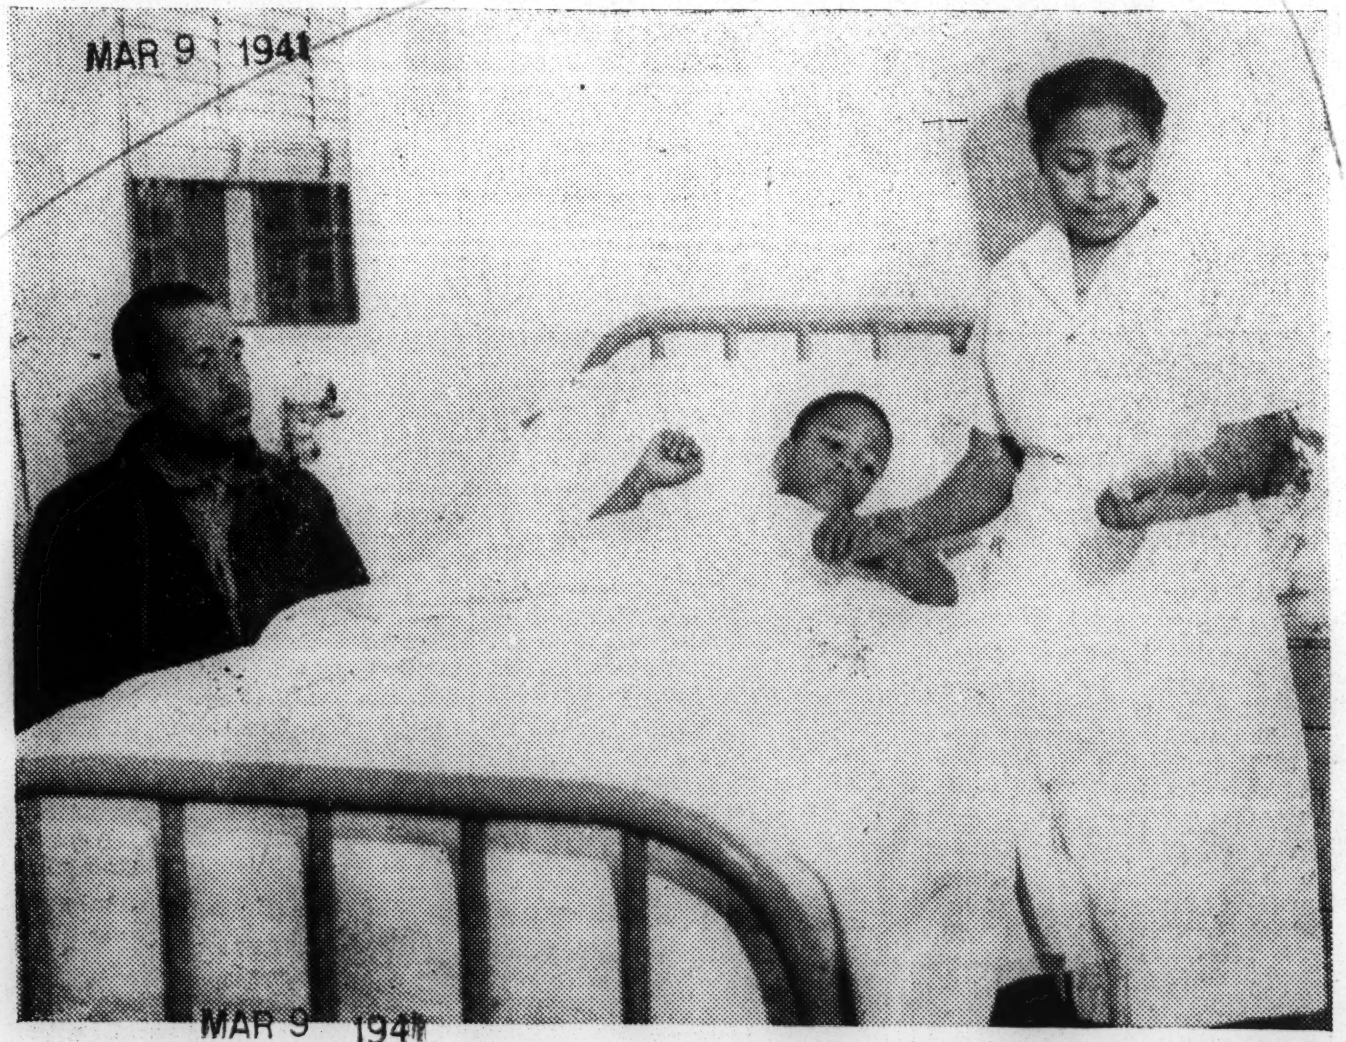
He sells to many white organizations as well but as he exhibited photostatic copies of checks for $1,550 from Tuskegee; $1,550 from Dr. B. O. Moore who operates a hospital at Hopkinsville, Ky., and a similar amount from the Louisiana Industrial Life Insurance company, he said, "Negro hospitals and insurance companies are converting the nickels, dimes and quarters received from their Negro policyholders into modern equipment costing from $1,000 to $3,000, purchased from a Negro manufacturer. That is a lesson in practical racial economics, for every machine purchased adds to the employment of Negroes."

MAR 8 1941

Johnson, who has been engaged in production of his line for a score of years, makes shock-proof x-ray, short wave diathermy, electro-surgical, galvanic current, sinusoidal current, artificial fever and colonis-therapy equipment and also manufactures mercury quartz lamps; luminious infra-red lamps; carbon arc lamps, water-cooled lamps, hospital and Y.M.C.A. solariums and physical therapy accessories.

Georgia's First Negro Polio Patient

MAR 9 1941



MAR 9 1941

Georgia's first patient to be admitted to the newly opened Infantile Paralysis Center at Tuskegee Institute is shown being visited by his father, D. C. Graham, of Thomaston. Miss Warren Turpin, nurse, attends the young fellow.

18y-1941
Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

JAN 16 1941

Fighting Infantile Paralysis

Early patients at the new Infantile Paralysis Center at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, find it easy to smile away their worries as Nurse Harleaux (above) reads them amusing stories. The Center has been developed through a grant of $161,350 made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. (Lower left) Tuskegee president and medical officers inspect the new Center. Left to right, Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute; Dr. John Chenault, Director of Orthopedics, and Dr. John Kenny. (Lower right) Dr. John Chenault, left, and Engineer G. L. Washington study the blueprints of the new building.

Dedicate Tuskegee's New Infantile Paralysis Hospital

JAN 16 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (ANP)—Tuskegee Institute again spreads its protecting wings in its great welfare work among the Negroes of America, with a model hospital for the study and treatment of infantile paralysis dedicated yesterday (Wednesday), and made possible by the "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaigns and the President Birthday Balls.

No ordinary structure is this artistic building. Each block of stone, each brick and tile has been laid by the kindly hands of Tuskegee students and Negro craftsmen. They knew they were building for the future of their race. Theirs was an inspired labor of love.

From this infantile paralysis center, in the heart of the deep South, will go Negro doctors and nurses trained to fight infantile paralysis.

Sees Great Need Filled

They will return to the crowded Negro districts of the country and to the rural sections of the South, equipped with everything medical science can provide to combat the ravages of the mysterious disease which has taken such a toll among Negro children, leaving thousands with twisted bodies, withered limbs and deformed hands and feet. Said Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee:

"The Negro people of America are happy for the opportunity which the infantile paralysis center will provide not only for the restoration of young bodies afflicted for training doctors and nurses who will in turn combat this dreaded disease on a nationwide basis.

"It has been an especial pleasure for Tuskegee Institute not only to share in the benefits that shall come from the work of the Center, but to have shared in the construction of the building."

JAN 16 1941

Built by Foundation

The hospital was made possible by a grant of $161,350. It was authorized under the direction of Basil O'Connor, president of the foundation and the foundation trustees, after long study of the problem in cooperation with Dr. Patterson.

Tuskegee was selected because it is devoted to the welfare of Negroes and because a brilliant surgeon Dr. John W. Chenault, is director of the orthopedic work.

Hailed For Research

Dr. Chenault will be in charge of the training of Negro doctors and surgeons in orthopedic work, the training of orthopedic nurses and the training of physiotherapists. He said:

"The establishment of The Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis Center is one of the important milestones in the progress of medical endeavor in the South. The far reaching influences of this center are not limited by race, creed or color because the true spirit of medicine recognizes no such barriers in service to humanity.

"In our struggle against infantile paralysis a center for research and training of workers, such as this one we have through the generosity of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is indeed a momentous step. Those of us who are associated with the Center fully realize the wonderful opportunity for service presented us and we unhesitatingly pledge our utmost efforts."

It is interesting to note that Dr. Chenault is one of the two noted Negro orthopedic surgeons in the United States. Born in Sheridan, Wyoming, and graduated in medicine from the University of Minnesota, Dr. Chenault secured special training at the University of Chicago and the University of Iowa.

Chenault Well Trained

Through the Julius Rosenwald Fund of Chicago, Dr. Chenault was sent to Tuskegee to work among crippled Negro children and, despite many obstacles, succeeded beyond all expectations. Here was a man who never had been south but who went into the heart of the black belt and is enthusiastic over his work.

Designed by Negroes

Plans for the hospital were prepared by George D. Washington, director of the School of Mechanical Industries at Tuskegee, and Louis Fry, head of the division of architecture. They inspected the facilities at Warm Springs, Ga., and the noted Crippled Children's Hospital at Denver. They prepared specifications for a hospital which ranks as one of the finest infantile paralysis institutions in the entire country. The plans were accepted by the foundation, with Calvin McKissack, superintendent of construction, and ground was broken January 12, last year.

It was decided insofar as possible to use Tuskegee students from the various trade schools in the building construction. All of the highly complicated electrical installation was done entirely by students. Negro workmen from Tuskegee and other nearby places were assigned to various tasks and were as devoted as the students in their labor.

True indeed in this case is the inscription carved in the magnificent monument to Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee, which stands close by this new building of mercy:

"We shall prosper in porportion as we learn to dignify and glorify labor."

JAN 16 1941

Montgomery, Ala. Advertiser
January 15, 1941

Paralysis Center To Be Dedicated

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The new $161,350 center, for research and instruction in the treatment of infantile parlysis among negroes, will be dedicated Wednesday in ceremonies participated in by representatives of Tuskegee Institute, the Infantile Paralysis Foundation and the Rosenwald Fund.

The money for the center was provided by the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, and Basis O'Connor, president, will be the principal dedication speaker.

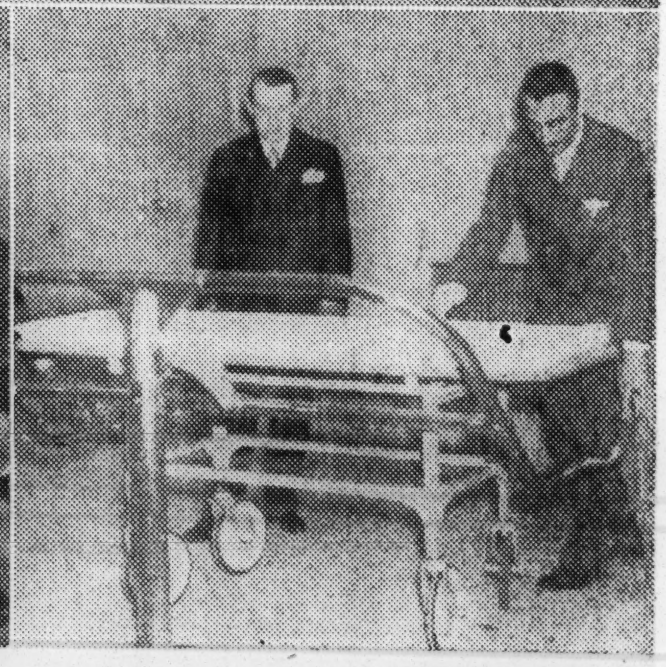
Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director, negro health, Julius Rosenwald Fund, will outline the need for the institution.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the Tuskegee College for Negroes, said the center would conduct exhaustive research and train negro physicians and nurses who will return to localities throughout the nation and specialize in treatment of the disease.

The center, to be under direction of Drs. J. W. Chenault and J. A. Kenny, will have a 30-bed capacity. The building cost $80,000, equipment $40,000 and the remainder of the available funds was set aside for the first year's operations.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

As New "Polio" Center Was Dedicated



Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., is shown as he delivered the principal address Wednesday during the dedicatory exercises for the new Infantile Paralysis Center, which has been erected at Tuskegee Institute for Negro sufferers. Pictured on platform l to r are The Rev. R. V. Richardson, Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director, Negro health, Rosenwald Fund, and Dr. John W. Chenault, who will serve as director of the new center. At bottom left pictured l to r are Drs. Chenault, Patterson and Mr. O'Connor, while at bottom right shown inspecting the hydraulic elevator which raises and lowers patients into the swimming pool are Mr. O'Connor and Dr. Chenault. (SNS Staff Photos.)

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Tuskegee Gets $195,000 For Fight On Polio

NEW YORK, Aug. (ANP) — The distribution by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis of new grants totaling $195,030 with which to carry on its battle to conquer infantile paralysis was announced Friday by Basil O'Connor, New York, president of the Foundation.

Included in the grants is one to Tuskegee Institute, for $1,500 to provide a fellowship for a man trained in orthopedic shoe making. Because of the importance of specially constructed shoes for infantile paralysis victims whose feet have been affected by the disease, the grant will make it possible for this man to go to Warm Springs, Ga., and other centers occasionally for study.

Infantile Paralysis Funds Break Record

WASHINGTON (ANP)—Sweeping high above all former records, the 1941 celebration of the President's birthday to raise funds for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis produced a net total of $2,104,460.53, it was reported to President Roosevelt today. This was a gain of $697,214.79 over the 1940 record mark.

Tuskegee's clinic for the treatment of infantile paralysis is a direct result of this annual drive by the Foundation. Opened last January, the clinic is now in full operation.

Under the usual plan of the national foundation, approximately one-half of the net proceeds will be used by state and county chapters of the foundation to aid those in various communities stricken by the disease. The other portion of the funds will be expended by the foundation to combat epidemics of infantile paralysis, for research, and for aiding hospitals and institutions in the study of the treatment of the disease.

——A Colored Judge——

18y-1941

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Polio Center Is Dedicated At Tuskegee

JAN 16 1941

Message From President Roosevelt Is Read At Exercises

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., Jan. 15. — Tuskegee Institute dedicated its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center here Wednesday afternoon. The exercises were held in the beautiful institute chapel built by students in 1896. In this historic chapel Presidents of the United States and leaders in all walks of life have spoken.

A statement from the President of the United States, read by Basil O'Connor said: "From this new center at Tuskegee Institute with its many lay and professional visitors, is medical workers, agricultural agents, teachers and alumni, all dedicated to a better rural South, will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and over-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, Incorporated, New York City, also delivered the principal address. He referred to the center as "a venture in education. From this hospital will go forth increased knowledge of the need and method of caring for this type of patient. Here persons in all the professions and trades and all the activities of life will have an opportunity to learn more about the method of care and the means of making such services available to a large part of the population."

Other speakers included Dr. M. O. Bousefield, director, negro health, Julius Rosenwald Fund, Chicago; Dr. John W. Chenault, who will have charge of the center, and Dr. John A. Kennedy, medical director, John A. Andrew hospital.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said "Through this unit the negro people are permitted to share in the funds so generously contributed on a nationwide basis to combat the dread disease—infantile paralysis — and its maiming after effects."

Congratulatory messages were read from presidents of Tuskegee alumni chapters, the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons in convention in New Orleans, distinguished physicians and surgeons from all sections of the country as well as leaders in other fields. The State Department of Health and the Department of Education of Alabama sent representatives.

Dr. Patterson in presenting O'Connor said: "We are happy to present our next speaker, not only because he is the head of an important national foundation, but because he is a great humanitarian, a proven friend, a man for whom democracy is not merely a theory, but a way of life."

This was O'Connor's second visit to the institute. In May, 1939, at the commencement exercises he thrilled the vast audience in the institute chapel by stating the national foundation had made a grant of $161,350 to Tuskegee Institute for the erection and furnishing of an infantile paralysis center to adjoin the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, of which Dr. John A. Kennedy is medical director. The announcement had followed closely upon a visit to the institute of Dr. Paul DeGruif to study Tuskegee's facilities for treatment and health training.

There had been many visits also from Dr. M. O. Bousefield and many conferences in New York and on the campus between Dr. Patterson and representatives of the foundation.

With appropriate ceremonies, ground was broken for the new center, Jan. 12, 1940. The national foundation was represented by Peter J. A. Cusack, executive secretary.

Attending the exercises: Sidney Gassenheimer, State treasurer, Alabama Crippled Children's Society; E. H. Gentry, executive secretary, Alabama Society for Crippled Children, State Department of Education; Miss Loula Dunn, State commissioner, Department of Welfare; Mrs. Edward H. Gresham, director of child welfare; Mrs. Francis P. Stevenson, assistant chief, welfare projects, WPA.; J. B. Hobdy, State director, vocational education; Capt. J. A. Ellis, Maxwell Field, Montgomery; Edward H. Shimm, U. S. Department of Agriculture; Dr. Roscoe Brown, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington; P. O. Davis, director Alabama Extension Service, Auburn; J. H. Orr, manager, radio station, WJHO, Opelika; T. W. Spence, principal, Macon County High School, Notasulga; Prof. W. B. Riley, superintendent of education, Macon County; Ross Ford, county superintendent of education, Marion County; Rev. John C. Wright, pastor, First Congregational Church, Atlanta; Clarence C. Hart, T. C. King, Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. George Ross, Lewiston, Maine; Mrs. Mary Daniel Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lee, Mrs. Corinne Hill, Mrs. Pauline D. Hall, Albany, Ga.; J. C. Evans, West Virginia State College; John L. Murphy, West Virginia State College; Rev. Leo Farragher, St. Joseph's Church, Rev. C. M. Haygood, Tuskegee; J. C. Ballard, representing President W. J. Hale, Tennessee State College, Nashville.

TUSKEGEE TO FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS WITH NEW CENTER

JAN 25 1941

New Hospital for Study and Treatment of Paralysis Is Dedicated—President Roosevelt, Basil O'Conner Speak at Opening of New Health Center.

Courier

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 23. (ANP)—Tuskegee's infantile paralysis center, newly established hospital for the study and treatment of the disease, made possible through a grant from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. was dedicated at a program held in the Institute chapel Wednesday.

The principal address was delivered by Basil O'Conner, president of the foundation which made the center possible. His address as well as remarks by the president of Tuskegee, Dr. F. D Patterson, Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director for Negro health, Julius Rosenwald Fund; Dr. J. W. Chenault director of the Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis center, and President Roosevelt, were broadcast over the NBC hookup.

Largely because of the marked success of Dr. Chenault, director of the orthopedic work, who was sent here by the Rosenwald Fund of Chicago, to work among crippled Negro children, and because Tuskegee is devoted to the welfare of Negroes, the school was selected as the place for the establishment of the unique center for training doctors and nurses from all over the country who will return to other parts of the country equipped with knowledge to combat the disease.

Negro Labor News
Houston, Texas

Tuskegee Polio Gets Increased Sum From Agency

NEW YORK CITY—(ANP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has just announced at its headquarters here, the appropriation of $10,900 for the hospital unit for crippled children, located at Tuskegee Institute. This is the sum which was expended beyond the first $161,000 appropriation.

An additional $2,000 has been appropriated to defray the cost of having Tuskegee train an orthopedic brace [illegible] during the coming year, to take the place of the present worker who has reached retirement age. A complete booklet telling the story of the Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis unit is in course of preparation and will be available for the public soon.

News
Birmingham, Ala.

JAN 9 1941

Institute Is Presented On Paralysis Treatment

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Under the sponsorship of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, a post-graduate course in the care of paralysis victims was conducted recently at the Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis Center, established last year to provide care for Negro patients similar to that of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation.

The two-week course was conducted by Miss Mary Macdonald, orthopedic consultant of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing. In addition to nurses at Tuskegee, those from Brady Hospital, Atlanta, were enrolled.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Commenting on Tuskegee

FEB 7 19

FEB 7 1941

After the dedication exercises of the Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis Center, held in the Institute's chapel on January 15, 1941, Mr. Basil O'Connor is delighting the group with his comments on what he has seen. Reading from left to right: Dr. John W. Chenault, director of the Infantile Paralysis Center; Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director of Negro health, Julius Rosenwald Fund; Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc.; Miss Marjorie Franklin, head physical therapist, Infantile Paralysis Center; Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, and Dr. Roscoe Brown, U. S. Public Health Service.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

$60,338 'Kegee Building OK'd

FEB 2 1941

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 30 —(ANP)—The state administrator of the Works Projects Administration, W. G. Henderson, announced Tuesday approval of a project to construct a new vocational building at Tuskegee Institute.

The project is sponsored by the state department of education, will cost $60,338 and will accommodate 280 students.

$60,338 Tuskegee Building Approved

JAN 31 1941

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 30 (ANP)—The state administrator of the Works Projects Administration W. G. Henderson, announced Tuesday approval of a project to construct a new vocational building at Tuskegee institute.

The project is sponsored by the state department of education, will cost $60,338 and will accomodate 280 students.

Nashville Tenn

cal changes which find their erstwhile candidate giving heart aid and comfort to President Roosevelt whom he was condemning a few weeks ago with equal fervor.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

Their Topic: Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis Center

FEB 7 1941

MISS MARJORIE FRANKLIN, registered physical therapist, is explaining a particularly fine quality of the arrangement of the pool in the new Infantile Paralysis Center at Tuskegee institute. Her interested listeners are, left, BASIL O'CONNOR, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and, right, DR. ROSCOE BROWN of the U. S. Public Health Service. ANP Photo.

FEB 7 19

$60,338 BUILDING FOR TUSKEGEE IS APPROVED

FEB 7 1941

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 30 — (ANP)—The State Administrator of the Works Projects Administration W. G. Henderson, announced Tuesday, approval of a project to construct a new vocational building at Tuskegee Institute.

The project is sponsored by the State Department of Education, and will cost $60,338, accommodating 280 students.

Birmingham

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Roosevelt Sends Greetings As Tuskegee Opens New Infantile Paralysis Center

JAN 25 1941

Basil O'Connor, President of the National Foundation Delivers President's Message

Many Other Speakers Present

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(ANP)—At last Wednesday's dedication program, marking the opening of the new infantile paralysis center here, President Roosevelt sent a message of greeting to be delivered by Basil O'Connor, prsident of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, was in charge of the program and besides Mr. O'Connor, other speakers included: Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director for Negro Health, Rosenwald Fund; Dr. J. W. Chenault, director of the polio Center, and Dr. J. A. Kenny, medical director, John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital. The program was broadcast over NBC, the Blue Network.

President Roosevelt's message, in part, was as follows: "It is a privilege to have even an indirect part in the dedication of this new and important addition to the services of Tuskegee Institute. I am delighted that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is to be associated with this historic institution. Since its foundation in 1881 by the great Booker T. Washington, Tuskegee has grown steadily in physical equipment and general influence. It has become a central meeting place for various state, regional and national conferences on all problems pertaining to the Negro.

"This new hospital is to be used in the national program of research fostered by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It will make training available to potential orthopedic surgeons, nurses and technicians. It will keep competent, well trained doctors in this rural section because they will have available adequate equipment with which to work.

JAN 25 1941

"It will make improved medical services available in the event of an outbreak of infantile paralysis. From this new center at Tuskegee institute, with it many lay and professional visitors, its medical workers, agricultural agents, teachers and alumni, all dedicated to a better rural South, will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

In 1939, acting upon the recommendations of its medical advisors, the board of trustees of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis granted to Tuskegee institute, the sum of $161,350.00. This was to provide for the construction, equipment and maintenance for one year of a 35-bed infantile paralysis hospital for the care and after-treatment of Negro victims of the disease.

This infantile paralysis center will train Negro physicians, nurses and physical therapists in orthopedic (correction of deformities) work, and will disseminate educational information to all Negro doctors with respect to early and accurate diagnosis and proper after-care methods of treatment.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Tuskegee Institute To Have Model Hospital For Infantile Paralysis Fight

Is Made Possible By Grant of National Foundation

Will Train Doctors

JAN 18 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(ANP)—Through a grant of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the model hospital for the study and treatment of the dreaded disease has been erected here at Tuskegee and was to be dedicated on January 15.

From this infantile paralysis center, in the heart of the deep South, will go Negro doctors and nurses trained to fight infantile paralysis.

They will return to the crowded Negro districts of New York, Chicago, Detroit and other cities and to the rural sections of the South, equipped with everything medical science can provide to combat the ravages of the mysterious disease which has taken such a toll among Negro children, leaving thousands with twisted bodies, withered limbs and deformed hands and feet. Said Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee:

"The Negro people of America are happy for the opportunity which the infantile paralysis center will provide not only for the restoration of young bodies afflicted with this dreadful malady, but also because of the unique opportunity for training doctors and nurses, who wil in turn combat this disease on a nationwide basis."

The hospital was made possible by a grant of $161,350. It was authorized under the direction of Basil O'Connor, president of the Foundation, and the Foundation trustees, after long study of the problem in cooperation with Dr. Patterson.

Times-Picayune
New Orleans, La.

Roosevelt Lauds Tuskegee on New Medical Center

(The Associated Press)

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 16.—President Roosevelt said in a message Wednesday that from the dedication of Tuskegee Institute's new $161,350 medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

JAN 17 1941

The message was read by Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, who also delivered the principal dedicatory address of the center, to be utilized in teaching Negro physicians and nurses how better to treat infantile paralysis cases among members of their race.

The center was built through co-operation of O'Connor's foundation, the Rosenwald Fund and Tuskegee Institute, the Deep South's major seat of learning for Negroes.

Montgomery, Ala. Journal
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Dedicates New Medical Center

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Tuskegee Institute's new medical center was ready today to be utilized in teaching negro physicians and nurses improved methods of treating infantile paralysis, after dedicatory exercises here yesterday.

The $161,350 center was built through co-operation of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, the Rosenwald fund and Tuskegee Institute.

President Roosevelt, in a message to Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, declared that from the medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Paralysis Center At Tuskegee

JAN 2 1941

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Incorporated, through its president Basil O'Connor, on December 18, certified the Tuskegee Institute Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Incorporated.

Officers of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter are: Dr. F. D. Patterson, chairman; Dr. J. W. Chenault, vice-chairman; Edmund N. Burke, treasurer; B. B. Walcott, secretary. Dr. J. A. Kenny and Dr. E. W. Dibble are members of the executive committee.

The principal objectives of the chapter will be to raise funds for the national fight against infantile paralysis and serve in an advisory capacity for the activities of the Tuskegee Institute infantile paralysis center to be dedicated on the Institute campus January 15.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Paralysis Group O.K.'s Chapter At Tuskegee Center

JAN 4 1941

•The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., through its president, Basil O'Conner, December 18, certified the Tuskegee Institute chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis Incorporated. Officers of the Tuskegee Institute chapter are Dr. F. D Patterson, chairman; Dr. J. W Chenault, vice chairman; Edmund H. Burke, treasurer; B. B. Walcott, secretary. Dr. J. A. Kenny and Dr. E. H. Dibble are members of the executive committee.

The principal objectives of the chapter will be to raise funds for the national fight against infantile paralysis and serve in an advisory capacity for the activities of the Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis center to be dedicated on the institute campus January 15.

Bystander
Des Moines, Iowa

ANOTHER POLIO GRANT TO TUSKEGEE

New York, (ANP)—The distribution by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis of new grants totaling $195,030 with which to carry on its battle to conquer infantile paralysis was announced Friday by Basil O'Connor, New York, president of the Foundation.

JUL 31 1941

Included in the grants is one to Tuskegee Institute, for $2,000 to provide a fellowship for a man trained in orthopedic shoe making. Because of the importance of specially constructed shoes for infantile paralysis victims whose feet have been affected by the disease, the grant will make it possible for this man to go to Warm Springs, Ga., and other centers occasionally for study.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Miss Merze Tate Becomes Phi Beta Kappa Member

AUG 9 1941

MISS MERZE TATE, who in June received her Ph.D. degree from Radcliffe college, Harvard university, was, on June 17, initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, in the society's parlors of the Hotel Statler, Boston. Immediately following the ceremony, she and the other Ph.D. candidates were special guests at the Radcliffe College Alumnae dinner in the Imperial ballroom of the Statler. At the same meeting which elected ten Radcliffe seniors and six graduate students, including Miss Tate, Iota chapter of Massachusetts invited Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to become an honorary member, which invitation has been accepted. Miss Tate was already a member of Pi Gamma Mu, the National Social Science Honor society, to which less than half dozen Negroes belong.

Since 1936 Dr. Tate has been teaching in the Social Science Division at Bennett college in Greensboro and the preceding year she was dean of women and history instructor at Barber-Scotia Junior college in Concord, N. C. Before studying at Oxford she taught in Crispus Attucks high school in Indianapolis.

Miss Tate is now on holiday in the mid-west visiting relatives and friends in Detroit, Battle Creek, Lansing, Grand Rapids, Idlewild, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis and in the meantime handling the business connected with the forthcoming publication of her book, "The Movement for a Limitation of Armaments to 1907."

Columbus Ga Enquirer-Sun
July 26, 1941

GRANTS ANNOUNCED IN POLIO FIGHT

With quite a number of cases of poliomyelitis cases reported in several parts of the South, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis yesterday announced new grants totaling $195,030 with which to carry on its fight against the dread disease.

The announcement of the grant has the effect of assuring the people of the United States who support the Foundation that the battle against the disease is being pushed with all the resources at the command of the Foundation in both the laboratories of the nation and in the communities where polio has struck.

"Infantile paralysis," says the announcement made by the National Foundation, "is a virus disease and because the exact nature of viruses has not yet been determined, there is urgent need for virologists to aid both the Foundation in its general work and communities when they are stricken with an epidemic of infantile paralysis. To aid in meeting this urgent need of specially trained personnel in the battle against the disease, the Foundation has made a grant of $40,000 to the newly organized School of Public Health at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan. These funds will be used to continue aiding the school for the express purpose of creating facilities to study virus diseases and to train virologists, with particular emphasis on infantile paralysis.

"A grant of $2,000 has been paid to the Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama, to provide a fellowship to a man trained in orthopedic shoe making. The amount of this grant will make it possible for him to go to Warm Springs, Georgia, occasionally for study and wherever else may be necessary in carrying out his particular kind of work of aiding those who have been stricken with the disease."

Including the grants for the University of Michigan and Tuskegee Institute, there are a total of thirty, and the expenditure of the money should prove highly beneficial in the campaign against poliomyelitis.

Columbus has few cases of infantile paralysis but the gratifying announcement was made yesterday by the city-county health department that a period of seven days passed without a new case being reported. This fact is taken as an indication that poliomyelitis is on the decline in this community but it is important that there be no relaxation in precautions against the spread of the disease.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

To Dedicate New 'Skegee Hospital

JAN 13 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(ANP) — Through a grant of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the model hospital for the study and treatment of the dreaded disease has been erected here at Tuskegee and is to be dedicated on Jan. 15.

JAN 13 1941

From this infantile paralysis center, in the heart of the deep South, will go Negro doctors and nurses trained to fight infantile paralysis.

They will return to the crowded Negro districts of New York, Chicago, Detroit, and other cities and to the rural sections of the South, equipped with everything medical science can provide to combat the ravages of the mysterious disease which has taken such a toll among Negro children, leaving thousands with twisted bodies, withered limbs and deformed hands and feet. Said Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee:

"The Negro people of America are happy for the opportunity which the infantile paralysis center will provide not only for the restoration of young bodies afflicted with this dreadful malady, but also because of the unique opportunity for training doctors and nurses who will in turn combat this disease on a nationwide basis."

The hospital was made possible by a grant of $161,350. It was authorized under the direction of Basil O'Conner, president of the Foundation, and the Foundation trustees, after long study of the problem in cooperation with Dr. Patterson.

Tuskegee was selected because it is devoted to the welfare of Negroes and because of the marked success Dr. John W. Chenault, director of the orthopedic work who was sent here by the Julius Rosenwald Fund of Chicago to work among crippled Negro children. Dr. Chenault will be in charge of the training of Negro doctors and surgeons in orthopedic work, the training of orthopedic nurses and the training of physiotherapists.

The hospital, nucleus of a great Negro polio center, has a capacity of thirty beds. Various types of infantile paralysis cases among Negroes will be treated there.

Dr. M. O. Bousfield, of Chicago, director of Negro health for the Julius Rosenwald fund, praising the new hospital said:

"A highly important part of the program at Tuskegee will be the training of Negro physicians under Dr. Chenault. At the same time, however, an educational program should be projected among colored people to show them the possibilities of corrective surgery in crippling conditions."

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Dedicates Hospital

JAN 15 1941

Ceremonies Are Slated for NBC Network Broadcast

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(SNS)— Tuskegee's infantile paralysis center—the newly established hospital for the study and treatment of the disease made possible through a grant from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis—will be dedicated at a program to be held in the Institute chapel today.

The principal address will be delivered by Basil O'Conner, president of the foundation which made the center possible. His address and remarks by Tuskegee President, Dr. F D. Patterson; Dr. M. O. Bousefield, director for Negro health, Julius Rosenwald fund; Dr. J. W. Chenault, director of the Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis center, and President Roosevelt, are slated to be broadcast over the NBC hook-up.

Largely because of the marked success of Dr. Chenault, director of the orthopedic work, who was sent here by the Rosenwald fund of Chicago to work among crippled Negro children, and because Tuskegee is devoted to the welfare of Negroes, the school was selected as the place for the establishment of the unique center for training doctors and nurses from all over the country who will return to other parts of the country equipped with knowledge to combat the disease.

Negro Labor News
Houston, Texas

Certifies Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis

JAN 4 194

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(ANP)— The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., through its president, Basil O'Conner has certified the Tuskegee Institute chapter of the foundation. Officers are: Dr. F. D. Patterson, chairman; Dr. J. W. Chenault, vice chairman; Edmund H. Burke, treasurer; B. B. Walcott, secretary; Dr. J. H. Kenny and Dr. E. H. Dibble, are members of the executive committee.

JAN 4 1941

The principal objectives of the chapter will be to raise funds for the national fight against infantile paralysis and serve in an advisory capacity for the activities of the Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis center to be dedicated on the institute

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

Warm Springs And Tuskegee Use Negro Manufacturers Therapy Equipment

JAN 14 1941

CHICAGO, Feb. 27 (ANP)—Paul E. Johnson, manufacturer of physical therapy and X-ray equipment who operates one of the most important manufacturing concerns within the race, with his plant located in Chicago, announced this week that he has furnished therapy equipment to both the Warm Springs, Ga., infantile paralysis unit and the new hospital of the same type located at Tuskegee institute.

Mr. Johnson, speaking with pardonable pride of the increasing recognition which hospitals and physicians are giving to the apparatus which he makes completely, said he was especially gratified at the support which came from people within his own group. He sells to many white organizations as well but as he exhibited photostatic copies of checks for $1,550 from Tuskegee; $1,550 from Dr. B. O. Moore who operates a hospital at Hopkinsville, Ky., and a similar amount from the Louisiana Industrial Life Insurance company, he said, "Negro hospitals and insurance companies are converting the nickels, dimes and quarters received from their Negro policyholders into modern equipment costing from $1,000 to $3,000, purchased from a Negro manufacturor. That is a lellon in practical racial economics, for every machine purchased adds to the employment of Negroes."

Mr. Johnson, who has been engaged in production of his line for a score of years, makes shock-proof x-ray, short wave diathermy, electro-surgical, galvanic current, sinusoidal current, artificial fever and colonist-therapy equipment and also manufactures mercury quartz lamps; luminious infra-red lamps, carbon are lamps, water-cooled lamps, hospital and YMCA solariums and physical therapy accessories.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

$161,350 Center To Provide Treatment For 'Polio' Victims

JAN 16 1941

First Patients to Be Admitted To Hospital Next Monday: Entire Staff to Be Colored 184

By CLIFF MACKAY
(World Managing Editor)

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala—(SNS)—Hailed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a project from which "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis" and one from which "we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease," the new $161,350 infantile paralysis center of Tuskegee was officially dedicated here Wednesday afternoon.

President Roosevelt's statement was read to the audience which filled the Institute's chapel, by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Thirty minutes of the impressive program was broadcast over the blue network of the National Broadcasting Company.

TO HOUSE 35 PATIENTS

The new center, which is equipped to house thirty-five patients is built adjoining the famed John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital. Plans are to have it accommodate Negro sufferers from the dread "Polio" disease in the same manner as the center at Warm Springs provides for white sufferers.

Ground was broken for the new center on January 12, 1941, after the grant was made by the national foundation. Plans, according to Dr. John W. Chenault, director of the institution, call for the first patients to be admitted next Monday.

The principal address at the dedicatory exercise was delivered by Mr. O'Conner, president of the foundation. Citing the importance of good health and the benefit the new center will be to crippled children of this section of the nation, Mr. O'Connor pointed out that this was not the sole reason for its erection.

"If the hospital were the end and the only end, it is to be doubted if our board of trustees would have made this grant," he asserted. "But we know that so much more is possible than the caring for a few score of patients. As important as that will be, it is not enough."

JAN 16 1941

VENTURE IN EDUCATION

"This is a venture in education. From this hospital will go forth increased knowledge of the need and the method of caring for this type of patient. Here persons in all of the professions and all the trades and all the activities of life will have an opportunity to learn more about the method of care and means of making such professional services available to a large part of our population.

"Not only will laymen become better acquainted with the infantile paralysis, Mr. O'Connor predicted, but members of the medical profession from all over the nation will be given an opportunity to study, observe and make further research into treatment of the disease.

JAN 16 1941

"We are encouraging here today the things that are of the very essence of American life; the things for which we stand as a nation before the world today. Hope, equality, the right to seek happiness, the zest for life. We are dedicating here today a building and an instrument consecrated to the attainment of the same goal as that toward which the free peoples of this earth are now striving freedom from the shackles that enslave, be they those imposed by disease or dictatorship," the speaker declared in concluding.

PATTERSON PRESIDES

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee, presided at the program. Brief statements were made during the exercise by Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director, Negro Health, Rosenwald Fund; Dr. J. W. Chenault, who will serve as director of the new center, and Dr. J. A. Kenney, director of the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital.

Music was rendered by the famed Tuskegee choir under the direction of William L. Dawson. Invocation was pronounced by the school's chaplain, the Rev. H. V. Richardson.

Following the program, visitors were invited to inspect the well planned three-story structure which houses the center. Designed by the school's architect, Louis F. Frye, and erected largely by students in the mechanical trades, the center has the very latest therapy equipment from the Hubbard bath to a swimming pool equipped with a hydraulic elevator.

The entire staff will be colored, it was announced. Support of the institution will come chiefly from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis Inc., which obtains the bulk of its funds from the President Roosevelt Birthday balls held every January 30.

18y-1941

POLIO CENTER

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

Tuskegee Institute Dedicates Model Hospital For Paralytics

JAN 18 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Tuskegee Institute again spreads its protecting wings in its great welfare work among the Negroes of America.

Through a grant of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis a model hospital for the study and treatment of infantile paralysis has been erected and was dedicated Wednesday, Jan. 15.

No ordinary structure is this artistic building. Each block of stone, each brick and tile has been laid by the kindly hands of Tuskegee students and Negro craftsmen. They knew they were building for the future of their race. Theirs was an inspired labor of love.

From this infantile paralysis center, in the heart of the deep South, will go Negro doctors and nurses trained to fight infantile paralysis. They will return to the crowded Negro districts of New York, Chicago, Detroit and other cities and to the rural sections of the South, equipped with everything medical science can provide to combat the ravages of the mysterious disease which has taken such a toll among Negro children, leaving thousands with twisted bodies, withered limbs and deformed hands and feet. Said Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee:

"The Negro people of America are happy for the opportunity which the infantile paralysis center will provide not only for the restoration of young bodies afflicted with this dreadful malady but also because of the unique opportunity for training doctors and nurses who will in turn combat this dreaded disease on a nation-wide basis.

"It has been an especial pleasure for Tuskegee institute not only to share in the benefits that shall come from the work of the center, but to have shared in the construction of the building."

The hospital was made possible by a grant of $161,350. It was authorized under the direction of Basil O'Connor, president of the foundation, and the foundation trustees, after long study of the problem in cooperation with Dr. Patterson.

Tuskegee was selected because it is devoted to the welfare of Negroes and because a brilliant surgeon, Dr. John W. Chenault, is director of the orthopedic work.

Dr. Chenault will be in charge of the training of Negro doctors and surgeons in orthopedic work, the training of orthopedic nurses and the training of physiotherapists. He said:

"The establishment of the Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis Center is one of the important milestones in the progress of medical endeavor in the South. The far reaching influences of this center are not limited by race, creed or color because the true spirit of medicine recognizes no such barriers in service to humanity.

"In our struggle against infantile paralysis a center for research and training of workers, such as this one we have through the generosity of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is indeed a momentous step. Those of us who are associated with the center fully realize the wonderful opportunity for service presented us and we unhesitantly pledge our utmost efforts."

It is interesting to note that Dr Chenault is one of the two noted Negro orthopedic surgeons in the United States. Born in Sheridan Wyoming and graduated in medicine from the University of Minnesota, Dr. Chenault secured special training at the University of Chicago and the University of Iowa.

Through the Julius Rosenwald Fund of Chicago, Dr. Chenault was sent to Tuskegee to work among crippled Negro children and, despite many obstacles, succeeded beyond all expectations. Here was a man who never had been south but who went into the heart of the black belt and is enthusiastic over his work.

The hospital, nucleus of a great Negro center, has a capacity of 30 beds. Various types of infantile paralysis cases among Negroes will be treated there.

The new building adjoins the John A. Andrew Memorial hospital which for many years has been doing splendid work, and which has gained nation-wide fame because of the annual clinics held there for Negro doctors.

Plans for the hospital were prepared by George D. Washington, director of the school of mechanical industries at Tuskegee, and Louis Fry, head of the division of architecture. They inspected the facilities at Warm Springs, Ga., and the noted Children's hospital at Denver. They prepared specifications for a hospital which ranks as one of the finest infantile paralysis institutions in the entire country. The plans were accepted by the Foundation, with Calvin McKissack, superintendent of construction, and ground was broken last January 12.

It was decided insofar as possible to use Tuskegee students from the various trade schools in the building construction. All of the highly complicated electrical installation was done entirely by students. Negro workmen from Tuskegee and other nearby places were assigned to various tasks and were as devoted as the students in their labor.

True indeed in this case is the inscription carved in the magnificent monument to Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee, which stands close by this new building of mercy:

"We shall prosper in proportion as we learn to dignify and glorify labor."

Dr. M. O. Bousfield of Chicago, director for Negro help of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, praising the new hospital said:

"A highly important part of the program at Tuskegee will be the training of Negro physicians under Dr. Chenault. At the same time, however, an educational program should be projected among colored people to show them the possibilities of corrective surgery in crippling conditions.

"In a great many places in the South, colored orthopedic cases are operated on in white hospitals, then carted out and sent home without receiving the equally important after-care.

"This unit at Tuskegee should in no sense be considered a local hospital. It should receive cases from all over the South where facilities are otherwise unavailable."

Funds for construction of the hospital were made possible by the "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaigns. To carry on this fight more contributions are needed and in a number of cities and communities Negroes have joined the 1941 campaign now opening. They will participate wholeheartedly in the "March of Dimes" and in celebrations which will reach their climax on January 30, President Roosevelt's fifty-ninth birthday.

Chicago Bee
Chicago, Illinois

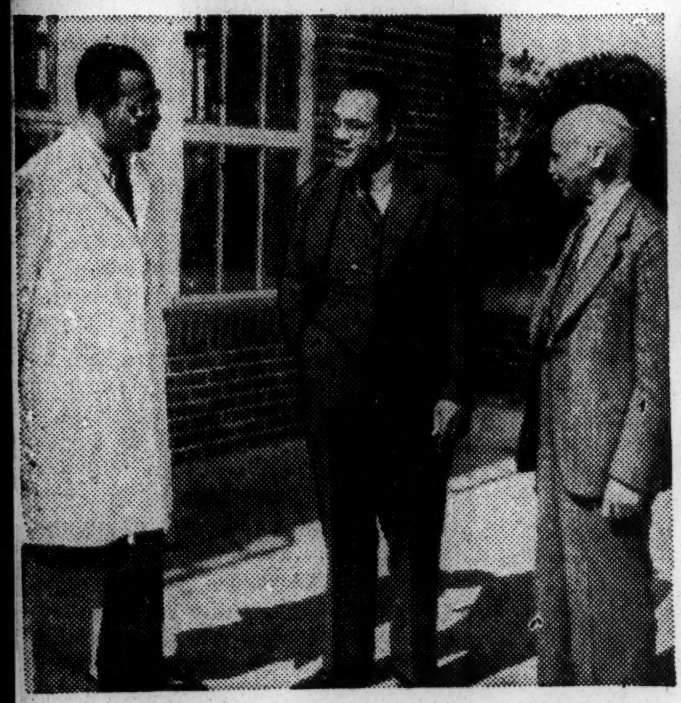
Young Women Donate Movable Library to 'Kegee

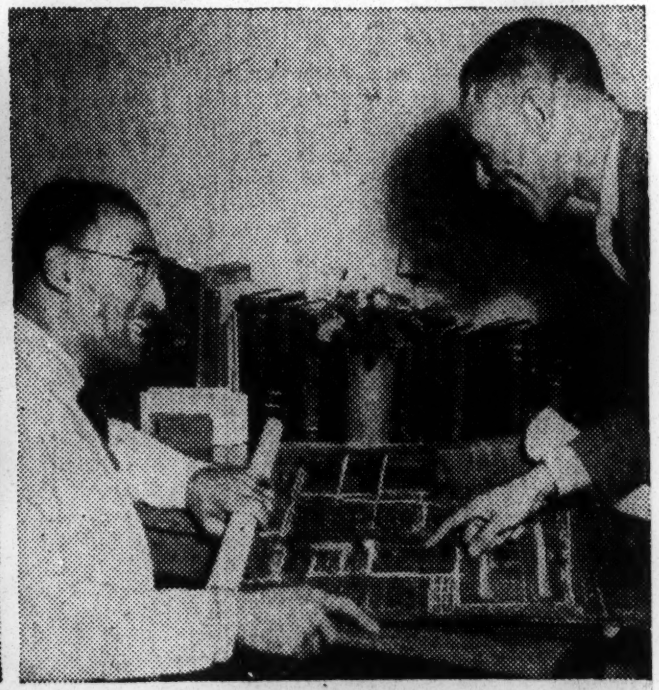
MAY 25 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (ANP)—The Gay Northeasterns, an organization composed of young women prominent in eastern society with chapters in the large cities along the Atlantic coast north of Washington, have presented a movable library to the Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis hospital. Planned in such a way that it will reach all patients, the library will contain books being selected by Morteza D. Sprague, director of the Tuskegee Institute library. The group plans to add to the library from time to time.

For a number of years, the Gay Northeasterners, founded in June, 1929, have done charitable work. A scholarship is given each year to an outstanding student attending Howard university. In 1940, an award was given to a graduate nurse to enable her to pursue a post graduate course in public health nursing at Virginia Medical college.

The Gays, whose national president is Miss Mary White of Philadelphia, plan to hold their annual national meeting this month in Washington.





Early patients at the new infantile paralysis center at Tuskegee Institute, Ala., find it easy to smile away their worries as Nurse Harleaux (above) reads them amusing stories. The center has been developed through a grant of $16,350 made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. (Lower left) Tuskegee president and medical officers inspect the new center. Left to right, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute; Dr. John Chenault, director of Orthopedics, and Dr. John Kenny. Lower right, Dr. John Chenault, left, and Engineer G. L. Washington study the blueprints of the new building.

Midville, Ga., News,
Aug. 7, 1941

FUND GRANTS $195,030 TO CONQUER POLIO

$2,000 Given Tuskegee Institute To Provide Fellowship.

Distribution by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis of new grants totaling $195,030 with which to carry on its battle to conquer infantile paralysis was announced last week by Basil O'Connor, of New York, president of the foundation.

These include a grant of $2,000 to Tuskogee, Ala., to provide a fellowship to a man trained in orthopedic shoe making. The amount of this grant will make it possible for him to go to Warm Springs, Ga., occasionaly for study and wherever else may be necessary in carrying out his particular kind of work of aiding those who have been stricken with the disease.

With several epidemics of the disease now making their appearance announcement of the grants is of particular significance, O'Connor said, because it assures the American people that the fight against polio is being relentlessly carried on with all the resources that the foundation can command in laboratories of the nation and in communities where infantile paralysis has struck.

A review of some of the purposes for which the new grants have been made, he explained, will give some idea of the many fronts on which the disease must be and is being attacked.

Infantile paralysis is a virus disease and because the exact nature of virueses has not yet been determined there is urgent need for virologists to aid both the foundation in its general work and communities when they are stricken with an epidemic of infantile paralysis.

To aid in meeting this urgent need of specially trained personnel in the battle against the disease, the foundation has made a grant of $40,000 to the newly organized school of public health at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.

These funds will be used to continue aiding the school for the express purpose of creating facilities to study virus diseases and to train virologists, with particular emphasis on infantile paralysis.

18y-1941

POLIO CENTER

Dedicate New Infantile Paralysis Center at Tuskegee This Week

JAN 18 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Tuskegee Institute again spreads its protecting wings in its great welfare work among the Negroes of America.

Through a grant of $101,350 from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, a model hospital for the study and treatment of infantile paralysis has been erected and it was dedicated on Wednesday of this week.

No ordinary structure is this artistic building. Each block of stone, each brick and tile has been laid by the kindly hands of Tuskegee students and Negro craftsmen. They knew they were building for the future of their race. Theirs was an inspired labor of love.

TO TRAIN DOCTORS

From this new Infantile Paralysis Center, in the heart of the deep South, will go Negro doctors and nurses trained to fight infantile paralysis.

They will return to the crowded Negro districts of New York, Chicago, Detroit, and other cities and to the rural sections of the South, equipped with everything medical science can provide to combat the ravages of the mysterious disease which has taken such a toll among Negro children, laving thousands with twisted bodies, withered limbs and deformed hands and feet.

Said Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee:

"The Negro people of America are happy for the opportunity which the infantile paralysis center will provide not only for the restoration of young bodies afflicted with this dreadful malady, but also because of the unique opportunity for training doctors and nurses who will in turn combat this dreaded disease on a nationwide basis."

JAN 18 1941

"It has been an especial pleasure for Tuskegee Institute not only to share in the benefits that shall come from the work of the Center, but to have shared in the construction of the building."

The Polio Center was made possibly by a grant of $161,350. It was authorized under the direction of Basil O'Connor, president of the foundation, and the foundation trustees, after long study of the problem in cooperation with Dr. Patterson.

IMPORTANT MILESTONE

Tuskegee was selected because it is devoted to the welfare of Negroes and because a brilliant surgeon Dr. John W. Chenault, is director of the orthopedic work.

Dr. Chenautl will be in charge of the training of Negro doctors and surgeons in orthopedic work, the training of orthopedic nurses and the training of physiotherapists.

He said: "The establishment of The Tuskegee Institute Infantile Paralysis Center is one of the important milestones in the progress of medical endeavor in the South. The far reaching influences of this Center are not limited by race, creed or color because the true spirit of medicine recognizes no such barriers in service to humanity.

"In our struggle against infantile paralysis a center for research and training of workers, such as this one we have through the generosity of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is indeed a momentous step. Those of us who are associated with the Center fully realize the wonderful opportunity for service presented us and we unhesitatingly pledge our upmost efforts."

NOTED SURGEON

It is interesting to note that Dr. Chenault is one of the two noted Negro orthopedic surgeons in the United States. Born in Sheridan, Wyoming and graduated in medicine from the University of Minnesota, Dr. Chenault secured special training at the University of Chicago and the University of Iowa.

Through the Julius Rosenwald Fund of Chicago, Dr. Chenault was sent to Tuskegee to work among crippled Negro children, and, despite many obstacles, succeeded beyond all expectations. Here was a man who never had been South but who went into the heart of the black belt and is enthusiastic over his work.

JAN 18 1941

30 BEDS

The hospital, nucleus of a great Negro polio center, has a capacity of thirty beds. Various types of infantile paralysis cases among Negroes will be treated there.

The new building adjoins the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital which for many years has been doing splendid work, and which has gained nationwide fame because of the annual clinics held there for Negro doctors.

Plans for the hospital were prepared by George D. Washington, director of the school of mechanical industries at Tuskegee, and Louis Fry, head of the division of architecture. They inspected the facilities at Warm Springs, Ga., and the noted Crippled Children's Hospital at Denver.

ONE OF THE FINEST

They prepared specifications for a hospital which ranks as one of the finest infantile paralysis institutions in the entire country. The plans were accepted by the foundaton, with Calvin McKissack, superintendent of construction, and ground was broken last January 12th.

It was decided insofar as possible to use Tuskegee students from the various trade schools in the building construction. All of the highly complicated electrical installation was done entirely by students Negro workmen from Tuskegee and other nearby places were assigned to various tasks and were as devoted as the students in their labor.

Dr. M. O. Bousfield of Chicago director for Negro help of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, praising the new hospital said:

"A highly important part of the program at Tuskegee will be the training of Negro physicians under Dr. Chenault. At the same time, however, an educational program should be projected among colored people to show them the possibilities of corrective surgery in crippling conditions.

"In a great many places in the South colored orthopedic cases are operated on in white hospitals, then carted out and sent home without receiving the equally important aftercare.

JAN 18 1941

"This unit at Tuskegee should in no sense be considered a local hospital. It should receive cases from all over the South where facilities are otherwise unavailable."

Funds for construction of the hospital were made possible by the "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaigns. To carry on this fight more contributions are needed and in a number of cities and communities Negroes have joined the 1941 campaign now opening. They will participate wholeheartedly in the "March of Dimes" and in celebrations which will reach their climax on January 30, President Roosevelt's 59th birthday.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

Tuskegee Infantile Paralysis Chapter Certified

TUSKEGEE. — (ANP) — The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., through its president, Basil O'Conner has certified the Tuskegee institute chapter of the foundation. Officers are Dr. F. D. Patterson, chairman; Dr. J. W. Chenault, vice chairman; Edmund H. Burke, treasurer; B. B. Walcott, secretary; Dr. J. A. Kenny and Dr. E. H. Dibble are members of the executive committee.

JAN 1 1941

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Tuskegee Paralysis Chapter Certified

JAN 11 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —(ANP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., through its president, Basil O'Conner, has certified the Tuskegee Institute chapter of the foundation. Officers are Dr. F. D. Patterson, chairman, Dr. J. W. Chenault, vice-chariman, Edmund H. Burke, treasurer, B. B. Walcott, secretary. Dr. J. H. Kenny and Dr. E. H. Dibble are members of the executive committee.

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Institute Will Open Paralysis Center

JAN 13 1941

Tuskegee Institute will open its Infantile Paralysis Center with dedication exercises at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 15, in the institute chapel. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, has extended a large number of invitations to educational, civic and medical leaders of the state to attend the opening.

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Message From Roosevelt Is Read At Dedication

JAN 16 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Featuring an address by Basil O'Connor president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, Inc., New York City, dedication services Wednesday opened the new $161,350 infantile paralysis center at Tuskegee Institute.

O'Connor, who came from New York to speak at the dedication, read a message from President Roosevelt: "From this new center at Tuskegee Institute with its many lay and professional visitors, its medical workers, agricultural agents, teachers and alumni, all dedicated to a better rural South, will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis, and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

JAN 16 1941

Referring to the new center as "a venture in education," O'Connor said: "Here persons in all professions and trades will have an opportunity to learn more about the method of care and the means of making such services available to a large part of the population."

Other speakers included Dr. M. O. Blousefield, director of Negro health, Julius Rosenwald Fund, Chicago; Dr. John W. Chenault, who will direct the center; Dr. John A. Kennedy, medical director, John A. Andrew Hospital, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute.

Gadsden, Ala., Times
January 16, 1941

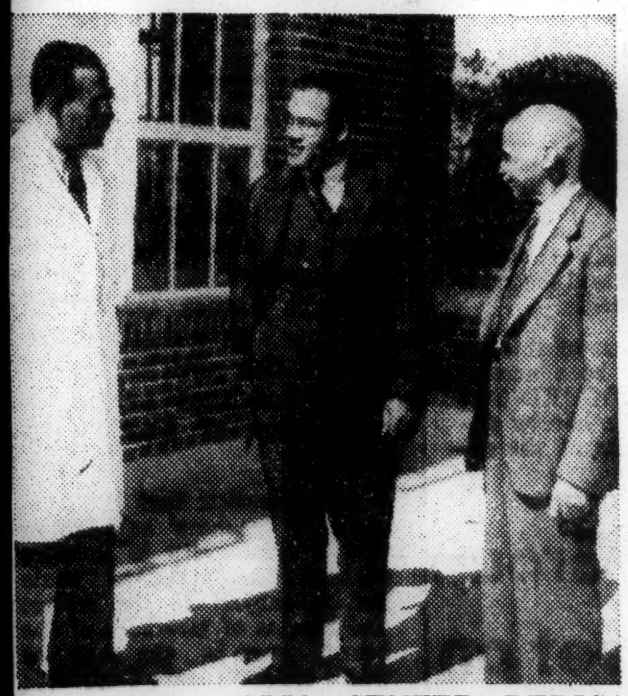
Medical Center Opened At Tuskegee Institute

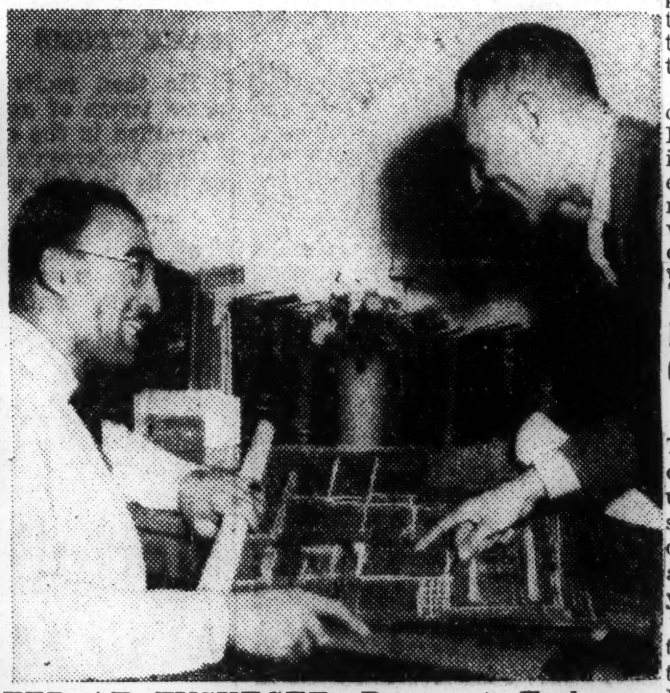
TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP) Tuskegee Institute's new medical center was ready today to be utilized in teaching negro physicians and nurses improved methods of treating infantile paralysis, after dedicatory exercises here yesterday.

The $161,350 center was built through cooperation of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, the Rosenwald Fund and the Tuskegee Institute.

President Roosevelt, in a message to Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, declared that from the medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of the disease."

JAN 18 1941
JAN 18 1941





NEW-POLIO CENTER DEDICATED AT TUSKEGEE—Down at Tuskegee Institute, a dream of a modernly equipped center for victims of the dread infantile paralysis is being realized as the newly constructed Polio Center is dedicated Wednesday of this week. JAN 18 1941

Early patients find it easq (in the top picture) to smile away their worries as Nurse Harleaux reads them amusing stori es. In the picture at bottom, left, Tuskegee's president and medical officers inspect the center. Left to right, Dr. John Chenault, director of orothpedics; Dr. F. D. Patterson, president; and Dr. John A. Kenney, director of the John Andrew Hospital on the campus. Bottom right, Dr. Chenault and Engineer G. L. Washington stud y the blueprints of the new building.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
January 15, 1941

ANTI-POLIO CENTER WILL BE DEDICATED

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 14—(AP)—The new $161,350 center, for research and instruction the treatmen of infantile paralysis among Negroes, will be dedicated Wednesday in ceremonies participated in by representatives of Tuskegee Institute, the Infantile Paralysis Foundation and the Rosenwald Fund.

The money for the center was provided by the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, and Basis O'Connor, president, will be the principal dedication speaker.

Dr. M. O. Bousfield, director, Negro health, Julius Rosenwald Fund, will outline the need for the institution.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the Tuskegee College for Negroes, said the center would conduct exhaustive research and train Negro physicians and nurses who will return to localities throughout the nation and specialize in treatment of the disease.

The center, to be under direction of Dr. J. W. Chenault and Dr. J. A. Kenny, will have a 30-bed capacity. The building cost $80,000, equipment $40,000 and the remainder of the availability funds was set aside for the first year's operations.

Huntsville, Ala., Times
January 16, 1941

Infantile Paralysis Center Is Dedicated

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16 (AP)—Tuskegee Institute's new medical center was ready today to be utilized in teaching negro physicians and nurses improved methods of treating infantile paralysis, after dedicatory exercises here yesterday.

The $161,350 center was built through cooperation of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, the Rosenwald Fund and Tuskegee Institute.

President Roosevelt, in a message to Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, declared that from the medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis, and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

Dothan, Ala. Eagle
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Dedicates New Medical Center

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)— Tuskegee Institute's new medical center was ready today to be utilized in teaching Negro physicians and nurses improved methods of treating infantile paralysis, after dedicatory exercises here yesterday.

The $161,350 center was built through cooperation of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, the Rosenwald Fund and Tuskegee Institute.

President Roosevelt, in a message to Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, declared that from the medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

Birmingham, Ala. Age-Herald
January 16, 1941

TUSKEGEE MEDICAL CENTER DEDICATED

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16—(AP)—President Roosevelt said in a message Wednesday that from the dedication of Tuskegee Institute's new $161,350 medical center "will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

The message was read by Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, who also delivered the dedicatory address of the center, to be utilized in teaching Negro physicians and nurses how better to threat infantile paralysis cases among members of their race.

O'Connor referred to the center as "a venture in education," and asserted that "from this hospital will go forth increased knowledge of the need and method of caring for this type of patient."

The center was built through cooperation of O'Connor's Foundation, the Rosenwald Fund and Tuskegee Institute, the Deep South's major seat of learning for Negroes.

Besides O'Connor, speakers included Dr. M. O. Bousefield, director of Negro health for the Julius Rosenwald Fund; Dr. John Chenault, who will be in charge of the center, and Dr. John A. Kenny, medical director of the institute hospital; Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president.

Representatives of the Alabama Health and Education Departments participated in the program.

Birmingham Ala Age-Herald
March 28, 1941

FIRST LADY PAYS TUSKEGEE VISIT

Meeting By Trustees Of Rosenwald Fund Is Due At Institute

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 27—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, headed a group of distinguished members arriving Thursday for Friday and Saturday meetings of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, often a benefactor of nationally-known Tuskegee Institute.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here from Albany, Ga., where she addressed a civic club earlier in the day.

The trustees, following a business session, will visit two rural projects conducted under the institute's school of education, New Rising Star and Harris Barrett Schools. Later they will go to "The Bucket" Theater on the Russell Plantation, where farmer adults will present a play.

The theater got its name from Booker T. Washington's famous admonition to his, the Negro, race: "Let down your buckets where you are."

The Tuskegee Institute weaving school, opened March 5, and rural health projects, especially those for training of midwives, shop workmen, aviators and public health workers also will be visited.

Besides Mrs. Roosevelt, Rosenwald trustees arriving Thursday included Dr. O. M. Bousefield, Fred Wale, Dorothy Elvidge, Edwin R. Embree and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frank.

Others expected here Friday include William Rosenwald, Robert E. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Odum, Edgar B. Stern, Dr. Leonard M. Rieser, George M. Reynolds, Dr. W. W. Alexander, Franklin C. McLean, Dr. Clifford Waller and Mark Ethridge.

Albany Decatur Ala Daily
March 27, 1941

FIRST LADY EXPECTED

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 27—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, is expected here late today or tomorrow to attend meetings of the trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund Friday and Saturday.

Dothan Ala Eagle
March 27 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt To Visit Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)— Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, is expected here late today or tomorrow to attend meetings of the trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Roosevelt, a trustee, will join other members in "a first hand glimpse" of the rural education program for Negroes being carried out by Tuskegee Institute.

The First Lady will come here from Valdosta, Ga., where she participated in the dedication of a library, and Albany, Ga., where she spoke to a civic club.

Opelika Ala News
March 28, 1941

Visits Tuskegee

MRS. ROOSEVELT

A distinguished visitor at Tuskegee Institute today was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt who came to the negro college for a meeting of the trustees of the Rosenwald Fund.

Columbus Ga Enquirer-Sun
March 28, 1941

First Lady Hopes Nation Can Avoid War Involvement

ALBANY, Ga., March 27—(AP) Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today told Albany Rotarians that she sincerely hoped this nation could avoid war, "but whatever we have to face we will face with courage."

She came here from Valdosta where earlier in the day she spoke at the dedication of a new library on the campus of the Georgia State Woman's College.

In her talk she referred to the present situation as one of "terrible responsibility."

Mrs. Roosevelt drove to Albany from Valdosta, and left shortly after the luncheon for Tuskegee, Ala., where she will visit Tuskegee Institute. She was accompanied by her secretary, Miss Malvina Thompson.

At Valdosta, where she arrived yesterday and spent the night as a guest of the college students, she spoke of the need of educational facilities in order that young people may "think straight and act straight."

She said the present world struggle was between force and reason, and voiced a plea for support of those institutions that will enable reason to triumph.

Huntsville, Ala., Times
March 27, 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt Due Today At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 27 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, is expected here late today or tomorrow to attend meetings of the trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Roosevelt, a trustee, will join other members in "a first hand glimpse" of the rural education program for negroes being carried out by Tuskegee Institute.

The first lady will come here from Valdosta, Ga., where she participated in the dedication of a library, and Albany, Ga., where she spoke to a civic club.

Columbus Ga Enquirer-Sun
March 29, 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt Is In Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, headed a distinguished group arriving here for Friday and Saturday meetings of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund, often a benefactor of Tuskegee Institute.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here from Albany, Ga., where she addressed a civic club earlier in the day.

Bristol, Va., News-Bulletin
March 28, 1941

FIRST LADY AT TUSKEGEE, ALA.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 28.—(AP)—Trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund, often a benefactor of Tuskegee Institute, opened a two-day meeting here today.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was among board members here for the meeting.

The trustees today planned an inspection of Tuskegee's rural education projects and the "Bucket Theater," where farmer adults will present a play.

The theatre took its name from Booker T. Washington's famous admonition to the negro race, "let down your buckets where you are."

Other Rosenwald trustees, in addition to Mrs. Roosevelt, who are attending the meeting include Dr. O. M. Bousefield, Red Wale, Dorothy Elvidge, Edwin R. Embree, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frank, William Rosenwald, Robert E. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Odum, Edgar B. Stern, Dr. Leonard M. Rieser, George M. Reynolds, Dr. W. W. Alexander, Franklin C. McLean, Dr. Clifford Waller and Mark Ethridge.

Columbus Ga Enquirer-Sun
March 28, 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt Is In Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, headed a distinguished group arriving today for Friday and Saturday meetings of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund, often a benefactor of Tuskegee Institute.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here from Albany, Ga., where she addressed a civic club earlier in the day.

Birmingham, Ala. News
March 29, 1941

Build At Home, Urges Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—While national defense is important, Americans must also build things at home which will count in the decisions of other nations when peace comes, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, first lady, declared at Tuskegee Institute Friday night.

"This nation is the outstanding exponent of democracy, and while democracy is not perfect, good will, justice and kindness will aid in bringing about the end we seek."

Mrs. Roosevelt was introduced by Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund.

At Tuskegee to attend a meeting of the Rosenwald fund, Mrs. Roosevelt also visited several rural communities and projects.

Richmond, Va. News-Leader
April 1, 1941

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

MOBILE, Ala.—We all sat solemnly around a table and discussed business of which I knew little, for this was my first meeting with the Rosenwald Fund Trustees. After a delicious lunch at Dorothy Hall, the Tuskegee guest house, my real education for the day began.

Incidentally, I would like to say a word about this guest house at Tuskegee Institute. It was arranged years ago by the college to receive its white guests and is a most comfortable and homelike place. The students in the home economic and commercial dietetics course cook and serve the food, and better food and service I have never seen.

Flower are charmingly arranged and, as I came up the stairs, I looked straight at a very good photograph of my uncle, Theodore Roosevelt. His picture looked down at me also from the wall at the trustees meeting, so that I felt that the family has had some connection here over a fairly long period of years.

* * *

NOW LET ME TELL YOU about our afternoon. The first thing I noticed is that the land about us is badly eroded. Neither white nor colored farmers can make a living on this land as it is. None of them can afford to put in the capital which will be neded to bring it back, and at the same time keep their families from starvation.

Even the good farmer barely makes a meagre existence. That, I think, explains the fact that, without assistance from outside, the schools are at such a level that one wonders whether it is possible for the children to learn anything at all. We were, of course, visiting Negro schools, and it is fair to suppose that white schools would be better. Even 100 per cent better than those we saw, however, would hardly satisfy you if you believed education was necessary for participation in our democratic form of government.

* * *

THREE OF THE SCHOOLS we visited have some help from Tuskegee Institute. One very important way of co-operating with the rural schools is to send out internes for three months to live in a given neighborhood and to help with the teaching in the schools while they are taking their last year of training as teachers at Tuskegee. Only one school we visited includes two years of high school. Most of them have only six grades. A school which received no help was taught by one woman who tried to give a rounded program to youngsters in all six grades.

The effort to provide a hot lunch interested me. In one school the teachers live in the school and, therefore, are able to cook and serve lunch on the premises. In other schools the food is cooked in the homes and brought to the schools and warmed up on the stoves which heat the schools. Alabama has taken some forward steps—she provides free school books and her teachers receive slightly higher salaries than teachers receive in some of the neighboring States.

(Copyright, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Eufaula, Ala. Tribune
March 28, 1941

President's Wife Reaches Tuskegee For Board Meeting

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 28 — Mrs. Eleonor Roosevelt, wife of the President, headed a group of distinguished members arriving yesterday for Friday and Saturday meetings of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, often a benefactor of nationally-known Tuskegee Institute.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here from Albany, Ga., where she addressed a civic club earlier in the day.

The trustees, following a business session, will visit two rural projects of education, New Rising Star and Harris Barrett Schools. Later they will go to "The Bucket" Theater on the Russell plantation, where farmer adults will present a play.

The theater got its name from Booker T. Washington's famous admonition to his, the negro, race: "Let down your buckets where you are."

The Tuskegee Institute weaving school, opened March 5, and rural health projects, especially those for training of midwives, shop workmen, aviators, and public health workers also will be visited.

Besides Mrs. Roosevelt, Rosenwald trustees arriving today included: Dr. O. M. Bousefield, Fred Wale, Dorothy Elvidge, Edwin R. Embree, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frank.

Pensacola, Fla. News
April 2, 1941

GREENSBORO, N. C., Monday—One of the interesting things we saw near Tuskegee was a real rural theatre. The actors had built the stage and arranged the room for the audience. There were rough benches, an open fire, and some very interesting masks for decoration on the walls. It was called "The Bucket Theatre," and on the sign outside was a quotation from Booker T. Washington which read: "Put your bucket down where you are." This little rural theatre certainly is putting down its bucket in that community.

◈ ◈ ◈

Saturday morning the Tuskegee Institute trustees met again all morning, and in the afternoon we visited the hospital, listened to the health problems which Tuskegee is trying to ameliorate. I had the pleasure of going through the new unit for treatment of infantile paralysis. I am taking back a book full of pictures so that the president, who is much interested in the installment of this unit, will have an opportunity to see what it looks like.

◈ ◈ ◈

Dr. Chenault is almost the only Negro doctor in the country, I think, who has had full training as an orthopaedic surgeon and has specialized in infantile paralysis. He gives one a feeling of great confidence, and the children's faces lit up when we went into the wards. A number of cases are crippled children, suffering from horrible burns that have left them with deformities which only surgery and great care can cure. These youngsters play around open hearths where the fire burns to heat the cabin and cook the food. There are no guard rails, such as we think so essential for our ornamental fires.

◈ ◈ ◈

Finally we went out to the aviation field, where a Civil Aeronautics unit for the teaching of colored pilots is in full swing. They have advanced training here, and some of the students went up and did acrobatic flying for us. These boys are good pilots. I had the fun of going up in one of the tiny trainingplanes with the head instructor, and seeing this interesting countryside from the air.

The days at Tuskegee have given me much to think about. To see a group of people working together for improvement of undesirable conditions is very heartening. The problems seem great, but at least they are understood and people are working on them. Dr. Carver, whom I saw for a few minutes, has been at work for many years, and our hosts, the present heads of Tuskegee, Dr. and Mrs. Patterson, are ably carrying on the work. E. R.

Constitution
Atlanta, Georgia

MY DAY: How Tuskegee Helps Its Neighbors

APR 1 - 1941

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

MOBILE, Ala., Sunday.—Friday morning we all sat solemly around a table and discussed business of which I knew little, for this was my first meeting with the Rosenwald Fund trustees. After a delicious lunch at Dorothy Hall, the Tuskegee guest house, my real education for the day began.

Incidentally, I would like to say a word about this guest house at Tuskegee Institute. It was arranged years ago by the college to receive its white guests and is a most comfortable and homelike place. The students in the home economics and commercial dietetics course cook and serve the food, and better food and service I have never seen.

Flowers are charmingly arranged and, as I came up the stairs, I looked straight at a very good photograph of my uncle, Theodore Roosevelt. His picture looked down at me also from the wall at the trustees' meeting, so that I felt that the family has had some connection here over a fairly long period of years.

Now let me tell you about our afternoon. The first thing I noticed is that the land about us is badly eroded. Neither white nor colored farmers can make a living on this land as it is. None of them can afford to put in the capital which will be needed to bring it back, and at the same time keep their families from starvation.

APR 1 - 1941

Even the good farmer barely makes a meager existence. That, I think, explains the fact that, without assistance from outside, the schools are at such a level that one wonders whether it is possible for the children to learn anything at all. We were, of course, visiting Negro schools, and it is fair to suppose that white schools would be better. Even 100 per cent better than those we saw, however, would hardly satisfy you if you believed education was necessary for participation in our democratic form of government.

Three of the schools we visited have some help from Tuskegee Institute. One very important way of co-operating with the rural schools is to send out internes for three months to live in a given neighborhood and to help with the teaching in the schools while they are taking their last year of training as teachers at Tuskegee. Only one school which we visited yesterday includes two years of high school. Most of them have only six grades. A school which received no help was taught by one woman who tried to give a rounded program to youngsters in all six grades.

The effort to provide a hot lunch interested me. In one school the teachers live in the school and, therefore, are able to cook and serve lunch on the premises. In other schools, the food is cooked in the homes and brought to the schools and warmed up on the stoves which heat the schools these chilly days. Alabama has taken some forward steps—she provides free school books and her teachers receive slightly higher salaries than teachers receive in some of the neighboring states.

Albany, Ga., Herald
March 28, 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt Attends Meeting At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Mar. 28 (AP.) Trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, often a benefactor of Tuskegee Institute, opened a two-day meeting here today.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was among board members here for the meeting.

The trustees today planned an inspection of Tuskegee's rural education projects and the "Bucket Theatre," where farmer adults will present a play.

The theatre took its name from Booker T. Washington's famous admonition to the Negro race, "Let down your buckets where you are."

Other Rosenwald trustees, in addition to Mrs. Roosevelt, who are attending the meeting include Dr. O. M. Bousefield, Red Wale, Dorothy Elvidge, Edwin R. Embree, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frank, William Rosnwald, Robert E. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Wood, Dr. Howard W. Odum, Edgar B. Stern, Dr. Leonard M. Rieser, George M. Reynolds, Dr. W. W. Alexander Franklin C. McLean, Dr. Clifford Waller and Mark Ethridge.

My Day

APR 1 1941 WORLD TELEGRAM NEW YORK

By Eleanor Roosevelt

Constitution Atlanta, Georgia

GREENSBORO, N. C., Monday.—One of the interesting things we saw near Tuskegee was a real rural theater. The actors had built the stage and arranged the room for the audience. There were rough benches, an open fire and some very interesting masks for decoration on the walls. It was called The Bucket Theater, and on the sign outside was a quotation from Booker T. Washington which read: "Put your bucket down where you are." This little rural theater certainly is putting down its bucket in that community.

APR 1 1941

Saturday morning the Tuskegee Institute trustees met again all morning, and in the afternoon we visited the hospital, listened to the health problems which Tuskegee is trying to ameliorate. I had the pleasure of going through the new unit for the treatment of infantile paralysis which has been installed here by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

APR 1 * 1941

Dr. Chenault is almost the only Negro doctor in the country, I think, who has had full training as an orthopedic surgeon and has specialized in infantile paralysis. He gives one a feeling of great confidence, and the children's faces lit up when we went into the wards. A number of cases are crippled children, suffering from horrible burns that have left them with deformities which only surgery and great care can cure. These youngsters play around open hearths where the fire burns to heat the cabin and cook the food. There are no guard rails such as we think so essential for our ornamental fires.

WORLD TELEGRAM NEW YORK, N.Y.

Finally we went out to the aviation field, where a civil aeronautics unit for the teaching of colored pilots is in full swing. They have advanced training here, and some of the students went up and did acrobatic flying for us. These boys are good pilots. I had the fun of going up in one of the tiny training planes with the head instructor and seeing this interesting countryside from the air.

The days at Tuskegee have given me much to think about. To see a group of people working together for improvement of undesirable conditions is very heartening. The problems seem great, but at least they are understood and people are working on them.

MY DAY: 'Put Your Bucket Down Where You Are'

By Eleanor Roosevelt

APR 2 1941

GREENSBORO, N. C., Monday.—One of the interesting things we saw near Tuskegee was a real rural theater. The actors had built the stage and arranged the room for the audience. There were rough benches, an open fire, and some very interesting masks for decoration on the walls. It was called "The Bucket Theater," and on the sign outside was a quotation from Booker T. Washington which reads: "Put your bucket down where you are." This little rural theater certainly is putting down its bucket in that community.

APR 2 1941

Saturday morning the Tuskegee Institute trustees met again all morning, and in the afternoon we visited the hospital, listened to the health problems which Tuskegee is trying to ameliorate. I had the pleasure of going through the new unit for the treatment of infantile paralysis which has been installed here by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. I am taking back a book full of pictures so that the President, who is much interested in the installment of this unit, will have an opportuni / to see what it looks like.

Dr. Chenault is almost the only Negro doctor in the country, I think, who has had full training as an orthopaedic surgeon and has specialized in infantile paralysis. He gives one a feeling of great confidence, and the children's faces lit up when we went into the wards. A number of cases are crippled children, suffering from horrible burns that have left them with deformities which only surgery and great care can cure. These youngsters play around open hearths where the fire burns to heat the cabin and cook the food. There are no guard rails, such as we think so essential for our ornamental fires.

APR 2 194

Finally we went out to the aviation field, where a Civil Aeronautics unit for the teaching of colored pilots is in full swing. They have advanced training here, and some of the students went up and did acrobatic flying for us. These boys are good pilots. I had the fun of going up in one of the tiny training planes with the head instructor and seeing this interesting countryside from the air.

We got up early Sunday morning and drove to Mobile for my lecture there, then flew during the night to Greensboro, N. C., and now we are leaving to join the President at Fort Bragg.

Chicago Bee Chicago, Illinois

First Lady To Be Presented With Painting

APR 1 3 1941

By EMORY O. JACKSON

TUSKEGEE, April 10—(ANP)—"I hope to see the time when there will be no such thing as discrimination against any person in this country," said Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, America's number one woman, in an address before approximately 5,000 in the Tuskegee chapel Friday night.

Here for a two-day meeting of the trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund, she spoke to a group of young high schoolers attending the Southern Junior Red Cross rally earlier Friday afternoon.

Dr. Edwin R. Embree, president of the Rosenwald fund, in his introduction of her linked the First Lady with our great chief executive, saying that she was "equally notable for her interest in justice and right to humanity."

Mrs. Roosevelt was asked to speak on defense, which she did, but went into it from the "home angle." She told of a conversation with the president on the subject, giving color to her own feeling and reflecting even more so his courage and strong spirit.

"Force must be met with force but none of us want that to continue in this world," she said. She pointed out that we must know what we want to do in present times, how we want things in the future, and have in mind what preparation we need to attain the ends we have in mind. She said there had to be justice, mercy and understanding in order to prevent the present situation from returning every 20 years or so.

APR 1 3 1941

Set Own House in Order

"We must make ourselves the kind of nation that can demand of other nations the same kind of standards," she declared. "We must be a great nation able to think our problems through," she continued.,

"Our acts at home are part of the national defense. We must set our own house in order,' she remarked.

She pointed out that goodwill, justice, kindness, as against selfish groups, and personal interest were necessary. "This nation belongs to no one part of the nation. We are made up of all the nations of the world. It is an idea that holds us together." She said that contributions of hand as well as head had made this nation what it is.

She said that suspicion based upon race was one of the things which must not be allowed. We all are welded together by an idea. All believe in the same thing. We must recognize that "our neighbor has the right to the same things as we enjoy." She went on to say that ability to deal with our own problems at home without force was one of the tests.

Need "Minimum Opportunity"

She said a "minimum opportunity had to be provided for all if this country is to remain strong. "Belief in the same ideals as our forefathers and the things they stood for," was seen by her as part of the national defense. She called for cooperation which she said was more than individual effort.

APR 1 3 1941

With amazing frankness she said that the Secretary of war is "doing some really new things" for the Negro but that the Secretary of the navy is not because he fears moving too fast that he does some harm. She assured the young people "everything is being done that can be done without making a mistake by going too far and too fast." She asked them to trust their friends and the older people for they were trying to do "the wisest and best thing."

My Day

MAR 3 1 1941

By Eleanor Roosevelt

MAR 3 1 1941

MOBILE, Ala., Sunday.—Friday morning we all sat solemnly around a table and discussed business of which I knew little, for this was my first meeting with the Rosenwald Fund trustees. After a delicious lunch at Dorothy Hall, the Tuskegee guest house, my real education for the day began.

Incidentally I would like to say a word about this guest house at Tuskegee Institute. It was arranged years ago by the college to receive its white guests and is a most comfortable and homelike place. The students in the Home Economics and Commercial Dietetics course cook and serve the food, and better food and service I have never seen.

MAR 3 1 1941

Now let me tell you about our afternoon. The first thing I noticed is that the land about us is badly eroded. Neither white nor colored farmers can make a living on this land as it ... None of them can afford to put in the capital which will be needed to bring it back, and at the same time keep their families from starvation.

Even the good farmer barely makes a meager existence. That, I think, explains the fact that, without assistance from outside, the schools are at such a level that one wonders whether it is possible for the children to learn anything at all. We were, of course, visiting Negro schools, and it is fair to suppose that white schools would be better. Even 100 per cent better than those we saw, however, would hardly satisfy you if you believed education was necessary for participation in our democratic form of government.

MAR 3 1 1941

Three of the schools we visited have some help from Tuskegee Institute. One very important way of co-operating with the rural schools is to send out internes for three months to live in a given neighborhood and to help with the teaching in the schools while they are taking their last year of training as teachers at Tuskegee.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SAYS AT TUSKEGEE SHE IS OPPOSED TO DISCRIMINATION

APR 1 1 1941

Wars Will Come Every 20 Years Unless There is Justice, Mercy and Understanding, She Believes

TUSKEGEE, April 10 (By Emory O. Jackson for ANP)"I hope to see the time when there will be no such thing as discrimination against any person in this country," said Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, America's number one woman, in an address before approximately 5,000 in the Tuskegee chapel Friday night.

Here for a two-day meeting of the trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund, she spoke to a group of young Negro and white students of New York University gave thunderous applause to John P. Davis here Thursday, when he told them, in the presence of the First Lady, who sat with him on the platform of Judson Memorial Church in Washington Square, that it is not the South but the Roosevelt Administration itself that is responsible for the establishment of Jim Crow as a national Government policy.

APR 1 1 194

In an atmosphere charged with the high tension of the students, who for months have been carrying on a vigorous campaign to break through the University's continued discrimination against its own Negro star athletes, Mrs. Roosevelt told the packed gathering that although she agreed that New York University should not send its teams to play with schools who refused to compete against Negro athletes, nevertheless she felt that the whole process of breaking down discrimination against the Negro people in America, must be gradual. She pointed to her recent experience at Tuskegee Institute's segregated air training school in Alabama, where she said she flew with a young Negro aviator and never felt safer in her life. The South, she said, was learning to face this problem and make an effort to solve it.

APR 1 1 1941

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Important Problems Interest 106 Nurses From Alabama State

APR 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, April 4 (ANP)—The fifth annual institute for colored graduate nurses held at Tuskegee Institute, April 4 and 5, closed the most successful session of its history Saturday morning with the presentation of a large bouquet of crimson roses to Miss Linna N. Denny, R.N., executive secretary, Alabama State Board of Nurses Examiners. The presentation was made by Nurse Rosa Tyler Thomas, Montgomery, in behalf of the 106 nurses present.

At the mass meeting held Friday night, President F. D. Patterson referred to Miss Denny in the following terms: "Miss Denny has a genuine and heartfelt interest and in the nursing service, regardless of race, and it is largely through her interest and tireless efforts that these institutes for colored graduate nurses have been made possible."

APR 19 1941

The Saturday morning session had as its highlight a paper by Dr. Charles Prudhomme, Veteran's Administrations facility, and member, executive committee of the Tuskegee Mental Hygiene society. Dr. Prudhomme listed and explained eleven opportunities where nurses could study and render assistance in connection with patients mentally ill. He also gave nine possible misconceptions with regard to the mentally ill which he said it was the duty of all nurses to correct.

Dr. George C. Branche discussed the "Opportunities for Colored Nurses in the Psychiatric Field." He stated that "mental cases were on the increase due partly to the psychiatric fight of totalitarianism against democracy, and due to individual rejected for army service." Dr. Branche made a further statement that of the 800,000 men soon to be conscripted into the United States Army, 18,000 in a short time would be phychiatric patients.

APR 19 1941

The education of nurses along lines of psychiatry is essential if nurses are to be trained for the care of the whole patient. Such training, Dr. Branche states, is especially needed for Negro patients in as much as there were no private hospitals for the Negro mentally ill and that patients committed to the State hospitals as border line patients were seldom returned to civil life. Dr. Branches stated that there was a great opportunity for psychiatric nurses in connection with defense programs and because of the mental stress that always is attendant upon army service.

APR 19 1941

Dr. John A. Kenney in a closing word to the institute challenged the nurses to greater service, and urged them not to let obstacles ever be the cause for discouragement. "You have the most wonderful vocation. I hope you have not gone into it just for a living. If you have you will fail. Let your ideals and objectives be Service. If you do that, the living will take care of itself."

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

DISCRIMINATION BAN IS HOPE OF MRS. FDR

MAR 30 1941

Mercy And Justice Must Rule, She Says

First Lady Implores Youth To Trust Friends; Says War Sec'y Doing New Things for Negro

MAR 30 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS)—"I hope to see the time when there will be no such thing as discrimination against any person in this country," said Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, America's Number One woman, in an address before approximately 5,000 in the Tuskegee chapel Friday night.

Dr. Edwin E. Embree, president of the Rosenwald Fund, in his introduction of her linked the First Lady with our great chief executive, saying that she was "equally notably for her interest in justice and right to humanity."

SPEAKS ON DEFENSE

Mrs. Roosevelt was asked to speak on defense, which she did, but going into it from the "Home Angle." She told a conversation with the president on the subject, giving color to her own feelings and reflecting even more of his courage and strong spirit. "Force must be met with force but none of us want that to continue in this world," she said.

MAR 30 1941

She pointed out that we must know what we want to do in present times, how we want things in the future, and have in mind what preparation we are to attain the ends we have in mind. She said there had been justice, mercy and understanding in order to prevent the present situation from returning every twenty years, or so.

We must make ourselves the kind of nation that can demand of other nations the same kind of standards, she declared. We must be a great nation able to think our problems through, she continued.

"Our acts at home are part of national defense. We must set our own house in order," she remarked.

She pointed out that goodwill, justice, kindness, as against selfish groups and personal interest were necessary. "This nation belongs to no one part of the nation we are made up of all the nations of the world. It is an idea that holds us together." She said that contributions of hand as well as head had made this nation what it is.

MAR 30 1941

"WELDED TOGETHER"

She said "suspicions based upon race was one of the things which must not be allowed. We all are welded together by an idea. All believe in the same thing. We must recognize that our neighbor has the right to the same things we enjoy. She went on to say ability to deal with our problems at home without force was one of the tests.

She said a "minimum opportunity" had to be provided for all if this country is to remain strong. Belief in the same ideals as our forefathers and the things they stood for was seen by her as part of the National Defense.

She called for cooperation which she said was more than individual effort.

MAR 30 1941

With amazing frankness she said that the secretary of war is doing some really new things for the Negro but that the secretary of the navy is not because he fears moving too fast lest he does some harm. She assured the young people everything is being done that can be done without making a mistake by going too far and too fast. She asked them to trust their friends and the older people for they were trying to do the wisest and best thing.

ASKS FOR FAITH

"We have in ourselves the power to make the kind of people that can meet the things that come to us. But that kind of citizen in this nation of ours," she concluded, after asking for faith, courage and power from God.

MAR 30 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived on the Tuskegee campus at 4:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon. She held chats and conferences and Friday visited several of the rural and Rosenwald Schools. She left here at six o'clock Sunday morning.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, mentioned that several of the immediate Rosenwald relatives were on the campus, representing Lessing Rosenwald.

Friday night Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, director of the Negro Division of the NYA was the principal speaker at a banquet sponsored by the Associated Women Students of Tuskegee Institute. The banquet is one of the highlights on the social program of Tuskegee Institute and a large number of young people from colleges and high schools in the South are invited to the campus to attend this event.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Mrs. Roosevelt Makes Speech At Tuskegee

MAR 29 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA., March 28.—In a stirring address in the Institute chapel here tonight Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, said "While national defense is important, which means the building up of our material force, we must also build a world where other things will hold sway in future so that when peace comes what we have done at home may count in the decisions of other nations. This nation is the outstanding exponent of democracy, and while democracy is not perfect, good will, justice and kindness will aid in bringing about the end we seek."

Mrs. Roosevelt was presented by Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, who referred to the first lady as a leader who is interested in humanity and in righteousness and justice.

Here to attend a meeting of the Rosenwald fund Mrs. Roosevelt was given opportunity after the morning session to visit several rural communities and to inspect various rural projects, witnessing a play presented by adults in the Bucket Theater, a renovated store. Name of the theater comes from Booker T. Washington's admonition to his people, "cast down your bucket where you are."

MAR 29 1941

Also seated on the rostrum was Lessing Rosenwald, son of the distinguished philanthropist, who served for many years as a Tuskegee trustee. The board will conclude its two-day session Saturday. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the Institute, presided at the meeting tonight.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Piloted By Negro Airman

APR 3 1941

Alfred Anderson At Controls On Flight Over Tuskegee

(Special to The Tribune)

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President and the most air-minded traveler in America, took the air here Saturday and had a good view of Tuskegee Institute, the Veterans' Hospital and the surrounding country, as the climax to a two-day visit attending a meeting of the board of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund.

Mrs. Roosevelt was flown in a Piper trainer with Chief Pilot Alfred Anderson, formerly of Ardmore, Pa., at the controls. Pleased with her trip, Mrs. Roosevelt was also pleased with the Tuskegee young women who have recently received their private pilot licenses. She had special congratulations" for these as she shook hands with the staff of the flying program and congratulated all taking part in it.

APR 3 1941

An air show was arranged for the visitors to the campus but Mrs. Roosevelt was the only one to go aloft. She was accompanied to the field by President Fred Patterson of Tuskegee and Lessing Rosenwald of Philadelphia, and other members of the Rosenwald family also attending the trustee board meeting.

My Day

World-Telegram N.Y.

MAR 29 1941

By Eleanor Roosevelt

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Friday.—Yesterday morning we drove around the grounds of the Georgia State Woman's College, where the students certainly have every opportunity for a healthy and happy outdoor life. Available are tennis courts, horses to ride, a beautiful swimming pool, archery and a delightful student activity house where meals can be served and entertainment of every kind given by the students.

I wish very much that I had had more opportunity to talk with the faculty. They seemed young and progressive. When we finally ended up at the library, which was being dedicated, I felt that one could be justly enthusiastic about the opportunities offered here to girls for a rounded education.

* * *

From the way people talk I get the impression occasionally that it is not considered important for girls to be really well educated if they are going to marry and bring up a family. I would like to register here my thought that marriage and the upbringing of children in the home require as well trained a mind and as well disciplined a character as any other occupation that might be considered a career.

MAR 29 1941

We left Valdosta, Ga., about 11 o'clock and drove through a sudden heavy rainstorm on the way to Albany, Ga. Just at its height one of my tires went flat. Luckily, another car was with us and we drove with Mr. Horace Caldwell, leaving our two chauffeurs to change the tire when the rain stopped and then to follow us. After a very pleasant lunch given by the Rotarians we proceeded to Tuskegee, where we arrived about 5 o'clock.

This is a very fine institution which has always interested me very much. Since I am here to attend the Rosenwald Fund meeting, I expect to learn a great deal.

Constitution
Atlanta, Georgia

MY DAY: Education Builds Happy Marriages

MAR 31 1941

By Eleanor Roosevelt

MAR 31 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Friday.—Yesterday morning we drove around the grounds of the Georgia State Woman's College, where the students certainly have every opportunity for a healthy and happy outdoor life. Available are tennis courts, horses to ride, a beautiful swimming pool, archery and a delightful student activity house, where meals can be served and entertainment of every kind given by the students.

I wish very much that I had had more opportunity to talk with the faculty. They seemed young and progressive. When we finally ended up at the library, which was being dedicated, I felt that one could be justly enthusiastic about the opportunities offered here to girls for a rounded education.

I was told there was a great difference between the size of the freshman class and the number of graduates, for a good many girls leave to get married. Because the Georgia law allows girls to teach after two years of college, those facing economic difficulties go to earn a living.

From the way people talk, I get the impression occasionally that it is not considered important for girls to be really well educated, if they are going to marry and bring up a family. I would like to register here my thought that marriage and the upbringing of children in the home, require as well trained a mind and as well disciplined a character as any other occupation that might be considered a career.

MAR 31 1941

I think we ought to impress on both our girls and boys that successful marriages require just as much work, just as much intelligence and just as much unselfish devotion, as they give to any position they undertake to fill on a paid basis.

The principles of democratic citizenship are taught in the home and the example is given there of the responsibility assured to the individual under a democratic form of government. Every man and woman's college should have that objective in view as part of the educational process. Without it no education is complete.

We left Valdosta, Ga., about 11 o'clock and drove through a sudden heavy rainstorm on the way to Albany, Ga. Just at its height, one of my tires went flat, luckily, another car was with us and we drove with Mr. Horace Caldwell, leaving our two chauffeurs to change the tire when the rain stopped and then to follow us. After a very pleasant lunch given by the Rotarians, we proceeded to Tuskegee, where we arrived about 5 o'clock.

This is a very fine institution which has always interested me very much. Since I am here to attend the Rosenwald Fund meeting, I expect to learn a great deal. We breakfasted at eight this morning and our first meeting begins in a few minutes.

Opelika Ala. News
March 28, 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt In Tuskegee To View School's Projects

Tuskegee, Ala., March 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, headed a group of distinguished members arriving Thursday for Friday and Saturday meetings of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, often a benefactor of nationally-known Tuskegee Institute.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here from Albany, Ga., where she addressed a civic club earlier in the day.

The trustees, following a business session, will visit two rural projects conducted under the Institute's school of education, New Rising Star and Harris Barrett Schools. Later they will go to "The Bucket" Theater on the Russell plantation, where farmer adults will present a play.

The theater got its name from Booker T. Washington's famous admontion to his, the negro, race: "Let down your buckets where you are."

The Tuskegee Institute weaving school, opened March 5, and rural health projects, especially those for training of midwives, shop workmen, aviators, and public health workers also will be visited.

March 27, 1941

Mrs. Roosevelt To Visit Tuskegee Institute

VALDOSTA, GA., March 26.—(AP) Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, told students of Georgia State Woman's College here tonight that the ability to think clearly through education, is one of the most desirable qualifications of modern womanhood.

Mrs. Roosevelt, here for the dedication of a new library building tomorrow, is expected to motor afterwards to Albany to address the Rotary Club there, and then to Tuskegee, Ala., where she will visit Tuskegee Institute.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Roosevelt Attends Bd. Meeting At Tuskegee

APR 5 - 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 3.—Among the distinguished members attending the meetings here Friday and Saturday of the board of trustees of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, one of the most generous contributors to the maintenance and development of Tuskegee Institute was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States.

APR 5 - 1941

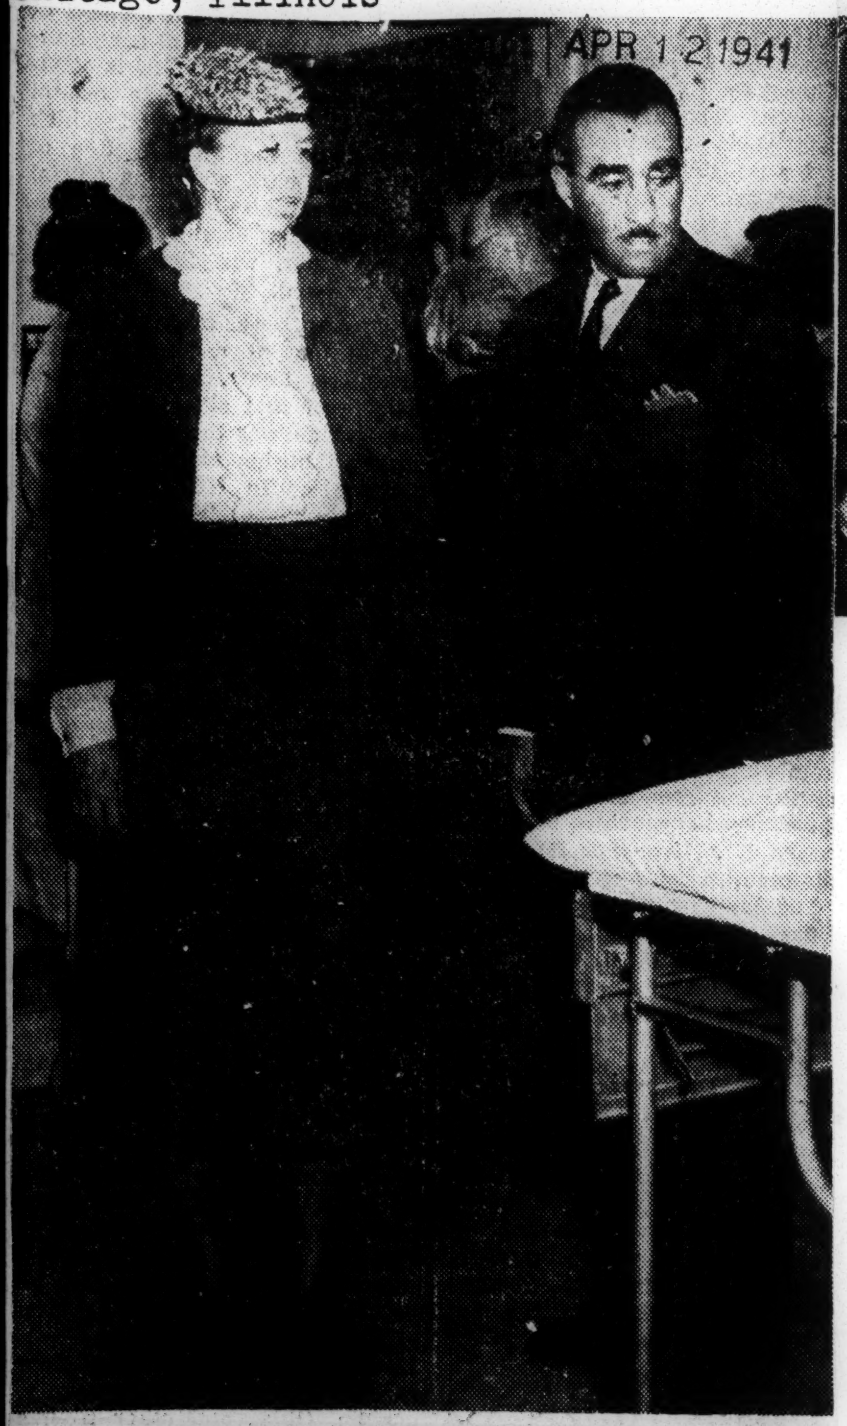
Other trustees attending the sessions were: Dr. O. M. Bousefield, Dorothy Elvidge, William Rosenwald, Fred Wale, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frank, Edwin R. Embree, Dr. Howard W. Wood, Robert E. Wood, Dr. Leonard M. Reiser, Howard W. Odum. Edgar B. Stern, Dr. W. W. Alexander, Mark Ethridge, George M. Reynolds, Clifford Waller and Franklin C. McLean.

Between meetings, the trustees visited and inspected various special educational projects sponsored by the institute in the Tuskegee area.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

MRS. ROOSEVELT VISITS TUSKEGEE

APR 12 1941



Mrs. Roosevelt visits the Infantile Paralysis hospital unit at Tuskegee institute with Dr. John Chenault, orthopedic surgeon and in charge of unit.

APR 12 1941

March 27, 1941

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States, at the annual banquet of Tuskegee Institute Associated Women Students' organization.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

'FIRST LADY' TELLS TUSKEGEE STUDENTS SHE HOPES TO LIVE TO SEE DISCRIMINATION DIE

APR 1 1 1941

'We Must Set Our Own House in Order' Says President's Wife; 'Our Acts at Home Are Part of Nat'l Defense'

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE.
By EMORY O. JACKSON

—(ANP) —"I hope to see the time when there will be no such thing as discrimination against any person in this country," said Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, America's number one woman, in an address before approximately 5,000 in the Tuskegee chapel Friday night.

Here for a two-day meeting of the trustees of the Julius Rosenwald fund, she spoke to a group of young high schoolers attending the Southern Junior Red Cross rally earlier Friday afternoon.

Dr. Edwin R. Embree, president of the Rosenwald fund, in his introduction of her linked the First Lady with our great chief executive, saying that she was "equally notable for her interest in justice and right to humanity."

Speaks on Defense

Mrs. Roosevelt was asked to speak on defense, which she did, but went into it from the "home angle." She told of a conversation with the president on the subject, giving color to her own feelings and reflecting even more so his courage and strong spirit.

"Force must be met with force but none of us want that to continue in this world," she said. She pointed out that we must know what we want to do in present times, how we want things in the future, and have in mind what preparation we need to attain the ends we have in mind. She said there had to be justice, mercy and understanding in order to prevent the present situation from returning every 20 years or so.

We must make ourselves the kind of nation that can demand of other nations the same kind of standards, she declared. We must be a great nation able to think our problems through, she continued.

Must Set House In Order

"Our acts at home are part of the national defense. We must set our own house in order," she remarked.

She pointed out that goodwill, justice, kindness, as against selfish groups, and personal interest were necessary. "This nation belongs to no one part of the nation. We are made up of all the nations of the world. It is an ideal that holds us together." She said that contributions of hand as well as head had made this nation what it is.

APR 1 1 1941

She said suspicion based upon race was one of the things which must not be allowed. We all are welded together by an idea. All believe in the same thing. We must recognize that "our neighbor has the right to the same things we enjoy." She went on to say that ability to deal with our own problems at home without force was one of the tests.

APR 1 1 1941

She said a "minimum opportunity" had to be provided for all if this country is to remain strong. "Belief in the same ideals as our forefathers and the things they stood for" was seen by her as part of the national defense. She called for co-operation which she said was more than individual effort.

With amazing frankness she said that the secretary of war is "doing some really new things" for the Negro but that the secretary of the navy is not because he fears moving too fast that he does some harm. She assured the young people "everything is being done that can be done without making a mistake by going too far and too fast." She asked them to trust friends and the older people for they were trying to do "the wisest and best thing."

Lyons, Ga., Progress
April 10, 1941

E FIRST LADY INSPIRES GEORGIA WOMEN

When the newspapers and radios announced a few days ago that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt would speak at one of the leading Georgia Women's colleges at the dedication of a new $75,000 building the heart of every woman in this state beat a little faster. Womanhood of Georgia was inspired and those who could not go to Valdosta to see and hear the First Lady read and listened over the radio about her visit to the deep southland.

No one could question the importance of this visit to the future of our young women and the cause of education. This woman sat and talked as one woman to another, with these college students. She ate with them as a regular college girl—for an evening she went back to school again—and gave inspiration to those who had the happy privilege of being her hosts. No doubt, during that evening she got inspiration for her address next day for one can not give without also receiving.

No woman has ever filled the place of First Lady with the freedom and determination, Mrs. Roosevelt possesses. She goes at will and she becomes a part of every class or condition she faces She left Valdosta with hundreds of young white women thrilled and filled with ambition and in a few hours was sitting amid another group of southern students—the negroes at Tuskogee Institute. There she also gave encouragement and hope to an unfortunate people. Wherever Mrs. Roosevelt goes she presents a message for the women of America and does it with a smile which breeds confidence. Her visit to south Georgia was appreciated and will be recalled as a momentous event to many women long after another Roosevelt has passed from the active scenes of life.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

WHITNEY SAYS:

By L. BAYNARD WHITNEY

She Is In Earnest

Mrs. FDR paid Negroes of America one of the highest possible compliments recently when she flew with a colored instructor-pilot at the Government's flying school at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama. More than this, Eleanor Roosevelt proved beyond any shadow of doubt her sincerity of purpose in making Democracy in America a thing alive, breathing the very spirit of equality.

APR 2 4 1941

Whether it is in a single seater with a student pilot doing his first solo, or in a huge skysleeper with a transport pilot-navigator with a million hours flying time to his credit, every single trip in a plane constitutes a risk of life. Yet, knowing this, Mrs. Roosevelt took her confidence-inspiring trip behind the Negro pilot with her usual smiling nonchalance. And after landing on good old terra firma, she graciously complimented the pilot upon his flying ability.

During one of her recent public speeches to a colored audience, Mrs. Roosevelt reminded us of something we are too prone to forget, namely, that "Rome was not built in a day." She said that the President and others interested in our welfare, are doing everything they possibly can in our political, economic and social behalf, but that the fruits of their efforts require time for maturity. We are all familiar with the fierce opposition which the President and his good wife have encountered while going to bat for us. Therefore, let us be patient and cooperative—always.

APR 2 4 1941

FISK, BUILT BY SONGS

No Sermon in Stones is more cogent than Fisk University, built by songs.

The Fisk Jubilee Singers brought international renown to a small southern school and built it into a great institution whose graduates have become beacon lights and strong pillars of Negro achievement. Fisk recently celebrated its diamond anniversary—75 years of consistent service.

The poet who breathed a song into the air found it again in the heart of a friend, but the arrow which he shot he found imbedded in a stubborn oak. Songs have conquered more than armies, whose arrows are found "still unbroke". Negro singers and their songs have always been our best ambassadors.

Radicals' hatreds have destroyed with their passionate arrows much good will and goodness which our songs impressed into friendly hearts. Fisk stands today not alone as a monument of Negro cultural achievement, but also as a Sermon in Stones, built by goodwill songs.

APR 2 4 1941

(The ideas expressed in the above column do not necessarily reflect the editorial policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

A Colored Judge

18y-1941
Augusta, Ga., Chronicle
January 17, 1941

TUSKEGEE STRIKE BRINGS TROOPERS

Students at Negro College Protest Quality of Food at Dining Hall

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 16. (AP) — State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphenalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

DRIVER THREATENED

The driver of a cracker and cookie truck complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa late today that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "we're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a. m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest, Patterson said, expressing belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

Earlier students had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college," but the president said they gathered in crowds about the campus, with "only a few" attending classes or taking meals in the dining hall.

Anniston, Ala. Star
January 17, 1941

SCHOOL STRIKE ARRESTS MADE; KNIFE WIELDED

Disorder Marks Walkout At Tuskegee; Hundreds Fail To Show Up At Classes

PATROLMEN ON HAND WITH RIOT EQUIPMENT

President Says The Strikers Will Be Dismissed; Points To "Intimidation"

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17. (AP)— One student was slashed with a knife and 11 others were jailed today as disorder flared in the strike of hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's largest colleges for Negroes.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, reported the student slashed was attempting to attend a class irrespective of the "imtimidations" of the strikers.

The 11 were jailed, officers reported, when they refused to heed their commands to clear the college entrances. They apparently were not connected with the knifing incident. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the student slashed or the assailant.

More Patrolmen Sent

Two additional details of highway patrolmen, headed by Chief T. Weller Smith, Montgomery, rushed here this morning, when President Patterson reported intimidations were being used by the strikers to prevent students from attending clases.

The strike developed Wednesday, in protest against food served in the college dining hall Chief Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were away from classes this morning.

Dr. Patterson said the strikers made "open threats" against students trying to get into the class buildings, standing in way of doors, locking some doors, and refusing to allow entrance. Girl students were intimidated as well as men. Patterson said.

Riot Equipment On Hand

The Negro educator, who has declared the strike had "very little basis," requested law officers to clear the areas in front of class buildings. Some refused to leave, and these were put in jail, he said.

Riot equipment, including tear gas guns, were brought here, and Chief Smith said the patrol was prepared to meet any eventuality. The chief had 14 patrolmen on duty, assisting county and city officers.

The college executive council met to begin dismissal of strike leaders, who had failed to respond to an ultimatum to be in class or at work by 7 a.m. Dr. Patterson predicted the council would act "to summarily dismiss anyone who refuses to disband at order of the police and continues to interfere with the activities of other students."

Truck Driver Threatened

Anyone continuing to congregate around the buildings and disregard orders to disband will be taken care of by the police, he said.

Patrolmen with riot equipment came here last night following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the college dining hall.

Dothan, Ala. Eagle
January 19, 1941

Tuskegee Suspends 50 In Class Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge Negro college, reported Saturday more than 50 students had been suspended in connection with a four-day strike now apparently ended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed Saturday and the president predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

Augusta, Ga., Chronicle
January 18, 1941

Negro College Strike Brings Arrests of 11

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17. (AP)— Disorders among striking Tuskegee institute students resulted today in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrests of 11 before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big Negro college.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and environs, Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances. Two were released later.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said the disorders had "very little basis," that the food was palatable and wholesome.

The institute president said strikers blocked entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes. He added that strikers made open threats against students trying to enter and said girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Mobile, Ala. Press
January 17, 1941

Tuskegee Suspends Striking Students

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17.—(AP) Suspension of striking students began at Tuskegee Institute today while a fresh detail of state police sped to the big colored college after its president accused the strikers of "intimidating" non-strikers.

A 7 o'clock deadline passed this morning with many students still absent from classes and President F. D. Patterson announced that the college executive committee was meeting at once to proceed with suspensions.

He did not estimate the number who would be affected by these suspensions although yesterday he said some 500 to 600 were taking part in the strike started Wednesday in protest about food served in the institute dining hall.

The patrolmen came from Birmingham in two squad cars and were armed with riot guns and tear gas. Their arrival brought to 12 the number of state officers assigned here since the strike started.

Eight state patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes.

Selma, Ala., Times Journal
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Resumes Normal Operations After Strike Ends

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20—(AP)— Order restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike at the huge negro college now was "definitely over" and normal operations had been resumed.

The strike, with hundreds of students out of classes, developed disorders last week, resulting in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. State officers with riot equipment came here as a precaution.

The trouble developed over a protest against food served in the college dining hall. At the height of the strike a state officer said around 800 of the 1,400 students did not attend classes.

Dr. Patterson estimated today approximately 50 students left Tuskegee over the weekend out of sympathy for the 55 regarded as leaders of the strike and indefinitely suspended.

The president said "we plan to resume our regular program. We've always allowed the students to present any grievances they have, and have tried to make any reasonable adjustments possible. The same principle will prevail now. A committee has been appointed to confer with the students on the present complaints."

As to the possibility of the 55 students sent home getting back, Dr. Patterson said "all will be given consideration on the merits of their individual cases."

The Daily Worker
New York, N. Y.

Student Strike At Tuskegee Brings Threats

Reactionary Head of Negro School Talks of Suspensions

TUSKEGEE, Ala Jan. 17 (UP).—Authorities at the Tuskegee Institute today planned to suspend several hundred Negro students who failed to report for classes this morning, in protest against the food served at the college dining hall.

JAN 18 1941

President F. D. Patterson said that no accurate check of the number absent had been made, but that all those absent will be automatically suspended.

Patterson said the trouble was "incited" by an editorial in the student newspaper last week, and that the students in reality had "nothing to complain about." The strikers have not asked specific food reforms, it was understood, but are demanding better service and quality of food, as well as more food.

Eight highway patrolmen were called upon "to restore order" late yesterday. Patterson spoke to the students last night at a mass meeting but reported the parley "ended in a deadlock."

The strike began two days ago.

Tuskegee Institute's control is dominated by white philanthropies and administration of the school is reactionary. The threat to suppress the school paper by Patterson was seen as a greater threat to academic liberties and probably indicative of other suppression of normal campus activity by the school authorities.

New York Times
New York, N. Y.

TUSKEGEE MAN KNIFED IN STRIKE OVER FOOD

11 Others Arrested in Disorder on Institute Campus

JAN 18 1941

TUSKEEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP)—Disorders among striking Tuskeegee Institute students resulted today in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of eleven before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big Negro institution.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and vicinity, Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said that a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the eleven were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated that 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the institute cafeteria, where 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said that the disorders had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

The institute president said that strikers blocked entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes. He added that strikers made open threats against students trying to enter and said that girl students as well as men were intimidated.

All of those arrested were released later without formal charges having been preferred against them. The injured student was not hurt seriously. Neither his name nor that of his assailant was given.

Dr. Patterson announced tonight that forty-nine strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and added that any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual merit basis." Students were warned that those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Birmingham Ala News
January 15, 1941

Tuskegee Students On Strike Over Food

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(AP)—An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, "struck" Wednesday, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are noncommittal about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

About 1,000 of the institution's students eat in the college dining hall.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among Negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he expected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies.

Classes were reported going on as usual, although some had a substantial number of students absent.

Montgomery Ala Advertiser
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Students Strike In Protest Over Menu

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, struck today, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said tonight that 300 to 400 of the 1,400 students joined the strike which he declared had "very little basis."

The difficulty, the negro educator said, was "incited by an ugly editorial in the student paper," and he added: "There is nothing inadequate about the diet provided the students. It is wholesome. The complaining students have no real case. There is very little basis for their accusations. We're not perfect, but we're doing all we can."

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders, that all those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college." If such normalcy is restored, he said, "we'll go into the matter of the food further, but if not we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The college president "dropped in" at the college dining hall, where about 1,000 students eat, and had dinner with them yesterday. He said the meal for the students included: Liver and onions, cabbage cooked with bacon, peas, cornbread, choice of salad (potato or lettuce and tomato) and choice of dessert (apple cobbler or jello).

"The food was palatable and wholesome," he said.

"They apparently want more variety and are non-committal about quantity," Dr. Patterson observed. "The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

Classes were held on schedule, despite many absences. "We are checking the rolls," Dr. Patterson said, "to get the names of those failing to attend classes."

The strike occurred as Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center, for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of the disease. The college president said the student difficulty interfered in no way with the ceremonies.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
January 17, 1941

Patrol Called As Tuskegee's Students Riot

Noisy Band Threatens Bread Truck Driver; Ultimatum Is Issued

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 16.—(AP)—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Patrol Gets Complaint

The driver of a cracker and cookie truck complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa late today that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "we're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a.m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest, Patterson said, expressing belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

Refuse To Be Pacified

Earlier students had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college," but the president said they gathered in crowds about the campus, with "only a few" attending classes or taking meals in the dining hall.

Patrolman Huckabaa, reporting to State headquarters, said striking students threatened "to tear up the truck" if the driver attempted to unload at first. Chief Smith called Gov. Dixon in Birmingham and was advised, he said, that the truck be allowed to unload.

While conceding yesterday some students might not be getting as much variety as they wished in food, Dr. Patterson insisted it furnished a balanced diet and was palatable. He denied there was reason for complaint against quality or quantity.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

NEGRO COLLEGE HAS FOOD STRIKE

Tuskegee Head Asserts Student Basis For Walkout Small

JAN 16 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15—(AP)—Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negores, struck Wednesday, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said Wednesday night that 300 to 400 of the 1,400 students joined the strike which he declared had "very little basis."

The difficulty, the Negro educator said, was "incited by an ugly editorial in the student paper, and he added: "There is nothing inadequate about the diet provided the students. It is wholesome. The complaining students have no real case. There is very little basis for their accusations. We're not perfect, but we're doing all we can."

Conferences Held

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders, that all those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college." If such normalcy is restored, he said, "we'll go into the matter of the food further, but if not we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The college president "dropped in" at the college dining hall, where about 1000 students eat, and had dinner with them Tuesday. He said the meal for the students included: Liver and onions, cabbage cooked with bacon, peas, cornbread, choice of salad (potato or lettuce and tomato) and choice of dessert (apple cobbler or jello).

Food Termed Good

JAN 16 1941

"The food was palatable and wholesome," he said.

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity," Dr. Patterson observed. "The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

Classes were held on schedule, despite many absences. "We are checking the rolls," Dr. Patterson said, "to get the names of those failing to attend the classes."

The strike occurred as Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center, for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of the disease. The college president said the student difficulty interfered in no way with the ceremonies.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee's Strike Is Ended Officially

JAN 20 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were placed on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Capt. N. W. Kimbrough said tonight all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, approximately 20 had been placed on probation.

One of those suspended, Wilbur Hines, Wilmington, N. C., vice president of the student council, termed the strike a "success" and declared that "we were assured there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes (resuting from the strike) woud not be punished."

Dr. Patterson said the strike had "very little basis," that the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

News
Birmingham, Ala.

One Student Slashed At Tuskegee Institute And 11 Slapped In Jail

JAN 17 1941

State Patrolmen Guard Campus; Strikers Partake Of Noonday Meal

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Following the slashing of a student who reportedly sought entrance into a classroom in defiance of striking students, Tuskegee Institute authorities Friday took drastic steps to end a two-day "strike" of students which started over food served at student tables.

Eleven students were arrested by state highway patrolmen when they refused to heed commands to clear the college entrances, officers reported, after wounding of the student.

Later two of the 11 were released and it was reported that all students went to the dining-room for the noonday meal following announcement by Tuskegee authorities that students who continued to "strike" would be dismissed.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, reported that a student had been cut by a knife in the hands of another student but declined to identify the injured student or to name his assailant.

Highway patrolmen, headed by Chief T. Weller Smith, of Montgomery, reached Tuskegee Friday morning after President Patterson had reported the striking students were seeking to intimidate other students who desired to enter classrooms.

Chief Smith estimated that about 800 of the 1,400 students remained away from classrooms Friday morning. The arrest of 11 students came after they are said to have refused to clear the entrances.

Highway patrol officers brought riot equipment, including tear gas, guns, to the campus and were prepared to use them.

Meanwhile, the college executive council met Friday to consider dismissal of strike leaders who had failed to respond to an ultimatum to be in class or at work by 7 a.m.

The first instance of intimidation in the strike came late Thursday when the strikers are reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Food Strike Settled

JAN 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(S N S)—The sensational food strike started Wednesday at Tuskegee Institute by several hundred of its students was believed ended Saturday with the suspension of 40 young men accused as leaders of the four-day campus demonstration.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, told newspapermen Saturday morning the situation "definitely is under control."

Students moved orderly to Saturday morning classes as quiet prevailed across the spacious campus.

College authorities reported receipts of wires, letters and calls from parents asking them to advise sons and daughters they were not supporting the strike and urging the students to observe orders.

The strike reached a high pitch Friday when one student was slashed with a knife when he attempted to attend class irrespective of the intimidations of the strikers.

Eleven of the alleged strikers were arrested Friday by highway patrolmen after students refused to heed commands to clear the college entrances.

Additional details of patrolmen were rushed to the campus Friday at the request of Dr. Patterson who said intimidations were being used by the strikers.

Patrolmen were called to the campus Thursday night when a group of strikers refused to allow a bread truck to be unloaded.

Those forming the strike aggregation not only made protests against food served in the school cafeteria but complained against the "strict regulations regarding women students on the campus."

Dr. Patterson insisted throughout the strike that there was "very little basis for the strike" and declared the food was both "palatable and wholesome."

DIXIE Highlights

By ROBERT M. RATCLIFFE

HE ISN'T EXACTLY A BUM. It's his appearance that gives you the idea.

JAN 19 1941

He makes some sort of living selling razorblades and anything else you might ask him to bring you.

He'll even promise to bring you a carton of cigarettes at reduced rates. But he wants the money in advance. And if you advance him the cash you may not see him again in 10 days.

He'll have an alibi when you catch up with him. He'll say he's been in jail, but knows where he can get the smokes if you let him have a little more money.

Well, he stopped by the news desk the other night, as usual, to ask for a paper. If he can't sell you anything, he is certain to ask for "one of your papers."

He got the paper, and his eyes fell on the headline telling about the "student food strike" on the Tuskegee Institute campus.

"Well, what do you know about that," he says, chuckling to himself. "The boys ain't getting enough to eat at a place where they don't do nothing but raise food."

"Oh, they're getting plenty to eat" I said.

"What they kicking about, then?"

"They don't like the idea of eating so much of the same kind of food so often, and don't like the way they get that," I answered.

"How do you know? You ain't down there," he tells me.

"I only heard. By the grapevine route."

JAN 19 1941

This man who looks like a bum and peddles razorblades, rubbed his rough hands over his bearded face. "I don't know nothing about the food at Tuskegee, but I know about some of the other colleges."

I told him he didn't look like a man who'd been to college. And I told him I doubted if he'd ever been through a college.

He found a big crack in the floor, took good aim, and spit. I knew then he was getting ready for a long talk.

"I used to travel with a college football team, sort of a handy man, kept watch over equipment. And whenever I made a trip with the men they took me right with them in the dining room to eat."

He hit that crack again, right in the middle.

"The first time I ever ate a rutabaga was at a college" he continued a wide smile splitting his face "Our team was down in Mississipp to play a game and that night at supper those guys put rutabagas and hash on the table.

"Sure, we ate it. We had to. But why those students never staged a food strike at that place is a puzzle to me.

"I'll never forget a college in Tennessee. They served in high class style. Salads and rolls and bowls of this and platters of that. A fellow would be crazy to start a strike at a school like that. Of course, I felt out of place eating in that swell joint. And that's about the only reason a guy would have for leading a strike at that place.

"Oh, I been around," he continued.

Trying to get back on the subject of the Tuskegee strike, I told him about Dr. Patterson saying "some students wouldn't be satisfied if they were given bacon and eggs every morning."

But, he didn't intend to get tangled up in the Tuskegee affair. "Some Florida students struck once" he declared, "because they had to eat steak and fried potatoes three nights a week. And they didn't want codfish for breakfast."

He looked for the crack in the floor. "Now, I don't see how in the world them fellows could object to steak and spuds, but I kinda agree with them when it comes to codfish."

"Some fellows just will not be pleased," I said.

The gentleman with the bumish appearance departed after he told all he knew about college dining rooms and kitchens. And, I can't say I was sorry about the departure.

The thought came to me that it would not be such a bad idea should Congressman Mitchell introduce a bill calling for all boarding schools and colleges to provide individual kitchens for those students who are touchy about what they eat.

If such a bill should become law, northern students attending southern institutions of learning wouldn't have to eat those favorite dishes of the South—yams, collards, grits, rice and turnips. They could cook just what they wanted.

Trade students, who in some colleges think academic students receive better attention in the dining room, would have the privilege of stewing up any type of dinner or breakfast their tastes called for in event the suggested bill should become law.

I've seen it work. Down in Fort Valley College in Ft. Valley, Georgia several fellows live under a cooperative plan. They have their own home, cook their own food.

They were eating grits, biscuits and fish the morning I stopped in to see them.

And they were not thinking of starting a food strike.

Cordele, Ga. Dispatch
January 19, 1941

Think of the 500 or 600 Negro students striking at Tuskegee on account of the quality of food served in the college dining hall. We will wager ten to one that there was not a single Negro in the strike who was not receiving better food at the college than he received at home. We have never seen Tuskegee Institute but we have heard a lot about it and what its program is for the average Negro who attends it. The president of the institution said he ate with the students recently and found the food "palatable and wholesome". We are willing to rest the merits of the case on his statement. What the remainder of the 1500 students of the institution should do is take the striking bucks into the Gym or out on a snipe hunt and administer the old time remedy which never failed to effect a cure. Those afflicted with the strike fever cannot be treated successfully with an ice bag.

Montgomery, Ala. Journal
January 22, 1941

Quiet at Tuskegee

It is cause for general satisfaction that normal conditions have been restored so promptly at Tuskegee institute following the student disturbances of last week. President F. D. Patterson and his faculty associates seem to have shown firmness and administrative talent of high order in stopping the demonstrations which were reacting unfavorably upon an institution which has never before had anything in the nature of a student "strike." It was necessary to dismiss 55 students from the school, as ringleaders who failed to heed the president's warning that all students must return to their classes by a specified hour.

There have been reports that more is involved in the student disturbance than was apparent on the surface, and that there is evidence that the trouble was inspired by outside and subversive influences. No doubt the school authorities are familiar with this aspect of the case, and with the restoration of order will feel free to deal with any menace from that direction, as well as to call upon friends of the school everywhere if necessary to help keep isms out of the Tuskegee School and everywhere else in the South, for that matter.

Memphis, Tenn. Commercial Appeal
January 16, 1941

TUSKEGEE'S STUDENTS STRIKE OVER RATIONS

More Than 300 Skip Classes In Food Protest

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Protesting against food they are served, several hundred students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negores, struck Wednesday, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said Wednesday night that 300 to 400 of the 1400 students joined a strike he declared had "very little basis."

The difficulty, the negro educator said, was "incited by an ugly editorial" in the student paper.

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders, and that those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college."

If such normalcy is restored, he added, "we'll go into the matter of food further, but if not, we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

Richmond, Va. News-Leader
January 17, 1941

Striking Students Face Suspension

TUSKEGEE, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the Negro college's dining-hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all students "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Eight State patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining-hall.

Anderson, S. C., Independent Trib
January 17, 1941

Call Patrolmen In School Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16—(AP)—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro College's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphenalia, looked on.

Birmingham Ala. Age-Herald
January 18, 1941

TUSKEGEE QUIET AFTER STABBING; 11 ARE ARRESTED

State Officers With Riot Equipment On Guard Following Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—(AP)—Quiet prevailed Friday night on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one youth being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

About a score officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed after disregarding threats of the strikers and attempting to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings.

All those jailed were released after a few hours without charges having been preferred against them, but Dr. Patterson said Friday night 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent nonstrikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes Friday. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria where about 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of state patrolmen came in Friday morning as a precaution. A dozen or more state officers were here assisting county and city officers.

The 11 jailed apparently were not connected with the slashing of the student. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the injured student or his assailant. It was understood, however, the youth was not hurt seriously.

The college council decided that all students who cause further disturbance will be suspended. Late in the day it was understood none had been dismissed from school, and quiet reigned on the campus, students having been warned those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Patrolmen were rushed here Thursday night, when strikers were reported to have threatened a truck driver attempting to unload food at the dining hall. Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa summoned aid from Montgomery when, he said, the strikers told him "we're running things here."

The truck unloaded later without incident as eight patrolmen watched.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
January 19, 1941

COLLEGE STRIKE APPARENTLY OVER

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18—(AP)—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today more than 50 students had been suspended in connection with a four-day strike now apparently ended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today and the president predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
January 19, 1941

SUSPEND STUDENTS IN SCHOOL STRIKE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Tuskegee Institute, great Negro institution, sought today to resume normal operations after suspension of 49 students accused as leaders in a strike which had paralyzed activities.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, expressed the belief that disturbances which grew out of students' complaints against food served in the dining hall, and "too strict" regulations, would be settled amicably.

Disorders during the past two days had resulted in one student being slashed with a knife and 11 others jailed. The eleven were released after several hours without formal charges having been filed against them.

Doctor Patterson said late last night he believed the incident, involving many of the institute's 1,400 students, was "rapidly coming to a conclusion."

He said the 49 pupils suspended as alleged strike leaders might be taken back "on an individual merit basis." Name of the youth injured in the cutting affray was not revealed, but it was understood he was not seriously hurt.

A squad of state highway patrolmen remained on duty in the vicinity of the school. The campus was quiet, but patrolmen stood by.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Daily Times
January 17, 1941

TUSKEGEE STRIKE BRINGS PATROLMEN

Bakery Driver Threatened by Crowd of Negro Students in Food Protest

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16 (AP).—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a group of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday, and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The driver of a cracker and cookie truck complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckaba late today that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "We're running this end of it," when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a.m. will be automatically suspended."

Late tonight the strike apparently remained unsettled, with student leaders announcing, following a mass meeting, that the college administration had refused assurances that class cuts during the last two days would not be counted if normal activities were resumed tomorrow.

Dr. Patterson, who addressed the meeting, sent word to reporters by Highway Patrol Capt. N. W. Kimbrough that "there is nothing further I can give out at this time." The students are scheduled to meet again at 7 a.m. Friday.

Members of the student council, who would not be quoted directly, said that in addition to complaints against food, there were objections to what they termed "strict regulations regarding young women students," and "the fact that we have to go through so much red tape to get our grievances before the institute administration."

Kimbrough said no other incidents occurred after the food truck was unloaded, and that "a lot of the crowd seemed to be having a lot of fun, instead of showing a hostile attitude." The patrolmen remained in their automobiles near the auditorium during the meeting.

Greenville, S. C. News
January 17, 1941

Riot Squad Calms Tuskegee Students

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP)—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphenalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

Atlanta, Ga. Constitution
January 19, 1941

Tuskegee Ousts Fifty of Strikers

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP) The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge Negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

Atlanta, Ga. Constitution
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Strike Ends, Students Return Today

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19.—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Intitute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge Negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining room and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Knoxville, Tenn. News Sentinel
January 16, 1941

300 Tuskegee Students Strike Because of Food

By United Press

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16 — More than 300 students at the Tuskegee Institute yesterday refused to attend classes in a protest strike against the quality of food served at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the Negro School, said that the strike was caused by "a little dissatisfaction over meals." Classes, he said, continued as usual, although many students did not report.

The strike came shortly before dedicatory exercises for the $161,500 infantile paralysis center at the institute, at which Basil O'Connor, of New York, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, was the principal speaker.

Birmingham, Ala. News
January 20, 1941

Order Is Restored At Negro Institute, Authorities Assert

55 Tuskegee Students Suspended And 50 Others Have Left Campus

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—With the suspension of 55 students, believed to have been the leaders of the "student strike" which disturbed the routine of the famous Negro institute here, order had been restored Monday morning, according to college authorities, and the "strike is definitely over."

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, estimated that approximately 50 other students had left the campus over the week-end out of sympathy for those who were suspended.

According to statements issued by the school officials, the disturbance began last Tuesday when mimeographed sheets calling on the students to refuse to report for drill, classes or enter the college dining hall, were circulated among the student body by the strike leaders.

According to the sheets, the strike was to begin Wednesday morning. It assured its sympathizers that "no one need fear the matter concerning expulsion from school. We will continue to strike until any student who is sent away on this charge is readmitted to school."

President Patterson voluntarily appeared before a meeting of students Tuesday night in an effort to assure them that all grievances which they had presented would be given every consideration, school officials explained Monday. The students would accept no offer of arbitration and called a strike for the following morning. A large number of students failed to report to classes, to their work, and to the dining hall for meals. Many of the students who attempted to go about their usual duties were prevented by some of the more active leaders of the strike.

The institute's executive council met Wednesday morning and issued the following statement:

Text Of Statement

"To the Student Council:

"The Southern trustees and members of the executive council of Tuskegee Institute regard the present strike on the part of members of the student body as unwarranted and unjustifiable. It occurred at a time when officials of the institute were in conference with representatives of the student body in an effort to adjust as far as possible and reasonable the complaints made. There was no indication that these negotiations were failing to attain the desired result.

"We feel under the circumstances that further consideration of this matter must be postponed until order is restored and students have resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute as regards school and work. At such time the administration is willing to confer with representatives designated by the student body to reopen this matter.

"An answer to this communication is requested by 5 p.m. today."

The strike leaders refused to accept this offer of arbitration unless President Patterson sign a statement promising that no investigation would be made, and that no student would be suspended for his activities in connection with it, the official statement said Monday. President Patterson refused to sign such a statement on the grounds, describing the strike "as a flagrant violation of the rules of Tuskegee Institute, and therefore no commitment not to punish those responsible could be given."

The executive council issued a warning Thursday morning that any student absent from "assigned duty or class" after 7 a.m. Friday would be automatically suspended from the institute.

About 4 that afternoon, a group of the students prevented a truck driver from unloading food at the dining hall and ordered a highway patrolman, assigned to the area, off the campus.

Aid was summoned from the patrol office at Montgomery and the truck unloaded under their protection.

Knives, Clubs Drawn

Friday morning, efforts of students to return to classes were prevented by striking students who gathered at classrooms entrances brandishing knives and using clubs, the authorities' statement said. Threats to damage and destroy the property of Tuskegee Institute were frequently made as well as threats of physical injury to students not on strike." After repeated efforts to have striking students return to their dormitories and remain orderly had failed, the executive council decided that the strike had created a situation of violence that the school could not control, and that it was necessary to call the civil authorities. The officers on arrival were urged to treat the students with consideration and to use force only as a last resort. Every cooperation and consideration to this request were given. In the process of restoring order 11 students were arrested but were released after a few hours without charge," the statement continued.

The executive council then voted to suspend 49 students for their activities in connection with the strike.

"The civil officials had withdrawn, and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute by Friday afternoon.

"Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these days from parents all over the nation urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskegee Institute and to remain in school," the statement said. "These messages have strongly endorsed the action taken by the executive council of Tuskegee Institute. The action of the executive council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon."

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

Students Strike At Tuskegee Inst., Ala.

JAN 24 1941

The National Baptist Union-Review, holds no brief for either side of this unfortunate affair; and this article is making no defense for either the faculty or students striking; further than to say, that the right of petition, protest or strike to redress grievances between individuals and organizations, is inherent in the citizen, under our Constitution and Bill of Rights. We believe that all differences between individuals, where human rights are involved, ought to be settled in the spirit of Christianity; recognizing the principle that both sides to the trouble have rights, the other must respect, before the stern hand of the law is called in; which, as a rule, makes bad matters worse. This principle should be strictly adhered to in the settlement of religious and educational questions.

JAN 24 1941

We learned from the Associated Press Dispatches, that the State patrolmen were called in; by whom the dispatch did not say. But whoever did it or by what authority, the law was invited, does not count so much as the un-wisdom of the blunder of calling the law before the school authorities had exhausted all means of protection. Policemen can neither settle school troubles, run colleges or discipline students. When situations in school, reach that stage of disorder where the faculty and students cannot settle their differences, without policemen, it is time for the Trustees to take charge, get rid of the side in error or both sides. Police regulations will not help the school's reputation in the public eye; and will lay a foundation that in years to come will grow a feud between faculty and student body.

18y-1941

Tupelo, Miss. News
January 18, 1941

Tuskegee Quiet After Stabbing

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Quiet prevailed Friday night on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one youth being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

About a score officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed after disregarding threats of the strikers and attempting to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings.

All those jailed were released after a few hours without charges having been preferred against them, but Dr. Patterson said last night 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent nonstrikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Parol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes Friday. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where about 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of state patrolmen came in Friday morning as a precaution. A dozen or more state officers were here assisting county and city officers.

Athens Ga. Banner-Herald
January 19, 1941

50 Are Suspended For Part In Strike At Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE, Ala. —(AP)— The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported Saturday more than 50 students had been suspended in connection with a four-day strike now apparently ended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed Saturday and the president predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

"We were assured," the Wilmington, N. C., student said, "there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes would not be punished. If possible, I'm going to return to Tuskegee."

Shortly after the strike developed Wednesday, Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis" and declared he found the food both palatable and wholesome."

Among those suspended, Dr. Patterson listed Editor Henry Miller of the student newspaper, Campus Topics, which had criticized the food, and Cadet-Colonel Earl Williams of the R. O. T. C. unit.

One student was slashed with a knife and 11 jailed temporarily without charge Friday in disorders developing as strikers attempted to prevent others from attending classes.

State Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith, who headed a detail sent to reinforce local authorities, estimated 800 of the college's 1,400 students joined the strike.

Dr. Patterson held out some hope of reinstatement for those suspended, but said those taken back would be considered on "an individual merit basis."

STUDENT STRIKE

Natchez, Miss. Democrat
January 19, 1941

MANY STUDENTS OF TUSKEEGEE SUSPENDED

(By The Associated Press)

TNSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18—The Tuskegee Institute Executive Council composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Institute President, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation.

Quiet prevailed today and the President said "all students, except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would operate normally by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" rgeulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, Vice-President of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

"We were assured," the Wilmington, N. C., student said, "there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes would not be punished. If possible, I'm going to return to Tuskegee."

Savannah Ga. Press
January 17, 1941

TUSKEGEE STUDENTS FACING EXPULSION

Food Strikers May Attend Their Classes or Drop from Roll.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP).—Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the negro college's dining hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced all students "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Eight state patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. He asserted he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Athens, Ga., Banner-Herald
January 17, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Head To Suspend Students On Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala. —(AP)— Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the negro college's dining hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all students "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Eight state patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. He asserted he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Montgomery Ala., Advertiser
January 18, 1941

Tuskegee Quiet After Disorders Student Knifed

11 Jailed, Later Freed; 800 Believed Out In Food Protest Strike

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Quiet prevailed tonight on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one student being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

Around a score officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded threats of the strikers and attempted to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings.

11 Freed From Jail

All those jailed were released after a few hours without charges having been preferred against them, but Dr. Patterson said tonight 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria where around 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of State patrolmen came in this morning as a precaution. A dozen or more State officers were here assisting county and city officers.

No Charges Preferred

The 11 jailed apparently were not connected with the slashing of the student. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the injured student or his assailant. It was understood, however, the boy was not hurt seriously. No formal charges had been preferred against the 11 who were jailed.

The college council decided that all students who cause further disturbance will be suspended. Late in the day it was understood none had been dismissed from school, and quiet reigned on the campus, students having been warned those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Patrolmen were rushed here last night, when strikers were reported to have threatened a truck driver attempting to unload food at the dining hall. Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa summoned aid from Montgomery when, he said, the strikers told him "we're running things here."

The truck unloaded later without incident as eight patrolmen watched.

Huntsville, Ala. Times
January 17, 1941

Student Hurt, 11 Are Jailed At Tuskegee

State Highway Patrolmen Ordered Out As Strike Continues

TUSKEGEE, Jan. 17 (AP)—One student was slashed with a knife and 11 others were jailed today as disorder flared in the strike of hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's largest colleges for negroes.

Additional state highway patrolmen, including Chief T. Weller Smith, rushed here from Montgomery when they received reports students attempting to attend classes were being "intimidated" by strikers.

Chief Smith came with instructions from Governor Dixon to adhere to keeping the highways open, unless the Macon county sheriff advised the situation was beyond his control, then the patrol would preserve order and protect property.

Meanwhile, the college executive council met to take suspension action against strikers who quit classes Wednesday in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

The Birmingham patrolmen came in two squad cars, raising to 14 the number of state officers here. The patrol brought riot equipment including tear gas guns and bombs.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who contended the strike had "very little basis," estimated 500 to 600 of the 1,400 students were out. He gave an ultimatum last night that all students "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

When a large number of students failed to report for drill at 7 a. m., and for the subsequent early class, the college president said "we are beginning with suspensions right away." A meeting of the college executive committee was called to handle the suspensions.

Leaders of the strike were accused by Dr. Patterson of "intimidating" many students who wanted to return to classes. The president said a considerable numbe of students reported for the early drill and classes.

Eight state patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. H asserted he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The strike began Wednesday following a student meeting at which protests were made against the food. Members of the student council said last night, however, there were other complaints, including "too strict regulations regarding young women students, and a host of minor problems."

Student leaders who would not be quoted by name said a compromise had been suggested at student-faculty conferences under which a committee of one student and two teachers would take their meals in the cafeteria for two weeks and make recommendations.

At last night's meeting, these leaders said, a request was made on Dr. Patterson that he give written assurance that class cuts during the last two days would not be counted against strikers, and that no student be "sent home" as the result of his activities in the movement.

Dr. Patterson was quoted as saying he would not make a written promise, but if the students would go back to their classes he would "do the best he could" to help solve their problems. He left the meeting then, and spokesmen said that when the question was asked, "who is going back to classes tomorrow," one in the crowded auditorium answered in the affirmative.

While cheers and loud applause came from auditorium windows, the campus otherwise was quiet last night. Reporters were not permitted to enter the hall, and faculty members present at the start were asked to leave. Sentries stood at the door and refused admittance to all non-students.

A lengthy editorial in the campus newspaper dated Jan. 11 complained against food served in the cafeteria, and declared that "the department of college dietetics, which operates and manages the cafeteria, is the one department on the campus which is, more than any other, the direct antithesis of the ideals and principles for which Tuskegee Institute stands."

Dr. Patterson said late yesterday that the Institute's executive council had been holding frequent meetings with student representatives in efforts to end the strike, and expressed belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

He estimated 500 to 600 of the 1,400 students were participating in the protests, while student leaders estimated "800 to 900" were refusing to eat at the cafeteria.

Student spokesman described the demonstration as "an accumulation of grievances" and a protest against "red tape" which they said was required before they could get their complaints to the authorities.

Students said they pay $20 per month for room and board.

Atlanta, Ga Constitution
January 17, 1941

600 Tuskegee Students Stage Food Walkout

Patrolmen Go to College After Trucker Is Threatened.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP) State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes and gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The truck driver complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "We're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a. m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest.

Columbus, Ga Enquirer-Sun
January 16, 1941

FOOD PROTEST IS REGISTERED AT TUSKEGEE

Several Hundred Negro Students Strike Against Dining Hall

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15.—(AP)— Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, struck today, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said tonight that 300 to 400 of the 1,400 students joined a strike he declared has "very little basis."

The difficulty, the negro educator said, was "incited by an ugly editorial" in the student paper.

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders and that those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college."

If such normalcy is restored, he added, "we'll go into the matter of the food further, but if not we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The college president "dropped in" at the college dining hall, where about 1,000 students eat, and had dinner with them yesterday. He said the meal for the students included liver and onions, cabbage cooked with bacon, peas, cornbread, choice of salad (potato or lettuce and tomato) and choice of dessert (apple cobbler or Jello).

"The food was palatable and wholesome," he said. "They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity."

Classes were held on schedule, despite many absences.

The strike occurred as Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of the disease. Patterson said the student difficulty interfered in no way with the ceremonies.

Columbus, Ga Enquirer-Sun
January 20, 1941

NEGRO STRIKE AT TUSKEGEE IS SAID ENDED

Classes To Be Resumed Under Normal Conditions, President Says

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19—AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said onight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions omorrow.

Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge negro ollege's 1,400 students declined to ttend classes in protest against ood and service in the dining all, and what they termed "too trict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were placed n duty at the school after the trike developed Wednesday, but Capt. N. W. Kimbrough said toight all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the icinity.

Wilbur Hines, Wilmington, N. ., vice president of the student ouncil, termed the strike a "success" and declared that "we were ssured there would be improved onditions in the dining hall and uts from classes (resulting from he strike) would not be punished."

18y -1941

STUDENT STRIKE

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

TUSKEGEE STUDENTS CONTINUE "STRIKE"

JAN 17 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS)—The "strike" of a large percentage of Tuskegee's huge student body, which began Wednesday took on a grimmer note late Thursday when Governor Bibb Graves ordered squadron of state police equipped with tear gas bombs to be stationed on the school's campus.

JAN 17 1941

The executive order came after complaints had been made by a white truckman, who charged that "more than 1,000" students had prevented him from delivering bread to the cafeteria, the "sore point" of the students' complaint

President Patterson disputing the claim that 1,000 had engaged in the disturbance, told newspaper representatives that less than 500 of the students were still refusing to report for drill or classes.

This figure is a hundred less than that reported Wednesday morning when the strike first got underway. The strike is an outgrowth of an organized protest against what the students claim to be "unsatisfactory conditions" in the school's cafeteria.

A demand has been made for a better quality of food and that it be served in greater quantity.

COMMITTEE INVESTIGATES

Meanwhile the only action thus far taken by the Executive Council, which is composed of the school's department heads, was the appointment of a committee to investigate both the conditions in the cafeteria cmplained of and the organization behind the striking students.

This committee late Thursday had not reported to President Patterson, who heads the Executive Council.

More than four hundred of the students gathered in the Trades "A" building Thursday morning and held a spirited meeting. Chief target of the several speakers who took the floor was the Commercial Dietetics department, which is in charge of the cafeteria

PROGRAM GOES ON

Though a large number of the male students remained from class and were joined by many of the women students, the strike thus far had failed to interfere with the general program of the school.

Three programmed occasions went off as scheduled Wednesday and were attended by most of the striking students as well as those who are still attending classes.

These were the dedication of the new Infantile Paralysis Center the basketball game between Xavier and Tuskegee and the annual Senior's Fashion Revue.

One of the problems which has caused much discussion among those students staying away from class is just what will be their fate when the semester examinations which are but a few days away are held. Even if the trike is settled before the time of the examinations, it was pointed out by one, those who remain out now are missing the important review period and their chances of passing are rapidly diminishing.

CAFES BENEFIT

Chief beneficiaries of the strike are the three people who operate restaurants on the Tuskegee campus. Striking sutdents refuse to eat in the regular school cafeteria and are taking their meals at these places. Here, too, a problem is developing because cash money is rapidly dwindling for many and their credit at these privately owned cafes is fast reaching the saturation point.

Bystander
Des Moines, Iowa

Order Restored on Tuskegee Campus

JAN 23 1941

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.—Some semblance of order appealed on the campus horizon here this week, following six day's strike activities by students who on Jan. 15 lived up to their ultimatum to stay away from classes and the school cafeteria until their demands were met by the institute administration.

The strikers, who said they took this action as a protest against poor food and glaring instances of mal administration in the school's relations with it's student body, have remained adament in their demands. The administration, on the other hand, also remains unshaken in it's refusal to meet the demands, denying at the same time that the student's charges are founded on fact.

On Friday afternoon quiet prevailed on the campus, all civil officials had withdrawn and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute.

Sunday, January 19, the students went to chapel where the regular services were held. The activities of the school are now proceding as usual.

Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these days from parents all over the nation urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskegee Institute and to remain in school. These messages have strongly endorsed the action taken by the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute.

The action of the Executive Council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon.

Macon Ga. Telegraph
January 18, 1941

Negro Student Slashed In Strike at Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., (AP)—Disorders among striking Tuskegee Institute students resulted Friday in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of 11 before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big Negro college.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and environs, Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances. Two were released later.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where 1,000 students eat.

Montgomery, Ala. Journal
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Student Strike History; 55 Sent Home

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Order restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike at the huge negro college now was "definitely over" and normal operations had been resumed.

The strike, with hundreds of students out of classes, developed disorders last week, resulting in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. State officers with riot equipment came here as a precaution.

The trouble developed over a protest against food served in the college dining hall. At the height of the strike a state officer said around 800 of the 1,400 students did not attend classes.

Dr. Patterson estimated today approximately 50 students left Tuskegee over the week-end out of sympathy for the 55 regarded as leaders of the strike and indefinitely suspended.

The president saidk "we plan to resume our regular program. We've always allowed the students to present any grievances they have, and have tried to make any reasonable adjustments possible. The same principle will prevail now. A committee has been appointed to confer with the students on the present complaints."

As to the possibility of the 55 students sent home getting back, Dr. Patterson said "all will be given consideration on the merits of their individual cases."

Birmingham, Ala. Age-Herald
January 16, 1941

NEGRO COLLEGE HAS FOOD STRIKE

Tuskegee Head Asserts Student Basis For Walkout Small

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15—(AP)—Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negroes, struck Wednesday, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said Wednesday night that 300 to 400 of the 1,400 students joined the strike which he declared had "very little basis."

The difficulty, the Negro educator said, was "incited by an ugly editorial in the student paper, and he added: "There is nothing inadequate about the diet provided the students. It is wholesome. The complaining students have no real case. There is very little basis for their accusations. We're not perfect, but we're doing all we can."

Conferences Held

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders, that all those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college." If such normalcy is restored, he said, "we'll go into the matter of the food further, but if not we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The college president "dropped in" at the college dining hall, where about 1,000 students eat, and had dinner with them Tuesday. He said the meal for the students included: Liver and onions, cabbage cooked with bacon, peas, cornbread, choice of salad (potato or lettuce and tomato) and choice of dessert (apple cobbler or jello).

Food Termed Good

"The food was palatable and wholesome," he said.

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity," Dr. Patterson observed. "The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

Classes were held on schedule, despite many absences. "We are checking the rolls," Dr. Patterson said, "to get the names of those failing to attend the classes."

The strike occurred as Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center, for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses, for treatment of the disease. The college president said the student difficulty interfered in no way with the ceremonies.

Colum'a [illegible]
January 18, 1941

One Slashed In Striking At Tuskegee

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17—(AP)—Disorders among striking Tuskegee institute students resulted today in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of 11 before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big Negro college.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and environs, Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where 1,000 students eat. Doctor Patterson said the disorders had "very little basis," that the food was palatable and wholesome."

The institute president said strikers blocked entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes. He added that strikers made open threats against students trying to enter and said girl students as well as men were intimidated.

All of those arrested were released later without formal charges having been preferred against them. The injured student was not hurt seriously. Neither his name nor that of his assailant was revealed.

Doctor Patterson announced tonight 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and added that any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual merit basis." Students were warned that those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Nashville, Tenn. Banner
January 17, 1941

Tuskegee Plans To Suspend Student Strikers

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17—(AP)—Authorities at the Tuskegee Institute today planned to suspend several hundred Negro students who failed to report for classes this morning, in protest against the foods served at the college dining hall.

President F. D. Patterson said that no accurate check of the number absent had been made, but that "not many" of the 1,400 enrollment were in early classes. All those absent, he said, will be automatically suspended.

Patterson said he felt sure that many of the students were being "intimidated by fifty or seventy-five ringleaders," but that they must nevertheless apply for reinstatement. He declared the school administration would not give in.

Meanwhile, students held a second mass meeting this morning, to determine their stand following the suspension order.

Milton, Ga. Gazette
January 20, 1941

ORDER RESTORED NEGRO COLLEGE

55 Students at Tuskegee Sent Home After Strike in Complaint Against Food.

Tuswegee, Ala., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Order has been restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, reported today, and said the strike at the large negro school is "definitely over," with normal operations resumed.

The trouble started over a protest against dining hall food.

Macon, Ga., News
January 17, 1941

Striking Students Face Suspension

TUSKEGEE, Ala., [AP]—Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the Negro college's dining hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all students "not at work in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Eight state patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. He asserted he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "platable and wholesome."

Chattanooga, Tenn. Daily Times
January 20, 1941

HEAD OF TUSKEGEE SAYS STRIKE ENDED

55 Leaders Suspended After Many Students Quit in Protest on Food

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19 (AP).—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Approximately fifty-five were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge Negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were placed on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Capt. N. W. Kimbrough said tonight all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, approximately twenty had been placed on probation.

One of those suspended, Wilbur Hines, Wilmington, N. C., vice-president of the student council, termed the strike a "success" and declared that "we were assured there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes (resulting from the strike) would not be punished."

Dr. Patterson said the strike had "very little basis," that the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome.'

Savannah, Ga. Press
January 17, 1941

VIOLENCE OCCURS IN TUSKEGEE STRIKE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP).—One student was slashed with a knife and eleven others were jailed today as disorder flared in the strike of hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's largest colleges for negroes.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, reported the student slashed was attempting to attend a class irrespective of the intimidations of the strikers.

The eleven were jailed, officers reported, when they refused to heed their commands to clear the college entrances. They apparently were not connected with the knifing incident. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the student slashed or the assailant.

Two additional details of highway patrolmen, headed by Chief T. Weller Smith, Montgomery, rushed here this morning.

Newport Tenn. Plain Talk
January 20, 1941

Wonder what the starving people in some parts of Europe would think of that food strike at Tuskegeee Institute, a colored school in Alabama? Students were not satisfied with the grub and went on a no-eat strike. Time may come in this country, and it may not be as far off as one might imagine, when most of us may be glad to get anything to eat. We hope, however, that such a condition never strikes this nation.

Macon Ga. Telegraph
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Negroes Go On Strike Against Food Served

TUSKEGEE, Ala., [AP] — A number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, "struck" Wednesday, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 300 to 400 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among Negroes.

Orlando, Fla., Morning Sentinel
January 19, 1941

Tuskegee Suspends 50 Strikers; All Quiet

TUSKEGEE, Ala., [AP] The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported yesterday it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Bristol, Va. News Bulletin
January 20, 1941

TUSKEGEE STUDENT STRIKE TERMINATED

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19. (AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes were resumed under normal conditions today.

Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Dr. Patterson said the strike had "very little basis," that the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

Troy, Ala., Herald
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Students 'Strike' Because Of Food

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15—(AP)—A number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in protest against the food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 students refused to attend classes.

Natchez, Miss. Democrat
January 18, 1941

NEGRO COLLEGE IS QUIET AFTER STRIKE CLASH

Disorders Result In One Young Negro Being Slashed By A Knife And Jailing Of Eleven Others

(By The Associated Press)

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—Quiet tonight prevailed on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one youth being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

Officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded threats of the strikers and attempted to attend a class.

The 11 were put in jail, officers said after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings. Two were released shortly after noon. The strikers blocked the entrance to prevent non-strikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girls students as well as men were intimidated.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against the food served in the college cafeteria where about 1000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of state patrolmen came in this morning as a precaution. A dozen or more state officers were here assisting county and city officers.

The 11 jailed apparently were not connected with the slashing of the student. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the injured student nor his assailant. It was understood, however, the youth was not hurt seriously. No formal charges had been preferred against the 11.

Selma, Ala., Times Journal
January 17, 1941

KNIFE USED IN SCHOOL STRIKE; ELEVEN JAILED

Intimidation Followed By Disorder On Campus At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—(AP)—One student was slashed with a knife and 11 others were jailed today as disorder flared in the strike of hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's largest colleges for negroes.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, reported the student slashed was attempting to attend a class irrespective of the intimidations of the strikers.

The 11 were jailed, officers reported, when they refused to heed their commands to clear the college entrances. They apparently were not connected with the knifing incident. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the student slashed or the assailant.

Two additional details of highway patrolmen, headed by Chief T. Weller Smith, Montgomery, rushed here this morning, when President Patterson reported intimidations were being used by the strikers to prevent students from attending classes.

The strike developed Wednesday, in protest against food served in the college dining hall. Chief Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were away from classes this morning.

Open Threats Made

Dr. Patterson said the strikers made "open threats" against students trying to get into the class buildings, standing in way of doors, locking some doors, and refusing to allow entrance. Girl students were intimidated as well as men, Patterson said.

The negro educator, who has declared the strike had "very little basis," requested law officers to clear the areas in front of class buildings. Some refused to leave, and these were put in jail, he said.

Riot equipment, including tear gas guns, were brought here, and Chief Smith said the patrol was prepared to meet any eventuality. The Chief had 14 patrolmen on duty, assisting county and city officers.

Strikers Face Ouster

The college executive council met to begin dismissal of strike leaders, who had failed to respond to an ultimatum to be in class or at work by 7 a. m. Dr. Patterson predicted the council would act "to summarily dismiss anyone who refuses to disband at order of the police and continues to interfere with the activities of other students." Anyone continuing to congregate around the buildings and disregard orders to disband will be taken care by the police, he said.

Patrolmen with riot equipment came here last night following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the college dining hall.

Page 7)

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. He asserted he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The strike began Wednesday following a student meeting at which protests were made against the food. Members of the student council said last night, however, there were other complaints, including "too strict regulations regarding young women students, and a host of minor problems."

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Institute president, who had announced that students not at work or in class by 7 a. m. today would be suspended, sent word to reporters after appearing before a student mass meeting last night that "there is nothing further I can give out at this time."

Compromise Suggested

Student leaders who would not be quoted by name said a compromise had been suggested at student-faculty conferences under which a committee of one student and two teachers would take their meals in the cafeteria for two weeks and make recommendations.

At last night's meeting, these leaders said, a request was made on Dr. Patterson that he give written assurance that class cuts during the last two days would not be counted against strikers, and that no student be "sent home" as the result of his activities in the movement.

Dr. Patterson was quoted as saying he would not make a written promise, but if the students would go back to their classes he would "do the best he could" to help solve their problems. He left the meeting then, and spokesmen said that when the question was asked, "who is going back to classes tomorrow," one in the crowded auditorium answered in the affirmative.

While cheers and loud applause came from auditorium windows the campus otherwise was quiet last night. Reporters were not permitted to enter the hall, and faculty members present at the start were asked to leave. Sentries stood at the door and refused admittance to all non-students.

Campus Paper Complains

A lengthy editorial in the campus newspaper dated Jan. 11 complained against food served in the cafeteria, and declared that "the department of college dietetics, which operates and manages the cafeteria, is the one department on the campus which is, more than any other, the direct antithesis of the ideals and principles for which Tuskegee Institute stands."

Dr. Patterson said late yesterday that the institute's executive council had been holding frequent meetings with student representatives in efforts to end the strike, and expressed belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

He estimated 500 to 600 of the 1,400 students were participating in the protests, while student leaders estimated "800 to 900" were refusing to eat at the cafeteria.

Student spokesman described the demonstration as "an accumulation of grievances" and a protest against "red tape" which they said was required before they could get their complaints to the authorities.

Students said they pay $20 per month for room and board. Dr. Patterson described the food as "palatable and wholesome."

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said last night that when he went to the campus after the truck driver had reported strikers had warned him against unloading, he was told that "we're running this end of it." A call to Montgomery brought other patrolmen with riot equipment.

Capt. Kimbrough said no other incidents occurred, and that "a lot of the crowd seemed to be having a lot of fun, instead of showing a hostile attitude."

Natchez, Miss. Democrat
January 17, 1941

CALL STATE PATROLMEN IN TUSKOGEE STRIKE

(By The Associated Press)

TUSKEFEE, Ala., Jan. 16—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro College's dinning hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphenalia looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of foods served in the institute dining room.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the Institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The President said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the Institute's Executive Council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The Institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7:00 A. M. will be automatically suspended."

Wilmington, N. C. Morning Star
January 17, 1941

Truck Driver Threatened By Striking Students

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP)—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a group of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphenalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

Anniston, Ala. Star
January 16, 1941

FOOD STRIKE GOES ON

Tuskegee Students Will Meet To Discuss Circumstances

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16. (AP)—The campus of Tuskegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant senti-ments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a students' strike against dining hall meals.

Several hundred students at the Negro institution walked out of the dining hall and stayed away from classes yesterday after complaining about the food.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, who said he ate dinner with the students yesterday, declared the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Macon Ga. Telegraph
January 17, 1941

State Patrol Called To Tuskegee Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala. [AP]—State patrolmen were rushed here late Thursday as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations Wednesday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

Huntsville, Ala. Times
January 16, 1941

Return To Class, Strikers Warned

Dr. Patterson Of Tuskegee Will Not Discuss Food Otherwise

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16 (AP)—The campus of Tuskegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant sentiments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a students' strike against dining hall meals.

Several hundred students at the negro institution walked out of the dining hall and stayed away from classes yesterday, after complaining about the food.

A committee from the executive council and a joint committee of students and faculty members have been named to confer on the protest.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, who said he ate dinner with the students yesterday, declared the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Classes were being held on schedule, he said.

Patterson said students staying away from classes had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college."

If "such normacy" is not restored, he added, "we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

Wilmington, N. C. Morning Star
January 18, 1941

Youth Is Slashed During Tuskegee Strike Fighting

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17— (AP) — Disorders among striking Tuskegee institute students resulted today in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of 11 before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big negro college.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and environs, Dr. F. D. Patternson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after obeying orders to disband and clear building entrances. Two were released later.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said the disorders had "very little basis," that the food was palatable and wholesome."

Macon Ga. News-Telegraph
January 16, 1941

Students At Tuskegee Strike Against Food

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Several hundred students of Tuskegee Institute, famed negro school, continued to refuse to attend meals today in a strike against the school's cafeteria menu.

President F. D. Patterson said the students had not struck because of the quality of the food, but struck because they wanted more variety of food.

Patterson said the students were incited by an editorial in the student paper, and had "been reading about strikes" in newspapers "and wanted to try one themselves."

Savannah, Ga., Press
January 18, 1941

TUSKEGEE STRIKE BROUGHT TO END

OFFICIALS SUSPEND 49 ACCUSED LEADERS; YOUTH SLASHED

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18 (AP).—Its four-day-old student strike apparently ended with the suspension of forty-nine accused as leaders, Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's largest negro collges, opened normally today.

Quiet prevailed across the wide campus and Dr. F. O. Patterson, institute president, said the situation "definitely is under control." Students moved orderly toward such Saturday classes as were scheduled.

The strike, which resulted in one youth being slashed with a knife and eleven being jailed temporarily without charge, was blamed by protesting students to food served in the college dining hall and to what they termed "too-strict" regulations.

Dr. Patterson, contending there was "very little basis" for the protest, declared the food was both "palatable and wholesome." He ate with the students Tuesday.

College authorities reported receipt of scores of wires and calls from parents asking them to advise sons and daughters they were not supporting the strike and urging the students to observe orders.

Dillon, S. C., Herald
January 17, 1941

11 STUDENTS HELD IN COLLEGE STRIKE

Tuskegee Students Walked Out of Classes in Protest Against Food Served.

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A jailer said today that he is holding 11 Tuskegee institute students without formal charges, after additional details of state patrolmen were rushed here as a precaution against disorder in a strike of students at the negro college.

The college executive council met today to take suspension action against the strikers, who quit classes Wednesday in a protest against the food served in the college dining hall.

Wilmington, N. C. Morning Star
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Head Says Student Strike Ended

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were placed on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Capt. N. W. Kimbrough said tonight all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Birmingham, Ala. News
January 16, 1941

'Food Is No Good,' Say Tuskegee Students As Strike Continues

Several Hundred Walk From Lunchroom Because They Don't Like The Menu

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Walking out of a lunchroom where liver and onions, cabbage and bacon, peas, cornbread, salad and dessert were on the menu, several hundred students of famed Tuskegee Institute here were on strike Thursday, protesting that the "food is no good."

The Negro students paraded the campus with banners while school authorities called roll in the classrooms to determine who were away.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the school which was founded by Booker T. Washington, said he had dropped into the dining room for lunch Wednesday and found the meal adequate and palatable. He said complaints reaching him said nothing about the quantity of food.

Meanwhile, committees from the executive council and the students and faculty members have been named to confer on the food protest.

Dr. Patterson said all classes were being held on schedule despite many absences. He said students staying away from classes had been invited to resume normal relations with the school and added that if such normalcy were not restored, "we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The student strike began as high dignitaries from throughout the nation gathered at the institution to dedicate a center for the study of spread poliomylitis (infantile paralysis).

Message From Roosevelt Is Read At Dedication

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Featuring an address by Basil O'Connor president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, Inc., New York City, dedication services Wednesday opened the new $161,350 infantile paralysis center at Tuskegee Institute.

O'Connor, who came from New York to speak at the dedication, read a message from President Roosevelt: "From this new center at Tuskegee Institute with its many lay and professional visitors, its medical workers, agricultural agents, teachers and alumni, all dedicated to a better rural South will come a new knowledge and interest in infantile paralysis, and from it we may hope for a new and ever-widening program which will further our efforts in the conquest of this disease."

Referring to the new center as "a venture in education," O'Connor said: "Here persons in all professions and trades will have an opportunity to learn more about the method of care and the means of making such services available to a large part of the population."

Other speakers included Dr. M. O. Blousefield, director of Negro health, Julius Rosenwald Fund, Chicago; Dr. John W. Chenault, who will direct the center; Dr. John A. Kennedy, medical director, John A. Andrew Hospital, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute.

Thomasville, Ga. Times-Enterprise
January 17, 1941

STRIKING TUSKEGEE STUDENTS FACE SUSPENSION

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17. (AP)—Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the negro college's dining hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all students "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Eight state patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said unloading of the truck finally was accompilshed without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. He asserted he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Gadsden, Ala., Times
January 15, 1941

Tuskegee Group Goes On Strike

Better Food Sought By Students; Classes Reduced By Walkouts

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan 15.—(AP) An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

About 1,000 of the institution's students eat in the college dining hall.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he exected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies.

Classes were reported going on as usual, although some had a substantial number of students absent.

Bristol, Va., Herald Courier
January 17, 1941

STUDENTS STRIKE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16. (AP) —The campus of Tuskegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant sentiments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a student's strike against dining-hall meals.

Several hundred students at the negro institution walked out of the dining-hall and stayed away from classes yesterday after complaining about the food.

Montgomery, Ala Journal
January 17, 1941

The Tuskegee Strike

"They had been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves," is the explanation offered by President F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee for the refusal of three or four hundred students to come to classes because they didn't like the food in the dining hall. There is a good deal of psychology in this strike business, and it has some of the elements of a flu epidemic. It is catching, and when it is caught there seems little to do about it except to let nature take its course.

A strike among students, however, is a bad thing, and one that ought to be discouraged in every way. Strikes are wasteful and costly to begin with, and it has been shown by the railroad brotherhoods, the greatest of all organized labor bodies, that they are entirely unnecessary to accomplish results.

When school students go on strike about anything it is little more than a ridiculous imitation of something they have heard or read about. These students who are kicking about having insufficient "variety" in their food at school might take a few hours off and reflect upon what is being done about food in Belgium, in Poland, in China and among more than half the population of the world where it is not a question of inadequate variety, but scarcity of anything to eat at all. They have much to be thankful for, apparently little to kick about.

Columbia S C State
January 17, 1941

Quell Riot Of Strikers At Tuskegee

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 16—(AP)—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

Atlanta, Ga Journal
January 15, 1941

TUSKEGEE GROUP IN FOOD STRIKE

200 to 300 Students Quit Classes Before Dedication Event

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15.—(AP). An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, "struck" Wednesday, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to '00 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. He said the trouble resulted from "a little dis-satisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among Negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he expected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies.

Montgomery, Ala Journal
January 16, 1941

Conference Slated On Student Strike At Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The campus of Tuskegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant sentiments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a students' strike against dining-hall meals.

Several hundred students at the negro institution walked out of the dining-hall and stayed away from classes yesterday after complaining about the food.

A committee from the executive council and a joint committee of students and faculty members have been named to confer on the protest.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, who said he ate dinner with the students yesterday, declared the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Classes were being held on schedule, he said.

Patterson said students staying away from classes had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college." If "such normalcy" is not restored, he added, "we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

Dothan, Ala Eagle
January 15, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Students On Strike To Protest Meals

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)—An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

About 1,000 of the institution's students eat in the college dining hall.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among Negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he expected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies.

Classes were reported going on as usual, although some had a substantial number of students absent.

Dr. Patterson and other college authorities were in conference shortly before noon in an effort to find a satisfactory solution to the difficulty.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., News
January 15, 1941

Students Strike At Tuskegee

Classes Cut In Protest Over Meals At Negro College

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan 15—(AP)—An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-committal about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

About 1,000 of the institution's students eat in the college dining hall.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he expected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies

Classes were reported going on as usual, although some had a substantial number of students absent.

Dr. Patterson and other college authorities were in conference shortly before noon in an effort to find a satisfactory solution to the difficulty.

Spartanburg, S. C. Herald
January 17, 1941

Striking Students at Tuskegee Refuse To Allow Trucks Unload Food at College; Officers Summoned Before Delivery Made

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 16 (AP).—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the negro college's dining hall.

8 Officers Permit Unloading

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphenaia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The driver of a cracker and cookie truck complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa late today that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "We're running this end of it" when he went to investigate.

Call Bring Policemen

A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a.m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest, Patterson said, expressing belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

Gather In Campus Crowds

Earlier students had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college," but the president said only they gathered in crowds about the campus, with "only a few" attending classes or taking meals in the dining hall.

Mobile, Ala., Register
January 19, 1941

Fifty At Tuskegee Ousted For Strike

20 Others Placed On Probation After Demonstration Against Food And Rules

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP) The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said, "Five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today and the president said, "All students, except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

Shortly after the strike developed Wednesday, Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," and declared he found the food both "palatable and wholesome" when he took lunch with the students the day before. The student newspaper, Campus Topics, criticized the food and handling of it a week ago.

Troy, Ala. Messenger
January 18, 1941

Tuskegee Suspends Forty-Nine Students

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18—(AP)—Tuskegee Institute, great negro institution, sought today to resume normal operations after suspension of 49 students accused as leaders in a strike which paralyzed activities.

Tampa, Fla. Tribune
January 18, 1941

Tuskegee Suspends 50 Students Who Led Food Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17.—(U.P.)—The executive council of Tuskegee Institute today suspended nearly 50 students, ringleaders in a three-day strike against dining hall food in this negro college which pioneered in the south in courses training cooks and waiters for hotels.

One student suffered a minor stab wound and 16 were arrested during outbreaks of disorder accompanying the strike.

Fourteen Alabama highway patrolmen, under State Safety Director Smith, were posted here to aid sheriff's deputies to maintain order.

President Patterson, of Tuskegee tonight believed suspension of the between 40 and 50 students had broken the strike. The executive council planned to question 100 others tomorrow and Patterson believed 20 to 30 more would be suspended—sent home but permitted to apply for reinstatement.

Opelika, Ala News
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Student Strike Is Ended Says Patterson

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said last night a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions today.

Approximately 55 were suspended Saturday as strike leaders, after many of the huge negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and

St. Petersburg, Fla., Times
January 19, 1941

More Than 50 at Tuskegee Ousted

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(AP)—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported yesterday it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed yesterday and the president said "all students, except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

Tampa, Fla. Tribune
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Strike Over College Food Is Believed Settled

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19.—(A.P.) Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Fifty-five were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge negro college's 1400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, 20 had been placed on probation.

Dr. Patterson said the strike had "very little basis," that the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

Griffin Ga News
January 17, 1941

TUSKEGEE STUDENTS STRIKE OVER FOOD; 11 PLACED IN JAIL

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A jailer said today he was holding 11 Tuskegee Institute students without formal charge, after additional details of state patrolmen were rushed here as a precaution against disorder in a strike of students at the negro college.

The college executive council met to take suspension action against the strikers, who quit their classes Wednesday in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Washington, D. C. Post
January 18, 1941

49 to Be Expelled In Student Strike

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17 (U.P.).—After a conference lasting more than four hours, the executive council of the Tuskegee Institute today voted to summarily dismiss 49 students and to question 100 others in connection with a strike against food served in the college dining hall.

President F. D. Patterson said after the meeting that the 49 students to be expelled were the ringleaders of the strike, in which several hundred refused to report for classes during the past three days.

The students to be questioned, he said, may be suspended or expelled if their connection with the strike is definitely shown.

New Orleans, La., Times-Picayune
January 18, 1941

QUIET PREVAILS AMONG STRIKING COLLEGE GROUP

Police Guard Campus of Tuskegee Institute; 11 Jailed

(The Associated Press)

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17.—Quiet prevailed tonight on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one youth being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

About a score of officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded threats of the strikers and attempted to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings.

All those jailed were released after a few hours without charges being filed against them, but Dr. Patterson said 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent nonstrikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged that girl students as well as men were intimiated.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria where some 1000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said the protest had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of state patrolmen came in this morning as a precaution. A dozen or more state officers were here assisting county and city officers.

The 11 jailed apparently were not connected with the slashing of the student. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the injured student or his assailant. It was understood the youth was not hurt seriously. No formal charges had been preferred against the 11 who were jailed.

The college council decided that all students who cause further disturbance will be suspended. Late in the day it was understood none had been dismissed from school. Students were warned that those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Patrolmen were rushed here Thursday night when strikers were reported to have threatened a truck driver attempting to unload food at the dining hall. Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa summoned aid from Montgomery when, he said, the strikers told him "we're running things here."

The truck unloaded later without incident as eight patrolmen watched.

Eufaula, Ala. Tribune
January 17, 1941

PATROL GUARDS NEGRO SCHOOL

Extra Officers Rushed From Birmingham This Morning; Council In Special Session

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—A second detail of state highway patrolmen from Birmingham arrived here today to assist in patrolling the grounds of Tuskegee Institute where approximately 400 negro students are on strike. Leaders of the strike said it was called in protest to the food served by the institute.

Meanwhile, the executive council of the institute was called in special session to study the situation.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—State patrolmen were rushed here late yesterday as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations Wednesday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds yesterday while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The driver of a cracker and cookie truck complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabee that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officers said they told him "we're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a. m., will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest. Patterson said, expressing belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

Earlier students had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college," but the president said they gathered in crowds about the campus, with "only a few" attending classes or taking meals in the dining hall.

Patrolman Huckabaa, reporting to state headquarters, said striking students threatened "to tear up the truck" if the driver attempted to unload at first. Chief Smith called Gov. Dixon in Birmingham and was advised, he said, that the truck be allowed to unload.

While conceding some students might not be getting as much variety as they wished in food, Dr. Patterson insisted it furnished a balanced diet and was palatable. He denied there was reason for complaint against quality or quantity.

Huntsville, Ala. Times
January 19, 1941

Strike Ended, 50 Suspended

About A Score More Placed On Probation At Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18 (AP)—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today more than 50 students had been suspended in connection with a four-day strike, now apparently ended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" nad been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today, and the president predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall, and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

"We were assured," the Wilmington, N. C., student said, "there would be improved conditions in the dining hall, and cuts from classes would not be punished. If possible, I'm going to return to Tuskegee."

Among those suspended, Dr. Patterson listed Editor Henry Miller of the student newspaper, Campus Topics, which had criticized the food, and Cadet-Colonel Earl Williams, of the R.O.T.C. unit.

One student was slashed with a knife and 11 jailed temporarily without charge yesterday in disorders developing as strikers attempted to prevent others from attending classes.

Dr. Patterson held out some hope of reinstatement for those suspended, but said those taken back would be considered on "an individual, merit basis."

Laurel, Miss. Call
January 18, 1941

Tuskegee Suspends Forty-Nine Leaders in Student Strike

(By Associated Press)

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18.—Tuskegee Institute, negro college, sought today to resume normal operations after suspension of 49 students accused as leaders in a strike which had nearly paralyzed activties.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, expressed the belief that disturbances which grew out of students' complaints against food served in the dining hall and "too strict" regulations, would be settled amicably.

Disorders during the last two days resulted in one student being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. The eleven were released after several hours without formal charges having been filed against them.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee's Strike Is Ended Officially

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were placed on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Capt. N. W. Kimbrough said tonight all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, approximately 20 had been placed on probation.

One of those suspended, Wilbur Hines, Wilmington, N. C., vice president of the student council, termed the strike a "success" and declared that "we were assured there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes (resuting from the strike) woud not be punished."

Dr. Patterson said the strike had "very little basis," that the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE STRIKE SETTLED

The people of Alabama, regardless of their race, commend Dr. F. D. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, for the firm manner and common sense way in which he handled the recent strike at Tuskegee Institute when several hundred students absented themselves from their classes and brought unpleasant notoriety to the great school which, overcoming many obstacles, is doing so much for the Negro youth of the South.

Judge Jones

Dr. Patterson and his associates acted promptly and courageously in quelling the regrettable disturbance. The President of Tuskegee Institute has the confidence and respect of our people and has shown himself a worthy successor to Booker Washington and Robert R. Moton.

JAN 27 1941

The strike was unnecessary and uncalled for. It brought with it a train of evils which should make the Negro students who took part in it thoroughly ashamed of themselves.

The action of the striking students is depressing to the friends of Negro education in the South. Furthermore, the necessity of sending State officers to Tuskegee with riot equipment as a precaution put the State to a good deal of expense. Then again, the striking students fell into the error of attempting to deny to hundreds of well behaved students, who wished to continue their studies without interruption, the right to attend their classes. These students who were abiding by the Institute regulations, behaving themselves, and who were not discontented, had the right to go to their classes without being threatened and intimidated by a lot of disgruntled students who were attempting to take the law into their hands and embarrass the school authorities.

JAN 27 1941

The Institute authorities sent over 50 of the striking students home, 50 of the students left the Institute, and during the strike 11 were jailed after a Negro youth had been slashed with a knife. The action of the college authorities will make the striking students understand that they must submit to discipline, that they cannot set themselves above the laws of Alabaam and the rules of the Institute, and that they are subject to wholesome discipline just as everybody else is.

Dothan, Ala Eagle
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Director Avers Strike Ended

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)— Order restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike at the huge Negro college now was "definitely over" and normal operations had been resumed.

The strike, with hundreds of students out of classes, developed disorders last week, resulting in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. State officers with riot equipment came here as a precaution.

The trouble developed over a protest against food served in the college dining hall. At the height of the strike a State officer said around 800 of the 1,400 students did not attend classes.

Albany Decatur, Ala. Daily
January 20, 1941

55 STUDENTS SENT HOME

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20—(AP)—Order restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike at the huge negro college now was "definitely over" and normal operations had been resumed.

The strike, with hundreds of students out of classes, developed disorders last week resulting in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. State officers with riot equipment came here as a precaution.

The trouble developed over a protest against food served in the college dining hall. At the height of the strike a state officer said around 800 of the 1,400 students did not attend classes.

Dr. Patterson estimated today approximately 50 students left Tuskegee over the week-end out of sympathy for the 55 regarded as leaders of the strike and indefinitely suspended.

The president said "we plan to resume our regular program. We've always allowed the students to present any grievances they have, and have tried to make any reasonable adjustments possible. The same principle will prevail now. A committee has been appointed to confer with the students on the present complaints."

As to the possibility of the 55 students sent home getting back, Dr. Patterson said "all will be given consideration on the merits of their individual cases."

Eufaula, Ala Tribune
January 18, 1941

STUDENT KNIFED TUSKEGEE RIOT

Forty-Nine Strike Leaders Suspended And Others Are Warned; 11 Arrested

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18—Quiet prevailed on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one student being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

Around a score officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded threats of theed. strikers and attempted to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings.

All those jailed were released after a few hours without charges having been preferred against them, but Dr. Patterson said last night 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes yesterday. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria where around 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of state patrolmen came in yesterday morning as a precaution. A dozen or more state officers were here assisting county and city officers.

The 11 jailed apparently were not connected with the slashing of the student. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the injured student or his assailant. It was understood, however, the boy was not hurt seriously. No formal charges had been preferred against the 11 who were jailed.

The college council decided that all students who cause further disturbance will be suspended. Late in the day it was understood none had been dismissed from school, and quiet reigned on the campus, students having been warned those who congregate about buildings will be taken care of by the police.

Patrolmen were rushed here last night, when strikers were reported to have threatened a truck driver attempting to unload food at the dining hall. Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa summoned aid from Montgomery when, he said, the strikers told him "we're running things here."

The truck unloaded later without incident as eight patrolmen watched.

Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

STUDENT KNIFED AT TUSKEGEE; 11 STRIKERS JAILED

Extra Police Are Rushed to University.

JAN 18 1941

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP)—The jailer here reported today he was holding 11 Tuskegee institute students without formal charge after additional details of Alabama state patrolmen sped here as a precaution against disorder in the strike of students at the Negro college.

President F. D. Patterson reported one student was slashed with a knife while attempting to attend classes irrespective of the intimidations of strikers who were protesting the food served in the mess hall.

Strike Has "Little Basis."

The Negro educator, who has declared the strike had "very little basis," requested law officers to clear the areas in front of class buildings. Some strikers refused to leave, and these were put in jail, he said.

Additional policemen, including Chief T. Weller Smith, rushed here from Montgomery and Birmingham when they received reports students attempting to attend classes were being "intimidated" by strikers.

A 7 o'clock deadline passed this morning with many students still absent from classes and President Patterson announced that the college executive committee was meeting at once to proceed with suspensions.

500 to 600 on Strike.

He did not estimate the number who would be affected by these suspensions, altho yesterday he said some 500 to 600 were taking part in the strike. It started on Wednesday in protest about food served in the institute dining hall.

The patrolmen from Birmingham came in two squad cars and were armed with riot guns and tear gas. Eight state patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

JAN 18 1941

President Patterson asserted that he ate with the students on Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Constitution
Atlanta, Georgia

More Than 50 Are Suspended By Tuskegee

Order and Quiet Return to Huge Negro Institution.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18.—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge Negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

JAN 19 1941

Quiet prevailed today and the president said "all students except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspecion.

18y-1941

STUDENT STRIKE

Opelika, Ala. News
January 15, 1941

Students Strike 28 Tuskegee Over Meals, 200 Out

Patterson Thinks Matter Will Be Settled

A student strike assertedly brought on by "a little dissatisfaction over meals" today found between 200 and 300 students on a "walk out" from classes at Tuskegee Institute, famed negro institution.

College authorities, while admitting some concern over the matter, declared the situation was "entirely under control" and expressed the belief that a satisfactory solution would be reached.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the Institute, when contacted by the Daily News today, stated a check showed between 200 and 300 of the 1,400 students at the school, were not attending classes today "because of a little dissatisfaction over meals served in the school dining room". Some 1,000 students, he said, took their meals in this dining room.

"They apparently want more variety but are non-commital about the quantity", he stated, adding:

"The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves".

There seemed to be little organization among the strikers, according to Dr. Patterson who said no formal demands had been presented to college authorities. He seemed to think that the situation would be settled satisfactorily very shortly.

College authorities learned of the "strike" when they found an unusual number of students missing from classes this morning, it was understood. Apparently there has been little disturbance and no big demonstrations.

The "strike" came a few hours before the dedication ceremony for a new $161,000 infantile paralysis center scheduled for early this afternoon. Representatives of the Institute, the Infantile Paralysis Foundation and the Rosenwald Fund were to participate in the ceremonies which it was understood, were to be broadcast.

When asked if the strike would interfere with these ceremonies, Dr. Patterson said he "hoped not".

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 15.—(AP)—A number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" today refusing to attend classes in protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes.

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
January 17, 1941

STATE OFFICERS SENT TO SCHOOL

Truck Driver Menaced In Student Strike At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16—(AP)—State patrolmen were rushed here late Thursday as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations Wednesday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds Thursday while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The driver of a cracker and cookie truck complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa late Thursday that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "we're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a.m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest, Patterson said, expressing belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

Earlier, students had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college," but the president said they gathered in crowds about the campus, with "only a few" attending classes or taking meals in the dining hall.

Patrolman Huckabaa, reporting to state headquarters, said striking students threatened "to tear up the truck" if the driver attempted to unload at first. Chief Smith called Gov. Dixon in Birmingham and was advised, he said, that the truck be allowed to unload.

While conceding Wednesday some students might not be getting as much variety as they wished in food, Dr. Patterson insisted it furnished a balanced diet and was palatable. He denied there was reason for complaint against quality or quantity.

Montgomery, Ala Journal
January 15, 1941

Student Strike On At Tuskegee

More Than 200 Cut Classes in Protest Over School Menu

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15.—(AP)—An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are noncommital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

About 1,000 of the institutions 1,400 students eat in the college dining hall.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $16,350 center for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he expected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies.

Classes were reported going on as usual, although some had a substantial number of students absent.

Dr. Patterson and other college authorities were in conference shortly before noon in an effort to find a satisfactory solution to the difficulty.

Augusta Ga. Herald
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Students Stage a Strike Regarding Food

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16. —(AP)—The campus of Tuskegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant sentiments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a students' strike against dining-hall meals.

Several hundred students at the Negro institution walked out of the dining-hall and stayed away from classes yesterday after complaining about the food.

A committee from the executive council and a joint committee of students and faculty members have been named to confer on the protest.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, who said he ate dinner with the students yesterday, declared the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Classes were being held on schedule, he said.

Patterson said students staying away from classes had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college." If "such normalcy" is not restored, he added, "we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

Selma, Ala., Times Journal
January 15, 1941

TUSKEGEE HAS FOOD WALKOUT

Part Of Students Refuse To Attend Classes As Diet Protest

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15—(AP)—An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

About 1,000 of the institution's students eat in the college dining hall.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he expected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies.

Classes were reported going on as usual, although some had a substantial number of students absent.

Dr. Patterson and other college authorities were in conference shortly before noon in an effort to find a satisfactory solution to the difficulty.

Charlotte, N. C., News
January 15, 1941

Negro Students On Food Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(AP)—A number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes.

Bristol, Va., News-Bulletin
January 16, 1941

STUDENTS STRIKE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16. (AP)—The campus of Tuskegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant sentiments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a student's strike against dining-hall meals.

Several hundred students at the negro institution walked out of the dining-hall and stayed away from classes yesterday after complaining about the food.

Macon Ga Telegraph
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Food Strike Reported to [illegible] Over

TUSKEGEE, Ala., [AP]—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said Sunday night a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Brunswick, Ga., News
January 18, 1941

STRIKING STUDENTS GIVEN SUSPENSIONS

FORTY-NINE TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE PUPILS ARE BARRED FROM CLASSES

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 18. (AP)—Its four-day-old student strike apparently ended with the suspension of 49 accused as leaders, Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's largest negro colleges, opened normally today.

Quiet prevailed across the wide campus and Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said the situation "definitely is under control." Students moved orderly toward such Saturday classes as were scheduled.

The strike, which resulted in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 being jailed temporarily without charge, was blamed by protesting students to food served in the college dining hall and to what they termed "too-strick" regulations.

Dr. Patterson, contending there was "very little basis" for the protest, declared the food was both "palatable and wholesome." He ate with the students Tuesday.

College authorities reported receipt of scores of wires and calls from parents asking them to advise sons and daughters they were not supporting the strike and urging the students to observe orders.

Dr. Patterson said late last night he believed the incident, involving many of the institute's 1,400 students, was "rapidly coming to a conclusion."

He said the 49 pupils suspended as alleged strike leaders might be taken back "on an individual merit basis." Name of the youth injured in the cutting affray was not revealed, but it was understood he was not seriously hurt.

A squad of state highway patrolmen remained on duty in the vicinity of the school. The campus was quiet, but patrolmen stood by.

Butler, Ga., Herald
January 23, 1941

From Tuskegee, Ala., come announcement that a number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" Jan. 15, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall. The strike came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Lock Deplores Tuskegee Student Suspension Act

Well Known Chattonooga Leader Says Booker T. Washington "Would Turn Over in His Grave" If He Knew Conditions at School.

FEB 8 - 1941 FEB 8 - 1941

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 6—Deacon Tom Lock of Antioch Baptist Church, this city, delivered a broadside at the action of Dr. Fred D. Patterson in the suspension of fifty-five striking students without a trial, last Sunday, and declared the president had made a "bad mistake."

The venerable deacon said:

"Tuskegee Institute was the pride of Booker Washington, the leader of our race in the South for fifty years, and he would turn over in his grave if he knew that a Chattanooga boy and other students had been suspended from school because of conditions relative to the food the students had to eat."

Mr. Lock said, "I have always held Dr. Paterson and the faculty of the school in the highest esteem, but that they had made a bad mistake in suspending fifty-five students who went on a strike against what they claim was unsatisfactory food conditions."

"Tuskegee has been a leader against lynchings, but this time they seem to have lynched fifty-five students or suspended them without a formal hearing or trial and the Ku Klux are now claiming that Tuskegee has adopted some of their rituals and rules for the handing of certain students, and this method of handling students has proven unsatisfactory to the colored group of the South, and will sure mark a black spot on Tuskegee I am afraid unless it is speedily corrected."

patrolmen had to be called in to discipline the disorderly group.

President F. D. Patterson claimed that approximately 1,400 of the 1,900 students body did not strike, but attended classes as usual. He also added that when he dined with students Tuesday he found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Journal Savannah Ga

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the executive council which stated "The Institute has taken the definite stand that all students not as work or in class at 7 a. m. will be automatically suspended."

Strike Because Of Food

FEB 2 - 1940

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(C)—More than 400 studetns have been on strike here in protest against the food served. Yesterday Jan. 15th rebellious students refused to attend classes, but today the strike got a wee bit out of hand when students threatened the truck driver who sought to unload food at the dining room. Then, state

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

Tuskegee Students Tell 'Inside' Story of Strike

ACCUSE POLICE OF BRUTALITY

Patterson's Administration Under Fire; Indifference of Faculty Is Blamed for School Problems

JAN 25 1941

Editor's Note:—A telephone call with an official of Tuskegee Institute said the strike had been settled satisfactorily and that students had returned to classes. It was admitted that 49 had been suspended. Also the Star and Amsterdam News interviewed several students involved, whose names are being withheld at their request as they all expressd a desire to return to Tuskegee when conditions have been improved.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA. — Reports of unmerciful slugging of students by white police and state militia called out to quell the strike by students here last week over food served in the Tuskegee Institute dining hall, spurred demands by students for the resignation of Dr. Frederick Patterson, president of the institution founded by Booker T. Washington.

As nearly 745 students were reported leaving the school, either voluntarily, or because of suspension for participation in the strike, resentment at faculty treatment of students who protested conditions in the dining hall steadily mounted. Many of the strikers were reported thrown in the common jail in Tuskegee town along with thieves, murderers and other culprits. The students claim that not a single member of the faculty went to see about the prisoners, although parents had entrusted their children to the care of the executive members of the institution. Instead, students themselves, had to arrange to get their fellow pupils out of the hoosegow.

Meanwhile, a check up revealed many well known athletes were involved in the strike and had either been expelled or had signified their intentions of leaving voluntarily. The list included the national intercollegiate dash champion, Mozel Ellerbe; Upshaw Sams, star football player and member of the relay team; Robert (Red) Moore, another football player; Lucy Newell, member of the national championship girls track team; Kathryn Jones of Springfield, Mass., runnerup in the national tennis championships at Wilberforce last summer; and Edith Jeter, swimming star from Harlem.

Blame Administration At Tuskegee For Recent Rows

Other students headed home after being suspended include Dicey Thomas and her brother of Inwood, Long Island, N. Y.; Elizabeth Alfred of New Jersey; Corris Landers of Chattanooga Tenn.; president of the sophomore class; Elizabeth Lindsey of Charlotte, N. C.; Cornelia Tucker of Welch, W. Va.; Wellington Irving from Mississippi; Doris Wilson of Pittsburgh; Archie Vann of Norfolk, Va.; Grace Buckner of Chicago; Harvey Steele, brother of Dr. Frank Steele; James Woodson of Youngstown, Ohio; one of the main leaders of the strike; and David Cromby of Knoxville, Tenn.

The suspension of 49 student strikers was voted by the executive council of the school Friday evening at the same time that it was announced that students had returned to their classes. Underneath the official statements of restored peace, however, ran an undercurrent of comment to the effect that the food situation, announced cause of the strike, constituted only the surface motive or the outbreak.

The calling in of state patrolmen Thursday by officials on the grounds that striking students had threatened a truck driver delivering food to the school elicited further criticism in quarters where it was also hinted that the situation is far from settled as administration officials have declared.

JAN 25 1941

Estimates by Dr. Patterson that the striking students numbered between 500 and 600 and that the majority of the 1,400 enrolled students had not been in sympathy with the action were discredited by student leaders who insisted that they had the sympathy of the entire student body as well as some of the faculty, the latter remaining silent, it was said, because of their positions.

The strike began last Wednesday after appearance in the school paper of an editorial criticizing the food served to students. President Patterson, after a visit to the dining hall to sample the food, immediately pronounced the food "palatable and wholesome," issued an ultimatum to the striking students that "all students not at work or in class at 7 a.m. will be automatically suspended."

The trouble about the food revealed this according to statements given the Star and Amsterdam News: Room and board at Tuskegee costs $26.25 a month. Tuition is separate. Out of their board money students are issued meal books which allow 15c for breakfast; 20c for dinner and 15c for supper. Breakfast, served between 6 and 7 a.m. consists of oatmeal, grits, bacon, eggs, cornflakes, coffee, milk and canned fruit. The students say this sounds swell on paper, but in the stomach its awful. No butter, no cream at any time, they say, plus the fact that toast, which is on the menu very seldom, costs 5c for two slives. A example of how the food business is operated shows that milk and cornflakes or similiar combinations cost 10c leaving a nickel for any other items, all of which cost either 5 or 10 cents.

For dinner: fresh cabbage, liver, frankfurts, beans, rice, potatoes, stewed tomatoes and all the gravy one wants. Students claim that only cabbage and potatoes are fresh. The school buys everything else, save meats, in cans! Supperstew, sausage, weenies or balogna, one green vegetable, and fatback. The system allows one meat selection for each day. Students charge uncleanliness in which flies have been found in the food as have ants and roaches. One girl alleges she found several carpet tacks in her piece of cornbread!

Dr. Patterson and his faculty, along with the Civilian Aeronautics Administration students at the school, eat in an upstairs dining room. There, student informers say, they get ice cream, fried, stewed, and roast chicken; biscuits with butter, soups, salads, etc. The faculty pays only $30 a month, a few dollars more than the students, for room and board, but get the tops in food.

After the situation had come somewhat under the control of Dr. Patterson and his faculty, students who participated were given a "hearing" in which they were asked if they were sympathizers with the strike. If the answer was yes, they got the gate. Most of those interviewed were said to have been on the side of the strikers. The school was known to have paid 60 fares for students sent home.

An earnest student declared that old grads had said that under the late Boiker T. Washington, the school raised its own vegetables, had its gardens, small farms, etc., as well as cows. As a result, no one was hungry nor complained about the food. There was plenty for all. Under Dr. Patterson, he averred, all this has been chang- and food that comes from cans can never compensate for fresh foods that could easily be raised. The strikers wanted more variety and better quality in their food, he said.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Lock Deplores Tuskegee Student Suspension Act

FEB 8 1941

Well Known Chattonooga Leader Says Booker T. Washington "Would Turn Over in His Grave" If He Knew Conditions at School.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 6—Deacon Tom Lock, of Antioch Baptist Church, this city, delivered a broadside at the action of Dr. Fred D. Patterson in the suspension of fifty-five striking students without a trial, last Sunday, and declared the president had made a "bad mistake."

The venerable deacon said:

"Tuskegee Institute was the pride of Booker Washington, the leader of our race in the South for fifty years, and he would turn over in his grave if he knew that a Chattanooga boy and other students had been suspended from school because of conditions relative to the food the students had to eat."

Mr. Lock said, "I have always held Dr. Paterson and the faculty of the school in the highest esteem, but that they had made a bad mistake in suspending fifty-five students who went on a strike against what they claim was unsatisfactory food conditions."

"Tuskegee has been a leader against lynchings, but this time they seem to have lynched fifty-five students or suspended them without a formal hearing or trial and the Ku Klux are now claiming that Tuskegee has adopted some of their rituals and rules for the handing of certain students, and this method of handling students has proven unsatisfactory to the colored group of the South, and will sure mark a black spot on Tuskegee I am afraid unless it is speedily corrected."

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Day-By-Day Strike Report From Tuskegee

JAN 25 1941

SATURDAY, January 11—School publication, Campus Digest, publishes scorching editorial berating food and employees of Cafeteria.

TUESDAY, January 14—Circulars bearing strike call and instructing strikers what to do circulated among students.

TUESDAY, January 14—President Patterson meets with students who refuse to arbitrate.

WEDNESDAY, January 15—Students strike.

WEDNESDAY, January 15—Tuskegee Executive Council denounces strike, postpones further conferences until order is restored. Expresses willingness to confer at that time with student representatives.

WEDNESDAY, January 15—Strike leaders refuse to arbitrate unless guarantee of immunity to punishment is given. President Patterson declines to sign such statement.

THURSDAY, January 16—Violence is used to keep students from attending classes.

THURSDAY, January 16—Executive Council issues statement that all students absent from classes at 7 o'clock Friday morning would be automatically suspended.

THURSDAY, January 16—Striking students prevent commercial bakery truck deliveries to dining hall. Driver of truck summons officers of State Highway Patrol. Makes deliveries with their protection.

JAN 25 1941

FRIDAY, January 17—Violence increases. School authorities call in civil authorities to restore order.

FRIDAY, January 17—Executive Council votes to suspend 49 students.

FRIDAY (afternoon), January 17—Quiet prevails on campus. Civil officials withdrawn.

SATURDAY, January 18—Action of Executive Council given endorsement of entire faculty.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

The Case of Tuskegee

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson of Tuskegee announced this week that, "We have no further statement to make at this time." The most recent report from the administration at the school was to the effect that the students' strike which brought out civil authorities to quell, had been settled.

Star Amsterdam News

What is important at this time is not so much whether the strike has been settled and conditions returned to normal, but whether or not the causes that led to the disturbance have been corrected.

Nearly eighteen months ago the Star and Amsterdam News was informed that there was a possibility that Tuskegee would discontinue some of its departments, including the music department because of a shortage of funds. There were other reports that all was not well at the school Booker T. Washington built.

Times have changed considerably since Washington's day. The boom period when Northern philanthropists used to pour money into Tuskegee and other Negro schools in vast sums is no more. Truly, some still remain, but not as many as previously, and those who still give, don't give as abundantly. This is problem number one.

FEB 1 194

Then, Tuskegee now draws from the north and west for its students where previously it drew principally from the rural south. The task of trying to adjust urban children, who are accustomed to wide latitude and elastic discipline, to the tradition of Tuskegee is serious. This seems to be problem number two.

New York

There are other underlying causes which will continue to contribute to some measure of unrest at Tuskegee until they are removed, if information from persons close to the administration at the school is to be believed.

But concerning the main problems, Tuskegee, itself will have to solve one, and Negroes ,— Students, alumni and citizens — must help solve the other. First, Negroes must come to realize their responsibility to the cause of Negro education, and prepare to assume the cost. Second, if Tuskegee is to continue appealing to northern students, it must find a way to fit them into a program that is definitely geared for rural students.

Local Tuskegeeans Mum On Strike

FEB 1 1941

Defender

Tuskegeeans throughout the city withheld comment this week regarding the student strike situation at their Alma Mater pending a complete report.

Chicago Ill.

An apprehensive parent, after talking with her student son, is reported to have declared that the reports were magnified by the newspapers for the outside world.

The jim crow Army Air Unit, which according to a government report will be established at Tuskegee, will be located 10 miles away from the campus.

Globe and Independent
Nashville. Tenn.

Jailed Students Are Released And Classes Resumed

JAN 24 1941

Officials Of School Say Telegrams From Parents Urging Youths To Behave Were Effective

JAN 24 1941

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following news story in regard to the Student Strike at Tuskegee is by the publicity department of the school, and therefore, may not cover all matters of the controversy as objectively as some readers might desire.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., January, 19, 1941—On January 14, 1941 the following mimeographed statements which had been prepared by students strike leaders were circulated among the students at Tuskegee Institute:

JAN 24 1941

"Fellow students, the time has come for us to resort to the most potent method of persuasion that we know. That method is one where a group acts as one in respect to a matter that affects all. In simple terms it is necessary for us to execute a strike against the despicable conditions existing in the cafeteria.

The proposed plan of events is as follows:

(1) Beginning Wednesday, January 15, 1941, no men will report to drill.

(2) No one will report to classes.

(3) No one will receive meals in the Dining Hall (until notice is received).

(4) The strike will last until the Executive Council notifies the students that action, favorable to the students has been taken.

We, as students, feel that we have exercised every element of persuasion humanly possible to get action except the one outlined above. Obtaining no results from this attack, we feel that all of us, as students of Tuskegee Institute, should render an exhibition of our feeling concerning the Dining Hall problem. We want food of a better quality and in quantities that are suitable for the upkeep of the human body.

JAN 24 1941

No one need fear the matter concerning expulsion from school. We will continue to strike until any student who is sent away on this charge is re-admitted to school.

In the notice received from the Executive Council, we want it stated that no personal grievances will be held against students who were rumored to be active participants in the strike.

Please co-operate in the matter 100 per cent, because anyone not joining up will take weight from the effect of this exhibition."

On the evening of January 14, President Patterson voluntarily appeared before a meeting of students in an effort to assure them that all grievances which they had presented would be given every consideration. The students would accept no offer of arbitration and called a strike for Wednesday morning. A large number of students failed to report to classes, to their work, and to the Dining Hall for meals. Many of the students who attempted to go about their usual duties were prevented by some of the more active leaders of the strike. The Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute met Wednesday morning and issued the following statement:

"To the Student Council:

The Southern Trustees and members of the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute regard the present strike on the part of the members of the student body as unwarranted and unjustifiable. It occurred at a time when officials of the Institute were in conference with representatives of the student body in an effort to adjust as far as possible and reasonable the complaints made. There was no indication that these negotiations were failing to attain the desired result.

We feel under the circumstances that further consideration of this matter must be postponed until order is restored and students have resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute as regards school and work. At such time the administration is willing to confer with representatives designated by the student body to reopen this matter.

An answer to this communication is requested by 5:00 p. m. today.

Very truly yours,
The Executive Council,
F. D. Patterson, President

The strike leaders refused to accept this offer of arbitration unless President Patterson sign a statement promising that no investigation would be made, and that no student would be suspended for his activities in connection with it. President Patterson refused to sign such a statement on the grounds that the strike was a flagrant violation of the rules of Tuskegee Institute, and therefore no commitment not to punish those responsible could be given.

JAN 24 1941

On Thursday the strike was taking on certain aspects of violence because of the efforts of the strike leaders to keep the students from classes, the Dining Hall, and work. Thursday morning the following additional statement was issued to the students by the Executive Council:

"To the Student Council:

In view of the present situation existing among members of the student body in that they declare themselves to be on strike, the Southern Trustees and the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute hereby advise that all such students absent from assigned duty either school or work after 7:00 a. m., Friday, January 17, 1941, will be automatically suspended from Tuskegee Institute.

Suspended students are required to leave the grounds of the Institute at once. Those not doing so without good and sufficient reasons will be regarded as trespassers and subject to ejection by civil authorities. Damage to Tuskegee Institute property will be similarly treated as an infraction of the law.

It is our sincere hope that the good judgment which has characterized Tuskegee students in the past will make the drastic measures described above unnecessary.

Very truly yours,
Executive Council,
F. D. Patterson, President"

Thursday afternoon, a group of students prevented the truck of a commercial company from making a delivery to the Dining Hall. The driver of the truck summoned officers of the State Highway Patrol, and made his delivery under their protection.

JAN 24 1941

Friday morning efforts of students to return to classes were prevented by striking students, who gathered at classrooms entrances brandishing knives and using clubs. Threats to damage and destroy the property of Tuskegee Institute were frequently made as well as threats of physical injury to students not on strike. After repeated efforts to have striking students return to their dormitories and remain orderly had failed, the Executive Council decided that the strike had created a situation of violence that the school could not control, and that it was necessary to call the civil authorities. The officers on arrival were urged to treat the students with consideration and to use force only as a last resort. Every cooperation and consideration to this request were given. In the process of restoring order eleven students were arrested but were released after a few hours without charge.

The Executive Council voted to suspend 49 students for their activities in connection with the strike.

On Friday afternoon quiet prevailed on the campus, all civil officials had withdrawn, and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute.

JAN 24 1941

Sunday, January 19, the students went to chapel where the regular service was held. The activities of the school are now proceeding as usual.

Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these days from parents all over the nation urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskegee Institute and to remain in school. These messages have strongly endorsed the action taken by the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute.

The action of the Executive Council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon.

Globe and Independent
Nashville. Tenn.

Jailed Students Are Released And Classes Resumed

JAN 24 1941

Officials Of School Say Telegrams From Parents Urging Youths To Behave Were Effective

JAN 24 1941

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following news story in regard to the Student Strike at Tuskegee is by the publicity department of the school, and therefore, may not cover all matters of the controversy as objectively as some readers might desire.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., January, 19, 1941—On January 14, 1941 the following mimeographed statements which had been prepared by students strike leaders were circulated among the students at Tuskegee Institute:

JAN 24 1941

"Fellow students, the time has come for us to resort to the most potent method of persuasion that we know. That method is one where a group acts as one in respect to a matter that affects all. In simple terms it is necessary for us to execute a strike against the despicable conditions existing in the cafeteria.

The proposed plan of events is as follows:

(1) Beginning Wednesday, January 15, 1941, no men will report to drill.

(2) No one will report to classes.

(3) No one will receive meals in the Dining Hall (until notice is received).

(4) The strike will last until the Executive Council notifies the students that action, favorable to the students has been taken.

We, as students, feel that we have exercised every element of persuasion humanly possible to get action except the one outlined above. Obtaining no results from this attack, we feel that all of us, as students of Tuskegee Institute, should render an exhibition of our feeling concerning the Dining Hall problem. We want food of a better quality and in quantities that are suitable for the upkeep of the human body.

JAN 24 1941

No one need fear the matter concerning expulsion from school. We will continue to strike until any student who is sent away on this charge is re-admitted to school.

In the notice received from the Executive Council, we want it stated that no personal grievances will be held against students who were rumored to be active participants in the strike.

Please co-operate in the matter 100 per cent, because anyone not joining up will take weight from the effect of this exhibition."

On the evening of January 14, President Patterson voluntarily appeared before a meeting of students in an effort to assure them that all grievances which they had presented would be given every consideration. The students would accept no offer of arbitration and called a strike for Wednesday morning. A large number of students failed to report to classes, to their work, and to the Dining Hall for meals. Many of the students who attempted to go about their usual duties were prevented by some of the more active leaders of the strike.

The Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute met Wednesday morning and issued the following statement:

"To the Student Council:

The Southern Trustees and members of the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute regard the present strike on the part of the members of the student body as unwarranted and unjustifiable. It occurred at a time when officials of the Institute were in conference with representatives of the student body in an effort to adjust as far as possible and reasonable the complaints made. There was no indication that these negotiations were failing to attain the desired result.

We feel under the circumstances that further consideration of this matter must be postponed until order is restored and students have resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute as regards school and work. At such time the administration is willing to confer with representatives designated by the student body to reopen this matter.

An answer to this communication is requested by 5:00 p. m. today.

Very truly yours,
The Executive Council,
F. D. Patterson, President

The strike leaders refused to accept this offer of arbitration unless President Patterson sign a statement promising that no investigation would be made, and that no student would be suspended for his activities in connection with it. President Patterson refused to sign such a statement on the grounds that the strike was a flagrant violation of the rules of Tuskegee Institute, and therefore no commitment not to punish those responsible could be given.

JAN 24 1941

On Thursday the strike was taking on certain aspects of violence because of the efforts of the strike leaders to keep the students from classes, the Dining Hall, and work. Thursday morning the following additional statement was issued to the students by the Executive Council:

"To the Student Council:

In view of the present situation existing among members of the student body in that they declare themselves to be on strike, the Southern Trustees and the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute hereby advise that all such students absent from assigned duty either school or work after 7:00 a. m., Friday, January 17, 1941, will be automatically suspended from Tuskegee Institute.

Suspended students are required to leave the grounds of the Institute at once. Those not doing so without good and sufficient reasons will be regarded as trespassers and subject to ejection by civil authorities. Damage to Tuskegee Institute property will be similarly treated as an infraction of the law.

It is our sincere hope that the good judgment which has characterized Tuskegee students in the past will make the drastic measures described above unnecessary.

Very truly yours,
Executive Council,
F. D. Patterson, President"

Thursday afternoon, a group of students prevented the truck of a commercial company from making a delivery to the Dining Hall. The driver of the truck summoned officers of the State Highway Patrol, and made his delivery under their protection.

JAN 24 1941

Friday morning efforts of students to return to classes were prevented by striking students, who gathered at classrooms entrances brandishing knives and using clubs. Threats to damage and destroy the property of Tuskegee Institute were frequently made as well as threats of physical injury to students not on strike. After repeated efforts to have striking students return to their dormitories and remain orderly had failed, the Executive Council decided that the strike had created a situation of violence that the school could not control, and that it was necessary to call the civil authorities. The officers on arrival were urged to treat the students with consideration and to use force only as a last resort. Every cooperation and consideration to this request were given. In the process of restoring order eleven students were arrested but were released after a few hours without charge.

The Executive Council voted to suspend 49 students for their activities in connection with the strike.

On Friday afternoon quiet prevailed on the campus, all civil officials had withdrawn, and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute.

Sunday, January 19, the students went to chapel where the regular service was held. The activities of the school are now proceeding as usual.

JAN 24 1941

Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these days from parents all over the nation urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskegee Institute and to remain in school. These messages have strongly endorsed the action taken by the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute.

The action of the Executive Council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon.

Washington Post
Washington, D. C.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

49 to Be Expelled In Student Strike

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17 (U.P.)—After a conference lasting more than four hours, the executive council of the Tuskegee Institute today voted to summarily dismiss 49 students and to question 100 others in connection with a strike against food served in the college dining hall.

JAN 18 1941

President F. D. Patterson said after the meeting that the 49 students to be expelled were the ringleaders of the strike, in which several hundred refused to report for classes during the past three days.

The students to be questioned, he said, may be suspended or expelled if their connection with the strike is definitely shown.

Views AND reviews

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

(This column represents the personal opinion of Mr. Schuyler and in no way reflects the editorial opinion of The Pittsburgh Courier. —The Editor)

APR 19 1941

A Detroit correspondent who asks "Don't mention my name" because he plans returning to Tuskegee Institute, writes feelingly about the recent strike there. "These students didn't have a chance—when they were in school they had no voice, and now that they are out they have neither voice nor redress," he writes. "And if they had a voice now and were articulate (which they are not) their whole argument, for all its merit, would bear a litigant's taint. Perhaps you could see enough injustice in the thing to bring light upon the whole of the matter, which is briefly this:

The Administration answers to no one except the non-resident Board of Trustees; it has been in office for fifteen or twenty years; its concept of administration has changed little if at all; its main purpose seems to be the perpetuation of office. There is no room in a situation of that kind for any student criticism of the Administration, nor room even for question. None has ever been allowed, and with the strike resulting only in a change in the student body, it is doubtful there will be any soon."

Strike

APR 19 1941

"The strike was nominally called," he continues, "to remedy conditions in the Dining Hall but it was only to have been an entering wedge into the whole sorry business of speech-making and back-patting that has left the school a mere shell of what the students expect of it, for by their own admission, graduates receive little benefit from what is potentially one of the greatest schools in the country."

The young man suggests an investigation of Tuskegee Institute, contending that "there is room for doubt about the merits of decimating the student group of any institution without a corresponding probing of the Administration."

Needless to say, I agree with the youngsters. I have long contended that most Negro institutions are run like plantations. It is considered treason to object to anything, and any sort of organized protest against existing evils, whether on the part of students, teachers, employees or minor officers is shrilly denounced as disloyalty or Communism.

APR 19 1941

My personal impression after having eaten in the dining halls of most Negro institutions is that the food is abominable, and I marvel that there have not been more upheavals by students and faculties. The average poor physique of most students in Negro colleges and the high morbidity rate, especially during the less sunny months, is due entirely to the ignorantly selected and prepared food. A trained nutritionist could work wonders in the average Negro college, although it might be first necessary to imprison or poison some of the men and women in authority. Nor is white absentee control entirely responsible. The food in Negro-controlled schools is often worse.

The irony of this is that every one of these colleges has a chemist on its faculty and sometimes a nutritionist. And yet because these youngsters have been fed abominably at home, the college thinks it should continue the process of food poisoning. I could go into the dining hall of any Negro institution in the land, and with the same amount of money produce more tasty, wholesome and beautiful meals, lift the general I. Q., and cut sickness to a minimum. So could anyone else with a little knowledge and determination.

* * *

I also think the students in most Negro schools would enjoy being given the courtesies, rights and responsibilities of men and women, and not be constantly used as trained seals to sing slave songs for white trustees and visitors to the end of cadging increased funds for upkeep.

APR 19 1941

Their views should not only be tolerated but sought. Indeed, there should be a large measure of self-government on every campus, and the president should be guided as much by the views of a well-organized student council as by those of the faculty. I admit that isn't saying much because the position of the faculty in many schools is that of underpaid overseers.

The Negro student should emerge from college a highly trained, competent, civilized, sharp-minded, resourceful and healthy individual; wiser and more daring than his parents and teachers, capable of coping with the problems of his people and his time.

Otherwise it would be as well to cut out this mumbo jumbo of so-called education and, after the kids have learned how to read, write and figure, to turn them into the fields or the factories. From what I have seen of the so-called educated, I don't know but what the latter might be the wiser course anyway. The average black stevedore or steel worker seems to have more sense than the average A. B. Certainly he is more manly and independent.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

55 STUDENTS DISMISSED AFTER TUSKEGEE STRIKE

PROTESTED FOOD; STATE PATROLMEN HAVE LEFT CAMPUS

JAN 25 1941

Complete Investigation Looms Following Disorders at Famous Alabama School—50 Other Students Quit "Out of Sympathy."

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20.—(Special)—With the strike of hundreds of students at the college "definitely over," normal routine was resumed this morning at Tuskegee Institute according to an announcement by President F. D. Patterson, who revealed that six more students had been added to the 49 dismissed Saturday as ringleaders in the strike movement, and that in sympathy with those dismissed upwards of fifty other students had voluntarily left the institute.

Besides those suspended, institute officials placed many more on indefinite probation. Whether some of those who voluntarily quit the school during the week-end were "probationers" was not revealed.

HIGHWAY PATROLMEN WITHDRAWN FROM CAMPUS

Following restoration of quiet and order and resumption of regular activities at the institute the force of State highway patrolmen in and about the college campus, which at one time totaled 16 officers, was withdrawn Sunday.

Stating a committee has been appointed to confer with students regarding the protest against food served them, which was the principal basis of the strike, President Patterson said that now, as in the past, students will be allowed to present their grievances, and that every effort will be made to make all possible readjustments requested.

As to reinstatement of suspended students he stated that the case of each student concerned would have to be considered and decided on its individual merits. Though a list of names and addresses of all those suspended was not announced it was made known that the group included ROTC Cadet Colonel Earl Williams, Henry Miller, editor of the Campus Topics, official school paper, and Wilbur Hines, of Wilmington, N.C., vice-president of the Student Council.

Announcing it was his desire and intention to return to the college if possible, Hines stated following his dismissal, that the strike was a success, adding that students had been given assurance no punishment would be imposed on them for classes cut when the strike demonstration was in progress, and that food served students would be improved.

STRIKE FOLLOWED BIG MASS MEETING

The strike Friday came immediately after conclusion of a special student mass meeting, at which, it was learned, protests were voiced against the food served, unreasonable strictness of regulations applying to young women students; and complaints were heard regarding alleged unsatisfactory conditions of minor importance, details of which have not yet been made known.

A force of officers of the State Highway Patrol, sent here by request of a bakery truck driver to supplement city and county authorities in preserving order, was increased Friday night to 16 after the knife attack on a non-striker was reported and the 11 arrests were made. The State troopers were fully equipped for riot duty, their equipment including tear-gas guns and grenades. Director T. Weller Smith, of the State Department of Public Safety, of which the Highway Patrol is a part, was in personal charge of the special detail.

NAME OF STUDENT SLASHED NOT REVEALED

Though the name of the non-striker slashed was not made known, it was understood his injuries were not serious. Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, reported the student was attacked when he attempted to attend a class regardless of the threats of strikers, but did not give his name nor the name of his assailant. There was no connection between this incident and the arrests made, it was stated, the 11 students being taken into custody when they refused to clear entrances to the school after officers had ordered them to do so.

Prior to the disorder, Dr. Patterson had reported that both male and female non-striking students were being intimidated by strikers who threatened them when they tried to enter class-rooms, forcibly blocking entrances and, in some instances, locking doors and appropriating the keys. The school president said it was those who refused to leave class-room building entrance areas after he had asked officers to clear the areas, who were placed under arrest.

Late Friday the Institute Executive Council held a meeting to begin dismissal of strikers who had failed to be at work or in class at 7 a.m., that morning, in compliance with an ultimatum issued by Dr. Patterson on the preceding day.

TRUCK DRIVER THREATENED

Threatening of a truck driver who was about to unload a quantity of food at the dining hall late Thursday, brought the intervention of State officers when Highway Patrolman C C. Huckabaa, stationed at Tuskegee, reported the incident to headquarters in Montgomery just before starting for the institute grounds in response to a summons by college officials.

Food served students was described by President Patterson, who said he ate with them Tuesday, as "wholesome and palatable." After appearing before a student mass meeting Thursday evening, he said the only information he had to make public was that all students who were not at work or attending classes by 7 o'clock Friday morning, would be suspended.

PROPOSAL NOT ACTED ON

It became known later, however, that a proposal was presented in an attempt to compromise existing differences, that two instructors and a student be named as a committee to make recommendations after eating together in the dining hall or cafeteria for two weeks—but was not acted on. It also became known that President Patterson had refused to accede to a request that he sign a written agreement that no striking students would be dismissed and that classes cut during the strike would be marked up against them, but had promised to "do the best he could" to help the students "solve their problems" if they would resume attendance at classes.

SENTRIES DENY ADMITTANCE

Sentries posted at the doors denied admittance to all but students during the meeting and faculty members in attendance at the beginning left on request within a short time. Newspapermen were also barred.

President Patterson, who had voiced the opinion soon after the strike, was precipitated, that the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish," estimated the strikers to total between 500 and 600, compared with the 800 to 900 the strikers were understood to be claiming were refusing to eat in the dining hall.

GRIEVANCES NOT QUICKLY HEARD

Apparently authentic information from student sources blamed the strike on a mass of accumulated grievances and dissatisfaction with delay in getting complaints before college authorities and having them acted on, because of unnecessary "red tape" rules and regulations that must be complied with.

JAN 25 1941

STRIKE STARTED WITH PARADE

The original criticism of the food by the students was reported as being that it was "no good." The strike started with a parade of striking students about the campus, carrying placards. Teachers immediately began checking class rolls to determine who was absent. The original striking students were said to have walked out of the dining hall Wednesday at lunchtime when they were served with a menu of liver and onions, bacon, peas, cabbage, cornbread and dessert.

When the strike began, dignitaries from all over the country were gathered at the institute to dedicate the recently-completed center established there for the study of infantile paralysis and its treatment.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tuskegee Student Editorial Which Started Big Strike

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Jan. 23—Although the student strike here did not start until Wednesday, January 15, the spark which eventually became a flame, was ignited Saturday, January 11, when the following editorial was published in the Campus Digest:

CAFETERIALLY SPEAKING

Every now and then, in our reading, we come across articles and press releases concerning different phases of Tuskegee Institute's work and activities, and the work and activities of different departments of the Institute. Usually such publicity is deserved and serves to make us feel proud of our Alma Mater. Lately, we have been reading material concerning our School of Commercial Dietetics which has failed to arouse this wanted sense of pride because we sincerely feel that such praise is undeserved and unearned.

The Department of Commercial Dietetics which operates and manages the cafeteria, is one of the departments on the campus which is, more than any, the direct antithesis of the ideals and principles for which Tuskegee Institute stands.

The cafeteria, which should be the cleanest place on the campus is habitually and incessantly the filthiest. We doubt whether even the piggery, taking in consideration the function of the two places, can compare with it for unnecessary filth, unsanitary and distasteful conditions.

STUDENT WORKERS NOT CLEAN

And, in accordance with their place of business, is the filthiness and generally disreputable personal appearance of the students who are enrolled in this department and who are responsible for the prepapation and serving of the food.

We refer not only to the fact that they don't bathe often enough, but also to the fact that their uniforms are unclean, those few who wear uniforms.

We can excuse their lack of personal cleanliness by attributing it to their home training and the lackadaisical supervision that they receive from their faculty advisers in this department. But their lack of good manners, their putrid ill nature and their atrocious uncouthness are unexcusable.

PEOPLE ON RELIEF EAT LIKE KINGS

The food they serve! People on relief are eating like kings while the cafeteria takes the money our parents work hard for each month and throws savory messes out on the slides for us three meals a day. The works "menu" and "balanced diet" are meaningless to the cafeteria staff and this in spite of the number of dietitians being employed by the school.

The salads on the slides are so old and have been left over from so many meals that even the worms have deserted them and the flies are asphyxiated in the odors which arise therefrom. The stereotyped and monotonous bills of fare lack variety and diversification. The food is ill prepared, unsavory, unappetising. It is rationed in many proportions as if it were precious and valuable.

UNWORTHY DEPARTMENT

We cannot believe that such a poorly managed and instructed department, employing and enrolling such socially and economically undesirable students can be worthy, or deserving of commendation or comment from any source. It is our earnest belief that more time should be spent in cleaning up and improving the Cafeteria and School of Commercial Dietetics and less time should be spent in painting virtues and attributes which it obviously does not possess.

What we cannot understand or condone is the lack of concern and the irresponsible attitude of the persons in charge of this department. The Student Council has had repeated meetings with the head of the Department of Dietetics. Members of the executive council have been made acquainted with these undesirable conditions. Even the PRESIDENT of the institute has been approached. In each case idle promises have been made and nothing constructive has been done.

MAKE DIRECT APPEAL

There is only one course which is open to us, and that is by direct appeal to you, the students of the Department of Commercial Dietetics.

Do you realize that your conduct as well as your department is a blot on the reputation of Tuskegee Institute?

Do you realize that as students of Tuskegee Institute you have a certain standard of personal attainment to live up to?

We don't expect you to revolutionize the Cafeteria without the cooperation of your superiors, but there is a great deal that you can do to contribute to its improvement.

You might bathe more frequently, at least once a day. Showers and hot water are plentiful. If you don't have soap, ask your next door neighbor to lend you a bar.

Don't wear your uniform until it turns gray and acquires sour odors.

Clean your finger nails and wash your hands so you won't fingerprint every dish you handle.

As courtesy always pays, if you don't know the rules of etiquette and good manners, ask any faculty member, other than those in your department. When you run your garbage about, ask people to move themselves. Don't try to run over them. And be a little more conscientious in cleaning off the tables. It is very distasteful to have to eat at a table piled high with dirty dishes and discarded scraps.

MAY INFLUENCE FACULTY

If you try to do some of the things we suggest we will benefit from your presence here and we will begin to feel that you are actually a part of us. And perhaps your industry will influence the faculty of the Department of Commercial Dietetics to the type of activity and responsibility necessary to make your department the representative division of Tuskegee Institute, that it can and should be.

Pittsburgh Courier
Pittsburgh, Pa.

EDITORIAL

These words are not particularly concerned with merits of the recent student strike at Tuskegee Institute. Nobody yet has all the facts upon which to base a just conclusion.

But Tuskegee Institute (the board of trustees and the administration) should have itself investigated, openly and impartially.

JAN 25 1941

The student strike, if any weight at all is to be given to past incidents and current reports, was only a minor reflection of more fundamental disaffection among the student body and the faculty.

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, Tuskegee's president, has put all that he has into his job. But some reports are critical of him. It is suspected that he hasn't all that the school needs.

Tuskegee has been a shining symbol of Negro achievement. It can become a symbol of Negro failure.

We believe that Tuskegee should be cleaned up until it is again beyond reproach.

No one wants to hurt the school. Everyone wants to help it.

Dr. Patterson, you can demand an investigation. The president of the board of trustees, Dr. William Jay Schieffelein, can help to initiate an investigation, by competent, outside persons. Why not do so? Will you answer?

18y-1941

STUDENT STRIKE

Bystander
Des Moines, Iowa

Tuskegee Students Refuse To Attend Classes During Paralysis Unit Dedication

JAN 16 1941

Tuskegee, Ala.—A large number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes struck Wednesday, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

F. B. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its $161,350 center for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among Negroes.

—o—

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.— (ANP) Through a grant of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the model hospital for the study and treatment of the dreaded disease has been erected here at Tuskegee and was dedicated on January 15.

From this infantile paralysis center, in the heart of the deep south, will go Negro doctors and nurses trained to fight infantile paralysis.

They will return to the crowded negro districts of New York, Chicago, Detroit and other cities and to the rural sections of the South, equipped with everything medical science can provide to combat the ravages of the mysterious disease which has taken such a toll among Negro children, leaving thousands with twisted bodies, withered limbs and deformed hands and feet. Said Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee:

"The Negro people of America are happy for the opportunity which the infantile paralysis center will provide not only for the restoration of young bodies afflicted with this dreadful malady, but also because of the unique opportunity for training doctors and nurses who will in turn combat this disease on a nationwide basis."

The hospital was made possible by a grant of $161,350. It was authorized under the direction of Basil O'Connor, president of the Foundation, and the Foundation trustees, after long study of the problem in cooperation with Dr. Patterson.

Tuskegee was selected because it is devoted to the welfare of Negroes and because of the marked success Dr. John W. Chenault, director of the orthopedic work, who was sent here by the Julius Rosenwald Fund of Chicago to work among crippled Negro children. Dr. Chenault will be in charge of the training of Negro doctors and surgeons in orthopedic work, the training of orthopedic nurses and the training of physiotherapists.

The hospital, nucleus of a great Negro polio center, has a capacity of thirty beds. Various types of infantile paralysis cases among Negroes will be treated there.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

—a.t.d. FEB 1 1941

Strike At Tuskegee

The strike at Tuskegee Institute which was ended last week (temporarily) has revealed some startling facts, chief of which is that the famous Alabama institution, made world-famous by Booker T. Washington, does not grow its own foodstuffs any more and that the kitchen is not all that it should be.

There was a time when Tuskegee grew all of its own vegetables and had to buy little produce from the market; that time has passed. The ironical part of the whole thing is that Tuskegee boasts of turning out fine chefs and hotel workers who are quickly put to work in some of the nation's finest hotels. So popular have become Tuskegee graduate chefs that the school has widely publicized the course in an attempt to encourage more students to enter the field of dietetics.

Why did the students strike? Their charge, made to President F. D. Patterson was that the food they received was of poor quality, and not in sufficient quantity to be nourishing. They received the assurances that the matter would be adjusted, but, according to some of the discharged students who live in this area the matter was one which Dr. Paterson said could not be retcified at once but would require about five months to bring to pass.

The Tuskegee president should have realized that youth is impatient at long delays and has no use for red tape. A hungry student, or an undernourished student, is easy prey for someone with a stronger will than his and will grasp at a straw if he thinks that will better his condition.

Unfortunately for the suspended 49 students, there were among that number some with wills strong enough as to influence them to become leaders of a strike. Unfortunately for Dr. Patterson his reply to the strike committee failed to delay the strike. Unfortunately, Tuskegee Institute got a black name throughout the nation for the adverse publicity which it received because of the strike.

That about half of the student body participated would seem to indicate that they had just reason for taking that drastic step. I should like to see all of the suspended students reinstated in their classes; I should like to see Tuskegee's kitchen turn out a more palatable menu. Lastly I should like to see Dr. F. D. Patterson once more restore the confidence of the public in his administration at Tuskegee.

It is stranger still, because Tuskegee has a cooking school of college grade which provides chefs for dining car and hotel services.

But what is happening at Tuskegee is unimportant, after all, except that it shows the unsettled trend of these times in which even as staid and conservative a student body as this one is moved to desert its ancient patterns.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Booker Tees Strike

JAN 25 1941

Tuskegee Institute suspended forty-nine of several hundred students who went on a strike last week after complaining about unsatisfactory food served in the dining hall.

One hundred others are being questioned and other suspensions are expected.

Student complaints of cafeteria service are not unusual, because most college young people are at the storm and stress period of their lives when they are ready to make over the world and question every normal procedure.

It is unusual at Tuskegee, however, where the question of authority is so strongly grounded that no such similar outbreak has ever before occurred.

Moundville, Ala. News
January 23. 1941

THE TUSKEGEE STRIKE

(The Alabama Journal)

"They had been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves," is the explanation offered by President F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee for the refusal of three of four hundred students to come to classes because they didn't like the food in the dining hall. There is a good deal of psychology in this strike business, and it has some of the elements of a flu epidemic. It is catching, and when it is caught there seems little to do about it except to let nature take its course.

A strike among students, however, is a bad thing, and one that ought to be discouraged in every way. Strikes are wasteful and costly to begin with, and it has been shown by the railroad brotherhood, the greatest of all organized labor bodies, that they are entirely unnecessary to accomplish results.

When school students go on strike about anything it is little more than a ridiculous imitation of something they have heard or read about. These students who are kicking about having insufficient "variety" in their food at school might take a few hours off and reflect upon what is being done about food in Belgium, in Poland in China and among more than half the population of the world where it is not a question of inadequate variety but scarcity of anything to eat at all. They have much to be thankful for, apparently little to kick about.

Talladega, Ala., Daily Home
January 20, 1941

TUSKEGEE STRIKE REPORTED AT END

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20.—Dr. E. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said Sunday night a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions Monday.

Approximately 55 were suspended Saturday as strike leaders, after many of the huge Negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were placed on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Capt. N. W. Kimbrough said Sunday night all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, approximately 20 had been placed on probation.

One of those suspended, Wilbur Hines, Wilmington, N. C., vice president of the student council, termed the strike a "succeess" and declared that "we were assured there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes (resulting from the strike) would not be punished."

Dr. Patterson said the strike had "very little basis," that the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

Gadsden, Ala., Times
January 19, 1941

Over 50 Students At Tuskegee Suspended

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP) The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today more than 50 students had been suspended in connection with a four-day strike now apparently ended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today and the president predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

Among those suspended, Dr. Patterson listed Editor Henry Miller, of the student newspaper, Campus Topics, which had criticized the food, and Cadet-Colonel Earl Williams, of the R. O. T. C. unit.

One student was slashed with a knife and 11 jailed temporarily without charge yesterday in disorders developing as strikers attempted to prevent others from attending classes.

Gadsden, Ala., Times
January 20, 1941

Order Restored As Students Suspended

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20.—(AP) Order restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike at the huge negro college now was "definitely over" and normal operations had been resumed.

The strike, with hundreds of students out of classes, developed disorders last week, resulting in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. State officers with riot equipment came here as a precaution.

The trouble developed over a protest against food served in the college dining hall. At the height of the strike a state officer said around 800 of the 1,400 students did not attend classes.

Dr. Patterson estimated today approximately 50 students left Tuskegee over the week-end out of sympathy for the 55 regarded as leaders of the strike and indefinitely suspended.

Pensacola Fla. Journal
January 19, 1941

Tuskegee Suspensions Rise to More Than 50

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP) The Tuskegee institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council. The striike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

Raleigh, N. C., News & Observer
January 19, 1941

WILMINGTON STUDENT IN TUSKEGEE STRIKE

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the big Negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

"We were assured," the Wilmington (N. C.) student said, "there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes would not be punished. If possible, I'm going to return to Tuskegee."

Charlotte, N. C. News
January 1?, 1941

Negro Students May Be Dropped

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (AP) — Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the Negro college's dining hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all students "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Eight State patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Hud[illegible] said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

Cordele, Ga. Dispatch
January 20, 1941

ORDER RESTORED AT NEGRO COLLEGE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20.— (AP) Order has been restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, today reported. The strike at the large Negro school is definiely over, and normal operations have been resumed. The trouble started over protest of the dining hall food.

Birmingham, Ala. News
January 17, 1941

One Student Slashed At Tuskegee Institute And 11 Slapped In Jail

State Patrolmen Guard Campus; Strikers Partake Of Noonday Meal

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Following the slashing of a student who reportedly sought entrance into a classroom in defiance of striking students, Tuskegee Institute authorities Friday took drastic steps to end a two-day "strike" of students which started over food served at student tables.

Eleven students were arrested by state highway patrolmen when they refused to heed commands to clear the college entrances, officers reported, after wounding of the student.

Later, two of the 11 were released and it was reported that all students went to the dining-room for the noonday meal following announcement by Tuskegee authorities that students who continued to "strike" would be dismissed.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, reported that a student had been cut by a knife in the hands of another student but declined to identify the injured student or to name his assailant.

Highway patrolmen, headed by Chief T. Weller Smith, of Montgomery, reached Tuskegee Friday morning after President Patterson had reported the striking students were seeking to intimidate other students who desired to enter classrooms.

Chief Smith estimated that about 800 of the 1,400 students remained away from classrooms Friday morning. The arrest of 11 students came after they are said to have refused to clear the entrances.

Highway patrol officers brought riot equipment, including tear gas guns, to the campus and were prepared to use them.

Meanwhile, the college executive council met Friday to consider dismissal of strike leaders who had failed to respond to an ultimatum to be in class or at work by 7 a.m.

The first instance of intimidation in the strike came late Thursday when the strikers are reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

Greenville, S. C. Piedmont
Jan. 17, 1941

Ultimatum To Students

Tuskegee Institute Threatens To Suspend 500 Unless Return To Classes

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—(U.P.)—Between 500 and 600 students of Tuskeegee institute faced suspension today unless they called off a strike in protest of the kind of food served at the negro college. President F. D. Patterson said that all strikers not back in class this morning would be "suspended automatically."

Eight highway patrolmen were needed to restore order late yesterday when the strikers reportedly threatened a driver who was attempting to unload food at the college dining hall. Patterson spoke to the students last night at a mass meeting but reported the parley "ended in a deadlock."

The strike began two days ago. Patterson said he ate at the hall Wednesday and found the food "very palatable."

The strikers, the president said, "have started something they don't know how to finish."

Age-Herald
Birmingham, Ala.

TUSKEGEE QUIET AFTER STABBING; 11 ARE ARRESTED

JAN 18 1941

State Officers With Riot Equipment On Guard Following Strike

JAN 18 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—(AP)—Quiet prevailed Friday night on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one youth being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

About a score officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed after disregarding threats of the strikers and attempting to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings.

All those jailed were released after a few hours without charges having been preferred against them, but Dr. Patterson said Friday night 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent nonstrikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girl students as well as men were intimidated.

JAN 18 1941

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes Friday. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria where about 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of state patrolmen came in Friday morning as a precaution. A dozen or more state officers were here assisting county and city officers.

The 11 jailed apparently were not connected with the slashing of the student. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the injured student or his assailant. It was understood, however, the youth was not hurt seriously. No formal charges had been preferred against the 11 who were jailed.

The college council decided that all students who cause further disturbance will be suspended. Late in the day it was understood none had been dismissed from school, and quiet reigned on the campus, students having been warned those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Patrolmen were rushed here Thursday night, when strikers were reported to have threatened a truck driver attempting to unload food at the dining hall. Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa summoned aid from Montgomery when, he said, the strikers told him "we're running things here."

The truck unloaded later without incident as eight patrolmen watched.

Globe and Independent
Nashville, Tenn.

600 TUSKEGEE STUDENTS STAGE FOOD WALKOUT

JAN 24 1941

Patrolmen Go to College After Trucker Is Threatened

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16. (AP) State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers whose ranks Dr F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

JAN 24 1941

They refused to attend classes and gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The truck driver complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "We're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced.:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a. m., will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest.

Constitution
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Strike Ends, Students Return Today

JAN 26 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19.—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Intitute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge Negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining room and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

18y-1941

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

50 Suspended In Tuskegee Student Strike

JAN 19 1941

20 Others Placed On Probation; Quiet Prevails

AN 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today and the president said "all students, except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

"We were assured," the Wilmington, N. C., student said, "there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes would not be punished. If possible, I'm going to return to Tuskegee."

Shortly after the strike developed Wednesday, Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis" and declared he found the food both "palatable and wholesome" when he took lunch with the students the day before. The student newspaper, Campus Topics, criticized the food and handling of it a week ago.

Among those suspended, Dr. Patterson listed Editor Henry Miller, of Campus Topics, and Cadet-Colonel Earl Williams, of the R. O. T. C. unit.

One student was slashed with a knife and 11 jailed temporarily without charge yesterday in disorders developing as strikers attempted to prevent others from attending classes.

State Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith, who headed a detail sent to reinforce local authortiies, estimated 800 of the college's 1,400 students joined the strike

Quiet prevailed across the wide campus today and students moved orderly to and from scheduled Saturday classes.

Dr. Patterson held out some hope of reinstatement for those suspended, but said those taken back would be considered on "an individual, merit basis."

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Order Is Restored At Negro Institute, Authorities Assert

55 Tuskegee Students Suspended And 50 Others Have Left Campus

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—With the suspension of 55 students, believed to have been the leaders of the "student strike" which disturbed the routine of the famous Negro institute here, order had been restored Monday morning, according to college authorities, and the "strike is definitely over."

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, estimated that approximately 50 other students had left the campus over the week-end out of sympathy for those who were suspended.

According to statements issued by the school officials, the disturbance began last Tuesday when mimeographed sheets calling on the students to refuse to report for drill, classes or enter the college dining hall, were circulated among the student body by the strike leaders.

According to the sheets, the strike was to begin Wednesday morning. It assured its sympathizers that "no one need fear the matter concerning expulsion from school. We will continue to strike until any student who is sent away on this charge is readmitted to school."

President Patterson voluntarily appeared before a meeting of students Tuesday night in an effort to assure them that all grievances which they had presented would be given every consideration, school officials explained Monday. The students would accept no offer of arbitration and called a strike for the following morning. A large number of students failed to report to classes, to their work, and to the dining hall for meals. Many of the students who attempted to go about their usual duties were prevented by some of the more active leaders of the strike.

The institute's executive council met Wednesday morning and issued the following statement:

Text Of Statement

"To the Student Council:

"The Southern trustees and members of the executive council of Tuskegee Institute regard the present strike on the part of members of the student body as unwarranted and unjustifiable. It occurred at a time when officials of the institute were in conference with representatives of the student body in an effort to adjust as far as possible and reasonable the complaints made. There was no indication that these negotiations were failing to attain the desired result.

"We feel under the circumstances that further consideration of this matter must be postponed until order is restored and students have resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute as regards school and work. At such time the administration is willing to confer with representatives designated by the student body to reopen this matter.

"An answer to this communication is requested by 5 p.m. today."

The strike leaders refused to accept this offer of arbitration unless President Patterson sign a statement promising that no investigation would be made, and that no student would be suspended for his activities in connection with it, the official statement said Monday. President Patterson refused to sign such a statement on the grounds, describing the strike "as a flagrant violation of the rules of Tuskegee Institute, and that no commitment not to pursue responsible could be g[illegible]

The executive [illegible] issued a warning Thursday morning that any student absent from "assigned duty or class" after 7 a.m. Friday would be automatically suspended from the institute.

About 4 that afternoon, a group of the students prevented a truck driver from unloading food at the dining hall and ordered a highway patrolman, assigned to the area, off the campus.

Aid was summoned from the patrol office at Montgomery and the truck unloaded under their protection.

Knives, Clubs Drawn

Friday morning, efforts of students to return to classes were prevented by striking students who gathered at classrooms entrances brandishing knives and using clubs, the authorities' statement said. Threats to damage and destroy the property of Tuskegee Institute were frequently made as well as threats of physical injury to students not on strike." After repeated efforts to have striking students return to their dormitories and remain orderly had failed, the executive council decided that the strike had created a situation of violence that the school could not control, and that it was necessary to call the civil authorities. The officers on arrival were urged to treat the students with consideration and to use force only as a last resort. Every cooperation and consideration to this request were given. In the process of restoring order 11 students were arrested but were released after a few hours without charge," the statement continued.

The executive council then voted to suspend 49 students for their activities in connection with the strike.

"The civil officials had withdrawn, and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute by Friday afternoon.

"Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these days from parents all over the nation urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskegee Institute and to remain in school," the statement said. "These messages have strongly endorsed the action taken by the executive council of Tuskegee Institute. The action of the executive council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon."

New York Times
New York, N. Y.

TUSKEGEE STRIKE IS OVER

55 Students Are Suspended, 20 Put on Probation

JAN 20 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19 (AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said tonight that a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

About fifty-five students were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the Negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were put on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Captain N. W. Kimbrough said tonight that all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, about twenty had been put on probation. He declared that the strike had "very little basis" as the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Quiet After Disorder; Student Knifed

JAN 18 1941

11 Jailed, Later Freed; 800 Believed Out In Food Protest Strike

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Quiet prevailed tonight on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one student being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

Around a score officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded threats of the strikers and attempted to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings.

11 Freed From Jail

All those jailed were released after a few hours without charges having been preferred against them, but Dr. Patterson said tonight 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria where around 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of State patrolmen came in this morning as a precaution. A dozen or more State officers were here assisting county and city officers.

No Charges Preferred

The 11 jailed apparently were not connected with the slashing of the student. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the injured student or his assailant. It was understood, however, the boy was not hurt seriously. No formal charges had been preferred against the 11 who were jailed.

The college council decided that all students who cause further disturbance will be suspended. Late in the day it was understood none had been dismissed from school, reigned on the campus, students having been warned those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Patrolmen were rushed here last night, when strikers were reported to have threatened a truck driver attempting to unload food at the dining hall. Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa and quiet when, he said, the strikers told him "we're running things here." The truck unloaded later without incident as eight patrolmen watched.

18y-1941

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

50 Suspended In Tuskegee Student Strike

JAN 19 1941

20 Others Placed On Probation; Quiet Prevails

AN 19 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today and the president said "all students, except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

"We were assured," the Wilmington, N. C., student said, "there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes would not be punished. If possible, I'm going to return to Tuskegee."

Shortly after the strike developed Wednesday, Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis" and declared he found the food both "palatable and wholesome" when he took lunch with the students the day before. The student newspaper, Campus Topics, criticized the food and handling of it a week ago.

Among those suspended, Dr. Patterson listed Editor Henry Miller, of Campus Topics, and Cadet-Colonel Earl Williams, of the R. O. T. C. unit.

One student was slashed with a knife and 11 jailed temporarily without charge yesterday in disorders developing as strikers attempted to prevent others from attending classes.

State Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith, who headed a detail sent to reinforce local authortiies, estimated 800 of the college's 1,400 students joined the strike

Quiet prevailed across the wide campus today and students moved orderly to and from scheduled Saturday classes.

Dr. Patterson held out some hope of reinstatement for those suspended, but said those taken back would be considered on "an individual, merit basis."

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Order Is Restored At Negro Institute, Authorities Assert

55 Tuskegee Students Suspended And 50 Others Have Left Campus

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—With the suspension of 55 students, believed to have been the leaders of the "student strike" which disturbed the routine of the famous Negro institute here, order had been restored Monday morning, according to college authorities, and the "strike is definitely over."

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, estimated that approximately 50 other students had left the campus over the week-end out of sympathy for those who were suspended.

According to statements issued by the school officials, the disturbance began last Tuesday when mimeographed sheets calling on the students to refuse to report for drill, classes or enter the college dining hall, were circulated among the student body by the strike leaders.

According to the sheets, the strike was to begin Wednesday morning. It assured its sympathizers that "no one need fear the matter concerning expulsion from school. We will continue to strike until any student who is sent away on this charge is readmitted to school."

President Patterson voluntarily appeared before a meeting of students Tuesday night in an effort to assure them that all grievances which they had presented would be given every consideration, school officials explained Monday. The students would accept no offer of arbitration and called a strike for the following morning. A large number of students failed to report to classes, to their work, and to the dining hall for meals. Many of the students who attempted to go about their usual duties were prevented by some of the more active leaders of the strike.

The institute's executive council met Wednesday morning and issued the following statement:

Text Of Statement

"To the Student Council:

"The Southern trustees and members of the executive council of Tuskegee Institute regard the present strike on the part of members of the student body as unwarranted and unjustifiable. It occurred at a time when officials of the institute were in conference with representatives of the student body in an effort to adjust as far as possible and reasonable the complaints made. There was no indication that these negotiations were failing to attain the desired result.

"We feel under the circumstances that further consideration of this matter must be postponed until order is restored and students have resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute as regards school and work. At such time the administration is willing to confer with representatives designated by the student body to reopen this matter.

"An answer to this communication is requested by 5 p.m. today."

The strike leaders refused to accept this offer of arbitration unless President Patterson sign a statement promising that no investigation would be made, and that no student would be suspended for his activities in connection with it, the official statement said Monday. President Patterson refused to sign such a statement on the grounds, describing the strike "as a flagrant violation of the rules of Tuskegee Institute, and that no commitment not to punish those responsible could be given."

The executive council issued a warning Thursday morning that any student absent from "assigned duty or class" after 7 a.m. Friday would be automatically suspended from the institute.

About 4 that afternoon, a group of the students prevented a truck driver from unloading food at the dining hall and ordered a highway patrolman, assigned to the area, off the campus.

Aid was summoned from the patrol office at Montgomery and the truck unloaded under their protection.

Knives, Clubs Drawn

Friday morning, efforts of students to return to classes were prevented by striking students who gathered at classrooms entrances brandishing knives and using clubs, the authorities' statement said. Threats to damage and destroy the property of Tuskegee Institute were frequently made as well as threats of physical injury to students not on strike." After repeated efforts to have striking students return to their dormitories and remain orderly had failed, the executive council decided that the strike had created a situation of violence that the school could not control, and that it was necessary to call the civil authorities. The officers on arrival were urged to treat the students with consideration and to use force only as a last resort. Every cooperation and consideration to this request were given. In the process of restoring order 11 students were arrested but were released after a few hours without charge," the statement continued.

The executive council then voted to suspend 49 students for their activities in connection with the strike.

"The civil officials had withdrawn, and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute by Friday afternoon.

"Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these days from parents all over the nation urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskegee Institute and to remain in school," the statement said. "These messages have strongly endorsed the action taken by the executive council of Tuskegee Institute. The action of the executive council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon."

New York Times
New York, N. Y.

TUSKEGEE STRIKE IS OVER

55 Students Are Suspended, 20 Put on Probation

JAN 20 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19 (AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said tonight that a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

About fifty-five students were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the Negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were put on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Captain N. W. Kimbrough said tonight that all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, about twenty had been put on probation. He declared that the strike had "very little basis" as the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Quiet After Disorder; Student Knifed

JAN 18 1941

11 Jailed, Later Freed; 800 Believed Out In Food Protest Strike

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Quiet prevailed tonight on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one student being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

Around a score officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded threats of the strikers and attempted to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings.

11 Freed From Jail

All those jailed were released after a few hours without charges having been preferred against them, but Dr. Patterson said tonight 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria where around 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Two additional details of State patrolmen came in this morning as a precaution. A dozen or more State officers were here assisting county and city officers.

No Charges Preferred

The 11 jailed apparently were not connected with the slashing of the student. Dr. Patterson did not give the name of the injured student or his assailant. It was understood, however, the boy was not hurt seriously. No formal charges had been preferred against the 11 who were jailed.

The college council decided that all students who cause further disturbance will be suspended. Late in the day it was understood none had been dismissed from school, and reigned on the campus, students having been warned those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Patrolmen were rushed here last night, when strikers were reported to have threatened a truck driver attempting to unload food at the dining hall. Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa summoned aid from Montgomery and quiet when, he said, the strikers told him "we're running things here."

The truck unloaded later without incident as eight patrolmen watched.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., News
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Now Back To Normal

Dr. Patterson Reports 55 Students Sent Home After Food Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20—(AP)—Order restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike at the huge negro college now was "definitely over" and normal operations had been resumed.

The strike, with hundreds of students out of classes, developed disorders last week, resulting in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. State officers with riot equipment came here as a precaution.

The trouble developed over a protest against food served in the college dining hall. At the height of the strike a state officer said around 800 of the 1,400 students did not attend classes.

Dr. Patterson estimated today approximately 50 students left Tuskegee over the weekend out of sympathy for the 55 regarded as leaders of the strike and indefinitely suspended.

The president said "We plan to resume our regular program. We have always allowed the students to present any grievances they have, and have tried to make any reasonable adjustments possible. The same principle will prevail now. A committee has been appointed to confer with the students on the present complaints."

As to the possibility of the 55 students sent home getting back, Dr. Patterson said "All will be given consideration on the merits of their individual cases."

Orangeburg, S. C., Times & Demo.
January 18, 1941

OFFICIALS QUELL STUDENTS STRIKE

Order is Restored at Tuskegee; Eleven Students Jailed

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Disorders among striking Tuskegee Institute students resulted today in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of 11 before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big negro college.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and environs, Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances. Two were released later.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterso nsaid the disorders had "very little basis," that the food was palatable and wholesome."

The institute president said the strikers blocked entrances to prevent non - strikers from attending classes. He added that strikers made open threats against students trying to enter and said girl students as well as men were intimidated.

All of those arrested were released later without formal charges having been preferred against them. The injured student was not hurt seriously. Neither his name nor that of his assailant was revealed.

Dr. Patterson announced tonight 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and added that any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis." Students were warned that those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald
January 20, 1941

TUSKEGEE STRIKE REPORTED AT END

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19—(AP)—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said Sunday night a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions Monday.

Approximately 55 were suspended Saturday as strike leaders, after many of the huge Negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were placed on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Capt. N. W. Kimbrough said Sunday night all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, approximately 20 had been placed on probation.

One of those suspended, Wilbur Hines, Wilmington, N. C., vice president of the student council, termed the strike a "success" and declared that "we were assured there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes (resulting from the strike) would not be punished."

Dr. Patterson said the strike had "very little basis," that the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

Memphis Tenn. Commercial Appeal
January 18, 1941

TUSKEGEE STUDENTS ARRESTED IN STRIKE

One Slashed During Protest Over School Food

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—(AP)—Disorders among striking Tuskegee Institute students resulted Friday in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of 11 before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big negro college.

While ascore of officers guarded the grounds and evirons, Dr. F. D. Patterson, Institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1400 students were not in classes Friday. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where 1000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said the disorders had "very little basis," that the food "was palatable and wholesome."

The institute president said strikers blocked entrances to prevent nonstrikers from attending classes. He added that strikers made open threats against students trying to enter and said girl students as well as men were intimidated.

All of those arrested were released later without formal charges having been preferred against them. The injured student was not hurt seriously Dr. Patterson announced Friday night 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and added that any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis."

Greenwood, S. C. Index-Journal
January 17, 1941

Tuskegee Students Still On Strike

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP) —The jailer here reported today he was holding 11 Tuskegee Institute students without formal charge after additional details of Alabama state patrolmen sped here as a precaution against disorder in the strike of students at the negro college.

Additional patrolmen, including Chief T. Weller Smith, rushed here from Montgomery and Birmingham when they received reports students attempting to attend classes were being 'intimidated" by strikers against the dining hall food.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all students "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Brunswick, Ga., News
January 20, 1941

STRIKE IS ENDED

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 20. (AP)—Order restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike at the huge negro college now was "definitely over" and normal operations had been resumed. The strike, with hundreds of students out of classes, developed disorders last week, resulting in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. State officers with riot equipment came here as a precaution.

Greenville, S. C. Piedmont
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Strike Brought To End

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20.—(INS—Strike of several hundred students at Tuskegee Institute, famed negro school, "has definitely ended," and classes were to be resumed under normal conditions today, F. D. Patterson, president of the institute, announced.

The school president stated that a number of the strike leaders had been suspended after several hundred of the 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food served in the school cafeteria and what the strikers termed "too strict" regulations.

Moultrie, Ga. Observer
January 17, 1941

TUSKEGEE GROUP MAY BE OUSTED

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the negro college's dining hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all student "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Eight state patrolmen, equipped with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students had threatened a truck driver who attempted to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabby said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. He asserted he ate with the students on Tuesday and found the food palatable and wholesome."

Miami, Fla. Herald
January 19, 1941

Tuskegee Normal After Student Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18. (AP)—Its four-day-old student strike apparently ended with the suspension of 49 accused as leaders, Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's largest negro colleges, opened normally Saturday. Quiet prevailed across the wide campus and Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said the situation "definitely is under control." Students moved orderly toward such Saturday classes as were scheduled.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
January 20, 1941

Strike at Tuskegee "Definitely Over"

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20. —(AP)—Order restored and 55 students sent home, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said today a strike at the huge Negro college now was "definitely over" and normal operations had been resumed.

The strike, with hundreds of students out of classes, developed disorders last week, resulting in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 others being jailed. State officers with riot equipment came here as a precaution.

The trouble developed over a protest against food served in the college dining hall. At the height of the strike a state officer said around 800 and 1,400 students did not attend classes.

18y - 1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

STUDENT STRIKE

One Student Reported Slashed, 11 Others Arrested At School

JAN 19 1941

Additional Details Of Highway Patrolmen Rushed To Campus; Strikers' Intimidations Claimed

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala.—(SNS)—One student was reported slashed with a knife and 11 others were arrested Friday as the food strike at Tuskegee reached a high pitch.

The unnamed knife victim was attempting to attend a class irrespective of the intimidations of the strikers.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, did not release names of either of the participants.

ELEVEN STUDENTS JAILED

The 11 students were jailed when they refused to heed commands to clear the college entrances. They were not believed involved in the knife attack.

Two additional details of highway patrolmen were rushed to the campus Friday morning when President Patterson reported intimidations were being used by the strikers.

JAN 18 1941

Headed by Chief T. Weller Smith, the patrolmen rushed to Tuskegee from Montgomery, Ala.

STRIKE STARTED WEDNESDAY

The strike broke out Wednesday when 600 and 800 students registered protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. Patterson was quoted by Chief Smith as saying the strikers made open threats against students trying to attend classes. He said girl students were intimidated as well as men.

Dr. Patterson asked patrolmen to clear the areas in front of the class buildings. He said the strike had "very little basis."

Chief Smith, with 14 men on duty, said riot equipment, including tear gas guns, had been brought along and that the patrol was prepared to meet any eventuality.

COMPROMISE SUGGESTED

Several student leaders who would not give their names said a compromise had been suggested at a student-faculty conference under which a committee of one student and two teachers would take meals in the cafeteria for two weeks and make recommendations.

The strike first flared Sunday following a student meeting at which protests were made against the food. Members of the student council said there were other complaints, including "too strict regulations regarding young women students, and a host of minor problems."

JAN 18 1941

BREAD TRUCK HALTED

Patrolmen were called to the campus late Thursday after a group of strikers refused to allow a bread truck to be unloaded on the campus.

The college executive council met here Friday to begin dismissal of strike leaders, who, had failed to respond to an ultimatum to be in class or at work by 7 a.m.

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Tuskegee Institute Students Strike In Protest Over Menu

JAN 16 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, struck today, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said tonight that 300 to 400 of the 1,400 students joined the strike which he declared had "very little basis."

The difficulty, the negro educator said, was "incited by an ugly editorial in the student paper," and he added: "There is nothing inadequate about the diet provided the students. It is wholesome. The complaining students have no real case. There is very little basis for their accusations. We're not perfect, but we're doing all we can."

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders, that all those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college." If such normalcy is restored, he said, "we'll go into the matter of the food further, but if not we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The college president "dropped in" at the college dining hall, where about 1,000 students eat, and had dinner with them yesterday. He said the meal for the students included: Liver and onions, cabbage cooked with bacon, peas, cornbread, choice of salad (potato or lettuce and tomato) and choice of dessert (apple cobbler or jello).

"The food was palatable and wholesome," he said.

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-committal about quantity," Dr. Patterson observed. "The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

Classes were held on schedule, despite many absences. "We are checking the rolls," Dr. Patterson said, "to get the names of those failing to attend classes."

JAN 16 1941

The strike occurred as Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center, for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of the disease. The college president said the student difficulty interfered in no way with the ceremonies.

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Students' Suspension In Tuskegee Flareup Brings Campus Quiet

Decision Is Reached After Violence As Patrolmen With Riot Guns Stand By

BY GEORGE NAGEL
Birmingham News Staff Writer

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—With the suspension of 49 students, accused by college authorities as the leaders of the "strike" which has all but paralyzed activities at this famous Negro institution here for the past three days, relative quiet prevailed Saturday morning.

JAN 18 1941

The decision to suspend the students came after an all-day conference Friday by the school executive council during which time state highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies patroled the campus with riot equipment, 11 students were jailed, and one was slashed by a knife when he attempted to enter a building being picketed by the "strikers."

According to Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, the strike grew out of student's complaints against food served in the dining hall and what they called the college administration's "too strict regulations."

The first detachment of highway patrolmen was rushed to the campus Thursday afternoon when strikers were reported to have threatened a truck driver attempting to unload food at the dining hall.

Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa, assigned to the Tuskegee area, summoned aid from the patrol headquarters in Montgomery, when he said one of the strikers ordered him off the campus with the warning, "we're running things here."

The truck was unloaded without incident as the additional eight patrolmen watched.

Dr. Patterson declined to reveal the name of the student injured in the "cutting affray, but it was understood that he was not seriously hurt. Two additional patrolmen were dispatched from Birmingham for the campus following the incident.

JAN 18 1941

The 11 students, jailed by Macon County Sheriff E. E. Evans, were released Friday afternoon. The sheriff refused to reveal their names and declined to allow reporters to talk to them while they were being held in the County Jail. No formal charges were placed against them, it was understood.

It was understood that a great majority of them were from out of the state.

Dr. Patterson asserted Friday night that 49 who had bene suspended might be taken back "on an individual merit basis."

A squad of patrolmen remained on duty in the vicinity of the school Saturday morning, but the campus was reported quiet as the institute sought to resume normal operations.

Asheville W C Citizen
January 18, 1941

50 STUDENTS ARE SUSPENDED AT TUSKEGEE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17. (UP) The executive council of Tuskegee institute today suspended nearly 50 students, "ringleaders" in a three-day strike against dining hall food in this negro college which pioneered in the south in courses training cooks and waiters for hotels.

One student suffered a minor stab wound and 16 were arrested during outbreaks of disorder accompanying the strike.

Fourteen Alabama highway patrolmen, under State Safety Director T. Weller Smith, were posted here to aid sheriff's deputies to maintain order.

President F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee tonight believed suspension of the "between 40 and 50" students had broken the strike. The executive council planned to question 100 others tomorrow and Patterson believed "20 to 30" more would be suspended — sent home but permitted to apply for reinstatement.

The striking students contended the dining hall did not offer enough fruit or sufficient variety of food. Five hundred of the school's 1,400 students started the strike last Wednesday, refusing to go to classes and eating snacks in their rooms or going to restaurants.

[illegible] Ga. Telegraph
January 19, 1941

50 Students Suspended In Tuskegee Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., [AP]—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge Negro college, reported Saturday more than 50 students had been suspended in connection with a four-day strike now apparently ended.

Quiet prevailed today and the president predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

Durham, N. C., Morning Herald
January 19, 1941

DISORDER BREAKS OUT AT TUSKEGEE

One Youth Slashed, 11 Striking Students Jailed At Big Negro College

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Disorders among striking Tuskegee Institute students resulted yesterday in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of 11 before law enforcement officers restored quiet on the campus of the big Negro college.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and environs, Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances. Two were released later.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria, where 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said the disorders had "very little basis," that the food was palatable and wholesome.

The institute president said strikers blocked entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes. He added that strikers made open threats against students trying to enter and said girl students as well as men were intimidated.

All of those arrested were released later without formal charges having been preferred against them. The injured student was not hurt seriously. Neither his name nor that of his assailant was revealed.

Dr. Patterson announced tonight 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and added that any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis." Students were warned that those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Dothan, Ala. Eagle
January 16, 1941

Confer[illegible]e Slated On Tuskegee Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — The campus of Tuskegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant sentiments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a students' strike against dining hall meals.

Several hundred students at the Negro institution walked out of the dining hall and stayed away from classes yesterday after complaining about the food.

A committee from the executive council and a joint committee of students and faculty members have been named to confer on the protest.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, who said he ate dinner with the students yesterday, declared the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Classes were being held on schedule, he said.

Patterson said students staying away from classes had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college." If "such normalcy" is not restored, he added, "we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

Selma, Ala., Times Journal
January 16, 1941

Tuskegee Students Still Defiant And Strike Parley Set

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16—(AP)—The campus of Tuskeegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant sentiments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a students' strike against dining-hall meals.

Several hundred students at the negro institution walked out of the dining-hall and stayed away from classes yesterday after complaining about the food.

A committee from the executive council and a joint committee of students and faculty members have been named to confer on the protest.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, who said he ate dinner with the students yesterday, declared the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Classes were being held on schedule, he said.

Patterson said students staying away from classes had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college." If "such normalcy" is not restored, he added, "we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

Knoxville, Tenn., Journal
January 17, 1941

Students Call Food Strike At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19 (AP)—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphenalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Mobile, Ala., Press
January 15, 1941

Tuskegee Students Stage Food Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15.—(AP) An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for colored people, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are noncommital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

Advertiser
Montgomery, Ala.

Patrol Called As Tuskegee's Students Riot

JAN 17 1941

Noisy Band Threatens Bread Truck Driver; Ultimatum Is Issued

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 16.—(AP)—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Patrol Gets Complaint

The driver of a cracker and cookie truck complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa late today that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "we're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a.m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest, Patterson said, expressing belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

Refuse To Be Pacified

Earlier students had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college," but the president said they gathered in crowds about the campus, with "only a few" attending classes or taking meals in the dining hall.

Patrolman Huckabaa, reporting to State headquarters, said striking students threatened "to tear up the truck" if the driver attempted to unload at first. Chief Smith called Gov. Dixon in Birmingham and was advised, he said, that the truck be allowed to unload.

While conceding yesterday some students might not be getting as much variety as they wished in food, Dr. Patterson insisted it furnished a balanced diet and was palatable. He denied there was reason for complaint against quality or quantity.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., News
January 16, 1941

Students, Faculty To Discuss Tuskegee Meals

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16—(AP)—The campus of Tuskegee Institute bore posters bearing defiant sentiments today, while students and faculty prepared to discuss circumstances of a students' strike against dining-hall meals.

Several hundred students at the negro institution walked out of the dining-hall and stayed away from classes yesterday after complaining about the food.

A committee from the executive council and a joint committee of students and faculty members have been named to confer on the protest.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, who said he ate dinner with the students yesterday, declared the food was "palatable and wholesome."

Classes were being held on schedule, he said.

Patterson said students staying away from classes had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college." If "such normalcy" is not restored, he added, "we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

18y-1941
New York Age
New York, N. Y.

FIRE 49, ARREST 11 FOR STRIKING AT TUSKEGEE

New York Monroe N Comp

Quality And Quantity Of Food Given As Cause Of Students Action

JAN 25 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Life at Tuskegee Institute went back to normalcy on Monday morning, January 20th, following a student strike which began on Wednesday morning, January 15th and ended with the suspension of 49 students on Friday and the arrest for a few hours of 11 others the same day.

The strike followed distribution among the students of mimeographed statement which had been prepared by strike leaders Tuesday night. The strike was voted on in protest against the quality and quantity of food being served in the dining hall and was decided on despite the appearance of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, before a meeting of students in an effort to assure them that all grievances which they had presented would be given every consideration. After listening to Dr. Patterson the vote was to strike and the following statement circulated among the students:

Strikers Outline Plans

"Fellow students, the time has come for us to resort to the most potent method of persuasion that we know. That method is one where a group acts as one in respect to a matter that affects all. In simple terms it is necessary for us to execute a strike against the despicable conditions existing in the cafeteria.

"The proposed plan of events is as follows:

"Beginning Wednesday, January 15, 1941, no men will report to drill; No one will report to classes; No one will receive meals in the Dining Hall (until notice is received); The strike will last until the Executive Council notifies the students that action, favorable to the students has been taken.

"We, as students, feel that we have exercised every element of persuasion humanly possible to get action except the one outlined above. Obtaining no results from this attack, we feel that all of us, as students of Tuskegee Institute, should render an exhibition of our feeling concerning the Dining Hall problem. We want food of a better quality and in quantities that are suitable for the upkeep of the human body.

"No one need fear the matter concerning expulsion from school. We will continue to strike until any student who is sent away on this charge is re-admitted to school.

"In the notice received from the Executive Council, we want it stated that no personal grievances will be held against students who were rumored to be active participants in the strike.

"Please co-operate in the matter 100%, because anyone not joining up will take weight from the effect of this exhibition."

Wednesday morning between 500 and 600 students failed to report to classes, to their work and to the dining hall for meals. Students who attempted to go about their usual duties were prevented by some of the more active leaders of the strike. The executive council of the Institute met and offered to arbitrate the matter but strike leaders refused to accept the offer unless Dr. Patterson signed a statement promising that no investigation would be made, and that no student would be suspended for his activities in connection with the strike. Dr. Patterson refused to sign on the grounds that the strike was a flagrant violation of the rules of the Institute and no commitment not to punish strike leaders could be given.

State Police Called In

Thursday the strike became violent with renewed efforts on part of strike leaders to keep other students from classes, dining hall and work. The Executive Council issued a warning that all students absent from assigned duty or work after 7 a. m., Friday would be automatically suspended and required to leave the Institute grounds at once or face ejection by civil authorities. Officers of the State Highway Patrol were used to escort a truck making delivery to the dining hall.

JAN 25 1941

Friday morning, Dr. Patterson called in state police and officers from Montgomery and in the process of restoring order they arrested 11 students but all were released after a few hours without charge. At the same time 49 students were suspended for their activities in connection with the strike.

Sunday, the students went to chapel where the regular service was held without incident and on Monday morning the activities of the school proceeded as usual.

Forced To Act In Strike

Dr. F. D. PATTERSON

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

3-Day Strike Is Ended

State Troopers Leave Campus; To Question 100 Students

JAN 25 1941

(Special to TRIBUNE)

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala. — With Alabama State Troopers off the campus and the three-day strike 'for better food" ended at Tuskegee Institute, only whisperings remain to indicate that the entire story has not been told concerning last week's eruption at the famed school founded by Booker T. Washington.

Right now, local Tuskegeeans are not concerned with the facts. They are "too ashamed" that Tuskegee boys and girls — "would do a thing like that." "That is not the spirit of Tuskegee," they say. "What would Dr. Washington think of this?"

Other locals, including Tuskegeeans, are not pleased with the fact that white state troopers were called to the campus; they think some other way of handling students might have been found.

55 Booted Out

Of the students on strike, 55 were suspended on Saturday as "ringleaders," and 100 others must face questioning to determine what part they played in the student-institute breach. Chief among these is Henry Miller, editor of the student paper, who editorially attacked the quality of the food.

The expulsions of the students came after a four-hours' conference of the executive council of the school, and the exchange of telegrams between President Patterson and trustees, especially those living in the South.

Dr. Patterson estimated that 300 of the 1400 students refused to attend classes. The strike came on the day that Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among Negroes.

Meanwhile, the jailer here reported that he was still holding 11 Tuskegee students without formal charges after they had been arrested for intimidating other students who refused to strike.

The students were arrested by police who rushed to the school after being summoned by a truck driver, who, on delivering food to the dining hall, was unable to enter and was forced to turn back after being threatened by the students.

On the evening of January 14, according to Tuskegee's side, President Patterson voluntarily appeared before a meeting of students in an effort to assure them that all grievances which they had presented would be given every consideration. The students would accept no offer of arbitration and called a strike for last Wednesday morning. A large number of students failed to report to classes, to their work, and to the dining hall for meals.

Many of the students who attempted to go about their usual duties were prevented by some of the more active leaders of the strike. The executive council of Tuskegee Institute met Wednesday morning and issued the following statement:

"The southern trustees and members of the executive council of Tuskegee Institute regard the present strike on the part of members of the student body as unwarranted and unjustifiable. It occurred at a time when officials of the institute were in conference with representatives of the student body in an effort to adjust as far as possible and reasonable the complaints made. There was no indication that these negotiations were failing to attain the desired result.

"We feel under the circumstances that further consideration of this matter must be postponed until order is restored and students have resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institue as regards school and work. At such time the administration is willing to confer with representatives designated by the student body to reopen this matter.

"An answer to this communication is requested by 5:00 P. M. today."

The statement was signed by Dr. Patterson for the council.

The strike leaders refused to accept this offer of arbitration unless President Patterson signed a statement promising that no investigation would be made, and that no student would be suspended for his activities in connection with it. President Patterson refused to sign such a statement on the grounds that the strike was a flagrant violation of the rules of Tuskegee Institute, and therefore no commitment not to punish those responsible could be given.

On Thursday the strike, in the eyes of the institute, was taking on certain aspects of violence because of the efforts of the strike leaders to keep the students from classes, the dining hall, and work, Thursday morning the following additional statement was issued to the Student Council by the executive council:

"In view of the present situation existing among members, of the student body in that they declare themselves to be on strike, the southern trustees and the Executive Council of Tuskegee Institute hereby advise that all such students absent from assigned duty, either school or work after 7:00 A.M., Friday, January 17, 1941, will be automatically suspended from Tuskegee Institute.

"Suspended students are required to leave the grounds of the institute at once. Those not doing so without good and sufficent reasons will be regarded as trespassers and subject to ejection by civil authorities. Damage to Tuskegee Institute property will be similarly treated as an infraction of the law.

"It is our sincere hope that the good judgment which has characterized Tuskegee students in the past will make the drastic measures described above unnecessary."

Friday morning efforts of students to return to classes were prevented by striking students, who gathered at classrooms entrances brandishing knives and using clubs, an official release by Tuskegee states. Threats to damage and destroy property of Tuskegee Institute were frequently made as well as threats of physical injury to students not on strike.

After repeated efforts to have striking students return to their dormitories and remain orderly had failed, the executive council decided that the strike had created a situation of violence that the school could not control, and that it was necessary to call the civil authorities. The officers on arrival were urged to treat the students with consideration and to use force only as a last resort.

On Friday afternoon quiet prevailed on the campus, all civil officials had withdrawn, and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee Institute.

On Sunday the students went to chapel where the regular service was held.

Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these past days from parents all over the nation inquiring on the state of affairs, or urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskegee Institute and to remain in school.

The action of the executive council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon.

The only complaint which the students voiced was one regarding the quality of food served them. Officials contend that this complaint is unwarranted; that Tuskegee maintains one of the best boarding systems of any school in the country; that food is served in cafeteria style and that the student diners have a wide variety from which to choose.

Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union
January 20, 1941

Strike Ends At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19, (AP) — Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge negro college's 1400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Highway patrolmen were placed on duty at the school after the strike developed Wednesday, but Capt. N. W. Kimbrough said tonight all had been withdrawn except two regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Dr. Patterson said that in addition to those suspended, approximately 20 had been placed on probation.

One of those suspended, Wilbur Hines, Wilmington, N. C., vice president of the student council, termed the strike a "success" and declared that "we were assured there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes (resulting from the strike) would not be punished."

Dr. Patterson said the strike had "very little basis," that the food served in the dining hall was "palatable and wholesome."

The Union
Cincinnati, Ohio

Negro Students Strike, Now Settled !

JAN 28 1941

Tuskegee, Ala. (AP)—A number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institution of learning for Negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparentl want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."—Enquirer.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Suspended Tuskegee Students Go Home

JAN 21 1941

Students suspended from Tuskegee Inst., because they were accused of participating in a four-day food strike last week were en-route to their respective homes Monday.

Corris R. Landers, one of the students under suspension, paused in Atlanta before continuing to his home in Chattanooga. Before leaving the campus, Landers was president of the sophomore class president of the campus cooperative shop and an acting member of the student council.

He said he and several others of the 17 council members were notified of their suspensions Friday evening.

APPROXIMATELY 75 SUSPENDED

He estimated that approximately 75 students were suspended. At least 40 were boys, Landers declared. All were given railroad transportation, he revealed.

He said several students were put on probation and many others were still being questioned by faculty members.

Landers, in a statement to the WORLD, declared the student council did not start the strike, but the students themselves after hearing a report from the council which quoted President Patterson saying he would rectify food conditions in 3 or 5 months.

Male members of the strike purchased food from stores and fed girls, he added.

OFFICERS ACCUSED OF INCITEMENT

Landers blamed highway patrolmen for stirring the strike to a high pitch. He said the patrolmen angered students by waving pistols in the faces of girl students and offending them.

He accused the officers of striking one male student and knocking down a foreign student.

The eleven students who were arrested were dismissed the same day, the suspnded Tuskegee student reported. He denied that one boy was slashed claiming the victim merely suffered a scratch on his hand.

The strike began, he said, because students claimed the food was not prepared in the right manner and that regulations for the girls were too strict.

Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, and James Woodson, described by Landers as a brilliant scholar, were among those suspended, Landers said.

Star of Zion
Charlotte, N. C.

TUSKEGEE STRIKE OVER

JAN 23 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20 — The strike here over food came to an end Sunday night, Jan. 19th, according to President F. D. Patterson. Classes were normally resumed Monday morning.

But the strike did not end without some penalties. Fifty-five student were actually suspended and twenty were put on probation.

It is admitted here that at least 1,400 boys and girls took part in the rebellion against the food and service in the dining room which they termed was too strict. The highway patrolman who had to be called in to quell the disturbance, according to Capt. M. W. Kimbrough, except the two who are regularly on duty in the vicinity.

Telegraph
Macon, Georgia

Tuskegee Food Strike Reported to Be Over

JAN 20 1941

TUSKEGEE, Ala., [AP]—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said Sunday night a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow.

News
Birmingham, Ala.

'Food Is No Good,' Say Tuskegee Students As Strike Continues

Several Hundred Walk From Lunchroom Because They Don't Like The Menu

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Walking out of a lunchroom where liver and onions, cabbage and bacon, peas, cornbread, salad and dessert were on the menu, several hundred students of famed Tuskegee Institute here were on strike Thursday, protesting that the "food is no good."

The Negro students paraded the campus with banners while school authorities called roll in the classrooms to determine who were away.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the school which was founded by Booker T. Washington, said he had dropped into the dining room for lunch Wednesday and found the meal adequate and palatable. He said complaints reaching him said nothing about the quantity of food.

JAN 16 1941

Meanwhile, committees from the executive council and the students and faculty members have been named to confer on the food protest.

Dr. Patterson said all classes were being held on schedule despite many absences. He said students staying away from classes had been invited to resume normal relations with the school and added that if such normalcy were not restored, "we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The student strike began as high dignitaries from throughout the nation gathered at the institution to dedicate a center for the study of dread poliomylitis (infantile paralysis).

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
January 19, 1941

50 Suspended In Tuskegee Student Strike

20 Others Placed On Probation; Quiet Prevails

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today and the president said "all students, except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

"We were assured," the Wilmington, N. C., student said, "there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes would not be punished. If possible, I'm going to return to Tuskegee."

Shortly after the strike developed Wednesday, Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis" and declared he found the food both "palatable and wholesome" when he took lunch with the students the day before. The student newspaper, Campus Topics, criticized the food and handling of it a week ago.

Among those suspended, Dr. Patterson listed Editor Henry Miller, of Campus Topics, and Cadet-Colonel Earl Williams, of the R. O. T. C. unit.

One student was slashed with a knife and 11 jailed temporarily without charge yesterday in disorders developing as strikers attempted to prevent others from attending classes.

State Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith, who headed a detail sent to reinforce local authortiies, estimated 800 of the college's 1,400 students joined the strike

Quiet prevailed across the wide campus today and students moved orderly to and from scheduled Saturday classes.

Dr. Patterson held out some hope of reinstatement for those suspended, but said those taken back would be considered on "an individual, merit basis."

Spartanburg, S. C., Herald
January 16, 1941

TUSKEGEE NEGRO STUDENTS STRIKE BECAUSE OF FOOD

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 15 (AP).—Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, struck today, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said tonight that 300 to 400 of the 1,400 students joined a strike he declared has "very little basis."

The difficulty, the negro educator said, was "incited by an ugly editorial" in the student paper.

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders and that those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college."

If such normalcy is restored, he added, "we'll go into the matter of the food further, but if not we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The college president "dropped in" at the college dining hall, where about 1,000 students eat, and had dinner with them yesterday. He said the meal for the students included liver and onions, cabbage cooked with bacon, peas, cornbread, choice of salad (potato or lettuce and tomato) and choice of dessert (apple cobbler or jello).

"The food was palatable and wholesome," he said. "They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity."

Clases were held on schedule, despite many absences.

The strike occurred as Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of the disease. Patterson said the student difficulty interfered in no way with the ceremonies.

Miami, Fla. Herald
January 18, 1941

Tuskeegee Expels 49 Food Strikers

TUSKEEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17. (AP)—After a conference lasting more than four hours, the executive council of the Tuskeegee Institute Friday voted to dismiss summarily 49 students and to question 100 others in connection with a strike against food served in the college dining hall.

President F. D. Patterson said after the meeting that the 49 students to be expelled were ringleaders of the strike, in which several hundred refused to report for classes during the past three days.

Students to be questioned, he said, may be suspended or expelled if their connection with the strike is definitely shown. Among them is Henry Miller, editor of the college newspaper, which ran an editorial attacking the quality of the service and food at the hall.

Savannah, Ga., News
January 17, 1941

TUSKEGEE STRIKE BRINGS POLICEMEN

COMPLAIN ABOUT FOOD

Ultimatum Issued By Council of Institute

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16 (AP).—State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of noisy, striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes, and Dr. Patterson said they gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The driver of a cracker and cookie truck complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa late today that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "we're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a. m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest, Patterson said, expressing belief the strikers had "started something they don't know how to finish."

Earlier students had been invited to "resume normal relations with the college," but the president said they gathered in crowds about the campus, with "only a few" attending classes or taking meals in the dining hall.

Anderson, S. C., Independent Trib
January 19, 1941

Fifty Tuskegee Students Ousted

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18—(AP)—The Tuskegee institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge Negro college, reported today more than 50 students had been suspended in connection with a four-day strike now apparently ended.

Anderson, S. C., Independent Trib
January 16, 1941

Negro Students Out On Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15 —(AP)—Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negroes, struck today, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
January 17, 1941

Patrolmen Called a Tuskegee Strike

TUSKEGEE, Jan. 17—(AP)—The jailer he[re] today he was holding [illegible] students witho[ut] [illegible] institute after additional d[e]tails of Alabama State patrolmen sped here as a precaution against disorder in the strike of students at the negro college.

The jailer said officers brought the students in, but these officers could not be reached immediately to determine why the youths were jailed.

Additional patrolmen, including Chief T. Weller Smith, rushed here from Montgomery and Birmingham when they received reports students attempting to attend classes were being "intimidated" by strikers.

Orlando, Fla., Morning Sentinel
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Strike Definitely Ended

TUSKEGEE [AP] Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said last night a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions today.

Approximately 55 were suspended Saturday as strike leaders, after many of the huge negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining hall, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Free Press
January 17, 1941

Striking Students Face Suspension at Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP).—Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the Negro college's dining hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all students "not at work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. He asserted he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

Ft. Myers, Fla., News Press
January 19, 1941

Students Settle Tuskegee Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18—(AP)—The Tuskegee institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today and the president said "all students, except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

"We were assured," the Wilmington, N. C., student said, "there would be improved conditions in the dining hall and cuts from classes would not be punished. If possible, I'm going to return to Tuskegee."

Shortly after the strike developed Wednesday, Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis" and declared he found the food both "palatable and wholesome" when he took lunch with the students the day before. The student newspaper, Campus Topics, criticized the food and handling of it a week ago.

Savannah, Ga., News
January 16, 1941

STUDENTS STRIKE AGAINST THE FOOD

AT TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Between 300 and 400 Students Join Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15 (AP).—Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negroes, struck today, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said tonight that 300 to 400 of the 1,400 students joined a strike he declared has "very little basis."

The difficulty, the negro educator said, was "incited by an ugly editorial" in the student paper.

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders and that those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college."

If such normalcy is restored, he added, "we'll go into the matter of the food further, but if not we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

The college president "dropped in" at the college dining hall, where about 1,000 students eat, and had dinner with them yesterday. He said the meal for the students included liver and onions, cabbage cooked with bacon, peas, cornbread, choice of salad (potato or lettuce and tomato) and choice of dessert (apple cobbler or jello).

"The food was palatable and wholesome," he said. "They apparently want more variety, and are non-committal about quantity."

Classes were held on schedule, despite many absences.

The strike occurred as Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of the disease.

Patterson said the student difficulty interfered in no way with the ceremonies.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.
FEB 1 1941

STRIKE AT TUSKEGEE

THE DISTURBING NEWS of a student strike at Tuskegee Institute and the calling in of state police were a shock to many who have looked upon Tuskegee as the best disciplined institution for Negroes in the world. As yet the merits of the controversy have not been fully determined, and we are unable to say whether or not the student strike was justifiable.

But whereever the fault lies, it seems to us that the strike is a symbol of the unrest, the growing pains, through which any organization must pass. To understand the situation, one must realize that Tuskegee has changed with the past decade from an industrial school with emphasis on agriculture and teacher-training to a full-fledged college with courses offered in many subjects. Once controlled by a strict military discipline, the student body has been granted more freedom during the past few years than many of the old grads ever dream of having. Naturally the young people take their student organizations seriously and when others fail to do so, there is resentment and misunderstanding.

The boarding department of the institution has changed considerably also, with a student cafeteria taking the place of the dining hall and the students given much latitude as to what they may eat. One of the complaints of the students was that the food was of poor quality but it seems to us that this was unlikely, since one of the new courses offered was for the training of cooks and waiters and the preparation of foodstuff. Naturally the instructors in this course would want their students to have only the best material with which to work.

Potentially Tuskegee is the greatest educational institution of the race. Being located in the heart of the South, it has opportunity to have the largest student body. With the U. S. Veterans Hospital and the recently established hospital for infantile paralysis, it is ideally situated for a medical and nurse training school. Its agricultural and extension departments have long been of great benefit to southern farmers; and it has some of the best facilities for teacher and library training work. And recently the federal government appropriated a million dollars for the establishment of an airport for the training of Negroes in the science of aviation.

The unique thing about Tuskegee is that it was built and so far has been run entirely by a Negro faculty and student body. It is in reality the largest Negro community in this country and Negroes everywhere take pride in this fact.

Because of the pioneer work done at Tuskegee by the late Dr. Booker T. Washington and his successor, the late Dr. Robert R. Moton, the work at Tuskegee cannot be permitted to go down. It is our sincere hope that the present trouble will be speedily adjusted and the school will go on to even greater heights.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Tuskegee Students Strike Over Cafeteria Conditions

Over 600 Of 1,000 Men In Protest

JAN 16 1941

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS—Wire)—Protesting against what they termed the "despicable conditions existing in the cafeteria" more than six hundred of Tuskegee's 1,000 male students failed to report for drill or classes Wednesday morning.

The strike was called as the aftermath of a caustic editorial severely criticizing the students of Commercial Dietetics department who operate the cafeteria. The editorial appeared in the Saturday's issue of the campus digest, which calls itself the "voice of Tuskegee students."

The students shortly before noon Wednesday were milling in front of the postoffice building which also houses President Patterson's office, during a special session of the school's Executive council. No announcement was forthcoming following the meeting as to exactly what action the council, headed by Dr. Patterson, will take.

"The students really have no kick coming about the food that is served in the cafeteria," Dr. Patterson declared shortly after the meeting. "Some of them would kick even on bacon and eggs every morning. I am sure you will find the food we serve our students would compare favorable with any served on any campus in the country."

No action has yet been taken to repress the striking students, Dr. Patterson said, pending an investigation by a committee of the Executive council. The basketball game with Xavier went on as usual.

Dr. Patterson, Wednesday afternoon in receipt of one letter concerning the cafeteria, in which it was termed "good enough for Rockefeller" the letter was from Dr. John A. Kenney, Medical Director of the school, who made an unannounced inspection of the students dining hall Wed. noon

Dr. Kenney's letter read further: "My visit was just after the dinner hour when the workers were busy cleaning up from the midday meal. Some were handling utensils, some were preparing foods, some were sweeping, some scrubbing, but everybody was busy and I doubt not that if my visit had been one or two hours later everything would have been in precise order.

JAN 16 1941

"I closely inspected several of the young men, their hands and nails, and in none did I find anything approaching the malediction put upon them. This, also includes the uniforms."

The strike was called Wednesday when mysteriously appearing on all of the school's bulletin boards were unsigned mimeographed statements which read in part:

"Fellow students, the time has come for us to resort to the most potent method of persuasion that we know. That method is one where a group acts as one in respect to a matter thatt affects all. In simple terms, it is necessary for us to execute a strike against the despicable conditions existing in the cafeteria."

JAN 16 1941

The notice then setup a four point program of action which included the refusal to report for driff, the refuse to attend classes, the refusal to eat in the dining hall and the basis under which the students will call off the strike

This was that the Executive council notify the students that "action favorable to the students has been taken."

The call to strike read further: "We as students feel that we have exercised every element of persuasion humanly possible to get action except the one outlined above, obtaining no results from this attack. We feel that all of us as students of Tuskegee Institute, should render an exhibition of our feeling concerning the dining hall problem. We want food of a better quality and in quantities that are suitable for the upkeep of the human body.

The strike was the actual outgrowth of a fued between the students of the Dietary department and of the trades department, it was learned. The school and other students were innocent victims of the conflict.

Commercial Appeal
Memphis, Tennessee

TUSKEGEE'S STUDENTS STRIKE OVER RATIONS

More Than 300 Skip lasses In Food Protest

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Protesting against food they are served, several hundred students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for negores, struck Wednesday, staying away from classes and many refusin gto eat the the college dining hall.

JAN 16 194

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said Wednesday night that 300 to 400 of the 1400 students joined a strike he declared had "very little basis."

JAN 16 194

The difficulty, the negro educator said, was' "incited by an ugly editorial" in the student paper.

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders, and that those away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college.

JAN 16 1941

If such normalcy is restored, he added, "we'll go into the matter of food further, but if not, we do not intend to discuss the matter further."

Constitution
Atlanta, Georgia

600 Tuskegee Students Stage Food Walkout

JAN 17 1941

Patrolmen Go to College After Trucker Is Threatened.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP) State patrolmen were rushed here late today as a band of striking students at Tuskegee Institute were reported to have threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the Negro college's dining hall.

Unloading finally was accomplished without incident, while eight patrolmen, equipped with riot paraphernalia, looked on.

The strikers, whose ranks Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, estimated to number 500 to 600, started demonstrations yesterday in protest of food served in the dining hall.

They refused to attend classes and gathered in noisy crowds today while the remainder of the institute's 1,400 students went about their studies and chores. The president said he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

The truck driver complained to State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa that the strikers had warned him against unloading, and the officer said they told him "We're running this end of it" when he went to investigate. A call to Montgomery headquarters brought five officers from there and two from Opelika.

Meanwhile, an ultimatum was issued by the institute's executive council, and Dr. Patterson announced:

"The institute has taken the definite stand that all students not at work or in class at 7 a. m. will be automatically suspended."

The council has been meeting "every two or three hours" with student representatives in an effort to end the protest.

SUSPEND 30 OF STRIKERS AT TUSKEGEE

St. Louis Argus

St. Louis, Mo.

JAN 24 1941

StudentsInDemonstration At Famous School

JAN 24 1941

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 21.—(From the Evansville branch of the St. Louis Argus).

Thomas Bronson, a member of the Freshman Class of Tuskegee, is now in the city. He was excused to come home on account of the acute conditions at the Alabama school. Mr. Bronson stated that the leaders of the strike were suspended and that over 1,200 students are now on strike with nearly every one of them, returning to their respective homes. Continuing, he stated that the State Militia of Alabama was called in by the President of the school in an attempt to create order. Thirty of the students were suspended.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—Several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute struck Wednesday in protest against food they are being served here in the dining hall. They are refusing to go to class, to work, to drill and to chapel exercises, and until the president, faculty and students come to terms, the strike will continue. The students are striking for, (1) better and more palatable food, (2) a new Dean of Men, (3) less restrictions on the girls, (4) faculty regards for the rights of the students.

There are over 1,000 students on strike with about 100 protesting the same and about 310 on neutral side. The students have just climaxed another meeting and it was definitely decided that the strike will continue.

Students are blocking the dining halls and classrooms and are urging other students to keep away from their respective work. Yesterday, January 15, the streets were blocked by the strikers and the automobiles of faculty members and others were not permitted to pass through the campus.

No one is eating and collections are being taken up every morning, with which food is purchased to feed the students. January 16, the students pooled their collections and the total sum of $57.34 was counted. The alumni of the school are being sent requests for aid in all ways. More than one thousand telegrams have been sent to friends and alumni of the school, and the response has been very favorable.

The student council, composed of the leading students of the campus, are leading the strike. In an effort to break the strike, notices have been posted by the authorities, stating that unless the strike is broken up, the student body will be sent home. The strikers booed and smeared the notices, declaring, 'that such was improbable.'

With the help of the alumni, the girl students who contributed the sum of $57 and some teachers who have contributed as much as $25, and the general spirit of the strikers, some decision will have to be made in favor of the council.

A street dance has been scheduled for tonight (Thursday.)

In an interview at the Argus offices Monday evening (January 20) with J. Wendell Holder, managing editor of the Argus, Mr. Bronson, a Tuskegee Institute student who left the Alabama institution Sunday afternoon, stated that the majority of the students are leaving the school for their homes. He stated, "I have talked with several of the students, who have been at the school for two or more years and they stated, 'this trouble has been brewing at the school since 1936 because of the unheard-of restrictions placed on the girl students and the poor food.

"A student from Earlington, Ky., found a roach in his food several days ago, which might be termed as the breaking point for this tension.'

"Students at Tuskegee want a chance to actually participate in the programs of the school, without being dictated to by the faculty members. The strike leaders plan to carry on the fight for better living conditions at the school, at their respective home-towns.'

"I am not sure as to just when the strike will be settled, but I believe it will take some four or five weeks. The students want the president of the school to resign as they believe his being placed in office was in direct contrast to the plans which would have placed some other more qualified person in that seat." Geo. Culver, another local student, is at the Alabama school, but is expected to return home soon.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

49 SUSPENDED BY TUSKEGEE AFTER STRIKE

Other Students Return to Classes; Complained About Food

184

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, —Forty-nine students were suspended from Tuskegee institute Friday, January 17, when they refused to return to classes following settlement of the strike which had kept the campus in confusion for two days.

The remainder of the 200 or 300 strikers returned to classes and to meals on Friday after the executive council of Tuskegee issued an ultimatum that all students absent from assigned duty after 7 a. m. Friday would be automatically suspended. JAN 24 1941

The strike began Wednesday following the appearance of an editorial in the student paper criticizing the food served to the students. A mimeographed statement circulated among the students by student strike leaders said:

"Fellow students, the time has come for us to resort to the most potent method of persuasion that we know That method is one where a group acts as one in respect to a matter that affects all. In simple terms, it is necessary for us to execute a strike against the despicable conditions existing in the cafeteria

"The proposed plan of events is as follows:

1.—Beginning Wednesday, Jan. 15, no men will report to drill.

2.—No one will report to classes.

3.—No one will receive meals in the dining hall.

4.—The strike will last until the executive council notifies the students that action, favorable to the students, has been taken.

We, as students, feel that we have exercised every element of persuasion humanly

Used All Methods

possible to get action except the one outlined above. Obtaining no results from this attack, we feel that all of us, as students of Tuskegee institute, should render an exhibition of our feeling concerning the dining hall problem We want food of a better quality and in quantities that are suitable for the upkeep of the human body.

No one need fear the matter concerning expulsion from school. We will continue to strike until any student who is sent away on this charge is readmitted to school.

In the notice received from the executive council, we want it stated that no personal grievances will be held against students who were rumored to be active participants in the strike.

Say Complaint Unwarranted JAN 24 1941

Officials of the school contended that the complaint about food was unwarranted; that Tuskegee maintains one of the best boarding systems of any school in the country and that the food is served in cafeteria style, giving the student diners a wide variety from which to choose.

The officials stated further that had there been any dissatisfaction regarding food, the students had every right and privilege to bring it up through the regular channels of student government and to have any adjustment made which was deemed riht and possible.

President Patterson when interviewed said that only 200 or 300 of the 1,400 students were engaged in the strike. Those questioned apparently wanted more variety, he said, but had no objection to the amount which they had been served.

Tuskegee's students are enrolled in a cadet corps through which physical exercise and normal discipline are exercised. They also have a complete student governing body which is presumed to voice their satisfaction or dissatisfaction with any phase of school life. Officials condemn the failure of the students to use this machinery in normal fashion and said that any students who did not return to classes and normal school routine by Friday were to face dismissal.

Offered Hearing

President Patterson offered a full hearing to any student who felt he had a grievance but r used the demand of the studer that no punishment or discipline be meted out to the leaders of the strike.

State patrolmen were called to maintain order after striking students sought to intimidate students who wished to return to their classes.

JAN 24 1941

Appears Before Group

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 14, President Patterson voluntarily appeared before a meeting of students in an effort to assure them that all grievances which they had presented would be given every consideration. The students would accept no offer of arbitration and called a strike for Wednesday morning. A large number of students failed to report to classes, to their work, and to the dining hall for meals. Many of the students who attempted to go about their usual duties were prevented by some more active leaders of the strike.

Issue Statement

The executive council of Tuskegee institute met Wednesday morning and issued the following statement:

"To the Student Council:

The Southern Trustees and members of the Executive Council of Tuskegee institute regard the present strike on the part of members of the student body as unwarranted and unjustifiable. It occurred at a time when officials of the institute were in conference with representatives of the student body in an effort to adjust as far as possible and reasonable the complaints made. There was no indication that these negotiations were failing to attain the desired result

We feel under the circumstances that further consideration of this matter must be postponed until order is restored and students have resumed their normal relations with Tuskegee institute as regards school and work. At such time the administration is willing to confer with representatives designated by the student body to reopen this matter.

An answer to this communication is requested by 5 p.m., today.

Very truly yours,
The Executive Council,
F. D. PATTERSON Pres.

The strike leaders refused to accept this offer of arbitration unless President Patetrson signed a statement promising that no investigation would be made, and that no student would be suspended for his activities in conection with it.

President Patetrson refused to sign such a staement on the grounds that he strike was a flagrant violation of the rules of Tuskegee institute, and therefore no commitment not punish those responsible could be given.

On Thursday the strike was taking on certain aspects of violence because of the efforts of the strike leaders to keep the students from classes, the dining hall, and work Thursday morning the following additional statement was issued to the students by the Executive council: JAN 24 1941

"To the Student Council:

In view of the present situation existing among members of the student body in that they declare themselves to be on strike, the Southern Trustees and the Executive council of Tuskegee institute hereby advise that all such students absent from assigned duty either school or work after 7 a.m., Friday, January 17, will be automatically suspended from Tuskegee institute.

Suspended students are required to leave the grounds of the institute at once. Those not doing so without good and sufficient reasons will be regarded as trespassers and subject to ejection by civil authorities. Damage to Tuskegee institute property will be similarly treated as an infraction of the law.

It is our sincere hope that the good judgment which has characterized Tuskege students in the past will make the drastic measures lescribed above unnecessary.

Very truly yours,
Executive Council
|s| F. D. Patetrson
President."

Thursday afternoon, a group of students prevented the truck of a commercial company from making a delivery to the Dining hall. The driver of the truck summoned officers of the state highway patrol, and made his delivery under their protection.

Friday morning efforts of students to return to classes were prevented by striking students, who gathered at classrom entrances brandishing knives and using clubs. Threats to damage and destroy the property of Tuskege institute were frequently made as well as threats of physical injury to students not on strike.

After repeated efforts to have striking students return to their dormitories and remain orderly had failed, the executive council decided that the strike had created a situation of violence that the school could not control, and that it was necessary to call the civil authorities. The officers on arrival were urged to treat the students with consideration to this request were given. In the process of restoring order 11 students were arrested but were released after a few hours wtihout charge.

The executive council voted to suspended 49 students for their activities in connection with the strike.

On Friday afternoon quiet prevailed on the campus, all civil officials had withdrawn ,and many of the students had resumed their normal relations with Tuskege institute.

Sunday, Januar 19, the students went to chapel where the regular service was held. The activities of the school are now proceeding as usual.

Telephone calls and telegrams have come during these days from parents all over the nation urging their children to obey the rules of Tuskege institute and to remain in school. These messages have strongly endorsed the action taken by the executive council of Tuskee institute.

The action of the executive council received the unanimous approval of the entire faculty assembled in a meeting Saturday afternoon.

Albany, Ga., Herald
January 18, 1941

Four-Day-Old Student Strike Ends at Tuskegee

49 Students, Accused As Strike Leaders, Are Suspended.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 18 (AP).—Its four-day-old student strike apparently ended with the suspension of 49 accused as leaders, Tuskegee Institute, one of the nation's largest Negro college, opened normally today.

Quiet prevailed across the wide campus and Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said the situation "definitely is under control." Students moved orderly toward such Saturday classes as were scheduled.

The strike, which resulted in one youth being slashed with a knife and 11 being jailed temporarily without charge, was blamed by protesting students to food served in the college dining hall and to what they termed "too-strict" regulations.

Doctor Patterson, contending there was "very little basis" for the protest, declared the food was both "palatable and wholesome." He ate with the students Tuesday.

College authorities reported receipt of scores of wires and calls from parents asking them to advise sons and daughters they were not supporting the strike and urging the students to observe orders.

Doctor Patterson said late last night he believed the incident, involving many of the institute's 1,400 students, was "rapidly coming to a conclusion."

He said the 49 pupils suspended as alleged strike leaders might be taken back "on an individual merit basis." Name of the youth injured in the cutting affray was not revealed, but it was understood he was not seriously hurt.

A squad of state highway patrolmen remained on duty in the vicinity of the school. The campus was quiet, but patrolmen stood by.

Rome, Ga. News-Tribune
January 20, 1941

Tuskegee Student Body Strike Brought To End

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 20.—(INS)—Strike of several hundred students at Tuskegee Institute, famed negro school, "has definitely ended," and classes will be resumed under normal conditions today, F. D. Patterson, president of the institute, announced.

The school president stated that a number of the strike leaders had been suspended after several hundred of the 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food served in the school cafeteria and what the strikers termed "to strict" regulations.

The strike was climaxed with the stabbing of one student and the arrest of approximately a dozen others.

Spartanburg, S. C., Herald
January 18, 1941

STRIKING NEGRO STUDENTS SLASH ONE, 11 ARRESTED

49 Leaders Suspended After Those Wanted to Attend Classes Kept Away

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP).—Disorders among striking Tuskegee institute students resulted today in one youth being slashed with a knife and the arrest of 11 before law enforcement officers succeeded in restoring quiet on the campus of the big negro college.

While a score of officers guarded the grounds and environs, Dr. F. D Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded strikers' threats and attempted to attend a class. Officers said the 11 were jailed after defying orders to disband and clear building entrances.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1,400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food severed in the college cafeteria where 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said the disorders had "very little basis," that the food was palatable and wholesome."

The institute president said strikers blocked entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes. He added that strikers made open threats against students trying to enter and said girl students as well as men were intimidated.

All of those arrested were released later without formal charges having been preferred against them. The injured student was not hurt seriously. Neither his name nor that of his assailant was revealed.

Dr. Patterson announced tonight 49 strike leaders had been suspended indefinitely and added that any allowed to return would be taken back "on an individual, merit basis." Students were warned that those who congregated about buildings "will be taken care of by the police."

Knoxville, Tenn., Journal
January 18, 1941

One Negro Is Slashed In Tuskegee Institute Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17 (AP)—Quiet prevailed tonight on the campus of Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negroes, after disorders of striking students resulted in one youth being slashed by a knife and 11 jailed.

Around a score officers guarded the campus and environs. State patrolmen brought in riot equipment.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, said a student was slashed as he disregarded threats of the strikers and attempted to attend a class. The 11 were put in jail, officers said, after they defied orders to disband and clear entrances to college buildings. Two were released shortly after noon.

The strikers blocked the entrances to prevent non-strikers from attending classes, Dr. Patterson reported, saying that the strikers made open threats against students trying to enter. He charged girl students as well as men were intimidated.

Patrol Chief T. Weller Smith estimated 800 of the 1400 students were not in classes today. The strike began Wednesday in protest against food served in the college cafeteria where around 1,000 students eat. Dr. Patterson said it had "very little basis," that the food was "palatable and wholesome."

The College Council decided that all students who cause further disturbance will be suspended.

Huntsville, Ala. Times
January 15, 1941

Negro Students On Food 'Strike'

Between 200 And 300 At Tuskegee Refuse To Attend Classes

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15 (AP)—An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." he added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

About 1,000 of the institution's students eat in the college dining hall.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he expected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies.

Classes were reported going on as usual, although some had a substantial number of students absent.

Dr. Patterson and other college authorities were in conference shortly before noon in an effort to find a satisfactory solution to the difficulty.

Tupelo, Miss. News
January 16, 1941

Food Strike At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Protesting against food they are served, several hundreds of students at Tuskegee Institute, huge college for Negroes, struck Wednesday, staying away from classes and many refusing to eat at the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, said Wednesday night that 300 to 400 of the 1,400 students joined the strike which he declared rad "very little basis."

The difficulty, the Negro educator said was "incited by an ugly editorial in the student paper, and he added: "There is nothing inadequate about the diet provided the students. It is wholesome. The complaining students have no real case. There is very little basis for their accusations. We're not perfect, but we're doing all we can."

Dr. Patterson said conferences had been held with some of the strike leaders, that all away from classes had been "invited to resume normal relations with the college." If such normalcy is restored, he said, "we'll go into the matter of the food further, but if not we do not intend to discuss he matter further."

The college president "dropped in" at the college dining hall, where about 1,000 students eat, and had dinner with them Tuesday. He said the meal for the students incldded: Liver and onions, cabbage cooked with bacon, peas, cornbread, choice of salad (potato or lettuce and tomato) and choice of dessert (apple cobbler or jello).

"The food was palatable and wholesome," he said.

"They apparently want more variety, and are non-commital about quantity," Dr. Patterson observed. "The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

Classes were held on schedule, despite many absences. 'We are checking the rolls," Dr. Patterson said, "to get the names of those failing to attend the classes."

The strike occurred as Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 infantile paralysis center, for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of the disease. The college president said the student difficulty interfered in no way with the ceremonies.

Tupelo, Miss. Journal
January 18, 1941

COLLEGE EXPELS 50 STUDENTS WHO LED FOOD STRIKE

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17—(U.P.)—The executive council of Tuskegee Institute today suspended nearly 50 students, "ringleaders" in a three-day strike of 1,400 students against dining hall food in this negro college which pioneered in the South in courses training cooks and waiters for hotels.

One student suffered a minor stab wound and 16 were arrested during outbreaks of disorder accompanying the strike.

Fourteen Alabama highway patrolmen, under State Safety Director T. Weller Smith, were posted here to aid sheriff's deputies to maintain order.

President F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee tonight believed suspension of the "between 40 and 50" students had broken the strike. The executive council planned to question 100 others tomorrow and Patterson believed "20 to 30" more would be suspended—sent home but permitted to apply for reinstatement.

Troy, Ala., Messenger
January 15, 1941

Tuskegee Institute Students 'Strike' Because Of Food

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 15—(AP)—A number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for negroes, "struck" today, refusing to attend classes in protest against the food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. B. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 students refused to attend classes.

Hattiesburg, Miss. American
January 17, 1941

STRIKING STUDENTS THREATENED WITH SUSPENSION

(By Associated Press)

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 17.—Several hundred Tuskegee Institute students, striking against the negro college's dining hall food, faced the prospect today of being suspended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president who estimated there were 500 to 600 students on strike, announced that all students "not at with riot equipment, were rushed to the school late yesterday following reports that striking students work or in class" today "will be automatically suspended."

Eight state patrolmen, equipped threatened a truck driver who sought to unload a cargo of food at the dining hall.

State Patrolman C. C. Huckabaa said unloading of the truck finally was accomplished without incident.

President Patterson said the remainder of the school's 1,400 students are attending classes. He asserted that he ate with the students Tuesday and found the food "palatable and wholesome."

News
Birmingham, Ala.

Tuskegee Students On Strike Over Food

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(AP)—An undetermined number of students at Tuskegee Institute, one of the world's largest institutions of higher learning for Negroes, "struck" Wednesday, refusing to attend classes in a protest against food served in the college dining hall.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee president, estimated 200 to 300 of the 1,400 refused to attend classes. Several did not show up for breakfast and lunch in the dining hall.

Dr. Patterson said the trouble resulted from "a little dissatisfaction over meals." He added:

"They apparently want more variety, and are noncommittal about quantity. The main thing, I think, is they've been reading about strikes and wanted to try one themselves."

JAN 15 1941

About 1,000 of the institution's students eat in the college dining hall.

The "strike" came on the day Tuskegee was dedicating its new $161,350 center for research and instruction of Negro physicians and nurses for treatment of infantile paralysis among Negroes. Many prominent persons were here for the dedication. Dr. Patterson said he expected the situation would cause no interference with the dedication ceremonies.

Classes were reported going on as usual, although some had a substantial number of students absent.

Amsterdam News
New York, N. Y.

Reveal Causes Behind Troubles at Tuskegee

FEB 1 1941

FEB 1 1941

TUSKEGEE, ALA.—That the students participating in the recent strike at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama over the type of food which is served had reason for their drastic action, became evident this week after the Star and Amsterdam News interviewed several former students of the school and one man who is close to the present administration.

Offered a chance to state the position of the administration on the strike, which was quelled last week after the state militia was called in, President F. D. Patterson on Tuesday telegraphed the following message to the paper:

"Thanks for your letter and offer. We have no further statement to make at this time."

Revealing the acute financial crisis the school faces, a man close to the administration remarked this week:

"Tuskegee could serve better food, but who is going to pay for it?"

He went on to say that since the Patterson administration, came to power, wealthy white philanthropists have become less interested in the school and that money was not coming in in such enormous sums as it did under Booker T. Washington and during the early days of Dr. Patterson's predecessor, Dr. Robert R. Moton. The revenue from the students' fee, $20 a month for board, room, he said, barely covered their individual maintenance.

"I have been told reliably," he said, "that under the previous administration, certain securities from the endowment fund were liquidated in order to prevent the embarrassment of curtailing some of the activities of the school."

About two years ago, he admitted, there were serious threats of curbing several departments, including the music department which has soared to international fame under its talented director, William Dawson.

Most of the trouble resulted, the Star and Amsterdam News informant, who is a staunch admirer of Dr. Patterson as an educator and administrator, revealed, from the educator's determination, first, to make the school operate within the limits of the curtailed budget, and second, from certain practices of some of the department heads who autocratically operated their departments not only in the interest of the school, but also in their own interests.

"Dr. Patterson was certainly in a peculiar position," he declared, stating that the school head was faced with changing economic and social circumstances, and, in some instances, with hostile subordinates.

Agreeing with a number of former students that the change in complexion of the student body had a lot to do with the current conditions at Tuskegee, the informant said that much of the dissention had basis in the fact that the Patterson administration, up to this time, has not been geared to absorb students from northern communities, who have been enrolling at Tuskegee recently in larger numbers. In the past, he said, most of the students were drawn from deep rural sections, and in going to Tuskegee they were advanced to a station than previously.

"It owes its magic," ed out, Tuskegee other Southern school to change its emphasis by Northern students because it would be completely out of step with the needs of a vast majority of its other students."

The northern students, accustomed to a cosmopolitan life, required more freedom and a more varied They bitterly resented curtailment of their freedom, rules rigidly prohibiting girls from smoking and boys from smoking on the campus; girls from riding automobiles; boys from bringing their cars on the campus; girls from going to the nearby city Montgomery to shop without written permission from their homes and without an official faculty escort; the separation of boys and girls except on Saturdays and Sundays. These rules, it is said, counted heavily in calling the January 14 strike.

Charleston, S. C. News & Courier
January 19, 1941

49 STUDENTS SUSPENDED

Tuskeegee Institute Quiet After Four-day Strike

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP): The Tuskegee Institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported today more than fifty students had been suspended in connection with a four-day strike now apparently ended.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, said "five or six students" were added to the forty-nine suspended previously, and that, in addition, something like twenty" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed today and the president predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice president of the student council, to have been "a success," although it resulted in his suspension.

Charlotte, N. C. News
January 17, 1941

Jailer Holds Negro Youths

Trouble Linked With School Food Strike

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(AP)—The jailer here reported today he was holding seven Tuskegee Institute students without formal charge after additional details of Alabama state patrolmen sped here as a precaution against disorder in the strike of the students at the Negro college.

Officers could not be reached immediately to determine why the youths were held.

Additional patrolmen, including Chief T. Weller Smith, rushed here from Montgomery and Birmingham when they received reports students attempting to atttend classes were being "intimidated" by strikers.

A 7 o'clock deadline passed this morning with many students still absent from classes and President F. D. Patterson announced that the College Executive Committee was meeting at once to proceed with suspensions.

He did not estimate the number who would be affected by these suspensions although yesterday he said some 500 to 600 were taking part in the strike started Wednesday in protest about food served in the institution dining hall.

Opelika, Ala., News,
Jan. 18, 1941

Tuskegee School Seeks Settle Down After Suspend 49

Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Tuskegee Institute, great negro institution, sought today to resume normal operations after suspension of 49 students accused as leaders in a strike which had paralyzed activities.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, institute president, expressed the belief that disturbances which grew out of students' complaints against food served in the dining hall, and "too strict" regulations, would be settled amicably.

Disorders during the last two days had resulted in one student being slashed with a knife and 11 others jailed. The eleven were released after several hours incarceration without formal charges having been filed against them.

Dr. Patterson said late last night that he believed the incident, involving a great many of the institute's 1,400 students, was "rapidly coming to a conclusion."

He said the 49 pupils suspended as alleged strike leaders might be taken back "on an individual, merit basis." Name of the youth injured in the cutting affray was not revealed, but it was understood he was not seriously hurt.

A squad of state highway patrolmen remained on duty in the vicinity of the school. The campus was quiet but patrolmen stood by.

Tallahassee, Fla. Democrat
January 19, 1941

Tuskegee Strike Leaders Ousted

TUSKEGEE, Ala (AP)—The Tuskegee institute executive council, composed of department heads of the huge negro college, reported yesterday it had raised to more than 50 the number suspended in connection with a student strike which apparently had ended after four days.

Dr F D Patterson, institute president, said "five or six students" were added to the 49 suspended previously, and that, in addition, "something like 20" had been placed on probation by the council.

Quiet prevailed yesterday and the president said "all students, except those suspended, who want to attend classes will be given the opportunity to do so." He predicted the college would be back to normalcy by Monday.

The strike, which protestants said was against food served in the college dining hall and against "too-strict" regulations, was declared by Wilbur Hines, vice-president of the student council, to have been "a success." although it resulted in his suspension.

Troy, Ala., Messenger
January 17, 1941

11 Tuskegee Students Are Held In Jail Following Strike

TUSKEKEE, Ala., Jan. 17—(AP)—The jailer here said he was holding 11 Tuskegee Institute students without formal charge, after additional details of State patrolmen were rushed here as a precaution against disorders in the strike of students at the negro college.

The college executive council met to take suspension action against the strikers who quit their classes Wednesday in protest against the food served in the college dining hall.

EDUCATION - 1941
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, COMMENTS ON

CONVENTION DELEGATES—Miss Elizabeth Campbell (left) and Miss Dorinda Duncan, delegates, who will represent the Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of Tuskegee Institute, at the annual meeting of the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society, which will be held at Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tennessee, December 12 and 13.

Tuskegee Students To Attend Alpha Kappa Mu Convention

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Dec. 11.—Dean I. A. Derbigny, national president of the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society announced today that the annual convention of the society would be held at Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn., on Dec. 12 and 13. The theme of the convention is: "The Place of Work Experience in the Education of Youth for National Defense."

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, will address the convention and lead the discussion group. Other speakers include Dean F. C. Smith, of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, who will deliver the main address on Friday night.

Officers of the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society are: Dean I. A. Derbigny, Tuskegee Institute, president; Miss Lola Foster, Sheffield, Ala., vice president; Miss Georgia L. Jenkins, Tuskegee Institute, secretary-treasurer; Miss Isabelle Wilson, Denmar, W. Va., assistant secretary. Dr. George W. Gore, Jr., Tennessee A. and I. State College, Nashville, and George J. Jones, Arkansas State College, Pine Bluff, are members of the executive committee.

Dean Derbigny stated that the following chapters of the organization will have representatives at the convention:

Alpha Delta Sigma, J. E. Evans, faculty adviser, West Virginia State College, Institute, W. Va.

Alpha Kappa Chapter, S. D. Williams, faculty adviser, Elizabeth City Teachers College, Elizabeth City, N. C.

Alphi Pi Mu Chapter, Thomas P. Dooley, faculty adviser, Prairie View State College, Prairie View, Texas.

Alpha Upsilon Chapter, Miss Willa Player, faculty adviser, Bennett College, Greensboro, N. C.

Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter, Dr. I. A. Derbigny, faculty adviser, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Dillard University Chapter, Dr. C. W. Buggs, faculty adviser, Dillard University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Eta Sigma Tau Chapter, Dean Hardy Liston and Miss Anna McFarland, faculty advisers, Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn.

Gamma Tau Chapter, Dean Warmouth Gibbs, faculty Adviser, A. and T. College, Greensboro, N.

John Hope Chapter, Lawrence A. Davis, faculty adviser, Arkansas State College, Pine Bluff, Ark.

John C. Smith Chapter, Dean T. E. McKinney, faculty adviser, Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C.

Kappa Alpha Chapter, Dean J. B. Cade, faculty adviser, Southern University, Scotlandville, La.

Kappa Delta Chapter, Collie Davis, faculty adviser, Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va.

Kappa Gamma Chapter, Dr. A. Heningburg, faculty adviser, North Carolina College for Negroes, Durham, N. C.

Phi Beta Tau Chapter, Dr. George W. Gore, Jr., faculty adviser, Tennessee A. and I. State College Nashville, Tenn.

Pi Lambda Psi Chapter, Mrs. Frances B. Hill, faculty adviser, Morgan College, Baltimore, Md.

Pi Sigma Kappa Chapter, Lawrence Wilson, faculty adviser, Philander-Smith College, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Rho Beta Chi Chapter, Dean W. S. Maize, faculty adviser, Fayetteville State Teachers College, Fayetteville, N. C.

Shaw University, Dr. Robert P. Daniel, faculty adviser, Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C.

Zeta Phi Rho Chapter, James Connally, faculty adviser, Xavier University, New Orleans, La.

Zeta Rho Chi Chapter, Edward Dickerson, faculty adviser, Bluefield State College, Bluefield, W. Va.

LeMoyne College, Dr. Fred L. Brownlee, faculty adviser, LeMoyne College, Memphis, Tenn.

EDUCATION- 1941
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, COMMENTS ON

McDaniel Tops The Men—

American Tennis Assn. Ratings

—Agnes Lawson Heads Women

Sat. 5-3-41

By ARTHUR P. CHIPPEY
(Secretary A.T.A.)

RALEIGH, N. C.—The ratings of the American Tennis association for the year 1940 have just been released through the office of the secretary of the association.

Serving on the Rating committee with Miss Laura V. Junior, Philadelphia, chairman are: D. A. L. Jackson, Providence, R. I.; E. Harold Hopper, East Orange, N. J.; A. E. MacDowell, New York City and Dr. L. E. McCauley, Raleigh, N. C.

MEN'S SINGLES

1.—Jimmie McDaniel of Xavier university, New Orleans: winner national championships tournament, Wilberforce, Ohio; winner New York open, Winner Eastern section open, winner North Carolina open, winner Chautauqua Tennis club open, winner Mall Tennis club open, and finalist South Carolina open.

2.—Richard Cohen of New Orleans: finalist national championship, winner South Carolina open, finalist Chautauqua club open, finalist North Carolina open, semi-finalist Eastern sectional open, semi-finalist New York open, semi-finalist Mall Tennis club open.

3.—John Chandler of Fanwood, N. J.: semi-finalist national championship, winner New England open, finalist Eastern sectional open, semi-finalist New York open, semi-finalist Chautauqua club open, finalist Mall Tennis club open.

4.—Clifford Russell of Tuskegee Institute, Ala.: semi-finalist national championship, winner Southern open sectional, winner Florida open, finalist 24th Infantry open, quarter-finalist South Carolina open.

SAT. 5-3-41

5.—Dr. Reginald Weir, New York City: quarter-finalist national championship, finalist New York open, semi-finalist Eastern open sectional.

6.—Howard Minnis of Tuskegee Institute, Ala.: quarter-finalist national championship, winner 24th Infantry open, finalist Southern open sectional, semi-finalist South Carolina open.

7.—Harmon Fitch of Winston-Salem, N. C.: round before quarter-finals national championship, quarter-finalist New York open, semi-finalist South Carolina open.

8.—Lloyd Scott of Prairie View, Texas: quarter-finalist national championship; semi-finalist Southern open sectional.

9.—Tommy Walker of Chicago: round before quarter-finalist national championships, quarter-finalist New York open.

10.—Eyre Saitch of New York City: two rounds before quarter-finals national championships, semi-finalist North Carolina open, quarter-finalist New York open, quarter-finalist South Carolina open.

11.—Henry Graham, Cleveland.
12.—Ernest McCampbell, Detroit.
13.—Theodore Cousins, Institute, W. Va.
14.—Clarence Hunter, Detroit.
15.—W. H. Hall, Louisville.
16.—Johnson Wells, Institute, W. Va.
17.—John L. McGriff Jr., Portsmouth, Va.
18.—C. O. Hilton, M. D., Newark, N. J.
19.—T. R. Lawson, Prairie View, Texas.
20.—Robert C. Bennett, Chicago.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

1.—Agnes Lawson of Prairie View, Texas: winner national championship tournament, Wilberforce, Ohio; winner Prairie View open sectional.

2.—Kathryn Jones of Tuskegee Institute, Ala.: finalist national championship, winner Southern open, winner New England closed.

3.—Flora Lomax of Detroit: quarter-finalist national championshi, winner New York open.

4.—Margaret Peters of Tuskegee Institute, Ala.: semi-finalist national championship winner Chautauqua open, winner Eastern open, winner New York open, winner Mall club open.

MRS. AGNES LAWSON

5.—Roumania Peters of Tuskegee Institute, Ala.: quarter-finalist national championship, finalist Southern open, finalist South Carolina open, semi-finalist Florida open, semi-finalist 24th Infantry open.

6.—Mayme Stanley, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

7.—Frances Gittens, Brooklyn, N. Y.
8.—Lula Ballard, Cleveland.
9.—Jean Strode, Cleveland.
10.—Carrie Belle Scott, Los Angeles.
11.—Gwen McDaniel, Los Angeles.
12.—Cecil Ward, Los Angeles.
13.—Lillian Van Buren, Detroit.
14.—Fredonia Bundy, New York.
15.—Bertha Isaacs, Nassau, Bahama Islands.
16.—Olga Bethel, Nassau, Bahama Islands.
17.—Cleo Grosvenor, Brooklyn, N. Y.
18.—Edith Arnold, Atlanta.
19.—Inez Patterson, New York City.
20.—Anna B. Showers, Brooklyn, N. Y.

VETERANS' SINGLES

1.—John B. Garrett, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.
2.—Isaac Rivers, Chicago.
3.—Charles W. Lewis Sr., Prairie View, Texas.
4.—Charles W. Williams, New York City.
5.—Clarence J. Grinnell, Philadelphia.
6.—William R. Granger, Brooklyn.
7.—L. E. Spooner, New York City.
8.—L. E. McCauley, M.D., Raleigh, N. C.

JUNIOR SINGLES

1.—Joseph King of McIntosh, Ga.: winner national championship, Wilberforce, Ohio; winner New York open, winner Eastern open, winner Chautauqua open, winner South Carolina open, winner 24th Infantry open, winner Mall club open.

2.—Richard Cunningham of Cleveland: finalist national championship.

3.—Robert Ashford of Columbia, S. C.: semi-finalist national championship, finalist New York open, finalist South Carolina open, finalist 24th Infantry open, winner Southern open.

4.—Roland McDaniel of Richmond, Va.: semi-finalist national championship, semi-finalist New York open, finalist Chautauqua club open.

5.—Marshall Arnold of Atlanta, Ga.: quarterfinalist national championship.

6.—Wendell Collins, Durham, N. C.
7.—Raymond Jackson, New York City.
8.—Stafford Flowers, Richmond, Va.
9.—Norman Morris, Detroit.
10.—James Green, Chicago.
11.—Jefferson Craig, Scotch Plains, N. J.
12.—Robert Scott, Atlanta.
13.—Jack Points, Wilberforce.
14.—David Chenault, Cincinnati.
15.—Leonard Fuller, Los Angeles.
16.—Quinton Vaughan, Brooklyn, N. Y.
17.—William Ming, Bryn Mawr, Pa.
18.—George Simkins, Durham, N. C.
19.—Carlton Ashby, New York City.
20.—Winfield Ashby, New York City.
21.—Norman Spaulding, Chicago.

GIRLS' SINGLES

1.—Helen Hutchinson of Tuskegee Institute, Ala.: winner national championship tournament, Wilberforce; winner Florida open, winner Southern open, winner 24th Infantry open.

2.—Thelma McDaniel of Richmond, Va.: finalist national championship, semi-finalist New York open, finalist Algonquin club open.

3.—Florice Holmes, Durham, N. C.
4.—Audrey Davis, New Jersey.
5.—Nana Davis, New Jersey.
6.—Vivien Murphy, Buffalo.
7.—Dorothy Davis, New Jersey.
8.—Gloria Downing, Roanoke, Va.
9.—R. Daniels, Orangeburg, S. C.
10.—D. Daniels, Orangeburg, S. C.
11.—Augustine Reeder, Washington, D. C.
12.—Marjorie Shepard, Atlanta.
13.—Dorothea Simmons, Somers Isles, Bermuda.

BOYS' SINGLES

1.—Charles W. Lewis Jr. of Prairie View, Texas: winner national championship tournament, Wilberforce.

2.—Robert Isaacs of Nassau, Bahamas Islands: finalist national championship tournament.

3.—Leslye Stallworth, Chicago.
4.—Louis Chippey, Raleigh, N. C.
5.—Carl Williams, Orangeburg, S. C.
6.—George Branch, Tuskegee, Ala.
7.—De Witt Willis, Plainfield, N. J.
8.—Walter Palmer, Columbia, S. C.
9.—William C. Lewis 3rd, Orangeburg, S. C.
10.—Thomas Byers, Durham, N. C.
11.—William Preston, Roanoke, Va.

MEN'S DOUBLES

1.—Clifford Russell and Howard Minnis, Tuskegee Institute.
2.—John Wood and William E. Jones, Baltimore.
3.—Richard Cohen and Jimmie McDaniel, New Orleans.
4.—Dr. John L. McGriff and J. L. McGriff Jr., Portsmouth, Va.
5.—Tommy Walker and Robert Ryland, Chicago.
6.—Dr. C. O. Hilton and Logan McWilson, Newark and Montclair, N. J.
7.—J. D. Russell and Ben Tiff, Cleveland.
8.—Dr. R. Walter Johnson and Harmon Fitch, Lynchburg, Va.
9.—Johnson Wells and Theodore Cousins, Institute, W. Va.
10.—Howard Brown, Boston, and Walter Mitchell, Cincinnati.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES

1.—Margaret and Roumania Peters, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.
2.—Ora Washington, Philadelphia, and Anita Gant, Washington, D. C.
3.—Gwen McDaniel and Evlene Thornton, Los Angeles, Cal.
4.—Cecil Ward and Carrie Belle Scott, Los Angeles, Cal.
5.—Kathryn Jones and Mayme Stanley, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

JUNIOR DOUBLES

1.—Robert Ashford, Columbia, S. C., and Roland McDaniel, Richmond, Va.
2.—Marshall Arnold, Atlanta, and Joseph King, McIntosh, Ga.
3.—Weldon Collins, Durham, N. C., and Stafford Flowers, Richmond, Va.
4.—Richard Cunningham, Cleveland, and Jack Points, Wilberforce, Ohio.
5.—Walter Palmer, Columbia, S. C., and Carl Williams, Orangeburg, S. C.
6.—James Wood, Baltimore, and Charles Lewis, Prairie View, Texas.
7.—Albert Vincent and Raymond Jackson, New York City.
8.—Delbert, Russell and Norman Morris, Detroit.

MIXED DOUBLES

1.—Flora Lomax, Detroit, and W. H. Hall, Louisville.
2.—Frances Gittens, Brooklyn, and John Wood, Baltimore.
3.—Ora Washington and Sylvester B. Smith, D.D.S., Philadelphia.
4.—Anita Gant, Washington, D. C., and John Chandler, Fanwood, N. J.
5.—Agnes Lawson and T. R. Lawson, Prairie View, Texas.

Tuskegee Whips Bulldogs, 26-7

BY FORREST B. MYERS.

Tuskegee's triumphant Tiger strutted his stuff today down Dixie way.

The bruised and battered Green Bulldog of Wilberforce sought balm for wounds, suffered at the claws of the Golden Tiger, back on the home campus, deep down in Ohio.

Tuskegee's Tiger arched his torso into a victory V after vanquishing its northern rival, 26 to 7, in their twelfth meeting last night at Soldier Field. A grand crowd watched the contest, some twenty grand.

The Golden Legion from Alabama won on sheer cleverness by virtue of playing the breaks. Tuskegee had a slight edge in yardage gained in scrimmage but capitalized on passes, punt returns and once converted an interception into a 95-yard run for a touchdown.

ROBINSON BIG FACTOR.

George Robinson was the hero of that long sprint but his name punctuated play throughout the contest. His cross-country chase accounted for the final Tuskegee touchdown. He figured in another touchdown in the first quarter when he passed to Robert Ivey over the rival goal line and delivered some other forwards, devastating to the green-stockinged contingent.

The contest was less than six minutes old when the Tigers played their first break for points. Milan Qualls attempted to boot from under the Wilberforce goal posts but Ivey broke through and knocked down the pigskin with Richard Lewis pouncing on the oval for a touchdown. Ivey abetted the tally with the goal kick. The other touchdown in the same quarter was the result of passing and rushing to the 5-yard line, whence Robinson's flip to Ivey. Goal missed. The second quarter was scoreless.

The Tuskegee touchdown parade was resumed in the third stanza with Robinson's flips paving the way. Upshaw Sams bagged one for 20 yards, Ivey another for the same distance and Sams took a cannonball peg for a 25-yard gain. Elbert Ebbs of Wilberforce intercepted another attempt but the Bulldogs punted right back and rushes in which Sawyer, Sams and Robinson figured, devoured the final yards. Sams charged over for the score and Robinson's goal attempt was wide.

WILBERFORCE BIDS.

Wilberforce threatened after receiving the next kickoff with Qualls, Clifton Brown, Clarence Burton and Jim Barnes in stellar ball-toting roles. The Tiger center proved vulnerable but the flanks adamant. The wall was reinforced on the 15-yard line, where Qualls' attempted pass was intercepted 10 yards away whence began Robinson's touchdown race.

Wounds of the Bulldog were party assuaged in the finale when they pushed over their lone touchdown.

TIGERS FALL FROM RANKS OF UNBEATEN

Gamecocks Swarm Over Bengals For Three Periods, Stave Off Rally

BY ALDERMAN DUNCAN

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 23—A determined, hard-hitting band of South Carolina Gamecocks swarmed all over the heavily favored Clemson Tigers for almost three quarters today and then fought off a desperate final period drive to come through with a sensational 18-14 upset before 22,000 frenzied spectators.

The defeat dropped the Tigers defending Southern conference champs, from the ranks of the undefeated. It was the first South Carolina victory since 1933 in the 45-year-old football series.

Sinking their spurs into the Tiger hide right from the start, the Gamecocks completely stunned their opponents with the fury of their attack. Less than five minutes after the opening kickoff they scored their first touchdown with a 13-yard pass from Ken Roskie, battering junior fullback, to Quarterback Dutch Elston and almost turned the game into a route in the second period as they gained at will with passes and running plays.

Roskie took a five-yard pass from Stasica for the second touchdown to climax a 44-yard advance, and nine plays later Al Grygo, fleet halfback who had one leg in a cast less than a week ago, slashed four yards over right tackle for the third touchdown.

The Gamecocks continued to hold the upper hand through most of the third quarter, twice forging within less than 30 yards of the goal, but the Tigers suddenly came to life with a vengeance.

With one minute of the third period remaining, Clemson struck 60 yards for its first score. Tailback Booty Payne fired a long pass to Harry Franklin, who raced untouched down the sideline. Charlie Timmons, fullback, place-kicked the extra point.

Midway the final period Payne, Timmons and End Joe Blalock sparked an 80-yard march with Payne going the last yard over right tackle after a forward-lateral from Payne to Blalock to Timmons covered 44 yards. Timmons again added the point.

Needing only one more score to win, the Tigers roared back from their 40 after the Birds received the kickoff and punted. Payne ran six, passed to Blalock for 32 and tossed to Butler for four to put the ball on the Gamecock 18. Two passes fell incomplete and the Birds took over after stopping Payne at the line of scrimmage. The game ended after three plays.

South Carolina held a decisive statistical advantage, racking up 15 first downs to nine for the Tigers and amassing 187 yards rushing to Clemson's 95.

The Gamecocks completed seven of 11 forward passes for 125 yards. Through the air, however, the Tigers were better. They gained 202 yards on nine completions out of 18 attempts. South Carolina intercepted two passes.

The punting average was 43.8 yards for Clemson and 36.7 for the winners.

CLEMSON	POS.	S. C.
Blalock	LG	Leitner
Fritts	LT	Carter
Padgett	LG	Milner
C. Wright	C	Sossamon
T. Wright	RG	Applegate
Cagle	RT	Middlebrooks
Pierce	RE	Nowak
Rothwell	QB	Elston
Payne	LH	Stasica
Franklin	RH	Blouin
Timmons	FB	Roskie

Clemson	0	0	7	7	—14
S. C.	6	12	0	0	—18

Clemson scoring: Touchdown — Franklin, Payne. Point after touchdown: Timmons 2 (replacements).

South Carolina scoring: Touchdown—Elston, Roskie, Grygo (for Stasica).

Tuskegee Tops State Hornets By 33-6 Score

Sawyer And Sams Pace Tigers To Triumph Over Teachers

By MAX MOSELEY
Advertiser Sports Editor

Tuskegee's great offensive powerhouse, led by two outstanding running backs, Upshaw Sams and Arthur Sawyer, who ran wild to score twice each, continued their impressive scoring record yesterday afternoon in Cramton Bowl as they handed Alabama State's plucky Hornets a 33 to 6 defeat in their annual Thanksgiving Day battle before a record crowd of some 11,000 spectators.

The once-beaten machine of Coach Cleve Abbott displayed plenty of zip, courage and finesse as they rocked along with plenty of class until given a scoring opportunity, then they struck with plenty of speed and power for their six-pointers.

Alabama State had a well-drilled offense and flashed an outstanding running back in Joe Crenshaw, who played most of the game and must have run with the ball four dozen times, but the Hornets' hard running attack was stopped four times within the shadow of Tuskegee's goal. In the first period they were stopped on the three; in the second on the 17; in the third on the one, and in the fourth again on the one.

Tuskegee broke the ice in the first quarter by scoring a safety when they tackled Tarrant behind the goal line attempting to kick the ball out.

Midway the second period Robinson pitched a 12-yard pass to Sawyer for the first Tiger six-pointer to touch off a 65-yard drive. Robinson had recovered State's fumble on the Tiger 35 to start the march. Ivey's attempt for the extra point was no good.

Three minutes later after five plays from the kickoff, Robinson pitched another strike—to the speedy and elusive Sams who grabbed the toss about midfield and outran the Hornet secondary to score. The play was good for 56 yards. Robinson booted the extra point and Tuskegee led, 15-0.

Alabama State received the kickoff, Crenshaw carrying the ball back to his own 36. Then they drove 64 yards for their lone marker, Crenshaw pitching to Cheatham 12 yards for the score. The try for the point was wild, 15-6.

Aided by a clipping penalty following Van Cleve's pass interception, Tuskegee drove to another score on the last play of the first half. Ross bucked the ball over from the one-yard line.

Sams and Sawyer alternated at carrying the pigskin for another

Tiger-Hornet Facts

	Tuskegee	Ala. State
First downs	13	17
Yds. rushing	190	266
Yds. lost att. rushing	-34	-32
Net yds. rushing	156	234
Forward passes att.	12	18
Passes complete	7	7
Passes incomplete	5	5
Passes int. by enemy	6	0
Yds. gained passing	140	127
Punts	12	6
Av. yd. punts	36	38
Passes Int. for t. d.	1*	0

(*—Sams-56 yards.)

Late in the third quarter, Tuskegee's great little back, Sams, intercepted a wild State pass on his own 43 and raced 57 yards through the entire Hornet team for the final score of the game. Sams was given some beautiful downfield blocking on the play. It was an exciting gallop and was easily the most thrilling play of the game. The try for the point was no good and the game wound up, 33-6.

Both teams displayed plenty of talent. Alabama State's Elvie Sullinger, John Leftwich and Yancey Griggs did fine work in the line while Crenshaw, Cheatham and Tate were the big guns in the backfield.

Tuskegee's Dennis Stewart, Lonnie Fyles and Charles Perry featured in the line while Sams, Sawyer and Robinson starred in the backfield, although the Tigers unleashed a trio of "scat backs" in Raymond Head, Herman Anderson and William Shaw, that chalked up plenty of yardage while they were in the ball game.

Rival bands of the two schools, as well as the State championship Hornet high school band, put on quite a show at the half.

Lineups and summary:

Tuskegee	Pos.	Ala. State
Perry	LE	White
Fuller	LT	Griggs
Stewart	LG	A. Jackson
Bowman	C	Mason
Ross	RG	Leftwich
Brown	RT	Sauls
Ivey	RE	Sullinger
Tate	QB	Robinson
Crenshaw	LH	Sams
Cheatham	RH	Sawyer
Ellis	FB	Smiley

Score by periods:

Tuskegee	2	19	12	0	—33
Ala. State	0	6	0	0	— 6

Scoring Tuskegee touchdowns: Sawyer 2, Sams 2, Van Cleve. Safety, Tarrant tackled behind line. Alabama State: Cheatham.

Officials: Harvey (Colgate) referee; Mosley (Morehouse) umpire; Hawkins (Knoxville) head linesman; Young (Chicago Defender) field judge.

18z-1941

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Race Engineers Scarce; Few Get Defense Study

CHICAGO—(ANP)—The widespread defense training courses for engineers being given by the federal government is touching very few Negroes. Some $11,000,000 has been appropriated for the colleges which are giving these engineering courses, known as refresher training, and designed to bring up-to-date men who have either finished engineering schools or have had certain experience in the field of engineering.

JAN 19 1941

There are 91 engineering schools in 41 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico which are offering in all 444 different courses. Each course is designed to prepare a group of students with some technical training and experience for service with manufacturers or federal agencies engaged in the national defense program, in such capacities as designers, inspectors or supervisors of production.

FEW ENGINEERS

The program is being administered by U. S. Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker, assisted by Dr. J. F. Kelly of the U. S. office of Education and Dean Roy A. Seaton of Kansas State college.

Queried by ANP here recently, Dr. Kelly deplored the fact that more Negroes were not being reached but admitted that this was the case. He said that evidently there were comparatively few Negro engineers.

In all congress has appropriated $36,000,000 for national defense training. This includes sums spent through NYA, CCC and through projects set up by various state vocational educational departments. Reports from the South indicate that Negroes are getting but limited opportunities through these funds although Dr. Studebaker has sent out a bulletin specifically charging that Negroes are to be included.

In Alabama enrllees at four Negro CCC camps are receiving some training. None of the Negro colleges thus far has been included. There is one NYA center located in Birmingham which is doing defense training. The few Negro students are said to be engaged chiefly in janitorial work or in such unskilled tasks as removing tires and polishing autos.

SEEK MECHANICS

In Chattanooga, the Chattanooga Vocational school recently sent a notice to newspapers and to the Tennessee state employment service, asking for 20 colored men between the ages of 18 and 25. These men were wanted for a course designated as a "defense course in automobile servicing."

Harvey S. Bloker, manager of the employment service, said that applicants for the course must have had an eight grade education and preferably high school training.

Mr. Bloker said the course would include instruction in how to handle gasoline, grease jobs, battery work and other types of automobile care, Mr. Bloker was careful to point out that no mechanical training would be given. He said the course was listed as "a defense course" to provide trained men for the defense program "if needed in this line."

In Alabama, vocational officers are reliably reported to have said that few Negroes were being trained because the law provides that those given training have a reasonable chance to be used in industry after the emergency is over. Their comment was that Negroes could not qualify on this basis because it was apparent that they were not accentable to industry.

Fitzgerald, Ga. Leader-Enterprise
February 6, 1941

Negro Vocational Teachers Study Here

District supervisor for vocational training, Geo. T. Martin, and the colored supervisor, G. T. Tabor of Ft. Valley, held a school of instruction for the colored vocational teachers of eight counties at Queensland Monday.

Counties represented were Brooks, Thomas, Lowndes, Irwin, Ware, Worth and Ben Hill. The sessions were held from 3 to 6 p. m. with Mr. Martin presiding.

National defense, for which these special teachers are provided for an eight-week course in wood, metal and agricultural subjects, are available to every county and are intended to give special training to young men from 18 to 25.

The federal government provides the necessary equipment and each student enrolled is allowed a small stipend for the eight weeks. Teachers are provided by the local boards of education with state and federal funds.

Bradenton, Fla., Herald
February 7, 1941

Colored Youth Take Up Federal Courses

Colored youths of Palmetto community are taking advantage of defense courses offered by the government in woodworking and auto mechanics. They were started January 27, says Supervisor H. A. Woodward, and will be continued for at least eight weeks. These classes meet five days per week, 3 hours per day, at 7 o'clock. The woodworking class is held in Memorial High school and the auto mechanics class in the Fair building in Palmetto. Instructors are: woodworking, Enoch Carey; auto mechanics, Walter (Solomon) Rogers.

The boys enrolled in these classes will receive certificates upon successful completion of these courses.

Tribune
Philadelphia, Pa.

New Federal Allotment To Provide For 6 Months

JAN 9 1941

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Continuation of the National Defense Vocational Training Project for at least two additional terms of three months each and an increase in the number of workers enrolled are provided for in a new WPA allotment of $17,821,680 announced this week by Fred R. Rauch, acting deputy commissioner of Work Projects.

The project was initiated last July with an original allotment of $9,791,340. With the sum recently approved the total of WPA funds which have been made available for the training of unemployed men and women in skills and trades demanded by the defense program now stands at $27,503,020. This has been further supplemented by sponsors' contributions of $10,590,000 furnished by the office of Education which, with the National Defense Advisory Commission, sponsors the project.

TRAINING FOR UNEMPLOYED

Purpose of the project is to afford vocational training for unemployed workers in fields where shortages already exist or are anticipated. Facilities of regular trade and vocational schools are used. Trainees are drawn both from WPA rolls and registers of the United States Employment Service. Those selected from WPA continue to receive their regular security wages throughout the period of training and are assisted in finding private employment upon its completion.

Mr. Rauch pointed out that up to November 27, a total of 49,974 WPA workers had been enrolled on the training project. Of this number approximately 8,300 have left the project of their own accord.

In many instances, he added, workers succeeded in finding employment before completing the full course for which they had enrolled.

"It is apparent from our first six months experience with this program,' Mr. Rauch said, "that training is the keynote to re-employment for a great many of the people who are now unemployed. As work opportunities are created by the defense program, men and women who have been away from their usual occupations for three or four years frequently are too 'rusty' to step directly back into their old jobs.

"For many of these, only a few weeks of 'refresher' training are necessary to reestablish their skills. For others, a longer period of training at some job closely related to their former occupations will equip them for a new type of work."

The new funds for the continuation of the project will provide an average monthly employment of approximately 37,500 trainees from now through June.

Kansas City Call
Kansas City, Mo.

The Negro On The Soil

By James N. Freeman

Head of the department of agriculture at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

FEB 7 1941

A change in the times demands a change in our emphasis on education, particularly vocational agricultural education. I do not imply that there is something lacking in our educational system, but that vocational training, and especially education on a doing level in agriculture, should certainly be emphasized more.

For a concrete example, let us turn to the agriculture question in the state of Missouri. In Missouri there are about 5,000 Negro farm operators, 4,000 of whom are to be found in southeast Missouri, commonly known as the boot heel.

Even in this modern age, some of the farmers in that section of the country are still tilling the soil in a primitive fashion reminiscent of the days of their grandfathers. An analysis of the situation in that section of the state will show that the Negro in those areas must toil, and since he must toil, he should be taught to do so skillfully, technically and scientifically.

We are painfully aware of the discrimination against the Negro in industry and other salaried positions. Educators say there is no outlet for Negro trained youth, yet we constantly overlook the opportunity in educational expansion in our 146 rural Negro schools. Where else can our rural youth get this training but in the rural schools, and unless these schools are properly equipped, both from the standpoint of instruction and mechanical aids, we can always expect to have ill-trained farmers.

A talk with the landlords who have scruples about the farmer share-croper situation in southeast Missouri reveals that some Negro share-croppers are evicted because they don't know how to farm under changing conditions, and consequently are a liability to the landlord. Others will tell you that the Negro tenant is not adjustable to the cropping practices; that he is not adaptable to changes, provisions, movements and applications of agricultural cropping controls.

FEB 7 1941

It is obvious that he has no training in soiling practices. With agricultural prices being hardly normal, with a surplus of the commodity with which his ttnant is most concerned, and with no establishe dagricultural agency consistently working this tenant out of his dilemma, it is obvious that there is a nee dfor opportunity in agricultural training at least for the capable youth of this group.

The need for such training is further emphasized by the fact that we in the past have and are producing consumers and practically no producers. This certainly does not speak well for Negro wealth in Missouri. Accepting the thesis that a landless people are a powerless people, it is incumbent upon us to provide a program that will get more educated youth established upon the land.

The need is further emphasized in the light of the fact that first class farming is an independent way of making a living. Few Negroes, yet, even in the salaried classes, are so independent. Again we have the few Negro operators of farms in Missouri who, even though they are farming, are independent. There are only 20 per cent of the Negro farm operators who can be so classified. We, then are unqualifiedly obligated to 73,000 rural Negroes and to those Negroes who have filtered into metropolitan areas for rufuge and relief to the extent that facilities for training in agriculure be provided for those in these groups who can benefit.

FEB 7 1941

It is very well to say we are going to produce college trained farmers and first rank Missouri farmers, but why handicap future farmers by exposing them to the wrong kind of training? If this is to be the result, it is best that we abolish all existing practices here and now and set up a vocational agricultural training program that will give us not only successful farmers, but good and useful citizens.

Times-Picayune
New Orleans, La.

TRAINING NEGRO AS DEFENSE HELP HELD GOOD MOVE

FEB 14 1941

Program Lauded at Hampton Institute Builders' Conference

(The Associated Press)

Hampton, Va., Feb. 13.—The national defense program of vocational education training for Negroes was praised in a resolution passed at the closing of the 15th biennial Hampton Institute builders' conference.

FEB 14 1941

The three-day meeting keyed to the theme of "Defense Construction and the Negro" closed with a panel discussion led by representatives of Virginia State college, Tuskegee Institute, South Carolina State college, Arkansas A. M. & N. college, and Hampton Institute, on the subject of "Trade and Industrial Training and the National Defense."

Studying the results of the first eight months of the United States office of education's vocational education program in defense trades, the 200 delegates to the conference and National Builders' Association convention voted that:

1. The conference commends the recent actions of the government as they relate to national defense training in our schools.

2. The enrollment in Negro schools will not swell to the desired level until Negro youth sees that the government is taking specific action to give them equal opportunities for employment upon receiving their training as skilled mechanics.

FEB 14 1941

3. The schools are in a position, with respect to equipment and personnel, to co-operate further in any expansion of the program which the government might see fit to inaugurate.

4. The program has succeeded in stimulating an interest in practical education upon both Negro and white and has been a positive force in the development of sound national morale.

William H. Aiken, Atlanta, Ga., contractor, was elected president of the National Builders' Association and the body voted to hold the 1942 convention at the Municipal Auditorium in Atlanta.

Afro-American
Baltimore, Maryland

Two Defense Courses Added at Bordentown

MAR 15 1941

BORDENTOWN, N.J. — As a means of equipping its graduates with additional skills to meet the demands of national defense, the Bordentown Manual Training School has recently included arc welding and blue print reading to its auto mechanics curriculum.

Thirteen boys are now enrolled in the arc welding course as a part of their auto mechanics and repairing course. The instruction is given in the evenings and those completing the training will receive trade certificates in auto mechanics and in arc welding.

Consider Work for Girls

There are other students taking blue print reading, and still others coming into the machine shops for evening instruction in machine shop practice, B. H. Jones, supervisor of boys' trades, announced.

MAR 15 1941

The school administration is considering the installation of power machines to be used by girls, as this machine is widely used by defense industries in the manufacture of tents, parachutes, uniforms and blankets.

Members of the Bordentown School staff committee which carried out details of the program were:

W. R. Valentine, principal; Clarence Banks, H. D. C. Douglas, John Urquhart, Jr., Edna Jones, and W. R. Valentine, Jr.

18z-1941

Greenville, S. C. Piedmont
May 21, 1941

Negro Students At Work

Negro students in Greenville city schools have an opportunity to learn how to do something with their hands as well as their minds and to coordinate the two. Here students at Sterling high school are making tables to be used in the cafeteria and home economics rooms.

Birmingham, Ala. News
October 13, 1941

Vocational Training Classes Are Offered At Fairfield Schools

Registration For Free Instruction Scheduled At 7 Monday Night

Free training in salesmanship and industrial work will be offered to adults beginning Monday night, as the Fairfield Board of Education opens registration for a series of vocational classes to be held at Fairfield High School.

The classes, which will meet Monday and Wednesday nights for five weeks, are open to all persons, 16 years of age and over, not attending regular school.

Registration will begin at 7 p.m. in the high school building for classes in general salesmanship, selling piece goods and ready-to-wear, show card writing and "selling groceries.

Beginning at 7:30 a.m. pupils will be registered in industrial classes on shop math, blueprint reading, commercial.

All classes, with the exception of the commercial course, will be free of charge, but a small fee will be charged for instruction in typing, shorthand and calculating.

Miss Kathleen Parlow will instruct the classes in general salesmanship and selling piece goods and ready-to-wear.

The course in show card writing will be taught by Maurice Vann, of the display department of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, and James Lee, Fairfield grocery manager, will teach grocery salesmanship.

The Fairfield Board of Education, which is sponsoring the vocational classes, has announced that any other classes that are requested will be organized if a sufficient number of pupils are interested.

Classes for Negroes will be held at Fairfield Industrial High School, with registration opening Monday night at 7 p.m.

The following courses will be offered: Foundry work, shop arithmetic, beauty culture, cooking, shoe repairing, tailoring, nursemaid training, carpentry, upholstering, sewing.

Birmingham, Ala. News
December 5, 1941

Negro Citizens Given Chance For Course In Home Economics

Value Of Various Foods Is Being Explained In Southern Project

What meats, breads and vegetables are most valuable in vitamins and minerals for the least cost, what to look for in clothing materials, blankets and stockings, how a balanced diet may be obtained at little expense—all these facts are being taught at Southtown to any Negro citizen of Birmingham.

The workers' service project of the WPA has arranged the exhibit under direction of Mrs. James G. Briggs, supervisor of workers, and Miss Lavinn Rosser, supervisor of exhibit, with cooperation of A. B. White, manager of Southtown project.

Tables carry displays of raw food materials strong in food values, a balanced diet including breakfast, lunch and supper, flours and breads which are best buys, blankets and cloths and knitted garments, canned goods and cooking methods.

Under Mattie Greene, director of exhibit, eight Negro teachers stand ready to explain the exhibits from early morning until 9 p.m. so that all residents of the project and outside persons as well will have opportunity to study the consumer education project.

The teachers are Alberta Taylor, Annie Laurie Mitchell, Emma Harvey, Annie H. Moseley, Wilbur Ross, Henry Alexander, Willis Davis and Joseph McCormick.

An exhibition bulletin sponsored by the civic clubs and management of Southtown gives additional information on bread, meats, milk, fabrics, sheets and pillowcases, socks and stockings, and shoes.

In addition, budgeting and nutrition classes are taught from 1 to 1:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays and classes on community organization from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Plans are underway for establishment of a permanent information bureau at Southtown offices so that any Negro in Birmingham may come to the office for information on buying, nutrition, or any other phase of consumer education.

Daily World
Atlanta, Georgia

Industrial Trends Of Education

SEP 1 5 1941

EDUCATION CAN BE defined as the imparting of knowledge to the extent of perfecting the vital human forces of intelligence, culture, and directing these forces into their proper channels, wherein the most good will be utilized. Education can be placed under two distinct heads —the vital and moral aspects. However since the two forces are so closely connected, and yet one cannot entirely assume the other's classification. there is a growing and increasing conflict between them; nevertheless each has its specific application, and cannot be overlooked!

The last few years have seen a growing tendency on the field of education, which led to the industrial side. This has become predominantly prominent, because of a national, and international depression. This great catastrophe left grave imprints upon our education's economic life. It has been a great aid to many persons in more than one way. This is especially so, in regard to our people—the Negro race.

SEP 1 5 1941

For a long time it was the intention of our higher educational institutions to remove the industrial side of learning from their curriculums. Their aims were to instill within their students a yearning for the classic art of knowledge. This prepared those men and women who left their institutions for a world which did not exist for Negroes. A world which called not for WHITE COLLAR instructors in the classics, but for men and women who could illustrate with words, and produce with their hands . . . Thus the Negro was weakened from an applicable standpoint to meet the needs of his surroundings; and rather than submit to a position degrading to his educational standard, he was forced to migrate to regions where he might hope to find a place to use his acquired knowledge. This has caused many bad and unfounded ill impressions of our Southland. Those persons who had not prepared to meet the needs of the day. had a grudge against the South. and those persons who knew nothing of the South, would lend ear to their tale of Southern terror and this kind of propaganda traveled far and wide over sections above the MASON and DIXON LINE.

SEP 1 5 1941

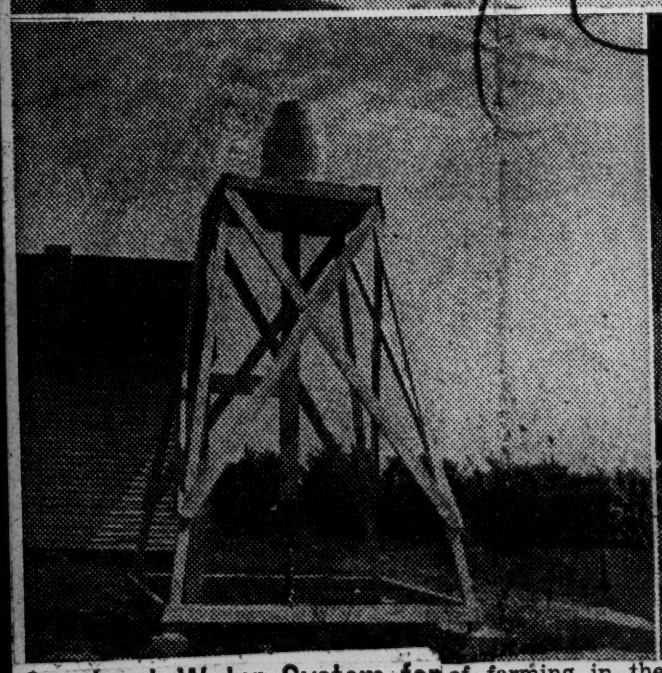
There has been since the depression a decided change . . . In our institutions of learning, the industrial element has come to the front; every phase of "working with the hands" is being adhered to from the beginning up through college. This is one of the greatest "boons" ever to come to the Negro race. This training is preparing him to meet the challenge of this ever changing world.

Instead of trying to increase the number of persons on the "classic art" rolls, the force of learning is lightning, and dignifying the art of "doing" by DOING. President Patterson of Tuskegee said recently in a major address that "Our masses must be re-educated along the industrial lines" and by his statement, he proves that he is a worthy person to carry on the work of his illlustrious predecessor, and Father of Industrial Learning—Booker T. Washington. This industrial trend is greatly helping our race, and as years come and go, will find our people constantly improving their bodies, and minds by doing, instead of dreaming.

18z-1941

Raleigh, N. C., News & Observer
February 16, 1941

Negro School Boys Learn Business of Farming



Construct Water System for O'Kelly School and Teacherage

The establishment of vocational agricultural departments in North Carolina Negro schools has ushered in a new era in the development of the Negro farm boy and has contributed greatly toward the improvement of farming in the respective communities in North Carolina, stated Roy H. Thomas, State Supervisor of Vocational Agriculture of the State Department of Public Instruction.

These departments offer instruction designed to prepare boys for the business of farming as well as furnish social contacts of special value to Negro farm youth.

A typical Negro vocational agricultural department is located in the Berry O'Kelly school at Method, near Raleigh. Prof. I. T. Brown, a graduate of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia, who is the vocational agricultural teacher in this school, has worked hard toward the betterment of farming conditions in that community.

One of the largest and most useful projects, conducted by Brown and his students, has been the construction of a water system for the Berry O'Kelly school and teacherage. The system furnishes an adequate supply of water, and it does not freeze in Winter on account of sawdust insulation along the pipes. The system is advantageous for rural communities where electricity is not available and Brown has supervised the installation of similar systems on farms in his community.

Another notable project of the department is its nursery, containing 3,000 plants. Shrubs and ornamental plants have been used to beautify nine school grounds in Wake County and plans have been made to use some of the pines in the nursery for reforestation purposes.

Brown's class collects farm implements needing repair in the Berry O'Kelly community and mends the tools free of charge if the farmer will furnish the parts needed. The students do the repair job: thus getting valuable training to put in practice when they become farmers.

Playground equipment, book stands for each class room, and pieces of furniture for the library have been recently constructed by Method's agricultural students for the Fuquay Springs high school.

Over 300 ironing boards have been made and placed in various homes of the community along with many flower boxes, shoe shine boxes, magazine stands, radio tables, bookstands, etc. worth $500 to the community. Each year the students display their handicraft articles in a window show.

Evening classes are conducted by Brown for the adult farmers of the community. Emphasis is placed upon the use of certified seed, purebred livestock, disease control, diversification, land improvement, and other steps in planning the farm program. Practical demonstrations are also given providing an opportunity for Negro farmers to learn modern ways of carrying on essential farm operations.

Berry O'Kelly's department owns an incubator with a capacity for 1400 eggs and it has been operated successfully in supplying chicks for students and adult farmers at cost.

Each Negro vocational department organizes a New Farmers of America Chapter for the purposes of teaching the students public speaking, program planning, and the way to present demonstrations. A visit to a N. F. A. meeting will reveal that the Negro agricultural students' knowledge of parliamentary procedure and public speaking is remarkable. At these meetings they hold discussions on significant farm subjects and carry on the business of their organization in a commendable manner.

The Berry O'Kelly N. F. A. chapter subscribes to a leading farm publication and the instructor requires the students to read and make comprehensive reports of articles in the magazine to the chapter.

A Thanksgiving custom of Brown's students has been to distribute boxes of food, which is produced mostly by the students, to the needy peoples of the community. The boxes contain potatoes, canned peaches, beans, peas, and fruits and vegetables. This year 21 families were supplied with boxes.

Provisions are now being made to purchase a picture projection machine for the purpose of showing pictures pertaining to agriculture.

As an additional service, Brown instructs a group of CCC enrollees in gardening, swine raising and poultry.

Ten homes have been screened for farmers of the community at an estimated saving of $8.00 per home and porches have been made for two homes in the community at an estimated saving of $25.00 each.

The corn yield among Brown's cooperating evening class members has been more than doubled by the use of purebred seed and a better grade of fertilizer.

A group of Negro CCC enrollees are shown in the top ph graph constructing a poultry house under the supervision of I Brown, Negro vocational agricultural teacher in the Berry O'K School at Method, near Raleigh.

The picture (lower left) shows the water system constructed Brown and his agricultural class. The system furnishes w for the teacherage and school at Berry O'Kelly. Sawdust insula along the pipes prevents freezing in Winter.

Shown in the photograph on the lower right are Brown and of his students repairing a broken plow in the Berry O'Kelly a cultural work shop. Farm equipment belonging to local far is mended free of charge by Brown's department, thus stud learn how to do repair jobs which they will need to know when become farmers.

Roy H. Thomas, State Supervisor of Vocational Agriculture the State Department of Public Instruction, states that 63 Negro cational agricultural departments are in operation in North Caro at the present time.

Atlanta Ga Journal
February 23, 1941

Colored Group To Have Cooking Lessons Friday

Special Session of Journal School To Be Held Then

A special session of The Atlanta Journal Cooking School will be held for the colored population of the city Friday at 3 p. m. at the Wheat Street Church.

Miss Ruth Chambers, famous cooking expert, who will conduct the regular school Tuesday through Friday at 9:30 a. m. each day, will present to Atlanta's colored groups many of the same tips on economical buying and varied meal planning.

Employers are asked to allow their servants to leave work early enough Friday night to reach the school at the opening hour.

Ways of preparing inexpensive meat cuts will be one of the features of Miss Chambers' demonstrations. Under the specialist's hand, the less popular meat cuts will become the tasty and attractive dishes which usually result only from high-priced meats.

Sure-fire ways of making breads, pie crusts, dainty desserts and "company" dishes will be demonstrated.

Decorations at the food show will follow a patriotic theme. The girls who will show Miss Chambers' delicious preparations will be dressed in gay red, white and blue outfits. These costumes and the food expert's bright garnishings on her dishes will bring the school to a colorful close.

Quincy, Fla., Times
February 20, 1941

Vocational Courses Given for Negroes

Seventeen students are attending two Negro vocational courses in Quincy as part of the national defense educational program. The classes are in woodworking and general mechanics, and are taught by L. D. Lafalle. Any negro youth living in the county who is not in regular school is eligible to enroll.

Chicago Defender
Chicago, Illinois

ADVISES RACE STUDENTS: 'NO JOB PROSPECT'

Personne' Manager Talks 'Turkey' But Tilden Boys Don't Like It

MAR 1 1941

Charles W. Purnell, personnel manager for the Howard Aircraft corporation, admitted Thursday that he had told a mixed group of students at Tilden high school that Negroes could not look forward to employment in the concern he represents.

"When I told them that," he said Thursday, "I didn't think it important enough to elaborate on, but I am sorry now that I didn't, because they got the wrong impression. My statement was not prompted by prejudice on my part or on the part of the company. Truth is that circumstances have made this policy necessary."

MAR 1 1941

After pointing out that the corporation once had four and now has two Negroes on its payroll as porters, he said that lack of physical facilities such as washrooms, toilets, dressing rooms and lockers made it unwise to employ Negroes at this time.

"We are going to make provisions for hiring qualified Negroes in the future," he assured. A conference, he added, is being arranged between Howard Gould of the Urban League and himself on the question. After that he would be able to make a formal statement.

Purnell's statement, brought to the attention of the Chicago Defender by indignant parents and students, was made last Friday while he was discussing the types of skills used in the aircraft industry.

Mobile, Ala., Register
March 18, 1941

Cooking Institute For Colored People Slated

A colored cooking institute, free of charge, will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, starting at 7:30 o'clock at the Colored Community Center. Prizes will be awarded the cook on the job for the longest period and for winners in baking contests. Cooks and maids are invited.

Winston-Salem, N. C. Journal
March 23, 1941

A study of food and a demonstration in food handling took place at the Negro library center, Salisbury, recently. Included in this picture, from left to right, are: Mrs. Sadie Cowan, Miss Geraldine Carr, Miss W. R. Laws, Miss Tryphenia Broadway, Miss Ada Rankins, and Miss Millie Neeley. The Negro home demonstration food leaders met at the Library center to observe and participate in a demonstration by Miss W. R. Laws, state Negro subject matter specialist on vegetable salads with cooked dressing. The year's program is entitled "Defense for the Family—Supply Food First." Persons are taught to defend their farms by growing their own food and then preparing it properly. The salad demonstration brought in good gardening with a large variation of vegetables, together with the health values received from eating raw vegetables.

18z-1941
Durham, N. C., Morning Herald
March 11, 1941

Household Management Class For Negro Women Is Planned

Persons Over 16 Years Of Age Eligible For 12-Week Course At Hillside Park High School Sponsored By Family Service Association

A training course in household management will be held for Negro girls and women at the Hillside Park High School for a period of 12 weeks, beginning with enrolment there next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

In the meantime, persons interested in taking the course should register at the Durham office of the State Employment Service this week.

Both Negro maids and prospective maids, as well as housewives who would like their workers to take the course, should contact the employment office.

The course will be open to persons 16 years old or older. It is anticipated that there will be two classes, one held in the late afternoon and one in the evening. Each class will be limited to 25 persons, meaning that a maximum of 50 will be permitted to take the training. Classes will be held for two hours twice a week over a period of 12 weeks.

Training will include courses in first aid, household management, how to dress, how to answer a telephone, in personality, cooking, ironing, and many other elements that a successful household servant must know.

The course follows a study of the problems of Negro clients recently conducted by the Family Service Association. It was pointed out in a report based on that study that while there was considerable unemployment among Negro residents of Durham, at the same time there was a dearth of skilled labor.

Mrs. Catherine Groves Peele, executive secretary of the Family Service Association, who is cooperating in the new course, said it was hoped that the training would help solve part of the unemployment problem by fitting Negro girls and women for jobs.

The Family Service Association became interested in unemployment because it found much of the domestic strain with which it has to deal was the result of economic conditions.

Elberton Ga., Star
April 22, 1941

VOCATION SHOP FOR NEGROES AT BETHEL'S GROVE

Colored School Dedicated Friday at Heardmont — Negroes Give Barbecue to Show Appreciation.

The new vocational building at Bethel's Grove colored school was dedicated Friday and to show their appreciation the leading colored citizens of Heardmont gave a barbecue in honor of the county board of education and numerous other white friends.

There were 60 white people present and the officials of the county were well represented by the county board of education; Guy T. Bell, county superintendent of schools; S. B. Seymour, county commissioner; Clark Edwards, Jr., judge of superior court; and Bob Heard, county representative. All of them agreed that they had never seen more food nor food that was better prepared at any barbecue.

The building which was dedicated has just been completed and was specially designed for its purpose. It is 24 by 42 feet and in addition to the shop will contain a complete canning outfit for the use of the colored people of the community. The materials in the building cost $900 and it was erected by NYA labor under the direction of George Verdell, a colored carpenter and farmer of the neighborhood.

The principal talk of the occasion was made by Alva Taylor, colored, who is at the head of the Negro Vocational Division of Georgia. He outlined something of the history of his race in America and urged the colored people to stay on the farm and build up their soil and their community. He said if they would train themselves properly they would find farm life the fullest and happiest life they could live. He stressed the value of proper food and said it was possible for colored people on the farm to live better than they could live anywhere else in the world.

New York Age
New York, N. Y.

Negro Trainees Being Sought By Aeronautic Co.

Proof that increased pressure and aroused public sentiment for the inclusion of Negroes in the national defense program is taking effect is the announcement by the United Institute of Aeronautics, Inc., that the company will admit Negroes to its training courses.

MAY 3 1941

Last week S. A. Buckley, an official of the Institute, requested that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People secure for him as many Negroes as possible who desire this training. Mr. Buckley will take personal charge of the applicants and stated he will be willing to explain the courses to them and give them as much help as they need.

Information about this opportunity has already been distributed from the New York office of NAA CP, 69 Fifth Avenue.

Interested men are requested to write or call the office immediatly for instructions and literature about the course.

Black Dispatch
Oklahoma City, Okla

CHICAGO BOARD OF EDUCATION STARTS WORK ON SOUTH SIDE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

DEC 13 1941

Building Will Be Used For Evening School For Those Persons Having to Work During the Day

TO HAVE TRADE SCHOOL LIBRARY

CHICAGO.—(ANP)—The long discussed vocational training school to be located in the south central district here has finally met with official approval and work on the new building, which will be located just south of Du Sable high school at 50th and State streets, will begin soon. This announcement was made by Dr. Midian O. Bousfield, member of the Chicago Board of Education.

DEC 13 1941

The design of the building is to harmonize with that of DuSable and will be fireproof, constructed of steel and tile arches, with the exterior faced with brick and cut stone.

18z

The school will also be used for evening school purposes, for the benefit of persons employed during the day, in order that they may secure supplementary training for promotion in their own trade or for a new job. Unskilled workers may better their employment possibilities by taking unit trade courses in the evening school. Special attention will be given to artificial lighting in each shop.

A suite has been set aside for administrative personnel, which will include the director, assistant director, placement counselor and clerks. Their offices will be adequate, well-planned and convenient for visitors.

Shop courses offered by the vocational school will be aviation, automobile, auto electric, foundry and forge, machine, woodworking and finishing room, sheet metal electric and radio, printing, with a modern press room adjoining; shoe repair, merchandising, commercial art and display, and tailoring.

Provisions have been made for the setting up of a modern commercial laundry for the purpose of teaching interested students the management, operation and equipment in laundries. The first of its kind in the country, students will be able to secure training in all branches of the laundry industry. The chemistry of laundry, textiles, dyes, training of machine operators, sorters, markers, machine equipment maintenance workers and the business end of the industry will be emphasized along with plant management and operation.

Other features of the new building will be a cafeteria, library, chorus and band room, doctor's office, assembly hall, toilet facilities and gymnasium. The cafeteria will be used in training students as chefs, bakers, salad makers and hotel service workers. Related work will offer training in buying, planning, kitchen and dining room management and operation.

The library will be essentially a trade school library, with special attention given to reference books on each trade taught. Loose leaf material, current trade magazines and the like will be on file to aid students to improve their vocational efficiency.

DEC 13 1941

For classroom teaching and lecturing by specialists from various industries, 10 rooms have been provided with one general science room. Glee club singing and instrumental music will be offered as a measure to complete the educational development of students.

Physical education and athletics will be carried on in the gymnasium, which will be so arranged that the public may use it without disturbance to the rest of the building. On the first floor, an assembly seating 600 people, will be built with facade fronts on 50th street. Space for six additional shops will be left for future expansion and overflow.

Funds for this project were allocated sometime ago by the city for the training of youths in the surrounding communities. The school will be a counterpart to the Washburne vocational school on the west side of the city.

18z-1941
Washington Tribune
Washington, D. C.

D. C.

Four Promoted in D. C.'s School Vocation Program

MAY 3 - 1941

Mrs. T. C. Alexander, teacher in Shaw Junior High School, was last week appointed by the board of education as Head of the new department in the colored schools to develop a vocational guidance and placement program.

At the same time, three assistants in three colored junior high schools with an enrollment of more than 1,000 pupils were appointed by the board to fill recently-created but temporary positions. The teachers advanced to assistant principal who will get salary increase from $2,800 to $3,200 are: Miss D. W. Frazier, teacher at Shaw, to remain at Shaw; Mrs. M. M. Alexander, teacher at Randall, to remain there, and W. B. Stinson, teacher at Browne.

Eight Whites Named

One department head and seven assistant principals in white junior highs were also named.

A program for counseling of pupils in choice of courses and in preparation for work suited for them will be mapped out by the department heads. The work of the assistant principals will tie into this program, along with other duties in aiding the principals.

18z - D.C.

Lumpkin, Ga., Stewart-Webster Jnl.
July 24, 1941

Farming Taught Fundamentals of

Negro landowners in the Shiloh community of Webster County have developed a progressive program of improving their agricultural prosperity.

In the section, Negro farmers own some 8,000 acres of farm land. Community life for this crop centers around the Shiloh Rosenwald School, which boasts of a vocational agriculture teacher for boys and a home economics department for girls.

Here young Negroes not only learn the fundamentals of home management and improvement, but also master principles of farm diversification, soil building and livestock production. During the past year, particular emphasis has been placed on raising poultry, with the idea of adding another source of income for farms in the section.

Atlanta, Ga. Journal
December 29, 1941

Lack of Training Holds Negro Back in Industry

1-Horse Farmer Also Has Tough Row To Hoe, but There Are Good Signs for 1942

By BENJAMIN F. HUBERT
President, Georgia State College

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 29.—(AP)—During the past year, President Roosevelt has enunciated the four freedoms for which the democracies of the world are contending—"Freedom of speech and express, freedom of every person to worship God in his own way; freedom from want; and Freedom from terror."

Negroes, forming as they do more than one-tenth of the total national population, and from 40 to 50 per cent of the population here in the Southeast, are vitally interested in any kind of program or movement that promises freedom of economic opportunity.

Thinking Negroes are grateful for the increasing number of expressions that have come from national and local leaders, evidencing their understanding that in the fight to sustain democratic ideals, there must be clear recognition of the fact that all men must be provided an equal chance to achieve.

Job Requirements

One of the difficulties confronting Negroes who seek employment in industry is the lack of training for the particular job requirements.

An attempt is being made by the Vocational National Defense Fund and by the National Youth Administration, to train Negroes for industry. In Georgia, a total of 944 Negroes have had training under the vocational defense program. These training centers are located in Atlanta, Augusta, Columbus, Dalton, Macon, Marietta, Newnan and Savannah. Much of the training is in woodwork, including cabinet-making, bricklaying and cement work, auto mechanics, blue-print reading and some sheet metal work and trade cooking.

The field of agriculture offers employment to the largest number of Negroes. According to the United States census report for 1930, of the 10,472,000 persons employed on the farms, 1,980,000, or 19 per cent, are Negroes.

This means that out of every five persons farming in this country, one is a Negro. When it is realized that Negro farmers are located largely in the Southern states, it will be readily apparent that in states like Georgia, where there are approximately 70,000 Negro farm operators, farming is dependent largely upon Negro labor.

Heavy Competition

But farming today is not as it has been in the past. Successful cotton farming in Georgia and the Southeast offers, at best, a doubtful future. The Negro finds himself confronted with the keenest kind of competition. The one-horse plow is forced to compete with the tractor, and the scythe with the mowing machine and the reaper and binder.

In Georgia, the Negro extension service, vocational schools of agriculture, and other agencies, are at work seeking to better equip the Negro farmer for the long pull that lies ahead.

In spite of handicaps that have tended to discourage Negroes in their outlook in both urban and rural life everywhere, we find them still optimistic and hopeful.

A defense training program will be established at old Clark University campus in Atlanta by the Fulton County Board of Education. Georgia State College here is expanding its program with over $10,000 worth of technical equipment to provide training in the technical arts for Negro youth. The National Youth Administration and many of the public vocational schools are providing opportunity for out-of-school youth to improve themselves for jobs that are just around the corner.

On the stage, in athletics, in business, in professional life, and in farming, 1942 can only mean more enlightened progress for an underprivileged group in a gradually enlightening world.

18z-1941

NORTH CAROLINA

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

MAR 15 1941

VOCATIONS STRESSED IN ORANGE COUNTY—A unique course of vocational instruction has been developed at Orange County Training School in Chapel Hill N. C. under the direction of H. M. Holmes, a native of Greensboro and a graduate of Lincoln University.

A pictoral cross section of the work is shown here. From top to bottom, activities pictured are:

(1) Home economics sudents entertaining a a Mothers and Daughters Valentine party.

(2) An electrical panel in the industrial arts shop.

(3) Woodwork students at work in shop.

(4) Freshmen doing mechanical drawing.

(5) Students getting noon meal in cafeteria where home economics students get practical training.

(6) A lesson in table service in the practice living room for juniors.

Salisbury N. C. Post
April 30, 1941

Negro Cooking School Planned

Three local organizations are sponsoring a community cooking school at the Monroe Street school for two nights a week for three weeks at 8 o'clock.

The school will be held under the auspices of the Duke Power company, the Salisbury Altrusa club and the Salisbury office of the North Carolina employment service.

Dates for the sessions are May 5, 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20. Mrs. Mildred Seaber of the Duke Power company will conduct the classes as she did last year. Because of the size of the auditorium and the large crowds of adults wishing to attend, no children under 16 years of age will be admitted.

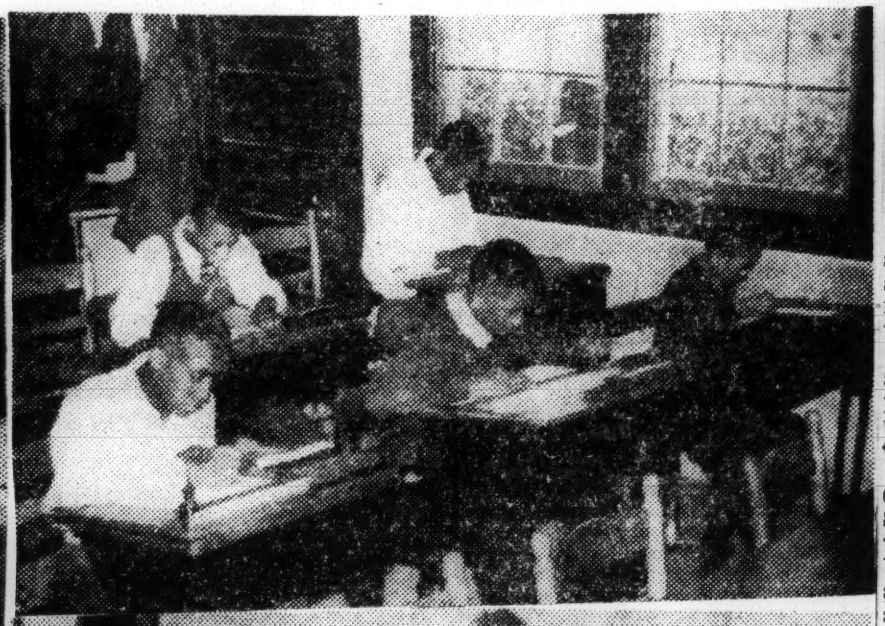
Prizes will be given each night and certificates awarded for regular attendance.

Mrs. Seaber will give six nights of practical instruction in cooking and household matters.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

MAR 15 1941

18z



MAR 15 1941

MAR 15 1941

VOCATIONS STRESSED IN ORANGE COUNTY—A unique course of vocational instruction has been developed at Orange County Training School in Chapel Hill N. C. under the direction of H. M. Holmes, a native of Greensboro and a graduate of Lincoln University.

A pictoral cross section of the work is shown here. From top to bottom, activities pictured are:

(1) Home economics sudents entertaining a a Mothers and Daughters Valentine party.
(2) An electrical panel in the industrial arts shop.
(3) Woodwork students at work in shop.
(4) Freshmen doing mechanical drawing.
(5) Students getting noon meal in cafeteria where home economics students get practical training.
(6) A lesson in table service in the practice living room for juniors.

Salisbury N. C. Post
April 30, 1941

Negro Cooking School Planned

Three local organizations are sponsoring a community cooking school at the Monroe Street school for two nights a week for three weeks at 8 o'clock.

The school will be held under the auspices of the Duke Power company, the Salisbury Altrusa club and the Salisbury office of the North Carolina employment service.

Dates for the sessions are May 5, 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20. Mrs. Mildred Seaber of the Duke Power company will conduct the classes as she did last year. Because of the size of the auditorium and the large crowds of adults wishing to attend, no children under 16 years of age will be admitted.

Prizes will be given each night and certificates awarded for regular attendance.

Mrs. Seaber will give six nights of practical instruction in cooking and household matters.

Journal and Guide
Norfolk, Virginia

Expansion To Lead Nation For 1941-'42

State To Add 20 New Departments In High Schools

GREENSBORO, N. C.—Stating that North Carolina will have the greatest expansion of Negro vocational departments in the country for 1941-42, S. B. Simmons, state supervisor of vocational agriculture and head of the department of agricultural education at A. and T. College announced last week the program of work and certified new teaching appointments.

Twenty new vocational departments are being opened in various high schools throughout the state, bringing the total to 85. The new openings are being filled for the most part by graduates of the June class in agricultural education of A. and T. College.

PLACE YOUNG FARMERS

Simmons stated that emphasis will be placed on establishing young Negro men in vocational farming in co-operation with the Farm Security Administration and the Farm Credit Administration.

Other objectives to be stressed will deal with the land use program, "Balanced Prosperity for the Decade," and the program of national defense as applied to rural youth.

Simmons also said that the new teachers will play an important part in the construction of vocational buildings in various centers in cooperation with the N. Y. A.

NEW DEPARTMENTS

A list of the new departments and the appointees to each follows:

Ansonville High School, Stanley Jones; Brunswick Training School, Southport, Andrew Scales; Bolling Springs School, Arthur Kilgore; Washington High School, Shelby, William Womble; Davie Training School, Mocksville, James Murfree; Armstrong School, Fayetteville, Harvard Jones; Chestnut School, Fayetteville, Elbert Pettiford; New School, Durham, Leroy Johnson; Scotland Neck School, G. J. Bussey; Littleton School, Walter Jamison; Shawton High School, Lillington, Fred Jones.

Williamston High School, Richard Broadnax; Hilly Branch School, Lumberton, George Corbett; Aggrey Memorial School, Landis, Glenn F. Rankin; Rowland School, no appointment; Cleveland High School, P. B. Brown; Creecy High School, Rich Square, William Lane; Gates Training School, Sunbury, Claude Sawyer; Fuquay Springs School, L. R. Burton; Newbold High School, Ft. Barnwell, John H. Mallett.

Other appointments to old departments include: B. W. Barnes to Franklin Training School, Louisburg; Edward Moore to Roseboro High School; H. J. Sutton to Stephens-Lee High School, Asheville; Percy Richardson to Eastman High School, Enfield; and Ralph Sawyer to Lincoln Heights High School, Wilkesboro.

Norfolk, Va. Pilot
August 27, 1941

Negro Pupils To Be Given Shop Classes

Council to Appropriate $20,591.30 for Vocational Work

New Heating Units

Improvements at Henry Clay and Stonewall Jackson Schools Voted

Four additional rooms are to be added to the Booker T. Washington High School for vocational shops for Negro students, and the City Council next Tuesday will appropriate $20,591.30 for these rooms and their equipment.

Col. Charles B. Borland, city manager, and A. H. Foreman, chairman of the School Board, recommended to the Council yesterday that this be done, and the Council immediately approved the recommendation for an ordinance to be adopted next Tuesday.

The city manager and Mr. Foreman told the Council that Negro citizens had requested that their students be given the same opportunity for vocational and industrial training now being given white students, and that the addition of the four new rooms for the Booker T. Washington School, with $3,000 for equipment, would just about meet the request. Both officials said frankly that Norfolk was behind some other cities in this particular type of work, and that the program was needed badly for Negro students.

Sums Needed

According to the recommendation yesterday, $17,179 is needed for building the additional rooms, $412.30 will pay the architect's fees, and $3,000 will supply, with that already on hand, the needed equipment.

At the same time, the City Council approved for ordinance a recommendation that $12,663.82 be appropriated for new heating plants for the Stonewall Jackson School, Corprew and Reservoir avenues, and the Henry Clay School, Holt and Fenchurch streets.

Bond issues will be provided for financing all these school improvements. The plant at the Stonewall Jackson School will cost $4,235, and the one for the Henry Clay School will cost $7,781. The additional cost will be for architects' fees.

Four rooms at the Stonewall Jackson School soon are to be razed, and it was revealed by Mr. Foreman yesterday that he is making efforts to get the College of William and Mary to agree to have this work done in return for the bricks in the building. It is planned, if the college will accept the proposal, for the bricks to be used to complete the wall around the Norfolk Division of the institution, Mr. Foreman told the Council.

At the request of the Council, Colonel Borland agreed to open negotiations with the Southern Packing Corporation, which operates a slaughter house at Newcastle and Water streets, in efforts to have the corporation agree voluntarily to have the slaughter house removed from the city.

Central Abattoir Favored

Reporting on a previous request for an investigation of the establishment from the Council, which acted on a complaint against the slaughter house, Colonel Borland told the Council that "the ideal solution would be a central abattoir, through which all meats handled in Norfolk would clear. Until that time may come, we can only make the best of the present arrangement. . . ."

A complaint had come to the Council from an employe at the Union Station, which is near the slaughter house, and Colonel Borland reported yesterday that the City Health Commissioner, Dr. J. C. Sleet, had made an investigation of the plant. It was the opinion of the health officer, the city manager reported, that no abattoir should be allowed in the city limits, but further investigation showed this one was operated under a legal charter and there was no legal way by which the city could have it removed. This same establishment formerly was operated by the Banks Packing Corporation.

The Council yesterday also voted authority to the city manager to issue temporary permits to the various bus companies operating passenger bus lines into and out of the city for routes they will use as a result of moving to the new bus station to be opened on Plume street, near Granby, Saturday. The buses will use, for the most part the routes already in use in coming into and leaving the city, and the permits apply generally to the small changes made necessary by the moving of the terminal from the City Market Building to its new location.

No Tenant for Entire Terminal

In this connection, Colonel Borland said that the present tenant, in the old bus terminal, who operates a soda fountain, lunch counter and locker rooms, would remain there until January 1, at which time the possibility of a new lease would be considered. The city has been getting $500 per month rent from the bus terminal operation in the market building, and Colonel Borland said yesterday that no tenant had been found to take over the entire space to be left by the removal of the bus terminal.

The Council yesterday put on first reading an ordinance authorizing the city manager to acquire for the city nine pieces of property belonging to the William H. Collins estate, Elizabeth C. Whitehead and others, in return for cancellation of taxes due on the properties. This had been approved for ordinance a week earlier.

Realty Sale Approved

At the same time, the Council approved for ordinance a recommendation that four of the parcels be sold to J. C. Councill for $3,800 in cash. The total taxes due on the nine parcels was $3,572.48, exclusive of interest and penalties. The properties to be bought by J. C. Councill are as follows: 738 East Charlotte street; 806-808 East Olney road; 839 Washington avenue, and parts of lots 88, 89 and 90 of block 3 at 808 Goff street.

The Council adopted on final reading an ordinance authorizing the sale of a 25-foot lot on the south side of York street, between the York Apartments and the old Atlantic Coast Line Station, to C. N. Whitehurst & Co., for $525, and to pay from the purchase price $26.25 as the commission on the sale.

An ordinance was adopted authorizing execution of an agreement between the city and Nicholas Albano for the installation of a water main along a portion of New Hampshire avenue and appropriating $735 as the city's share of the cost.

An appropriation of $20 was voted to pay Mrs. Marion Crosby for serving as an election judge at four elections for which she had not previously been paid.

Sewer Authorized

An emergency ordinance was adopted authorizing the construction of a sewer along a portion of Orange avenue and Sloane street directing that the cost be apportioned between the city and abutting property owners and appropriating $1,200 for this work.

As approved for ordinance a week before, the Council put on first reading an ordinance authorizing the purchase for $1,507,91 of certain lots on Bolton and Calhoun streets for additions to the playground for the John T. West School.

Colonel Borland reported the city's share of bus receipts for July was $4,961.19. Total bus receipts during the month amounted to $99,223.87.

The Council approved for ordinance a recommendation that the city accept, in satisfaction for taxes due, certain property from George Curtis. The property is listed as lots 25 and 26, block 12, Forty-first street, and lot 46, block 140, Forty-sixth street.

A letter from W. Fred Bonney, president of the Federated Civic and Improvement League, suggesting that "islands" be constructed at places now designated as safety zones in the streets was referred to the city manager for an investigation and report.

The Council authorized the employment of an additional plumber for the division of water supply and approved for ordinance a recommendation for an appropriation of $850 to pay his salary for the rest of this year.

A petition for the improvement of Cloncurry road was referred to the city manager for an investigation and report.